IRGC now a terrorist organisation in United Kingdom; supporting it and its proxies outlawed under new state threats law; will attract a jail-term up to 14 years.

LONDON

UK Home Secretary Shabana Mahmood announced on Monday that the United Kingdom will designate Iran’s Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC) as a terrorist organisation.

The move, under the National Security (State Threats) Act, which came into force last week, will make it a criminal offence to support the IRGC in Britain and comes after years of political debate over whether the powerful Iranian military force should be banned.

“I have rapidly designated three groups so those working for them will be tracked down and put behind bars,” said Home Secretary Shabana Mahmood. “I will leave no stone unturned to keep our country safe.”

The UK Home Office said ministers had concluded that there was sufficient evidence to believe the IRGC had engaged in activities that were inimical to the UK’s national security.

Ministers also announced plans to proscribe the Islamic Movement of the Companions of the Right (IMCR), which has been linked to attacks on Jews in the UK, and the

In a nutshell

▶ The UK officially moved to ban Iran’s Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC) on July 13, 2026, targeting them under the new National Security (State Threats) Act.

▶ The action, announced by PM Keir Starmer, outlaws support for the group and follows a wave of IRGC-linked antisemitic attacks and assassination plots on British soil.

Under the legislation, the IRGC is officially designated as a threat to national security. Key details of the ban include:

1 TARGETED PROXIES: The government is concurrently banning the “Islamic Movement of Companions of the Right” (IMCR) and the volunteer corps of Russia’s GRU military intelligence.

2 CRIMINAL PENALTIES: Belonging to, promoting, or assisting these designated organizations carries severe penalties, with those found guilty of carrying out criminal acts on their behalf facing up to life imprisonment.

The Home Office said the Home Secretary had “carefully considered all the evidence” before arriving at the decision. “Having carefully considered all the evidence, the home secretary has concluded that there is sufficient basis to reasonably believe that each of these bodies is engaged in foreign power threat activity, and that each designation is necessary to protect the safety and interests of the United Kingdom,” the department said in a statement.

Cabinet expansion plan gains pace as DKS set for Delhi visit

BENGALURU

Karnataka Chief Minister D K Shivakumar on Monday said he would travel to Delhi once the Congress high command gives him an appointment, while indicating there was no delay from his side regarding the cabinet expansion.

Shivakumar said convening the Assembly remained his immediate priority and that he would visit the national capital after receiving a date from the party leadership.

“Look, I am convening the Assembly on the 6th (August 6), which is my priority,” Shivakumar told reporters in Bengaluru.

He added, “There is no delay from my side (for cabinet expansion). Whenever they (party high command) give me time, I will go. They will give me a date in another three or four days. Once they do, I will go and come back.”

The state currently has 14 ministers, including the Chief Minister, while the permissible strength of ministers in Karnataka is 34. At present, 20 posts are lying vacant.

According to the Congress sources, hectic lobbying is on, especially by the senior MLAs, to get a ministerial position.

Responding to questions on the Cauvery water issue, he said MLAs from Mandya had met him seeking the release of water and that the state would take a decision after a meeting scheduled for July 15.

“Yes, the Mandya MLA, Srirangapatna MLA and the district minister met me. There is a meeting on the 15th,” he said.

Berths that await faces

Chief Minister DK Shivakumar’s Cabinet expansion is imminent, with 20 of the 34 ministerial berths currently vacant. The CM is traveling to New Delhi soon for final consultations with the Congress high command to finalise the new ministers ahead of the legislature session starting on August 6.

VACANCY STATUS: The state currently has a 14-member ministry, requiring the filling of 20 vacant positions to reach the constitutionally mandated strength.

TIMELINE: Final consultations with the AICC leadership, including Mallikarjun Kharge and Rahul Gandhi, are scheduled. The swearing-in ceremony is expected to take place shortly after in Bengaluru.

SELECTION STRATEGY: The expansion aims to address regional imbalances, ensure proportionate caste representation (balancing Vokkaliga, Lingayat, and AHINDA groups), and accommodate female representation following criticism of the initial all-male cabinet.

NOTABLE FRONTRUNNERS: Intense lobbying is underway for the berths. Prominent leaders and MLCs in consideration for induction include Saleem Ahmed, Rizwan Arshad, Laxman Savadi, AS Ponnanna, and former minister Laxmi Hebbalkar.

Trump: US will ‘guard’ Strait — for a price

Washington: President Donald Trump on Monday said the US is “taking over” the Strait of Hormuz. Minutes later, Iran issued its own statement declaring the same strait closed, blaming recent US military action.

Speaking to “Fox & Friends”, he said, “We’re taking over the strait. They’ve got nothing.”

Trump said Iranian leaders had taken part in an 11-hour round of negotiations with the US, during which “everything was agreed to”, before Iran later began asking for changes. “We’re going to keep the strait, and we’ll probably run it. We’ll become the guardian of the strait. Maybe we’ll call it the guardian angel of the strait. And we should be reimbursed for that.”

The US had effectively been guarding the strait “for nothing” up to now, but that this would change, with wealthy nations expected to pay for the arrangement going forward. “We’re going to get paid for guarding it. A lot of money.”

SC’s mediation push in Kashi, Mathura, Sambhal disputes fail

Seven petitions were filed in the SC seeking a direction to the parties to resolve the matter through mediation; but both Hindu and Muslim parties rejected the proposal, stating they prefer a judicial verdict over an out-of-court settlement.

LUCKNOW

Efforts to resolve the lingering disputes pertaining to the Kashi Vishwanath-Gyanvapi Mosque in Varanasi, Shree Krishna Janmabhoomi-Shahi Idgah Mosque in Mathura and Jama Masjid-Harihar Temple in Sambhal through mediation in the special ‘Lok Adalat’ failed with the parties maintaining that they would prefer the courts to decide the issues.

The Supreme Court launched the ‘Supreme Court Action for Mediated Adjudication and Disputes Harmonisation Across Nation’ (SAMADHAN SAMAROH) to encourage the concerned parties to reach an amicable settlement of pending cases through mediation ahead of a Special Lok Adalat scheduled to be held on August 21, 22 and 23.

According to sources, in the Mathura dispute, the Muslim litigants failed to turn up in the special ‘Lok Adalat’ presided over by ADJ 11 Surendra Prasad after which the court passed the order stating that the mediation efforts have failed. The Hindu petitioners were pres-

Seven petitions were filed in the Supreme Court seeking a direction to the parties to resolve the matter through mediation. The apex court had referred these petitions to the special ‘Lok Adalat’ for this purpose.

Similarly, in the Kashi Vishwanath-Gyanvapi Mosque dispute also, both Hindu and Muslim parties insisted that they would prefer the courts to decide the issue. The Lok Adalat had asked the parties to appear before it on Tuesday for mediation in the matter.

Mohammed Yaseen, a mosque official, said that the Muslim side would not take part in the proceedings.

As many as 18 petitions in connection with the dispute were being heard in the Allahabad High Court.

In the Sambhal dispute involving the Jama Masjid and Harihar Temple, the Muslim litigants said that it was up to the courts to decide whether the disputed place was a temple or a mosque.

“Since the matter is concerned with the faith of the two communities, only a judicial verdict will be proper,” a mosque official said in Sambhal.

The Hindu side, however, said that they had not yet received any official intimation or notice from anywhere in this regard.

In all these disputes, the Hindu side claims that there existed temples on the sites which were demolished by

MGP sounds alarm over city's collapsing sewage system

MYSURU

Expressing deep concern over the deteriorating condition of Mysuru's water bodies, members of the Mysore Grahakara Parishat (MGP) have warned that the city's sewage system has virtually collapsed, resulting in untreated sewage mixing with stormwater and flowing directly into the city's lakes.

The issue came up for an extensive discussion at the MGP's weekly meeting held on Sunday, where members described the situation as an environmental emergency requiring immediate intervention from the government and elected representatives.

According to the participants, all five major lakes of Mysuru—Kukkarahalli, Lingambudhi, Hebbal, Karanji and Thipparayanakere—have been severely polluted due to sewage-laden stormwater entering the water bodies.

Among them, Hebbal Lake has emerged as the worst affected and, members observed, has virtually turned into a sewage pond despite Infosys investing more than ₹150 crore towards its rejuvenation and development.

The meeting pointed out that one of the major reasons for the worsening crisis is the large-scale encroachment of rajakaluves (stormwater drains). Residential constructions, including those allegedly belonging to politically influential persons, have obstructed the natural drainage network, causing sewage to overflow into stormwater channels. Members noted that officials of the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) have been unable to act effectively against such encroachments.

Participants stressed that restoring the city's underground drainage and sewage network would require an investment of at least ₹1,500 crore. However, the annual allocation of around ₹50 crore by the MCC is grossly inadequate and insufficient even for temporary or "band-aid" repairs, they observed.

The Parishat members cautioned that if the present trend continues, Mysuru's famed lakes—once regarded as the city's ecological and recreational assets—could face irreversible damage. They also warned that the increasing pollution poses serious environmental and public health risks.

The meeting unanimously felt that the time had come for citizens to collectively pressure elected representatives and the government to accord top priority to the restoration of the city's sewage infrastructure. Protecting the five lakes, members said, would only be possible through a comprehensive and time-bound overhaul of the sewage and stormwater management system, backed by adequate financial support and firm action against encroachments.

A MELODY FALLS SILENT

Mysuru Bids a Tearful Farewell to 'Janakamma'

MYSURU

Mysuru woke up to a morning wrapped in silence and sorrow on Sunday as thousands of grieving admirers gathered to bid an emotional farewell to legendary playback singer S. Janaki, fondly called Janakamma.

The city that had embraced the iconic singer as one of its own witnessed scenes of profound grief as people from every walk of life queued up patiently for hours to pay their last respects.

