'WILL MAKE BDA PEOPLE-FRIENDLY'

BDA cuts regularisation fees, simplifies land allotment and plans special sale deed drive to benefit thousands of Bengaluru property owners.

BENGALURU

Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on Monday announced a series of citizen-centric initiatives as part of the Bangalore Development Authority's (BDA) 50th anniversary, including an opportunity for over one lakh residents to regularise houses built on BDA-acquired land by paying reduced charges.

The initiatives also include allotment of incentive sites to farmers who voluntarily surrendered land for BDA projects, regularisation of marginal land adjoining allotted sites and issuance of absolute sale deeds to more than 20,000 existing site owners.

December 17, 2026, is the deadline for applications under the announced schemes. "Our intention is to provide a legal guarantee of land ownership to people residing in Bengaluru," Shivakumar told reporters here.

Relief for unauthorized residential properties

Under the amended Section 38D of the BDA Act, people who constructed houses on BDA-acquired land before 2008 can apply for regularisation by paying charges based on the property's guidance value. The government has reduced the rates by half compared to the earlier provisions.

The revised charges are 5%, 12.5%, 20% and 25% of the guidance value, against the earlier rates of 10%, 25%, 40% and 50%, respectively, across the prescribed categories based on site dimensions. The earlier scheme, intended to benefit around one lakh property owners, had received only about 600 applications as people considered the charges too high. The three-month application period cannot be extended as it has been stipulated by law, he said.

Applicants must establish their possession through documents such as electricity and water bills or entries in the voters' list. Both online and offline application facilities would be available, and the BDA would publicise the areas covered by the scheme, he said.

Incentive site for every acre surrendered

The second initiative concerns farmers who voluntarily surrendered land without litigation for BDA projects, particularly the Nadaprabhu Kempegowda Layout. They will be eligible for one incentive site for every acre surrendered, subject to applicable rules. He asked eligible landowners to submit applications by December 17. There would be no lucky draw for the allotment, and sites would be provided wherever available, including in the Kempegowda Layout.

People with marginal government land

Under the third initiative, people with marginal government land measuring up to 600 square feet adjoining their BDA-allotted sites can apply for its allotment by paying the applicable guidance value. December 17 would be the last date for applications under this category.

Absolute sale deeds to over 20,000 site owners

The fourth initiative is aimed at providing absolute sale deeds to more than 20,000 site owners who currently possess only lease-cum-sale deeds issued by the BDA or the erstwhile City Improvement Trust Board (CITB). Eligible owners whose lease periods have expired can apply for absolute sale deeds without paying any additional amount, except nominal stamp paper charges.

> BDA has completed 50 years. We are exploring new ideas to make Bengaluru a better-planned city and transform the BDA into a people-friendly institution.
> DK Shivakumar, CM

AMNESTY SCHEMES AND FEATURES

- 1. Limits of judicial orders: Excessive court orders may lead to non-compliance rather than solving pollution.
- 2. Absolute sale deeds: The initiative also includes the issuance of absolute sale deeds to more than 20,000 existing site owners who lacked formal titles.
- 3. Farmer incentives: Incentive sites will be allotted to farmers who voluntarily surrendered their land for BDA projects in the past.
- 4. Marginal land regularisation: Provisions are included to regularise small marginal strips of land immediately adjoining already allotted sites.

RESTRICTIONS & ENFORCEMENT

- Exclusions: The amnesty does not cover open spaces, public roads, or vacant government lands illegally occupied.
- Verification: Applicants must prove long-term possession using official records such as electricity bills, water bills, or voter list entries.
- Crackdown on industrial plots: The BDA is simultaneously issuing notices to industrial plot allottees, who failed to build factories or utilise their parcels 10 to 15 years after allotment, warning them to develop the land or surrender it.

Public servant in judicial custody for over 48 hrs deemed suspended: SC

NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Monday held that a public servant who remains in judicial custody for more than 48 hours is deemed to be under suspension, and no separate order is required to give effect to the provision.

A bench of Justices JB Pardiwala and Manmohan made the observation while restoring the bail granted to Vishwajeet Singh, administrator of the Sadar Hospital in Bihar's Samastipur, who was arrested in a bribery case.

Singh was accused of demanding a bribe of Rs 4,000 to clear the pending wages of Rs 36,421 due to a contractual worker. The apex court set aside a July 1, 2026, order of the Patna High Court cancelling Singh's bail nearly a year after it was granted by the sessions court.

While allowing his appeal, the SC said the amount allegedly demanded as a bribe was not a relevant consideration in deciding a bail plea. It observed that the high court could have disagreed with the sessions court's description of the amount as "paltry" without cancelling the bail. However, the bench flagged what it described as a "disturbing feature" concerning Singh's service status after his arrest.

Noting that Singh had remained in judicial custody for 15 days, Pardiwala said, "Once a public servant is arrested and remains in judicial custody for more than 48 hours, there is a deemed suspension. Being a public servant, he could be said to have been placed under deemed suspension. No specific order is required to be passed in this regard."

Fire scare: Rockets, aerial crackers banned in Mumbai till Nov 25

MUMBAI

In the wake of multiple fire incidents across the city, the Mumbai Disaster Management Authority on Monday banned the bursting of rockets and aerial firecrackers in the metropolis until November 25.

According to the order issued by the authority, the restriction covers all residential buildings, rooftops, balconies, and slum pockets.

Three major fires were reported in different parts of the city on Diwali night alone, gutting several huts, shops, a garage, and parts of a commercial building.

The order, signed by additional municipal commissioner Prajakta Verma-Lavangare, cited the risk posed by rockets and other firecrackers that fly into the sky and land on rooftops, balconies, windows and other combustible materials, potentially triggering fires.

'Focus on polls': DKS dismisses talk of friction with Siddu

BENGALURU

Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on Monday denied reports of differences with his predecessor Siddaramaiah, asserting that there was neither a major nor a minor disagreement between them.

Responding to reporters' questions about an alleged strained relationship and reports that the two leaders had not been speaking to each other, Shivakumar said certain people were attempting to create such an impression.

"He (Siddaramaiah) is our leader but some people are presenting different versions of things to all of you. Certain big people have also been making statements. I discussed various issues to clarify matters to him and apprise him of the relevant developments," he said.

Asked about reports of a minor disagreement between the two leaders, Shivakumar said, "There is no major disagreement, no major disagreement, and no minor disagreement either. Some people from the Opposition have been sitting around trying to create such an impression. I am not referring to you or the media, but certain others."

According to him, criticism and opposition were part of politics and necessary for clean politics.

"In politics, there should be critics and opponents. It is only when they are around that people like us can practise clean politics," he said.

Hasina seeks new passport to return to Bangladesh

NEW DELHI

Former Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina on Monday sought a new passport and national identity card from the Bangladesh high commission in New Delhi to facilitate her planned return home from self-exile in India in December, a move dismissed hours later by Dhaka, which reiterated its demand for her extradition. Hasina (79) has been living in India since her government was ousted in a student-led uprising in August 2024. She has insisted in several occasions that she intends to return to Bangladesh in December despite being sentenced to death over her government's crackdown on protesters. The former premier confirmed to media that her London-based lawyers had written to the Bangladesh high commission seeking a new passport and national identity card, and shared a copy of the letter emailed to the mission on Monday. The request marks the clearest step by Hasina so far to act on her plan to return to Bangladesh.

RaGa repeats debate dare after PM Modi's 'Dimagi Naxal' jibe

NEW DELHI

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Monday hit back at Prime Minister Narendra Modi over his "Dimagi Naxals" jibe while addressing CRPF personnel, saying the jawans had not bought his "lies" and reiterating his challenge to the PM to debate him on who was anti-national and controlled by foreign forces. The Leader of Opposition (LoP) in the Lok Sabha said that the prime minister "called us Naxals" and asserted that after the debate, Modi "won't have the guts to stand in front of a single jawan again". In his post on X, addressed to the CRPF personnel, Gandhi said, "Dear @crpfindia, Your faces said it all: you didn't buy the PM's lies." "He called us Naxals. My challenge stands. Let him debate me on who is anti-national and who is controlled by foreign forces. Any time, any place. My guarantee: after the debate, the PM won't have the guts to stand in front of a single jawan again," Gandhi said.

The victims, who earned their livelihood by supplying eggs and chicken to roadside eateries along the highway, died on the spot. The driver fled the scene, but a crucial breakthrough occurred when the car's number plate detached at the collision site. HC refuses to quash black magic fraud case

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka High Court expressed concern over ritualistic fraud, dismissing a petition to quash criminal proceedings against Lakshmamma, wife of prime accused Nagaraj, and two real estate agents. Justice Suraj Govindaraj rejected arguments regarding their absence from the initial FIR. The case stems from a Bengaluru woman's complaint that Nagaraj exploited her following her husband's death in 2009. Falsely claiming divine possession, he allegedly coerced her into selling five properties, stealing 450 grams of gold and crores in cash. Noting prima facie conspiracy evidence, the court ruled the accused must face a full trial.

Bengaluru Metro Pink Line ready for launch

Prime Minister Narendra Modi will inaugurate Namma Metro's Pink Line stretch, pushing Bengaluru's transit network past 100 kilometers to ease massive traffic congestion.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A decorated Namma Metro train.

Public transit infrastructure in Karnataka's capital is set to achieve a historic milestone this week. Prime Minister Narendra Modi will inaugurate the first operational section of Namma Metro's highly anticipated Pink Line on November 13, marking a major leap forward in the city's efforts to combat severe urban traffic congestion.

The newly completed phase features a 7.5-kilometer elevated stretch extending from Kalena Agrahara on Bannerghatta Road to Tavarekere. This initial rollout brings six key stations into service: Kalena Agrahara, Hulimavu, IIM Bangalore, J.P. Nagar 4th Phase, Jayadeva Hospital, and Tavarekere. These stations will provide residents across South Bengaluru with a faster, more reliable travel alternative, significantly easing daily commutes along the busy Bannerghatta Road corridor.

A standout feature of this new stretch is the multi-level interchange facility at Jayadeva Hospital Metro Station, which connects the Pink Line directly to the Yellow Line. This integration allows passengers traveling toward major employment hubs like Electronic City and Bommasandra to switch lines effortlessly. Combined with existing Yellow-to-Green Line connections at R.V. Road, the network expansion creates a seamless web of transit options across southern neighborhoods.

When fully completed, the entire 21.26-kilometer Pink Line will connect Kalena Agrahara in South Bengaluru to Nagawara in the north across 18 stations, featuring both elevated and underground segments. Crucially, the launch of this 7.5-kilometer section pushes Bengaluru's total operational metro network past the 100-kilometer mark, cementing the city's position among India's largest mass rapid transit systems. Looking ahead, Minister Krishna Byre Gowda has set an ambitious target to expand the overall Namma Metro network to 170 kilometers by 2027.

Political clash erupts over metro credit

Political tensions are flaring in the city ahead of the Namma Metro Pink Line inauguration. Leaders from the ruling Congress and opposition BJP are locked in a bitter war of words over funding and credit for the rapid transit project. BJP MP Tejasvi Surya argued that central funding expanded the network significantly since 2014, adding that central sovereign guarantees make massive international loans possible. In sharp contrast, Congress MLA Dinesh Gundu Rao hit back online, claiming the state actually shoulders the vast majority of the financial burden. Both parties continue trading accusations over project delays.

HC orders probe into subsidized rice diversion

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka High Court has declined to quash an ongoing police First Information Report (FIR) registered against a wholesale godown manager in connection with the suspected illegal diversion of subsidized ration rice. The ruling stems from a petition filed by Narasimhegowda K.M., manager of a Karnataka Food and Civil Supplies Corporation (KFCSC) wholesale outlet near the RMC Yard in Yeshwantpur, Bengaluru.

Karnataka High Court refused to quash an FIR against a wholesale godown manager over suspected ration rice diversion, ordering a deep electronic server log investigation.

