Defence: BrahMos and Astra missile procurement agreed

Maritime: Joint development of Sabang port and stronger coast guard cooperation

JAKARTA

India and Indonesia on Tuesday elevated their Comprehensive Strategic Partnership with a series of landmark agreements covering defence, critical minerals, maritime security, digital connectivity and education following talks between Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Indonesian President Prabowo Subianto in Jakarta.

A major highlight was Indonesia's decision to procure India's BrahMos supersonic cruise missiles and Astra beyond-visual-range air-to-air missiles, marking another milestone in New Delhi's efforts to expand exports of indigenous defence equipment. The two countries also agreed to strengthen defence exchanges, disaster management and industrial collaboration, while their coast guard agencies will enhance cooperation to improve maritime security in the Indian Ocean.

On the economic front, both nations signed an agreement to deepen collaboration in critical minerals, with India set to invest in Indonesia's steel, nickel and rare earth magnet manufacturing ecosystem to diversify strategic supply chains. They also agreed to jointly develop the strategically located Sabang port near the Strait of Malacca, boost cooperation in the blue economy and integrate India's Unified Payments Interface (UPI) with Indonesia's payment system to facilitate cross-border transactions.

The agreements form part of Prime Minister Modi's three-nation Indo-Pacific tour, which includes visits to Australia and New Zealand. The expanded partnership reflects growing strategic convergence between India and Indonesia in defence, resilient supply chains, maritime security, clean energy and regional stability, while reinforcing cooperation under the ASEAN-led Indo-Pacific framework.

The leaders reaffirmed their commitment to a free, open and rules-based Indo-Pacific and emphasised ASEAN centrality. Nearly a dozen agreements were signed across agriculture, healthcare, telecommunications, space, research, innovation and election management, while the Indian Institute of Management Bangalore will establish a campus in Indonesia.

Indonesia's highest honour for PM Modi

Prime Minister Narendra Modi was conferred the Bintang Adipurna of the Republic of Indonesia, the country's highest civilian honour, by President Prabowo Subianto during his visit to Jakarta. Instituted in 1959, the award is bestowed on individuals who have rendered exceptional service to Indonesia's unity, continuity and prosperity. The honour recognises Modi's role in strengthening the India-Indonesia Comprehensive Strategic Partnership and advancing cooperation in areas such as defence, trade, maritime security, connectivity and regional engagement. Dedicating the award to the people of India, Modi said it symbolised the enduring friendship between the two nations. External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar described the recognition as a matter of pride for all Indians.

IIM Bangalore to open first overseas campus in Indonesia

The Indian Institute of Management Bangalore will establish its first international campus in Indonesia, Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Indonesian President Prabowo Subianto announced during Modi's visit to Jakarta on Tuesday. The campus will come up at Singhasari Special Economic Zone in East Java, Indonesia's first digital SEZ, following the footsteps of institutions such as King's College London, which opened a campus there in 2024. The IIMB campus will offer programmes in global supply chains, digital transformation, artificial intelligence, climate and sustainability, and healthcare, benefiting students from across the ASEAN region. The two leaders also discussed the possibility of establishing an Indian Institute of Technology campus in Indonesia.

Karnataka to assess drought before declaration, says CM

Chief Minister reviews rain-deficit situation, promises statewide assessment before taking a drought decision.

KALABURAGI

Karnataka Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar on Tuesday said the State government would take a decision on declaring drought-hit areas only after conducting a comprehensive assessment of the prevailing rain-deficit conditions across Karnataka in accordance with the prescribed legal framework.

Speaking to reporters during his visit to Kalaburagi to review the situation in Kalyana Karnataka, Shivakumar said the government was gathering first-hand information from officials, public representatives and farmers before making any announcement. He said similar inspections would be carried out in other affected regions, including Belagavi, over the coming days.

The Chief Minister interacted with local residents and received petitions from farmers, many of whom submitted dried sugarcane stalks to highlight the severity of the prolonged dry spell. Assuring them that their concerns would be addressed, he said the government wanted to assess the ground realities before arriving at a final decision on drought declaration.

"There is a legal framework for declaring areas as drought-hit. We will examine the situation across the State before taking an appropriate decision."

Responding to demands for a farm loan waiver, Shivakumar said the government would first study the nature and extent of agricultural loans before considering any relief measures. He also highlighted the creation of the new Praja Seva Department, which has been tasked with receiving and examining public grievances to ensure timely action.

The visit comes amid growing concerns over deficient rainfall in several districts, raising fears over crop losses, drinking water availability and the livelihoods of farmers across the State.

NDA delegation petitions CEC seeking intervention over SIR 'irregularities' in K'taka

NEW DELHI

A high-level National Democratic Alliance (NDA) delegation from Karnataka on Tuesday met Chief Election Commissioner Gyanesh Kumar in Delhi, alleging large-scale irregularities in the ongoing Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls in the state and seeking immediate intervention by the Election Commission.

The delegation included Union Ministers Pralhad Joshi, H.D. Kumaraswamy, Shobha Karandlaje and V. Somanna, along with Karnataka Leader of Opposition R.

Ashoka, BJP leader Arvind Bellad and other NDA representatives.

Speaking after the meeting, Joshi and Kumaraswamy said the Chief Election Commissioner assured them that the revision exercise would be conducted strictly in accordance with Election Commission guidelines.

They added that observers had already been deputed to Karnataka and that action would be taken against officials found violating norms.

The NDA submitted videos and documents alleging that Booth Level Officers (BLOs) were distributing voter enumeration forms from mosques and madrasas instead of conducting mandatory house-to-house verification.

The delegation also claimed some officials displayed partisan behaviour and cited political influence when questioned by the public.

US President Trump says Ukraine war settlement 'hopefully soon'

ANKARA

US President Donald Trump on Tuesday said he held separate discussions with Russian President Vladimir Putin and Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, expressing hope that the war in Ukraine could be resolved soon.

Speaking during a meeting with Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan on the sidelines of the NATO summit in Turkey, Trump said his conversation with Putin was lengthy and productive. "I had a very good talk with President Putin. We had a long talk, it lasted a long time.

And I also spoke with President Zelenskyy right after that. I think they both want to make a deal," Trump said.

Trump added that he believed a settlement could be reached "hopefully soon", as diplomatic efforts continue amid the prolonged conflict between Russia and Ukraine.

Zelenskyy and Trump are scheduled to meet at the NATO summit on Wednesday. The Ukrainian leader is expected to seek greater support for air defence systems to counter Russian missile attacks. The talks come amid heightened tensions, with Ukraine intensifying strikes on Russian energy infrastructure and Moscow continuing large-scale attacks on Ukrainian cities.

Wayanad landslide kills four; six feared trapped at tunnel project site

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

A massive landslide at the Kalladi tunnel project site near Meppadi in Kerala's Wayanad district on Tuesday claimed four lives, while at least six workers remained missing as rescue operations continued. Most of the victims were associated with the under-construction Wayanad-Kozhikode twin tunnel project.

The landslide, triggered after intense rainfall, swept away vehicles, including a tanker lorry, damaged houses and forced authorities to evacuate nearby residents to relief camps. Seven people sustained injuries, two of them critically, while Meppadi Sub-Inspector Santosh Kumar was also injured during rescue efforts.

Construction activity at the site had already been suspended since Monday because of heavy rain, reducing the number of workers present when the hillside collapsed. National Disaster Response Force (NDRF), Fire and Rescue Services, police and local volunteers continued search operations through the day. Chief Minister V.D. Satheesan said preliminary findings suggested that contractors had ignored directions issued by the district administration and disaster management authorities on June 20 to remove large heaps of excavated soil from the construction site.

The 8.11-km twin tunnel connecting Meppadi in Wayanad with Anakampoyil in Kozhikode is an alternative to the congested Thamarassery Ghat Road on NH-766. Once completed, the project is expected to reduce travel distance by nearly 30 km and cut journey time by about 90 minutes. However, environmental experts had earlier cautioned about the ecological sensitivity of the region and recommended strict safeguards before construction began.

DAMASCUS TWIN BLASTS

DAMASCUS

At least 18 people, including four police officers, were injured on Tuesday after two improvised explosive devices detonated in the Syrian capital, Damascus, during French President Emmanuel Macron's official visit to the country.

According to Syria's Interior Ministry, the blasts occurred near the Ministry of Tourism and close to a hotel linked to Macron's visit. Authorities said one explosive device had been hidden inside a parked vehicle, while the other was concealed in a roadside trash container. Roads around the area were immediately sealed off as security agencies launched an investigation.

Macron's office said the French President was travelling to meet Syrian President Ahmed al-Sharaa when the explosions occurred but neither heard the blasts nor faced any direct threat. Officials

CM warns officials over drought response

Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar has warned of strict disciplinary action against officials found negligent in handling Karnataka's emerging drought situation, stressing that accountability and public service cannot be compromised. Addressing the Kalaburagi Divisional-level Progress Review Meeting, he said the government's priority is to ensure transparent, inclusive and people-centric governance, with every eligible citizen receiving constitutional and civic entitlements. He directed officials to work with commitment and deliver tangible results rather than excuses, asserting that efficient officers would earn public trust while negligent ones would face action. On the ongoing electoral roll revision, he instructed Booth Level Officers to visit every household at least three times to ensure no eligible voter is left out. The Chief Minister also said Karnataka is pursuing long-term solutions to water scarcity through discussions with neighbouring States and the Centre, including a proposed ₹1 lakh crore river-linking project connecting the Krishna, Cauvery and Godavari river systems.

- Injured: 18 people
- Explosions: Two improvised explosive devices (IEDs)
- Macron's Visit: Continued as scheduled

French President Emmanuel Macron's visit marks the first by a European leader to Syria since the collapse of Bashar al-Assad's government in late 2024. The trip is aimed at strengthening diplomatic engagement with Syria's transitional leadership under President Ahmed al-Sharaa and discussing regional stability, reconstruction and security cooperation. However, Tuesday's explosions highlight the continuing threat posed by militant attacks and the challenges facing Syria as it seeks to restore normalcy after years of conflict.

Sadahalli underpass work to begin, Airport Rd to be signal-free

Decade-delayed Sadahalli underpass project will finally eliminate the last traffic signal before airport.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Motorists travelling to the Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) will soon enjoy an uninterrupted, signal-free drive from Hebbal, with the long-pending Sadahalli Junction Underpass project finally set to begin. The National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) will commence preliminary work next week, marking the start of a project that has remained on the drawing board for nearly a decade.

The Bengaluru Traffic Police has granted permission for construction activities to be carried out at night between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m. over the next 15 months to minimise disruption to traffic. The approval, issued on July 1, clears the way for work on the 700-metre-long underpass at the busy Sadahalli Junction.

At present, Sadahalli Junction is the only traffic signal on the 22-km stretch between Hebbal and the airport. Once completed, the six-lane underpass, estimated to cost ₹35 crore, will remove this final bottleneck and ensure seamless travel to and from the airport.

