Udan 2.0: Soaring towards next frontier

PM Modi launches 'Viksit UDAN' in Jodhpur; the modified scheme focuses on expanding regional aviation infra through development of 100 aerodromes from existing unserved airstrips with ₹12,159 cr.

JODHPUR

In a major boost to India's civil aviation sector, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday launched the next phase of UDAN (Ude Desh ka Aam Nagrik) and inaugurated the new terminal building of Jodhpur Airport, reaffirming the Centre's commitment to expanding regional air connectivity and developing world-class aviation infrastructure.

Launched in October 2016, the UDAN Scheme has transformed regional connectivity by operationalising 669 routes and connecting 95 airports, heliports and water aerodromes, benefitting over 1.66 crore passengers.

Building on this success, the Union Cabinet, chaired by the PM, approved the modified UDAN on March 25, 2026 with an outlay of approximately ₹29,000 crore over the next 10 years to accelerate aviation-led development and advance the vision of Viksit Bharat 2047.

The modified UDAN focuses on expanding regional aviation infrastructure through the development of 100 aerodromes from existing unserved airstrips with an investment of ₹12,159 crore. It also provides ₹2,577 crore towards operations and maintenance support for regional airports, development of 200 modern helipads with an investment of ₹3,661 crore, and continued viability gap Funding of ₹10,043 crore to sustain regional

Modified UDAN to boost regional connectivity: Min

Jodhpur: Civil Aviation Minister Ram Mohan Naidu said the launch of the modified UDAN scheme will mark the next chapter of India's regional connectivity journey. In an X post, he said, the scheme, launched by PM Modi with an outlay of over Rs 28,840 crore, will strengthen connectivity in Tier-2 and Tier-3 cities. It will facilitate the development of over 100 new aerodromes and 200 helipads, bringing the dream of affordable air travel closer to millions and connecting the aspirations of a rising India.

UDAN-II: Next chapter India's regional connectivity journey

The modified UDAN (Viksit UDAN) marks the next chapter of India's regional connectivity journey. With an outlay of ₹28,840 crore over the next decade, it aims to develop 100 new airports from unserved airstrips and build 200 helipads, drastically boosting last-mile connectivity for Tier-2 and Tier-3 cities to fulfill the Viksit Bharat 2047 vision.

Core objectives and key features

INFRASTRUCTURE OUTLAY

₹12,159 crore is allocated for reviving unused airstrips into operational aerodromes, and ₹3,661 crore for helipads in remote, hilly, and island regions.

DIRECT SUBSIDY SUPPORT

Viability Gap Funding for airline operators has been extended from 3 to 5 years.

MASSIVE INFRASTRUCTURE PUSH

The scheme funds the development of 100 new UDAN airports out of existing unserved airstrips.

LAST-MILE CONNECTIVITY

It allocates funding to construct 200 modern helipads designed specifically for difficult terrains, hilly regions, and islands.

OPERATIONAL GRANTS

In addition to capital expenditure, it provides operations and maintenance (O&M) support for three years to low-traffic regional aerodromes to prevent them from closing down.

BOOST TO INDIGENEOUS FLEET

The program supports the Atmanirbhar Bharat initiative by allocating provisions for the procurement of locally manufactured aircraft, like utilizing HAL Dornier and Dhruv, to operate in remote tough terrain.

Indian cricket has a new history-maker!

MANCHESTER

Vaibhav Sooryavanshi on Saturday became the youngest-ever male cricketer from a full-member nation to receive the T20I cap as he made his debut against England in the second T20I at Manchester, surpassing Sachin Tendulkar's long-standing record.

At 15 years and 99 days, Sooryavanshi is also the youngest to play international cricket for India. Sooryavanshi's debut eclipses one of Indian cricket's most enduring milestones. Tendulkar was 16 when he made his international debut in a test match against Pakistan in Karachi in November 1989 before going on to become one of the game's greatest players.

In the shortest format, the previous record for an Indian was held by Shafali Verma, who had made her debut against South Africa in September 2019, when she was 15 years and 239 days old. Among men, it was Washington Sundar, who held the previous record at 18 years and 80 days against Sri Lanka in December 2017.

Sooryavanshi's journey to the international stage has been nothing short of extraordinary. The left-handed batter from Bihar first came into the spotlight when he made his Ranji Trophy debut at the age of 12, announcing himself as one of India's brightest young prospects.

Widely regarded as one of India's brightest prospects, Sooryavanshi earned his first senior call-up after a meteoric rise that began with a blistering 35-ball century in the Indian Premier League (IPL) last year.

The teenager further enhanced his reputation in this year's IPL, finishing as the tournament's leading run-scorer with a strike rate of more than 237 and setting a competition record by hitting 72 sixes.

His performances prompted growing calls for a place in the national side, though selectors resisted fast-tracking him and waited until he turned 15 in March before naming him in India's squads for the T20 series in Ireland and England.

'Govt unready for drought, held no meeting with farmers'

Amid growing concerns over Karnataka's worsening water scarcity, Leader of the Opposition in the Legislative Assembly R Ashoka on Saturday criticised the Congress government, headed by Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, for allegedly failing to address farmers' concerns despite the rapidly depleting water levels in reservoirs across the state.

After inspecting the Krishnaraja Sagar (KRS) reservoir in Mandya district, where water storage has fallen sharply following weak monsoon rains, Ashoka told reporters that while the government advises farmers to grow alternative crops, it has taken no steps itself.

He said the CM should have announced compensation for farmers' losses, recalling that during the BJP regime, double the compensation was provided. Ashoka demanded that the government now provide Rs 50,000 per acre as compensation to affected farmers.

Despite the water level in the KRS reservoir dropping due to rainfall deficit, the state has taken no measures, Ashoka said, reiterating his demand for immediate compensation of Rs 50,000 per acre.

He claimed that within one month of Shivakumar becoming CM, all reservoirs in the state have dried up. He noted that only 6 TMC of water remains in KRS, with inflow at 900 cusecs, but expressed suspicion that more water was being released outward.

Ashoka said as per officials, only 5% sowing has taken place. At this juncture, Shivakumar should have called a meeting of farmer leaders and discussed cropping, but instead, they are in a hurry to call tenders for projects like garbage and tunnel roads. He asserted that the government has no interest in farmers.

'With 21 founders, B'luru leads Avendus Wealth-Hurun U30 list'

Bengaluru:Karnataka Minister Priyanka Kharage on Saturday said India's startup ecosystem is evolving rapidly and the latest Avendus Wealth-Hurun India U30 List 2026 reflects a broader shift in the country's innovation landscape, as Bengaluru continues to lead from the front.

He said that Bengaluru leads the U30 List with 21 young entrepreneurs, up from just seven last year. Taking to 'X', Kharage, the Minister for Home, e-Governance, Electronics, IT, and BT congratulated all the young founders shaping the future from Karnataka.

"India's startup ecosystem is evolving rapidly, becoming younger, increasingly DeepTech-driven and more focused on hardware innovation. The latest Avendus Wealth-Hurun India U30 List 2026 reflects a broader shift in the country's innovation landscape, and Bengaluru continues to lead from the front," he said.

According to him, 18 of the companies featured on the U30 List are headquartered in Bengaluru, the highest for any city in the country.

He said the next wave of Indian startups is increasingly focused on DeepTech and HardTech, with strong momentum in AI, SpaceTech, Cybersecurity and advanced manufacturing. The Minister said that this is a testament to Bengaluru's entrepreneurial spirit, world-class talent and collaborative innovation ecosystem.

"As we continue to invest in deeptech, R&D, skilling and founder-friendly policies, our focus remains on ensuring that Karnataka is the best place for ambitious entrepreneurs to build globally competitive companies," Kharage added.

'This is a scam': Hariprasad demands rollback of E20 petrol

Bengaluru:Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) President BK Hariprasad on Saturday questioned the Centre over the rollout of 20% ethanol-blended petrol (E20), alleging that it is leading to vehicle breakdowns, reduced mileage and higher maintenance costs for consumers.

In a post on X, he said the country were reporting widespread issues after the introduction of ethanol-blended fuel, claiming it has caused frustration and financial burden. "Widespread reports of vehicle breakdowns and a sharp drop in mileage after the introduction of 20% of ethanol-blended petrol are leaving countless vehicle owners frustrated and burdened with higher maintenance costs," he posted.

"Instead of reducing fuel prices, the Narendra Modi government has increased ethanol blending and passed the costs on to ordinary citizens. If people are paying the same—or more—for fuel while getting lower mileage and facing repair bills, serious questions must be answered. This is a scam," he alleged.

3 of jeweller family die in suicide pact

Koppal: Three members of a jeweller family -- a couple and their son -- were found dead at their residence here on Saturday, and this is suspected to be the result of a suicide pact, police said. The deceased were identified as Prakash Raykar (55), his wife Prabha (50), and their 21-year-old son Shashank. Police said Prakash owned a jewellery shop in Gangavathi. A preliminary probe suggests that the three died by hanging inside their house. "As per our preliminary information, the deceased came here last night in their car, parked it, entered the house through the rear entrance after breaking open the back door, and Prabha, Prakash and their son Shashank hanged themselves," said SP Ram Arasiddi. It appeared that mounting debt may have driven the family to take the extreme step, though the exact cause will be established after a detailed investigation, police sources said.

'KUMARANNA' STEALS BJP'S THUNDER

JD(S) OUTPACES ALLY IN SIR ROW

Shyam Sundar Vattam, CH NEWS

In Karnataka's fast-changing political theatre, it is not the principal Opposition party but its regional ally that has seized the spotlight over the alleged irregularities in the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls.

State Janata Dal (Secular) president and Union Minister HD Kumaraswamy has once again demonstrated his knack for setting the political agenda, leaving alliance partner BJP scrambling to catch up.