The serpentine queue stretched far beyond the venue where her mortal remains were kept at the sprawling Maharaja College Ground in the heart of city. Young and old, homemakers, students, musicians, government employees, auto-rickshaw drivers, artists and retired citizens stood shoulder to shoulder, united by one emotion—the loss of a voice that had become the soundtrack of their lives.

Many arrived carrying flowers, while others came with folded hands and moist eyes. Some softly hummed her immortal songs as they waited for one final glimpse of the woman whose magical voice had comforted, celebrated and accompanied generations through every emotion of life.

For more than five decades, S. Janaki captivated millions with her soulful renditions in over 30 languages. Her songs transcended linguistic boundaries, touching hearts with unmatched emotion and effortless versatility. Though the singer has departed, her melodies continue to echo in countless homes, temples, celebrations and memories.

The atmosphere was heavy with emotion as elderly fans recalled listening to her songs on transistor radios, while younger admirers spoke of discovering her timeless classics through their parents and digital platforms. Every face in the queue carried a personal memory linked to one of her unforgettable melodies.

"I have been listening to Janakamma since my school days," said 72-year-old R. Krishnamurthy, his voice choked with emotion. "There wasn't a single stage in my life without her songs. She sang our joys, our heartbreaks and our prayers. It feels as though a member of our own family has left us."

Homemaker Lakshamma, who had travelled from a nearby village, wiped away tears as she said, "Whenever I was happy, I listened to her songs. Whenever I was sad, I listened to the same voice for comfort. Today I came only to say thank you."

College student Nithin reflected the feelings of the younger generation. "I may belong to a different era, but her voice never grew old. Music changes, but Janakamma's songs remain eternal. She will continue to inspire every aspiring singer."

Classical musician Vidushi Shobha described the singer as "an institution in herself." "Her effortless expression, flawless pronunciation and ability to breathe life into every lyric can never be replicated. We have lost not merely a singer, but an era."

As the final journey began, cries of "Janakamma Amar Rahe" and heartfelt prayers filled the air. Many folded their hands in silent gratitude, while others simply stood still, overwhelmed by emotion.

The mortal voice may have fallen silent, but the music she gifted to the world will continue to resonate across generations. In every lullaby, every love song, every devotional hymn and every cherished melody, S. Janaki will live on—forever immortal in the hearts of millions who gathered in Mysuru to bid their beloved Janakamma one last, tearful goodbye.

MP Wadiyar playing politics over Kambala: Says Congress leaders

MYSURU

Mysuru City District Congress Committee Spokesperson S. Rajesh on Monday accused Mysuru-Kodagu MP Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar of attempting to politicise the inclusion of Kambala in the Mysuru Dasara celebrations and alleged that the BJP was following a policy of ignoring the rich cultural traditions of Tulu Nadu while trying to create unnecessary controversy over the issue.

Addressing a press conference at the MDJA here, Rajesh said there was no threat whatsoever to the sanctity or grandeur of the world-famous Mysuru Dasara festival because of Kambala. Dasara has always been a platform to showcase art, culture and traditions from different parts of the country. Dance forms such as Kathak and Kuchipudi, and several folk arts from various States have been presented during Dasara over the years. When diverse cultural traditions are welcomed, why should Kambala be singled out? he questioned.

Describing Kambala as much more than a sport, Rajesh said it represents the unique cultural identity of the coastal region and is an important part of Karnataka's heritage. Kambala is an exciting rural sporting tradition that deserves to be introduced to people across the State and the country. It should not remain confined to the coastal districts alone. Even the Karnataka High Court has recognised the cultural significance of Kambala.

Rajesh said the Nadahabba Dasara festival provides an ideal platform to showcase the skill, courage and sporting spirit of Kambala jockeys before lakhs of visitors from across India and abroad. The traditional buffalo race promotes harmony, coexistence and sportsmanship, cutting across caste, religion and regional differences, and has no adverse impact on the environment. The erstwhile Mysore ruler Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar had encouraged Kambala during his reign. What was once confined to a single water body has now grown into a globally recognised rural sporting event. It deserves encouragement rather than opposition.

Alleging political motives behind the criticism, Rajesh claimed that the BJP was unable to digest the successful conduct of the Mysuru Dasara celebrations under the Congress government since 2023. He said the decision of the government led by Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar to include Kambala in this year's Dasara would further enhance the festival's appeal and popularity. The attempts by Yaduveer and others to oppose Kambala are politically motivated. The BJP is trying to divide the people of Karnataka by creating differences between the coastal and Mysuru regions in the name of language, culture and sports. Such divisive politics is condemnable and against the spirit of Karnataka's unity, Rajesh asserted.

MYSURU

Eligible Scheduled Caste (SC) and Scheduled Tribe (ST) research scholars pursuing research under the jurisdiction of the University of Mysore will receive a monthly financial assistance of ₹33,000, according to a decision taken by the authorities.

The decision was made at a high-level meeting chaired by Urban Development Minister Dr Yatindra Siddaramaiah in Bengaluru last week. Accordingly, it has been decided to extend the scholarship to all eligible SC and ST research scholars who have submitted applications under a 50:50 funding pattern. The expenditure will subsequently be adjusted in coordination with the Department of Social Welfare once the government grant is released.

Boost exports to strengthen the Rupee: Jain

MYSURU

Stressing the need to enhance India's export potential, Mysore Industries Association General Secretary Suresh Kumar Jain on Monday said that the value of the Indian rupee against the US dollar can improve only if the country reduces imports and significantly increases exports.

Speaking after inaugurating a six-day Export Management Training Programme here, he said that every increase in imports weakens the rupee against the dollar, while higher exports help strengthen the nation's economy and currency.

Referring to imports from China, Jain said the government does not provide subsidies for imported products such as Chinese solar panels and other foreign-made goods. Instead, consumers should give preference to high-quality products manufactured locally and encourage exports from India. The people to be aware of concerns regarding the quality and reliability of certain Chinese products.

Jain said the six-day training programme aims to equip entrepreneurs with the knowledge required to compete in the global market. Experts will guide participants on producing quality products, pricing them competitively and exporting them successfully to international markets.

He said the Central Government has sanctioned Rs. 3 crore and the Karnataka Government Rs. 1 crore to promote the export sector. An Export Facilitation Centre is coming up near the Seshadripuram Institution on the Ring Road in Mysuru. Although the project has been delayed due to rising prices of construction materials such as steel and tiles caused by global conflicts, it is expected to be completed soon. Senior officials of the Karnataka Government have already inspected the site.

According to Jain, all departments related to exports will function under one roof at the proposed centre, enabling entrepreneurs to display and market their products and conduct one-to-one business meetings with buyers.

The entrepreneurs must rely on official guidance from government departments instead of approaching private consultants or agents, thereby avoiding possible fraud.

Mysore Chamber of Commerce and Industry (MCCI) President Dr. K.B. Lingaraju said exporting is not merely about sending goods abroad but about showcasing India's quality and manufacturing capabilities to the world. The training programme will educate entrepreneurs on production standards, logistics and timely delivery of products.

He noted that Mysuru is not only the cultural capital of Karnataka but also has immense export potential in sectors such as industry, agriculture, food processing, information technology, textiles, incense sticks, sandalwood products, honey, coffee, spices, Ayurvedic products and engineering goods.

He also highlighted that e-commerce platforms have made it possible to sell products anywhere in the world and urged young entrepreneurs to leverage technology and take "Made in Mysuru" and "Made in Karnataka" brands to the global stage.

Four in five Malleswaram residents oppose Mysore Lamps convention centre: Survey

Survey urges green development, seeks public consultation before Mysore Lamps site decision by govt

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

More than four out of five residents surveyed in Malleswaram have opposed the Karnataka government's proposal to build a convention centre at the historic Mysore Lamps site, with many instead favouring its preservation as a public green space, according to a community survey conducted by Greenpeace India.

The survey, carried out under Greenpeace India's Bengaluru Rising campaign, covered 245 residents, of whom 81% described the proposed convention centre as a "stupid" idea. The findings were released during Namma Hasi-ru Nadige, a community walk organised by Preeti-4Malleswaram and Greenpeace India on Sunday to highlight the importance of protecting the neighbour-hood's green spaces.

Residents, environmental-ists, urban planners and com-munity groups participated in the walk, carrying banners displaying the survey findings and calling for the Mysore Lamps premises to be pre-served as an urban green commons rather than devel-oped into another concrete structure.

Addressing participants, Preeti Sundarejan of Preeti-4Malleswaram said the sur-vey reflected the community's clear preference for safe-guarding the site for future generations. "Real develop-ment means creating more public green spaces where communities, children and elders can thrive," she said. Greenpeace India cam-paigner Amruta S.N. stressed that Bengaluru's liveability depends on protecting parks, trees and open spaces that support biodiversity, public health and climate resilience.

Kadu Malleshwaram Gale-rya Balaga president B.K. Sivaram described Mysore Lamps as an integral part of Malleswaram's heritage and urged the government to pre-serve the site as a public green space. He also suggest-ed renaming it after Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar.

The organisers said the sur-vey reflected growing public demand for development that prioritises ecological resto-ration and community well-being over further con-cretisation, and urged the Kar-nataka government to engage with residents before taking a final decision on the future of the site.

Fake lease promise leaves 30 cheated

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A major alleged house lease fraud has surfaced in Bengal-uru, with more than 30 people accusing a woman of cheating them out of lakhs of rupees by falsely promising to arrange houses on lease.

According to the complain-ants, the accused, identified as Syeda Asma Javeed, allegedly claimed she could secure res-idential properties on long-term lease and persuaded peo-ple to pay substantial amounts in advance. Trusting her as-surances, several victims handed over large sums, ex-pecting possession of the promised houses.

Victims alleged that they paid amounts ranging from a few lakhs to as much as ₹25 lakh to ₹30 lakh under the purported lease agreements. Many said the money represented their lifetime savings or funds borrowed from relatives and lenders, leaving them in severe financial dis-tress after the alleged fraud came to light.