NHAI Bengaluru Project Director K.B. Jayakumar said preliminary activities, including barricading, traffic diversions and widening of service roads, would begin next week. To maintain traffic flow during construction, the existing two-lane service roads on either side of the highway will be expanded into four-lane roads.

Given the heavy monsoon during July and August, only preparatory work will be undertaken initially. Major excavation for the underpass will begin after the rains subside in September.

The project has been awarded to Vidya InfraBuilt Pvt. Ltd., with the design already finalised. The underpass will be built using the cut-and-cover method, a widely adopted construction technique for urban tunnels.

NHAI aims to complete the project before the Aero India exhibition scheduled for February 2027, ensuring smoother access to the airport for commuters, business travellers and visitors attending the international aerospace event.

The completion of the underpass is also expected to ease congestion around Sadahalli Junction, improve travel time reliability and enhance connectivity to north Bengaluru, one of the city's fastest-growing corridors. Officials believe the project will significantly improve the overall commuting experience for thousands of airport-bound passengers every day while strengthening the region's transport infrastructure.

High Court quashes criminal case against doctor, slams misuse of law

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka High Court has quashed criminal proceedings against a senior doctor accused of forging documents, observing that criminal law cannot be used as a tool to settle personal scores or professional rivalries.

Justice M. Nagaprasanna passed the order while allowing a petition filed by Dr. S.P. Somashekar, director of a private hospital, who had sought the quashing of proceedings initiated on a complaint lodged by Dr. B.C. Shankar, head of another private hospital.

Dr. Shankar had accused Dr. Somashekar of forging his signature and creating a fake experience certificate after the latter left the hospital where he had worked for nearly two decades and joined another private institution in 2022.

Based on the complaint, police had registered a First Information Report (FIR) against Dr. Somashekar. However, after investigating the allegations, they filed a 'B' report, concluding that no evidence existed to substantiate the charges. The jurisdictional magistrate rejected the closure report, prompting Dr. Somashekar to approach the High Court. Allowing the petition, the High Court criticised the complaint and observed that

Whistleblower nanny arrested for allegedly abusing toddlers

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Bengaluru Police have arrested a second nanny in the alleged child abuse case at the Little Scholars daycare centre on the Capgemini campus in Brookefield, claiming that the woman who exposed the abuse had herself subjected children to ill-treatment.

Sujatha (45), who had recorded and shared videos purportedly showing toddlers being abused inside the daycare, has been remanded to 14-day judicial custody and is lodged at the Bengaluru Central Jail. She has been booked on charges of allegedly assaulting children, locking toddlers inside the daycare bathroom and recording videos of them in distress.

Her arrest follows that of 55-year-old nanny Vijayalakshmi, who was earlier accused of physically abusing children at the facility.

The move has triggered debate over the protection available to whistleblowers, with many questioning whether action against the woman who exposed the alleged abuse could discourage others from reporting wrongdoing in the future. However, police maintain that Sujatha was not arrested for releasing the videos but for her alleged role in abusing children.

City Police Commissioner Seemanth Kumar Singh said the investigation revealed that Sujatha had frequent disputes with fellow nannies and her supervisor and allegedly recorded the videos to implicate her colleagues rather than to protect the children.

"While there is video evidence of Vijayalakshmi locking a two-and-a-half-year-old child inside the bathroom, Sujatha also committed a similar act," a police officer said.

The Commissioner questioned why Sujatha waited seven days after recording the videos on June 22 before handing them over to the Child Helpline on June 29 if the children's welfare had been her primary concern.

Father arrested for killing infant; mother absconding in Bengaluru

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Avalahalli police have arrested a 30-year-old man on charges of murdering his 11-month-old daughter and allegedly attempting to pass off the death as an accidental fall from a bed. His wife, named as the second accused, remains absconding.

Police identified the arrested accused as Shekar, while his wife, Vijayalakshmi, is being searched for. The couple, originally from Yadgir district, married four years ago and have two children. According to investigators, the incident occurred on June 9 during a domestic dispute at their residence. The couple later took the injured child, Renuka, to a hospital, claiming she had fallen from a bed while sleeping. Based on their statement, police initially registered a case of unnatural death.

However, the investigation took a different turn after the post-mortem report, received on June 22, concluded that the infant had died due to severe bleeding and respiratory failure. Doctors also found injuries on the child's private parts and ruled out an accidental fall as the cause of death.

Police said a spot inspection conducted by PSI Sunil Kumar revealed that the injuries were inconsistent with a fall from a bed about two feet high. Statements from witnesses and neighbours allegedly pointed to frequent quarrels between the couple over suspicions of an extramarital relationship. Investigators alleged that during the altercation, Vijayalakshmi kicked the crying child, while Shekar later threw the infant out of the shed where the family lived.

High Court refuses to stay trial against teacher accused of beating LKG student

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka High Court has refused to stay criminal proceedings against a school teacher accused of physically assaulting a six-year-old LKG student, observing that corporal punishment in schools cannot be justified as a means of discipline.

Justice M. Nagaprasanna passed the order while hearing a petition filed by Asha Krasta, a teacher at Holy Family School in Surathkal, seeking to quash the proceedings pending before the II Additional JMFC Court in Mangaluru.

During the hearing, the judge expressed strong disapproval of the alleged assault. When the petitioner's counsel sought relief, the court remarked that teachers need not beat children to teach them lessons and made it clear that such conduct would not be tolerated.

Gunjur Club House Road crumbles into dust, craters

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

For residents of Bengaluru's eastern suburbs, the 400-metre Gunjur Club House Road has become a daily ordeal, with dust clouds, deep craters and unfinished civic works turning a crucial connector into a hazardous stretch.

The road, which links Gunjur with Varthur, Sarjapur Road and the Outer Ring Road, has remained in poor condition for nearly two years. What should be a key urban corridor now resembles an unpaved track littered with excavated soil, loose jelly stones and uneven surfaces, making travel difficult for motorists, pedestrians and cyclists alike.

The deteriorating road has also affected local businesses.

A woman entrepreneur said she was forced to shut her restaurant after customers stopped visiting because of the unbearable dust. Having taken a loan to establish the business, she now prepares food inside the closed restaurant and sells it from a roadside cart nearby to meet her monthly loan repayments.

"The dust is so severe that everything gets covered within seconds whenever a vehicle passes. People avoid even walking on this road," she said, adding that maintaining hygiene has become an uphill task despite her best efforts.

The stretch serves several apartment complexes, schools and commercial establishments, making it one of the busiest internal roads in the locality. Residents describe every journey as a "roller-coaster ride", with vehicles constantly jolting over potholes and loose gravel.

Ongoing stormwater drain

Residents say Gunjur Club House Road has been in a deplorable condition for over two years, posing serious health and safety risks. Stormwater drain work that began in January has remained incomplete, leaving behind open pits, craters and thick dust. During rains, the water-filled potholes become nearly invisible, increasing the danger for motorists and pedestrians. "This has become a daily struggle for schoolchildren, senior citizens, pregnant women and commuters. Despite repeated protests and complaints, there has been little improvement," said local resident Navdeep Singh.

5.5-crore subway to improve access to Sampige Road Metro

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Thousands of residents in north and central Bengaluru will soon benefit from safer and easier access to the Sampige Road Metro station, with the South Western Railway (SWR) announcing the construction of a fully underground pedestrian subway connecting Swatantra Palaya to the station.

The ₹5.5-crore project is aimed at eliminating the dangerous practice of pedestrians crossing active railway tracks to reach the Metro station. The subway will be built with a ceiling height of 2.6 metres and a width of five metres, providing a safe, spacious and all-weather passage beneath the railway lines.

According to railway officials, the project was conceived after repeated instances of people crossing the busy railway mainline, posing serious risks to both commuters and train operations. At present, residents are forced to walk across railway tracks and use a narrow, sloping pathway to access the station, creating safety concerns, particularly during peak hours and at night.

Officials said the subway would significantly improve connectivity for residents of Srirampura, Seshadripuram, Okalipuram and Malleswaram, benefiting thousands of daily commuters. Besides enhancing pedestrian safety, the project is also expected to improve operational safety for trains by reducing unauthorised crossings.

Gandhinagar MLA Dinesh Gundu Rao said the subway fulfils a long-pending demand of local residents. He noted that crossing railway tracks had resulted in frequent accidents, especially after dark, besides creating law-and-order challenges. He urged authorities to adopt modern construction techniques to complete the work efficiently and minimise inconvenience.

A foundation stone for the project has already been laid, and construction is expected to commence shortly. The South Western Railway has fixed January 2027 as the completion deadline.

However, Union Minister of State for Railways V. Somantha expressed confidence that the subway would be completed ahead of schedule. He also said work on the Road Under Bridge (RUB) at Ramohalli Gate near Kengeri is progressing and will be completed soon.

The Minister further stated that the Tumakuru-Davanagere and Rayadurga-Tumakuru railway line projects are being executed on priority.

He added that plans are also under way for a new direct railway line connecting Bengaluru and Kolar via Hosakote, Narsapura and Vemagal, aimed at strengthening suburban and regional rail connectivity in and around the city.

Eshwarappa, Kumaraswamy remarks spark outrage

Minority groups condemn Eshwarappa, Kumaraswamy remarks over SIR assistance centres, defend awareness campaigns for voter participation

SHIVAMOGGA

The Shivamogga Peace Organisation and the State Minority Protection Forum have strongly condemned the statements made by former Deputy Chief Minister K.S. Eshwarappa and Union Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy, who expressed doubts over assistance centres being run by Muslim organisations to support the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) process.

Addressing a press conference on Tuesday, Shivamogga Peace Organisation and State Minority Protection Forum president Riyaz Ahmed challenged the leaders to present specific information and facts if they had any concerns regarding the awareness and assistance activities conducted by Muslim organisations in support of the SIR campaign. Riyaz Ahmed said that many Booth Level Officers (BLOs) involved in the SIR process still lack complete information, which has resulted in confusion while filling out enumeration forms. He explained that assistance centres were established by Muslim organisations in areas with a significant Muslim population to provide correct information to citizens and encourage their active participation in the SIR process.

Questioning the criticism of these centres, he asked why Kumaraswamy and Eshwarappa were suspicious of organisations helping people understand and complete the process. He said such support initiatives should be viewed as public service activities aimed at improving awareness among voters.

He stressed that the SIR process is not limited to any political party, religion, or community, but is connected to the constitutional right of universal voting and the principles of democracy. He questioned why assistance centres run by one community were being viewed with suspicion while similar initiatives by other groups were accepted.

Riyaz Ahmed alleged that raising doubts about Muslim organisations’ participation created unnecessary mistrust and confusion among citizens. He urged political leaders to avoid making statements that could affect social harmony and instead support efforts to strengthen democratic participation.

The press conference was attended by State Minority Protection Forum members Imran Khan, Maksud, Anis Iqbal, Sufi, Saifulla, and Zakavulla, among others. They reiterated their commitment to creating awareness among people and ensuring that eligible citizens participate effectively in the SIR process.