By unveiling videos and documents purportedly exposing irregularities in Ramanagara, Bengaluru and other parts of the state, Kumaraswamy has forced the issue into the political mainstream well before the BJP mounted its offensive.

Political observers say the episode underlines a familiar reality in Karnataka politics — while the BJP may be the larger national party, the JDS continues to possess a deeply entrenched grassroots intelligence network built over decades. Despite its shrinking electoral footprint, the regional outfit still commands a loyal cadre willing to mobilise at short notice for "Kumaranna."

According to party insiders, Kumaraswamy's network of contacts across government departments and local administration has long been one of his greatest political assets. It is this informal information channel, they argue, that enabled the JD(S) to gather evidence of the alleged SIR irregularities before anyone else.

The alleged electoral roll revision exercise in and around mosques in Ramanagara district may never have attracted statewide attention had Ku-maraswamy not released video footage to substantiate his charges. The JD(S) subsequently highlighted similar allegations from parts of Bengaluru, claiming Booth Level Officers (BLOs) were acting under political influence during the revision exercise.

Only after these revelations did the state BJP launch a full-scale attack on the Congress government, accusing it of manipulating the electoral process.

The developments have inevitably raised uncomfortable questions for state BJP president BY Vijayendra and Leader of the Opposition in the Legislative Assembly R Ashoka.

Critics within political circles argue that the principal Opposition appeared reactive rather than proactive, allowing its smaller ally to dominate a politically explosive issue.

For many observers, it has become an embarrassing moment for a national party that prides itself on organisational strength.

The optics suggest that the BJP was following the JD(S) narrative instead of shaping it.

Kumaraswamy's ability to consistently unearth sensitive political material has reinforced his image as one of Karnataka's most resourceful politicians.

His long-cultivated network across districts continues to provide him with timely information, making him a formidable player despite the JDS no longer being a dominant electoral force.

Insufficient monsoon prompts drought preparedness in Vijayapura

Khushbu Goyal Choudhary directs Vijayapura officials to ensure water supply amid rain deficit and possible drought conditions

VIJAYAPURA

District In-charge Secretary Khushbu Goyal Choudhary has directed officials in Vijayapura to remain fully prepared to handle any potential drought-like situation arising from insufficient southwest monsoon rainfall and to ensure uninterrupted drinking water supply across the district. She issued the instructions while chairing a district-level progress review meeting jointly organised by the District Administration and Zilla Panchayat at the Zilla Panchayat hall on Friday. The meeting reviewed rainfall trends, drinking water availability, and contingency planning in view of the ongoing rain deficit. Choudhary emphasised the need for comprehensive preparedness plans to prevent water scarcity if monsoon conditions do not improve. She instructed departments to strengthen conservation of existing water sources, identify alternative supply arrangements, and maintain emergency response systems to deal with shortages. The review also covered the functioning of the Vijayapura City Corporation and other government departments, with a focus on the implementation of welfare schemes and the progress of development works. Officials were directed to ensure efficient delivery of public services and timely execution of government programmes. Electricity supply in rural areas was also discussed, with the District In-charge Secretary seeking details on power outages and villages yet to be electrified. She instructed officials to ensure that no village remains without electricity and that farmers receive uninterrupted power supply according to the prescribed schedule. Deputy Commissioner Dr. Anand K. briefed the meeting on monsoon conditions, preparedness measures, and disaster management plans. He also informed that the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls was progressing smoothly, with Booth Level Officers conducting door-to-door distribution and collection of enumeration forms. Devotees pray at Raghavendra Math for timely rains

RAICHUR

Hundreds of devotees gathered at the Mantralaya Raghavendra Swamy Math branch in Jawaharnagar, Raichur, to offer special prayers seeking timely rainfall amid prevailing dry conditions and concerns over delayed monsoon. From around 7 a.m., devotees continuously chanted sacred hymns, including the stotras of Vrishyasringa Maharishi and Sri Raghavendra Swamy, for nearly an hour. The prayers were conducted with the belief that such chanting invokes rainfall and helps alleviate drought-like situations, a tradition followed in several regions during periods of agricultural distress. According to religious tradition, chanting the hymns of Vrishyasringa Maharishi is considered spiritually significant for invoking rain. Devotees expressed hope that their collective prayers would bring relief from dry weather conditions and support farmers awaiting the arrival of the monsoon for sowing activities.

Umesh Jadhav defends RSS, slams Priyank Kharge criticism

VIJAYAPURA

Former BJP MP Umesh Jadhav strongly defended the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), stating that the organisation has consistently stood by the nation during difficult and critical periods in India's history. Jadhav said that whenever the country has faced challenging situations, the RSS has always come forward to contribute in service of the nation. He added that the organisation's role and contribution are widely known and acknowledged across society. Jadhav also launched a sharp attack on Karnataka Minister Priyank Kharge, alleging that the Congress leader has been making statements against the RSS for political attention. He claimed that Kharge's remarks were aimed at remaining in the public spotlight by targeting the organisation repeatedly. According to Jadhav, such statements reflect a political strategy rather than genuine concern. He further alleged that Kharge is being influenced by certain individuals and groups who are encouraging him to continue criticising the RSS. Referring to ongoing legal developments, Jadhav said that the court had rejected certain pleas filed in connection with the matter. He asserted that Priyank Kharge would face rejection not only in courts but also in public opinion, suggesting that people would not support such positions in the long run. The former MP made these remarks while addressing media persons in Vijayapura, where he reiterated his strong support for the RSS and its activities. He also urged political leaders to avoid what he described as unnecessary controversies that distract from governance and public welfare issues. The statement comes amid continuing political tensions in Karnataka, where leaders from different parties have been engaging in sharp exchanges over ideological and organisational issues. The RSS remains a frequent point of political debate, with differing views expressed by ruling and opposition leaders on its role and influence in public life.

Raja Venkatappa Nayak alleges poor unscientific SH-23 four-lane work, demands inspection and independent technical audit immediately

MLA Raja Venkatappa Nayak slams SH 23 construction quality

RAICHUR

Former MLA Raja Venkatappa Nayak has raised serious concerns over the ongoing four-lane construction of State Highway-23 (SH-23) in Manvi town, alleging that the work is being executed in a poor and unscientific manner. Nayak, accompanied by JD(S) leaders, inspected the construction work near Dr. B.R. Ambedkar Circle and expressed dissatisfaction over what he described as negligence in planning and execution. He said the project lacks proper technical standards and is being carried out without considering public convenience. According to him, the Karnataka Road Development Corporation (KRDC) is undertaking the four-laning of a 77-km stretch from Kalmala Junction to Sindhanur at an estimated cost of ₹1,700 crore. He alleged that despite the large budget allocation, the quality of work on the ground does not reflect proper engineering standards. He further claimed that officials and contractors are executing the project arbitrarily without adequate supervision. Nayak also accused local representatives, including MLC N.S. Boseraju and Manvi MLA G. Hampayya Nayak, of failing to monitor the quality and progress of the road works effectively. One of his key concerns was the construction method being adopted, where, according to him, the contractor is building a new central divider over the existing one instead of removing it. He termed this approach unscientific and warned that it could compromise both safety and durability of the highway. Demanding immediate intervention, Nayak urged the District Collector to inspect the site personally and order an independent technical audit to assess construction quality and adherence to standards. Several JD(S) leaders and local representatives accompanied him during the inspection, supporting his demand for stricter monitoring and accountability in the execution of the major infrastructure project.

Yadgir BLO assaulted over SIR form distribution dispute

Tension prevailed in Yadgir after a Booth Level Officer (BLO) was allegedly assaulted following a dispute over the distribution of Special Intensive Revision (SIR) voter enumeration forms at a temple instead of through the mandated door-to-door verification process. The incident occurred at Ishwar Temple in Basaveshwara Nagar, where the BLO was reportedly distributing voter enumeration forms to residents. According to Election Commission guidelines, BLOs are required to visit every household, affix verification stickers, distribute enumeration forms, and collect voter details through a structured door-to-door exercise. However, local residents alleged that the official did not follow the prescribed procedure and instead asked voters to collect the forms at the temple premises. This alleged deviation from official norms triggered anger among residents, who questioned the legitimacy of the distribution process and insisted that household-level verification must be strictly followed. The situation escalated after a heated exchange between the BLO and residents, during which the official was reportedly assaulted by some individuals present at the spot. The incident led to heightened tension in the locality and prompted concerns about the proper implementation of the SIR exercise in the district. Election authorities are expected to initiate a detailed inquiry into the matter and assess whether procedural violations occurred during the distribution process. Officials may also examine the conduct of both the BLO and local residents involved in the altercation before deciding on further action. The episode has raised questions about field-level execution of electoral revision work and the importance of adherence to guidelines designed to ensure transparency and accuracy in voter registration processes.

Rathod accuses Kharge of targeting RSS unnecessarily

VIJAYAPURA

BJP leader from Chittapur constituency Manikanta Rathod on Friday strongly criticised Karnataka Home Minister Priyank Kharge, alleging that he is unnecessarily targeting the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) instead of focusing on governance and law-and-order issues in the state. Rathod said the RSS is a nationalist social organisation and should not be compared with political or family-run trusts. He asserted that the organisation functions independently and is dedicated to social and national service. Rathod further stated that the RSS is neither a political party nor a private trust, and alleged that it should not be equated with trusts he claimed are operated by political families in Kalaburagi. He also alleged that several trusts linked to Priyank Kharge's family receive government funding, while the RSS operates without such financial support. The BJP leader accused Priyank Kharge of repeatedly making statements against the RSS for political reasons. He urged the minister to shift focus to governance, public welfare, and administrative responsibilities instead of engaging in ideological criticism. Rathod also raised concerns over alleged illegal mining activities in parts of Kalaburagi district, particularly in the Chittapur region. He called on the Home Minister to take strict action against such activities and ensure law and order is maintained effectively. He further said that the minister, being young and entrusted with a significant responsibility, should exercise political maturity and concentrate on addressing issues such as scams, illegal activities, and public safety rather than engaging in repeated controversies.

