Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls

No interference in Election Commission process

Around 4.5 crore caste and income certificates issued

"The government will not interfere in the SIR process. The Opposition is worried because the government is creating awareness about the process on such a large scale."

—D.K. Shivakumar, Chief Minister

BENGALURU

Karnataka Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar on Monday dismissed allegations by NDA leaders of large-scale irregularities in the ongoing Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls, asserting that the state government would not interfere in the Election Commission's exercise.

The remarks came after a delegation of BJP and JD(S) leaders, including Union Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy, Pralhad

Joshi, Shobha Karandlaje and Opposition leaders R. Ashoka and Chalavadi Narayanaswamy, submitted a memorandum to Chief Electoral Officer V. Anbukumar alleging serious violations of SIR guidelines.

The delegation claimed Booth Level Officers (BLOs) were not conducting mandatory door-to-door verification and instead were collecting enumeration forms at community halls, mosques and private residences. They sought an immediate inquiry, mandatory re-verification of all forms through house-to-house visits and strict legal action against officials responsible for the alleged lapses.

Rejecting the charges, Shivakumar maintained that the government had no role in the revision process and accused the Opposition of attempting to create confusion.

He said nearly 4.5 crore people had already obtained caste and income certificates online, making it easier for citizens to participate in the exercise. Responding to allegations of illegal Bangladeshi migrants being enrolled, the Chief Minister challenged the Opposition to produce evidence and questioned why no action had been taken when they were in power.

Congress challenges SIR schedule, backs voter awareness

While supporting voter awareness efforts, the Congress government has maintained that it has reservations about the Election Commission's Special Intensive Revision (SIR) schedule. Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar said the party has already presented its arguments before the court and will continue to pursue legal remedies against the timeline of the exercise. Despite its objections, the government says it is cooperating with the Election Commission to ensure eligible voters do not lose their franchise. Shivakumar maintained that protecting voting rights remains the government's priority and insisted there has been no interference in the Election Commission's independent electoral revision process.

What is the controversy?

The BJP-JD(S) alliance has alleged that Booth Level Officers failed to conduct mandatory house-to-house verification during Karnataka's Special Intensive Revision of electoral rolls and instead collected forms at common locations, violating Election Commission guidelines. The alliance fears such practices could compromise the accuracy and integrity of the electoral rolls. The Chief Electoral Officer has already instructed officials to ensure strict compliance with the prescribed door-to-door verification process, while the Congress government has denied any involvement and maintained that the revision is being carried out independently by the Election Commission.

PM Modi begins Indonesia visit amid warm welcome

JAKARTA

Prime Minister Narendra Modi received a rousing welcome from members of the Indian diaspora in Jakarta on Sunday as he began the first leg of his three-nation tour, with enthusiastic chants of "Bharat Mata ki Jai" and "Modi, Modi" filling the airport.

Indonesian President Prabowo Subianto personally received the Prime Minister at the airport, where a cultural performance was also showcased as part of the ceremonial reception. Indonesian Air Force fighter jets escorted the PM's aircraft as it entered Indonesian airspace, marking a formal and high-profile welcome.

- Visit duration: July 6–8
- Trade volume: USD 24.78 bn (FY 2025–26)
- Indian firms in Indonesia: 130+
- Indonesia nickel reserves: 21% global share

The visit marks PM Modi's fourth trip to Indonesia and the first bilateral visit since ties were elevated to a Comprehensive Strategic Partnership in 2018. Over 130 Indian companies currently operate in Indonesia across multiple sectors, strengthening economic and cultural links between the two nations.

"During this visit, President Prabowo Subianto and I will hold discussions aimed at adding momentum to our partnership across diverse sectors."

—Narendra Modi, Prime Minister

The Prime Minister interacted with excited members of the Indian community, many of whom expressed joy at meeting him in person for the first time. "This is the first time I saw PM Modi up close. I am super excited," said one diaspora member.

Indonesia is India's second-largest trading partner in the ASEAN region, with growing cooperation in critical minerals, trade, and technology. Indonesia holds around 21% of global nickel reserves and is a key supplier of copper, bauxite, and tin, making mineral cooperation a major focus area of the visit.

R. ASHOKA DEMANDS INDUSTRIES SHIFT TO BARREN LANDS

ANEKAL

Leader of the Opposition R. Ashoka on Monday urged the Karnataka government to stop acquiring fertile agricultural land for industrial and layout projects, insisting that barren land should be utilised instead and future development be directed towards North Karnataka.

Addressing farmers protesting against the Karnataka Industrial Areas Development Board (KIADB) land acquisition at Sarjapura in Anekal taluk, Ashoka alleged that the KIADB was forcibly acquiring farmers' land despite court intervention. He said many affected farmers own only small holdings and depend on silk cultivation and vegetable farming for their livelihoods. "Industries should not come up on fertile agricultural land. The government must identify barren land for such projects. Instead of concentrating industries around Bengaluru, they should be established in North Karnataka to ensure balanced regional development," he said. Ashoka also criticised the government's continued expansion of layouts around Bengaluru, warning that unchecked urbanisation would damage groundwater resources and lakes.

"Industries should not be established on fertile agricultural land. Barren land must be used, and development projects should be taken to North Karnataka."

—R. Ashoka, Leader of Opposition

Farmers oppose KIADB land acquisition

Farmers in Sarjapura have been protesting against the Karnataka Industrial Areas Development Board's acquisition of agricultural land, claiming the exercise threatens their livelihoods. They argue that many families depend on silk and vegetable cultivation and fear losing their only source of income. Protesters have also questioned the issuance of fresh acquisition notices despite legal challenges. The agitation has drawn support from BJP leaders, who have accused the state government of ignoring farmers' concerns and demanded that industries and layouts be developed on barren land instead of productive farmland.

Parameshwara warns of drought-like situation, seeks advance NDRF funds

BENGALURU

Deputy Chief Minister G. Parameshwara on Monday said Karnataka is facing a drought-like situation, with several reservoirs reaching dead storage levels, and announced that the state will seek advance assistance from the National Disaster Response Fund (NDRF) to tackle the emerging crisis.

Speaking to reporters, Parameshwara said he and Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar had already directed officials to prioritise drinking water for people and livestock while preparing contingency measures for worsening conditions. The Deputy Chief Minister said review meetings had been held in Belagavi, Chitradurga and Tumakuru districts, where officials were instructed to conserve available water exclusively for drinking purposes.

He expressed hope that rainfall over the next few days would improve the situation. "Rain has begun in parts of the Malnad region, and inflows into the KRS reservoir have started. If reservoirs receive sufficient inflow, drinking water shortages can be avoided," he said.

Relief measures intensified

The Karnataka government has stepped up drought preparedness by directing district administrations to conserve water, distribute fodder kits and establish fodder banks and goshalas in vulnerable areas. Officials have been instructed to monitor water availability closely and ensure uninterrupted drinking water supply for people and livestock.

Fund row: Ram Mandir Trust accepts resignations of Champat Rai, Anil Mishra

AYODHYA

The Shri Ram Janmabhoomi Teerth Kshetra Trust on Monday accepted the resignations of general secretary Champat Rai and member Anil Mishra following allegations of irregularities in donation management linked to the Ram Mandir project.

The decision was taken after a detailed discussion lasting over three hours at a meeting held inside the Ram Janmabhoomi complex guest house. Seven of the nine permanent members of the Trust, including chairman Nritya Gopal Das, were present. Both Rai and Mishra were absent from the meeting.

According to officials, Krishna Mohan has been appointed as the interim general secretary of the Trust.

The announcement was made by treasurer Govind Giri after the meeting concluded. The Trust is also expected to review the ongoing SIT probe into allegations of donation-related financial irregularities and consider further administrative changes if required.

Sources said the meeting also discussed internal restructuring and possible appointments to key positions within the temple administration. A large number of media personnel gathered outside the venue awaiting an official statement as proceedings continued.

The meeting was initially planned at Mani Ram Das Chhawani but was later shifted to the Ram Janmabhoomi complex citing security reasons. Tight security arrangements were in place, with additional police deployment along routes leading to the temple site.

The developments come amid heightened scrutiny over alleged mismanagement of donations, with authorities continuing investigations into the matter while the Trust moves ahead with administrative changes.

WhatsApp delays username rollout after Centre's concerns

New Delhi: Meta-owned WhatsApp has been granted three additional days to respond to the Centre's notice over its proposed username feature and has assured the government that it will not roll out the feature in India until consultations are completed. The government had raised concerns that the feature, which allows users to communicate without sharing phone numbers, could increase risks of online fraud, phishing, impersonation and digital arrest scams. According to sources, WhatsApp sought more time to submit its response to the IT Ministry. The company has assured authorities that the feature will remain on hold pending discussions. The Centre has also issued similar notices to Telegram and Signal over their username features.

Cabinet expansion buzz builds in K'taka

All eyes on the second round before Ashada

Shyam Sundar Vattam
CH NEWS

With the auspicious calendar fast running out, political activity in Karnataka has shifted from the corridors of Vidhana Soudha to whispered conversations in legislators' lounges and the drawing rooms of party leaders.

The possibility of the second phase of the State Cabinet expansion before July 15 has sparked intense lobbying, speculation and anticipation among Congress legislators.

The timing is considered crucial. Ashada, which begins on July 16, is traditionally regarded as an inauspicious period for major ceremonies and political events. Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar, known to be deeply spiritual and someone who pays close attention to religious customs, is believed to be keen on completing the long-pending Cabinet expansion before the commencement of the month-long period.

Although ministerial aspirants have been making every possible effort to reach the Chief Minister, sources say they have been firmly advised against visiting his residence solely to press for Cabinet berths. The message from the Chief Minister's Office has reportedly been clear: avoid public lobbying and maintain party discipline.

Behind the scenes, however, political calculations are in full swing. Legislators who missed out during the first round of Cabinet formation continue to nurture hopes of finally making it to the ministry. At the same time, several first-time and second-term MLAs believe the leadership is inclined to reward fresh faces instead of recycling veterans who have already enjoyed ministerial positions in previous Congress governments.