Landslide near house creates panic in Mudigere

A family in Mudigere taluk of Chikkamagaluru district has been living in fear after a portion of the hillside near their house collapsed following heavy rain and strong winds on Tuesday. The sudden landslide has created panic among residents, who are worried about the safety of the house and their lives.

The incident occurred after intense rainfall lashed the region, causing soil erosion and weakening the earth near the residential area. A large section of the slope beside the house gave way, bringing loose soil and debris close to the building. The family members expressed concern that further erosion could damage the house if heavy rain continues.

Residents said that the continuous monsoon showers in the hilly areas of Mudigere have increased the risk of landslides and soil slips. Several parts of the taluk are vulnerable due to steep terrain, heavy rainfall, and water accumulation during the rainy season.

The affected family has urged the local administration to inspect the spot and take immediate preventive measures to avoid any further danger. They requested authorities to provide necessary assistance and ensure their safety during the ongoing monsoon.

Local people have also appealed to officials to identify vulnerable locations across the region and take precautionary steps before major incidents occur. They said that retaining walls, drainage arrangements, and other protective measures should be implemented in areas where houses are located near hill slopes.

Officials have been advised to monitor landslide-prone areas regularly, especially during periods of heavy rain and strong winds. The incident highlights the challenges faced by residents living in the hilly regions of Chikkamagaluru district during the monsoon season.

With rainfall expected to continue, residents have been asked to remain alert and avoid staying near unstable slopes. The administration’s timely intervention is expected to help prevent possible damage and provide relief to families facing risks due to natural hazards.

Three Kudremukh–Karkala Highway bridges in dilapidated condition, collapse fears grow amid alleged pwd negligence before monsoon repairs

PWD blamed for neglecting vital State Highway bridges

KALASA

Three major bridges on the Kudremukh–Karkala State Highway, a vital link connecting the Malnad and Coastal Karnataka regions, have fallen into a dangerous state of disrepair, sparking fears of a possible collapse if immediate repairs are not undertaken. Local residents have blamed the Public Works Department (PWD) for failing to carry out timely maintenance despite the deteriorating condition of the structures.

The bridges have developed separated expansion joints where the road meets the bridge deck, while exposed steel reinforcement rods have emerged from the surface, posing a serious risk to motorists. Large potholes have also formed near the bridge approaches, allowing rainwater to seep beneath the structures and weaken the foundations and supporting pillars during the monsoon.

Residents recalled that a bridge on the same highway collapsed in 2011, cutting off road connectivity between the Malnad and coastal regions for several months. They fear history could repeat itself if authorities continue to ignore the worsening condition of the bridges. The highway is used daily by thousands of tourists, students, patients, commuters, and goods transport vehicles, making it one of the region’s most important transport corridors.

The road also passes through the ecologically sensitive Kudremukh Wildlife Sanctuary, and serves as the primary route for residents of Kalasa taluk seeking medical treatment, higher education, and other essential services in the coastal districts. The collapse of even one bridge could isolate large parts of the Malnad region from the coast. Guidelines issued by the Indian Roads Congress, the Public Works Department, and the National Disaster Management Authority require all bridges to undergo inspection and maintenance before the onset of the monsoon. These include checking bridge joints, bearings, railings, drainage systems, and repairing potholes and cracks using waterproof materials. Residents allege that these mandatory pre-monsoon measures were ignored on the Kudremukh–Karkala highway.

Locals have urged the district administration and the PWD to immediately inspect and repair the three bridges to prevent a potential disaster and ensure the safety of thousands of daily commuters.

Huge tree blocks Mani road after heavy rainstorm

VITLA

Vehicular traffic was temporarily disrupted near Mani in Dakshina Kannada on Tuesday morning after a massive roadside tree was uprooted by heavy rain and strong winds, crashing across the road and blocking both lanes.

The incident occurred during intense southwest monsoon showers accompanied by powerful gusts, leaving motorists stranded and causing traffic congestion on both sides of the affected stretch. Local residents alerted authorities, who, along with volunteers, quickly reached the spot with chainsaws and other equipment. The fallen tree was cut into smaller sections and removed, allowing traffic to resume gradually after the road was declared safe.

No casualties or injuries were reported, though office-goers, students, and goods transport vehicles experienced delays until the clearance operation was completed.

Dakshina Kannada has been witnessing continuous heavy rainfall over the past few days, increasing the risk of uprooted trees and falling branches. Authorities have advised motorists to exercise caution while travelling through tree-lined roads during heavy rain and strong winds.

CHIKKAMAGALURU

Residents of Moograhalli village in Chikkamagaluru district have raised concerns over alleged safety lapses in the ongoing bridge construction work and have demanded a temporary halt to the project until necessary safety measures are implemented.

Villagers alleged that the construction activities are being carried out without adequate precautions, creating risks for workers as well as people living in the surrounding areas. They expressed concern that negligence in following safety standards could lead to accidents, especially during the monsoon season when weather conditions remain challenging.

According to residents, proper barricading, warning signs, and other safety arrangements should be ensured at the construction site to prevent public access to dangerous areas. They said that vehicles and pedestrians passing through the route face difficulties due to the ongoing work and lack of proper management.

The villagers urged the authorities and the concerned contractors to inspect the site and address the safety issues immediately. They demanded that construction work be temporarily suspended until all safety requirements are fulfilled and the site becomes secure for workers and the public.

Residents stated that the bridge is an important infrastructure project for the local community and they support its completion. However, they stressed that development work should not compromise public safety. They appealed to officials from the relevant departments to take immediate action and ensure that construction progresses according to approved safety guidelines.

Discipline and mock tests hold the key to success in police recruitment

Mere hours of study at home are not enough to succeed in competitive examinations. Candidates must experience the real examination atmosphere, learn to handle pressure and master time management through mock tests, said Nitish Patil, Administrator of the Mysuru City Corporation, Regional Commissioner and Chairman of the City Library Authority.

Speaking after inaugurating the mock examination for the Karnataka State Police Civil Police Constables Recruitment conducted jointly by the City Central Library at People's Park here on Tuesday, he said even minor mistakes while filling out OMR sheets can cost candidates an entire examination. Such errors should be identified and corrected during mock tests. They must study for 12 to 16 hours a day, but without writing mock tests, it is difficult to succeed in the actual examination. The aspirants must devote at least 30 per cent of their total preparation time to taking mock tests.

The RC said there is no substitute for hard work in securing a government job, and shared his own experience that he had appeared not only for the UPSC Civil Services Examination but also for the KPSC, PDO, Bank and RBI recruitment examinations. Aspirants should never look down upon any competitive examination while pursuing their goals.

Saying that no post is small, Patil said one can begin as a Police Constable and later rise to become a PSI or even an IPS officer.

A nurse from his own batch who later became an IAS officer and many candidates who studied in open universities have also gone on to clear the Civil Services Examination.

Patil urged candidates not to develop an inferiority complex over their lack of English proficiency. Many students from Kannada-medium schools have successfully cleared the UPSC examination.

Khandre rejects HMT forest land realty allegations

BIDAR

Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Minister Eshwar Khandre has strongly responded to Union Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy's allegations regarding the HMT forest land issue, stating that there is no possibility of real estate activity on land classified as forest.

Reacting to allegations that the state government was attempting to clear HMT land for real estate purposes, Khandre said the forest land that was not converted legally has to remain forest land as per law. He alleged that it was HMT, and not the Forest Department, that had encroached upon forest land by using it for commercial purposes.

Khandre questioned how real estate development could take place on forest land after action under Section 64A of the Karnataka Forest Act, 1963. He said that following the implementation of the Forest Conservation Act, 1980, the Supreme Court had made it clear that forest land without valid conversion would continue to remain forest.

He also said some officials had approached the Supreme Court seeking de-notification of HMT-controlled forest land without approval from the high-level committee headed by the Chief Secretary, the Forest Minister or the state Cabinet. Those officials were suspended and notices were issued, he added.

Responding to Kumaraswamy's statement that the HMT land had only buildings and no forest area, Khandre said he had personally visited the location along with officials and claimed that the area included a 280-acre plantation with forest characteristics.

Khandre alleged that HMT had commercially used forest land and sold 165 acres for around ₹300 crore. He challenged Kumaraswamy to vis-

Calling the forest land under HMT as the property of seven crore Kannadigas, Khandre said the government's objective was to develop a large biodiversity park across 444 acres, larger than Lalbagh and Cubbon Park.

He also advised Kumaraswamy to focus on reviving industries such as NMDC's steel plant in Ballari and the Visvesvaraya Iron and Steel Plant in Bhadravati instead of making allegations against the government. Khandre reiterated that the government was committed to protecting forest land and preventing its misuse for commercial interests.

Once verified, all land details linked to their FID number will appear in the app.

In the next step, farmers should select the Survey Number and Hissa Number, enter the owner's name, and mark the field. They must then stand within the boundary lines of the Survey Number, record the crop details, take a photograph, and upload the information through the app. Farmers who do not yet have an FID number should visit the nearest Agriculture or Horticulture department office to obtain one.

The collected crop survey data will be used for distributing relief during natural calamities, implementing crop insurance schemes, preparing season-wise area reports of various crops, executing beneficiary-oriented schemes of the Agriculture, Horticulture and Sericulture departments, and maintaining accurate crop records in farmers' passbooks.

The Joint Director of Agriculture has appealed to all farmers in the district to personally record the crop details of their lands survey number-wise in the mobile app without any errors and within the stipulated time so that the 2026-27 Kharif crop survey can be completed successfully.

DROUGHT MANAGEMENT ADVICE

Farmers urged to choose drought resistant crops reduce crop losses and protect their income during the season.

Manjunath said timely sowing, conserving soil moisture and adopting drought management practices can help farmers achieve better yields even under difficult weather conditions. He advised farmers to sow crops only after receiving continuous rainfall of 10 to 20 millimetres for two or three days. Instead of growing crops that require more water, farmers were encouraged to cultivate drought resistant crops such as ragi, pigeon pea, foxtail millet, little millet and pearl millet. He also recommended wider spacing between rows and plants, intercropping methods and ridge cultivation to improve moisture conservation and reduce financial risks.

The department suggested soaking seeds in a calcium chloride solution before sowing to improve seed strength and drought tolerance. Farmers were also advised to use agricultural waste as mulch, apply more organic manure and carry out regular weed control to retain soil moisture. During dry spells, spraying urea, zinc sulphate or potassium nitrate solutions can help crops recover. The use of hydrogel was also recommended to improve moisture retention in the soil. Officials advised farmers to choose suitable crop varieties such as GPU-28, GPU-66 and KMR-316 for ragi, K-6 for groundnut and GRG-152 or TS-3-R for pigeon pea cultivation.