ANTI URINATION DRIVE

BCMC uses reflective stainless-steel sheets to improve urban sanitation

BIDAR

The Bidar City Municipal Corporation (BCMC) has introduced an innovative initiative by installing reflective stainless-steel sheets at public places to discourage open urination and improve urban sanitation in the city. The civic body said the mirror-like steel sheets are designed to reflect the image of individuals standing in front of them, creating a psychological deterrent against public urination. Officials believe this visual reflection will make offenders conscious of their actions and help promote better civic behaviour. In the first phase of the project, the installation has been completed along the Bidar Fort wall and is planned for expansion to other crowded areas, including locations near the APMC Market on Hyderabad Road. The corporation noted that these spots have frequently witnessed incidents of public urination, leading to unhygienic conditions and civic complaints. Officials also stated that government land opposite the APMC market is currently under encroachment and will be cleared before further installation work begins. The civic body said the initiative aims to address both sanitation issues and environmental concerns caused by improper waste disposal in public areas. According to municipal authorities, roadside walls have often been misused, creating inconvenience for residents and visitors, particularly women. The reflective sheets are expected to serve as a preventive measure to reduce such practices and improve cleanliness standards in the city. Municipal Commissioner Mukul Jain said a similar model has already been implemented in Mysuru and has shown positive results. He added that the initiative in Bidar follows directions from Deputy Commissioner Shilpa Sharma, who stressed the importance of maintaining cleanliness in public spaces.

Chikkodi house wall collapse in rains, seven escape safely

Belagavi

Incassant rains led to a major scare in Jodakuruli village of Chikkodi taluk on Saturday morning after a house wall collapsed suddenly. The house belonged to Gangavva Varale and suffered severe damage due to continuous rainfall in the region. At the time of the incident, seven family members were inside the house having lunch together. Sensing danger as parts of the wall began to weaken, all of them managed to rush out just in time. Fortunately, all seven escaped without injuries, averting what could have been a major tragedy. The house, however, was badly damaged, leaving the family in distress and temporarily without shelter. Locals said the family has been forced to stay outside after the incident. Officials from the local administration visited the site and began inspection of the damage.

U.T. Khader chairs disaster management review meeting

Minister urged officials to work as family, maintain 24-hour alertness, and ensure urgent response in disaster situations

KARWAR

District In-charge Minister U.T. Khader said that responding immediately to public suffering and ensuring a comfortable life for citizens is the top priority of the government during natural disasters. He was speaking while presiding over a review meeting on disaster management and departmental progress at the District Collector's office hall on Saturday.

He said the district administration is fully prepared to face monsoon-related challenges, even though it is impossible to predict when natural disasters may occur. He instructed officials to remain alert at all times and respond quickly to public emergencies without delay. The Minister said officers and staff at all levels must work together like a family during crises and handle emergency calls from the public with urgency. He stressed that 24-hour alertness is necessary and no negligence will be tolerated in disaster response duties.

He informed that Rs 61 crore is available in the Deputy Commissioner's account for immediate disaster relief. He directed taluk-level committees led by Tahsildars to inspect damage quickly and distribute compensation without delay whenever houses are affected by floods or heavy rain.

He warned that strict action will be taken against officials who delay compensation distribution. He also said that every officer must carry a service-oriented mindset and perform duties with honesty and commitment during the monsoon season.

The Minister instructed the Health Department to take preventive measures against epidemic diseases during the rainy season. He said people should immediately visit hospitals for treatment instead of self-medication, and temporary doctors will be appointed where staff shortages exist. Retired doctors may also be engaged if needed.

Daddal pledges tourism growth in Raichur

RAICHUR

Karnataka Maharshi Valmiki Scheduled Tribes Development Corporation chairman and MLA Basanagowda Daddal said on Saturday that steps will be taken to develop tourism locations in Raichur district.

He made the statement after visiting several ongoing project sites across the district. He said the Kalyana Karnataka region has lagged behind in tourism development compared to coastal Karnataka and the old Mysuru region.

He noted that Raichur has rich historical and religious importance, with reservoirs built across the Krishna and Tungabhadra rivers creating several natural islands. These locations, he said, have strong potential to become tourist attractions.

Daddal said he will request the State government to develop these areas under the PRASAD scheme, which supports infrastructure development at pilgrimage and heritage sites with central assistance.

He added that detailed project reports are being prepared to identify and improve key religious and historical places in the district.

Earlier in the day, he also visited hostels, schools, and other public facilities during his inspection tour.

Daddal will seek PRASAD scheme support and said project reports are being prepared to develop pilgrimage and heritage sites across the district

Officials and locals said that proper development of tourism sites could improve employment opportunities and strengthen the local economy in Raichur district.

They also expressed hope that better infrastructure, connectivity, and facilities would help attract more visitors and put Raichur on the tourism map of Karnataka in the coming years with sustained government support and planning.

Prisoners in Karwar turn to handicraft production

Karwar District Jail is witnessing a remarkable transformation as inmates are turning to creativity and skill development, showing that prisons can also become centres of reform. Officials say the initiative is helping prisoners move away from negative thoughts and build a more positive future through meaningful work.

Around 25 inmates have been trained in handicraft production inside the jail. They are now making eco-friendly cloth bags, paper bags, clay art items, household products, and paintings. The products are carefully designed and are considered good enough to compete in the open market, reflecting the growing skills of the prisoners.

The jail's training programme focuses on promoting eco-friendly products and reducing the use of plastic. The handmade bags are used for daily needs and office use, supporting the idea of a cleaner environment. Officials say the continuous engagement in creative work has helped reduce stress, anger, and depression among inmates.

A portion of the income from the sale of these products is deposited into the prisoners' bank accounts. This helps them support their families while in jail and also gives them financial security for life after release. Authorities believe the training will help inmates restart their lives with dignity and self-reliance once their sentences are completed.

Senior officials, including district administrators and police officers, have visited the jail and appreciated the craftsmanship of the inmates. The prison department has also introduced several skill development programmes under the guidance of senior prison officials, focusing on training, rehabilitation, and future employment opportunities.

Jail authorities said the initiative proves that creative work can bring mental change even behind bars. They added that with public support and encouragement, such efforts can help build a crime-free society and offer prisoners a genuine second chance in life.

Major reshuffle in Finance, Accounts depts to strengthen accountability

Delhi government transferred 52 long-posted finance officers, and promoted 19 others to strengthen transparency, accountability, efficiency, and administrative governance

NEW DELHI

The Delhi government on Saturday announced a major administrative reshuffle in its Finance and Accounts Department as part of its ongoing efforts to strengthen transparency, accountability, and efficiency in governance.

The move, implemented under the department's Transfer and Posting Policy, involves the immediate transfer of 52 officers who had been serving in the same positions for five years or more.

The large-scale reshuffle includes the transfer of 23 Deputy Controllers of Accounts and 29 Senior Accounts Officers. Alongside these transfers, the government has promoted 19 Senior Accounts Officers to the post of Deputy Controller of Accounts, assigning them greater responsibilities across various departments in recognition of their performance and experience.

According to the Delhi government, the administrative exercise has been undertaken solely on the basis of official requirements and institutional needs. The objective is to improve financial management, ensure greater transparency in departmental functioning, and create a more dynamic administrative structure capable of delivering efficient public services.

The newly promoted Deputy Controllers of Accounts will now oversee enhanced financial and administrative responsibilities in their respective departments. In addition, revised responsibilities have also been assigned to the transferred Deputy Controllers of Accounts and Senior Accounts Officers to further streamline operations and improve coordination within the Finance and Accounts Department.

The government stated that periodic transfers and promotions are essential to maintaining integrity in public administration, preventing stagnation, and encouraging professional growth among officers. Officials believe the latest reshuffle will contribute to a more effective financial management system while reinforcing accountability across government departments.

Chief Minister Rekha Gupta said the decision reflects the government's commitment to building an administrative framework based on the highest standards of transparency, accountability, efficiency, and good governance. She emphasized that there is no place for laxity, negligence, or corruption at any level of governance and reiterated that public officials are expected to perform their duties with complete integrity and professionalism.

Chennai collector convenes meeting with e-Sevai operators

CHENNAI

Chennai District Collector S. Malathi Helen on Saturday convened a consultative meeting with e-Sevai centre operators on July 7 to address recurring issues that have led to the rejection and delay of applications for government and revenue-related services.

The meeting, scheduled to be held at the conference hall of the Chennai Collectorate, aims to improve the quality of applications submitted through e-Sevai centres and ensure faster delivery of citizen services.

Operators from e-Sevai centres across the district are expected to participate in the consultation.

As per a statement by the Collector, revenue authorities have repeatedly noticed that applications are being submitted with incorrectly scanned, incomplete or inappropriate supporting documents.

Such errors have resulted in delays in processing applications and, in many cases, their rejection by revenue officials.

The district administration said the meeting has been organised to sensitise e-Sevai operators about the correct procedures for scanning and uploading documents while submitting applications on behalf of the public. Officials will also emphasise the importance of verifying all supporting records before they are uploaded to the government portal.

It noted that many of the deficiencies identified during scrutiny could be avoided if operators ensure that the required documents are properly scanned, legible and relevant to the service being sought. Accurate documentation at the time of submission is expected to reduce the number of applications returned by officials and speed up the processing of requests.

Strengthening coordination between e-Sevai centres and revenue officials is essential for improving the efficiency of public service delivery, the administration added.