Several complainants claimed they were shown buildings and other properties during negotiations, giving them confidence that the trans-actions were genuine. Howev-er, they later realised the promised houses were never handed over and that they had allegedly been deceived.

The alleged scam is believed to have affected over 30 peo-ple across the city. Victims also claimed that members of the transgender community were among those who invest-ed their savings after believing the accused's assurances.

On learning that they had allegedly been cheated, the victims assembled outside Hebbal Police Station, de-

Information Commission retrieves CCTV footage through FSL in landmark RTI case

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

In a first-of-its-kind case, the Karnataka Information Com-mission has ensured that CCTV footage from two po-lice stations was retrieved through forensic examination and supplied to an RTI ap-plicant, while also recommend-ing disciplinary action against a senior police officer for pro-cedural lapses.

The case arose after M.R. Nagaraju of Malavalli sought CCTV footage recorded at the Malavalli Town and Rural po-lice stations between October 10, 2021, and March 31, 2022. His request was reject-ed by police authorities citing provisions of the Right to In-formation Act.

During the hearing, the Commission found that the then Deputy Superintendent of Police had failed to transfer the RTI application to the competent public information authorities under Section 6(3) of the Act and had not in-formed the applicant. It also noted that the first appeal had not been heard.

State Information Commis-sioner Rudranna Hartikote directed that the hard disks from both police stations be sent to the Forensic Science Laboratory (FSL) for exam-ination. The available footage relating to the applicant's vis-it and questioning was re-trieved, copied to a CD and furnished along with the fo-rensic report, while footage involving others was masked.

An inquiry later found that the RTI application had not been transferred as required. Based on the findings, the Commission directed the Bal-lari Superintendent of Police to initiate disciplinary pro-ceedings against the then DySP, now serving as Addi-tional SP in Ballari. It also warned the concerned police inspectors against ignoring RTI applications in future.

Minorities Commission urges MPs, MLAs to seek repeal of Wakf Amendment Act

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka State Minor-ities Commission has appealed to Members of Parliament and legislators to press the Centre for the repeal of the Wakf Amendment Act, stating that it has received numerous com-plaints from the Muslim com-munity over the legislation.

In a memorandum dated July 13, Commission Chair-man Nur Ahmed said the state government has no authority to revoke a law enacted by Parliament and, therefore, the Commission is directly urging elected representatives to take up the issue with the Union government.

The memorandum alleges that the amended law curtails the autonomy of Wakf institu-tions by increasing govern-ment control, diluting the powers of State Wakf Boards, and permitting non-Muslim members in Wakf administra-tion. It also raises concerns over changes to property management, dispute resolu-tion, and the transfer of key powers to district authorities.

The Commission contends that these provisions under-mine constitutional safe-guards under Articles 25 and 26, which guarantee freedom to manage religious affairs, and has called for the Act to be withdrawn in the interest of protecting the rights of the Muslim community.

Supreme Court verdict puts spotlight on Bengaluru's broken footpaths

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Greenpeace India, under its Bengaluru Rising campaign, on Monday marked broken, missing and encroached foot-paths in Rajarajeshwari Nagar with yellow "crime scene" tape carrying the message, "Constitutional Right Denied Here," days after the Supreme Court declared the right to walk safely on footpaths a Fundamental Right.

The symbolic campaign sought to highlight the city's poor pedestrian infrastructure and urge civic authorities to implement the landmark June 19 judgment, which held that safe access to footpaths flows from Articles 19(1)(d) and 21 of the Constitution. The court also ruled that wherever roads exist, civic agencies have a corresponding duty to provide and maintain safe footpaths.

According to Greenpeace India, Bengaluru has more than 14,000 km of roads, but a 2025 assessment found only 2.9 km of usable footpaths across 1,671 km of arterial and sub-arterial roads. Pedes-trians frequently encounter broken pavements, missing stretches, construction debris and encroachments, forcing them onto busy roads. The or-ganisation noted that pedestri-ans accounted for nearly 28% of the city's road fatalities in 2025, with 218 deaths record-ed by the end of November.

Campaigner Amruta S.N. said footpaths are public com-mons and the backbone of an equitable transport system, stressing that every Metro or bus journey begins and ends with a walk. She said safe, continuous and accessible footpaths are essential for en-couraging public transport and active mobility.

Resident Satish Karnath said Bengaluru's pleasant weather makes walking a practical op-tion, provided pedestrian infra-structure is safe and conven-ient. Greenpeace India and local residents urged the Greater Bengaluru Authority and other civic agencies to re-claim footpaths, remove all forms of obstruction and im-plement inclusive street de-signs that prioritise pedestri-ans while creating regulated spaces for street vendors. They said reclaiming footpaths is essen-tial to protecting citizens' con-stitutional rights and building a more liveable, inclusive and climate-resilient city.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A 31-year-old newlywed wom-an died after allegedly consum-ing poison following a dis-agreement with her husband in Nelamangala, police said. The deceased, identified as Tanuja from Beerrammana-halli in Gauribidanur, had mar-ried Ravindra, a resident of Mayasandra in Yelahanka, at Dharmasthala recently. On the day of the incident, Tanuja allegedly called Ravin-dra asking him to come home immediately. When he told her he was at work and would visit the next morning, she switched off her phone.

Later that night, she report-edly messaged him that she had consumed poison and was at Basavanahalli in Nelamangala. Ravindra rushed there and shifted her to Nelamangala Government Hospital, where she died despite treatment.

MUZRAI DEPARTMENT ISSUES SOPS TO STRENGTHEN TEMPLE SECURITY, TRANSPARENCY

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka government's Muzrai Department has is-sued a comprehensive Stan-dard Operating Procedure (SOP) aimed at strengthening security, safety and financial accountability in temples un-der its administration.

The SOP mandates that all notified temples assess their security requirements and adopt appropriate measures based on local conditions. A key provision requires the in-stallation of high-resolution CCTV cameras with night vision and digital recording capabilities at temples wher-ever necessary. The surveil-lance systems must be linked to a central server through a web-based platform, enabling authorised officials to monitor live footage remotely and securely store recordings.

To enhance transparency in temple administration, the de-partment has directed temples to digitise hundi collections, online donations and financial records. QR codes linked to the temple's official bank ac-count and IFSC code must be displayed prominently to fa-cilitate digital donations by devotees.

The guidelines also empha-size safeguarding temple property, valuables, donation boxes and devotees by adopt-ing modern surveillance tech-nology and improved mon-itoring systems.

According to the depart-ment, the SOP has been framed in view of the grow-ing number of devotees visit-ing temples and the need to ensure better security, effi-cient administration and greater financial accountabil-ity. The measures are expect-ed to improve transparency in temple management while strengthening the protection of temple assets and ensuring a safer environment for de-votees and staff.

EASE OF WALKING

Footpath drive clears nearly 500 km of encroachments across Bengaluru

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Greater Bengaluru Au-thority (GBA) has undertaken one of the city's largest foot-path encroachment clearance drives, removing obstructions along nearly 500 kilometres of pedestrian pathways across Bengaluru in just ten days.

According to official data, the enforcement drive was carried out between July 1 and July 10, during which au-thorities cleared encroach-ments covering 490.55 km of footpaths spread across the five city corporation zones. The initiative forms part of the GBA's ongoing efforts to improve pedestrian mobility, reclaim public spaces and ensure safer, obstruction-free walkways.

The drive covered the Central, South, North, East and West zones, with civic offi-cials removing illegal struc-tures, unauthorised exten-sions, roadside obstructions and other encroachments that had narrowed or blocked foot-paths. The objective was to restore walkways for pedestri-ans and improve accessibility across the city.

Among all the zones, the West Zone recorded the highest extent of the clearance op-eration, accounting for 122.62 km of footpaths. The North Zone followed with 115.35 km, while the South Zone witnessed clearance along 94.01 km of walkways.

In the East Zone, officials removed encroachments cov-ering 88.42 km, while the Central Zone accounted for 70.15 km of cleared footpaths.

The large-scale operation reflects the civic body's re-newed focus on improving walkability in Bengaluru, where pedestrians often face challenges due to encroached, damaged or obstructed foot-paths. By reclaiming public walkways, authorities aim to provide safer passage for schoolchildren, senior citi-zens, commuters and persons with disabilities while reduc-ing the need for pedestrians to walk on busy roads.

Officials said the drive will continue in phases across the city to ensure that footpaths remain accessible and free from fresh encroachments. They also stressed the impor-tance of sustained monitoring and enforcement to prevent illegal occupation of public spaces after the clearance op-erations.

Urban planners have long highlighted the need for unin-terrupted pedestrian infra-structure as a key component of sustainable urban mobility. The latest drive is expected to complement broader initia-tives aimed at encouraging walking, improving first- and last-mile connectivity to pub-lic transport and creating more pedestrian-friendly neighbourhoods.

Mayasandra festival dispute clarified by senior leader

MAGADI

Villagers of Mayasandra village in Magadi taluk are facing confusion over the Pattaladamma Devi and Kalikanteshwari festival idols, but senior leader Singri Gowda clarified that there is no objection to holding the annual fair. He said the issue was not about stopping the festival but about objections to notices issued by the Tahsildar and police department.

The dispute began after requests were made regarding permission for worshipping the Pattaladamma Devi festival idol of Mayasandra. Singri Gowda said villagers had agreed and allowed the celebration without unnecessary involvement of officials. However, he claimed that later demands were made to hand over the Kalagattamma Devi idol from Yellapur instead of the temple idol in Mayasandra, creating more confusion. He questioned how an idol belonging to another village could be given away and said such demands were causing unnecessary tension.

He alleged that some people were giving incorrect information to officials and trying to create misunderstandings among villagers. Gowda said nobody had prevented worship and all communities were allowed to participate peacefully. He also rejected personal allegations against him, explaining that he was born in Yellapur in 1967, and had served the village through elected positions with public support.