The Agriculture Department further advised farmers to shift to short duration crop varieties if the monsoon is delayed and consider alternative crops if rainfall remains poor for a longer period. Where water is available, drip and sprinkler irrigation should be used to save water and improve productivity. Farmers were also encouraged to adopt integrated farming systems, obtain crop insurance and regularly follow advisories issued by the Agriculture Department, Krishi Vigyan Kendra and agricultural universities through newspapers, television, radio and social media for timely guidance throughout the season.

Two-day 14th Sharan Sahitya Sammelana began in Bengaluru with a call for unity and self-reflection among Lingayat community members. Senior leader and Minister M. B. Patil said the Veerashaiva Lingayat faith was originally based on equality and casteless values but has now faced divisions due to sub-caste identities. He made the remarks while inaugurating the two-day conference organised by All India Sharan Sahitya Parishad at Basaveshwara Sugnan Mantapa in Vijayanagara.

Patil said Sharan literature and traditions have a strong foundation and recalled that Basavanna promoted dignity of labour and respect for every profession centuries ago. He said the teachings of the Sharanas gave society a message of equality and social responsibility. He added that internal divisions weakened the community and urged members to think about unity and preserve their cultural identity. The minister said some Lingayat groups identify themselves through sub-castes during census processes due to reservation concerns which affects population figures. He stated that giving separate religion recognition would not threaten other faiths and expressed disappointment over opposition to the demand. He appealed for awareness and said the community should remember the values of Basavanna and Sharanas.

Conference president Go.R. Channabasappa demanded legal recognition for Lingayat religion and requested inclusion of Vachana literature in education curriculum. He also urged the government to es-establish Vachana University and honour Sharan leaders by naming public places after them. Spiritual leaders including Shivaratri Deshikendra Swamiji and Siddalinga Swamiji attended the event along with other dignitaries.

The two-day conference concluded with discussions on social reform, literature and the importance of following Basavanna's principles in modern times. Speakers said equality and compassion remain essential for building a stronger society. They appealed to people to avoid divisions and work together for collective progress. Organisers said Sharan teachings continue to inspire generations through their message of justice and harmony. The gathering highlighted the need to preserve heritage while promoting unity among communities across Karnataka.

Puttur MLA reviews unresolved revenue department cases

PUTTUR

MLA Ashok Rai organized a meeting of revenue department officials at his office on Monday to address the backlog created by the four-month strike of surveyors in the Puttur assembly constituency. Many files had remained unresolved during that period, and the legislator used the gathering to review the situation and issue clear instructions for faster processing.

Approximately one thousand Bagar Hukum rights title files continue to await disposal. Officials at the meeting agreed to complete all conversion cases and 11E accounts within forty-five days. They also committed to finishing the entire set of Bagar Hukum rights documents inside the next three months.

Except for three hundred and twelve files, every other floating file has already been transferred from the Tahsildar office to the Survey department. The MLA directed that these files be handled in successive stages. Floating applications will transfer automatically to the Survey department, after which each one will be taken up individually for disposal.

Residents had faced considerable difficulty because of the strike. The legislator noted this hardship and pointed out that an order from the Revenue Minister to the Survey department now allows file processing to proceed in a systematic and prompt manner.

rest are licensed surveyors. The licensed surveyors had placed a demand for higher pay before the MLA. He stated that this demand will be brought to the attention of the Revenue Minister so that appropriate steps can be taken.

Additional licensed surveyors will be recruited to help clear the revenue department files throughout the constituency. The MLA further indicated that pressure will be applied on the government to approve these extra appointments.

The public was urged to cooperate fully when surveyors arrive to measure land during file processing. Residents should avoid sending surveyors back on minor pretexts, because joint effort from everyone will help speed up the overall disposal of files.

Applicants who have submitted floating applications were assured there is no reason for concern. Their files will move automatically for disposal. Already eighty percent of the files have shifted from the Tahsildar login to the Survey department. Cases that have remained pending for several years will also be resolved smoothly, the MLA confirmed.

DDL R. Pushparaj, the ADLR, surveyors, and licensed surveyors took part in the meeting.

Delay in Anjanadri hundi announcement sparks doubts

KOPPAL

A press release issued four days after the hundi counting at the famous Anjanadri temple in Koppal district has raised questions among devotees and local residents.

Anjanadri hill, located in Gangavathi taluk of Koppal district, is popularly believed to be the birthplace of Lord Hanuman and attracts thousands of devotees from across the country. The hundi counting of the Anjaneya temple was conducted on July 3, but the official details were released only four days later.

The delay in issuing the press statement by the taluk administration has created doubts among some sections of the public. Devotees have questioned why the details of the collection were not announced immediately after the counting process.

According to the information released by the administration, the previous hundi counting was held on March 23. During the latest counting, donations collected over a period of 94 days amounted to ₹71,77,460.

Officials also stated that foreign currencies from Nepal, the United States, Thailand, and Hong Kong were found among the offerings. The presence of foreign currency reflects the increasing number of devotees visiting the temple from different parts of the world.

The Anjanadri temple is one of the prominent religious destinations in the region and witnesses a continuous flow of pilgrims throughout the year. The hundi collections are counted under official supervision to ensure transparency in temple administration.

However, the late release of the press note has led to demands from devotees for timely disclosure of hundi counting details. They said that information related to temple collections should be made public without unnecessary delay to maintain trust and transparency. Authorities are expected to clarify the reason behind the delay in releasing the announcement. Meanwhile, the issue has drawn attention among devotees and local communities regarding the need for greater openness in temple-related financial matters.

Rising water levels disrupted daily life in the district, submerging eight low-level bridges in Chikkodi and affecting village connectivity

Maharashtra rains trigger massive water inflow into Karnataka

BELAGAVI

Heavy rainfall in the Western Ghats region of Maharashtra for the past six days has led to a sharp rise in water inflow into Karnataka, with around 98,000 to one lakh cusecs of water entering the state through major rivers.

The Krishna River witnessed an additional inflow of nearly 28,000 cusecs in a single night, causing water levels to rise significantly across several rivers in Belagavi district. The Krishna, Dudhganga, Vedganga, Hiranyakeshi, Ghataprabha, Malaprabha, and Markandeya rivers are flowing above danger levels due to continuous rainfall and increased inflow.

The rising water levels have affected normal life in several areas of the district. In Chikkodi subdivision, more than eight low-level bridges have been submerged, disrupting transportation between villages. Bridges including Mullan-ki-Dattawad, Karadaga-Bhoj, Akkol-Sidnal, Jatrati-Bhivashi, Barawad-Kannur, and Bojwadi-Gajbarwadi have gone underwater due to the heavy flow.

As a result, connectivity to more than 16 villages has been affected, forcing residents and commuters to depend on alternative routes. Authorities have advised people living near riverbanks to remain alert and avoid entering flooded areas.

The rising level of the Dudhganga River has also caused floodwater to enter agricultural fields along its banks. In Shiradwad village of Nipani taluk, standing crops including maize, black gram, and soybean have been submerged, causing significant losses to farmers.

Farmers who were waiting for rainfall to support their crops are now facing damage due to excessive water accumulation. The sudden rise in river levels has created concern among agricultural communities in the affected regions.

Officials are closely monitoring the flood situation and taking precautionary measures in vulnerable areas. With more rainfall expected in Maharashtra and neighbouring regions, authorities have warned residents to stay cautious and follow safety instructions.

The continued heavy rains have brought both increased water availability and challenges, with rising river levels affecting infrastructure, transportation, and farming activities across parts of Belagavi district.

Construction workers demand direct cash benefits instead kits

DHARWAD

The Karnataka State United Building Workers' Union, affiliated with AIUTUC, staged a protest in front of the Dharwad Deputy Commissioner's office demanding immediate release of welfare funds and direct payment of benefits to construction workers.

The protesters urged the government to stop distributing various kits in the name of welfare schemes and instead deposit the entire amount directly into the bank accounts of registered construction workers. They alleged that lakhs of workers in Karnataka were being denied their rightful benefits due to mismanagement and unnecessary delays.

Union members claimed that the Construction Workers Welfare Board has failed to properly implement schemes related to health support, pensions, children's education, and other essential needs of workers. They alleged that educational assistance meant for workers' children has been delayed for nearly two years due to claims of insufficient funds, forcing many students to discontinue their studies.

The protesters said several welfare applications have been approved, but the financial assistance has not reached the beneficiaries' accounts. They also objected to restrictions imposed on pension schemes and demanded a simpler process to ensure workers receive timely benefits.

According to the union, instead of focusing on important welfare measures, the board has been spending funds on purchasing and distributing kits under different names. They alleged that such activities do not address the actual needs of construction workers and demanded an immediate review of the policy.

The union leaders demanded that the government stop the kit distribution programme and transfer the funds directly to workers. They also urged authorities to clear pending educational grants for the last two years according to previous rates.

MALNAD RAINFALL MAGIC

Monsoon rains revive majestic beauty of Jog Falls

SHIVAMOGGA

Continuous rainfall in the Malnad region has brought renewed life to the world-famous Jog Falls in Shivamogga district, transforming the iconic waterfall into a spectacular sight for visitors.

Shivamogga has been receiving widespread rainfall for the past four days, along with good showers in the Sharavathi valley region. The increased water flow has revived Jog Falls, located in Sagar taluk, with water cascading down in a magnificent white stream.

The waterfall is now flowing strongly through all four major segments — Raja, Rani, Roarer, and Rocket — creating a breathtaking view.

The increased flow has attracted a large number of tourists who are arriving to witness the beauty of the falls during the monsoon season.

Visitors have been captivated by the scenic charm of Jog Falls as the heavy rains have enhanced its natural splendour. The surrounding greenery of the Malnad region, combined with the roaring sound of the waterfall, has created an attractive environment for tourists.

Local tourism stakeholders have welcomed the revival of the falls, as the monsoon season brings increased visitor activity and provides a boost to the region's tourism sector. Authorities have advised tourists to remain cautious while visiting waterfalls and river areas due to slippery surfaces and unpredictable water flow during heavy rains.

Jog Falls, one of India's highest waterfalls, is a major tourist attraction in Karnataka and draws visitors from across the country, especially during the monsoon when the Sharavathi River flows with greater intensity. The rejuvenation of the waterfall has brought excitement among nature lovers and photographers, who are flocking to the location to capture the stunning monsoon landscape.

BJP protest highlights teacher shortage in Pavagad

PAVAGAD

The Taluk BJP organized a protest march and sit-in against the shortage of teachers in government schools and alleged corruption in various departments. Party president Ashok D.R. led hundreds of workers, leaders and citizens from the town's observation post to the Tahsildar's office demanding immediate action from the government.

During the protest, Ashok said many government schools in the taluk are facing teacher shortages, which are badly affecting students from rural and poor backgrounds. He urged authorities to fill vacant posts quickly and appoint teachers to schools where classes are suffering due to lack of staff. He added that students should not lose educational opportunities because of administrative delays.

The BJP leader also demanded a detailed inquiry into alleged corruption in the Fisheries Department and some gram panchayats of the taluk.