TMC crisis deepens as Mamata's aide Bhattacharya quits all party posts

KOLKATA

The political crisis within the Trinamool Congress (TMC) intensified on Saturday after the party's newly elected West Bengal president, Chandrima Bhattacharya, resigned from her post, citing a loss of trust following questions raised by party chairperson and former West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee over the takeover of the party headquarters by a rebel faction.

Speaking to the media, Bhattacharya said she decided to step down after Mamata Banerjee questioned her regarding the occupation of the Trinamool Congress headquarters near the Eastern Metropolitan Bypass in Kolkata by a group of rebel legislators led by Ritabrata Banerjee on Friday night.

Bhattacharya expressed disappointment over the allegations, stating that her loyalty to the party had always remained unquestionable. She said she was deeply hurt that her integrity had come under suspicion despite years of dedicated service to the party.

According to Bhattacharya, Mamata Banerjee asked how the party office had been handed over to the rebel camp. She responded by questioning how such doubts could be raised about her commitment. She added that once her integrity was questioned, she no longer felt it was appropriate to continue as the state president. She also declared that she would not be returning to Kalighat, the political residence of the party chief, following her resignation.

Bhattacharya formally communicated her decision through a resignation letter addressed to Mamata Banerjee. Besides resigning as the West Bengal president of the All India Trinamool Congress, she also stepped down from every other organisational responsibility assigned to her within the party.

In her letter, Bhattacharya stated that she was relinquishing her authority as an authorised signatory for the party and all its affiliated organisations in relation to bank accounts. She further informed the party leadership that she was withdrawing from her role as the authorised representative of the Trinamool Congress before the Election Commission of India.

Despite her resignation, Bhattacharya concluded the letter on a respectful note, expressing her highest regard for Mamata Banerjee and affirming that she would always remain respectful towards the party leader.

The resignation marks another significant setback for the Trinamool Congress, which has been witnessing growing internal divisions following the emergence of a powerful rebel faction within its legislature party.

The crisis has been further complicated by the recent decision of Bhattacharya's son, Saurav, a former councillor of the Kolkata Municipal Corporation, to join the rebel group led by expelled MLA Ritabrata Banerjee, which claims to represent the majority.

J&K school book glorifies terrorists, separatist leaders, sparks outrage

SRINAGAR

The Jammu and Kashmir government led by Chief Minister Omar Abdullah has come under intense criticism following allegations that a textbook procured under the Samagra Shiksha Scheme glorifies separatist leaders and individuals associated with militancy.

The controversy has triggered political debate and demands for accountability from civil society organisations and concerned citizens.

The Jammu and Kashmir Peoples' Forum (JKPF), a social and non-political organisation, has strongly criticised the government, alleging that the book was supplied to school libraries despite containing material that presents controversial figures in a positive light.

The organisation has questioned the selection process and accused the authorities of failing to properly scrutinise educational content before its distribution.

At the centre of the controversy is a book titled Great Personalities and Legends of J&K (Series-4), which critics claim describes separatist leaders, including Jammu Kashmir Liberation Front founder Maqbool Bhat and separatist leader Syed Ali Shah Geelani, as great personalities. According to those raising objections, such portrayals are inappropriate for educational institutions and risk sending the wrong message to students.

Civil society members and critics have demanded strict action against the experts who recommended the book as well as officials associated with the Samagra Shiksha Scheme who approved its procurement and distribution.

They have further urged the Union Territory administration to initiate criminal proceedings against those found responsible for allowing the book to reach school libraries.

Opponents of the book's inclusion have described the episode as a serious administrative lapse by the elected Jammu and Kashmir government. They argue that educational resources should promote constitutional values and factual history while avoiding content that could be interpreted as endorsing individuals associated with separatist movements or militancy.

The controversy comes against the backdrop of an earlier disagreement between the elected government and the office of Lieutenant Governor Manoj Sinha over a separate decision to prohibit 25 books that were also alleged to contain material glorifying terrorism.

At that time, CM Omar Abdullah had maintained that the decision to ban those publications was taken entirely by the Union Home Department, which functions under the authority of the Lieutenant Governor. The legal debate surrounding the present controversy has also drawn attention to the provisions of the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA).

Pakistan must end terrorism before talks can resume: Manish Tewari

Congress MP Manish Tewari on Saturday questioned the purpose of resuming dialogue with Pakistan, asserting that any engagement would be meaningless unless Islamabad first stops sponsoring terrorism against India.

His remarks came after Omar Abdullah on Thursday said that no one should object to India-Pakistan dialogue if the objective is to improve relations between the two neighbouring countries.

The Chief Minister noted that the conflict between India and Pakistan was not new and had continued for the past three to four decades.

This conflict is 30 to 40 years old, and last year it intensified after the Pahalgam attack. Now, through a letter, the Prime Minister has been requested to improve relations between the two countries. No one should have any objection to that, he said.

Speaking to IANS, Manish Tewari said, Since 1971, when India helped create Bangladesh, Pakistan has been carrying a sense of revenge. At that time, the atrocities committed by the West Pakistani forces on the people of East Pakistan led to their surrender, and nearly 91,000 Pakistani soldiers were taken as prisoners of war by India. Since then, they have been trying to take revenge. Their strategy has been to 'bleed India with a thousand cuts', and they have been promoting terrorism time and again.

Referring to the terror attack in Baisaran, Pahalgam, he said, In the Baisaran attack, 26 people were killed after being asked about their religion. India should not forget this so soon. What exactly do you want to talk about with Pakistan? India wants only one thing from Pakistan -- that it should stop promoting terrorism.

Toyota cites fuel contamination in Innova Hycross video

New Delhi
Toyota Kirloskar Motor (TKM) on Saturday clarified that a viral social media video claiming a Toyota Innova Hycross developed issues due to use of E20 fuel was not related to the ethanol-blended fuel, saying its technical assessment found the problem was caused by fuel contamination. In a statement, the company said the Toyota Innova Hycross involved in the incident is an E20-compatible vehicle that has been designed, tested and certified for the use of 20 per cent ethanol-blended fuel. Based on our detailed technical assessment of the vehicle, the issue was due to fuel contamination. Our inspection confirmed that there was no damage to any vehicle component or its fuel system, TKM said.

Bihar BJP MLA gets 4-yr jail for celebratory firing murder

NEW DELHI
A Delhi court on Saturday sentenced Bihar BJP MLA Raju Kumar Singh to four years' imprisonment after convicting him for culpable homicide not amounting to murder in connection with the death of a woman during celebratory firing at a New Year's Eve party in the national capital in 2018. The Rouse Avenue Court also sentenced Singh to two months' imprisonment under the Arms Act and directed him to pay Rs 25 lakh as compensation to the victim's family. The court further ordered that if Singh fails to pay the compensation amount, he will have to undergo an additional three months' imprisonment. It also directed that all the sentences awarded to Singh would run consecutively. With a sentence of more than two years, Singh risks losing his Bihar Assembly seat under the Representation of the People Act unless the Delhi High Court grants a stay on conviction.

Nabin exudes confidence of BJP sweep ahead of UP polls

The BJP president says the overwhelming support from party cadres reflected the BJP's strong organisational foundation and growing public confidence

LUCKNOW

Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) National President Nitin Nabin on Saturday expressed confidence that the party would secure another decisive mandate in the upcoming Uttar Pradesh Assembly elections, scheduled for next year. He said the enthusiasm among party workers and the public's faith in Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath would ensure the BJP's continued electoral success in the state. Speaking during his first organisational visit to Lucknow after assuming charge as the party's national president, Nabin thanked BJP workers for the warm reception he received upon his arrival. He said the overwhelming support from party cadres reflected the BJP's strong organisational foundation and growing public confidence. Nabin described Uttar Pradesh as the karmabhoomi of former Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee and said he was confident that the people of the state would once again vote in favour of the BJP. He stated that the party's election symbol, the lotus, would bloom once more in the Assembly elections, highlighting his optimism about the BJP's prospects. The BJP president arrived in Lucknow for a two-day organisational tour and was welcomed at Chaudhary Charan Singh International Airport by Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, state BJP president Pankaj Chaudhary, Deputy Chief Ministers Keshav Prasad Maurya and Brajesh Pathak, Union Minister of State Kamlesh Paswan, senior state ministers and several party leaders. Following his arrival, Nabin participated in a grand roadshow from the airport to the BJP's state headquarters. Travelling in a specially decorated vehicle alongside state BJP president Pankaj Chaudhary, he was greeted by enthusiastic party workers across the nearly 18-kilometre route. More than 50 welcome points had been set up by party workers, who gathered in large numbers to greet the national president. The roadshow is being viewed as an important exercise to energise the party organisation ahead of the crucial Assembly elections. BJP leaders believe the event demonstrates the party's organisational strength while boosting the morale of workers across the state. Nabin's visit is particularly significant because it marks his first interaction with the newly constituted Uttar Pradesh BJP team, which was announced only days ago. Party leaders expect the meetings to help shape the organisational roadmap and election strategy for the upcoming polls. During his two-day visit, the BJP chief is scheduled to hold extensive discussions with state office-bearers, regional and district presidents, leaders of various party wings, Members of Parliament, MLAs, MLCs, and representatives of the National Democratic Alliance. He will also meet Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, the Deputy Chief Ministers, members of the Uttar Pradesh BJP Core Committee and other prominent personalities. As part of his itinerary, Nabin will also offer prayers at the Hanuman Setu Temple in Lucknow before chairing a series of organisational meetings focused on strengthening the party structure and preparing for the high-stakes Assembly elections scheduled next year.

