INDIA-UK CETA COMES INTO FORCE

In total, the India-UK Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement will see the UK remove or reduce tariffs on a total of 98.8% of its tariff lines and 99.5% of trade value.

NEW DELHI

The India-UK Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA), that was signed after several rounds of discussions on July 25, will come into force on July 15.

This will be the sixth free trade agreement to be implemented by the Narendra Modi government. Earlier, India implemented such pacts with Mauritius, UAE, Australia, EFTA (European Free Trade Association), and Oman. The agreement, one of the biggest for New Delhi in the past few years, will unlock duty-free access for nearly 99% of Indian exports.

Alongside CETA, the Double Contribution Convention (DCC) will exempt over 75,000 Indian professionals and around 900 employers from paying double social security contributions in the UK for assignments of up to five years.

Bilateral trade and investment

Trade with the UK grew by 8.62 pc to $25.12 billion in 2025-26 from $23.13 billion in 2024-25. India's exports dipped 7.6 per cent to $13.44 billion last fiscal. Imports were up by 36.11 per cent to $11.68 billion in 2025-26. In 2025-26, India received FDI worth $1 billion. It was $795 million in 2024-25.

What gets cheaper?

The phased tariff cuts are expected to lower prices of several premium British products over time, including Scotch whisky, gin, vodka, bourbon, rum, tequila, chocolates, biscuits, cosmetics, perfumes, soaps, soft drinks, salmon and lamb. India will also gradually eliminate tariffs on silver, Britain's largest export to India.

No concessions

India will not give any duty concessions on products like fresh apples, walnuts, whey and modified whey, blue-veined cheese, and specific seed categories, gold bars, and smartphones. The UK's exclusion list includes various meat products, egg-based items, semi-milled or fully milled rice, and solid-form cane or beet sugar.

The operational deals include:

DUTY-FREE EXPORTS

Nearly 99% of Indian products—including garments, textiles, footwear, carpets, and processed foods—will now enter the UK at zero duty.

AUTOMOBILES

Tariffs on fully built, UK-made cars and trucks (such as JLR, Bentley, and Aston Martin) entering India will drop in a phased manner from 110% to 10%. India will allow a quota of 3.78 lakh conventional-engine passenger cars from the UK at concessional duties over the first 15 years. Electric and hybrid vehicles are protected with a five-year window before gaining preferential access.

SOCIAL SECURITY EXEMPTIONS

The Social Security agreement prevents double taxation by exempting Indian professionals working in the UK from making mandatory UK social security contributions, which is expected to save around $500 million annually.

'India's most aspirational trade agreement to date'

New Delhi: Calling the India-UK Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA) the country's "most aspirational" trade pact till date, Commerce Secretary Rajesh Agarwal on Tuesday said the agreement establishes a future-oriented economic architecture between two major economies and is one of India's most ambitious free trade agreements. "We call it a gold-standard and first-of-its-kind FTA because of its wide sectoral coverage and deep reduction in both tariff and non-tariff barriers," Agarwal said.

As per the Commerce Ministry, the UK has offered tariff liberalisation on 98.8% of tariff lines, covering 99.5% of the value of Indian exports. Of this, 97.7% of trade value will become immediately duty-free, while 0.5% of trade value has been excluded from tariff liberalisation. India's offer covers 89.5% of tariff lines and 89.4% of trade value, with immediate tariff elimination on 30.3% of trade value, while the remaining tariff reductions will be phased over time.

It said the agreement will provide duty-free access for several Indian export sectors. Existing UK duties of up to 12% on textiles and clothing, 16% on leather and footwear, 4% on gems and jewellery, 8% on organic chemicals, 4% on inorganic chemicals, 18% on auto parts, 8% on mechanical machinery, 14% on electrical machinery, 6% on plastics and rubber, 6% on surgical instruments, 10% on aluminium and 4% on copper will be reduced to zero under the agreement.

MEA: Passport not citizenship proof

The remarks triggered sharp reactions from certain opposition parties, including Cong, as they wondered how passport cannot be reflection of a holder's citizenship.

NEW DELHI

The Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) on Tuesday said that the passport is a document issued by the government to "regulate the departure" of Indian citizens from the country. The statement came amid a raging debate over whether it can be used to verify citizenship.