The case originated on September 17, 2025, when officials from the Department of Food and Civil Supplies conducted a surprise inspection at the warehouse. During the raid, authorities discovered 280 bags of ration rice earmarked for distribution through fair-price shops being loaded onto a transport truck. While valid paperwork covered 200 bags, documentation for the remaining 80 bags was missing at the time the inspection began at 10:47 AM. Investigators noted that a supplementary bill was generated by the manager only after officials arrived.

Server glitch claim

Appearing before a bench presided over by Justice Suraj Govindaraj, the petitioner's legal counsel argued that the delayed billing resulted from a technical server malfunction within the Food Department's network. They further contended that because the vehicle had not yet departed the warehouse premises, the incident could not legally constitute smuggling or illegal diversion.

However, the High Court dismissed the petition, emphasizing that the timing of the document generation raises critical questions that warrant deep judicial scrutiny. The bench directed investigating officers to conduct a comprehensive inquiry, instructing them to scrutinize electronic database records and server log files to verify whether the technical glitch claims are genuine or a retroactive cover for illicit transport attempts.

Consequently, the RMC Yard Police Station will proceed with a thorough investigation under the provisions of the Essential Commodities Act and the Prevention of Corruption Act.

Cloudnine Hospital denies child negligence claims

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Cloudnine Hospital representatives address the media.

Cloudnine Hospital management has formally and categorically rejected allegations of medical negligence surrounding the critical condition of one-year-old Shayana, who remains in a coma following a medical procedure. Declaring that a coordinated smear campaign is unfairly targeting its medical staff, the hospital administration insisted that no professional malpractice occurred during the child's care.

According to hospital statements, the infant was initially admitted following an accidental ear injury sustained while playing at home. Medical professionals advised the family that the patient needed to remain on a completely empty stomach before anesthesia could be safely administered for treatment. However, hospital officials stated that the parents disregarded these fasting guidelines and fed the infant milk prior to the procedure. This oversight reportedly triggered a severe aspiration complication, resulting in sudden oxygen deprivation and subsequent neurological distress.

Furthermore, hospital representatives emphasized that the anesthesia was administered by a qualified senior specialist possessing 14 years of professional experience in the field. Addressing the child's current medical status, attending physicians reported that the young patient is showing signs of recovery, though medical experts noted that considerable time will be necessary to determine the full extent of neurological improvement.

In response to escalating tensions at the medical facility, the management confirmed they were legally compelled to file a First Information Report (FIR) against individuals who reportedly stormed the premises, created public disturbances, and engaged in physical assaults against staff members. The incident has drawn intense local scrutiny, prompting calls for calm as authorities continue to review the circumstances surrounding the infant's medical emergency and the subsequent confrontations at the hospital grounds.

Investigation and context

The unexpected medical emergency sparked high tensions at the facility. Families and protestors confronted hospital authorities, demanding accountability for the child's critical condition. Police intervention became necessary to restore order after angry crowds reportedly forced their way inside and clashed with workers.

Medical experts generally note that aspiration during anesthesia poses severe risks because food or liquid entering the lungs can severely block oxygen flow. Authorities are reviewing the timeline and medical records to determine the exact sequence of events while the child continues to receive ongoing medical treatment under hospital supervision.

Police recover bodies of all seven murder victims

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The family at the centre of the seven-murder case, in earlier photographs.

Law enforcement agencies investigating the horrific murder of seven members of a single family have reached a major milestone, successfully locating all remaining victims after a massive, multi-district manhunt spanning across Karnataka and neighboring regions.

According to police reports released on Monday, the grim search concluded when two additional bodies were discovered in the remote and densely forested terrain of Shiradi Ghat. Authorities confirmed that these final recovered remains belong to the victims Shankar and Nalini. Upon receiving the breakthrough notification, specialized investigative teams from the Rajajinagar Police Station, accompanied by an expert Forensic Science Laboratory (FSL) unit, immediately rushed from Bengaluru to the rugged location to secure the crime scene, gather vital forensic evidence, and conduct preliminary inspections before transporting the remains.

This discovery brings the total recovery count to all seven victims, following earlier coordinated operations that located individual bodies across diverse geographic locations. The body of seven-year-old Puneeth was previously recovered at the foothills of Nandi Hills in the Chikkaballapur district, with his funeral rites having already taken place at the Harishchandra Ghat in Rajajinagar. Subsequently, search parties found the bodies of Sunitha and Rupavathi in Salem, Tamil Nadu, while the remains of the couple Shivakumar and Divya were discovered near the foothills of Chamundi Hill in Mysuru.

Police administration sources indicate that the recovered bodies from Mysuru, Salem, and Shiradi Ghat were to be formally handed over to grieving relatives on Monday. Family members and community representatives have coordinated plans to perform the final collective funeral rites for the remaining victims at a single designated location to honor the family.

Meanwhile, investigators continue to compile evidence, review testimonies from the prime suspect Indushekhar, and finalize the comprehensive chargesheet as the state reels from the unprecedented tragedy.

Chilling details emerge in seven-member family murder probe

Police investigating the horrific seven-member family murder case have uncovered crucial evidence regarding how the prime accused, Indushekhar, prepared for the crime. Investigators revealed that Indushekhar went on a targeted shopping trip beforehand to secure materials needed to cover up the massacre.

According to police findings, Indushekhar purchased body-packing materials and chemical supplies meant to clean up bloodstains from local shops in the surrounding area. Furthermore, when specific cleaning agents and packaging items were unavailable locally, he traveled directly to commercial hubs in Yeshwantpur and the RMC Yard to procure them.

Authorities have visited these stores, secured vital CCTV footage, and recorded statements from local shop owners and staff to map out his preparations.

INTIMIDATION TACTICS ESCALATE

Knife parcel, poster war: Congress-BJP clash intensifies

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

State politics have descended into a bitter and volatile confrontation as escalating animosity between the ruling Congress and the opposition BJP spills over into open hostility, highlighted by intimidation tactics, threatening parcels, and a widespread poster war across Karnataka.

The crisis intensified significantly after an anonymous package containing sharp weapons, including knives and daggers, was delivered directly to the residence of senior BJP leader Chalavadi Narayanaswamy. The brazen delivery has triggered widespread political outrage and deep concern among opposition leaders over safety and escalating partisan aggression.

Posters put up in the poster war between the Congress and the BJP.

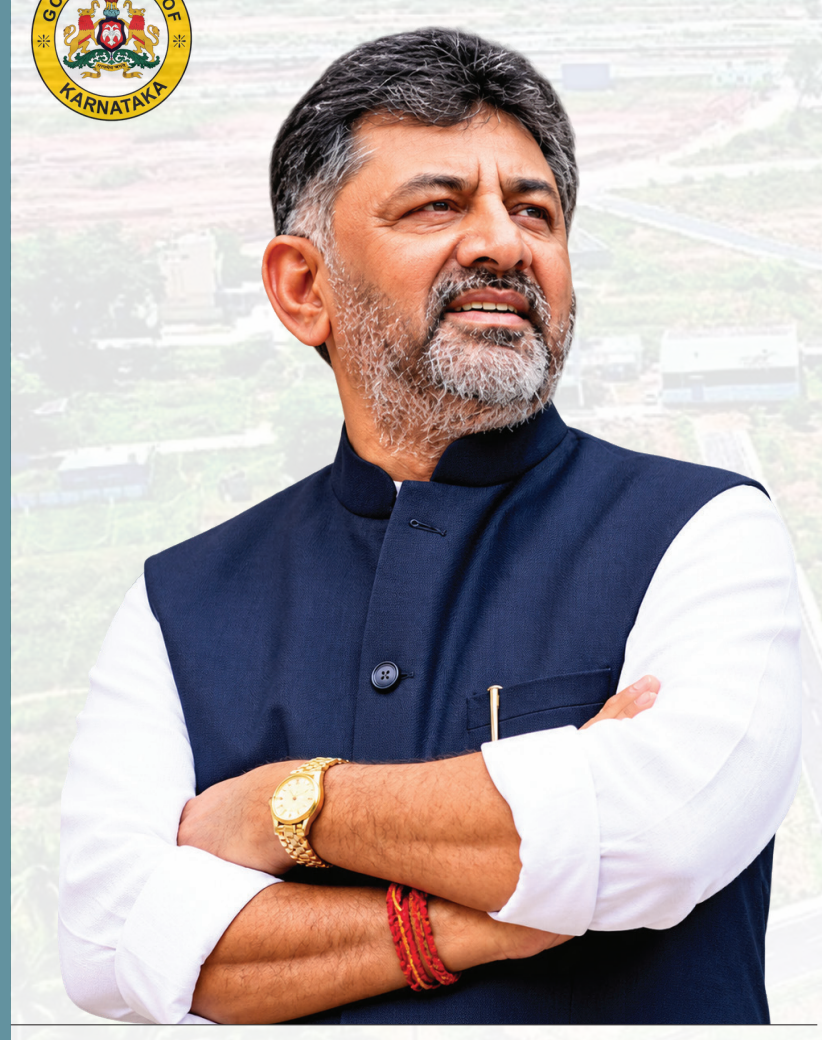

Condemning the act, Leader of the Opposition R. Ashoka rushed to Narayanaswamy's home to extend personal solidarity and party backing. Launching a scathing critique against the ruling administration, Ashoka publicly challenged the ruling party, questioning why cowardly and clandestine tactics involving weapons were being deployed instead of engaging in straightforward political debate. In response to the terrifying incident, Chalavadi Narayanaswamy formally filed a police complaint targeting National Students' Union of India (NSUI) activists, explicitly accusing the ruling Congress party of promoting and sheltering a culture of goondaism and intimidation.

Simultaneously, a retaliatory "poster war" has gripped several major cities across the state, deepening the partisan rift. Congress workers escalated tensions by pasting provocative posters directly outside the residence of BJP State President B.Y. Vijayendra in Shivamogga, as well as outside the home of veteran leader B.S. Yediyurappa in Bengaluru.

BJP leaders have universally condemned these targeted demonstrations, with B.Y. Vijayendra dismissing the strategy as desperate and cheap politics while demanding swift punitive action from law enforcement against the perpetrators. In counter-tactics across various neighborhoods of Bengaluru, Youth Congress members launched their own display of political messaging, plastering supportive posters for Home Minister Priyank Kharge alongside biting satirical material aimed at Union Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy.

Balindra Puja at Udupi Krishna Mutt

Deepavali rituals at the Sri Krishna Mutt in Udupi.

CH NEWS, UDUPI

Traditional Deepavali rituals, including Balindra Puja, were performed with religious fervour at the Sri Krishna Mutt in Udupi on Monday.

Balindra Puja holds special significance in the Tulunadu region. According to local tradition, King Balindra, believed to have ruled the region in the past, is welcomed and honoured once a year during Deepavali.

As part of this agrarian tradition, people light lamps in their paddy fields and invite the king to visit their homes and lands.

The Balindra Puja was performed at the Sri Krishna Mutt in the presence of the presiding Paryaya pontiff, priests and devotees as part of the Deepavali celebrations.

In Tulunadu, Deepavali's Balindra Puja honours the legendary King Balindra by lighting paddy field lamps to invite him home.

Deepavali celebrates nature, coastal agrarian traditions

Deepavali, or Parba, is a major coastal Karnataka festival celebrating nature, agriculture, and tradition by honouring Earth, cattle, and King Balindra.

CH NEWS, MANGALURU

Deepavali, locally known as Parba, is one of the major festivals celebrated in the coastal region of Karnataka. Beyond the lighting of lamps, the festival reflects a deep connection with nature, agriculture and traditional cultural practices.

Its rituals include worshipping the Earth, cattle, farming equipment and welcoming King Balindra.

Unlike other regions, Deepavali in coastal Karnataka has distinctive customs and is generally celebrated over three days, from Naraka Chaturdashi to Balipadyami. However, Naraka Chaturdashi is not observed in some parts of the district.

The celebrations begin with an oil bath on Naraka Chaturdashi. The previous night, the water-heating vessel is cleaned, decorated with sandalwood paste and tied with a cucumber vine before being filled with well water. The following morning, family members apply oil, place coins in the hot-water vessel and pay their respects before bathing.