Interestingly, former Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has maintained a studied distance from the exercise. MLAs who sought his intervention are understood to have received a polite but firm response.

"The Cabinet expansion is entirely between the party high command and the Chief Minister. I have nothing to offer in this matter," Siddaramaiah is learnt to have told those seeking his recommendation.

Sources within the party indicate that Shivakumar has already held multiple rounds of consultations with the Congress high command in New Delhi and is believed to have secured broad approval for the proposed list. If there are no last-minute political or regional adjustments, the expansion could take place within the next ten days.

The expected reshuffle is also likely to reflect the Congress leadership's strategy for the 2028 Assembly elections by providing opportunities to younger legislators, regional representatives and leaders from under-represented communities. Senior leaders who have previously served as ministers may have to make way for a new generation of faces. The race, however, remains intense. "We have worked tirelessly for the party and stood with the leadership during difficult times. If the high command considers my name, I will discharge the responsibility with complete dedication," said one hopeful MLA, requesting anonymity.

Another first-time legislator remarked, "The Congress promised to encourage young leadership. We believe this is the right opportunity to give fresh energy to the government."

A senior legislator, who narrowly missed a berth during the first expansion, said, "I am not lobbying. The leadership knows my experience and contribution. Whatever decision the party takes, I will respect it."

For now, the Congress leadership has maintained complete silence, but within the party, every phone call, every meeting and every visitor is being closely watched. Until the official announcement is made, Karnataka's political circles will remain consumed by one question: who will make the final cut before the Ashada deadline?

Public seeks revision of vehicle towing charges

CH NEWS, BENGALURU
Citizens have voiced concerns over the recently introduced vehicle towing charges, claiming the fees are disproportionately high compared to traffic fines. Under the current system, two-wheelers parked in no-parking zones attract a total penalty of 1,150, including a 500 fine and a 650 towing charge. For cars, the towing fee is 1,000. Residents pointed out that the earlier towing charges were 200 for two-wheelers and 300 for cars, making the revised rates a significant burden on middle-class motorists. They have urged the authorities to review and rationalise the towing fees in line with traffic regulations and public affordability.

Sub-Registrars seek 1-yr deferment of digital transfer counselling

In a fresh representation submitted to the government last week, the association sought postponement of the new transfer system by one year.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Less than a month after the Karnataka government introduced digital counselling-based transfers for the Stamps and Registration Department, the Karnataka State Stamps and Registration Department Officials' Association has urged the government to postpone its implementation by one year, citing practical and administrative difficulties.

The government notified the Karnataka Civil Services (Counselling-based Transfers in the Stamps and Registration Department) Rules, 2026 on May 27 to introduce transparency in transfers and curb lobbying, bribery and undue influence in securing lucrative postings, particularly in Bengaluru.

Before finalising the rules, the government considered a seven-page representation submitted by the association following the draft notification issued on April 27. Acting on its suggestions, the government exempted office-bearers of recognised employees' associations during their tenure, officials with less than one year of service before retirement, and approved separate seniority lists for Senior Sub-Registrars and Sub-Registrars.

In its latest representation, however, the association said that although it supports the digital counselling-based transfer policy, implementing it during the current academic year would create avoidable hardships. It pointed out that the counselling process, originally scheduled between April and June, has not yet commenced, making it impossible to complete the exercise within the prescribed timeline.

The association said the transfer process involves preparation of vacancy lists, inviting options from eligible officials, verification of seniority and eligibility, counselling, and issue of transfer orders. Completing all these stages within the current transfer cycle would be difficult. It also highlighted the personal difficulties faced by employees whose children have already secured admissions to schools and colleges for the ongoing academic year. Mid-year transfers would compel many families to relocate, disrupting children's education and increasing financial burdens.

The association has requested the government to continue transfers this year under the existing general transfer policy and implement the digital counselling-based system from the next financial year after adequate planning. However, the demand has drawn opposition from several Sub-Registrars, who argue that delaying the reform would only benefit influential officials accustomed to securing postings in high-revenue offices, especially in Bengaluru Urban and Bengaluru Rural districts.

They contend that the new digital counselling system will ensure transparent, merit-based transfers and eliminate discretionary practices that have long plagued the department. "The reform is intended to protect honest officers and ensure fairness in postings. It should be implemented without any further delay," a Sub-Registrar said. The government is yet to take a final decision on the association's latest request.

Rural students' education will remain top priority: S.T. Somashekar

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

MLA S.T. Somashekar on Monday said improving the educational standards of children in rural areas would continue to be a top priority and urged students to make the best use of opportunities provided to them. Speaking after distributing 2,000 notebooks and 600 school bags free of cost to students from around 13 government schools in Chunchanakuppe Gram Panchayat of the Yeshwantpur Assembly constituency, Somashekar encouraged students to excel academically and become responsible citizens.

He said students should utilise the facilities provided by the government and society to achieve academic success and bring pride to their parents, schools and the community.

The MLA also recalled that around 1,800 students from government and private schools in the constituency who secured top ranks in the SSLC and PUC examinations were recently honoured under a talent award programme and provided financial assistance. Specially abled beneficiaries were presented with wheelchairs, walking sticks, hearing aids and other assistive devices during the programme.

Bengaluru South Taluk Panchayat Executive Officer Narayan, TPO Suresh, PDO K.G. Purushottam, former Gram Panchayat President Gangarevanna, Block Congress President Revanna Siddaiah, and several local leaders and public representatives attended the event.

Kharif sowing reaches only 43% target as erratic monsoon slows farm activity

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Karnataka's kharif sowing has covered only 36.5 lakh hectares against the seasonal target of 84.1 lakh hectares, achieving just 43 per cent of the planned acreage, according to Agriculture Department data available up to July 3. The slow pace reflects the impact of patchy and delayed monsoon across several parts of the state, raising concerns over a possible drought-like situation if rainfall does not improve soon.

District-wise figures highlight sharp regional disparities. Chikkaballapur has recorded the lowest sowing coverage at just 9 per cent of its target, followed by Bengaluru Rural at 24 per cent. Neighbouring Kolar has also reported poor progress, while Bengaluru Urban and Dakshina Kannada, despite their relatively smaller cultivable area, continue to trail behind normal levels.

Overall sowing remains significantly below last year's 50.6 lakh hectares, representing a decline of nearly 28 per cent. However, it is still about 94 per cent of the state's five-year average, indicating that the situation, though worrying, has not yet reached drought proportions. Foodgrain crops

Court orders Amazon refund after camera buyer receives perfume instead

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A Bengaluru consumer has won a case against Amazon after ordering an action camera worth nearly ₹39,000 but receiving a perfume gift set instead. Holding the e-commerce platform liable for deficiency in service, the Bengaluru District Consumer Disputes Redressal Commission directed Amazon to refund the purchase amount with interest and pay litigation costs.

The complainant, S. Chiragvendra, a 21-year-old resident of Nagarabhavi II Stage, had ordered an Insta360 Ace Pro 2 Action Camera priced at ₹38,990 on July 12, 2025. The parcel was delivered two days later, but instead of the camera, it contained a Bellavita perfume gift set.

Chiragvendra immediately lodged a complaint with Amazon through its customer care and by email. Although the company arranged for the incorrect parcel to be picked up on July 15, no refund was processed.

After serving a legal notice on July 21 seeking a refund, compensation for mental agony and reimbursement of legal expenses, Chiragvendra approached the Consumer Commission on August 20, alleging negligence in handling his grievance.

Amazon contested the complaint, arguing that the product had been sold by an independent third-party seller, Clicktech Retail Private Ltd., which had issued the invoice. It also contended that the complaint had incorrectly named Amazon Seller Pvt. Ltd. instead of its registered corporate entity, Amazon Seller Services Pvt. Ltd.

The Commission rejected these arguments, observing that customers transact through Amazon's platform and cannot be expected to distinguish between the marketplace and individual sellers. It noted that the company had repeatedly maintained that the correct product had been delivered despite the complainant's evidence.

The Commission remarked that an online marketplace cannot evade responsibility by merely claiming to be an intermediary after facilitating the transaction, likening the platform to a shopping mall that remains accountable for services provided through its premises.

The season's uneven start, driven by patchy and delayed monsoon across Karnataka's dryland regions, has left foodgrain sowing lagging sharply, while cotton and sugarcane continue to outperform normal trends.

have been the worst affected. Cereal sowing has reached only 27 per cent of the target, while pulses have achieved 44 per cent, taking overall food grain coverage to 34 per cent. Among major crops, ragi has recorded only 1 per cent of its 8.2 lakh-hectare target, while wheat sowing is yet to begin.

In contrast, commercial crops have shown strong performance. Cash crops have achieved 76 per cent of their target and stand at 121 per cent of the five-year average. Cotton has emerged as the stand-out performer, reaching 141 per cent of its normal acreage, reflecting farmers' preference for irrigated and commercially

Rainfall outlook raises drought concerns

Former Karnataka State Natural Disaster Monitoring Centre (KSNDMC) Director and meteorologist G.S. Srinivasa Reddy said rainfall during the crucial monsoon period has remained below normal and forecasts indicate that significant rainfall may not continue beyond the second week of July. Since July typically contributes the highest share of Karnataka's seasonal rainfall, any prolonged deficit could severely impact agriculture and water resources. While drought declaration depends on several parameters, including rainfall, reservoir levels and crop conditions, he cautioned that continued rainfall deficiency would increase the likelihood of drought-like conditions across several districts.

viable crops amid uncertain rainfall. Sugarcane cultivation has also remained relatively stable.

Fake WhatsApp profile used to cheat B'luru firm

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A Bengaluru-based real estate company has lost ₹65 lakh in an impersonation scam after cyber fraudsters allegedly created a fake WhatsApp profile using the photograph of the firm's managing director and tricked an accountant into transferring the money.

According to a complaint filed by B.K. Rajendran, Managing Director of Mythreyi Promoters and Developers Pvt.