MEA spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal said passport is issued after due "verification" laid out by an established process and that less than eight per cent Indians currently hold the document.

Senior officials of the MEA during a briefing on the occasion of Passport Seva Divas on June 24 had described the passport as a travel document, and not a document to prove citizenship.

The remarks had come in response to a question on whether the passport can be used as proof of citizenship for the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls being conducted by the Election Commission in several states.

The officials had said passport is issued to travel to foreign countries and it is not a document to prove citizenship.

How to prove nationality?

This long-standing position — recently reiterated by MEA officials — has sparked significant political debate. Because India does not have a single definitive proof of citizenship document, experts and citizens alike are questioning what official records must be maintained as primary evidence of their nationality.

The remarks triggered sharp reactions from certain opposition parties including the Congress as they wondered how passport be reflection of a holder's citizenship.

The Congress had slammed the MEA and alleged that the government is laying the groundwork to arbitrarily deny citizenship rights to Indians with whom it disagrees.

"An Indian passport is a document that, as per the Passports Act, 1967, is issued by the Government of India to regulate the departure from India of citizens of India," Jaiswal said. He was asked for a clarification on the matter.

"It is issued after due verification laid out by an established process. The issue of passports to Indian citizens or any other individual is governed by The Passports Act, 1967 and Passports Rules, 1980," he said. "Currently, less than eight per cent of Indian citizens hold a passport," he added.

BENGALURU STAMPEDE Govt clears ex-commissioner Dayananda of all charges

BENGALURU

The Karnataka government has exonerated IPS officer B Dayananda and two others from all the charges in connection with the 2025 Bengaluru stampede that had killed 11 people.

In three separate orders issued on Tuesday, the government closed the departmental inquiries against the then Bengaluru Police Commissioner Dayananda, the then Additional Commissioner of Police (West) Vikash Kumar Vikash and the then Deputy Commissioner of Police (Central) Shekhar H Tekkannavar.

In all three orders, it was noted that Dayananda, Vikash and Tekkannavar had submitted their statements of defence on September 8, 2025. All three had denied the charges and sought exoneration.

"After examining the statement of defense of the charged officer and opinion rendered by the Administrative department, the competent authority has decided to drop the Departmental Enquiry against Sri B.

Dayananda, IPS," the order said.

Similar orders were also issued for Vikash and Tekkannavar. The orders further noted that all three officers were exonerated of the charges levelled against them. Tekkannavar, however, was let off with a warning "to act responsibly to ensure that such incidents shall not recur in the future".

On June 4, 2025, 11 people lost their lives and over 50 people sustained injuries following a stampede outside the M Chinnaswamy Stadium in Bengaluru where the fans had gathered in large numbers to take part in the victory celebrations of Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB) winning their maiden IPL title.

A day after the stampede, the then Siddaramaiah-led Congress government suspended the three IPS officers along with C Balakrishna, the then Assistant Commissioner of Police (Cubbon Park subdivision), and AK Girish, the then inspector of the jurisdictional Cubbon Park police station.

'5,927 GPs to be named after Mahatma Gandhi by Aug 15'

BENGALURU

Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Minister Eshwar B Khandre on Tuesday said a deadline has been set to rename all 5,927 gram panchayats (GPs) in the state as 'Mahatma Gandhi Panchayat' by August 15.

Speaking after launching the transfer counseling session for PDOs, secretaries, and accounts assistants at the department's commissionerate, he said that clear instructions have been issued to rename all panchayats, in accordance with the announcement made in Paragraph 279 of the 2026-27 budget speech, to perpetuate the memory of the Father of the Nation, Mahatma Gandhi.

The scheme was named the Mahatma Gandhi Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme (MGNREGA) in honor of the Father of the Nation, Mahatma Gandhi, a proponent of Gram Swaraj. However, the Central Government has removed Mahatma Gandhi's name from the scheme in the notification implemented on July 1. Consequently, the State Government has decided to include Gandhi's name in the scheme's title across all panchayats.

He stated that during the conference of Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Ministers from all states held last month under the chairmanship of the Union Minister for Rural Development, he had urged that all 2.68 crore Gram Panchayats in the country be named after Mahatma Gandhi.