Preparing dosas is another important tradition. Batter is made the previous night, and dosas are served to elders early the next morning, accompanied by traditional jaggery, coconut or vegetable dishes.

Balipadyami, or Padya, is marked by worship of local Daivas. In the evening, families decorate Belaku Mara, ceremonial illuminated poles installed near houses, paddy fields, cattle sheds and shrines. Some communities also use traditional torches.

Go Puja is another significant ritual. Cattle are bathed, decorated with vermilion and flower garlands, worshipped at dusk and fed beaten rice. Cattle sheds are also cleaned and fresh green leaves spread.

This is followed by Ayudha Puja, during which agricultural implements, household tools, measuring vessels and vehicles are cleaned and decorated with flowers.

These customs highlight the close relationship between Deepavali, farming, cattle and nature, preserving the coastal region's rich agrarian heritage for future generations.

SDRF RELIEF GUIDELINES

Raghavendra demands crop loss compensation, flight services

CH NEWS, SHIVAMOGGA

MP B.Y. Raghavendra has urged the Karnataka Government to provide adequate compensation to farmers for crop losses in accordance with State Disaster Response Fund (SDRF) guidelines.

He accused the government of making empty promises instead of offering meaningful relief to distressed farmers.

Addressing a press conference, Raghavendra recalled that in 2022, when the BJP was in power, the state government provided an additional ₹6,900 per hectare over the SDRF compensation of ₹6,800, taking the total assistance to ₹13,700. He demanded that the present government follow the same model instead of merely expressing sympathy for farmers.

Reacting to Food and Civil Supplies Minister Rizwan Arshad's claim that petrol contains 30 per cent ethanol, the MP alleged that the statement was misleading. He said tests conducted in Karnataka had not established any instance of such high-level ethanol blending.

Raghavendra also expressed concern over the possible suspension of flight services from Shivamogga Airport from November 21, following the completion of financial assistance under the UDAN scheme. With IndiGo services already discontinued, he urged the state government to ensure at least one daily flight between Shivamogga and Bengaluru.

He said air connectivity was essential for business, tourism, education, industry and medical travel in the Malenadu region. He also sought financial incentives for airlines, similar to the support extended to flight services in Kalaburagi and Bidar.

Pointing out that around ₹15 crore in additional assistance over three-and-a-half years could help maintain services, he urged immediate government intervention. He said efforts to develop night-landing facilities at the airport would be undermined if flight operations were discontinued.

MLC D.S. Arun, Dr. Dhananjaya Sarji, district BJP president Jagadish N.K. and other party office-bearers were present.

Protesters demand action against Bidar DHO over nurse transfer

Protesters accused the DHO of abusing official authority over nurse Bhagyalakshmi's transfer cancellation, demanding accountability through a memorandum to the Health Minister.

CH NEWS, BIDAR

Members of the Rashtriya Ahind Sanghatane staged a protest outside the District Health and Family Welfare Department office on Monday, demanding action against the District Health and Family Welfare Officer (DHO) and the transfer of a nurse working at the Janawada Primary Health Centre (PHC) in Bidar taluk.

The protesters accused the DHO of misusing his official authority by cancelling the transfer order issued against nurse Bhagyalakshmi. They raised slogans against the officer and submitted a memorandum addressed to the State Health and Family Welfare Minister through the Deputy Commissioner.

According to the memorandum, complaints had been raised against Bhagyalakshmi over her alleged behaviour towards pregnant women visiting the health centre. The protesters claimed that she had failed to provide proper assistance to women experiencing labour pains, putting mothers and newborns at risk.

The memorandum stated that complaints regarding the nurse's conduct had earlier been submitted to the Deputy Commissioner, Zilla Panchayat Chief Executive Officer and DHO. Following these complaints, the DHO had reportedly issued a transfer order. However, the order was cancelled a few days later.

The organisation alleged that the decision to withdraw the transfer order reflected the misuse of official powers and demanded an inquiry into the DHO's actions.

Shivalinge Gowda rejects bribery allegations, demands apology

Excise Minister K.M. Shivalinge Gowda.

CH NEWS, HASSAN

Karnataka Excise Minister and Hassan District In-charge Minister K.M. Shivalinge Gowda has strongly denied allegations that Deputy Commissioner K.S. Latha Kumari paid him a bribe to avoid being transferred.

He challenged former Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy to provide evidence to support the allegations or withdraw them and issue a public apology.

In a media statement, Shivalinge Gowda said serious allegations against public representatives must be supported by evidence. He questioned the authenticity of the WhatsApp conversations presented to support the claims and said mentioning someone's name in a conversation did not establish that money had changed hands.

He urged Kumaraswamy to submit any available evidence to the appropriate investigating agency so that the truth could emerge. He also rejected what he described as baseless allegations against himself and the Deputy Commissioner.

Referring to the ongoing Hassanamba Jatra Mahotsava, the minister said religious celebrations should not be used for political attacks. He stated that he would not allow even a single rupee to be misappropriated in the festival arrangements and offered to provide a detailed account supported by evidence.

The minister said he had been staying in Hassan for the past 20 days, working alongside the local MP to oversee preparations for the annual festival. He added that his priority was to ensure proper arrangements and facilities for devotees.

Shivalinge Gowda said he was willing to respond to any genuine questions about administrative lapses if they were supported by evidence. However, he maintained that allegations damaging his reputation and that of the Deputy Commissioner were unacceptable.

He reiterated his demand that Kumaraswamy either prove the allegations or publicly withdraw them and apologise.

A KILLER'S CHILLING OVERNIGHT TRAIL ON CHAMUNDI HILL

MYSURU

A car carrying a horrifying secret rolled into Mysuru at 10.40 am on October 26. To anyone watching, it was just another vehicle making its way along the Bengaluru-Mysuru highway. But concealed inside the cab were two bodies, allegedly belonging to members of a family brutally murdered in Bengaluru's Rajajinagar.

What followed reads like a chilling crime thriller, with Chamundi Hill becoming the unlikely setting for an alleged exercise in calculated body disposal.

The 52-year-old accused, S. Indushekhar alias Arjun Indushekhar, a cab driver, is alleged to have murdered seven members of his wife Sunitha's family over a domestic and property dispute. The recovery of two more bodies from Chamundi Hill has now brought into focus the disturbing details of his alleged movements in Mysuru.

According to police sources, the cab crossed the Gananguru Toll Plaza near Srirangapatna at 10.40 am on October 26. The bodies were allegedly wrapped in cloth and sprayed with chemicals to suppress the smell, apparently ensuring that the journey would not attract unwanted attention.

But the most disturbing part of the alleged operation unfolded on Chamundi Hill.

A festival crowd, a calculated opportunity?

October 26 coincided with the Teppotsava of Goddess Chamundeshwari at Devikere.

Thousands of devotees had converged on the hill, prompting the deployment of additional police personnel around the temple tank and adjoining areas.

Yet, according to investigators, the accused may have found an opportunity in the very arrangements made for crowd management. While police presence was substantial around Devikere, patrolling at other viewpoints and stretches of the hill was relatively sparse.

Investigators suspect that he exploited these gaps, moving his car between different parking locations and viewpoints before allegedly pushing the bodies down steep slopes.

One body reportedly got entangled in a tree, while another plunged nearly 30 metres into a deep gorge. Dense vegetation and difficult terrain, compounded by rainfall, made the bodies difficult to spot.

The car that concealed a terrible secret

Perhaps the most chilling detail is that the accused reportedly remained inside his car for extended periods, even parking at forest department viewpoints where patrols were conducted at intervals of around 30 minutes.

Drought, rising prices dampen Deepavali celebrations

CH NEWS, VIJAYAPURA

Deepavali celebrations in Muddebihal have been subdued this year as drought conditions and rising prices of festive items have forced families to reduce their purchases.

Unlike previous years, shoppers are buying fewer flowers, fruits, decorative lights and firecrackers due to the increased cost of essential items.

Flowers are selling at ₹100 to ₹120 per kg. Fruit prices have also increased amid inadequate post-monsoon rainfall. Lemons cost ₹5 each, while apples and mosambis are priced at ₹40 each. A dozen hybrid bananas costs ₹70 to ₹80, while country bananas are selling for ₹100 to ₹120.

Decorative electric lights, which previously cost ₹90 to ₹200, are now priced between ₹280 and ₹600.

The rising prices have affected household budgets, with many families cutting down on purchases of flowers and fruits for Lakshmi Puja. The drought situation has further added to people's difficulties.

Despite the festive occasion, the rising cost of essential items has reduced the usual excitement in the local market, making Deepavali celebrations more expensive for residents.

Zubair also stated that the operation marked the 17th successful encroachment clearance drive conducted by the Task Force constituted under the leadership of the Deputy Commissioner.

Assistant Commissioner H.D. Rajesh, the Tahsildar, and officials and personnel from the Revenue and Police departments participated in the operation.

The district administration stated that the action was part of its efforts to protect government property and ensure that public land is utilized for its intended purposes.

Halepura Lake gets water after fifteen-year wait

The programme in Halepura to mark water reaching the village lake

CH NEWS, HUNSUR

A long-standing demand of villagers in Halepura has finally been fulfilled, with water reaching the village lake through a lift irrigation project. Former Hunsur MLA H.P. Manjunath performed a special puja and offered bagina to the lake to mark the occasion.

Villagers welcomed Manjunath with a procession through the main streets and honoured him in recognition of his efforts towards completing the project.

Speaking at the programme, Manjunath said the project was approved in 2016 during his tenure as MLA, with the support of then Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and then Water Resources Minister M.B. Patil. He also acknowledged the role of the government in releasing funds and completing the work.

He recalled that former H.D. Kote MLA Chikkamadu had requested that three lakes in his constituency also be included in the project. Accordingly, a project costing approximately ₹82 crore was planned to supply water to 52 lakes, including 49 in Hunsur taluk and three in H.D. Kote taluk.

Manjunath said the proposal had also been discussed with village elders from Gagenahalli during the work to fill Bilikere Lake. He expressed happiness that water had now reached Halepura Lake, bringing joy to the villagers.

Manjunath said he had served as an MLA for three terms and had always tried to honour the trust placed in him by the people and farmers of the constituency.

Referring to the lake development work in Channapatna, he said Channapatna MLA C.P. Yogeshwar had earned the title of 'Bhagiratha' for helping fill 16 lakes with water.

"I feel proud and satisfied that water has reached 131 lakes in the Hunsur constituency.

Whether people call me Bhagiratha or not does not matter. The love and affection of the people who have trusted me are my greatest strength," he said emotionally.

Makkala Kalashri competition encourages children's creativity

CH NEWS, CHITRADURGA

Extracurricular activities play an important role in developing children's talents, building confidence and refreshing their minds, said Senior Civil Judge and District Legal Services Authority Member-Secretary Shameer P. Nandyal.

He was speaking after inaugurating the district-level Makkala Kalashri competition at the District Bala Bhavana hall in Chitradurga. The event was organised jointly by the State Bala Bhavana Society, Zilla Panchayat, Department of Women and Child Development and District Bala Bhavana Committee.

Nandyal said such competitions help children develop a healthy competitive spirit and showcase their creative abilities. Appreciating the entries presented by the participants, he said the quality of their work made the task of selecting winners difficult. He expressed confidence that the selected participants would perform well at the state-level competition.

He also stressed the importance of teaching children about laws, fundamental rights and their responsibilities from an early age. He highlighted the role of parents and teachers in developing good values and cultural awareness among children.

District Nodal Officer of the Department of Women and Child Development J.R. Dinesh said the Makkala Kalashri programme is organised annually by the State Bala Bhavana Society in association with the department.

More than 142 children from across Chitradurga district participated in various competitions based on the theme 'New Innovations in Science'.

Two participants from each category will be selected to attend the state-level Kalashri camp along with Bala Bhavana staff.

Dinesh appreciated the children's performances and encouraged them to continue developing their talents.

Winners received certificates of merit and mementoes, while all participants were given certificates of participation.

Groups protest unscientific road work on Old BM Road

CH NEWS, HUNSUR

Leaders of progressive organisations staged a protest against the alleged poor-quality and unscientific development work on Old BM Road in Hunsur. They accused officials of negligence and warned of approaching the Lokayukta if the problems were not addressed.