Ltd., the fraud began on June 26, when the company's accountant, Yashwanth, received a WhatsApp message from a mobile number displaying Rajendran's name and profile picture.

Believing the message to be genuine, Yashwanth responded. The sender first sought the company's bank statement and later instructed him to urgently transfer ₹65 lakh to a specified bank account, claiming it was an official business transaction.

Trusting the instructions, Yashwanth transferred the amount through RTGS from the company's account on June 29.

The fraud surfaced only after the accountant informed Rajendran about the transfer.

On verification, the beneficiary account was found to belong to Fly Hind Tours and Travels Pvt. Ltd., revealing that fraudsters had impersonated the company owner through a fake WhatsApp profile.

ALARMING REALITY CHECK

Street Atlas maps Bengaluru's roads, exposes widespread footpath gaps

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Even before the Supreme Court reaffirmed pedestrians' right to safe footpaths and Karnataka launched its pavement reclamation drive, the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) had begun a citywide exercise to digitally map the city's road and pedestrian infrastructure.

Since March, the GBA has been carrying out a Geographic Information System (GIS)-based survey of Bengaluru's 1,300 km arterial and sub-arterial road network to prepare a comprehensive "Street Atlas", which officials describe as the city's first digital database of road and pedestrian infrastructure. The survey, undertaken with urban planning organisation Sensing Local, supported by WRI India and the Sustainable Mobility Network (Bengaluru), aims to provide a scientific baseline for future road planning and infrastructure investment.

So far, more than 750 km of roads have been surveyed. Since both sides of every road are assessed separately, nearly 1,500 km of footpaths have been documented.

The preliminary findings reveal that Bengaluru's biggest pedestrian challenge is not always the lack of space but the poor quality and continuity of footpaths. Around 680 km of the surveyed footpaths are wider than 2.5 metres, indicating that many major roads have adequate pedestrian space. However, the survey has identified extensive stretches of damaged pavements, missing footpaths, encroachments and physical obstructions that compromise pedestrian safety.

Survey teams are documenting a wide range of street features, including carriageway width, pavement height and surface quality, pedestrian crossings, bus shelters, public toilets, streetlights, signage, bollards, tactile paving for the visually impaired, medians, traffic islands, seating, tree cover and other roadside infrastructure. Data is being collected at 100-metre intervals and will be integrated into a dedicated GIS platform that will help authorities identify infrastructure gaps and prioritise investments.

GBA Chief Engineer (Planning and Coordination) K. Hemalatha said the survey is expected to be completed by the end of July. "This will become Bengaluru's baseline GIS layer for road infrastructure. We have already mapped projects executed under different government grants, this database will help us identify gaps, plan future interventions and ensure optimum utilisation of public funds," she said.

The field survey has been carried out by students from BMS College of Architecture, Dayanand Sagar College of Architecture, RV College of Architecture, SJB School of Architecture and Planning, NITTE, Acharya NRV School of Architecture, Sir M. Visvesvaraya School of Architecture and Christ University, Yeshwanthpur.

Heavy rain winds damages 15 houses in Udupi

UDUPI

Heavy rain accompanied by strong winds lashed several parts of Udupi district, Karnataka, causing widespread damage to property. At least 15 houses were partially damaged across multiple taluks, including Kundapur, Byndoor, Kapu, Brahmaravar and Karkala. Roofs were blown off in some locations, while trees fell on houses in others, leading to significant financial losses to residents. Local administration and revenue officials visited affected areas to assess damage and initiate relief measures. Continuous rainfall has disrupted normal life in coastal Karnataka, with authorities monitoring vulnerable regions and urging residents to remain cautious as further rain is forecast in the district.

Karkala residents protest by planting saplings in Potholes

Residents in Karkala staged a unique protest by planting saplings in potholes on a badly damaged road, highlighting the poor condition of the stretch and demanding immediate repair from authorities.

The protest was held on a road where commuters said movement has become extremely difficult due to large and unfilled potholes. Locals alleged that despite repeated complaints, no repair work has been undertaken, forcing daily road users to face hardship and safety risks.

Frustrated over the continued neglect, residents gathered at the site and planted small saplings inside the water-filled potholes as a symbolic act of protest. They said the gesture was intended to draw attention to the slow response of civic authorities and the worsening state of infrastructure.

According to protesters, the road has remained in a damaged condition for a long time, making travel risky for motorists, especially two-wheelers. They also pointed out that during rains, the potholes become filled with water, increasing the chances of accidents and vehicle damage.

Locals expressed anger that repeated appeals to repair the road have not yielded results. They said the protest was a peaceful way to highlight public suffering while urging officials to take urgent action.

The demonstration drew attention from passersby, with many supporting the residents' demand for better road maintenance. Protesters warned that if repairs are not taken up soon, they would intensify their agitation in the coming days.

They also appealed to local representatives and municipal authorities to inspect the road condition personally and allocate funds for immediate restoration. The symbolic planting of saplings in potholes has once again highlighted civic issues in the region, reflecting growing public frustration over infrastructure delays and lack of timely maintenance.

Farmers announce ‘Bidadi Chalo’ protest on July 11

Farmer leader K.T. Gangadhar said Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha and Hasiru Sene oppose fertile land acquisition for development

SHIVAMOGGA

Farmers' organisations in Karnataka have announced a statewide protest called "Bidadi Chalo" on July 11, opposing what they describe as the state government's anti-farmer land acquisition policies for township development projects.

Speaking at a press conference, farmer leader K.T. Gangadhar said the Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha and Hasiru Sene strongly oppose the acquisition of fertile agricultural land under the guise of development. He said the movement is being organised in solidarity with farmers resisting land acquisition in Bidadi.

Gangadhar clarified that the farmers' organisation is not against development, but opposes what he termed the conversion of agricultural land for real estate-driven township projects. He specifically cited opposition to the proposed acquisition of 7,481 acres in Bidadi and 1,800 acres in Sarjapura hobli's Jangamanakate area.

He alleged that such projects could destroy rural livelihoods and urged the government to reconsider its approach. According to him, development should be decentralised across districts instead of concentrating large-scale concrete township projects that may displace farming communities.

The leader also appealed to political parties not to encourage land-related transactions that adversely affect farmers. He stressed the need to make agriculture more sustainable and profitable while creating

Farmers mark “Land Acquisition Resistance Day” on July 21

Farmers in Karnataka will observe July 21 as "Land Acquisition Resistance Day," marking the annual remembrance of the Nargund-Navalgund farmers' uprising. This year, they plan to stage a protest in front of the Deputy Commissioner's office against the state government's land acquisition process.

Farmer leader K.T. Gangadhar said the demonstration aims to oppose policies they believe threaten agricultural land and farmers' livelihoods. The protest is expected to draw attention to long-standing concerns over land acquisition and its impact on rural communities in the region.

Schools, anganwadis closed in Mudigere due to rain

CHIKKAMAGALURU

Heavy rainfall accompanied by strong winds has been reported across parts of the Malnad region, prompting authorities to declare a holiday for schools and anganwadis in Mudigere taluk of Chikkamagaluru district as a precautionary measure.

Continuous downpour over the past several hours has led to waterlogging in low-lying areas and increased concerns over landslides and falling trees, which are common during intense monsoon conditions in the hilly terrain. Officials said the decision was taken to ensure the safety of children in view of worsening weather conditions.

The district administration issued an order announcing the closure of educational institutions in Mudigere taluk, including government and private schools as well as anganwadi centres. Parents and residents have been advised to avoid unnecessary travel until weather conditions improve.

Local authorities and disaster response teams have been placed on alert, and monitoring of vulnerable zones is underway. Revenue and panchayat officials have been instructed to keep a close watch on areas prone to landslides and flooding, particularly along hill slopes and riverbanks. Residents in several parts of Malnad reported strong winds causing minor damage to houses and vegetation. In some areas, tree branches were reported to have fallen on roads, temporarily disrupting vehicular movement.

MLA B.K. Sangameshwar assures restoration of stalled social security pensions within two months after verification process completion.

Deprived beneficiaries to get pensions in two months: MLA

BHADRAVATI

Beneficiaries who have been deprived of social security schemes such as old-age pension, disability allowance, and widow pension need not worry, as their benefits will be restored within the next two months, said MLA B.K. Sangameshwar.

He was speaking at a public convention held at Kanaka Mantapa ground in Old Town Bhadravati for those who have been left out of welfare schemes.

The MLA assured that government officials are working to ensure eligible beneficiaries receive their entitlements without further delay.

Sangameshwar said the Congress government's objective is to ensure that all welfare schemes reach every eligible citizen. He added that officials and party workers will work together to deliver benefits directly to beneficiaries' doorsteps.

He also warned against middlemen exploiting applicants, stating that citizens should not pay any money to agents or officials to access schemes.

He said applications would be verified and official sanction letters issued after due process.

Municipal councillor B.K. Mohan said delays in pension disbursement had caused difficulties for many beneficiaries, and the MLA had organised the convention to address their grievances.

MLA Sunil Kumar slams unilateral Ambedkar Bhavan panel formation

UDUPI

Karkala MLA and former minister V. Sunil Kumar has strongly criticized what he described as the unilateral formation of a supervisory committee for the management and oversight of Ambedkar Bhavan, calling it unacceptable and against proper procedure.

Speaking on the issue, Sunil Kumar said the committee overseeing the construction and management of the Ambedkar Bhavan has been constituted in a one-sided manner without adequate consultation with all stakeholders. He argued that such decisions should be taken in a transparent and inclusive way, ensuring fairness in representation.

He said Ambedkar Bhavan is an important public institution linked to social welfare objectives and should not be subjected to politically influenced or biased decision-making. According to him, any governance structure for the facility must reflect broad participation and balanced representation from concerned communities and authorities.

The MLA further stated that unilateral decisions in matters of public infrastructure and welfare institutions undermine democratic processes and erode public trust. He urged the authorities to revisit the composition of the supervisory committee and ensure that due process is followed.