Earlier, authorities seized over 49 lakh rupees from the accused. This follows a disturbing report showing staff hiding cash in their clothing, captured on CCTV. The scandal caused major security failures, leading top officials to resign. Police now hope that questioning the suspects will reveal where the remaining money is hidden. The temple trust is working to fix these security gaps and regain public trust completely.

Court rejects bail in 2020 riots case

NEW DELHI

The Delhi High Court has officially rejected the bail plea of Athar Khan, an accused in the 2020 Delhi riots conspiracy case. The court ruled that there is strong evidence against him and expressed concerns that he might flee or influence key witnesses if released. Judges noted that WhatsApp chats suggest he was an active participant in the dangerous plot. While his lawyers argued he only planned peaceful protests, the court found his involvement significant. Khan will remain in custody as the legal proceedings continue regarding his alleged role in the violence.

Legal scrutiny intensifies over Banerjee's voice samples

The Calcutta High Court has urged Abhishek Banerjee to provide voice samples amid an ongoing investigation into allegations

KOLKATA

Legal trouble is growing for Trinamool Congress leader Abhishek Banerjee. The Calcutta High Court asked why the Diamond Harbour MP is refusing to give voice samples for an ongoing investigation.

The Criminal Investigation Department (CID) wants these samples to check a video from the recent West Bengal assembly elections. In that video, the leader allegedly made violent threats against a top Union minister during a rally. The CID needs to confirm if the voice in the recording belongs to him to move forward with the case.

Banerjee was ordered by a local court to provide his voice samples in front of a judge and experts. To avoid this, his lawyers asked the High Court for an urgent hearing to stop the process. However, Justice Sougata Bhattacharya refused to hold an emergency session.

The judge pointed out that the leader already has protection from arrest until July 31. Because of this safety, the court wondered why he will not simply help the investigators. Even though Banerjee's team argued that he already admitted the voice was his, the court did not find this reason enough to stop the testing. Government lawyers argued that the testing is a must to complete the legal process. They reminded everyone that his protection depends on him fully helping the police.

The court agreed, telling the leader to cooperate. The next hearing for his request is now set for July 10.

Refreshing rainfall brings relief to scorching Delhi

NEW DELHI

Residents across Delhi and the National Capital Region finally breathed a sigh of relief as a refreshing spell of rain and thunderstorms swept through the city. After enduring days of stifling heat and uncomfortable humidity, the sudden change in weather felt like a true blessing for those braving the summer sun.

The city recorded a minimum temperature of 30 degrees Celsius, which was slightly higher than usual for this time of year. With humidity levels hitting 79 percent, the heat felt much more intense than the thermometer suggested. By 8:30 a.m., it felt like a scorching 44.7 degrees Celsius, making the morning commute quite a challenge for many.

However, the mood shifted by the afternoon as dark clouds gathered, bringing the cool showers everyone had been waiting for. The India Meteorological Department (IMD) has issued a "Yellow Alert," predicting more light to moderate rainfall over the coming days. It is not just Delhi, neighbouring areas in Haryana such as Rohtak and Sonipat, and parts of western Uttar Pradesh are also expected to see similar weather.

Delhi-NCR residents find relief from scorching heat as monsoon showers arrive, with the IMD issuing a yellow alert for continued rain through early July

Meteorologists explain that favourable monsoon conditions are currently influencing North India. Moisture-filled winds blowing in from the Arabian Sea and the Bay of Bengal are helping to form clouds, which should keep temperatures more manageable through July 9. Along with the cooling effect, the city's air quality remained in the "moderate" category, with an Air Quality Index of 110, which is good news for those concerned about breathing easier.

While the heat has been relentless lately, these intermittent monsoon showers are providing the comfort residents desperately needed. For now, it seems the people of Delhi-NCR can tuck away their umbrellas only briefly, as the weather department expects this pleasant, rainy pattern to continue, helping everyone beat the summer blues for a little while longer.

Biswas examined over Messi event management charges

KOLKATA

Former West Bengal minister Aroop Biswas appeared before the police recently for questioning. This follows an ongoing investigation into allegations of mismanagement during Lionel Messi's high-profile "GOAT India Tour" event held in Kolkata last year.

Accompanied by his lawyer, the Trinamool Congress leader arrived at the Bidhannagar

South Police Station in the morning. This marks his second visit to investigators, following an earlier appearance on June 18. Previously, Biswas had missed several police summons before finally agreeing to cooperate after receiving interim legal protection from the Calcutta High Court.

The case began after an FIR was filed by the event's lead organizer, Satadru Dutta. Dutta has accused the former minister of being a primary figure behind the security failures and organizational chaos that erupted at the Salt Lake stadium on December 13.

According to the complaint, roughly 70,000 tickets were printed for the football star's visit. Dutta claims that Biswas used his political influence to secure about 22,000 of those tickets, which were allegedly sold or distributed to his associates.

Mayawati demands proof over temple donation scandal

LUCKNOW

Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) chief Mayawati has broken her silence on the growing controversy surrounding alleged donation embezzlement at the Ayodhya Ram Temple and Uttarakhand's Badrinath Dham. She urged state governments to prioritize these investigations, warning that such massive irregularities could only happen if temple managers were either negligent or complicit in the wrongdoing.

In a direct message posted on social media, Mayawati called for a thorough probe into the top management of these prestigious religious sites. She cautioned that without accountability at the highest levels, any future officials might simply use the current situation as a cover for their own misconduct. According to the BSP leader, the government and the Special Investigation Team (SIT) must remain vigilant to ensure no one involved in the theft escapes justice.

However, Mayawati also leveled sharp criticism at Opposition parties, including the Samajwadi Party, Congress, and the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP).

She challenged these groups to provide "solid evidence" for their claims of large-scale corruption. She argued that if these parties fail to present proof, their aggressive stance should be viewed merely as "political posturing" rather than genuine concern for the sanctity of the temples.

BJP'S JAMMU BLUEPRINT

Nitin Nabin outlines BJP roadmap for Jammu

JAMMU

Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) National President Nitin Nabin concluded his two-day maiden visit to Jammu, leaving behind a clear roadmap for his party's future in the Union Territory. During his stay, Nabin held intensive discussions with top party leaders, including MPs, MLAs, and former legislators, focusing on strengthening the party's grip at the grassroots level.

ries of high-stakes meetings, beginning with consultations with RSS functionaries at Keshav Bhavan. The momentum continued at the Trikuta Nagar headquarters, where Nabin chaired a State Core Group meeting and a large-scale conference to refine the party's political strategy.

"Our workers are directed to reach every citizen to highlight the progress brought by the central government," noted BJP leader R.S. Pathania following the two-hour strategy session.

Addressing local political tensions, Pathania dismissed rumors of toppling the current administration. He emphasized that the BJP is prepared to act as a strong opposition, claiming the present government is struggling to deliver on promises like employment. "The current government is failing.

Political siege grips Hungary over presidency

Hungarian Prime Minister Peter Magyar’s controversial bid to remove President Tamas Sulyok has ignited a major political crisis

BUDAPEST

Political tensions have reached a boiling point in Hungary after Prime Minister Peter Magyar submitted a controversial constitutional amendment aimed at removing President Tamas Sulyok. In response, the opposition Fidesz party has called for a nationwide protest to defend the presidency. The proposed amendment seeks to terminate Sulyok’s mandate immediately upon the law’s enactment. Magyar, whose Tisza Party holds a parliamentary supermajority, has long labeled Sulyok as a "puppet" of his predecessor, Viktor Orban, accusing the President of failing to fulfill constitutional duties. President Sulyok has firmly refused to resign, warning that the move threatens the rule of law and democratic principles. Fidesz leaders echoed these concerns, arguing that the amendment is a form of "personalized legislation" that ignores constitutional legitimacy. Viktor Orban condemned the move, stating the Tisza Party is crossing "human, moral, and legal" boundaries. Magyar maintains that the presidency must regain its lost authority, claiming the office was weakened by years of silence under previous administrations. With the Tisza Party’s legislative dominance, a vote could occur as early as next week. As Budapest prepares for the protests, the nation remains deeply divided over the future of its constitutional framework.

Key Changes in the Proposed Amendment

■ Presidential Ouster: Immediate termination of President Sulyok’s mandate.

■ Judicial Shifts: Mandatory retirement age set at 70 for four constitutional judges.

■ Term Limits: Parliamentary deputies to be capped at a 12-year service mandate.

Saab GlobalEye secures $4.5 billion surveillance deal

ANKARA

In a major shift for European defense, NATO has officially chosen the Swedish-made Saab GlobalEye surveillance aircraft to replace its aging fleet of AWACS early-warning planes. The deal, valued at approximately $4.5 billion, marks a significant departure from the alliance's traditional reliance on American-made alternatives like the Boeing E-7 Wedgetail. NATO Secretary-General Mark Rutte confirmed the decision, highlighting that the move is essential for maintaining the alliance’s surveillance capabilities against modern threats, such as drone swarms. The current AWACS fleet, iconic for its rotating radomes, dates back to the Cold War and requires a modern successor to remain effective in today’s fast-paced security environment. To ease potential tensions regarding "Buy American" policies, Rutte emphasized that the GlobalEye is a "transatlantic programme."

Three tankers hit in fresh Strait of Hormuz attacks

DUBAI

Three commercial tankers were struck in separate attacks in the Strait of Hormuz on Tuesday, raising fresh concerns over maritime security in one of the world's busiest energy corridors and threatening efforts to restore normal shipping following the recent conflict between the United States and Iran. According to the United Kingdom Maritime Trade Operations (UKMTO), one tanker caught fire after being hit off the coast of Oman while sailing south towards the Gulf of Oman. Two other vessels were also damaged, including one reportedly struck by a drone. No casualties were reported, and at least one vessel continued its voyage. Iranian state television said the liquefied natural gas tanker had ignored warnings before being attacked, though Tehran stopped short of officially claiming responsibility. Qatar condemned the attack on its LNG tanker Al Rekayyat, calling it a serious violation of international law and holding Iran legally responsible. The latest attacks come despite ongoing diplomatic efforts to restore safe navigation through the strategic water-

Osmochescu replaces Munteanu as Acting PM

CHISINAU

Moldovan President Maia Sandu has appointed Deputy Prime Minister Eugeniu Osmochescu as acting prime minister, following the surprise resignation of Alexandru Munteanu. Munteanu stepped down unexpectedly, citing an inability to perform his duties in accordance with his personal convictions. Osmochescu, who currently serves as the Minister of Economic Development and Digitalization, brings a wealth of international financial experience to the interim role. Before joining the government, he was a key figure at the International Finance Corporation, the private sector investment arm of the World Bank. The current government will continue to function in an interim capacity until the parliament officially appoints a new administration. President Sandu’s pro-European Party of Action and Solidarity (PAS) maintains a strong majority in the 101-seat parliament, ensuring stability during this transitional period. Osmochescu is expected to chair his first cabinet meeting soon. As Moldova continues to navigate its pro-European trajectory following PAS’s decisive election victory, the focus remains on maintaining economic momentum and addressing the policy challenges that led to the recent leadership shake-up.