Temple priest Anand said the festival had been conducted for decades with the aim of unity and welfare of villagers. He said preparations were made peacefully through community support and money was collected through lottery tickets to avoid financial burden on anyone. He accused some people of filing complaints with authorities instead of discussing concerns directly with villagers.

Residents requested officials to help resolve the matter through discussion and allow the fair to continue peacefully. They said village festivals should bring happiness and harmony rather than create conflicts. Around 900 villagers attended the gathering, including former Gram Panchayat president Chikka Bairayya, Sharadamma, Mohan, Dinesh, Mariyanna, Narayanappa, Ganga Hanumayya, Belurayya, Nanjagowda, Anjanappa, Chennappa and Huchegowda were present during the protest. Villagers appealed for cooperation from everyone and urged authorities to take steps that maintain peace and protect the traditional celebrations of the village deity.

Farmers block GBA township survey, attack officials' cars over land acquisition row

CH NEWS, RAMANAGARA

Opposition to the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) township project's land acquisition process intensified on Monday after farmers and women residents of Mandalahalli village in Ramanagara district stopped officials who arrived to conduct a Joint Measurement (JMC) and survey. The protesting farmers, who have been opposing the proposed GBA township for more than 490 days, refused to allow the survey team to proceed. They alleged that the authorities were attempting to carry out the land measurement despite strong objections from local residents.

The situation turned tense when officials, accompanied by police personnel, arrived at the village to conduct the survey. Despite repeated requests from officials to allow the process, farmers remained firm in their opposition.

During the confrontation, some women protesters allegedly surrounded the officials' vehicles and attacked them with brooms. Stones and bricks were also allegedly thrown, causing damage to two cars, with their windshields reportedly broken.

Farmers had earlier warned that they would not permit the JMC survey under any circumstances and cautioned officials against forcibly entering their land. They maintained that the township project would affect their livelihoods and demanded that the government reconsider the land acquisition process.

Members of the Byramangala-Kanchugaranahalli Bhoomi Hitarakshana Sangha alleged that some outsiders were involved in the stone-pelting incident. They said the protest was against the project and not against government officials personally.

Police officials present at the spot attempted to bring the situation under control and appealed to protesters not to obstruct government officials from carrying out their duties. They also advised residents against taking the law into their own hands.

Following the incident, Ramanagara Superintendent of Police Srinivas Gowda visited the village and held discussions with farmers to assess the situation. Additional SP Ramachandraiah and Deputy Superintendent of Police Girish also reached the spot and gathered details from officials. The area continued to remain tense, with police maintaining a presence to prevent any further escalation. Further action is expected after reviewing the incident and statements from officials and protesters.

PIL challenges Bengal's new public safety law in HC

KOLKATA

A Public Interest Litigation (PIL) has been filed in the Calcutta High Court challenging the West Bengal Public Safety and Control of Anti-Social Activities Act, 2026, which came into force on Monday. The petition also seeks an immediate stay on the implementation of the new law. The PIL was filed by advocate and CPI(M) leader Sabyasachi Chattopadhyay before a division bench headed by Acting Chief Justice Tapabrata Chakraborty. The court has admitted the petition and is expected to hear the matter later this week.

The petitioner has mainly challenged the provision allowing police to keep a person under preventive detention for up to one year if they are considered a threat to public safety. The petition argues that this provision could be misused and affect the rights of innocent people. The law has faced criticism from Opposition parties and sections of civil society since it was passed by the West Bengal Assembly last month. It became an Act after receiving the Governor's approval. Supporters of the law have defended the preventive detention provision, saying it includes legal safeguards.

They said the person concerned will get an opportunity to present their case before an advisory board that will review the detention order. The Act also empowers district magistrates and senior police officers to issue externment orders, allowing them to remove a person from a particular area or an entire district for up to one year if they believe the individual could disturb public order. The state government has maintained that the law is intended only for habitual offenders, anti-social elements and those involved in serious crimes. It has assured that ordinary law-abiding citizens have nothing to fear and that the legislation is aimed at strengthening public safety across the state.

Telangana irrigation row kicks up fierce political war of words

HYDERABAD

A sharp political confrontation broke out in Telangana after Chief Minister A. Revanth Reddy made controversial remarks against Bharat Rashtira Samithi (BRS) leaders while responding to questions about the state's irrigation crisis. His comments triggered strong protests from the opposition, which accused him of ignoring farmers' concerns and using offensive language. During an interaction with journalists, the Chief Minister was asked how farmers would manage if drought-like conditions continued and irrigation water remained unavailable. In response, he criticised BRS leaders K. T. Rama Rao, T. Harish Rao and former Chief Minister K. Chandrasekhar Rao, accusing them of misleading people and making corruption allegations against them. The remarks came amid the ongoing dispute over the Kaleshwaram Lift Irrigation Project. The BRS has been demanding that the Congress government release water from the Kannepalli pump house, claiming there is enough water to support farmers despite dry conditions. The state government, however, said it would follow the recommendations of the National Dam Safety Authority, which has advised against storing water in the project's barages until safety concerns are addressed. Revanth Reddy said his government was working to restore the project and urged the opposition not to politicise the issue. The BRS strongly condemned the Chief Minister's remarks. Senior leader T. Harish Rao demanded an unconditional apology, saying farmers needed irrigation water, not political attacks. He accused the Chief Minister of using language unsuitable for a constitutional office. BRS working president K. T. Rama Rao also criticised Revanth Reddy through a social media post, accusing him of making inflammatory statements instead of solving farmers' problems. He said the party was ready to make any sacrifice for farmers but urged the government to ensure irrigation water reached agricultural fields without further delay.

'UNPREDICTABLE FLUCTUATIONS' IN FARES SC seeks aviation rules amid concerns over sky-high airfares

NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Monday directed the Centre to submit within two weeks the rules framed under the Bharatiya Vayuyan Adhiniyam, 2024, while hearing a petition seeking regulation of airfares and better protection for airline passengers. A bench of Justices Vikram Nath and Sandeep Mehta asked the Centre to place the rules before the court in a sealed cover, regardless of whether they have been presented before Parliament. The Centre informed the court that the draft rules are ready and are currently being translated. The case was filed by social activist S. Laxminarayanan, who has sought an independent regulator to ensure transparency, protect passengers and regulate unpredictable airfare increases and additional charges imposed by private airlines. Senior advocate Ravindra Srivastava, appearing for the petitioner, argued that until the new rules come into force, the existing rules remain in operation. He urged the court to establish a strong and independent regulatory mechanism to address the issue of high airfares. The Supreme Court has fixed August 3 for the next hearing. Earlier, while hearing the matter, the court had observed that airfare rationalisation was necessary and asked the Centre to provide relief to passengers. The petition alleges that private airlines have reduced the free baggage allowance for economy passengers from 25 kg to 15 kg without justification, creating an additional source of revenue through baggage charges. It also questions the policy allowing only one checked-in bag. The plea further claims that airlines are increasing fares without any effective regulation, particularly during festivals and emergencies, and imposing hidden charges. It argues that the absence of a proper regulatory system has resulted in arbitrary pricing, inadequate grievance redressal and unfair practices, affecting passengers' rights and calling for urgent government action.

AIUDF chief slams proposed suspension rule for jailed CMs, PM

GUWAHATI

AIUDF chief and Binnakandi MLA Badruddin Ajmal on Monday criticised a reported recommendation by a parliamentary panel suggesting that a Prime Minister or Chief Minister should be suspended, instead of removed, if they remain in judicial custody for 30 days.

Speaking to reporters on the sidelines of the Assam Assembly session, Ajmal questioned the purpose of the proposal. He alleged that political leaders would never support laws that could later be used against themselves. According to him, lawmakers across political parties protect one another and are unwilling to introduce strict measures to ensure accountability.

Ajmal claimed that many Members of Parliament are facing criminal cases and argued that such representatives are unlikely to pass tougher laws against elected leaders. He alleged, without providing evidence, that more than 65 per cent of MPs have criminal cases against them. He said the proposal would not lead to meaningful reforms and was only meant to create a public impression of action.

The AIUDF leader also criticised the Bharatiya Janata Party over the proposed implementation of the Uniform Civil Code (UCC). He alleged that the ruling party raises the issue mainly before elections to gain political support. Ajmal claimed the BJP would implement the UCC wherever it is in power but said the issue was being highlighted to influence voters, especially ahead of the Uttar Pradesh Assembly elections.

Ajmal's comments came as political debate continues over the parliamentary panel's reported recommendation regarding constitutional functionaries facing prolonged judicial custody. The proposal suggests suspension instead of automatic removal from office after 30 days in custody.

The recommendation, along with discussions on implementing the Uniform Civil Code in BJP-ruled states, has drawn mixed reactions from political parties across the country.

Shinde hints more political moves in Sena battle

MUMBAI

Maharashtra Deputy Chief Minister and Shiv Sena leader Eknath Shinde has indicated that more political developments are likely in the ongoing battle over the party's legacy.

Referring to "Operation Tiger," Shinde said, "Picture abhi baki hai," suggesting that further defections could take place in the coming days.

His remarks came after six of the nine Shiv Sena (UBT) Lok Sabha MPs joined the Shinde faction, giving it the two-thirds strength needed to avoid anti-defection provisions. Political observers believe the statement is aimed at keeping pressure on the remaining Shiv Sena (UBT) leaders and workers.

According to analysts, the message also signals that the Shinde camp is trying to attract more MLAs and local representatives, especially from Mumbai, Thane and the Marathwada region. The move is seen as an effort to strengthen the ruling Mahayuti alliance ahead of future political contests.

Observers also noted that Shinde's comments reinforce his position within the alliance by highlighting his ability to bring influential leaders into his camp.