Sunil Kumar also emphasised that Ambedkar Bhavan projects are meant to serve social and educational purposes and must remain free from political interference. He called for a more consultative approach involving elected representatives, officials, and community stakeholders.

The statement comes amid ongoing discussions in the region regarding the management and development of Ambedkar Bhavan facilities. Local organisations have in the past raised concerns over delays, site selection, and administrative decisions related to such projects.

Authorities have not yet issued a detailed response to the MLA's remarks. The issue is expected to continue drawing attention as stakeholders debate the structure and functioning of the supervisory committee.

HILLSIDE EROSION DANGER

Heavy rains trigger landslide in Bantwal

BANTWAL

Continuous heavy rainfall over the past three to four days has triggered a landslide in the Kodibettu area near Talapadi-Ponnodi under Bantwal municipal limits in Dakshina Kannada district, putting several homes at risk.

According to residents, soil erosion occurred at multiple points on a hillside near the settlement, leaving at least four houses in a vulnerable condition. Around 25 people, including 10 children, are currently living in the affected houses, raising serious safety concerns among locals.

Residents said the situation worsened after the rain-soaked soil gave way, following alleged unscientific excavation of the hillside.

They claimed that parts of the hill were cut using heavy machinery without proper stabilisation measures, and no retaining wall was constructed afterwards, increasing the risk of further collapse.

Locals alleged that they had earlier warned against cutting the hillside, but their concerns were ignored. They further said that the area now resembles a steep, unstable slope, making it highly prone to additional landslides if rainfall continues.

One resident, Nasir Kodibettu, said the absence of proper slope protection has left the area dangerous, adding that authorities must urgently construct a retaining wall to prevent further damage.

He also alleged negligence in addressing repeated warnings from the community.

Residents added that a nearby tree has begun to tilt dangerously and could fall at any time, increasing the risk to nearby houses. They also said the landslide has damaged access roads, making movement difficult and unsafe, especially for children attending school.

Parents in the area expressed fear for their children's safety as they are forced to travel through a vulnerable zone. Locals have urged elected representatives and district officials to inspect the site immediately and take preventive measures before any major disaster occurs.

Mangaluru has about 53,000 stray dogs; a rehabilitation centre is planned at Bondanthila with RS1 crore allocation

MANGALURU

Health and Family Welfare Minister U.T. Khader expressed concern over the increasing number of stray dogs in urban areas, even after annual sterilisation drives are being carried out.

He was chairing a disaster management and drinking water review meeting at the Deputy Commissioner's office in Mangaluru, where legislators and senior officials were present.

Khader questioned officials on why the stray dog population continues to rise despite regular sterilisation surgeries. He noted that the issue appears to be more severe in urban areas compared to rural regions.

Responding to the minister's concerns, Mangaluru City Corporation Commissioner Ravichandra Naik said that the problem is partly due to pet dog owners abandoning puppies on streets, which then contribute to the stray population despite sterilisation efforts.

Officials informed that Mangaluru city alone has an estimated 53,000 stray dogs. The corporation has identified 12.5 acres of land in Bondanthila for a proposed rehabilitation centre, with ₹1 crore allocated in the budget. are being planned in Puttur and Bantwal.

nue, PWD, RDPR, MES-COM, fire and police services for effective disaster management during the monsoon season.

He also reviewed delays in highway works and instructed officials to improve coordination with central agencies. The minister assured that issues would be taken up with the Union Road Transport Ministry if required.

BJP races to retain majority in Thiruvananthapuram Corporation

Thiruvananthapuram

The BJP's fight to secure bail for jailed Thiruvananthapuram Corporation Councillor, R. Sugathan, has acquired enormous political significance, with the party battling against time to protect its wafer thin majority in Kerala's largest civic body. Sugathan, detained under the Kerala Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act (KAAPA), is preparing to move the Kerala High Court after the KAAPA Advisory Board delayed its decision on his bail plea despite hearing the matter on June 29. The urgency stems from another legal hurdle. The High Court had recently disqualified 20 councillors of the Thiruvananthapuram Corporation for violating their oath of office and directed them to take the oath afresh within four weeks.

Fadnavis Urges Warkaris to Avoid Flood-Hit Alandi amid Crisis

Maharashtra Chief Minister appealed for caution as severe flooding disrupted pilgrim routes and intensified emergency response across the state

MUMBAI

Maharashtra Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis on Monday appealed to Warkaris and devotees travelling to Alandi to immediately halt at safe locations due to severe flooding caused by the swollen Indrayani River. With all four bridges leading into Alandi completely submerged, the Chief Minister urged pilgrims to avoid entering the town and instead join the annual Wari procession from Pune city.

Addressing the worsening flood situation, Fadnavis stressed that the safety of devotees and residents remains the government's highest priority. He instructed Warkaris and citizens to strictly follow directions issued by the district administration, police authorities, and disaster management teams.

The Chief Minister also advised devotees to skip visits to both Dehu and Alandi until conditions improve, warning that attempts to enter the flood-affected areas could put lives at risk. Warkari groups that have already reached Pune were requested to remain within the city limits and avoid travelling towards flooded regions.

Fadnavis cautioned people against believing rumours or unverified information circulating on social media and appealed to citizens to rely only on official updates issued by government agencies. He also urged the public to stay away from riverbeds, ghats, submerged roads, and bridges that have been closed because of dangerous water levels.

As heavy rainfall continues across several parts of Maharashtra, the Chief Minister said the state government has placed the entire administrative machinery on high alert. He assured citizens that emergency response teams are working around the clock and that 24-hour control rooms have been activated to provide immediate assistance during emergencies.

The government has operationalised multiple emergency helplines to assist affected residents. Citizens can contact the State-Level Main Control Room through the toll-free number 1070, while district-level control rooms have activated the toll-free number 1077 across Maharashtra to coordinate local rescue and relief operations. Additional mobile and telephone helplines have also been made available for emergency support.

Fadnavis said authorities have been instructed to take extra precautions in landslide-prone and other vulnerable areas where continuous rainfall has increased the risk of disasters. He appealed to people not to panic and to seek assistance promptly through official emergency channels whenever required.

Earlier in the day, while addressing the Maharashtra Legislative Assembly, the Chief Minister informed lawmakers that all emergency response agencies have been placed on the highest level of preparedness. He noted that the India Meteorological Department had issued red alerts for multiple districts, warning of extremely heavy rainfall accompanied by wind speeds ranging between 70 and 90 kilometres per hour.

Assam Announces Two New Gauhati HC Benches

GUWAHATI

Assam Law Minister Susanta Borgohain on Monday announced in the State Assembly that new benches of the Gauhati High Court will be established in Dibrugarh and Barak Valley. The decision is expected to significantly improve access to justice for people living in Upper Assam and the southern districts of the state by bringing judicial services closer to litigants.

The announcement fulfils a long-pending demand, particularly from Barak Valley, where lawyers, political parties, civil society organisations, and residents have been seeking a permanent bench of the Gauhati High Court for several decades. The region, comprising the districts of Cachar, Sribhumi, and Hailakandi, is situated nearly 300 kilometres from Guwahati, making travel to the principal High Court bench both time-consuming and expensive.

For years, litigants and advocates from Barak Valley have been compelled to undertake frequent journeys to Guwahati to attend court proceedings. The long-distance travel has often resulted in increased litigation costs, delays in legal proceedings, and inconvenience for individuals seeking timely justice. The establishment of a permanent bench is expected to address these challenges by allowing many cases to be heard closer to the region.

Assam government approved new High Court benches to improve judicial access for residents of Upper Assam and Barak Valley

The proposed High Court bench in Dibrugarh is also expected to benefit residents of Upper Assam. Litigants from districts in the region currently depend on the principal bench in Guwahati for High Court matters, requiring extensive travel. Once operational, the Dibrugarh bench is expected to make judicial services more accessible and reduce the burden on citizens pursuing legal remedies.

According to legal experts, decentralising the functioning of the High Court will not only improve convenience for litigants but also contribute to faster disposal of cases. The creation of additional benches is expected to strengthen judicial infrastructure, reduce travel time and litigation expenses, and encourage more efficient case management across the state.

V.D. Satheesan urged humanity to embrace compassion and peace while inaugurating a major spiritual centenary celebration in Kerala

SATHEESAN CALLS FOR COMPASSION AT WORLD PEACE CENTENARY EVENT

THIRUVANANTHAPURA

Calling for a world guided by compassion instead of conflict, Kerala Leader of the Opposition V. D. Satheesan on Monday said that true spirituality lies in standing beside those who suffer and offering hope to people facing hardship. He made the remarks while inaugurating the Vishwa Shanthi Sandesha Yajnam organised as part of the birth centenary celebrations of Navjyothisree Karunakara Guru at the Santhigiri Ashram.

Addressing a large gathering at the Ashram, Satheesan said the world is currently witnessing an unprecedented period of wars, humanitarian crises, and social unrest, making the Guru's teachings of universal love, peace, and brotherhood more relevant than ever. He stressed that spirituality should not be confined to rituals or religious practices but should be reflected in acts of kindness, compassion, and service towards those experiencing pain and adversity.

Speaking about his personal connection with the Guru's philosophy, Satheesan recalled that he was first introduced to Karunakara Guru through the celebrated literary work Gurusagaram by renowned writer O. V. Vijayan. He noted that the author had described himself as a tiny fish that had reached the vast ocean that was the Guru, illustrating the profound spiritual influence that Karunakara Guru had on those who encountered his teachings.

Satheesan said the Guru opened new dimensions of spiritual consciousness by promoting ideals of universal love, harmony, and peace through humanitarian initiatives such as community feeding, social service, and spiritual awakening. According to him, these values continue to inspire people across communities and remain relevant in addressing the challenges facing modern society.

Drawing comparisons between the devastation caused by the First and Second World Wars and the conflicts taking place around the world today, he expressed concern over the persistence of violence and intolerance. He said that only a philosophy rooted in universal humanism, mutual respect, and compassion could provide a lasting path towards peace and coexistence.