He also said a demand had been made to rename the Viksit Bharat — Guarantee for Rozgar and Aajeevika Mission (Gramin) (VB-G RAM G) to 'Mahatma Gandhi VB-G RAM G.

The messages originated from an unofficial Gmail account and falsely claimed to represent the Archdiocese of Bengaluru. Govt to clear Race Course land resolution for new HC complex

Govt plans new High Court complex as existing building faces severe space constraints.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka government informed the High Court that it will soon pass an official resolution to allot the Bangalore Turf Club (Race Course) land in the heart of the city for constructing a new High Court complex to address the growing shortage of space in the existing premises.

Advocate General Shashikaran Shetty made the submission before a Division Bench comprising Chief Justice Vibhu Bakhru and Justice K.S. Hemalekha while hearing a public interest litigation (PIL) filed by social activist Sharan Desai.

The petitioner has sought directions to the State Government to allot at least 30 acres of land in Bengaluru for a modern High Court complex capable of meeting the judiciary's present and future requirements. During the hearing, the Advocate General informed the court that the government was in the process of finalising the proposal and that a formal Cabinet resolution regarding the Race Course land would be passed shortly.

Taking note of the submission, the Bench orally observed that the proposed High Court complex should be designed keeping in mind the judicial requirements of the next 30 to 50 years. The judges emphasised that the new infrastructure must be capable of accommodating future expansion in the number of courts, judges, administrative offices and litigant facilities.

The court granted the State Government one month's time to place the relevant documents and details on record and adjourned the matter to August 28. The proposal to shift the Race Course has already received Cabinet approval. The State has sanctioned the lease of 110 acres and 20 guntas at the Kunigal Stud Farm near Tumakuru for 29 years to facilitate the relocation of the Bangalore Turf Club.

However, the relocation itself has run into legal hurdles. Environmentalist Vijay Nishanth has challenged the decision before the High Court, alleging violation of the Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) Notification, 2006. The High Court has already issued notices to the government on that petition. The present High Court functions from the historic red-brick Attara Kacheri building inside Cubbon Park. Constructed in 1868 during British rule, the building became the Mysore High Court in 1929 and has served as Karnataka's principal judicial institution for decades.

With Bengaluru's rapid population growth, increasing litigation and expansion of the High Court's jurisdiction, the existing premises have become inadequate. The proposed Race Course complex is expected to provide larger court halls, modern judicial infrastructure and sufficient space to meet the judiciary's requirements for decades to come.

Son, son-in-law arrested for killing alcoholic father after family dispute

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Electronic City police have arrested a man and his brother-in-law for allegedly murdering the former's father, who frequently created disturbances at home under the influence of alcohol and assaulted family members.

The accused, Shahrukh, a mechanic, and his brother-in-law Shaheen, an autorickshaw driver, have been remanded to judicial custody for the murder of 42-year-old Rafiq, a resident of Ambedkar Nagar in Bommanahalli.

According to police, Rafiq worked as a bike mechanic in Hosur and was addicted to alcohol. He allegedly returned home drunk on a regular basis, quarrelling with his wife and children and often assaulting them. The family had reportedly grown increasingly distressed by his behaviour.

On July 4, Rafiq allegedly picked another fight at home after consuming alcohol. When he reportedly assaulted his wife, Shaheen intervened to stop him. Shahrukh also joined the confrontation, and the two allegedly assaulted Rafiq.

Police said the accused then told family members that they were taking Rafiq to a de-addiction centre for treatment. Instead, while travelling in an autorickshaw, they allegedly strangled him with a rope, killing him on the way.

The duo is accused of dumping the body in a eucalyptus grove near Singasandra Lake before fleeing the spot.

The crime came to light after local residents noticed a body lying in the grove and alerted the police. Officers who reached the spot found blood stains on the victim's face and marks around his neck, prompting them to register a murder case.

During the investigation, police questioned Rafiq's family members. His daughter reportedly told investigators that she had earlier suggested admitting her father to a rehabilitation centre and had informed both her husband and brother about the plan.

Based on the information gathered, police detained Shahrukh and Shaheen for questioning. During interrogation, the two allegedly confessed to the murder. Further investigation is underway.