Speaking to reporters, advocate Puttaraju said the government had sanctioned ₹7.5 crore for the road development project, but the work was progressing unsatisfactorily. He alleged that essential preparations, including shifting electricity poles, removing trees and constructing drainage facilities, had not been completed even after three months.

He also alleged that the road was not being developed to its proposed width of 14 metres and that space on one side was being left unused. He questioned how road development could proceed without identifying space for drains and warned against wasting public money.

Satya M.S. Foundation President Satyappa blamed Public Works Department (PWD) officials for the alleged mismanagement. He said the work had begun without a proper road survey, identification of drainage areas or necessary Forest Department permission for tree removal.

He added that the poor condition of roads was causing inconvenience to the city's more than 80,000 residents. He alleged that delays by the Forest and Survey departments and the installation of electricity poles by KPTCL were affecting the project. He warned that a Lokayukta complaint and legal action would follow if the issues remained unresolved.

RTI activist Intek Raju also criticised the alleged negligence of PWD officials and the City Municipal Council Commissioner. He demanded an immediate survey and proper marking of road boundaries.

Former MLA steps in

Former MLA H.P. Manjunath held discussions with Forest Department representative Santhosh Hoogar, KPTCL Assistant Executive Engineer Kaleem, PWD Assistant Executive Engineer Yatish and contractor Dhananjay.

Yatish said the two-kilometre stretch from Devaraj Arasu Circle to Samvidhana Circle was being developed at a cost of approximately ₹7 crore.

H.K. Patil gifts house to homeless woman for Diwali

CH NEWS, GADAG

MLA H.K. Patil handed over a house allotment letter to a homeless woman as a Diwali gift at a programme held at the City Municipal Council premises on Monday.

Khairunnisa S. Shekhattar had been living in a makeshift hut beneath the railway overbridge on Station Road for nearly 65 years. However, the Railway Department demolished the hut due to the poor condition of the overbridge, leaving her without shelter and forcing her to face considerable hardship.

Although Khairunnisa had applied for a house under the Homes for the Homeless scheme in 2022, she had not received an allotment.

Considering her situation, a house was sanctioned for her under the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana (PMAY) 3630 (G+1) group housing project. The house was allotted from the 760 units available for distribution. She was assigned Block No. 32, Unit No. 01, on the first floor. MLA H.K. Patil personally handed over the allotment letter to her.

The programme was attended by Legislative Council member S.V. Sankanur, Guarantee Schemes Implementation Authority Taluk President Ashok Mandali and Urban Development Authority Chairman Akbarsab Babarchi.

Sensex, Nifty end higher in volatile trade

MUMBAI

Indian benchmark indices closed higher on Monday after a volatile and range-bound trading session, supported by strong buying in PSU bank and pharmaceutical stocks. The 30-share Sensex gained 107.25 points, or 0.13%, to settle at 81,106.65, while the Nifty advanced 58.25 points, or 0.23%, to close at 25,044.65.

Commenting on Nifty technical outlook, experts said that immediate resistance remains in the 25,150–25,200 zone. A sustained breakout above this range could reinforce the bullish momentum and open the way for further upside.

Large caps outperform broader market in October

NEW DELHI

India's benchmark index Nifty was the only major market-cap index on NSE that posted positive returns in October, gaining 1.91%, while broader market segments ended lower, led by sharp declines in microcap and smallcap stocks, a report said on Monday. The report from Motilal Oswal Mutual Fund said the Nifty Next 50 fell 2.92% during the month, while the Nifty Midcap 150 dropped 3.75%. The Nifty Smallcap 250 fell 5.81% and the Nifty Microcap 250 lost 8.95%, witnessing sharper falls than midcaps.

'China using cheap finance to spread its footprint in Central Asia'

NEW DELHI

For Kazakhstan and other Central Asian economies seeking affordable capital to fund infrastructure, industrial expansion and trade, Chinese financing has become an increasingly appealing option, yet behind these favourable terms lies a broader strategic picture that extends far beyond simple economics.

Kazakhstan, the region's largest economy, sits at the crossroads of the Belt and Road Initiative, linking China with Europe, Russia and the Middle East.

By offering low-cost financing, Beijing is steadily embedding itself within Kazakhstan's economic architecture.

The attraction of Chinese financing is straightforward: Chinese capital markets possess abundant liquidity, and Beijing has demonstrated a willingness to support cross-border projects that align with its strategic interests. For Central Asian governments and corporations facing tighter global credit conditions, borrowing in yuan can significantly reduce financing costs.

The ability to raise funds directly in Chinese currency is especially useful for entities purchasing machinery, industrial equipment, telecommunications systems and other goods from Chinese suppliers. However, this creates a self-reinforcing cycle: more trade with China increases demand for yuan financing, while greater yuan financing encourages further trade with China.

Beyond Kazakhstan, similar dynamics are visible across parts of Central Asia.

India, EU review progress of strategic partnership

Both sides reviewed engagements towards boosting trade and investment cooperation, including the timely signing and implementation of the India-EU FTA.

NEW DELHI

India and the European Union (EU) on Monday reviewed the progress of their Strategic Partnership during the seventh India-EU Strategic Partnership Review Meeting held in New Delhi, with discussions covering trade, investment, economic security, clean energy transition and critical technologies.

The meeting was co-chaired by Secretary (West) Sibi George and Matti Maasikas, Deputy Secretary-General for Geoeconomics and Interinstitutional Issues of the European Union.

According to the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA), both sides reviewed the implementation of the Joint Comprehensive Strategic Agenda adopted at the India-EU Summit in January 2026.

The discussions covered the full spectrum of bilateral cooperation, including trade and investment under the proposed India-EU Free Trade Agreement (FTA), supply chains, economic security, clean transition, research, connectivity, critical technologies, talent mobility and people-to-people exchanges.

The review comes ahead of the expected formal signing of the India-EU trade agreement. Last month, European Council President Antonio Costa said Prime Minister Narendra Modi would visit Brussels in December to sign the agreement.

India and the European Union concluded negotiations on the FTA earlier this year. The proposed agreement is expected to create a market covering more than two billion people and accounting for approximately a quarter of the global economy.

Meanwhile, India and the EU completed negotiations on Saturday for India's association with Horizon Europe, the European Union's flagship research and innovation programme.

The association is expected to strengthen long-term research cooperation by enabling Indian researchers, institutions and industries to participate in funding opportunities through collaborative projects.

It will also provide access to European research consortia and advanced research infrastructure, while promoting talent mobility and the joint development of critical technologies, standards and solutions.

Tamil Nadu plans to buy 3,500 MW of thermal power

CHENNAI

The Tamil Nadu Power Distribution Corporation has initiated advance arrangements to procure 3,500 megawatts (MW) of thermal power to meet the anticipated rise in electricity consumption during the summer of 2027.

The corporation has invited tenders from eligible power generation companies for supplying electricity between January 2027 and June 15, 2027, covering approximately five-and-a-half months when demand is expected to increase significantly.

The proposed procurement is aimed at ensuring an uninterrupted electricity supply to domestic consumers, commercial establishments, industries and agricultural operations across the state during the peak summer period.

Officials said advance procurement would help Tamil Nadu avoid unexpected power shortages and minimise the possibility of disruptions in electricity distribution during periods of exceptionally high demand.

Tamil Nadu traditionally experiences a substantial rise in electricity consumption during summer, particularly between March and May.

Under the proposed arrangement, the corporation intends to secure 3,500 MW of electricity from thermal power generation facilities operated by private companies and other eligible producers.

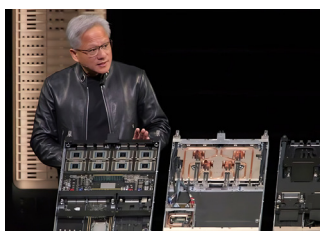

The tender process will enable qualified power suppliers to participate by submitting competitive bids.

The advance procurement plan is intended to provide greater certainty over electricity availability during the summer months and help the state prepare for fluctuations in consumption.

Nvidia board can remove Huang as CEO, says report

NEW DELHI

Nvidia's board has the authority to remove founder and Chief Executive Officer Jensen Huang from his executive role through a majority vote of directors in office without a criminal finding or conviction, although removing him as a board director would require shareholder approval under separate procedures, according to a report.

The report from NDTV Profit said Nvidia's amended and restated bylaws, dated March 12, 2024, allow any company officer to be removed with or without cause through the affirmative vote of a majority of directors.

Who can remove Huang?

Q As CEO?
A The board, by a majority vote of the directors in office, with or without cause.

Q As a director?
A Shareholders: a majority vote with cause, or at least 66.67% of the voting power without one.

Nvidia's bylaws provide for director removal with cause through a majority shareholder vote. Director removal without providing a cause requires a shareholder vote representing at least 66.67 per cent of the company's outstanding voting power.

Nvidia on November 8 launched an independent investigation into reports that Huang was targeted by a spy of a foreign intelligence operation purportedly through a personal relationship.

The inquiry follows allegations involving Alice Huang, an executive at Singapore-based Megaspeed, a major Nvidia customer that reportedly purchased more than $4.8 billion worth of Nvidia chips over two years.

US-based companies have removed chief executives several times over personal relationships that violated internal policies.

China on October 30 dismissed claims that it had spied on Jensen Huang, chief executive of US chip giant Nvidia, calling such claims "baseless," according to media reports from Beijing.

Govt extends deepsea oil, gas block bidding deadline

NEW DELHI

The government has extended the deadline for submitting bids for deepwater and ultra-deepwater oil and gas exploration blocks under its 10th and 11th Open Acreage Licensing Policy (OALP) rounds to December 10, marking the seventh postponement for OALP-X and the third for OALP-XI.

The latest extension gives prospective investors nearly a month more to assess the offshore acreage on offer amid efforts to attract investment into India's technically challenging deepwater exploration sector. The Directorate General of Hydrocarbons (DGH), under the Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas, has revised the bidding deadline for deepwater and ultra-deepwater blocks in OALP-X and OALP-XI to December 10.

? SAMUDRA MANTHAN

The Rs 84,084-crore offshore exploration scheme covers up to 50 per cent of eligible deepwater drilling costs, capped at Rs 675 crore a well. Its operating guidelines were released on October 22.

While the government did not specify the reason for the extension, multiple media reports suggested that it could be linked to the government's Rs 84,084-crore Samudra Manthan National Offshore Exploration Scheme, whose operating guidelines were released on October 22.

The scheme provides government support of up to 50 per cent of eligible deepwater exploration drilling costs, subject to a ceiling of Rs 675 crore per well. The extension would give companies more time to evaluate the financial support framework and the economics of the blocks.

OALP-X was launched in 2025 with 25 blocks covering around 1.83 lakh sq km across 13 sedimentary basins.

Bidding for onshore and shallow-water blocks closed in June, while the deadline for deepwater and ultra-deepwater acreage was extended several times from July 2025. It was earlier set for November 15 before being pushed to December 10.

World Bank hails India's fall in extreme poverty

NEW DELHI

India's sharp reduction in poverty over the past decade, driven by sustained economic growth, rising consumption, expanding employment and social protection, offers important lessons for developing countries, a new report has said, after the World Bank said that the share of Indians living in extreme poverty fell to 2.6% in 2023 from 27.1% in 2011.

According to reports in Bangladesh-based media, India lifted around 496 million people out of extreme poverty, more than the population of the US and Russia combined, marking the "fastest poverty declines in the world."

The recent World Bank brief also indicated that, using the lower middle-income poverty line of $4.2 per day, the poverty rate declined to 16.1% from 57.7% over the same period.

The World Bank, however, has cautioned that some recent gains could reflect improvements in measurement alongside genuine welfare improvements.

"But those improvements have not been uniform across regions — in fact, 57% of India's poor population is concentrated in a contiguous belt stretching from Uttar Pradesh to West Bengal," the report said.