GANDHINAGAR

Gujarat Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel on Monday paid floral tributes to Syama Prasad Mookerjee on his 125th birth anniversary, describing the founder of the Bharatiya Jana Sangh as an eminent nationalist thinker whose ideals of national unity and public service continue to inspire generations.

Patel offered flowers before Mookerjee's oil portrait at the podium of the Gujarat Legislative Assembly during a commemorative programme attended by senior legislators, elected representatives and government officials.

In a message posted on social media platform X, the Chief Minister said Mookerjee had fought till his last breath for the complete integration of Kashmir and for equal civil rights for all citizens.

Syama Prasad Mookerjee's vision of ending the policy of 'one country, two constitutions, two prime ministers and two flags' has been realised today under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. Mookerjee's ideals and his spirit of 'Nation First' will continue to keep the flame of dedication towards the motherland forever alive in everyone's hearts, he said.

Syama Prasad Mookerjee, born on July 6, 1901, was an educationist, parliamentarian and politician.

He served as the youngest Vice-Chancellor of the University of Calcutta, became independent India's first Minister for Industry and Supply in Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's cabinet, and later founded the Bharatiya Jana Sangh in 1951 after resigning from the Union government.

His political legacy is closely associated with his advocacy of national integration and his opposition to the special constitutional status then in place for Jammu and Kashmir.

He died in custody in Srinagar in 1953 after being arrested while entering the erstwhile state without a permit.

The Central government has been observing the 125th birth anniversary of Mookerjee through a two-year nationwide commemoration programme, highlighting his contributions to politics, education, industry and public life.

Among those present at the Gujarat Legislative Assembly were Deputy Speaker Purnesh Modi, Chief Whip Balakrishna Shukla, MLAs Rita Patel and Alpesh Thakor, Gandhinagar Mayor Mira Patel, city BJP president Dr Ashish Dave, the Deputy Mayor, municipal office-bearers, Gujarat Legislative Assembly Secretary Pandya and other officials.

The tribute in Gandhinagar formed part of observances held across the country to mark Mookerjee's 125th birth anniversary.

Assam Budget to Outline Five-Year Development Vision, Says Sarma

GUWAHATI

Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Monday said the state Budget, scheduled to be presented later this week, will serve as a comprehensive economic roadmap for the next five years. He stated that the Budget would be centred on fulfilling the commitments made in the election manifesto of the BJP-led alliance while laying out a long-term vision for the state's development.

The Budget session of the Assam Legislative Assembly commenced on Monday, marking the first financial session after the BJP-led alliance returned to power for a third consecutive term in the state. The government views the upcoming Budget as a significant policy document that will define its development priorities for the next term.

Speaking to reporters, Sarma said the Budget, which will be presented by Finance Minister Jayanta Mallabrahua on July 10, would go beyond routine annual financial allocations. Instead, it would outline a broader strategy aimed at accelerating Assam's economic growth over the next five years.

According to the Chief Minister, the government has designed the Budget around the promises made to the people during the Assembly elections. He said it would provide a clear direction for the state's future while focusing on sustainable development, investment promotion and inclusive economic progress.

Sarma identified agriculture, industrial expansion, micro, small and medium enterprises, self-help groups, employment generation and renewable energy as the government's priority sectors. He noted that these areas would receive significant policy attention as the administration seeks to strengthen Assam's economy and generate new opportunities for citizens.

The Chief Minister said the Budget would introduce several initiatives aimed at encouraging investments, supporting entrepreneurship, expanding employment opportunities and enhancing the state's overall economic competitiveness. He added that the government intends to ensure that the benefits of economic growth reach both urban centres and rural communities alike.

He further emphasised that the administration is committed to balanced development across multiple sectors while creating an environment conducive to long-term investment and industrial growth. Strengthening the livelihoods of farmers, supporting small businesses and promoting renewable energy are expected to be among the major themes of the Budget.

Ram Temple probe given to SIT, not central agencies due to BJP ‘rift’, claims Akhilesh Yadav

LUCKNOW

Samajwadi Party (SP) chief Akhilesh Yadav on Monday launched a veiled attack on the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), alleging that the investigation into the alleged Ram Temple donation theft case was entrusted to a Special Investigation Team (SIT) instead of central agencies such as the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) due to an internal power struggle within the party.

Addressing a press conference here, Akhilesh Yadav, without naming the BJP, suggested that it had two centres of power -- one in Lucknow and the other in Delhi and alleged that the handling of the investigation was influenced by this internal rivalry.

Offerings, donations, and contributions have fallen into the hands of a gang of thieves. They are unable to face the public's anger. As you mentioned, they are afraid of public outrage, which is why they are staying indoors, he said.

You mentioned the ED, CBI, and Income Tax. You did not understand what I said. I said this is a power struggle. This gang of thieves, who thrive on offerings and donations, is unable to face the public's outrage. They are terrified of this backlash, which is why they are staying holed up at home, he said, addressing the reporters.

Elaborating on his allegation, Akhilesh Yadav questioned why the matter was not investigated by central agencies.

You haven't quite grasped the point regarding the ED, CBI, and Income Tax departments. I was talking about a power struggle. If the ED, CBI, or Income Tax were involved, who would be controlling the investigation? Before the Delhi leadership could even react, the Lucknow faction seized control of everything. Can't you understand even that much? What is this SIT? To whom was the report submitted? You fail to grasp even this simple fact, he said.

The former Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister further alleged that the choice of the investigating agency itself reflected the internal political dynamics within the ruling party.

If it were the ED, CBI, or Income Tax, who would hold the reins of the investigation? And in whose hands does the SIT investigation lie?... All of this is happening because of a power struggle. There is a saying: 'Give a man power, and you will see his true character', Akhilesh Yadav stated.

Govt Amends Legal Metrology Rules For High Capacity Scales

NEW DELHI

The Department of Consumer Affairs has amended the Legal Metrology (General) Rules, 2011 to reduce the mandatory standard weight requirement for verification of high-capacity weighing instruments by introducing a scientific, repeatability-based verification approach, an official statement said on Monday. The move will cut compliance burden for industries, warehouses, logistics operators and weigh-bridge owners as well as lower transportation and handling costs to move large quantities of standard weights, the statement from Ministry of Consumer Affairs, Food & Public Distribution said. The amendment replaced the earlier rule that required standard weights of at least one tonne or 50 per cent of an instrument's maximum capacity whichever was greater with a scientific, repeatability based approach.

NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday praised the simplicity, humility and grounded nature of senior BJP leader Nitin Nabin, sharing a social media post that highlighted his modest student life in Delhi. The Prime Minister's remarks came amid a heated political exchange between the Bharatiya Janata Party and the Opposition, which has led to a fresh war of words over recent allegations and counter-allegations.

Sharing a post written by one of Nabin's college friends, who is now a noted journalist, Modi described the leader's simplicity and straightforwardness as a matter of pride for every BJP worker. The post portrayed Nabin as someone who remained grounded despite coming from a political family and never sought special treatment because of his background.

According to the journalist, he first met Nabin in 1998 when he moved to Delhi to pursue higher education after completing their Class 12 examinations. Although Nabin was the son of a sitting legislator from Bihar, he reportedly never projected his family's political status or attempted to use it for personal advantage.

The journalist recalled that the two shared a modest lifestyle while studying in the national capital. They often lived on limited resources, splitting inexpensive meals to reduce daily expenses and travelling on Delhi Transport Corporation buses instead of opting for costlier modes of transport. The account described Nabin as someone who preferred ordinary living and avoided displaying any sense of privilege.

In another post, the journalist narrated their days in Delhi's IP Extension locality, where Nabin and a group of friends rented modest accommodation in Patpar-ganj because they could not afford a larger or more comfortable residence. He wrote that Nabin followed a strict monthly budget of around Rs 2,000, covering rent, food and educational expenses through careful planning and disciplined spending.

The journalist further recalled that the group shared household responsibilities equally, including preparing breakfast, washing utensils and cleaning their room. According to him, Nabin never hesitated to contribute to routine chores and maintained a disciplined lifestyle throughout his college years.

Describing his longtime friend, the journalist said Nabin was known for being disciplined, approachable and unassuming.

England Defeat Mexico to Reach Third Straight World Cup Quarterfinal

MAXICO

England produced a determined and resilient performance to defeat co-hosts Mexico 3-2 in a dramatic FIFA World Cup Round of 16 encounter at the Azteca Stadium. Despite being reduced to ten men early in the second half, Thomas Tuchel's side held their nerve to secure a place in the quarterfinals for the third consecutive World Cup. The victory also ended Mexico's remarkable record at the iconic stadium, handing the hosts their first-ever FIFA World Cup defeat at the Azteca. England will now face Norway in the quarterfinals after the Scandinavian side stunned Brazil with a 2-1 victory earlier in the day.

The match, delayed by an hour because of thunderstorms, began in a charged atmosphere as a packed home crowd urged Mexico forward from the opening whistle. The hosts dominated the early exchanges and created their first major opportunity in the 15th minute when Raul Jimenez met a cross with a diving header. However, England goalkeeper Jordan Pickford produced an outstanding save to keep the scores level. Pickford's appearance was another significant milestone as he equaled Peter Shilton's record of 17 FIFA World Cup appearances for England's men's national team. The experienced goalkeeper continued to play a vital role throughout the contest with several crucial interventions.

England gradually settled into the match and struck first just after the half-hour mark. Midfielder Jude Bellingham opened the scoring with a superb diving header after meeting an inviting cross from Bukayo Saka. The goal shifted momentum in England's favour.

Only two minutes later, Bellingham doubled England's advantage with his second goal of the evening. Captain Harry Kane provided the assist following another well-worked attacking move down the right flank, giving the visitors a commanding 2-0 lead.

kayo Saka. The goal shifted momentum in England's favour. Only two minutes later, Bellingham doubled England's advantage with his second goal of the evening. Captain Harry Kane provided the assist following another well-worked attacking move down the right flank, giving the visitors a commanding 2-0 lead.