Defence production reaches record high amid self-reliance push

NEW DELHI

India's annual defence production reached an all-time high of Rs 1.78 lakh crore during the financial year 2025-26, marking a significant milestone in the country's drive towards self-reliance in defence manufacturing. Announcing the achievement on Saturday, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh said the latest production figure is nearly three times higher than the level recorded in the financial year 2014-15. The Defence Minister also highlighted the remarkable growth in defence exports, which touched a record over Rs 38,000 crore during FY 2025-26. He noted that exports have increased nearly 57-fold compared to Rs 686 crore recorded in FY 2013-14, reflecting rising international confidence in India's domestically developed defence platforms under the government's Make in India initiative. Addressing a media event, Rajnath Singh said India's progress over the past 12 years represents a transition from shortages to self-reliance, from self-reliance to self-confidence, and now towards the goal of building a developed nation. He asserted that the government's continued focus on reforms and indigenous manu-

The minister said that during its third consecutive term, the government is laying a strong foundation for achieving the vision of a developed India through its policy of Reform, Perform, Transform. He expressed confidence that the country's continued economic and technological progress would enable it to emerge as a fully developed nation in the coming years. Recalling the launch of the Make in India programme in 2014, Rajnath Singh said the initiative had initially faced criticism from several quarters. However, he maintained that the programme has consistently delivered strong results by boosting domestic manufacturing, increasing exports, and strengthening India's industrial ecosystem. He further stated that India's international standing has undergone a major transformation, with the country's views on global issues now receiving greater attention and respect from the international community.

PM Modi inaugurates Rs 480-cr Jodhpur Airport terminal

JODHPUR

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday inaugurated the new terminal building at Jodhpur Airport, marking a significant milestone in Rajasthan's aviation infrastructure. The Rs 480-crore project is expected to strengthen regional air connectivity, enhance passenger convenience, and provide a major boost to tourism, trade, and economic activity in western Rajasthan. The newly constructed terminal spans more than 23,000 square metres and has the capacity to handle 20 lakh (2 million) passengers annually, substantially increasing the airport's ability to cater to the region's growing air traffic. Inspired by Rajasthan's rich architectural heritage, the terminal seamlessly blends traditional design elements with modern infrastructure. The building features motifs and architectural styles reflective of the state's cultural legacy while offering contemporary passenger amenities aimed at improving the overall travel experience.

The terminal has also been designed with sustainability at its core. It incorporates energy-efficient systems, water conservation measures, and green building practices, making it an environmentally responsible addition to the country's expanding aviation network. The inauguration of the new terminal is expected to improve domestic and regional connectivity for Jodhpur and neighbouring districts, making the city more accessible to tourists and business travellers alike. Officials believe the upgraded infrastructure will further strengthen Jodhpur's position as a key tourism destination while creating new opportunities for commerce, investment, and employment across the Marwar region. During the programme, Prime Minister Modi also launched the revised UDAN (Ude Desh ka Aam Nagrik) scheme, aimed at expanding affordable regional air connectivity across India.

Trump marks US 250th anniversary at Mount Rushmore

Washington
At Mount Rushmore, Donald Trump marked the eye of the United States' 250th Independence anniversary with a celebratory address praising the nation's founding and history while urging Americans to defend its identity. He described the United States as the most successful and exceptional nation, and highlighted the legacy of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, and Roosevelt. He warned of a resurgence of communism, calling it a threat to American liberty and saying loyalty must be either to Marx or America. Trump also claimed economic growth, rising investment, tariffs driving manufacturing, said US struck Iran, and is now entering a golden age period.

Activists condemn life term in Balochistan dissent case

Quetta
Leading Baloch Yakjehti Committee leader Mahrang Baloch has been sentenced to life imprisonment by an anti-terrorism court in Quetta, a verdict widely criticised by activists and reported as part of Pakistan's broader crackdown on dissent in Balochistan. The case, linked to violence during a 2024 gathering in Gwadar, is being portrayed by rights groups as politically motivated. The report argues the conviction targets peaceful Baloch women-led protests against enforced disappearances and alleged state abuses. It further claims trials are increasingly conducted in opaque conditions, raising concerns over due process, transparency, and shrinking space for civil activism in the region there.

Pakistan acting as China's defence gateway to Middle East: Report

Pakistan reportedly acts as China's defence gateway, promoting JF-17 jets and expanding Beijing's influence across Middle East region

WASHINGTON

A recent report by a US-based think tank, the Middle East Forum, has stated that Pakistan is increasingly functioning as a strategic conduit for China's defence and geopolitical interests in the Middle East and wider regions, enabling Beijing to expand its military footprint indirectly. The report highlights a recent defence agreement between Pakistan and the Libyan National Army involving the supply of 16 JF-17 fighter jets, training aircraft, and a broader military package valued at over $4 billion. It claims that such deals may allow China to expand its defence influence while avoiding direct international scrutiny, particularly in regions already affected by conflict and arms embargoes. According to the analysis, Pakistan has become deeply integrated with China in defence, intelligence, and security cooperation over recent years. Citing data from the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute (SIPRI), the report notes that more than 80 percent of Pakistan's arms imports between 2021 and 2024 originated from China, reflecting a growing dependence on Chinese military hardware. The report adds that while Pakistan still operates some US-origin platforms such as F-16 fighter jets, the majority of its current military inventory is now Chinese-made. It also notes Pakistan's active promotion of the jointly produced JF-17 fighter aircraft, along with other systems such as drones and HQ-9 air defence units, across multiple international defence platforms and exhibitions. Further, the report suggests that Pakistan is engaged in discussions or proposals involving defence cooperation with several countries, including Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Bangladesh, Indonesia, Libya, Morocco, Nigeria, Sudan, and Ethiopia. It claims that Chinese-origin systems are increasingly being showcased through Pakistan's defence diplomacy efforts. The think tank also points to a potential arrangement involving Saudi Arabia, where Pakistan could supply JF-17 fighter jets in exchange for financial support previously extended by Riyadh. However, it notes that such proposals have not yet materialised due to concerns over interoperability with existing Western systems, financial constraints, and questions regarding weapons quality. The report concludes that shifting geopolitical dynamics in the Middle East, along with evolving security alignments, may provide opportunities for Chinese defence systems to gain greater visibility in the region through Pakistan's military partnerships. It argues that Pakistan's role in promoting Chinese-origin weapons aligns with Beijing's broader strategy of expanding its influence in global defence markets through indirect channels.

Iran media calls Khamenei funeral start of "Great Khamenei Era" with massive nationwide ceremonies and international attendance planned

IRAN MEDIA DECLARES 'GREAT KHAMENEI ERA' AFTER FUNERAL PLANS

TEHRAN

Iranian state-linked media and officials have described the funeral ceremony of former Supreme Leader Ayatollah Seyyed Ali Khamenei as marking the beginning of a "Great Khamenei Era," according to reports. The statement was made by the President of the Islamic Republic of Iran Broadcasting (IRIB), Payman Jebeli, who said extensive arrangements have been made to cover the large-scale mourning events. He noted that over two dozen satellite news gathering (SNG) live-stream units and more than 30 mobile broadcasting units equipped with multiple cameras have been deployed along the funeral procession routes to ensure comprehensive coverage. According to officials, the principal funeral procession in Tehran is scheduled for July 6, followed by ceremonies in Qom on July 7. Additional commemorative events are expected in Iraq's holy cities of Najaf and Karbala on July 8, following requests from religious scholars, tribal leaders, and political figures. Reports suggest that massive public participation is expected, with claims that millions of mourners and representatives from more than 100 countries may attend ceremonies in Tehran. Large crowds have already gathered at key locations, including Tehran's Grand Mo-salla, where citizens paid tribute during early mourning rituals. State media has framed the transition period as a continuation of ideological and political stability under Khamenei's legacy, using the term "Great Khamenei Era" to emphasize continuity within Iran's leadership narrative. The funeral arrangements are being presented as one of the largest state-organized ceremonies in recent years, with officials highlighting the scale of logistics, media deployment, and security preparations. The announcement comes amid heightened regional tensions, with international attention focused on Iran's internal developments and geopolitical position. While official narratives stress unity and continuity, external observers are closely watching the political implications of the leadership transition and its impact on regional stability. Authorities have confirmed that further details of the multi-city funeral processions will be released as events progress over the coming days.

Putin extends independence greetings to United States

MOSCOW

Russian President Vladimir Putin has extended greetings to former US President Donald Trump on the occasion of the 250th anniversary of American independence, wishing happiness and prosperity to all citizens of the United States, according to reports. In his message, Putin reportedly conveyed warm wishes marking the historic milestone, emphasizing goodwill toward the American people. The gesture comes amid ongoing global geopolitical tensions, where US-Russia relations remain complex and often strained due to conflicts, sanctions, and competing strategic interests. The greeting, addressed to Trump, highlights a continued line of communication between prominent political figures from both nations, even as formal diplomatic ties between Washington and Moscow face significant challenges. Observers note that such messages are often symbolic, reflecting broader attempts to maintain limited diplomatic engagement and signal openness to dialogue. The 250th anniversary of American independence is expected to be a major national occasion in the United States, commemorating the Declaration of Independence in 1776. The milestone has drawn international attention, with several global leaders extending messages of goodwill and congratulations to the American people. Analysts suggest that Putin's message may also be interpreted within the context of shifting global alliances and political narratives, particularly as Russia seeks to maintain relevance in international diplomacy despite ongoing isolation from parts of the Western bloc. Donald Trump, who has maintained an active role in American politics since his presidency, continues to be a central figure in US political discourse. His interactions with foreign leaders are often closely watched, especially in relation to US foreign policy dynamics. While the message primarily focuses on celebratory wishes, it also underscores the symbolic nature of international diplomacy, where gestures of goodwill often carry broader implications for political signalling and strategic positioning.

China's new ethnic unity legislation has triggered a strong response from Taiwan, amid growing concerns that the law could be used to extend political influence and enforcement mechanisms beyond mainland borders, according to reports.

The law, which emphasizes "ethnic unity" and national integration, has been criticised by analysts and officials in Taiwan who argue that it may be used as a tool to tighten ideological control and suppress dissent under the framework of promoting national cohesion. Taiwan has expressed apprehension that such policies could have implications for cross-strait relations and potentially increase pressure on Taiwanese citizens and institutions.