Sustained high economic growth was a key driver of poverty reduction along with three other major factors. India maintained resilient growth between 2010 and 2025, with economic expansion averaging over 7% annually during 2022-2025 after recovering from the pandemic-induced contraction.

Extreme poverty in India

2011		2023
27.1% of Indians	▸	2.6% of Indians

"Rising employment, particularly among women, played a significant role behind the impressive poverty reduction record of India during the last decade. Between 2014 and 2024, over 17 crore jobs were created in India, amounting on average 1.7 crore jobs per year. Unemployment in the country dropped from 7.6% in 2015 to 4.2% in 2025," the report noted.

Vembu flags limits of China's 'study, get a job' model

NEW DELHI

Zoho founder Sridhar Vembu on Monday warned that the traditional model of education leading to stable salaried employment is increasingly coming under strain worldwide, arguing that entrepreneurship and self-employment will be essential to address the growing disruption caused by automation and artificial intelligence.

In a post on social media platform X, Vembu responded to a discussion highlighting China's worsening youth employment challenges and said the country offers an important lesson for policymakers globally, including in India.

> "For decades, young Chinese were promised a simple deal: Study hard. Get a good job. Become richer than your parents. That deal is breaking."
> SRIDHAR VEMBU Zoho

Referring to China's economic trajectory, Vembu noted that for decades young people were encouraged to believe that academic success would translate into secure employment and a better standard of living than their parents enjoyed. However, he said that social contract is beginning to break down despite China's significant economic achievements.

"China is the factory of the world, has impressive technology capabilities across a vast array of sectors and runs a $1.2 trillion merchandise trade surplus and yet is not able to create jobs for a big cohort of her college-educated youth," he added.

"Approximately 70 per cent of all unemployed individuals in the 20-to-24 age group hold university degrees in China," Vembu noted.

"Our modern educational and economic system around the world trains young people for 'steady paycheck' jobs and those jobs are not just not growing, they are under serious challenge due to automation and AI. This problem is about to get worse, not better," he added.

He said widespread entrepreneurial activity was historically a major driver of prosperity, including in the United States before the expansion of large industrial corporations and formal salaried employment became dominant.

FREE JOB SERVICES

Labour Ministry warns jobseekers against fake NCS offers

NEW DELHI

The Ministry of Labour and Employment on Monday cautioned jobseekers against fraudulent calls, emails and fake employment offers falsely claiming an association with the National Career Service (NCS), reiterating that all services provided through the government platform are completely free.

In a post on X, the ministry urged candidates to remain vigilant against individuals, organisations and intermediaries demanding money in exchange for employment opportunities.

"Beware of job scams! All NCS services are completely free. Do not pay anyone for registration, applications, interviews, or employment-related services. For more information, visit: https://ncs.gov.in," the ministry stated.

The ministry clarified that candidates are not required to pay any charges for registering on the NCS portal, submitting job applications, interview processing or accessing any other employment-related service.

It also warned jobseekers about misleading communications from websites, employers and individuals falsely claiming to be associated with the National Career Service or the Labour Ministry.

According to a warning published on the official NCS website, certain websites, employers and individuals are allegedly misusing the name and logo of the government employment service to deceive candidates.

The ministry advised jobseekers against making payments to employers or intermediaries to secure employment, stating that the NCS neither endorses nor takes responsibility for such practices.

Candidates have been advised to verify all employment-related information through the official NCS website, www.ncs.gov.in, before sharing personal information, responding to suspicious communications or proceeding with recruitment-related offers.

Jobseekers can contact the NCS helpline at 1514 for assistance.

CONGRESS TRAPPED IN THE POLITICS OF ABUSIVE RHETORIC AND CONFRONTATION

LALIT GARGG

In a democracy, the ruling party and the opposition may be political adversaries, but their language should reflect ideological competition rather than personal hostility. Political differences are a source of democratic strength; however, when disagreements degenerate into personal jibes, family-directed remarks and derogatory language, the quality of political discourse deteriorates and the dignity of democratic institutions is undermined. In Indian politics, the increasingly aggressive remarks made by several Congress leaders against Prime Minister Narendra Modi, followed by the controversial statement delivered by Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge in Patna, have once again brought the issue of political decorum into sharp focus.

On October 25, 2026, at an event organised in Patna to commemorate the 139th birth anniversary of Dr. Shri Krishna Singh, Bihar's first Chief Minister, a remark by Kharge triggered a political controversy. Responding to a comment made by a person present at the gathering, he reportedly said, "Even Modi's Baap will be gone." The statement drew sharp criticism from Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) leaders, while the Congress attempted to explain the remark in its ideological context. According to media reports, the individual concerned subsequently maintained that his entire statement had not been heard. The various parties involved have offered their own interpretations of the episode. Yet, beyond the political sparring, a fundamental question remains: Is this really the appropriate way to express opposition to a person holding the highest political office in the country?

Kharge is a senior Congress leader with decades of political experience and the responsibility of leading the party as its national president. It is only natural to expect a greater degree of restraint, maturity and judgment from a leader of his stature. If an unfavourable remark is made during a political gathering, it can be countered with reason, facts and confidence. But when the response descends into personal references and family-directed language, the substantive issue recedes into the background, while the controversy over words takes centre stage in the news. In politics, words are not merely spontaneous reactions; they are also a test of a leader's public responsibility and democratic values.

> "Indian politics therefore needs the language of dialogue, not bitterness; the strength of arguments, not the sting of insults. For in a true democracy, it is ideas that must prevail, not personal humiliation."
> — Lalit Gargg

The history of sharp and controversial remarks directed at Narendra Modi within Congress politics provides a broader context for this debate. During the 2007 Gujarat Assembly election campaign, Sonia Gandhi used the expression "merchant of death" to describe Modi. In the 2014 Lok Sabha elections, Mani Shankar Aiyar's "chaiwala" remark also triggered a major political controversy. In subsequent years, Rahul Gandhi's slogan "Chowkidar Chor Hai" brought political discourse further into the realm of personalised accusations. Each of these statements had its own political context, and the speakers offered their respective justifications. Nevertheless, their public impact raises an important question: Can criticism of a political leader be confined to his policies, performance and decisions, or has personal ridicule increasingly become an accepted instrument of political engagement?

Priyanka Gandhi and other Congress leaders have also launched sharp political attacks on Modi and his government on several occasions. It is important to recognise that strong criticism is not inherently undignified. Raising tough questions about government policies, unemployment, inflation, social harmony, democratic institutions and administrative decisions is a constitutional responsibility of the opposition. The problem arises when policy disagreements become entangled with personal insults and sarcasm begins to replace reasoned argument as a means of gaining political traction. It would be unfair to place every statement by every leader in the same category. However, recurring controversies of this nature undoubtedly warrant serious reflection on the declining standards of political language.

Herein lies a significant challenge for the Congress. Its credibility and effectiveness as an opposition party will ultimately depend on how successfully it builds a meaningful public discourse around issues that directly affect people's lives. Addressing farmers' concerns, creating employment opportunities for young people, strengthening education and healthcare, reducing economic inequality and advancing social justice are among its most important responsibilities. If public debate repeatedly narrows down to personal attacks on the Prime Minister, there is a real danger that substantive policy discussions will be pushed aside. This can also weaken the very foundations of the opposition's criticism. When political discourse revolves around personalities rather than public issues, democracy gains little from the exchange.

At the same time, Narendra Modi's public persona and international engagement remain significant dimensions of Indian politics. His overseas visits, dialogue with world leaders, participation in international forums and efforts to strengthen economic and strategic partnerships are closely connected with India's evolving global role. His supporters regard these initiatives as evidence of India's growing prestige and influence on the world stage. However, a fair assessment of any Prime Minister's tenure cannot rest solely on international standing. It must also take into account domestic policies, economic outcomes, social inclusion and the overall record of governance. The true beauty of democracy lies in its ability to recognise a leader's achievements while preserving the freedom to critically scrutinise his decisions.

It is also worth considering that the more personal and insulting the language directed against a political leader becomes, the greater the possibility of provoking a defensive reaction among his supporters. It would be inaccurate to conclude that Congress's criticism of Narendra Modi has always produced the same political consequences. Electoral outcomes are shaped by numerous factors, including leadership, organisational strength, local issues, candidates, alliances and voters' expectations. Nevertheless, one political risk is undeniable: when the opposition relies more heavily on personal remarks than on evidence, policy arguments and credible alternatives, it risks losing the opportunity to communicate its message effectively to the electorate. Conversely, the BJP, too, must not limit itself to reacting to controversial statements by its opponents. It must remain accountable to the public on the basis of its own performance, policies and governance.

The language of politics has a profound influence on the behaviour of society. When senior leaders lose their composure on public platforms, there is a risk that hostility and bitterness will spread among their supporters and political workers as well. Social media further intensifies this tendency, allowing a brief excerpt from a speech to dominate the entire public discourse, often at the expense of context and substance. Political leaders must therefore consider the social consequences of their words and the dignity attached to their public office before speaking. There is a fundamental difference between humiliating a political opponent and defeating an opponent's argument. In a democracy, the latter matters far more.

Ultimately, whether it is the Congress or the BJP, the real strength of a political party is determined not by the aggression of its rhetoric, but by the quality of its ideas, the effectiveness of its policies, its commitment to public service and the trust it commands among the people. Criticising Prime Minister Modi is a democratic right, but such criticism must be grounded in facts, reason and substantive arguments. Similarly, whether it is Congress president Kharge or a leader from the ruling establishment, everyone in public life must recognise that disagreement should never be allowed to degenerate into personal humiliation.

Political decorum is not merely a matter of formal etiquette; it is an essential pillar of the democratic spirit. Governments will change, leaders will come and go, and the political fortunes of parties will rise and fall. But the words spoken in public life often remain etched in the collective memory of society long after the immediate controversy has faded.

LIGHT LAMPS OF HAPPINESS, DRIVE AWAY POLLUTION

DR. VIJAY GARG

Diwali is one of the most popular and joyous festivals in India. It symbolizes the victory of light over darkness, knowledge over ignorance, and good over evil. On this occasion, homes are decorated with traditional lamps, colourful lights, rangoli designs, and flowers. Families and friends exchange sweets and gifts, sharing happiness and strengthening relationships. However, amid these celebrations, we must remember that our traditions become truly meaningful when they also reflect our responsibility towards nature and the environment. Today, Diwali celebrations are increasingly accompanied by problems such as air pollution, noise pollution, plastic waste, and the excessive use of natural resources. Therefore, we need to preserve the spirit of the festival while making our celebrations environmentally responsible.

Firecracker Pollution and Its Impact on Health

Burning firecrackers releases smoke, fine particulate matter, and harmful gases into the atmosphere. These pollutants can deteriorate air quality and create health problems, particularly for children, older adults, and people with respiratory conditions. The loud noise of firecrackers also causes distress to people and animals, while birds may become frightened and disoriented. We must understand that the happiness of a festival should never come at the expense of another person's health and peace. Instead of firecrackers, we can celebrate with traditional oil lamps, cultural programmes, family gatherings, music, and community activities. Such celebrations can create lasting memories without placing an unnecessary burden on the environment.

> Light lamps of happiness, drive away pollution. Preserve our traditions, protect our environment, and make every Diwali a celebration of compassion, cleanliness, and sustainability.

Traditional Earthen Lamps and Indian Culture

The true beauty of Diwali lies in the gentle glow of traditional earthen lamps. Purchasing diyas made by local potters supports traditional craftsmanship and provides economic opportunities to small artisans. Homes can also be decorated with flowers, leaves, and reusable decorative materials. However, environmental protection involves more than simply lighting earthen lamps. We should use oil and wicks wisely, conserve electricity, reuse decorations, and dispose of waste responsibly. Energy-efficient LED lights can help reduce electricity consumption when used thoughtfully and for limited periods.