Mexico refused to surrender and quickly responded. Winger Julian Quinones reduced the deficit by volleying home from close range after England failed to clear a dangerous free-kick situation, reigniting hopes among the passionate home supporters. England nearly restored their two-goal cushion shortly after halftime when Nico O'Reilly struck the post. However, the match took another dramatic turn in the 54th minute when defender Jarell Quansah received a red card following a Video Assistant Referee review. His high-footed sliding challenge on Jesus Gallardo left England with ten players, making him only the fourth English footballer to be sent off in a FIFA World Cup match. Despite the numerical disadvantage, England remained composed and continued to threaten on the counter-attack. Their persistence paid off when Anthony Gordon raced clear on goal and was brought down by Mexican goalkeeper Raul Rangel inside the penalty area. Harry Kane stepped up and calmly converted the resulting spot kick to restore England's two-goal advantage.

Ten changes for South Africa as they take on Scotland

PRETORIA

South Africa rang the changes to their team for the weekend's Nations Championship clash with Scotland, after starting the new competition with a resounding 45-21 win over England last Saturday, including a first start in eight years for scrumhalf Embrose Papier. Only five players kept their places after coach Rassie Erasmus on Monday rotated his side, having earlier said he wanted to give as many players as possible exposure to test rugby ahead of the 2027 World Cup. But some changes were also enforced by injury after captain Siya Kolisi and lock Eben Etzebeth pulled out of the starting line-up ahead of the clash against England in Johannesburg while prop forward Ox Nche was hurt in the game and substitute Andre Esterhuizen had to be taken off.

Pieter-Steph du Toit retains the captaincy after deputising for Kolisi and Paul de Villiers, Jesse Kriel, Ruan Nortje and Damian Willemse feature again for Saturday's clash at Loftus Versfeld. De Villiers made his debut after a late call-up in place of Kolisi, who hurt a hamstring and did not pass a pre-match fitness test.

The backline named by Erasmus has a fresh look to it, with Aphelele Fassi forming a back three with Edwill van der Merwe and Canan Moodie, while Kriel joins forces with Willemse in the midfield and Bulls teammates Handre Pollard and Papier form the halfback pairing on their home ground. Papier last played for the Boks in 2018 but was recalled after a stellar season in the United Rugby Championship for the Bulls. We have good depth in our squad, and this will be a great test for the team, said Erasmus as he named the side. We told the players from the outset that we would give as many of them a chance as possible to play this season, while we are also trying to manage some players, while others are not available for selection this week, so it was important to select a team with some continuity from last week, while bringing in players we believe will be the right fit for what we are expecting from Scotland, he added.

Team: 15-Aphelele Fassi, 14-Edwill van der Merwe, 13-Jesse Kriel, 12-Damian Willemse, 11-Canan Moodie, 10-Handre Pollard, 9-Embrose Papier, 8-Evan Roos, 7-Pieter-Steph du Toit (captain), 6-Paul de Villiers, 5-Ruan Nortje, 4-Cobus Wiese, 3-Wilco Louw, 2-Johan Grobbelaar, 1-Boan Venter. Replacements: 16-Jan-Hendrik Wessels, 17-Ntuthuko Mchunu, 18-Zach Porthen, 19-Ben-Jason Dixon, 20-Vincent Tshituka, 21-Elrigh Louw, 22-Grant Williams, 23-Quan Horn.

Ferrari chief Fred Vasseur urged caution despite recent victories strengthening the team's Formula One title ambitions this season.

Ferrari Stay Grounded Despite Renewed Formula One Championship Challenge

LONDON

Ferrari team principal Fred Vasseur has played down growing speculation about the team's Formula One championship prospects despite the Italian constructor securing its second victory in three races at the British Grand Prix. While Ferrari's recent resurgence has significantly narrowed the gap to championship leaders Mercedes, Vasseur insisted that the team remains focused on continuous improvement rather than title talk.

Ferrari celebrated another memorable weekend after Charles Leclerc claimed victory at the British Grand Prix, just a month after teammate Lewis Hamilton secured a win at the Spanish Grand Prix. The impressive results have reignited hopes that Ferrari could mount a serious challenge for both the Drivers' and Constructors' Championships during the remainder of the season. Despite the recent success, Ferrari still trails Mercedes by 78 points in the Constructors' Championship standings. In the Drivers' Championship, seven-time world champion Lewis Hamilton occupies third place, sitting 32 points behind Mercedes driver Kimi Antonelli, who continues to lead the standings. Leclerc, meanwhile, is fourth overall and trails his Ferrari teammate by seven points while remaining 39 points behind the championship leader.

Addressing questions about Ferrari's growing momentum,

Vasseur rejected suggestions that the team had suddenly become a championship favourite. He recalled how opinions surrounding Ferrari had shifted dramatically over recent races, with some declaring the team back in title contention after the Spanish Grand Prix before others dismissed their chances following a less successful outing in Austria. The Ferrari chief stressed that maintaining a balanced perspective was essential for the team. According to Vasseur, Ferrari has made encouraging progress but still has considerable work ahead before it can consistently challenge for championships.

He emphasized that the team's focus would immediately shift to the upcoming Belgian Grand Prix at Spa-Francorchamps rather than celebrating recent victories.

WASHINGTON

The United States' FIFA World Cup campaign took a dramatic and controversial turn as FIFA suspended the match ban imposed on striker Donald Trump reportedly following a personal appeal by the American President to FIFA President Gianni Infantino to review the disciplinary decision.

The unprecedented development has placed FIFA's disciplinary procedures under intense global scrutiny while triggering criticism from Belgium, who are scheduled to face the United States in their Round of 16 clash for a place in the quarterfinals. The decision has quickly become one of the tournament's most debated issues, shifting attention away from on-field preparations to questions surrounding the relationship between international football administration and political influence. Within minutes of FIFA's announcement, sports broadcasts and discussion panels across the world were dominated by reactions from former players, analysts, and commentators. While some viewed the decision as a fair exercise of FIFA's disciplinary discretion, others questioned whether the governing body had compromised the integrity and consistency of its own rules.

FIFA did not immediately respond to requests seeking clarification regarding the circumstances surrounding the reported conversation between Trump and Infantino or the reasoning behind the disciplinary review. The lack of further explanation has added to the growing debate over the transparency of the governing body's decision-making process.

Balogun had been shown a red card during the United States' 2-0 victory over Bosnia and Herzegovina after a Video Assistant Referee review determined that he had planted his boot on the ankle of defender Tarik Muharemovic. The dismissal came despite protests from United States head coach Mauricio Pochettino, who maintained that the challenge did not warrant a straight red card.

The 25-year-old forward had been in outstanding form before the incident, scoring his third goal of the World Cup during the same match. His suspension was expected to rule him out of the crucial knockout encounter against Belgium, creating a significant setback for the American side. According to a source familiar with the matter, President Trump contacted FIFA President Infantino and requested that world football's governing body reconsider the decision. Although FIFA has not overturned the original red card, it has suspended the immediate implementation of the one-match ban under the provisions of Article 27 of the FIFA Disciplinary Code.

In an official statement, FIFA explained that the suspension of the sanction would remain in effect for a probationary period of one year. Should Balogun commit another offence of similar nature and severity during that period, the suspended punishment would automatically be reinstated in addition to any further disciplinary action arising from the new incident.

Spurs sign Tonali for a club-record £100 million

LONDON

Tottenham Hotspur announced the signing of midfielder Sandro Tonali from fellow Premier League club Newcastle United on Monday, as media reports said the move set a transfer record for Spurs with a deal worth up to £100 million ($133 million).

Tottenham paid an initial fee of £92.5 million for the Italy international, the reports added. The undisclosed transfer fee represents the second-largest fee ever received for a player in Newcastle United's history, said Newcastle, who had sold Alexander Isak to Liverpool for £125 million last September.

The 26-year-old played a key role as Newcastle reached the Champions League round of 16 for the first time last season. He joined Newcastle in 2023, helped them win the League Cup in 2025 and signed a contract extension until 2029. I'm very happy to be here (at Spurs). When I arrived at the club today, it felt fantastic. People said about there being four or five clubs - there was only one, Tonali said in a statement.

Spurs, who finished 17th last season, have also signed Mateus Fernandes from West Ham United to bolster their midfield.

SANTA CLARA

European soccer body UEFA has lashed out at FIFA's decision to suspend U.S. striker Folarin Balogun's red-card ban in the World Cup, after U.S. President Donald Trump called FIFA to ask it to review the case, saying world soccer's governing body had crossed a red line and undermined the integrity of the game.

We express our disbelief at such an unprecedented, incomprehensible and unjustifiable decision, UEFA said in a statement on Monday. When the certainty of rules is no longer guaranteed by its guardians, the integrity of the game is at stake and the credibility of a competition is undermined. Balogun, who has scored three goals for the U.S. in the tournament, was sent off after a VAR review for dragging his cleats down the back of defender Tarik Muharemovic's leg and onto his foot during their win over Bosnia in the round of 32.

Trump had asked FIFA president Gianni Infantino to review Balogun's red card, which would have automatically suspended the player from Monday's round of 16 clash with Belgium. FIFA suspended the implementation of the ban for a probationary period of one year, however, without rescinding the red card.

The stunning move has thrust FIFA's disciplinary process into the spotlight and prompted an angry response from the Royal Belgian Football Association (RBFA), which said it was astonished by FIFA's decision. The Athletic reported that the RBFA has written to FIFA to lodge an appeal in the matter.

FANS UPSET AFTER DEFEAT

Brazil's World Cup Exit Deepens Fans' Growing Tournament Frustration

RIO DE JANEIRO

Brazilian football fans were left heartbroken after the national team's 2-1 defeat to Norway in the FIFA World Cup Round of 16 extended the country's long wait for another global title. Thousands of supporters gathered at Rio de Janeiro's famous Copacabana Beach to watch the match, but the picturesque setting offered little comfort as Brazil suffered a sixth consecutive early exit from the tournament.