Details of the Government Transition

■ The New Appointee: Eugeniu Osmochescu, a seasoned financial expert, assumes office this Wednesday.

■ The Predecessor: Alexandru Munteanu resigned abruptly after serving since the post-election period last September.

Kazakh Court backs Tokayev’s potential new term

ALMATY

In a major political development, Kazakhstan’s constitutional court has ruled that President Kassym-Jomart Tokayev is eligible to seek another term. The decision follows the adoption of a new constitution that took effect last week, effectively "resetting the clock" on presidential term limits. President Tokayev, who originally assumed office in 2019, had previously been restricted to a single seven-year term starting from his 2022 mandate. By seeking the court’s opinion, he has secured legal standing to bypass previous limitations. Tokayev rose to power as the successor to Nursultan Nazarbayev but solidified his own authority following the 2022 unrest, which he characterized as an attempted coup. Since then, he has aggressively pursued constitutional reforms to consolidate his leadership. While the ruling provides a clear path for Tokayev to extend his tenure, it has sparked significant discussion regarding the future of governance in the mineral-rich nation. As Kazakhstan prepares for August elections, the focus remains on whether these systemic changes will stabilize the political landscape or prompt further shifts in the Central Asian state’s power structure.

NATO’S MULTI-BILLION BET

NATO announces massive arms deals

ANKARA

Ahead of a pivotal summit with U.S. President Donald Trump, NATO leaders have unveiled a series of defence deals worth tens of billions of dollars. The move is a strategic signal to Washington that European allies are finally accelerating their defence spending and military production to meet long-standing demands for greater autonomy. At a defence forum in Ankara, Secretary General Mark Rutte called for an industrial “revolution,” urging European nations to move beyond fragmented production and bureaucratic hurdles. The summit also marks a potential thaw in U.S.-Turkey relations, with sources suggesting President Trump may allow Turkey to rejoin the F-35 stealth fighter program. This comes as Trump arrives to meet Turkish President Tayyip Erdogan, following intense friction regarding NATO’s support in the U.S.-Iran conflict. Amid fears that the U.S. might reduce its European footprint, NATO allies increased their 2025 defense spending by $90 billion, reaching a total of $570 billion. With Russia’s ongoing aggression in Ukraine and threats from other global powers, NATO is under pressure to prove that its collective defense is more than just a reliance on American military might.

Political purge claims threaten Bangladesh’s judicial integrity

PARIS

Sixteen international human rights organizations and law societies have issued a strong warning regarding the state of legal independence in Bangladesh. Recently, these global bodies condemned the widespread intimidation and exclusion of lawyers from bar association elections across the country. The controversy centers on the recent formation of a 15-member ad hoc committee to lead the Bangladesh Bar Council for the 2026-2027 term. This committee consists entirely of lawyers backed by the ruling Bangladesh Nationalist Party (BNP) and Jamaat-e-Islami. Critics argue this decision ignores democratic standards and replaces fair elections with political appointments. According to reports, the impact is severe. Reports indicate that over 300 lawyers, primarily those seen as independent or supportive of the Awami League, have been blocked from running in elections at 23 different bar associations. This list includes major hubs like the Supreme Court Bar Association and groups in Dhaka, Chattogram, and Khulna. The joint statement describes these actions as a systematic attack on the rule of law. The organizations warn that silencing lawyers based on political identity threatens the integrity of the entire justice system. They are now calling on the Bangladeshi government to cancel the biased ad hoc committee, void the results of flawed elections, and ensure that every lawyer has an equal right to participate in future polls. They emphasize that a free legal profession is essential for a healthy democracy.

Sixteen global organizations warn that Bangladesh’s legal independence is under threat following the political exclusion of hundreds of lawyers from recent bar association elections.

UK exposes Russian labs linked to poisonings

LONDON

The British government has taken a firm stand against Moscow, imposing fresh sanctions on two key Russian research institutes and several high-ranking officials. The move comes as part of a strategic effort to expose and stop Russia’s ongoing development of lethal chemical weapons, which the UK claims were used in several high-profile poisoning cases. These sanctions specifically target individuals and facilities believed to be responsible for creating the dangerous toxins linked to the death of Russian opposition leader Alexei Navalny. Navalny, who survived a poisoning attempt in 2020 using a military-grade Novichok nerve agent, tragically died in 2024 after being exposed to Epibatidine, a potent toxin originally derived from poison dart frogs. British Foreign Minister Yvette Cooper addressed the situation with strong language, describing the repeated use of such weapons as a barbaric violation of international law. She emphasized that these tools are being used to inflict suffering not only on political dissidents but also on innocent civilians, citing the 2018 poisoning case in Salisbury. That incident, involving former double agent Sergei Skripal, led to the death of an innocent woman named Dawn Sturgess after she came into contact with the discarded toxin. The timing of these sanctions is deliberate, arriving just ahead of a critical NATO summit scheduled in Ankara. By aligning with similar measures recently taken by the European Union, Britain aims to present a united front against what it calls a direct threat to global security. Predictably, the Russian embassy in London has rejected the allegations entirely. In a statement released, officials dismissed the claims as "slander" and "anti-Russian propaganda." They argued that the West is simply manufacturing an imaginary threat to justify ongoing geopolitical confrontation. Despite these denials, the UK government remains steadfast, citing years of investigative findings that point to state-sponsored involvement in these deadly attacks.

Balogun Struggles as Belgium Ends U.S WC Campaign

Folarin Balogun endured a difficult outing as Belgium defeated the United States to reach the FIFA World Cup quarterfinals.

SEATTLE

United States striker Folarin Balogun, who had dominated global football headlines in the lead-up to the match, endured a frustrating evening as Belgium defeated the tournament co-hosts 4-1 in the FIFA World Cup Round of 16, ending the Americans' impressive campaign.

Balogun entered the knockout clash in Seattle after emerging as one of the stand-out performers for the United States during the group stage and the Round of 32. The 25-year-old forward had scored three goals and played a key creative role in helping the United States top their group before contributing to the victory over Bosnia and Herzegovina in the previous knockout round.

However, his participation against Belgium had remained uncertain after he received a red card in the win over Bosnia and Herzegovina, an offence that normally carries an automatic one-match suspension. FIFA later overturned the suspension, allowing Balogun to feature in the Round of 16, a decision that generated widespread debate across the football community.

The reversal attracted criticism from several quarters, with allegations that football's world governing body had bowed to political pressure. FIFA President Gianni Infantino maintained that the organisation's judicial bodies had acted independently and autonomously while reaching the decision. Belgium head coach Rudi Garcia also questioned the development, describing it as difficult to believe.

Balogun's personal background also became a topic of international discussion. Born in New York to a Nigerian mother who was unable to return to London before his birth due to pregnancy-related travel restrictions, Balogun spent most of his childhood in England after returning there with his family at the age of one month. Despite growing up in Britain, he later chose to represent the United States at the international level.

Political attention surrounding his case also intensified after United States President Donald Trump publicly claimed credit for the suspension being lifted. The controversy coincided with ongoing national debates over birthright citizenship, adding another dimension to the discussion surrounding the striker.

Despite the attention surrounding the decision, United States midfielder Tyler Adams said the squad remained largely unaware of the controversy while preparing for the match. He said the team's focus remained firmly on the football rather than the events unfolding away from the pitch.

Although Balogun received a warm reception from the home crowd when he entered the field, Belgium's disciplined defence successfully restricted his influence throughout the contest. The striker managed only three attempts on goal, with just one effort testing the goalkeeper.

'We are proud of our campaign,' says USA manager after round of 16 exit

SEATTLE

United States manager Mauricio Pochettino said he was proud of his team's World Cup campaign despite Tuesday's 4-1 defeat to Belgium, insisting the tournament had laid the foundations for future success.

The Argentine said his side had failed to reproduce the form it showed earlier in the tournament, but insisted its overall campaign remained a source of pride.

It hurts to be eliminated. We didn't perform well today, and that's the reality. Sometimes, during a tournament, you have one day when things don't go your way. Unfortunately, that day was today. It's not the right moment for it to happen, but we didn't reach the level we had shown before, Pochettino said in a post-match news conference after the round of 16 match, as quoted by Xinhua.

At the same time, we should recognise what this team has achieved. We are very proud of our campaign together. We enjoyed the journey, and today's result hurts because we believed we could go further, he added.

Pochettino, who took charge of the United States in September 2024, said the World Cup had been a learning experience for his team.

Improvement is never like a rocket going straight up, he said. A year ago, if somebody had told us we would be playing Belgium in the World Cup round of 16, everyone would have said we still had a lot of work to do.

Progress is not linear, and it's not realistic to expect everything to happen quickly. We have shown that we can improve and compete. We have a generation of young players coming through, and they just need to stay on this path and keep improving.

He praised his squad for maintaining a professional mindset throughout the competition and refused to appraise the performances of individual players.

I'm happy with every player who was involved because of the way they behaved, their attitude, and their commitment, he said. We didn't have a single issue over 40 or 50 days because everybody understood the ideas and showed respect. This is not the moment to judge individuals. We are happy with the whole group, he concluded.

Cabo Verde game was just a small bump in the road for Argentina': Sandesh Jhingan

NEW DELHI

Team India defender Sandesh Jhingan believes Argentina's defensive foundations remain intact despite conceding twice in their Round of 32 clash against Cabo Verde, backing the reigning world champions to produce a much-improved display against Egypt in the FIFA World Cup Round of 16.

Argentina survived a scare to progress after a hard-fought win over Cabo Verde, prompting questions over their defence. However, Jhingan, who is part of Zee5 FIFA World Cup 2026 expert panel, insisted one below-par outing should not overshadow the consistency Lionel Scaloni's side has shown over the last few years.

Of course, when you concede two goals, people immediately question the defence. But one average performance shouldn't make you feel you're suddenly not good enough, just like one great performance shouldn't make you think you're invincible. If you look at Argentina's record over the last 10-15 games, they have hardly conceded. For me, one of their biggest strengths is their defensive solidity, and they'll look at the Cabo Verde game as just a small bump in the road. The important thing was getting the win, and I expect them to be much sharper against Egypt, Jhingan told.

The India international expects Egypt to adopt a counter-attacking approach centred around Mohamed Salah and Omar Marmoush but feels Argentina's renowned counter-pressing will be key to nullifying that threat.

FIFA Backs Referee Raphael Claus Amid Trump Criticism Controversy

MIAMI

FIFA has firmly defended Brazilian referee Raphael Claus after United States President Donald Trump questioned the official's integrity following the controversial red card shown to United States striker Folarin Balogun during the FIFA World Cup.

The controversy began after Balogun was sent off in the United States' Round of 32 victory over Bosnia and Herzegovina. Following a Video Assistant Referee (VAR) review, Claus issued a red card after determining that Balogun had stamped on the ankle of Bosnia and Herzegovina defender Tarik Muharemovic during the match.