Modi govt silent on corruption in education: RaGa

NEW DELHI

Congress leader and Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi on Monday criticised India's education system, calling it a "dishonest extortion mechanism" that places heavy financial and emotional burdens on students and their families.

Ahead of his second interaction with students under the 'Chhatron Ki Goonj' campaign, Gandhi said the country now needs a major revolution in the education sector.

In a post on social media platform X, Gandhi said students themselves describe the present education system as corrupt, unjust, biased and dishonest. He alleged that instead of preparing young people for a better future, the system is pushing families into debt, stress and disappointment.

The Congress leader also blamed corruption for repeated examination paper leaks, saying they have destroyed the hard work and dreams of millions of students preparing for competitive exams. According to him, those responsible for the leaks continue to receive contracts and promotions, while students suffer

Rahul Gandhi alleged that India's education system has become unfair and corrupt, urging students to join a movement demanding reforms and greater accountability the consequences.

Gandhi accused the Narendra Modi government and Union Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan of remaining silent despite growing concerns over examination irregularities and corruption. He said the government had failed to take responsibility and questioned the lack of public discussion on the issue.

Gandhi urged students to join the next 'Chhatron Ki Goonj' programme in Dehradun on July 17 and support the demand for education reforms. He said the campaign highlights issues affecting students nationwide. The initiative began with a rally in Kota, Rajasthan, on June 17, where he criticised the education system as unfair. He said students face heavy pressure and uncertainty, and called for a system that provides equal opportunities and encourages them to achieve their goals.

Delhi cops bust interstate ganja smuggling network, arrest 4

NEW DELHI

Delhi Police have busted an interstate drug trafficking network by seizing 765.6 kg of ganja worth about ₹2.30 crore and arresting four alleged members after a multi-state operation lasting more than 36 hours.

The operation was carried out under the Centre's 'Nasha Mukht Bharat Abhiyan' with coordinated surveillance across Bihar, Odisha, Jharkhand, Delhi, Haryana and Punjab. Police said they acted on specific intelligence received on June 20 about the movement of a large consignment of narcotics.

The first arrest was made near Madhuban Chowk in Pitampura, where Ashok Kumar, a resident of Delhi, was caught carrying two bags containing 22.610 kg of ganja. A case under the NDPS Act was registered at Rani Bagh Police Station.

During questioning, Ashok allegedly revealed details of a larger consignment and identified an alleged supplier using the name Ajeet Singh. Further investigation and technical surveillance identified the suspect as Inderjeet Ray from Patna, Bihar.

Police tracked Ray across several states before arresting him along with his associate Nitish Kumar from a hotel in Ludhiana on July 10. Their interrogation led police to a rented warehouse in Jamalpur, Ludhiana.

A raid at the warehouse resulted in the recovery of another 743 kg of ganja. Police also arrested Dharmender Kumar, who allegedly helped operate the storage facility.

With the latest recovery, the total seizure reached 765.6 kg of ganja, valued at nearly ₹2.30 crore in the illegal market. Investigators believe the warehouse served as a distribution centre for drug supplies across Punjab and Haryana.

Medicine shortage threatens patients across Pakistan

Karachi
Pakistan is facing a serious shortage of more than 100 essential medicines, including life-saving drugs for cancer, heart disease and other critical illnesses. The shortage follows delays of over two years in approving revised medicine prices despite rising production costs. Pharmaceutical companies say they cannot continue manufacturing at current prices, forcing reduced supply. Industry leaders have urged the government to approve pending price revisions, warning that shortages could worsen and increase the circulation of counterfeit medicines.

18 dead as 'Typhoon Bavi' wreaks havoc in Philippines

Manila
At least 18 people have died and 12 remain missing after Typhoon Bavi and the enhanced southwest monsoon triggered heavy rain across the Philippines. Most deaths were caused by landslides and drowning, while around 562,000 people have been affected. Authorities have deployed rescue teams as flooding and landslides continue to threaten several areas. The storm also hit eastern China, where heavy rain caused flooding concerns in Zhejiang Province. Officials have strengthened disaster response as Typhoon Bavi gradually weakens.

EU pushes biggest Russia sanctions expansion

EU foreign ministers discuss new Russia sanctions, international issues; EU foreign policy chief says, 'We are also working for 21st sanctions package where we don't have agreement yet.'

BRUSSELS

European Union foreign ministers met in Brussels on Monday to discuss a new package of sanctions against Russia, the ongoing war in Ukraine and several international security issues. However, EU foreign policy chief Kaja Kallas said member countries have not yet reached an agreement on the proposed 21st sanctions package. Speaking before the meeting, Kallas said ministers were hoping to approve around 250 new sanctions listings. She explained that the proposed measures were a response to Russia's recent attacks on civilians in Ukraine. The ministers also discussed the situation of Ukrainian civilians reportedly being held in Russian-controlled areas, including teachers and journalists, along with prisoners of war and children who were allegedly taken from their families. Kallas said the European Union is considering creating a special platform to help secure their release. She noted that collecting information about detained civilians has been more difficult than tracking abducted children.

Kaja Kallas, EU foreign policy chief

The meeting also focused on the European Union's Black Sea strategy. Ministers reviewed ways to strengthen cooperation with Bulgaria and Romania to protect important infrastructure and respond to hybrid threats in the region.

Kallas said the Foreign Affairs Council is also expected to approve a new partnership mission for Armenia. The mission aims to help the country deal with hybrid threats, foreign misinformation and out-side interference. The EU ministers also discussed Middle East security with Gulf partners, stressing that navigation through the Strait of Hormuz must remain free and unrestricted. They reviewed the situations in Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Western Balkans and Sudan, urging continued international engagement to support peace, stability and conflict resolution.

In-short
European Union foreign ministers convened in Brussels to deliberate a massive expansion of Russia sanctions, targeting 250 additional individuals and entities in response to recent civilian attacks. The EU is also pursuing an ambitious 21st sanctions package, though members remain divided over proposed bans on maritime services and liquefied natural gas (LNG).

India-Japan hold key dialogue to boost defence industrial collab

TOKYO

Defence Secretary Rajesh Kumar Singh met Japan's Defence Minister Shinjiro Koizumi in Tokyo on Monday to discuss regional security, defence cooperation and defence industry partnerships. The meeting marked Singh's first official visit to Japan as Defence Secretary and followed recent high-level talks between the leaders of the two countries. Koizumi said the discussions covered a wide range of issues, including follow-up actions after Japanese Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi's recent visit to India. He described the talks as broad and constructive, focusing on regional developments and expanding defence industry cooperation between the two countries. During his visit, Singh laid a wreath at the Self-Defense Forces Memorial Stone in To-

India and Japan reviewed defence cooperation, regional security and economic ties while reaffirming their commitment to peace, technology and stronger bilateral relations kyo to honour the soldiers who sacrificed their lives in service of Japan. India's Ministry of Defence said the tribute reflected the strong Special Strategic and Global Partnership shared by both nations, built on mutual respect, shared democratic values and a common commitment to peace and stability. Singh's visit comes soon after Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi travelled to India from July 1 to 3 for the 16th India-Japan Annual Summit. During the summit in New Delhi, Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Takaichi reviewed the full range of bilateral relations, including trade, investment, economic security, clean energy, emerging technologies, defence cooperation and people-to-people exchanges. The leaders exchanged agreements on economic security, artificial intelligence, energy resilience and critical technologies. They also planned activities to mark 75 years of diplomatic ties. Addressing the India-Japan Joint Economic Forum, they discussed boosting investment, strengthening supply chains, expanding manufacturing and enhancing cooperation in clean energy and advanced technologies.

Kuwait and Bahrain raised security alerts after Iran claimed retaliatory attacks following recent United States military strikes.

Kuwait-Bahrain respond as regional tensions escalate

KUWAIT CITY

Kuwait said on Monday that its armed forces were intercepting hostile aerial targets within the country's airspace, while neighbouring Bahrain sounded emergency sirens and advised people to move to the nearest safe place. The developments followed claims by Iran's Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC) that it had launched missile and drone attacks against United States military bases in Jordan, Bahrain and Kuwait. The Kuwait Army said any explosions heard by residents were caused by air defence systems intercepting hostile targets. Authorities urged the public to remain calm and strictly follow all security and safety instructions issued by government agencies. Bahrain's Ministry of Interior also issued a public advisory after emergency sirens were activated. The ministry asked citizens and residents to stay calm and immediately move to the nearest safe location until further instructions were issued. Tnewshe IRGC said the attacks were carried out in response to recent US airstrikes on southern Iran. The United States had said its military action followed alleged attacks on ships in the Strait of Hormuz. The IRGC claimed it had intercepted two ships that had switched off their tracking systems and taken an unauthorised route through the strategic waterway. It said the first phase of its retaliation targeted the Prince Hassan Air Base in Jordan using missiles and drones. Iran claimed it targeted US military bases in Bahrain and Kuwait, though the claims remain unverified. Any disruption in the Strait of Hormuz could affect global oil supplies, trade and regional stability.

Australia will soon introduce digital passenger cards nationwide

SYDNEY

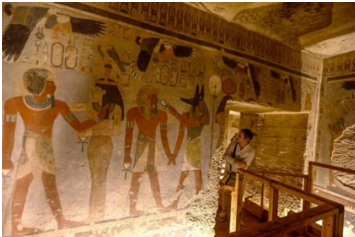

The Australian government has announced plans to replace paper passenger cards with digital passenger cards for all international arrivals over the next 12 to 18 months. The initiative is part of a $6.1 million Australian dollar investment to modernise airport travel systems before the 2032 Brisbane Olympic and Paralympic Games. The decision follows a successful trial of the digital Australia Traveller Declaration on selected Qantas flights to Sydney, Melbourne and Brisbane, where more than 450,000 passengers used the system since October 2024. The digital service allows travellers to complete their personal details and customs declarations up to three days before departure instead of filling out paper forms during their journey or after arrival. The government said the system will be expanded to Qantas flights arriving in Perth and Adelaide before the end of 2026, followed by all international airports and seaports. Home Affairs Minister Tony Burke said the project would improve the travel experience and strengthen border management.