The defeat ended Brazil's hopes of winning a record-extending sixth FIFA World Cup title, a feat the nation has been chasing since lifting the trophy in 2002. The latest elimination also marked Brazil's worst

World Cup finish since 1990 and prolonged their longest-ever title drought to six successive editions of the competition. Supporters expressed frustration not only with the result but also with the team's inability to capitalize on crucial opportunities during the match. Many believed Brazil had enough chances to secure victory but lacked the clinical finishing needed in knockout football.

One of the defining moments came early in the first half when midfielder Bruno Guimaraes failed to convert a penalty. Brazil also came close to scoring through young forward Endrick but was unable to find the breakthrough. Fans pointed to those missed opportunities as the turning point of the contest.

Norway, on the other hand, made the most of their chances. Star striker Erling Haaland delivered another outstanding performance, scoring twice in the second half to inspire his side to a famous victory. His brace took his tournament tally to seven goals, placing him among the leading scorers of the competition. Many supporters watching at Copacabana reflected on Brazil's inability to punish their opponents when they had control of the game.

Several described the defeat as a familiar story in which missed chances eventually proved costly against an efficient opponent.

The spotlight also turned toward Brazil head coach Carlo Ancelotti, who was managing the national team in his first major international tournament. While the Italian arrived with an impressive club coaching résumé, some fans questioned his tactical approach and suggested that his emphasis on defensive organization did not align with Brazil's traditional attacking style.

Critics argued that generations of Brazilian teams built their success on creative, attacking football, and they felt the current side lacked the freedom and ambition that have historically defined the national team.

Ola Electric shares fall over 5 percent

MUMBAI

Ola Electric Mobility shares declined more than 5 per-cent in intra-day trading after reports emerged that two of its suppliers have approached the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) seeking insolvency proceedings over alleged unpaid dues exceeding ₹40 crore. The suppliers, Sterling and Anevolve Mando, claim overdue payments from Ola Electric Technologies, prompting legal action. The NCLT Bengaluru bench is expected to hear the petitions shortly. The development added pressure on the stock, which was already under market scrutiny amid earlier payment-related disputes. Despite broader market gains, Ola Electric shares continued to underperform, reflecting investor concerns over financial stress and supplier relations.

Hyundai Oilbank indicted in major price fixing case

SEOUL

South Korean prosecutors have indicted HD Hyundai Oilbank and two of its officials in a major price-fixing case involving petroleum products after the outbreak of the US–Iran war. The alleged collusion, valued at around 26 trillion won, is said to have involved coordinated price hikes alongside other refiners, including SK Energy, GS Caltex, and S-Oil. Authorities claim the companies exploited global energy price surges to artificially raise domestic fuel prices and restrict competition. Some firms were not indicted under leniency provisions. The case also includes allegations of unfair contracts with gas stations and destruction of evidence during regulatory inspections.

Strong loan growth to drive Indian banks' profitability

NEW DELHI

Strong growth in bank lending is expected to remain the key driver of profitability for Indian banks, even as net interest margins (NIMs) are likely to remain stable or slightly decline in the first quarter of FY27, according to a report released on Monday. The report by Systematix Institutional Equities noted that banking system advances grew 17.7% year-on-year as of May 2026, a sharp increase compared to 9% growth recorded in May 2025. This marks the highest annual loan growth rate since June 2024, indicating a strong credit demand cycle. It added that earnings growth for banks is expected to accelerate in Q1FY27, projected at over 13.7% (excluding select large lenders), compared to 11.9% in the previous quarter. This improvement is expected to be driven primarily by robust loan expansion and lower provisioning requirements. Among different segments, the services sector led credit growth with a 20.4% rise, driven largely by non-banking financial companies, which surged 33.7%. Industrial lending also strengthened, rising 17.5%, with micro and small industries recording 26.2% growth.

India-New Zealand trade & tourism surge ahead FTA

India–New Zealand FTA boosts exports, tourism, agriculture, and aviation ties ahead of implementation bringing early economic gains rapidly

NEW DELHI

Export volumes and visitor arrivals from India to New Zealand have risen sharply ahead of the formal implementation of the India–New Zealand Free Trade Agreement (FTA), according to recent reports, indicating early economic gains even before the pact takes full effect. New Zealand Trade Minister Todd McClay said that the agreement has already generated a “halo effect,” with businesses and consumers responding positively to improved trade expectations. He noted that export volumes are increasing as market confidence builds around the deal’s benefits. A report cited that around 8,000 Indian visitors arrived in New Zealand in April 2026, reflecting a notable rise compared to previous years. Tourism growth is being seen as one of the early indicators of stronger bilateral engagement. Among key trade gains, apple exports from New Zealand have surged by 63 per cent in 2026 so far, increasing from 27,000 tonnes in 2024 to about 45,000 tonnes. India has now become New Zealand’s fourth-largest apple market, rising from seventh place within two years. Under the FTA, apple tariffs are expected to be reduced to 25 per cent from the day of implementation, initially covering a quota of 32,500 tonnes and expanding to 45,000 tonnes by year six. Kiwifruit will receive tariff-free access under a quota starting at 6,250 tonnes and rising to 15,000 tonnes over time. Outside quota limits, tariffs will also be reduced, providing additional relief for exporters. Forestry exports are also seeing renewed momentum, with Matariki Forests shipping logs to India for the first time since 2020, along with rising chip and pulp shipments. In the aviation sector, Air New Zealand is reportedly exploring a joint venture with Air India to potentially launch direct flights between the two countries, further boosting connectivity. Overall, the developments suggest that the India–New Zealand trade relationship is already strengthening ahead of the agreement’s enforcement, with agriculture, tourism, and aviation emerging as key beneficiaries.

Nepal's economy grew 3.51% in Q3, slowing due to weak manufacturing, agriculture, and uneven sectoral performance overall growth

Nepal's economy expanded 3.51%, slower yearly growth

- Nepal economy grows slower at 3.51
- Manufacturing and administration sectors drag growth
- Electricity and finance sectors drive expansion
- Agriculture growth weak amid paddy decline
- Structural reforms needed for stronger growth

KATHMANDU

Nepal’s economy is estimated to have expanded by 3.51 per cent in the third quarter of fiscal year 2025-26, reflecting a continued period of subdued growth, according to the country’s National Statistics Office (NSO). The growth rate is lower than the 4.05 per cent recorded in the same quarter of the previous fiscal year, highlighting ongoing challenges in sustaining post-pandemic economic recovery. Officials noted that the country has struggled to achieve a strong rebound since COVID-19, amid persistent structural and political constraints. Out of 18 major economic sectors, 16 recorded positive growth during the review period. However, manufacturing and public administration and defence registered negative performance, dragging overall momentum. Manufacturing, in particular, remained weak despite signs of partial recovery in the previous fiscal year. Experts attributed the slowdown in manufacturing to long-standing bottlenecks, reduced industrial capacity utilisation, and external shocks, including rising global energy prices. The sector reportedly operated at just over 42 per cent of installed capacity in the first half of the fiscal year. The NSO noted that higher electricity generation, increased financial sector activity, and expansion in wholesale and retail trade helped support overall growth. Electricity and gas output recorded the highest sectoral growth at 24.88 per cent, followed by financial services at 10.27 per cent and transport at 7.83 per cent. Agriculture, which remains Nepal’s largest economic sector, grew modestly by 1.58 per cent, down from 2.84 per cent a year earlier. Lower paddy production weighed on output, though gains in livestock, vegetables, fruits and forestry provided partial support. Meanwhile, wholesale and retail trade grew by 5.25 per cent, driven by increased domestic production and trade flows. Despite these gains, officials said overall growth remained moderate due to weak imports of construction materials, lower agricultural yields and uneven industrial performance. Economists warn that sustained structural reforms will be needed for Nepal to achieve stronger and more balanced growth in the coming years.

NEW DELHI

Tesla, the electric vehicle maker, has launched North India’s first in-mall EV charging facility at Nexus Select CityWalk in Delhi, marking an expansion of its charging network in India. The new facility includes six destination AC chargers rated at 11 kW each, enabling Tesla owners to charge vehicles while shopping or dining inside the mall environment. The company said the site is designed for high reliability with claimed uptime of 99.95 per cent and is located in the P1 parking area of the mall. Alongside the charging station, Tesla has set up a pop-up store from July 6 to July 10 showcasing the Model Y L and the 2026 Model Y Premium Rear-Wheel Drive. The Model Y L is a six-seater all-wheel-drive SUV with a three-row layout offering a claimed range of up to 681 km and acceleration from 0 to 100 kmph in about five seconds.

FIIIs sell $3 billion, DIIs buy $9 billion equities

FIIIs sold $3 billion in June while DIIs bought $9 billion, stabilising Indian equity markets amid global uncertainty and sustained domestic inflow strength.

NEW DELHI

Foreign institutional investors (FIIs) turned net sellers of Indian equities in June, offloading around $3 billion, while domestic institutional investors (DIIs) absorbed the selling pressure by purchasing about $9 billion worth of shares, according to a recent market report. The data, released by JM Financial Institutional, highlights a continued divergence in investor behaviour, with domestic funds providing strong support to the Indian equity market despite sustained foreign outflows. Over the past 12 months, Indian primary markets saw FII net inflows of $8.1 billion, but secondary markets witnessed much larger net outflows of $49.3 billion, indicating persistent selling pressure in listed equities even as primary issuances attracted capital. Sector-wise, BFSI (banking, financial services and insurance), capital goods, pharmaceuticals, automobiles, and oil and gas remained the top five sectors in terms of FII shareholding. These sectors collectively account for about 60 per cent of total FII assets under custody in India. Within these holdings, BFSI continues to dominate with a 30.8 per cent share, up from 29.5 per cent in May. Capital goods stood at 7.5 per cent, while pharma rose to 7.4

- Secondary markets see heavy FII outflows per cent, reflecting selective accumulation. However, capital goods, autos, and oil and gas saw sequential declines in FII exposure. During June, BFSI recorded inflows of $357 million, followed by consumer durables at $204 million, services at $130 million, and real estate at $85 million. Market analysts say future institutional flows will depend on key macro triggers, including the progress of the monsoon season, which affects rural demand, inflation trends, and agricultural output. The upcoming Q1FY27 earnings season will also be closely watched for corporate performance signals. Global factors such as crude oil price movements and geopolitical developments, including US-Iran negotiations, are expected to influence inflation expectations and investor sentiment. Despite near-term risks and FII caution, analysts believe much of the uncertainty is already priced in, leaving scope for incremental positive triggers in the Indian equity market.