Illegal parking, flawed bus stop choke Hebbal flyover service road

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Hebbal flyover, constructed to ease one of Bengaluru's busiest traffic bottlenecks, has itself become a major source of congestion, with illegal parking, encroachments and an unscientifically located bus stop turning the service road into a daily nightmare for commuters.

The flyover, opened to traffic last August, was designed to streamline the movement of vehicles travelling from Kempegowda International Airport towards the city via Esteem Mall and to provide seamless access from Nagawara to Bellary Road. However, the infrastructure has failed to deliver the intended relief due to poor traffic management and rampant misuse of public space.

The area beneath the flyover has been converted into an unofficial parking lot, with two-wheelers, cars, minibuses and even BBMP garbage trucks occupying the space. Several vehicles have reportedly remained parked there for weeks without any enforcement action, reducing available road space and creating bottlenecks for moving traffic.

Encroachments and poor planning leave Hebbal motorists battling daily congestion and hazardous commuting conditions.

Motorists have also raised concerns over the BMTC bus stop located directly in front of Baptist Hospital. Buses halt on the busy stretch to pick up and drop passengers, slowing traffic and increasing the risk of accidents. The bus stop affects vehicles travelling from Esteem Mall towards KR Puram as well as commuters moving between Nagawara and Hebbal.

Traffic pressure has intensified because of the prolonged roadwork on Sanjayanagar Main Road, which has continued for nearly one-and-a-half

Service road turns bottleneck

Motorists travelling from Hebbal towards the Outer Ring Road through Sanjayanagar and Bhupasandra are forced to use the narrow two-way service road near Baptist Hospital. Covering the 200-metre stretch often takes 10 to 15 minutes during peak hours, as vehicles inch forward amid congestion, illegal parking and frequent bus stoppages.

years. As a result, traffic has been diverted through Bhupasandra Main Road and the service road beneath the flyover. Vehicles from Vishwanath Nagenahalli also merge onto the same stretch through Cholanayakanahalli, further adding to congestion. The traffic circle near the railway track below the flyover has informally become another BMTC boarding point, worsening the situation. Simultaneously, ongoing roadwork on the Vishwanath Nagenahalli Main Road has increased the movement of tractors, construction vehicles, garbage tippers and other heavy vehicles through the area.

HC orders trial court to complete 2014 school rape case within eight weeks

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Expressing serious concern over the prolonged delay in the trial of the 2014 sexual assault case involving a six-year-old girl at a private English-medium school in Bengaluru, the Karnataka High Court has directed the trial court to complete the proceedings within eight weeks.

A single-judge Bench of Justice M. Nagaprasanna issued the direction while disposing of a petition filed by the victim's father, which raised certain legal and procedural issues connected with the case.

The court observed that the trial had remained pending for years on one pretext or another, describing the delay as unacceptable and unreasonable. It said both the prosecution and the sessions court ought to have exercised greater vigilance, particularly in cases involving child sexual abuse.

Referring to Supreme Court judgments, Justice Nagaprasanna reiterated that the right to a speedy trial is an integral part of Article 21 of the Constitution and cannot be diluted or suspended at convenience. The court noted that cases under the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act are expected to reach their conclusion within a year of commencement of legal proceedings.

The Bench also criticised the culture of repeated adjournments in criminal trials, particularly in sensitive cases involving children. It directed both the prosecution and the defence to extend full cooperation to ensure that the trial is concluded within eight weeks from the date of receipt of the order.

The High Court, however, rejected the petitioner's request seeking to summon the magistrate who had recorded the victim's statement under Section 164 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. The petitioner had argued that the copy of the statement did not bear the signatures of either the child or the magistrate. The court declined to accept the contention.

The case dates back to July 14, 2014, when two gymnastics coaches employed at a private school in Bengaluru were arrested for allegedly sexually assaulting a six-year-old student after keeping her inside a room following gymnastics practice.

HC stays proceedings against PDO in electrocution death case, seeks answers on BESCOM

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka High Court has stayed criminal proceedings against the Panchayat Development Officer (PDO) of Mannekote Gram Panchayat in Chitradurga district in connection with the death of a man who was electrocuted after coming into contact with a live electric wire connected to a borewell.

Justice M. Nagaprasanna passed the interim order while hearing a petition filed by PDO M.H. Girish (51), who sought quashing of the criminal case and the trial pending before the Principal Civil Judge (Junior Division) and JMFC Court at Molakalmuru.