According to observers, the legislation reflects Beijing's broader strategy of reinforcing national identity and aligning ethnic policies with the Chinese Communist Party's governance model. Critics, however, warn that the definition of ethnic unity could be interpreted broadly, potentially enabling stricter oversight of cultural and political expression. Taiwanese authorities have responded by reiterating their commitment to maintaining political autonomy and safeguarding democratic values. Officials stressed that Taiwan's governance system and civil liberties remain distinct from mainland China's political structure, and that any attempt to impose external ideological frameworks would be firmly resisted.

Taiwan critics say ethnic unity law may tighten ideological control and increase pressure on citizens and institutions

The development comes amid already heightened tensions between Beijing and Taipei, with both sides continuing to differ sharply on issues of sovereignty and international recognition. Security analysts suggest that the new law could add another layer of complexity to cross-strait relations, particularly if it is perceived as extending beyond China's domestic jurisdiction.

Experts also note that while China presents the legislation as a measure to strengthen national unity among ethnic groups, critics view it as part of a broader pattern of centralised governance and increased regulation of identity and expression. Taiwan has urged the international community to closely monitor developments related to the law, cautioning that any expansion of its scope could raise concerns about human rights and regional stability. The situation continues to evolve as both sides assess the potential political and legal implications of the new framework.

Beijing accused of using Buddhism for political control

BRUSSELS

A recent report has alleged that Beijing is increasingly using Buddhism as a political instrument to serve the agenda of the Chinese Communist Party (CCP), with critics claiming that religious institutions and practices are being reshaped to reinforce state authority rather than spiritual traditions.

The report states that China's engagement with Buddhism reflects a gradual "hollowing out" of faith, where temples are being transformed into tourist destinations and monks are increasingly integrated into state administrative structures. According to the analysis, religious scriptures and teachings are being selectively interpreted to promote obedience and loyalty to the ruling party.

It argues that the pursuit of spiritual enlightenment has been replaced by political conformity, particularly in regions such as Tibet, where Buddhism is deeply tied to cultural and ethnic identity. The report claims that in these areas, religious expression is tightly regulated and often repurposed as part of state-controlled cultural narratives.

Khedroob Thondup, the nephew of the Dalai Lama, writing in the European Times, stated that the Chinese constitutionally atheist state tolerates Buddhism only when it aligns with state interests. He alleged that Buddhism is promoted as a cultural and moral supplement to socialism, but is treated as a threat when it carries independent political or ethnic significance. The report further highlights Beijing's assertion of authority over the recognition of reincarnated Tibetan lamas, including the future Dalai Lama, describing it as an attempt to sever traditional spiritual lineage and bring religious authority under state control. It also alleges that monasteries in Tibet operate under strict surveillance and that monks are required to undergo "patriotic education" programs.

According to the claims, public devotion to the Dalai Lama is restricted, and religious practices are increasingly framed as expressions of culture rather than spirituality. Critics argue that such measures diminish the religious autonomy of Tibetan Buddhism while strengthening state oversight.

While China presents itself as a protector of Buddhist heritage through temple restoration projects and international cultural initiatives, the report suggests that these efforts are aimed at enhancing global legitimacy while tightening internal control over religious identity.

The analysis concludes that despite efforts to align religion with state ideology, genuine spiritual traditions remain difficult to control, and continued restrictions may deepen tensions over cultural and religious freedom in the region.

China criticises Indo-Pacific concept, citing regional unity concerns

BEIJING

China has reiterated its criticism of the "Free and Open Indo-Pacific" (FOIP) framework, stating that the concept goes against the shared aspirations of countries in the region for peace, development, and cooperation. A statement shared by Chinese Embassy spokesperson Yu Jing on social media, quoting Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesperson Guo Jiakun, said that the FOIP approach would not gain genuine recognition among regional nations. The remarks emphasised that safeguarding the post-war international order and upholding the principles of the United Nations Charter are essential for maintaining prosperity and stability in the Asia-Pacific region. The Chinese position argued that regional countries should focus on building an Asia-Pacific framework that is inclusive, interconnected, mutually beneficial, and supportive of collective development. It further stated that cooperation, rather than competing strategic blocs, should define regional engagement. The comments come amid ongoing geopolitical competition in the Indo-Pacific, where several countries have promoted different visions for regional security architecture. While China has consistently opposed FOIP, describing it as a divisive strategic construct, other nations argue it promotes transparency, maritime security, and freedom of navigation. In contrast to Beijing's position, Japan and India recently highlighted growing alignment on regional maritime cooperation. Japanese Prime Minister Sanae Takachi noted that Prime Minister Narendra Modi's MAHASAGAR initiative aligns closely with Japan's FOIP strategy. Both leaders reportedly agreed to deepen strategic cooperation, particularly in maritime security, to promote stability and shared economic growth. According to Takaichi, both sides view the Indo-Pacific as a shared space that should support regional stability and development. She added that enhanced cooperation between like-minded countries is essential for ensuring security and maintaining open sea routes critical to global trade. The differing narratives reflect broader strategic competition in the region, where major powers continue to promote competing frameworks for influence, security, and economic cooperation across the Indo-Pacific.

sparks economic
warning

New Delhi

Pakistan's economy is under rising pressure as inflation climbed to 11.7 percent in May 2026, raising fears of prolonged financial strain across the country. Rates were 10.9 percent in April and 7.3 percent in March, above the central bank target range of 5 to 7 percent. Economists blamed higher transport costs, food prices, foreign exchange pressure, and rising oil import bills. These factors reduced purchasing power and slowed economic activity nationwide. Pakistan remains vulnerable to external shocks due to heavy dependence on imported energy and weak external finances. The State Bank raised its policy rate by 100 basis points to 11.5 percent to control inflation, but economists called it wrong medicine that may slow investment and risk stagnation. Analysts said higher rates may not fix supply-side inflation and could hurt private sector lending.

Sitharaman highlights India's strong economic crisis response strategy

Finance Minister said India's middle class drives growth and EU free trade deal boosts global business opportunities

NEW DELHI

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said India successfully managed the economic impact of the West Asia crisis while continuing to remain the world's fastest-growing major economy. Speaking in an interview with the French newspaper Le Figaro, she said the country's strong domestic demand, expanding global trade partnerships, and timely government measures helped maintain economic stability during the challenging period.

The Finance Minister said India's growing middle class continues to drive consumption and support economic growth. She also highlighted the importance of the recently concluded free trade agreement between India and the European Union, stating that it is expected to significantly strengthen global trade and create new opportunities for businesses in both regions. Sitharaman explained that Prime Minister Narendra Modi had appealed to citizens on May 10 to reduce unnecessary international travel, postpone gold purchases for a year, limit fuel consumption by using shared transport, and avoid excessive use of cooking oil. She said these measures were aimed at protecting the country's economy during the crisis. Summarising the government's approach, the Finance Minister referred to the "three Fs"—fuel, fertiliser, and foreign exchange. She explained that reducing fuel consumption helps save valuable foreign exchange, as imports are paid for in foreign currency. Encouraging practices such as carpooling, she said, contributes to conserving foreign exchange reserves.

The Minister also said the government continued providing substantial fertiliser subsidies to protect farmers from rising costs despite the financial burden on the country. She noted that while fertiliser prices remained affordable for farmers, the government had to bear the additional cost of imports. Speaking about gold imports, Sitharaman acknowledged the cultural and emotional importance of gold for Indian families.

Defence exports cross Rs 38,000 crore milestone

NEW DELHI

India has achieved record growth in defence production and exports, reflecting the increasing global confidence in the country's 'Make in India' initiative, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh said on Saturday while addressing a media event in the national capital. The minister said annual defence production reached an all-time high of Rs. 1.78 lakh crore during the financial year 2025-26, nearly three times higher than the production recorded in 2014-15. He also announced that defence exports crossed Rs. 38,000 crore, compared to just Rs. 686 crore in 2013-14, marking a nearly 57-fold increase over the past decade. Rajnath Singh said India has moved from shortages to self-reliance, then to self-confidence, and is now progressing towards becoming a developed nation. He stated that the government's focus on the policy of "Reform, Perform, Transform" is laying a strong foundation for achieving the vision of Viksit Bharat. Recalling the launch of the Make in India programme in 2014, the minister said the initiative had initially faced criticism but has since delivered remarkable results across several sectors. He added that India's voice now carries greater importance in global discussions and international forums. Highlighting technological progress, Rajnath Singh said the India Semiconductor Mission, launched in 2021, has begun producing indigenous semiconductor chips after the establishment of semiconductor parks with modern infrastructure. He noted that the country's manufacturing sector has expanded significantly, with growth in mobile phone production, automobile exports, railway locomotive manufacturing, and digital infrastructure. The minister also praised India's digital transformation, stating that 22.35 billion Unified Payments Interface (UPI) transactions worth Rs. 29 lakh crore were recorded in April. He said the digital payment platform is gaining wider international acceptance and strengthening India's position in financial technology. Rajnath Singh further said the nationwide rollout of indigenous 5G technology has progressed rapidly, while preparations are already underway for the development of 6G technology.