Ancient New Kingdom Tomb Unearthed In Egypt's Luxor Region

CAIRO

Egypt has announced the discovery of a Pharaonic tomb dating back to the New Kingdom period during archaeological excavations on the West Bank of Luxor. The tomb was uncovered by a Dutch archaeological mission working in the Theban Necropolis.

According to Egypt's Ministry of Tourism and Antiquities, inscriptions identify the tomb's owner as "Paser." Officials said the structure dates to the New Kingdom period between 1550 BC and 1069 BC. Archaeologists will now carry out detailed studies to identify those buried there and better understand the site's historical importance. The tomb includes an open courtyard, a T-shaped rock-cut chapel and several underground burial chambers, reflecting the design of private tombs from that period. The courtyard remains well preserved and features a mud-brick mastaba, a central niche for a funerary stone and a staircase leading to the main entrance. Officials said parts of the wall paintings are covered by debris, but excavated sections reveal colourful artwork showing Paser honouring ancient Egyptian gods. Other scenes depict him and his wife seated before a traditional offering table. The discovery follows another major archaeological find announced in April, when a Spanish mission uncovered a rare tomb from the Roman and Greek periods in Minya province.

WC HEAVYWEIGHTS SET FOR blockbuster semifinal clashes

ATLANTA

The FIFA World Cup has reached a mouth-watering semifinal stage, with four former champions—Argentina, Spain, France and England—set to battle for a place in the final in what promises to be one of the strongest last-four line-ups in the tournament's history.

The four teams entered the competition as the top-ranked nations in FIFA's standings and are now just two victories away from lifting football's biggest prize. France will take on Spain in Arlington, Texas, on Tuesday, while defending champions Argentina face England in Atlanta on Wednesday.

It is the first time since the 1990 World Cup that all four semifinalists are previous champions, underscoring the quality and pedigree of the remaining contenders.

The England-Argentina clash revives one of football's fiercest rivalries, shaped by decades of dramatic World Cup encounters and the political backdrop of the 1982 Falklands conflict. From Antonio Rattin's controversial dismissal in 1966 to Diego Maradona's infamous "Hand of God" goal in 1986 and David Beckham's red card in 1998, the fixture has consistently produced unforgettable moments.

Attention will also focus on 39-year-old Lionel Messi, who is set to play his first World Cup match against England. Widely regarded as the greatest player of his generation, Messi is chasing a second World Cup title, a feat that would elevate his legacy even further and make Argentina the first nation since Brazil in 1962 to successfully defend the trophy.

The other semifinal pits reigning European champions Spain against an in-form France side eager for revenge after losing to La Roja in the Euro 2024 semifinals. The contest also offers a fascinating duel between France captain Kylian Mbappé and Spain's teenage sensation Lamine Yamal.

The race for the Golden Boot adds another layer of intrigue. Messi and Mbappé lead the scoring charts with eight goals each, while England's Harry Kane and Jude Bellingham have six apiece. France's Ousmane Dembélé has five goals, with Spain's Mikel Oyarzabal on four.

Messi, Mbappé, Yamal and Kane headline unforgettable race for football's ultimate prize together

With elite talent, historic rivalries and World Cup glory at stake, the semifinals promise two unforgettable nights as football's biggest stars compete for a place in Sunday's final.

England, meanwhile, reached the semifinals after overcoming Norway in extra time, with Jude Bellingham playing a starring role. Former England defender Micah Richards believes Messi remains Argentina's biggest weapon.

"England can outrun Argentina, but they have that little genius in Messi. Everyone plays for him, and marking him is almost impossible," Richards said.

Beyond the battle for a place in the final, the clash renews one of football's fiercest rivalries, shaped by unforgettable World Cup encounters and decades of sporting history. For Messi, it offers another opportunity to strengthen his extraordinary legacy by leading Argentina one step closer to back-to-back World Cup titles.

ARLINGTON

Spain's teenage sensation Lamine Yamal will have another opportunity to underline his status as football's brightest young star when he comes face-to-face with France captain Kylian Mbappé in a blockbuster FIFA World Cup semifinal on Tuesday.

The clash pits one of the game's most accomplished superstars against its most exciting emerging talent, with a place in the World Cup final at stake.

Mbappé, now 27, is aiming to guide France into a third successive World Cup final after winning the title in 2018 and finishing runners-up in 2022. The French captain has been in scintillating form throughout the tournament, scoring eight goals to share the Golden Boot lead with Argentina's Lionel Messi.

Yamal, meanwhile, is chasing history of his own. The Barcelona winger is hoping to emulate Mbappé by winning the World Cup as a teenager. The Spaniard first announced himself on the global stage at Euro 2024, when his stunning semifinal goal helped Spain eliminate France before they went on to lift the continental title.

Although Yamal has scored only once at this World Cup, Spain captain Rodri has urged the 19-year-old to remain patient.

"Lamine sometimes needs to calm his anxiety because he wants to show how important he is for the team," Rodri said, expressing confidence that the youngster will deliver when it matters most.

Spain's attack has lacked some of the cutting edge that defined its European Championship triumph, while France have rediscovered their attacking rhythm with Mbappé leading a formidable forward line.

The semifinal also extends an intriguing personal rivalry. Across club and international football, Yamal has enjoyed considerable success against Mbappé, winning eight of their previous 10 meetings.

For Mbappé, the stakes are equally significant. Victory would take France into a third consecutive World Cup final, matching a feat achieved only by Brazil's Cafu. The Real Madrid forward is also closing in on Messi's World Cup scoring record, trailing the Argentine by just one goal.

With youth challenging experience and two of football's biggest names ready to share the spotlight, Tuesday's semifinal promises to be one of the defining contests of the tournament.

MESSI SET FOR FIRST ENGLAND TEST AS ARGENTINA EYE ANOTHER WC FINAL

ATLANTA

Lionel Messi will finally face England on the World Cup stage for the first time in his illustrious career when defending champions Argentina meet the Three Lions in a blockbuster FIFA World Cup semifinal on Wednesday.

The 39-year-old Argentine captain has played against every other former World Cup-winning nation, including Brazil, Germany, France, Italy, Spain and Uruguay, but England have remained the one notable omission from his international résumé.

That long-awaited meeting will now take place in Atlanta, with a place in the World Cup final at stake. The Argentine Football Association described the contest as "the match fate owed Messi," highlighting the significance of the encounter for one of football's greatest players.

Messi came closest to facing England in a friendly in Geneva in November 2005. However, he missed the match after being sent off on his senior international debut against Hungary earlier that year. England won that friendly 3-2, with Wayne Rooney and Michael Owen leading the comeback.

"It's special because they're a great team and a football powerhouse," Messi said after Argentina's dramatic 3-1 extra-time victory over Switzerland in the quarterfinals.

"We need to recover well because we've had several physically demanding matches. Our aim is to keep competing the way we have throughout the tournament," he added.

Argentina have endured a gruelling knockout campaign, defeating Cape Verde in extra time in the Round of 32 before staging a remarkable comeback from two goals down to beat Egypt in the Round of 16. Against Switzerland, Messi provided the assist for Alexis Mac Allister's opener, although it was the first World Cup match since Argentina's 2022 group-stage win over Poland in which he failed to score.

England, meanwhile, reached the semifinals after overcoming Norway in extra time, with Jude Bellingham playing a starring role.

Former England defender Micah Richards believes Messi remains Argentina's biggest weapon.

"England can outrun Argentina, but they have that little genius in Messi. Everyone plays for him, and marking him is almost impossible," Richards said.

Beyond the battle for a place in the final, the clash renews one of football's fiercest rivalries, shaped by unforgettable World Cup encounters and decades of sporting history. For Messi, it offers another opportunity to strengthen his extraordinary legacy by leading Argentina one step closer to back-to-back World Cup titles.

Norway coach questions England equaliser after controversial World Cup quarterfinal

MIAMI

Norway head coach Stale Solbakken has reignited controversy over England's equalising goal in their FIFA World Cup quarterfinal, insisting the ball struck an overhead camera cable before Jude Bellingham scored in England's dramatic 2-1 extra-time victory.

England recovered from Andreas Schjelderup's first-half opener to book a semifinal clash with defending champions Argentina, thanks to Bellingham's brace. However, Solbakken believes the momentum changed after an unusual incident moments before England's equaliser in first-half stoppage time.

The Norwegian coach claimed goalkeeper Orjan Nyland's clearance hit one of the cables supporting the overhead camera system, causing the ball to change direction before it fell to an England player and sparked the attack that led to Bellingham's goal.

"The ball fell straight down from the sky, so it changed its direction," Solbakken said after the match.

"It caused a misunderstanding among our players. But we can't do anything about that. I don't think we will play the game again."

According to Solbakken, Norway's players and coaching staff immediately raised the issue with match officials at halftime but were informed the referee had not seen the incident and VAR had not intervened.

During the match, FIFA issued a statement saying the tournament's "Connected Ball" technology detected no contact between the ball and the overhead cable.

"The sensor in the Connected Ball showed no peak in the heartbeat of the ball while it was in the air," FIFA said, indicating there had been no impact.

While acknowledging FIFA's explanation, Solbakken remained unconvinced.

"If there's been no sound or nothing on the chip, what can I say against that? But the ball dropped straight from heaven. Everyone saw it, including our goalkeeper. We will probably talk about the wire until we are all dead," he remarked.

Despite his frustration, the Norway coach stressed he did not want the incident to overshadow his team's outstanding campaign, which included a memorable Round of 16 victory over Brazil and their first World Cup quarterfinal appearance since 1998.

England manager Thomas Tuchel said he had not noticed the incident during the match but expressed confidence in the tournament's technology.