Cleanliness and Waste Management

Cleaning homes and surroundings before Diwali is an old and cherished tradition. Yet cleanliness should not be restricted to our houses. Streets, neighbourhoods, parks, and public spaces deserve equal attention. We should avoid plastic bags, thermocol decorations, and disposable items wherever possible. Gifts can be wrapped in reusable cloth or recyclable paper. Buying sweets and food according to actual needs can help prevent unnecessary waste. Safe surplus food can also be shared with people who need it. After the celebrations, firecracker remnants, paper, plastic, and other waste should be collected and disposed of properly rather than being left on roads or in public places. The true spirit of cleanliness is reflected in our willingness to take responsibility for the spaces we share.

Teaching Children to Protect the Environment

Children learn many of their habits by observing their families and communities. When parents celebrate an environmentally responsible Diwali, children are more likely to develop respect for nature. Schools can organise essay-writing competitions, poster-making activities, speeches, and awareness campaigns on the theme of a green Diwali. Such activities can help students understand the connection between festivals, public health, and environmental sustainability. Children should also learn that festivals are not merely about shopping and fireworks. They are opportunities to express love, kindness, cooperation, and social harmony. Helping disadvantaged families, spending time with older people, and showing compassion towards animals and birds can make Diwali more meaningful.

Simple Steps Towards an Eco-Friendly Diwali

We can make this festival more responsible by adopting a few practical measures:

- Avoid firecrackers to reduce air and noise pollution.
- Purchase earthen lamps and support local artisans.
- Save electricity and switch off unnecessary decorative lights.
- Avoid plastic and disposable decorative materials.
- Prevent food waste and share happiness with those in need.
- Collect and dispose of festival waste responsibly.
- Care for trees and plants and encourage environmental awareness.
- Teach children the importance of celebrating festivals without harming nature.

These small steps, when adopted by families, schools, neighbourhoods, and communities, can collectively make a significant difference.

Diwali is not merely a festival of lighting lamps; it is an opportunity to bring light, harmony, and positivity into our lives. If our celebrations damage the environment, we must reconsider the way we celebrate. A truly meaningful festival is one that respects human well-being, protects animals and birds, preserves nature, and safeguards the interests of future generations. Let us resolve to make this Diwali a celebration of light without pollution, happiness without waste, and traditions accompanied by responsibility. Let us light earthen lamps, bring smiles to the faces of those in need, and choose practices that protect our shared environment.

MANAGING WASTE TODAY SECURES OUR TOMORROW

R. SOLOMON PRASHANTH

Waste management is one of the most pressing environmental and logistical challenges facing modern society. As urban populations grow and consumption patterns shift, the volume of refuse generated daily continues to rise at an alarming rate. Traditional disposal methods, which rely heavily on overflowing landfills and open dumping, are no longer sustainable. Addressing this crisis requires a fundamental shift in how households and communities handle discarded materials. At the heart of this transformation lies a simple yet powerful practice: the strict separation of wet waste and dry waste at the source.

Wet waste primarily consists of organic matter such as leftover food, fruit peels, vegetable scraps, and garden trimmings. Because these items are biodegradable, they possess immense potential for resource recovery. When mixed with non-biodegradable refuse in landfills, organic waste decomposes anaerobically, producing harmful methane gas that accelerates climate change. Furthermore, this mixture generates toxic liquid leachate that seeps into the soil and contaminates underground water reserves. Separating wet waste allows municipalities to redirect organic matter toward composting and biogas generation, turning daily refuse into valuable agricultural fertilizer and renewable energy.

On the other hand, dry waste encompasses recyclable and non-biodegradable materials, including paper, cardboard, plastics, glass, metals, and packaging. Unlike organic matter, these items do not break down easily and can persist in the environment for centuries. When dry waste is contaminated by wet organic refuse, its recycling value diminishes drastically, forcing valuable resources into permanent waste streams. Keeping dry materials clean and segregated ensures they can be efficiently sorted, processed, and reintroduced into manufacturing cycles, thereby conserving raw materials and reducing industrial energy consumption.

Source segregation is not merely an operational convenience for sanitation workers; it is a shared civic responsibility. When citizens take the initiative to segregate waste within their homes, they directly ease the burden on municipal collection systems and protect frontline waste handlers from hazardous exposure. Mixing sharp objects, chemical residues, or sanitary items with organic waste poses severe health risks to those who manually sort refuse. Responsible waste segregation upholds dignity, safety, and hygiene for sanitation personnel while streamlining the entire recycling economy.

Educational institutions and community organizations must play an active role in fostering this habit from an early age. Integrating practical waste management lessons into daily routines helps cultivate long-term environmental consciousness among the younger generation. Local authorities can support these efforts by providing accessible dual-bin infrastructure, organizing regular awareness campaigns, and implementing transparent collection schedules. Clear guidelines and community incentives can further encourage compliance, transforming individual efforts into a collective movement.

Ultimately, effective waste management reflects a society's respect for its natural environment and future generations. Treating refuse as a resource rather than a nuisance requires discipline, awareness, and consistent action from every individual.

> "By committing to the daily practice of separating wet and dry waste, communities can significantly reduce landfill footprints, conserve vital resources, and pave the way for a cleaner, healthier, and more sustainable world."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Taming Urban Monsoon Chaos

The recurring urban flooding during every monsoon season highlights a severe gap in basic civic planning. Concrete structures continue to encroach upon natural lakes and traditional stormwater drains, leaving rainwater with nowhere to escape. Year after year, ordinary citizens suffer heavy property damage and lost work hours due to waterlogged roads and paralyzed public transport. Pothole-ridden roads turn into life-threatening hazards within hours of heavy rain. Local administrative bodies must focus on strict anti-encroachment drives, desilting of major drainage networks before the rainy season, and adopting permeable paving materials. Sustained infrastructure upgrades are urgently required to make our cities resilient.

Bridging the Skill Gap

Despite high economic growth, the increasing rate of unemployment among educated youth remains a deeply concerning issue. Millions of young graduates complete their degrees every year only to find a sharp mismatch between their academic training and current industry requirements. Theoretical degree programs must be urgently modernized to emphasize technical proficiency, vocational expertise, and critical problem-solving skills. Additionally, public and private sectors need to collaborate to expand paid apprenticeships and subsidize local small-scale enterprises that generate large-scale employment. Empowering the nation's youth with relevant, market-ready skills is crucial to securing their future and sustained national progress.

Easing Everyday Kitchen Budgets

The relentless surge in the prices of essential food items, particularly vegetables, pulses, and cooking oil, is severely straining household budgets across lower and middle-income families. Erratic weather patterns, combined with supply chain bottlenecks and high transport costs, have caused retail market prices to skyrocket out of reach. While farmers often fail to get fair value for their produce due to middlemen, consumers pay exorbitant rates at local markets. Government intervention is essential to stabilize prices through strategic reserve releases, improved cold-storage infrastructure, and stricter checks on hoarding. Protecting everyday consumers from food inflation must be prioritized immediately.

Tiruchirappalli city clears 800 tonnes of Diwali waste

TIRUCHIRAPPALLI

The Tiruchirappalli City Corporation has removed approximately 800 tonnes of garbage from the city's commercial areas following Diwali celebrations, deploying hundreds of sanitation workers to restore cleanliness. The large-scale cleaning operation comes after heavy festival shopping and celebrations generated substantial waste across busy streets surrounding the historic Rockfort area.

Major commercial locations, including NSB Road, Teppakulam, Periyakadai Veethi, Chinnakadai Veethi, Melapulivaar Road and College Road, witnessed heavy crowds during the final days of Diwali shopping.

The accumulated waste includes plastic bags, polythene covers, paper, empty sweet and firecracker boxes, firecracker remnants and used banana leaves. The Corporation, which normally collects around 480 tonnes of garbage daily from its 65 wards, has intensified its sanitation operations to manage the additional festival waste.

Around 400 sanitation workers have been deployed exclusively in key commercial areas, including Rockfort, Singarathope, Super Bazaar, Periyakadai Veethi, Chinnakadai Veethi and Gandhi Market Road. Additionally, 1,150 workers have been engaged across the city to ensure that garbage is cleared and normal conditions are restored.

Sanitation workers clear festival waste from a shopping street

The quantity of waste collected this year is higher than the approximately 780 tonnes removed after last year's Diwali celebrations. Officials have undertaken the operation on a large scale to prevent waste accumulation from affecting public movement and commercial activities.

Last year, rainfall created difficulties for sanitation workers and slowed garbage clearance. However, the absence of rain this year has allowed the workforce to carry out cleaning activities more efficiently.

According to police, the vehicle had made a pit stop at Mahanetand near Danua valley around 10.30 am when a truck hit it from behind, killing five people on the spot, while two died in a hospital.

The pick-up van carrying 19 people overturned under the impact of the collision, throwing several passengers onto the road, Chouparan police station in-charge Pankaj Kumar said.

The injured people have been admitted to hospitals in Hazaribag and Barhi, and three of them were in a critical state, he said.

The deceased were identified as Dhokla Kumar (45), Budhni Devi (50), Ramkisun Mahto (50), Rameshwar Kumar (70), and Raju Pandit (40). Two other victims, Savitri Devi and Rubia Devi, succumbed to their injuries while undergoing treatment, and their ages were not immediately known.

The truck driver fled soon after the incident, and a search was underway to arrest him, Kumar said.

Senior BJP leader Arjun Munda expressed shock at the accident.

"It is extremely unfortunate that a family travelling to Varanasi to attend the funeral of a person fell victim to this tragic accident," the former chief minister said in a statement.

Police identified the deceased as Uttam Karande, Chandrakala Karande, Govind Karande, Gayatri Karande, Jyoti Karande and Siddhi Karande. CANCER DRUG PRICE CUTS

Revised prices of 1,364 cancer drug formulations take effect

NEW DELHI

Revised maximum retail prices (MRPs) of 1,364 anti-cancer medicine formulations came into effect across India on Monday, following a government decision to regulate trade margins and make essential cancer treatments more affordable. The National Pharmaceutical Pricing Authority (NPPA), under the Department of Pharmaceuticals, has capped trade margins on 137 anti-cancer drugs based on recommendations from an expert committee constituted by the Directorate General of Health Services on October 17, 2026.

According to the Ministry of Chemicals and Fertilisers, 85 pharmaceutical companies had reported revised prices for 1,364 formulations covering 121 drugs as of November 8. Among these, 679 brands recorded price reductions exceeding 50 per cent. The highest reported reduction in the maximum retail price stands at 96.45 per cent, offering significant relief to patients and their families.

Check the new prices

The government estimates that the price revisions will generate annual savings of approximately ₹3,540.38 crore for consumers. Patients can check the updated prices printed on medicine packages or verify them through the Pharma Sahi Daam mobile application and the NPPA website. Retailers and hospital pharmacies are prohibited from charging more than the revised MRP.

Consumers who face overcharging or other pricing-related issues can register complaints through the Pharma Jan Samadhan portal or contact the NPPA helpline at 1800-111-255.

The regulatory provisions were introduced through notification SO 5690 (E), dated October 17, 2026, and will remain in force until further orders. Drug manufacturers can still seek annual price adjustments under Paragraph 20(1) of the Drugs (Prices Control) Order, 2013, provided they comply with the prescribed 30 per cent trade margin limit.

The rules also require retailers, pharmacies, hospitals and medical institutions to prominently display revised price lists at their premises and on their official websites.

Murder convict allegedly visited Thailand; warder suspended

JAIPUR

A murder convict serving a life sentence at an open prison in Rajasthan's Sri Ganganagar district allegedly travelled to Thailand for five days in October 2025, with the help of a prison warder who falsified his attendance records.

The convict, Dikshant Kamra, reportedly travelled abroad between October 9 and 13. A preliminary inquiry found that warder Hapuram had marked him present during his absence and submitted false attendance reports. The warder has since been suspended, and a police complaint has been filed.

The investigation began after a woman complained to Rajasthan's Director General of Prisons, alleging that Kamra had deceived and harassed her. Police also recovered around 40 grams of opium and his passport from a car on November 3.

Kamra is serving a life sentence for the 2018 murder of Dushyant Sharma, popularly known as the Jaipur Tinder murder case. A court convicted Kamra and two others in November 2023.