The dismissal carried an automatic one-match suspension, which would have ruled Balogun out of the Round of 16. However, FIFA later suspended the ban, allowing the striker to feature in the knockout clash against Belgium. The decision generated widespread debate within the football community and prompted questions over the governing body's disciplinary process.

Speaking after the decision, President Donald Trump claimed he had requested a review of Balogun's suspension. Trump also questioned the referee's credibility, describing Claus as a little bit suspect if you check his past, although he did not provide any evidence or further explanation to support the allegation.

In response, FIFA issued a strong statement expressing complete confidence in Claus and rejecting any suggestion that his professionalism or integrity should be questioned. The governing body described him as one of the world's leading football referees and a respected member of Team One, FIFA's elite group of match officials selected for the World Cup.

FIFA stated that throughout his officiating career, Claus has consistently demonstrated the highest standards of professionalism, fairness and integrity. The organisation also noted that the referee would not comment publicly on the matter, in accordance with FIFA's longstanding policy.

Pierluigi Collina, FIFA's Chief Refereeing Officer and Chairman of the Referees Committee, also expressed the organisation's confidence in the Brazilian official. Collina highlighted Claus' extensive experience, noting that the 46-year-old has officiated more than 600 professional matches during his career and is currently working at his second FIFA World Cup after previously serving as an official at the 2022 tournament in Qatar.

Mbappe Condemns Racist Remarks After France Defeats Paraguay

MIAMI

France captain Kylian Mbappe has strongly condemned racist comments made by a Paraguayan senator following France's 1-0 victory over Paraguay in the FIFA World Cup Round of 16, describing the remarks as hateful and unacceptable. The controversy has prompted widespread criticism, with the French Football Federation announcing plans to pursue legal action and the Paraguayan government distancing itself from the statements.

France secured a hard-fought victory over Paraguay in Philadelphia on Saturday, with Mbappe scoring the only goal of the match from the penalty spot. The closely contested encounter was physical and intense, but the result ensured France's place in the quarter-finals of the tournament.

Following the match, Paraguayan senator Celeste Amarilla posted a series of comments on social media containing racist remarks directed at Mbappe. In the post, she questioned the striker's identity, made offensive personal attacks and suggested that Paraguay's players should have confronted him after the game. The comments quickly drew widespread condemnation from football fans, public figures and officials.

Kylian Mbappe strongly condemned racist remarks following France's World Cup victory as authorities pledged legal action against them

Mbappe responded on Monday with a strongly worded statement, criticising the senator and defending not only himself but also the Paraguayan players, who had competed with determination throughout the tournament. He said Amarilla's remarks did not represent Paraguay or its people and accused her of spreading hatred and racism that overshadowed the achievements of the national team.

The France captain stated that Paraguay's players had earned global respect for their performances during the World Cup and said it was unfortunate that their accomplishments were being eclipsed by inflammatory comments from a public official. Mbappe also declared that he would continue speaking out against racism and discrimination wherever they occur.

MERINO'S LATE WINNER HELPS SPAIN KNOCK OUT PORTUGAL IN THE LAST 16

ARLINGTON

Mikel Merino's stoppage-time strike earned Spain a 1-0 victory over Portugal at Dallas Stadium and a FIFA World Cup 2026 quarter-final place. Luis De La Fuente's team will now head to Los Angeles Stadium to play the winners of USA-Belgium.

The final whistle of the match marked the end of Cristiano Ronaldo's time on football's biggest stage. This will be my last World Cup, he reiterated pre-match. The 41-year-old hit 11 goals in 27 games and set multiple milestones, including becoming the first man to score in six editions.

A balanced start, with Spain showing more attacking intent and Oyarzabal shooting forcing a tight save from Diogo Costa after just three minutes. Portugal responded promptly, with Cancelo's run down the right culminating in a powerful shot that went over the bar.

A few minutes later, Olmo set up Oyarzabal, who, as Diogo Costa came out, shot wide. In a back-and-forth game, Cristiano Ronaldo unleashed a powerful shot that Unai Simón saved incompletely.

Fifteen frantic minutes, with Spain taking advantage of a quick attack, with two great saves from Diogo Costa, from shots by Lamal and Baena. Portugal managed to balance the game, hold off Spain, with the best opportunity arising from an assist by Joao Felix for an acrobatic shot by Ronaldo. Unai Simón saved it. This was Portugal's best moment in the match, culminating in a shot from Nuno Mendes that hit the crossbar, after a deflection by Pedro Porro.

The game remained balanced in the second half, but Portugal looked more dangerous, especially with Pedro Neto's incursions down the right flank. Even without Nuno Mendes, who was replaced by Nélson Semedo due to injury, the national team managed, with varying degrees of difficulty, to thwart Spanish attacks.

In a very tight game, tactical schemes took on greater importance, with Lamine Yamal forcing Diogo Costa to make a save for a corner from a free kick.

Resilient manufacturing sector cushions ease

NEW DELHI

The manufacturing sector has helped curb a broader slowdown in economic momentum even as indicators weakened in April

May, a report said on Tuesday. Manufacturing makes up nearly 20 per cent of GDP and has been remarkably resilient, led by exports and inventory build-up, the report from HSBC Global Investment Research said. This is because energy-market uncertainty prompted precautionary inventory build-up – a trend most visible in consumer goods. Meanwhile, lower US tariffs created a window to accelerate non-oil exports ahead of potential Section 301 tariffs. However, the report said its database of 100 growth indicators points to weakening momentum in April May, along with chances of very strong El Niño and weak monsoon pose risks to agriculture and rural demand.

ECLGS 5.0 surpasses 4.11 L guarantees with ₹1.55 L cr amount: Govt

NEW DELHI

The Emergency Credit Line Guarantee Scheme (ECLGS) 5.0 has issued 4,11,497 guarantees since its launch, with the guaranteed amount reaching Rs 1,55,229 crore, a sign of the scheme's rapid absorption across the lending ecosystem, the government said on Monday. The scheme, approved by Union Cabinet on May 5, 2026, is delivering fast, large-scale liquidity support to businesses affected by the West Asia geopolitical situation. The scheme is designed to provide risk mitigation for lending institutions to provide additional credit to borrowers, thereby helping businesses to tide over cash-flow disruptions and sustain operations.

Trent shares sink 12 pc as Q1 revenue growth disappoints Street

Trent reported standalone revenue from operations, excluding GST, of Rs 5,666 crore for the June quarter, marking a 19 per cent year-on-year increase from Rs 4,781 crore in the corresponding period last year. India Expands Global Critical Minerals & Semiconductor Strategic Partnerships

India has strengthened international partnerships to secure critical minerals and semiconductor supply chains, supporting long-term industrial and energy security goals.

NEW DELHI

India has significantly expanded its international engagement to secure reliable access to critical minerals and strengthen semiconductor supply chains, signing strategic cooperation agreements with 24 countries while continuing negotiations with 11 others over the past two years. The initiative reflects the government's long-term strategy to reduce dependence on limited sources of essential raw materials and strengthen India's position in emerging global industries.

According to the Ministry of Mines, the country has built a broad network of partnerships across North America, Europe, Africa, West Asia, Central Asia, Southeast Asia, and Australia. These collaborations are designed not only to ensure access to mineral resources but also to promote cooperation in exploration, mining, processing, technology transfer, investment, and the development of resilient supply chains capable of withstanding global disruptions.

India has already established cooperation frameworks with major economies and resource-rich nations, including the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, Germany, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Japan, Australia, Brazil, Argentina, the Democratic Republic of Congo, Ghana, Namibia, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Israel, Vietnam, Mozambique, Zimbabwe, Malawi, and Russia.

These partnerships focus on securing strategic minerals such as lithium, cobalt, copper, and rare earth elements while also promoting collaboration in semiconductor technologies, energy security, and industrial investments.

In addition to existing agreements, India is actively negotiating with Chile, Peru, Zambia, Bolivia, Kazakhstan, Mongolia, Uzbekistan, Kyrgyzstan, Turkmenistan, Tajikistan, Myanmar, and Indonesia to expand cooperation in the exploration and supply of lithium, copper, rare earth elements, and other critical mineral resources.

These discussions aim to diversify sourcing channels and reduce vulnerabilities arising from concentrated global production.

A major component of India's strategy involves strengthening its domestic semiconductor ecosystem. Partnerships with leading technology nations, including Japan, the Netherlands, Germany, and the United States, are expected to support the development of advanced chip manufacturing capabilities within India.

These collaborations are also intended to integrate the country more effectively into global semiconductor value chains, helping meet growing domestic demand while enhancing export opportunities.

Critical minerals such as lithium, cobalt, nickel, copper, and rare earth elements play a vital role in modern industries.

They are essential for manufacturing electric vehicle batteries, renewable energy storage systems, wind turbines, solar infrastructure, defence equipment, aerospace technologies, and advanced electronic devices.

As countries worldwide accelerate clean energy transitions and digital transformation, securing stable supplies of these resources has become a strategic necessity.

US-based artificial intelligence giant OpenAI's ChatGPT experienced service disruptions on Tuesday, with users reporting issues across several features, including Codex, Custom GPTs and workspace analytics, while the company said it is working to resolve the remaining problems.

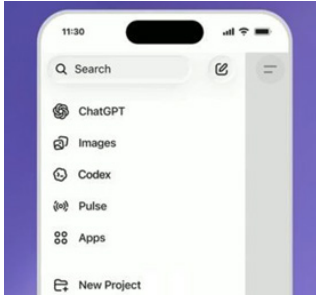

According to outage tracking platform Downtidetector, user complaints increased between 1 pm and 2 pm. Around 75 per cent of the reported issues were related to ChatGPT, while 12 per cent were linked to DALL-E and 8 per cent to the app.

According to OpenAI, the disruption affected FedRAMP workspaces, including Codex, workspace analytics, conversation search, Custom GPT search, ChatGPT user invites and the Compliance Logs Platform download endpoint.

NDTV Profit reported that the company said, "We're currently experiencing issues with FedRAMP Codex, workspace analytics, conversation search, searching for custom GPTs, ChatGPT user invites, and Compliance Log Platform download endpoint not working in FedRAMP workspaces."

OpenAI later said it had restored core functionality but acknowledged that some issues continue to affect FedRAMP workspaces, according to the report.

Core functionality has been restored, but we are aware of known and ongoing issues in FedRAMP workspaces with Codex, workspace analytics, conversation search, searching for custom GPTs, ChatGPT user invites, and the Compliance Logs Platform download endpoint. We are working to resolve these issues and will share further updates when more information is available, the company said. The outage comes after Elon Musk-backed social media platform X (formerly Twitter) experienced a service disruption in June. Nearly 40 per cent of users had reported issues with the app, while 29 per cent flagged problems with feeds and timelines.