South Korea unveiled three megaprojects investing 4,755 trillion won in semiconductors, physical AI, and AI data centres

Lee defends mega projects as future national investment

SEOUL

South Korean President Lee Jae Myung has defended the government's ambitious regional development programme, saying the newly announced mega projects are designed to secure the country's future and are not intended to improve his political approval ratings. He rejected criticism from opposition parties and said the initiative focuses on long-term national growth rather than short-term political gains. Earlier this week, the South Korean government unveiled its "three megaprojects" plan, which aims to transform the country's economy through investments in semiconductors, physical artificial intelligence, and AI data centres. The programme proposes a total investment of 4,755 trillion won, making it one of the country's largest development plans. As part of the initiative, Samsung announced plans to establish two memory chip manufacturing plants in the southwestern city of Gwangju. SK hynix also revealed plans to build two semiconductor fabrication plants in the surrounding Jeolla provinces under a combined investment plan valued at 800 trillion won. Responding to allegations from the main opposition People Power Party, Lee said that if the projects had been launched for political advantage, they would have been announced before the local elections held on June 3. Instead, he said the vision for national transformation had been part of his long-term plans even before assuming office. The President said the real measure of success is not public opinion surveys but improvements in the lives of ordinary citizens. He expressed confidence that the projects would generate new opportunities, strengthen the economy, and provide greater hope for future generations. He also pledged to make every effort to create employment, encourage innovation, and inspire young people with better career prospects.

India records strongest ever first-half office leasing

NEW DELHI

India's office leasing market recorded its strongest first-half performance ever during January to June 2026, showing a five percent increase compared to the same period last year. The growth highlights steady demand for office spaces despite global economic uncertainties affecting several countries. A report by Cushman and Wakefield said Global Capability Centres played the biggest role in this growth. These centres leased around 16.5 million square feet of office space during the first six months of the year. This accounted for 38 percent of total leasing activity and marked a 38 percent rise from last year. The second quarter also remained strong, with nearly eight million square feet leased by Global Capability Centres. Overall office leasing reached around 43 million square feet across India during the first half of 2026. Bengaluru, Pune, Delhi NCR, and Mumbai together contributed almost 80 percent of the total leasing by these centres. Bengaluru led the market, followed by Pune, Delhi NCR, and Mumbai. The report also showed that office demand came from different industries. The IT and BPM sector remained the biggest contributor, accounting for 22 percent of total leasing. Banking, financial services, insurance, engineering, and manufacturing sectors also recorded healthy demand. Flexible workspace operators expanded rapidly, leasing 8.4 million square feet, which represented one-fifth of total office leasing. This segment posted an impressive 55 percent yearly increase and achieved its highest-ever half-year performance. However, the report noted that net absorption slowed because fewer new office spaces entered the market. Even with limited fresh supply, India's office sector remained strong, reflecting growing business confidence and continued interest from both domestic and international companies.

Modi praises digital transformation in consumer protection

NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi said the e-Jagriti platform has changed the way consumer complaints are handled by making the entire process digital. He shared an article by Union Minister Pralhad Joshi, who explained how the system was improved after discussions with different stakeholders. According to the Prime Minister, the platform is an important step towards modernising consumer justice and making it easier for people to seek help. Joshi said consumers now shop through online marketplaces, digital payment systems, and e-commerce platforms more than ever before. Because of this, the old system of paper files, manual checks, different software, and physical hearings could no longer meet growing needs. He said protecting consumer rights in the digital age required a complete change in the way justice is delivered. The e-Jagriti platform was launched on January 1, 2025. It combines four older systems into one paperless, AI-enabled platform. Since its launch, more than 2.29 lakh consumer cases have been filed, while over 2.07 lakh cases have already been resolved. This has resulted in an overall disposal rate of 90.75 percent. The platform also allows Non-Resident Indians to file complaints and seek justice without travelling to India. During the 2025-26 financial year, consumer commissions registered over 1.65 lakh new cases and disposed of more than 1.52 lakh cases. The disposal rate improved to 92.3 percent, higher than the previous year. Officials said the platform has made the justice system faster, more transparent, and more accessible, strengthening consumer confidence and improving access to fair and timely decisions across the country.

India auto demand shows strong resilience

NEW DELHI

India's auto sector demand remained strong in June with personal mobility vehicles continuing to perform better. A report said easing supply constraints at manufacturers, healthy retail demand and strong exports supported growth. Two wheeler sales rose across companies while exports of two and three wheelers stayed firm. Commercial vehicles showed mixed performance but wholesale demand improved due to infrastructure and replacement needs. Tractor demand remained stable while passenger vehicle sales grew supported by new launches and affordability.

Centre promises better testing for Indian toy industry

NEW DELHI

The Central Government has announced plans to set up modern testing facilities across toy manufacturing clusters to improve the quality of Indian-made toys.

Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal said the facilities will be developed through the Bureau of Indian Standards, National Test House, and other government and semi-government laboratories. He urged industry members to identify the testing equipment needed to ensure Indian toys meet high standards in both domestic and international markets. The minister encouraged micro, small, and medium enterprises to continue expanding their businesses. He said every micro enterprise should aim to become a small enterprise, every small enterprise should grow into a medium enterprise, and every medium enterprise should strive to become a large company.

WEEKLY STOCK PERFORMANCE

Markets extend winning streak for fourth week

MUMBAI

Indian stock markets ended the week with strong gains, continuing their upward trend for the fourth straight week. The rise came mainly due to falling crude oil prices and hopes of a better global interest rate outlook. Investors also reacted positively to global economic signals and domestic developments. The Nifty index rose 0.89 percent during the week and closed at 24,270 after gaining 0.39 percent on the final trading day. The Sensex also performed well, rising 261 points or 0.34 percent to close at 77,763. Overall, it posted a weekly gain of 0.86 percent, showing steady investor confidence. Market experts said the early part of the week saw some profit booking due to uncertainty over the US and Iran peace situation, weak early earnings expectations, and uneven monsoon progress. However, sentiment improved later as crude oil prices fell after easing tensions around key global supply routes. Investors also responded to comments from the US Federal Reserve suggesting possible softer interest rate policies. Weak US labour data further supported expectations of easier global financial conditions. Domestic optimism also grew after discussions in the India-Japan summit, covering trade, defence, technology, and currency settlement cooperation. Sector-wise, real estate, pharma, and healthcare stocks performed better, while public sector banks and energy stocks lagged behind. The IT sector recovered strongly due to short covering and improved long-term outlook related to artificial intelligence adoption. Midcap and small-cap stocks also showed strength during the week.

The Central government has increased the procurement price of onions by 13 per cent to Rs 2,125 per quintal, aiming to provide better returns to farmers and strengthen buffer stock operations across the country. Officials said the revised procurement price will help farmers receive fair value for their produce while supporting government efforts to maintain stable onion supplies. Kapil Dev Regrets Virat Kohli's Early Test Retirement Decision

Former India captain Kapil Dev has expressed disappointment over Virat Kohli's decision to retire from Test cricket, saying the batting star still possessed the skill and determination to succeed in the longest format of the game. Kapil believes Kohli could have earned a return to the national side even if he had initially been left out of the team.

Virat Kohli announced his retirement from Test cricket in May 2025, ending a remarkable 14-year career in the format. During his Test journey, Kohli scored 9,230 runs in 123 matches, including 30 centuries, and established himself as India's most successful Test captain with 40 victories in 68 matches. He retired ahead of India's tour of England, stating that he had given everything he could to Test cricket.

Reflecting on the decision, Kapil said he would have preferred Kohli to continue playing instead of stepping away from the format.

According to the 1983 World Cup-winning captain, retirement should not have been influenced by milestones or temporary setbacks.

Kapil remarked that even if Kohli had not been selected by the selectors or included in the playing eleven by the captain, he should have continued working hard to regain his place. He suggested that strong performances in domestic cricket or other competitive tournaments would have eventually paved the way for his return because of his unquestionable ability as a Test player.

The former captain stressed that Kohli still had the quality required to succeed at the highest level and believed patience would have benefited him. He said setbacks are a part of every cricketer's career and that experienced players often find their way back through consistent performances.

Kapil also compared Kohli's fiercely competitive nature with that of tennis legend John McEnroe, known for his emotional intensity and confrontational style on the court. He observed that some athletes produce their best performances when they channel their emotions and thrive under pressure.

Drawing a contrast with other Indian batting greats, Kapil mentioned Rahul Dravid, Sunil Gavaskar and Sachin Tendulkar as players who preferred to let their performances speak for themselves. However, he said cricketers like Kohli embraced challenges differently, using aggression and passion as motivation to perform at their highest level.

While acknowledging that Kohli's aggressive approach occasionally appeared excessive, Kapil suggested that it may have been an essential part of the former captain's success.

SANJU SAMSON Recalls Family's Bold Move That Changed Career

MUMBAI

India wicketkeeper-batter Sanju Samson has revealed that a bold decision taken by his father to relocate the family from Delhi to Kerala proved to be the defining moment in his cricketing journey. Speaking about his early struggles in Delhi's highly competitive cricket system, Samson said the move gave him the opportunity that eventually helped him establish himself in Indian cricket.

Samson, who enjoyed a memorable campaign earlier this year by playing a key role in India's victorious T20 World Cup campaign on home soil and earning the Player of the Tournament award, admitted that his recent form has not been ideal. He managed scores of five and zero in the T20I series against Ireland before registering just one run in the rain-abandoned opening T20I against England in Durham.

Despite the recent setbacks, the experienced batter is expected to play an important role when India face England in the second T20 International at Old Trafford.

Recalling his childhood, Samson said he always dreamed of representing Delhi after seeing fellow young cricketers wearing the Delhi state team's training jackets. Motivated by that ambition, he attended selection trials, participated in state camps, and consistently scored runs in age-group cricket.

Although he reached the final stages of selection on multiple occasions, Samson was unable to secure a place in the Delhi state team due to intense competition. He remembered returning home after one unsuccessful trial when his father, Viswanathan, made a life-changing decision that altered the family's future.

According to Samson, his father immediately announced that the family would relocate to Kerala. While his mother suggested waiting until the children completed their schooling, his father insisted that the move could not be delayed. Within days, the family packed their belongings, boarded a train, and shifted to Kerala, where Samson began representing the Kerala state cricket team.

The wicketkeeper-batter credited that decision with giving his career a fresh direction, saying it marked the true beginning of his professional cricket journey. He acknowledged the immense sacrifice made by his parents, especially his father, who prioritised his son's sporting ambitions over personal convenience.