Delhi AQI crosses 1,000 on private platforms amid confusion

NEW DELHI

Delhi witnessed a sharp deterioration in air quality following Deepavali celebrations, with official monitoring stations recording readings in the severe category while private platforms reported AQI levels exceeding 1,000 in some neighbourhoods. The conflicting figures raised questions about differences in air-quality measurement systems.

The Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB) recorded an AQI of 483 at 8.10 am on Monday, with at least 15 monitoring stations reporting readings above 400. Meanwhile, Swiss-based monitoring company IQAir reported levels exceeding 1,000 in areas such as Shahdara and Defence Colony.

Experts attribute the difference largely to variations in measurement methods. India's CPCB uses an AQI scale ranging from zero to 500. Readings exceeding the upper limit are displayed as 500 or 500-plus, regardless of how far pollution levels rise beyond that threshold.

Several Delhi neighbourhoods recorded particularly high pollution levels. Vivek Vihar registered an AQI of 445, while Burari Crossing recorded 441. Jahangirpuri reported readings between 433 and 442, followed by Rohini and Delhi Technological University, which recorded levels above 430. Other affected locations included North Campus, Bawana, Ghazipur, Mundka and Punjabi Bagh.

The pollution spike occurred despite Stage III restrictions under the Graded Response Action Plan (GRAP), introduced before Deepavali. Measures include halting non-essential construction, imposing stricter vehicle restrictions and shifting primary school classes to hybrid mode.

Naidu urges Modi to scrap ₹500 and ₹2,000 notes

NAIDU RENEWED HIS PROPOSAL TO REDUCE HIGH-VALUE CASH USAGE, PRESENTING DIGITAL CURRENCY AND TECHNOLOGY-DRIVEN GOVERNANCE AS KEY MEASURES TO TACKLE CORRUPTION AND PROMOTE ECONOMIC GROWTH.

AMARAVATI

Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister N. Chandrababu Naidu on Monday called for scrapping high-denomination currency notes of ₹500 and ₹2,000, arguing that limiting high-value cash transactions could help curb corruption, encourage wealth creation and reduce poverty.

Speaking at a press conference, Naidu strongly advocated digital currency and technology-driven governance. He said he had previously submitted recommendations for a digital currency report and had repeatedly urged Prime Minister Narendra Modi to consider the proposal.

> "Currency denominations of ₹500, ₹1,000 and ₹2,000 should be scrapped. Only ₹100 and ₹200 notes should remain."
> — N. Chandrababu Naidu, Andhra Pradesh CM

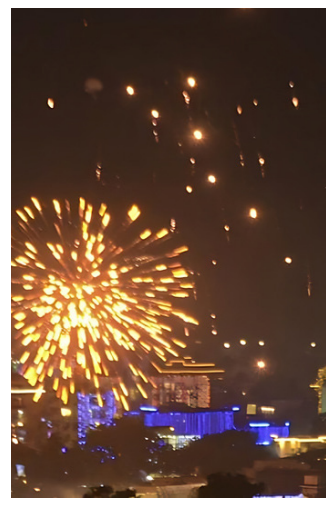

"I am demanding it again now. Currency denominations of ₹500, ₹1,000 and ₹2,000 should be scrapped. Only ₹100 and ₹200 notes should remain," he said.

His remarks came a day after the 10th anniversary of demonetisation, announced on November 8, 2016, when the Centre withdrew ₹500 and ₹1,000 notes from circulation to tackle black money, counterfeit currency and corruption.

Naidu said flaws in existing systems had created a cycle of corruption that required technological intervention.

The Telugu Desam Party chief also called for reducing money power in electoral politics. He said elections should focus on public service rather than financial influence and claimed that the NDA had taken steps to curb cash distribution during campaigns.

Mumbai bans rockets, aerial firecrackers until Nov 25

Mumbai authorities have banned rockets and aerial firecrackers until November 25, citing fire risks following multiple incidents during Diwali celebrations.

The ban

The Mumbai Disaster Management Authority on Monday prohibited the bursting of rockets and aerial firecrackers across the city until November 25, following multiple fire incidents reported during Diwali celebrations.

The restriction applies to residential buildings, rooftops, balconies and slum areas within the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC) limits. According to the order signed by Additional Municipal Commissioner Prajakta Verma-Lavangare, the ban will remain effective from November 9 until 11.59 pm on November 25.

Fire risk in dense areas

The authority said rockets and other aerial firecrackers could land on rooftops, balconies, windows and other combustible materials, triggering fires. The danger is particularly high in densely populated neighbourhoods, high-rise buildings, slum settlements and areas with narrow roads and closely packed residential and commercial structures.

Three major fires

Three major fires were reported in different parts of Mumbai on Diwali night, damaging several huts, shops, a garage and portions of a commercial building. The authority clarified that the use of firecrackers other than rockets and similar aerial varieties would continue to be governed by existing laws, court orders and directions from competent authorities.

Mayor appeals to residents

Meanwhile, Mumbai Mayor Ritu Tawde appealed to residents to celebrate responsibly and avoid bursting firecrackers near residential buildings and on footpaths. Shiv Sena (UBT) leader Aaditya Thackeray also urged the police and administration to take action in cases where rockets enter homes and cause fires. He called for an explanation from the authorities over such incidents.

Amit Shah opens ₹464-crore elevated corridor in Ahmedabad

AHMEDABAD

Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Monday inaugurated a newly constructed six-lane elevated corridor connecting ISKCON Junction to the Sanand Flyover on Ahmedabad's busy Sarkhej-Gandhinagar (SG) Highway. The 4.03-kilometre-long overbridge, built at an estimated cost of ₹464 crore, is expected to ease traffic congestion and improve connectivity across the city.

The project is designed to benefit approximately 1.5 lakh motorists who use the busy route daily. It is also expected to reduce travel time and fuel consumption while improving connectivity between Ahmedabad and the industrial hub of Sanand.

Following the inauguration, Shah shared details of the project on social media platform X.

Gujarat Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel welcomed the development, describing it as an important step towards strengthening Ahmedabad's urban transport network. He called the project a gift to the city's residents ahead of the New Year and highlighted its potential to make journeys smoother and safer.

ED attaches Kashmir assets worth ₹10.63 crore

NEW DELHI

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) attached immovable properties worth ₹10.63 crore in Kashmir over the alleged misuse of the Prime Minister's Employment Generation Programme (PMEGP). The agency said the attachment covers 11 land parcels and buildings in Srinagar and Bandipora districts.

The ED's Srinagar zonal office took action under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA), following a provisional attachment order. The properties were allegedly held by suppliers-cum-brokers and a bank official accused of involvement in the scheme's misuse.

The investigation began after the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) registered two FIRs in Srinagar. These alleged that PMEGP loans were misappropriated through a conspiracy involving borrowers, officials of J&K Bank branches in Sumbal and Gamud Gadkhud, brokers and unidentified persons.

THE PMEGP CASE

₹10.63 cr	PROPERTIES ATTACHED
₹11.37 cr	ALLEGED PROCEEDS TRACED
₹32 cr	BAD LOANS OUTSTANDING

According to the ED, dummy borrowers were allegedly used to obtain loans through fake invoices issued by non-existent firms.

A survey of the two branches under Section 16 of the PMLA identified 270 term-loan accounts and 270 working-capital accounts linked to the scheme that had become non-performing assets. The outstanding amount was estimated at around ₹32 crore.

The ED said it had traced alleged proceeds of crime worth ₹11.37 crore. The money was reportedly routed through multiple bank accounts, with part used to construct or renovate properties and for personal enrichment.

Keralam begins random ethanol checks at petrol outlets

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

The Keralam government has begun random ethanol testing at selected petrol outlets across four districts following concerns over allegations of excessive ethanol content in fuel supplied in neighbouring Karnataka.

Food and Civil Supplies Minister Anoop Jacob said inspections were ordered after complaints about vehicle damage and public concerns over petrol potentially containing ethanol beyond the permitted limit. Samples are being collected from fuel stations in Thiruvananthapuram, Ernakulam, Kozhikode and Kannur districts.

The collected samples will be sent to government laboratories, with test results expected within 10 days. Jacob said petrol cannot contain more than 20 per cent ethanol and warned that outlets found violating the prescribed limit could be sealed.

The minister said the inspections were necessary to address public concerns and ensure fuel quality.

? THE 20 % LIMIT
Petrol cannot contain more than 20 per cent ethanol. Tests in Karnataka reportedly recorded levels as high as 31.2 per cent.

The move follows allegations by Karnataka authorities that petrol supplied by major oil marketing companies contained ethanol levels exceeding the prescribed 20 per cent limit. Tests conducted on samples collected from several districts reportedly recorded levels as high as 31.2 per cent.

However, public sector oil marketing companies have rejected the allegations, maintaining that their E20 petrol complies with the Bureau of Indian Standards specification IS 17021.

Poor hygiene, unsafe water raise concerns at Sindh hospitals

Patients often buy medicines and drinking water from outside

Patients in Sindh's public hospitals face dirty washrooms, unsafe drinking water, medicine shortages, and poor facilities, raising serious concerns about healthcare standards and accountability.

KARACHI

Government hospitals across Pakistan's Sindh province are facing growing concerns over poor hygiene, unsafe drinking water and a lack of basic medical facilities.

Several hospitals in Karachi and other parts of Sindh lack clean washrooms, proper sanitation and safe drinking water.

Several district hospitals reportedly do not have water filtration plants. As a result, patients and their attendants often have to buy drinking water from outside. Even hospitals with filtration systems face problems because of poor maintenance and delayed replacement of filters.

Rizwana Khatoon, a resident of North Karachi, shared her experience at Sindh Government New Karachi Hospital, where her daughter was admitted with a high fever. She said the hospital lacked sufficient drinking water and had dirty washrooms with inadequate water and soap. She also reported bedbugs, insects and unpleasant smells inside the wards.

At Sindh Government Saudabad Hospital, patient Ghulam Shah raised concerns about the shortage of essential facilities despite public spending. He said patients often had to buy medicines and drinking water from outside. He also questioned the cleanliness of water tanks and the quality of food provided at the hospital.

Another patient, Tariq Fareedi, from Sindh Government Liaquatabad Hospital, highlighted the lack of information desks and clear signs. He said elderly patients and visitors from distant areas often struggled to find registration counters, doctors and hospital wards.

The report also noted that nearly 90 per cent of hospitals reportedly lack covered waiting areas for patients' attendants.

COP31 opens in Antalya, urging countries to act on climate

COP31 runs in Antalya, Turkiye, from November 9 to 20

Key issues at COP31

- Climate finance for developing countries
- Cutting greenhouse gas emissions
- Adapting to floods, heatwaves and droughts

ANTALYA

The 31st United Nations Climate Change Conference, known as COP31, began in Antalya, Turkiye, on Monday, bringing together countries to discuss climate change and turn earlier promises into practical action.

The summit will run from November 9 to 20. This year, the main focus is on implementing climate commitments, improving cooperation and finding solutions to the growing effects of global warming.

The meeting comes at a time when countries are facing rising temperatures, extreme weather events and increasing pressure to protect people and the environment.

One of the key issues at COP31 is climate finance. Developing countries need financial support to prepare for climate-related disasters, strengthen public services and move towards cleaner sources of energy. Discussions are expected to focus on how existing financial commitments can be delivered and how funding can reach countries that need it most.

Another important area is the reduction of greenhouse gas emissions. Countries are under pressure to strengthen their climate plans and make measurable progress towards the goals of the Paris Agreement, which seeks to limit the rise in global temperatures.

The summit will also address climate adaptation and resilience. These efforts aim to help communities prepare for floods, heatwaves, droughts and other climate-related risks.

Turkiye is hosting the conference, while Australia is leading the negotiations under an arrangement between the two countries.

The central message of COP31 is the need to move beyond promises and deliver results.

EU moves to fund Ukraine's urgent winter needs

KYIV

The European Union will activate a special emergency assistance mechanism to provide quick financial support to Ukraine, as Russian strikes continue to affect electricity, water and heating supplies across several regions, Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said on Monday.

Zelenskyy announced the decision after a phone conversation with European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen. He said the new mechanism would help Ukraine receive funds quickly to meet its most urgent needs. Teams from both sides have already started working on the plan.