Nepal PM Holds First Bilateral Meeting With ADB President

KATHMANDU

Nepal Prime Minister Balendra Shah on Tuesday held his first one-on-one meeting with a foreign official since assuming office, meeting Asian Development Bank (ADB) President Masato Kanda in Kathmandu. The meeting marked a notable shift in the Prime Minister's diplomatic engagements, as he had previously avoided individual meetings with foreign representatives in favour of collective interactions with ambassadors and diplomats.

Shah, who took office on March 27, has consistently followed a strict diplomatic protocol that prioritised group meetings over bilateral engagements with foreign envoys. His office confirmed that the meeting with Kanda was an exception, reflecting the importance of the Asian Development Bank as one of Nepal's largest and longest-standing multilateral development partners.

According to a statement issued by the Prime Minister's Secretariat, the discussions focused on strengthening the six-decade development partnership between Nepal and the ADB. Both sides reaffirmed their commitment to expanding cooperation across key sectors that are critical to Nepal's economic growth and long-term development.

Deepa Dahal, Press and Research Advisor to the Prime Minister, said the half-hour meeting included discussions on governance, transparency, infrastructure, and economic development. Prime Minister Shah expressed confidence that Nepal would enter a new phase of progress through good governance, accountability, and transparent administration.

The two leaders also explored opportunities to enhance cooperation in hydropower, tourism, digitalisation, and road infrastructure. Hydropower and tourism were identified as the backbone of Nepal's economy, with both sides recognising their potential to generate employment, attract investment, and accelerate sustainable economic growth.

ADB President Masato Kanda reaffirmed the bank's commitment to expanding its development assistance to Nepal. He assured Prime Minister Shah that the institution would continue serving as a reliable long-term development partner, supporting the country's efforts to achieve economic prosperity and inclusive growth.

Kanda praised Nepal's economic potential, highlighting the country's young leadership, strong public mandate, and ongoing reform initiatives. He said the government's commitment to transparency and institutional reforms was encouraging and expressed confidence in Nepal's future development prospects.

The meeting comes after Shah had declined requests for individual meetings with several senior foreign officials, including Paul Kapur, Assistant Secretary for South and Central Asian Affairs at the United States Department of State, and Sergio Gor, Special Envoy for South and Central Asian Affairs and United States Ambassador to India. Reports also indicated that Indian Foreign Secretary Vikram Misri's planned visit to Nepal had been postponed.

Fintech firms report reputation, infrastructure, & data risks as top threats: Report

NEW DELHI

India's fintech sector is shifting focus from growth to trust, governance and resilience as nearly 59 per cent of firms rank reputation and brand risk as a high severity concern or the highest risk facing them, a report said on Tuesday.

The report from Fintech Association for Consumer Empowerment (FACE) and Grant Thornton Bharat said reputation risk was followed by interoperability and infrastructure risk at 51 per cent.

The report noted that customer trust can be affected by issues ranging from data breaches and cybersecurity incidents to misconduct by unauthorised entities, making reputation an outcome of governance, compliance, customer experience and data protection.

The findings reflected fintech's growing dependence on digital public infrastructure such as UPI and Aadhaar, along with confidence in the continued evolution and resilience of India's digital infrastructure ecosystem.

India's fintech ecosystem has become a critical pillar of the country's digital economy, powered by digital public infrastructure such as UPI, Aadhaar, e-KYC and Account Aggregators. Market competition and conduct risk ranked third in terms of risks and carried an average severity score of 6.9, while data access, privacy and protection scored 6.6 and cybersecurity, technology and business continuity scored 6.5, the report added.

Risk rankings are based on weighted average severity scores assigned by respondents on a scale of 1 to 10.

The report highlighted growing emphasis on consent management, customer transparency and enterprise-wide data governance, making effective data stewardship a strategic business priority.

Balancing profitability, growth and trust has become one of the key drivers for the fintech ecosystem, which is the key message that the Fintech Barometer report reinforces. The fintech ecosystem across the domains of payment, investment, credit and insurance has stronger revenue and governance models than a decade ago, helping them walk the path of growth, said Vivek Iyer, Partner & Financial Services Risk Advisory Leader, Grant Thornton Bharat.

Around 46 per cent respondents rated cyber and continuity risks as high severity, reflecting continued investment in cyber resilience, fraud prevention and operational continuity.

India's UPI to link up with Indonesia's payment system, boost cross-border trade

NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced on Tuesday that India's Unified Payments Interface (UPI) will be integrated with Indonesia's payment system, which will enable tourists and businesses to make cross-border retail payments more easily by using their domestic payment apps.

Addressing a joint press conference with Indonesian President Prabowo Subianto in Jakarta, PM Modi said, "We are delighted that India's UPI is set to be integrated with Indonesia's payment system. This will boost both the ease of doing business and the ease of travel."

The Prime Minister also stated that India and Indonesia are strengthening cooperation in technology and strategic industries. In today's era, supply chain resilience in technology is of great importance. A significant agreement has also been reached to further strengthen supply chains in the critical minerals and steel sectors. New partnerships are being forged between our companies regarding stainless steel and rare-earth magnets, PM Modi said.

India China Discuss Expanding Bilateral Cooperation and Strengthening Strategic Relations

BEIJING

India and China have reaffirmed their commitment to strengthening bilateral ties, with senior officials holding discussions on expanding cooperation in trade, economic engagement and people-to-people exchanges. The meeting underscored both countries' intention to implement the shared vision of Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chinese President Xi Jinping for stable, constructive and mutually beneficial relations.

The discussions took place during an introductory meeting between India's Ambassador to China, Vikram Doraiswami, and China's Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs, Hua Chunying, on Monday. According to the Embassy of India in China, both sides agreed to intensify efforts to translate the vision of their leaders into practical outcomes that benefit the people of both nations.

In a statement shared on social media, the Indian Embassy said the two officials exchanged views on expanding bilateral cooperation across trade, the economy and people-to-people interactions. The discussions reflected a continued effort to improve engagement between the neighbouring countries following recent diplomatic initiatives aimed at stabilising relations.

The Embassy also noted that Ambassador Doraiswami welcomed Vice Minister Hua's assurance that China would support India's Presidency of the BRICS grouping. The assurance highlights the importance both countries attach to cooperation within multilateral institutions despite differences on several bilateral issues. The latest diplomatic engagement follows a series of high-level interactions between India and China over the past few months. Last month, Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi met Prime Minister Narendra Modi in New Delhi and expressed Beijing's willingness to work closely with India to implement the important understandings reached by the leaders of the two countries.

Cricket is not big in Serbia, where I come from. But some of the people in my team are British, and they love cricket. So I have been learning about the game over the last 10 to 15 years. I still need to work on my cricketing skills. Maybe Virat can help me with my technique and bat swing. But seriously, I have great respect and admiration for him. FIFA backs referee after Trump questions WC red card

MIAMI GARDENS

FIFA has publicly defended Brazilian referee Raphael Claus after US President Donald Trump questioned the official's integrity following the red card shown to United States forward Folarin Balogun during the FIFA World Cup.

Trump, speaking at the White House, described Claus as "a little bit suspect" and suggested that his past should be examined, without providing any evidence.

The remarks came after Balogun was sent off during the United States' Round of 32 match against Bosnia-Herzegovina, a decision that sparked widespread debate.

Ahead of the United States' 4-1 defeat to Belgium, which ended the team's World Cup campaign, FIFA issued a rare statement expressing full confidence in the 46-year-old Brazilian referee.

"Throughout his career, he has consistently demonstrated the highest standards of professionalism and integrity," FIFA said, describing Claus as one of the world's leading referees and a valued member of its World Cup officiating team.

Suryakumar dismisses fake social media statement

NEW DELHI

Former India T20I captain Suryakumar Yadav on Tuesday cleared the air regarding a fake statement attributed to him circulating on social media and urged fans and netizens to not believe or share unverified information.

After leading India in the T20 World Cup triumph, Suryakumar was replaced by Shreyas Iyer as the T20I captain and was also left out of the squads for UK tour and the Asian Games.

However, in a false statement that went viral on social media, the batter was quoted as saying that he wasn't given any clarity about his future and did not receive the respect he deserved after everything he had done. Reacting to the matter, the former T20I skipper stated that he has not made such statements.

I've also noticed a statement being circulated online that has been falsely attributed to me. I want to make it clear that I have not made or authorised any such statement. Please don't believe or share unverified information, Suryakumar posted on X.

I'm very happy for the team and wish them nothing but the very best, always. I know the boys are giving it their all, and they will always have my full support. My support for Indian cricket, my teammates, and the game will always speak louder than words falsely attributed to me, he added, aiming to put an end to the unnecessary digital speculation.

He also reserved special praise for 15-year-old batting prodigy Vaibhav Sooryavanshi, who marked his historic debut during the second T20I against England at 15 years and 99 days, thus becoming the youngest-ever Indian cricketer to debut in international cricket.

A special word for Vaibhav - you're at the start of what promises to be a very exciting journey. Enjoy every moment and keep making the country proud, Suryakumar said.

Irfan Pathan Urges Vaibhav Sooryavanshi to Stay Adaptable and Fearless

NEW DELHI

Former India all-rounder Irfan Pathan has backed teenage batting sensation Vaibhav Sooryavanshi to continue playing his natural attacking game but believes the young cricketer must now prepare for the tactical challenges that international bowlers will increasingly pose. Ahead of the third T20 International against England, Pathan said the 15-year-old's remarkable talent is beyond doubt, but long-term success will depend on his ability to adapt as opponents begin analysing his strengths and weaknesses.

Speaking before the crucial series encounter, Pathan said Sooryavanshi's fearless intent should remain unchanged despite his dismissal for 14 runs off 10 deliveries in the second T20I. The former Indian all-rounder pointed out that bowlers across the world would now start developing specific plans to restrict the youngster, making adaptability a key factor in his development.

Pathan explained that Sooryavanshi's aggressive approach against spin remains a positive aspect of his batting, particularly in English conditions where pitches generally offer limited turn. However, he advised the youngster to maintain proper balance while advancing down the pitch and avoid moving too far away from the line of the ball, ensuring greater control over his stroke play.

Although Sooryavanshi's innings in the second match ended early, Pathan appreciated the teenager's willingness to continue playing positively rather than becoming defensive after entering international cricket. He said the young batter would naturally be disappointed with his score and strike rate, especially considering the high standards he has already set for himself. Pathan described Sooryavanshi's emergence as one of the biggest positives not only for Indian cricket but also for the global game. He said the teenager's presence at the highest level serves as an inspiration for countless young boys and girls who dream of representing their countries, proving that age is no barrier when combined with exceptional talent and dedication.

The former cricketer also reflected on India's defeat in the second T20I, suggesting that the visitors fell around 20 runs short despite being in a strong batting position. According to Pathan, India had the opportunity to post a total in the range of 210 to 220 runs but failed to capitalise during the closing stages of the innings.

He credited fast bowler Arshdeep Singh for bringing India back into the contest with two early wickets but felt the bowling unit lacked discipline during the latter stages of England's chase. Pathan noted that India failed to apply sustained pressure, particularly in the death overs, allowing England to regain control of the match.