Sooryavanshi will do wonders for India, don't pressurise him': Chaminda Vaas

HYDERABAD

Former Sri Lanka fast bowler Chaminda Vaas, currently serving as the official mentor of the Palamuru Strikers in the Telangana T20 League (TG20), believes teenage batting sensation Vaibhav Sooryavanshi has all the ingredients to enjoy a successful international career but urged fans and experts not to burden the 15-year-old with unrealistic expectations. Vaas said India has consistently produced world-class young cricketers over the years and expressed confidence that Sooryavanshi will eventually establish himself in the national side if allowed to develop naturally.

Well, India has produced so many young talent over so many years. And this new sensation, Sooryavanshi, is still young, and I am sure he will get the opportunity to play for India and do well, but one thing I will ask of the people is that he is still young and not to pressurise him, and I am sure he will do wonders for Indian cricket.

Sooryavanshi, who grabbed headlines by amassing 776 runs at a staggering strike-rate of 237.30 to bag the Player-of-the-Tournament honour in IPL 2026 for Rajasthan Royals, is currently eyeing a much-anticipated international debut for India in the ongoing five-match T20I series against England. Sooryavanshi was unused in Ireland, as India suffered a shock 2-0 series loss.

Vaas also lauded the TG20, saying tournaments of this nature are crucial in identifying and nurturing young talent while providing aspiring cricketers with a pathway to the IPL and eventually the Indian team.

Hyderabad Cricket Association organizing the first Telangana T20 is good for the youngsters, and there's so much potential I can see with all the teams. Especially if you take Palamuru Strikers, there are quite a few youngsters coming through the ladder, and I'm really pleased with their performance, but even though as a team we didn't perform, there are a few individuals striking really well, He said.

Asked to compare the TG20 with other domestic T20 competitions across the country, Vaas said India's cricketing ecosystem has become a benchmark in developing young players by ensuring regular competitive opportunities at the state level.

Indian cricket has done a great job for youngsters, and not only in Hyderabad, I think every state they organize a T20 tournament and give so much exposure, so much opportunity, as well as the experience to get into IPL, and that's how most of the cricketers have come up. And it's really good to see the youngsters are stepping into the next level, he added.

FIFA Retains Scheduled Kickoff Times for WC Matches

NEW YORK

FIFA has decided to retain the originally scheduled kickoff times for Sunday's FIFA World Cup Round of 16 matches despite earlier concerns that severe weather conditions could force changes to the match schedule. The decision brings clarity for teams, broadcasters and supporters ahead of two highly anticipated knockout fixtures.

According to a source familiar with the discussions, the Round of 16 clash between Mexico and England at the Azteca Stadium will begin as planned at 6 p.m. local time (0000 GMT). Likewise, the match between Brazil and Norway in New York is also expected to proceed according to its original schedule, with kickoff set for 4 p.m. local time (2000 GMT).

Weather forecasts had prompted FIFA officials to review the timing of Sunday's fixtures, particularly the match in Mexico City. Organisers were monitoring the situation closely to ensure the safety of players, officials and spectators while minimising disruption to the tournament schedule.

Reports in Mexican media suggested that FIFA had considered moving the Mexico versus England encounter to 12 noon local time in an effort to avoid the expected adverse weather later in the day. Such a move would have significantly altered preparations for both teams and affected tournament logistics.

The possibility of rescheduling one fixture also had implications for the second Round of 16 match. A spokesperson for the Brazilian Football Confederation had indicated that if the Mexico versus England game had been brought forward, Brazil's match against Norway in New York could have been delayed by an hour to accommodate broadcasting and operational requirements.

Anush Agarwalla Wins Silver at Prestigious German Dressage Event

NEW DELHI

Indian dressage rider Anush Agarwalla continued his impressive performances on the international stage by securing the silver medal in the CDI Prix St. Georges event at the Cavalliero Dressage Days held in Hagen, Germany. The achievement further underlines his growing reputation as one of India's finest equestrian athletes competing at the highest level.

Riding Straight Horse Floriana, Agarwalla produced a composed and technically sound performance to earn a score of 70.147 per cent, finishing second among a competitive field of 22 riders. His consistent partnership with Floriana once again proved decisive, with the duo surpassing the coveted 70 per cent mark to secure a place on the podium.

The silver medal adds another significant milestone to Agarwalla's successful European campaign and reinforces his credentials in international dressage.

Parthiv Praises Shreyas Match-Saving Captain's Knock

Former India wicketkeeper-batter Parthiv Patel has praised India captain Shreyas Iyer for his composed and intelligent innings in the rain-affected opening T20 International against England, saying the knock demonstrated the skipper's maturity, game awareness and ability to adapt to difficult situations.

Leading the Indian side in the first match of the series at Chester-le-Street, Iyer scored a crucial 68 runs from 47 deliveries after India suffered an early collapse. The visitors were reduced to 6 for 2 within the opening two overs, placing immediate pressure on the middle order. Despite the difficult start, Iyer steadied the innings with a measured approach while allowing his batting partners to play more aggressively. Abhishek Sharma played an explosive innings of 59 runs from just 24 balls, while Shivam Dube remained unbeaten on 42 from 21 deliveries. Their contributions, combined with Iyer's captain's knock, helped India recover to post a competitive total of 189 for 7 in their allotted 20 overs.

However, continuous rain after India's innings prevented England from beginning their chase. As a result, the match was abandoned without a ball being bowled in the second innings, forcing both teams to settle for a no-result. Reflecting on Iyer's performance, Parthiv Patel said the India captain displayed excellent awareness of the match situation. Instead of attempting to dominate from the outset, Iyer chose to rotate the strike, build partnerships and support the aggressive stroke play of Abhishek Sharma from the other end.

Patel observed that critics questioning Iyer's place in the T20 side would have found reassurance in the captain's innings. According to him, Iyer has already established himself as a proven performer in the format and showed that he could adjust his game according to the team's requirements rather than focusing solely on attacking cricket.

The former wicketkeeper added that modern Indian batters, influenced by the fast-paced nature of franchise cricket, often rely heavily on boundary-hitting. In contrast, Iyer demonstrated that strike rotation, well-placed boundaries and sensible shot selection remain equally valuable, particularly when rebuilding an innings after early setbacks.

Patel described the innings as a masterclass in understanding match conditions and ground dimensions. He also suggested that the lessons learned during India's recent T20 matches against Ireland had helped the team improve its approach and make better tactical decisions.

Commenting on the team's overall batting display, Patel said India needed such a performance after an inconsistent start to the tour in Ireland. He believed there had been questions about the team's ability to adapt to varying conditions and alter its strategy when required.

West Indies Eye Early Breakthroughs With Second New Ball

QUEENSTOWN

West Indies are aiming to make immediate inroads with the second new ball on the second morning of the second and final Test against Sri Lanka after the visitors dominated the opening day's play with an impressive batting display in North Sound.

Sri Lanka ended the first day in a commanding position at 338 for 5, recovering strongly after an early setback through a magnificent innings of 188 by Lahiru Udara and a crucial 215-run partnership for the third wicket with Kamindu Mendis. Their resilience placed the visitors in control after they had suffered a heavy defeat by an innings and 217 runs in the opening Test of the series.

Despite Sri Lanka's dominance for most of the day, West Indies bowling coach Ravi Rampaul believes the second new ball, which is only three overs old, offers his side an opportunity to regain momentum when play resumes.

Speaking after the close of play, Rampaul said the team's primary objective is to exploit the conditions with the relatively new ball and strike early. He pointed out that the home side had bowled well with the new ball at the start of the innings, reducing Sri Lanka to 25 for 2 within the first eight overs, demonstrating that disciplined bowling could produce results.

Rampaul stressed the importance of claiming at least two wickets quickly on the second morning to expose Sri Lanka's lower order. He also underlined the need for the bowlers to maintain a balance between attacking for wickets and defending against easy scoring opportunities. According to him, controlling the economy rate while maintaining consistent pressure will be vital if West Indies are to prevent Sri Lanka from building an even bigger first-innings total.

The West Indies camp has some encouragement from the closing stages of the opening day. Sri Lanka captain Dhananjaya de Silva was dismissed with just the second delivery after the second new ball became available at the beginning of the 81st over.

LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles Knight Riders registered an impressive six-wicket victory over Texas Super Kings in their Major League Cricket (MLC) 2026 clash on Friday, ending a disappointing three-match losing streak with a confident all-round performance. Chasing a target of 174, the Knight Riders reached 175 for 4, powered by composed half-centuries from Colin Munro and Rovman Powell.

The victory significantly boosted Los Angeles Knight

Riders' position in the tournament standings, lifting them from sixth to fourth place. In a rare situation midway through the competition, all six teams are now level on six points, with net run rate emerging as the only factor separating them on the table.

Lionel Messi Urges Argentina to Improve After Narrow Victory

MIAMI

Argentina captain Lionel Messi admitted his side have 'many things to correct' after surviving a major scare to defeat Cape Verde 3-2 after extra time and book their place in the Round of 16 of the 2026 FIFA World Cup.

The defending champions needed an extra-time own goal, forced by Messi's corner, to overcome a spirited Cape Verde side after being pushed back twice during a thrilling contest at the Miami Stadium on Saturday. Argentina will now face Egypt in the last 16.

Reflecting on the performance, Messi stressed that qualification alone was not enough and said the team must learn from their mistakes ahead of the knockout stages.

Today, we put in a huge effort, as always, playing well and playing badly, just like we always say, but I think the important thing now is to rest, think about what's coming next and try to take positives from today's game.

Beyond just qualifying, I think there are positives because we did some good things, and we also need to correct the bad ones, which I think were many today as well, Messi said after the match as quoted by ESPN.