Observing that the petitioner appeared to have no direct role in the incident, the court stayed further proceedings against him until further orders.

The High Court also issued notice to the Station House Officer of Talaku Police Station, the respondent in the case, and questioned the rationale behind arraying the PDO as an accused while excluding officials of BESCOM, who are responsible for the electricity supply.

During the hearing, the court observed that the deceased had allegedly come into contact with a live electric wire installed at a public borewell and died due to electrocution. Prima facie, the Bench noted that there appeared to be no direct connection between the PDO and the incident.

SC questions HC order discharging HD Revanna in molestation case

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Supreme Court issued a notice to Janata Dal (Secular) MLA H.D. Revanna on an appeal filed by the Karnataka government challenging a Karnataka High Court order that discharged him from a sexual harassment case filed by a former domestic worker.

A Bench comprising Justices J.B. Pardiwala and K. Vinod Chandran sought Revanna's response to the State's appeal while also questioning why the Karnataka government had not immediately challenged the High Court's decision to drop the charge under Section 354 of the Indian Penal Code (IPC), which deals with assault or criminal force to outrage a woman's modesty.

The Bench remarked that the government should maintain discipline in pursuing such matters and sought an explanation for the delay in filing the appeal.

During the hearing, the Supreme Court observed that the complainant had levelled separate allegations against Revanna and his son, former Hassan MP Prajwal Revanna. The judges questioned how the High Court had modified the charges by quashing the Section 354 offence against H.D. Revanna despite the allegations made by the survivor.

Representing the State, the government submitted that the allegations against Prajwal Revanna were more serious and included charges of rape under Section 376 of the IPC. It informed the court that charges had already been framed against Prajwal and that he had not been discharged from the proceedings.

The State further argued that the cases against the father and son formed part of the same transaction and originated from a common chargesheet, making it inappropriate to discharge one accused while continuing proceedings against the other.

However, the Supreme Court noted that the allegations against the two accused were distinct in nature. The Bench observed that the survivor had made separate accusations against the father and son, requiring independent consideration of their respective roles.

The allegations against H.D. Revanna and Prajwal Revanna came to light after videos allegedly showing sexual assaults by Prajwal on multiple women surfaced on social media in 2024. Following the circulation of the videos, an FIR was registered on April 28, 2024, against both father and son based on a complaint lodged by one of the survivors. Apart from the sexual harassment case, H.D. Revanna also faced a kidnapping case linked to the same controversy. He has since secured bail in both cases. The Supreme Court's notice now revives legal scrutiny over his discharge from the molestation case.

Tripura native ends life, police probe assault claims

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A 27-year-old man from Tripura was found dead in his rented room in Ejipura, with police suspecting suicide. Investigators are also probing claims that he had been battling depression after sustaining serious injuries during an alleged assault by friends a few months ago.

The deceased, identified as Tapan Nath, was employed at the beer manufacturing unit of a craft beer outlet in Koramangala. His body was found hanging in accommodation provided for the establishment's staff after he failed to report for work. The incident came to light around 11.30 pm when one of his roommates discovered him.

According to police, Tapan's family members and friends alleged that he had been assaulted by a group of friends during a party three to four months ago. They claimed an argument broke out after the group consumed alcohol, during which he was allegedly attacked and sustained severe injuries to his private parts.

Police said Tapan reportedly did not inform his family about the incident due to embarrassment and instead sought medical treatment on his own.

remain perpetually indebted to their service. The event focused on the NAMASTE scheme, a vital component of the Swachh Bharat Abhiyan. This initiative aims to modernize sanitation by replacing manual labour with mechanized systems. The primary goal is to ensure zero deaths during sanitation work by mandating that all tasks are performed by trained, skilled professionals using modern equipment. Furthermore, the scheme provides financial aid and capital subsidies to help these workers purchase technology, effectively shielding them from direct contact with hazardous waste. Reflecting on history, the MLA acknowledged that while inhumane practices like manual scavenging once existed, the tireless efforts of leaders like Dr. B.R. Ambedkar and Babu Jagjivan Ram paved the way for change. He also praised Prime Minister Narendra Modi's push for cleanliness, which has shifted national priorities toward dignity and better living standards for all workers. Municipal Commissioner K. Mayanna Gowda added that the program is more than a symbolic gesture of honouring workers; it is a commitment to their long-term health and safety. The event also celebrated success stories like the "Madhav Nele" project, which supports the children of rag pickers in pursuing higher education. During the ceremony, several sanitation workers were honoured, and health safety kits were distributed to assist them in their daily duties, reinforcing the city's pledge to protect its unsung heroes.