According to Zelenskyy, the situation remains difficult in Kyiv, Dnipropetrovsk, Sumy and Donetsk regions, as well as in Kherson. Russian strikes have disrupted essential services, creating additional challenges for residents as the country prepares for the winter season.

Russian strikes continue to affect electricity, water and heating supplies

The Ukrainian president said he and von der Leyen also discussed additional energy and humanitarian assistance. The support is expected to help communities deal with supply problems and prepare for colder weather.

The leaders also discussed Ukraine's efforts to join the European Union. Zelenskyy welcomed the European Commission's latest assessment of the country's progress towards membership. He said opening negotiation clusters and moving forward with the next stages of the process remained important goals.

Diplomatic efforts to end the war were also part of their discussion. Zelenskyy said Ukrainian and European teams had recently held talks in Brussels on a recovery plan and security guarantees for Ukraine.

The two leaders also coordinated their positions ahead of an upcoming meeting in Abu Dhabi, as efforts continue to find a way forward in the conflict.

Taiwan detains party leader over suspected Chinese funding

TAIPEI

Taiwanese authorities have detained Lin Te-wang, founder and chairman of the Taiwan People's Communist Party, over allegations that he received money and instructions from China to influence upcoming local elections.

The Tainan District Prosecutors Office said Lin was suspected of accepting financial support and directions from the Chinese Communist Party to contest the election for ward chief in Xinying District, Tainan. Prosecutors sought his detention under Taiwan's Anti-Infiltration Act and Election and Recall Act, citing concerns that he could flee or destroy evidence.

The case

- Detained: Lin Te-wang, the party's founder and chairman
- Laws cited: the Anti-Infiltration Act and the Election and Recall Act
- Also accused: Chen Zhen-zhou, released on NT$50,000 bail
- Local polls: November 28

The Tainan District Court approved the request and ordered Lin to be held without contact with the outside world.

The investigation began after prosecutors in Tainan and Hsinchu received information about possible attempts by foreign forces to influence Taiwan's local elections scheduled for November 28.

Prosecutors also alleged that Lin had directed Chen Zhen-zhou, a member of the party's Central Committee, to contest a ward chief election in Hsinchu City's North District. They suspect Lin accepted foreign funding and later helped finance Chen's campaign.

The investigation further found allegations that the two men arranged fully funded trips to China for eligible voters. Prosecutors suspect these trips may have been intended to influence voters and could amount to vote-buying under Taiwan's election laws.

Authorities also requested Chen's detention. However, the Hsinchu District Court released him on bail of NT$50,000, approximately US$1,525, and ordered him to remain at his registered residence.

However, the allegations remain under investigation, and the accused have not been proven guilty.

Oil falls as Trump signals no fresh Iran strikes

LONDON

Global oil prices fell on Monday after US President Donald Trump indicated that he was unlikely to launch fresh attacks on Iran while talks to end the conflict continued. However, attacks on ships near the Strait of Hormuz kept concerns about global oil supplies alive.

Brent crude futures dropped 75 cents, or 0.75 per cent, to $97.57 per barrel by 1011 GMT. US West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude fell 38 cents, or 0.4 per cent, to $90.45 per barrel, according to Reuters.

Brent crude recorded a sharp decline of 16 per cent last week, marking its biggest weekly fall since the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic. Hopes of a possible peace agreement between Washington and Tehran have encouraged investors, putting further pressure on oil prices.

Analysts said prices were also affected by strong oil supplies from the Middle East and concerns about a growing global surplus. JPMorgan estimated that oil supplies exceeded demand by 1.1 million barrels per day in September, with the surplus expected to rise to 1.4 million barrels per day in October.

Despite hopes for peace, security concerns remain. The Strait of Hormuz is a major route for international oil shipments, and attacks on vessels in the area have raised fears of possible disruptions.

IRAN HORMUZ PLAN

Iran keeps two-day Hormuz plan open, demands US action

TEHRAN

Iran has said its two-day plan to restore security in the Strait of Hormuz remains on the table, adding that progress depends on the United States meeting its demands. The statement comes amid continued tensions and limited progress in diplomatic efforts between Tehran and Washington.

Iranian Foreign Ministry spokesperson Esmail Baghaei made the remarks during a weekly press conference on Monday. According to Iranian media reports, he described the proposal as a reasonable way to resolve the crisis and said security in the important waterway could return within 48 hours if Washington accepts Iran's conditions.

Baghaei said the plan showed Iran's willingness to find a solution through diplomacy. He also urged the United States to make a clear decision, saying positive developments could follow if Tehran's demands were addressed.

Iran has called for an end to hostilities on all fronts, the lifting of the US naval blockade and economic sanctions, and the release of Iranian assets held abroad. Tehran says these steps must be taken before negotiations can move forward.

The Strait of Hormuz is one of the world's most important shipping routes, carrying a large share of global oil supplies. Any disruption in the waterway can affect energy markets, shipping costs and international trade.

Baghaei rejected criticism from US Secretary of State Marco Rubio, who described some of Iran's demands as unreasonable. The Iranian spokesperson argued that his country's conditions were justified and accused Washington of worsening tensions through military action during earlier negotiations.

Meanwhile, diplomatic efforts to ease the crisis have faced difficulties, with talks between the two countries making little progress in recent days.

IN FOCUS

Iran says its two-day plan to restore security in the Strait of Hormuz remains open.

- Tehran links progress to the US meeting its demands, including lifting sanctions and ending the naval blockade.
- Diplomatic efforts remain uncertain, with tensions threatening global oil supplies and shipping routes.

Premier League: Man Utd stun villa with late comeback

LONDON

Manchester United produced a dramatic late comeback to secure a thrilling 4-4 draw against Aston Villa in the Premier League, with Patrick Dorgu and Joshua Zirkzee scoring in second-half stoppage time to rescue a point for the hosts.

United endured a disastrous opening as Alysson put Villa ahead within 59 seconds. Nicolas Jackson extended the visitors' lead four minutes later, capitalising on a rebound after goalkeeper Senne Lammens failed to hold Alysson's initial effort. United responded through Bruno Fernandes, who converted a penalty in the 16th minute after Boubacar Kamara fouled Matheus Cunha. Youri Tielemans then equalised in the 44th minute with a left-footed finish following a pass from Noussair Mazraoui.

Villa regained the lead shortly after half-time when John McGinn converted a penalty in the 48th minute following a foul on Alysson by Diogo Dalot. Leon Goretzka increased the advantage to 4-2 in the 53rd minute, scoring after Leny Yoro's header from McGinn's free-kick struck the crossbar and rebounded into play.

United continued searching for a comeback, with substitute Mason Mount hitting the woodwork. Their efforts finally paid off in the second minute of stoppage time when Zirkzee converted Dorgu's cross to reduce the deficit. Moments later, Dorgu rose above the Villa defence to head home the equaliser, completing a remarkable recovery.

Despite salvaging a point, United remain 18th in the standings and in the relegation, zone heading into the international break, one point above bottom-placed Crystal Palace. Aston Villa occupy 10th position.

Mushfiqur Rahim Becomes First Bangladeshi To Score 7,000 Test Runs

SYLHET

Veteran wicketkeeper-batter Mushfiqur Rahim scripted history on Monday by becoming the first cricketer from Bangladesh to cross the 7,000-run milestone in Test cricket. He achieved the landmark during the second innings of the second Test against the West Indies at the Sylhet International Cricket Stadium.

The 39-year-old reached the historic mark during the second session on Day Five when he took a single off West Indies spinner Roston Chase to move to nine runs. Mushfiqur entered the match with 6,957 Test runs and needed 43 more to become the first Bangladeshi batter to reach the milestone.

He had already established himself as the first player from Bangladesh to score 5,000 and 6,000 runs in the longest format. His latest achievement further strengthens his position as one of the country's greatest Test batters.

Mushfiqur is now comfortably ahead of Bangladesh's second-highest Test run-scorer, Mominul Haque, who has accumulated 5,293 runs. Former Bangladesh opener Tamim Iqbal follows with 5,134 runs.

The veteran batter contributed 34 runs in the first innings as Bangladesh posted 386 in response to West Indies' 356. He added another 49 in the second innings as the hosts reached 184/4 while chasing a target of 369. Bad light forced an early end to play on Day Five, resulting in a draw.

Mushfiqur is also Bangladesh's most-capped Test cricketer, having represented the country in 107 matches. He remains the only Bangladeshi player to have featured in more than 100 Tests, with Mominul second on the list with 82 appearances.

Since making his Test debut against England at Lord's in May 2005, Mushfiqur has remained a key figure in Bangladesh cricket.

Although he has retired from ODIs and T20Is, he continues to represent the country in Test cricket.

Manipur CM calls for concerted efforts to preserve indigenous sports

IMPHAL

Linette dedicates Chennai title to Krakow shooting victims

CHENNAI

Poland's Magda Linette has dedicated her Chennai Open title win to the victims of a mass shooting in Krakow, where at least six people were killed, and more than a dozen others injured when a gunman opened fire in Main Market Square. Linette, who had been the Chennai runner-up in 2022 to Linda Fruhvirtova, won 5-7, 6-1, 6-4 in a summit clash that had been postponed by a day due to adverse weather conditions.

"As much as I'm so happy, it's hard to celebrate because of what happened in Poland, in Krakow," Linette said after the win, as quoted by WTA. "I just want to say that my heart and wishes are with all the victims and those who are hurt. In those tough moments we can really thank and appreciate one another and give that person next to us an extra hug today."

Chennai marked Linette's ninth career final and the first tournament where she has contested multiple finals, but she had a demon to exorcise from her previous title match here. Back in 2022, she led Linda Fruhvirtova 4-1 in the third set of the final, only to lose 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Linette's week in India began with a victory in the longest WTA main-draw match of 2026 so far, a 7-6(3), 5-7, 6-2 marathon over qualifier Aliona Falei in 3 hours and 33 minutes. After a straight-sets win over Moyuka Uchijima in the second round, the 34-year-old then had to come from a set down in her last three matches.

In the quarterfinals, she also trailed Mai Hontama 5-3 in the second set and 4-2 in the decider. In total, she spent 12 hours and 28 minutes on court.

Craig Ervine becomes Zim oldest test centurion

SHARJAH

Zimbabwe batter Craig Ervine created history during the ongoing first Test against Afghanistan at the Sharjah Cricket Stadium, becoming the oldest player from his country to score a Test century. At 41 years and 82 days, Ervine achieved the milestone by registering his fifth Test hundred during the second innings of the match.

Ervine surpassed the previous national record set by teammate Brendan Taylor, who had also achieved the distinction earlier in the same Test. Taylor scored a magnificent 131 off 168 deliveries in Zimbabwe's first innings, becoming the country's oldest Test centurion before Ervine reclaimed the record.

Ervine's achievement also places him among the oldest players to score a Test century in the 21st century. He is now the second-oldest batter to achieve the feat during this period, behind Pakistan's Misbah-ul-Haq, who was 42 years and 47 days old when he scored 114 against England at Lord's in 2016.

ERVINE'S HISTORIC MILESTONE

- Age at century: 41 years, 82 days.
- Test centuries: Five.
- Test runs: Completed 2,000.
- Previous Zimbabwe record: Brendan Taylor.
- Oldest Test centurion this century: Misbah-ul-Haq, aged 42 years and 47 days.
- Zimbabwe's second innings: 372/5 at tea on Day Five.

The century also helped Ervine complete 2,000 runs in Test cricket, making him the seventh Zimbabwean batter to reach the landmark.

Zimbabwe had posted 504 in their first innings, with Taylor scoring 131 and captain Brian Bennett contributing 128. Afghanistan responded with 514, securing a 10-run lead through centuries from Sediqullah Atal (105), Rahmanullah Zadran (113) and Rahmat Shah (173).

In their second innings, Zimbabwe continued their strong batting display. Taylor scored 82, Bennett made 58, while Ervine struck a century and Antum Naqvi contributed 62. At tea on Day Five, Zimbabwe was 372/5, with the match heading towards a draw as only one session remained.