"I wasn't aware of it. There's a chip in the ball that can detect the slightest touch, so they should be able to tell if it happened," Tuchel said.

FIFA faces scrutiny over Balogun ban amid Trump intervention controversy

ZURICH

FIFA has come under intense scrutiny after reports revealed that the decision to suspend United States striker Folarin Balogun's one-match World Cup ban was approved by only one member of its 18-member disciplinary committee, raising fresh questions over the governing body's decision-making process.

According to a report, FIFA Disciplinary Committee chairman Mohammad Al-Kamali unilaterally approved the suspension of Balogun's ban for 12 months after the striker was sent off during the United States' Round of 32 victory over Bosnia and Herzegovina. The suspension allowed Balogun to feature in the Americans' Round of 16 clash against Belgium.

The decision has attracted widespread attention because high-profile disciplinary matters are typically handled by a panel comprising multiple committee members. In precedent-setting cases, FIFA generally appoints a three-member panel to deliberate before reaching a verdict.

Reports claim that none of the committee's remaining 17 members were consulted before Al-Kamali made the decision, making the ruling highly unusual.

The controversy deepened after FIFA acknowledged that United States President Donald Trump had personally contacted FIFA president Gianni Infantino to request a review of Balogun's red card. Trump later confirmed he had intervened after Balogun was dismissed for a studs-up challenge on Bosnia defender Tarik Muharemovic.

Although FIFA has maintained that the disciplinary process remained independent, critics have questioned the timing and manner of the decision, particularly given the political involvement surrounding the case.

Balogun remains the only player at the 2026 World Cup to have his suspension deferred despite 14 players receiving red cards during the tournament. The remaining players either served their suspensions during the competition or will do so in future FIFA matches if their teams have already been eliminated.

Blaney survives late drama to dominate rain-hit NASCAR race in Atlanta

HAMPTON

Ryan Blaney produced a dominant performance before surviving a dramatic final-lap battle to win the weather-delayed NASCAR Cup Series race at EchoPark Speedway in Atlanta early Monday morning.

The Team Penske driver, who started from pole position, led 171 laps, swept all three stages and emerged victorious after a thrilling three-wide fight with Bubba Wallace and Christopher Bell in overtime.

Wallace initially crossed the finish line in second place but was later penalised for passing below the double yellow line on the final lap, dropping him to 29th in the final classification. Bell was promoted to second, while Carson Hocevar and Ty Gibbs completed the top four.

The race was interrupted for three hours and nine minutes because of rain and lightning before finally ending at 1.45 a.m. local time.

Blaney's victory was far from straightforward. With 29 laps remaining, he brushed the outside wall after slight contact with Wallace, leaving his Ford with visible damage and a severe vibration.

"I got loose and hit the fence. I thought it was just concrete and paint on the wheels. Luckily, the car still drove really well," Blaney said after securing his victory.

Despite reporting the vibration to his team over the radio, crew chief Jonathan Hasler decided against bringing the car into the pits.

"There were 30 cars on the lead lap and not many laps left. Staying on track gave us the best chance to win," Hasler explained.

The race was forced into overtime after a multi-car accident involving Kyle Larson, Chase Briscoe and Riley Herbst with five laps remaining.

Earlier, NASCAR officials had suspended the race after lightning was detected within eight miles of the circuit, asking spectators to leave the grandstands before heavy rain arrived. Racing resumed shortly after midnight.

Blaney joked that he used the lengthy delay to "take a nap and eat some food," while Larson admitted the restart came well past his usual bedtime.

Alumina refinery capacity targeted at 3 million tonnes

Aditya Birla Group proposes Rs 12,000 crore Odisha investment to expand alumina refinery capacity to 3 MTPA.

BHUBANESWAR

The Aditya Birla Group has proposed an investment of around Rs 12,000 crore to expand the capacity of its alumina refinery in Odisha to 3 million tonnes per annum (MTPA), marking a significant move to strengthen its presence in the aluminium value chain.

The proposed expansion is expected to enhance production capabilities, improve operational efficiency and support the growing demand for alumina in domestic and international markets.

The investment is part of the group's broader strategy to scale up its mineral and metals business while contributing to industrial development in Odisha.

The project will further strengthen Odisha's position as a major hub for aluminium and allied industries, supported by the state's rich mineral resources and established industrial ecosystem. The expansion is also expected to generate employment opportunities and create additional economic activity in the region.

Alumina is a key raw material used in aluminium production, and increasing refinery capacity will help improve supply security for downstream operations. The Aditya Birla Group has significant interests in the aluminium sector through its flagship metals company, which operates large-scale mining, refining and smelting facilities.

The proposed investment aligns with India's broader push to increase domestic manufacturing capacity, reduce dependence on imports and develop globally competitive industrial infrastructure. Rising demand from sectors such as transportation, renewable energy, construction and electronics has strengthened the outlook for aluminium consumption.

The Odisha government has been focusing on attracting large industrial investments through policy support, infrastructure development and improved ease of doing business.

The Aditya Birla Group's proposed expansion is expected to reinforce investor confidence in the state's industrial potential. The project will require necessary approvals and clearances before implementation. Once completed, the expanded refinery capacity is expected to play a key role in supporting the group's aluminium operations and strengthening India's position in the global metals market.

India must develop resilient software and hardware systems to counter cyber threats, says MeitY Secretary, stressing stronger digital security.

India urged to build resilient cybersecurity systems against threats

NEW DELHI

India must develop resilient software and hardware ecosystems capable of withstanding evolving cyber threats, MeitY Secretary S. Krishnan said, stressing the need for stronger digital security frameworks to protect the country's growing technology infrastructure.

He highlighted that as India expands its digital economy, cybersecurity preparedness has become increasingly important across government, businesses and critical infrastructure sectors. Building secure systems from the design stage and strengthening domestic capabilities will be essential to address emerging risks.

The MeitY Secretary emphasised the importance of innovation, research and collaboration among industry stakeholders, academia and government agencies to create robust cybersecurity solutions. He noted that the country needs advanced technologies and skilled professionals to tackle increasingly sophisticated cyberattacks.

With rapid adoption of digital services, cloud platforms, artificial intelligence and connected devices, India faces a growing need for secure software and hardware development practices. Strengthening cyber resilience will help safeguard sensitive information, maintain trust in digital platforms and support long-term economic growth.

The government has been focusing on expanding cybersecurity capabilities through policy initiatives, capacity building and promotion of indigenous technology development. Strengthening domestic cybersecurity products and solutions is also aligned with efforts to improve India's digital sovereignty.

Experts have highlighted that cyber resilience requires a coordinated approach involving continuous monitoring, threat intelligence sharing and quick response mechanisms. As businesses and public institutions become more dependent on digital systems, investments in cybersecurity infrastructure are expected to remain a priority. The MeitY Secretary's remarks underline the importance of preparing India's technology ecosystem for future challenges while ensuring that digital transformation progresses securely and sustainably.

Private equity flows into India's real estate sector rise 3.2%

NEW DELHI

Private equity investments in India's real estate sector reached $3.2 billion during the first half of 2026, registering a 33 percent year-on-year growth, reflecting rising investor confidence in the country's property market, according to a report released on Monday.

Global real estate consultancy firm Savills India said private equity institutional inflows stood at $2 billion in the second quarter of 2026, marking a 25 percent increase compared with the same period last year.

The investment figures include equity transactions executed through private routes, structured debt deals by Alternative Investment Funds (AIFs), and non-convertible debenture issuances. The data excludes conventional debt deals, qualified institutional placements, public market transactions and platform formations.

Data centres emerged as the leading investment segment in the second quarter, accounting for 38 percent of total inflows and reversing the earlier dominance of office-led investments. The office segment contributed 30 percent, while residential real estate secured a 16 percent share.

For the first half of the year, office assets remained the preferred investment category, attracting 34 percent of total equity inflows. Investors also expanded exposure to alternative real estate segments, including hospitality with an 8 percent share and student housing or co-living spaces with 3 percent.

Indian real estate attracts $3.2 billion private equity investments in H1 2026, rising 33% amid strong investor confidence.

Domestic investors contributed 51 percent of total private equity inflows during H1 2026. The capital was spread across multiple asset classes, although office properties remained the primary focus, accounting for 68 percent of domestic investments, particularly in major Tier-I cities.

Foreign investors accounted for the remaining 49 percent of inflows, with the US and Canada contributing nearly 69 percent of overseas capital. Foreign investments were mainly directed towards data centres and hospitality assets.

Savills India Managing Director Sumet Bhatia said the strong inflow of private equity capital highlights growing confidence in India's real estate sector.

He added that increasing diversification into hospitality, healthcare and student housing reflects a maturing investment approach focused on digital and alternative real estate opportunities.

The report expects investment momentum to continue in the coming quarters as global and domestic investors strengthen their long-term commitment to India's expanding real estate market.

Fleming ends 17-year stint as CSK head coach

Mutual decision closes one of IPL's longest and most successful coaching partnerships ever

CHENNAI

Five-time Indian Premier League (IPL) champions Chennai Super Kings (CSK) and head coach Stephen Fleming have mutually agreed to part ways, bringing an end to one of the most successful and enduring partnerships in the tournament's history.

The announcement was made by the franchise on Monday through a post on X, thanking the former New Zealand captain for his immense contribution since the team's inception in 2008.

"The Super Kings and Head Coach Stephen Fleming have mutually decided to part ways. Together, we shared one of the most successful and enduring partnerships in IPL history. The legacy you've built will continue to inspire us," the franchise said.

Fleming joined CSK as a player in the inaugural IPL season in 2008 before taking over as head coach in 2009. During his tenure, the franchise established itself as one of the league's most consistent teams, winning five IPL titles and two Champions League T20 crowns. Under his guidance, CSK also reached the IPL playoffs a record 12 times and appeared in 10 finals.