Residents celebrate the first anniversary of the Sigandur Bridge, marking a historic end to decades of isolation.

Sigandur Bridge celebrates one successful year

SHIVAMOGGA

Sigandur Bridge reached a historic milestone for the residents of the Sharavathi backwaters as they celebrate the first anniversary of the iconic Bridge. To commemorate the occasion, local citizens gathered on the bridge to burst firecrackers and share in the joy of a connectivity dream that finally became a reality. The bridge, which was officially inaugurated on July 14, 2025, by Union Minister for Road Transport Nitin Gadkari, stands as the second-longest cable-stayed bridge in India. For the people of Karur and Barangi, this structure is much more than just concrete and steel, it represents the end of a six-decade-long struggle for basic accessibility. The bridge's history is deeply emotional. When the Linganamakki dam was built in the 1960s, thousands of residents lost their fertile land and were displaced. Cut off from the mainland by the backwaters, these communities faced severe hardships for generations. Lacking basic infrastructure, residents struggled to access healthcare and education. During monsoons, they were essentially trapped, and in the summer, many risked their lives crossing the water on small, unsafe boats. For sixty years, the people of this "island" community fought tirelessly. They held protests in Sagara and Shivamogga and even organized padayatras (marches) to demand a bridge. While the government eventually provided ferry services, it was not enough for emergencies, often forcing residents to take a gruelling 70-kilometer detour. The breakthrough finally came when B.S. Yediyurappa took up the cause, securing federal approval and upgrading the local road to a national highway. With an investment of over Rs 423 crore, the bridge has bridged not just the water, but the gap between these isolated villages and the rest of the world. Prasanna Karakayi, a local leader who spearheaded the movement, expressed deep gratitude to the central government and local leaders. Today, the town of Sagara feels closer than ever, and for the local residents, the bridge remains a shining symbol of hope and perseverance.

Shivamogga Court penalizes Zomato Over food error

SHIVAMOGGA

The Shivamogga District Consumer Disputes Redressal Commission has ordered Zomato and a hotel to pay damages after they mistakenly delivered a non-vegetarian burger to a customer who specifically ordered a vegetarian meal during the Ganesh Chaturthi festival. The incident occurred on August 27, 2025, when Nandish, a local resident, ordered a veg burger through the Zomato app for Rs 313.15. Upon receiving a non-vegetarian meal instead, he expressed deep distress, noting that the error occurred during a sacred religious celebration. Although Zomato initially refunded the cost of the burger, Nandish sought further legal recourse, arguing that the company's negligence deeply offended his religious sentiments. During the proceedings, Zomato's defence team argued that they merely act as an intermediary platform connecting users to restaurants and, therefore, should not be held responsible for the ho-

Shivanna and member B.D. Yogananda Bhandya ordered Zomato's CEO, the Zonal Head, and the hotel owners to pay Rs 10,000 in compensation for the mental agony caused. Additionally, they were directed to pay Rs 10,000 to cover the legal costs. The payments must be completed within 45 days. Failure to comply with these terms will result in a 12% annual interest charge on the outstanding amounts, ensuring that platforms are held accountable for maintaining service standards and respecting customer preferences.

Empty political promises anger Byndoor residents

UDUPI

For the residents of Kappadi Aregundi in Byndoor taluk, every day is a gamble with fate. For two decades, hundreds of villagers have been forced to navigate a dangerously broken and dilapidated footbridge, a situation they say has been met with nothing but empty promises from elected officials. The frustration among the villagers is palpable. They claim that politicians visit their community only during election seasons, offering grand assurances that vanish once the votes are cast. Despite changes in government and local representation over the last twenty years, the hazardous state of their primary route has remained unchanged. The danger peaks during the rainy season, as water levels swell over the damaged culvert, making passage treacherous. The situation is particularly harrowing for school children, who must cross the bridge while carrying heavy book bags. Every step they take is clouded by the fear of slipping into the fast-flowing water below. The lack of infrastructure also creates a medical crisis. In cases of emergencies, the route is completely inaccessible to ambulances, leaving the elderly, sick, and pregnant women in a state of extreme vulnerability. The community vividly remembers a past incident where two women were swept away by rushing waters and were only saved due to the heroic, timely intervention of fellow villagers.