China faces heavy economic risks if Taiwan strait is blocked

NEW DELHI

China could suffer severe economic disruption if the Taiwan Strait is blocked or becomes a conflict zone, according to a report by the Washington-based Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS). The report titled “Troubled Straits: Analyzing Trade Chokepoints in the South China Sea” states that military action in or around Taiwan could have a greater economic impact on China than disruptions in other major shipping routes such as the Malacca Strait. According to the study, nearly $1.3 trillion worth of Chinese trade passes through the Taiwan Strait, making it one of the most critical maritime corridors for China’s economy. The report notes that this volume is around 33% higher than the trade flowing through the Malacca Strait. It highlights that the Taiwan Strait is not only vital for Taiwan’s economic lifeline but also essential for China’s imports of key resources such as oil, coal, natural gas, ores, and metals sourced from resource-rich regions. In 2024, about 33% of China’s total imports and 58% of its maritime imports reportedly moved through the Taiwan Strait. The strait also plays a major role in China’s internal logistics, linking major industrial hubs in the south—such as Shenzhen and Guangzhou—with economic centres in the east and north, including Shanghai, Ningbo, and Tianjin. The report warns that if maritime routes are disrupted, China could shift some transport to land routes, but at significantly higher costs.

Amarya Bajaj Clinches Dutch Junior Open Under-13 Squash Crown

AMSTERDAM

India's emerging squash talent Amarya Bajaj produced an outstanding display of skill and determination to win the prestigious Dutch Junior Open 2026 Under-13 Boys' title, marking another major milestone in his rapidly progressing career. The young player defeated England's Daniel Stevenson 3-1 in the championship match after an impressive run that saw him overcome several of the world's top junior competitors.

Amarya's title-winning campaign demonstrated exceptional consistency, confidence, and mental strength against opponents from leading squash nations. From the opening round to the final, the Indian youngster displayed remarkable composure while adapting to different playing styles and maintaining a high level of performance under pressure.

He opened the tournament with a commanding 3-0 victory over an opponent from Egypt, setting the tone for an impressive campaign. In the second round, Amarya comfortably defeated England's Arlo Smith by the same 3-0 margin, securing his place in the pre-quarterfinals with another dominant performance.

One of the biggest highlights of his tournament came in the pre-quarterfinal stage, where he stunned Singapore's top-seeded Kaelen Low, winning convincingly in straight games by a 3-0 scoreline. The victory underlined his ability to compete against some of the highest-ranked junior players in the world.

In the quarterfinals, Amarya faced another tough challenge from Egypt's Badr Hassan. Despite dropping a game, the Indian youngster maintained his composure to register a 3-1 victory and advance to the semifinals.

The semifinal proved to be one of the tournament's toughest contests, with Amarya taking on Hungary's European No. 1 Alex Kosztyu. Delivering one of his finest performances, he secured a straight-games victory to earn a place in the championship match.

Young Indian squash sensati on Amarya Bajaj claimed the Dutch Junior Open Under-13 title after defeating elite international opponents convincingly throughout.

Facing England's Daniel Stevenson in the final, Amarya once again rose to the occasion. Displaying excellent shot selection, movement, and tactical awareness, he defeated the English player 3-1 to lift the coveted Dutch Junior Open trophy.

The triumph follows closely on the heels of another significant achievement, as Amarya recently won the silver medal at the 2026 Asian Junior Championships in China. At just 13 years of age, he has already collected two Asian Junior medals and now added a major European junior title to his growing list of accomplishments.

His latest success is being viewed as an important moment for Indian squash, reflecting the emergence of a promising new generation of players capable of challenging and defeating the best young athletes on the international circuit. As Amarya continues to achieve impressive results against world-class competition, expectations are growing that he could become one of India's leading squash stars in the years ahead. His Dutch Junior Open victory further strengthens his reputation as one of the country's brightest young sporting talents and offers encouraging signs for the future of Indian squash on the global stage.

India need to experiment, take hard decisions to become trophy contenders: Reema Malhotra

NEW DELHI

Former India cricketer Reema Malhotra believes the national women's T20I team needs to make some 'hard decisions' and embrace tactical changes if they are to transition into a side capable of consistently challenging for global silverware.

Reema's comments come after Australia won their seventh Women's T20 World Cup at Lord's on Sunday. Analyzing the road ahead for the Indian women's T20I team, who failed to enter the semi-finals, Reema also stated that relying solely on individual brilliance will not suffice. You will have to do better in all three departments. You cannot remain dependent on just Shafali Verma because she has that X-factor. You also need a player like Phoebe Litchfield at number three, who, even if a wicket falls in the Powerplay, does not let the run rate drop and plays freely without the fear of losing her wicket, she said on JioStar.

She also strongly advocated for promoting explosive wicketkeeper-batter Richa Ghosh up the order to maximize her impact in the shortest format.

If you have a player like Richa Ghosh, then bat her higher up the order. You cannot have an extraordinary talent like that facing just 10 balls.

To beat Australia, teams need to be ruthless, strategically a step ahead: Saba Karim

NEW DELHI

Former India cricketer and national selector Saba Karim believes that opposing teams must adopt a more ruthless approach and out-think Australia strategically if they wish to challenge the dominant side, who won their seventh Women's T20 World Cup title.

At the iconic Lord's Cricket Ground, Australia again showed their big-game mentality when they comprehensively beat England by seven wickets in the title clash by chasing 151 with 17 balls to spare, after restricting the hosts to 150/4.

The other teams can compete with this Australian side only when they are a bit more ruthless and one step ahead of them strategically, because in a player-to-player comparison, they simply cannot match them. This is a very big lesson for India as well, that to compete against and defeat Australia, they need to think ahead about the kind of players they require, players who can score heavily in T20 internationals at a higher strike rate, Karim said on JioStar.

Praising the work ethic of veteran Australian players who refuse to stay in their comfort zones, Karim urged other international cricketers to ask themselves difficult questions to bridge the gap. Look at Ellyse Perry; this is her 10th World Cup. Why does she need to work so hard and improve her strike rate from 120 to 140? She could have stayed in her comfort zone, thinking Australia would win the World Cup even if she didn't score runs.

But she put in that effort to improve. Beth Mooney is striking at 140. That is the difference in the T20 format. Until players ask themselves uncomfortable questions, reaching that level will be difficult, he added.

He further pointed out that a timid batting approach cannot put a side like Australia under pressure. England scored only 39 runs in the Powerplay and lost two wickets. They lost half the match right there. Nat Sciver-Brunt is the captain and a brilliant batter, but she scored just 58 runs off 53 balls, at a strike rate of 109.

How can you defeat a team like Australia with such a timid approach? You need to score at least 175-180 runs in 20 overs, have that fearless approach, only then can you build pressure on this team. Contrasting England's approach with Australia's clinical run-chase, Karim highlighted how the target of 151 was brought down effortlessly in the initial overs.

Anvay Dravid's fluent 87 guided India Under-19 to a fighting total against Sri Lanka in the second Youth ODI.

Anvay Dravid Shines as India Under-19 Posts Competitive Total

HAMBANTOTA

Promising wicketkeeper-batter Anvay Dravid delivered an impressive batting performance, scoring a fluent 87 off just 67 deliveries to help India Under-19 post a competitive total of 285 against Sri Lanka Under-19 in the second Youth One-Day International at the Mahinda Rajapaksa International Cricket Stadium on Monday.

After winning the toss and electing to bat, India endured a difficult start as the top order struggled against disciplined Sri Lankan bowling. The visitors found themselves in deep trouble at 81 for the loss of four wickets in the 19th over, raising concerns about their ability to post a challenging score.

With the innings under pressure, the 17-year-old Anvay joined forces with Arjun Rajput to produce a match-defining partnership. The duo combined for an outstanding 145-run stand for the fifth wicket, rebuilding the innings with a perfect blend of aggression and caution. Their partnership not only rescued India from a vulnerable position but also laid the foundation for a strong total.

Anvay played with remarkable confidence and attacking intent throughout his innings. He struck nine boundaries and one six while maintaining a strike rate of 129.85. The young batter reached his maiden Youth ODI half-century in just 47 balls, showcasing his ability to score quickly without compromising his technique. Looking well set for a deserved century, Anvay's innings came to an end when he was dismissed by left-arm pacer Gimhan Mendis, who emerged as Sri Lanka's standout bowler with outstanding figures of five wickets for 41 runs.

At the other end, Arjun Rajput provided valuable support with a composed knock of 76 from 81 deliveries. His innings helped stabilize the middle order and ensured India recovered strongly after the early setbacks. Rajput was eventually run out following a sharp piece of fielding by Dimantha Maharithana.

Following Anvay's dismissal with the team score at 263 for seven, India lost momentum in the closing stages of the innings. The lower order failed to capitalize on the platform built by the two middle-order batters, losing the final three wickets for just 22 runs. India were eventually bowled out for 285 in 47.2 overs.

Anvay's latest performance further strengthens his growing reputation as one of India's brightest young cricketers. He recently captained Karnataka in the Vinoo Mankad Trophy, where he accumulated 220 runs, and is regarded as a strong contender for selection in India's squad for the next Under-19 World Cup. His elder brother, Samit Dravid, had earlier been named in the India Under-19 squad for the series against Australia but was ruled out because of a knee injury.