However, the team's fortunes have dipped since losing the IPL trophy in 2023. CSK failed to qualify for the playoffs in each of the last three seasons, leading to growing scrutiny of Fleming's role despite his remarkable record.

CSK owner Rupa Gurunath described Fleming as the "heartbeat" of the franchise's coaching setup.

"For nearly two decades, he has helped shape our identity, vision and pursuit of excellence. On behalf of everyone at the Super Kings, we extend our deepest gratitude for his unwavering commitment, passion and leadership," she said.

While the franchise has not announced a successor, the departure marks the end of an era for CSK, whose identity became closely associated with Fleming's calm leadership and tactical acumen.

With skipper Ruturaj Gaikwad expected to lead the team's rebuilding phase, attention will now turn to who takes charge of one of the IPL's most decorated franchises ahead of the 2027 season.

Dravid tipped for England Test role after McCullum exit

LONDON

Former India head coach Rahul Dravid has emerged as one of the leading contenders to succeed Brendon McCullum as England's Test coach following the New Zealander's dismissal after the team's disappointing red-ball performances.

According to a report, Dravid is among several high-profile candidates being considered by the England and Wales Cricket Board (ECB), alongside former England coach Andy Flower and ex-England spinner Richard Dawson.

McCullum's four-year tenure as England's Test coach came to an end after the side suffered a 1-2 home series defeat to New Zealand. The ECB said it was "the right time to make a change" ahead of next year's Ashes series, although McCullum will continue as coach of England's ODI and T20I teams.

Dravid, 53, is regarded as an attractive candidate because of his meticulous planning, technical expertise and calm

Indian legend reportedly shortlisted, though full-time coaching role may not interest him currently leadership. During his stint with India, he guided the team to the 2024 ICC T20 World Cup title and the 2023 World Test Championship final, enhancing his reputation as one of the game's finest coaches.

However, the report noted that Dravid currently has "no desire" to return to full-time coaching. It suggested that England's Test-only role, which allows extended breaks between assignments, could nevertheless appeal to him and help preserve his preferred format of the game.

Zimbabwe great Andy Flower is also viewed as a strong contender. Widely regarded as England's most successful modern-day coach, Flower guided the team to three Ashes series victories and the No. 1 Test ranking. He has also enjoyed success in franchise cricket, including back-to-back IPL titles with Royal Challengers Bengaluru.

Richard Dawson, currently Glamorgan's head coach, is another serious candidate after impressing in county cricket. Other names linked with the vacancy include Sri Lanka great Kumar Sangakkara, England Lions coach Andrew Flintoff, Pakistan head coach Mike Hesson and former Australia coach Justin Langer.

The ECB is expected to begin consultations soon as England look to appoint a new Test coach before preparations gather pace for the 2027 Ashes.

Australian becomes latest foreign coach to leave Pakistan setup amid continued management instability recently

McDermott resigns as Pakistan fielding coach ahead of West Indies, England tours

LAHORE

Pakistan fielding coach Shane McDermott has resigned from his position ahead of the national team's upcoming Test tours of the West Indies and England, becoming the latest foreign support staff member to exit the Pakistan cricket set-up. According to sources close to the Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB), the Australian coach, who joined the team around a year ago, will not accompany the squad on the two-Test series in the Caribbean or the subsequent three-Test tour of England.

The PCB has not officially disclosed the reason behind McDermott's resignation. However, it is expected to appoint Mansoor Amjad, currently the fielding coach of the Pakistan Shaheens and Under-19 teams, as his replacement.

"Mansoor Amjad, who has been the fielding coach with the Pakistan Shaheens and Under-19 side, is likely to replace McDermott," a source familiar with the development said.

Pakistan's squad is scheduled to depart on Monday for the Caribbean, where it will play a two-Test series before travelling to England for three more Tests as part of a crucial overseas campaign.

McDermott's departure continues a pattern of foreign coaches and support staff leaving Pakistan cricket in recent years, often without official explanations. His resignation follows the exits of trainer and physiotherapist Cliffe Deacon, while former head coaches Gary Kirsten and Jason Gillespie also stepped down from their roles in the past year.

The PCB has also been reviewing its coaching structure following inconsistent performances across formats. Reports have suggested that Test head coach Sarfaraz Ahmed and captain Shan Masood are also under scrutiny after a string of disappointing results.

Pakistan cricket has witnessed frequent changes in its coaching staff over the past decade. One of the most notable departures came in 2019 when former fielding coach Steve Rixon resigned following differences with the board.

India skipper says setbacks will strengthen team ahead of 2028 T20 World Cup challenge

CHENNAI

India T20I captain Shreyas Iyer has urged his team to learn quickly from its disappointing tour of England after suffering a 0-4 series defeat that ended the side's reign as the world's No. 1-ranked T20I team.

The loss extended India's winless run under Iyer's captaincy to seven matches across the England and Ireland tours, putting both the newly appointed skipper and head coach Gautam Gambhir under pressure just months after India's T20 World Cup triumph.

Despite the difficult start to his leadership tenure, Iyer insisted captaining India remains a privilege rather than a burden. "Every individual has dreams of captaining India. I love pressure and believe these experiences will make me a better leader. Good and bad phases are part of the game, and I'm not thinking about what people will say after this series," he said.

Reflecting on the tour, Iyer said India's immediate priority is to build a strong team culture capable of succeeding in overseas conditions. With the next T20 World Cup scheduled in Australia in 2028, he believes the current setbacks will help shape a more competitive squad.

"Our focus is to remain positive, nurture the players around us and build the camaraderie needed to succeed overseas. We have many tours coming up, and these experiences will prepare us better," he said.

England's series victory also saw them replace India at the top of the ICC T20I rankings, adding further significance to the defeat. India now face the challenge of regaining their status as Asia's highest-ranked T20I side to strengthen their prospects for qualification to the cricket competition at the 2028 Los Angeles Olympics.

Italian rallies from set down to secure historic back-to-back Wimbledon championships triumph brilliantly

SINNER RETAINS WIMBLEDON CROWN, WINS FIFTH SLAM

LONDON

World No. 1 Jannik Sinner successfully defended his Wimbledon title with a commanding 6-7(7), 7-6(2), 6-3, 6-4 victory over Germany's Alexander Zverev, claiming his fifth Grand Slam crown and cementing his status as the dominant force in men's tennis.

The 24-year-old Italian became only the 10th man in the professional era to retain the Wimbledon singles title, extending his remarkable winning streak over Zverev to 10 consecutive matches.

Overcoming the disappointment of narrowly losing a gripping first-set tiebreak, Sinner responded with trademark composure, winning the second-set tiebreak before taking control of the contest with aggressive baseline play and clinical serving.

"There's no better place to play tennis," Sinner said after lifting the iconic Challenge Cup. "You never know how many times you'll get this opportunity, so I never take it for granted. The support over the last two weeks has been incredible."

The opening set featured high-quality shot-making from both finalists before Zverev edged ahead in a tense tiebreak. However, the momentum shifted in the second set as Sinner raised his level and comfortably won the breaker to draw level.

A pivotal moment came midway through the third set when Zverev earned his first break point after more than two-and-a-half hours of play but slipped awkwardly while chasing a drop shot, clutching his right knee in pain. Although the German resumed after treatment, the incident appeared to affect his rhythm.

Sinner capitalised immediately, breaking serve for a 5-3 lead before sealing the third set. He struck again in the fourth, breaking for a 4-3 advantage as Zverev's resistance faded. Serving confidently, the Italian closed out the match before collapsing onto the Centre Court grass in celebration.

For Zverev, the defeat marked a fourth loss in a Grand Slam final, extending his wait for a maiden major title.

"Congratulations, Jannik. You showed once again why you're the best player in the world," Zverev said during the trophy presentation.

Sinner's latest triumph narrows the gap on rival Carlos Alcaraz's tally of seven Grand Slam titles and further strengthens his position at the summit of men's tennis.

Mladenovic, Guo capture maiden Wimbledon women's doubles title

LONDON

France's Kristina Mladenovic and China's Guo Hanyu produced a dominant display to defeat second seeds Gabriela Dabrowski and Luisa Stefani 6-3, 7-5 and win the Wimbledon women's doubles title, securing their first Grand Slam crown as a partnership.

The victory marked a remarkable comeback for 34-year-old Mladenovic, who was sidelined by a serious injury last year that left her on crutches. The six-time Grand Slam doubles champion teamed up with Guo only earlier this season, making their Wimbledon triumph all the more impressive.

"It feels like a dream. I definitely cannot believe what just happened," an emotional Mladenovic said after lifting her maiden Wimbledon women's doubles trophy.

The 10th-seeded French-Chinese pair made a blistering start, reading Dabrowski's lobs with ease and racing into a commanding 5-0 lead in the opening set. Although the Canadian-Brazilian combination fought back to claim three consecutive games, Mladenovic and Guo stayed composed to wrap up the set 6-3.

The second set proved far more competitive as Dabrowski and Stefani settled into the contest and created two break-point opportunities at 5-5. However, Mladenovic's powerful forehands and calm shot selection helped the pair escape trouble.

The decisive moment arrived in the 11th game when Guo, playing in her first Grand Slam final, struck a superb cross-court backhand winner after an aggressive return at the net earned the crucial break. Serving for the championship, Mladenovic sealed victory with a trademark forehand that forced an error from their opponents.

Guo, overcome with emotion, thanked her partner during the trophy presentation. "I feel so lucky to have you on my side and to share this trophy with you. Thank you for choosing me and trusting me," she said.

Mladenovic praised Guo for believing in her despite her injury setbacks.

"I had no ranking after my injury, but Guo never hesitated to partner with me. I'm incredibly proud to be standing here with her," she said.

The title marks Guo's first Grand Slam triumph and Mladenovic's seventh women's doubles major, completing a memorable fortnight for the newly formed partnership at the All England Club.