Shiroor Math addresses controversial Harikathe incident

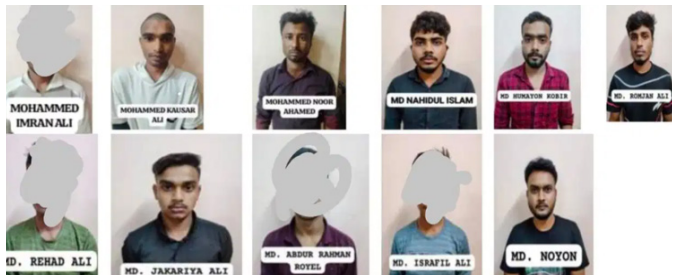

UDUPI

A recent Harikathe performance at the Rajangana of the Udupi Sri Krishna Math has sparked significant outrage following derogatory remarks made about the revered philosopher Adi Shankaracharya. The incident, which quickly went viral on social media, drew sharp condemnation from his followers and various Hindu activist groups who felt their sentiments were deeply insulted. The controversy erupted when two performers, while narrating stories during the program, allegedly made disrespectful comments and told an insulting tale concerning the Jagadguru. The backlash was immediate, leading to widespread protests online and demands for accountability from the organizers. In response to the mounting tension, the Harikathe artist released a video message publicly apologizing for the remarks. In the video, she clarified that her comments were not intended to hurt anyone and were instead based on a specific book she had referenced. She firmly stated that neither the Udupi Math nor the Shiroor Math had any involvement or had instructed her to make such statements. "If our words have hurt the followers of any Math or faith, we sincerely apologize," she stated.

M'luru police bust illegal Bangladeshi trafficking ring

MANGALURU

The Mangaluru City Police have successfully dismantled a human trafficking network involved in smuggling Bangladeshi nationals into India. Following the recent detention of 11 Bangladeshi citizens found working illegally at construction sites within the Urwa police station limits, authorities have arrested three key brokers responsible for facilitating their entry and employment. Mangaluru City Police Commissioner Sudhir Kumar Reddy confirmed that the suspects, all hailing from West Bengal, were apprehended in a coordinated multi-city operation. The accused have been identified as Moyeddin Islam, Dilwar Hussain, and Rasool Islam.

According to police investigations, these brokers were part of a larger operation that brought laborers from various parts of North India to the coastal city of Mangaluru for construction work. Under the guise of hiring genuine Indian workers, they strategically slipped in illegal immigrants from Bangladesh, hoping to avoid detection by mixing them with the local workforce. The operation to capture the middlemen was swift and highly organized. Upon realizing the severity of the illegal migration network, local authorities immediately detained Moyeddin Islam and Dilwar Hussain in Mangaluru. Meanwhile, realizing that the third main suspect, Rasool Islam, had fled, the city's Law and Order Deputy Commissioner of Police (DCP) initiated a high-level joint operation with the Kolkata Police. Their combined efforts led to the successful arrest of Rasool Islam in Kolkata. A specialized team from the Mangaluru City Police is currently in West Bengal to secure a transit warrant and transport the main accused back to Mangaluru. Police officials stated that the suspect will undergo intensive interrogation once he arrives. This questioning is expected to reveal the full scope of this international migration network, including whether other individuals are involved and if there are more illegal immigrants currently deployed across various coastal regions. The case has sent a strong message that authorities are maintaining strict vigilance against cross-border illegal activities to ensure national security and regional order.

KARNATAKA'S PAUSED PEAKS

Forest Department issues new trekker regulations mandatory certified nature guides for every group of ten trekkers, regardless of the group size. Furthermore, guides must be equipped with first-aid kits and torches, and must maintain constant contact with base camps. Trekkers are also required to use digital route maps on their phones, and those over the age of 60 must now provide a physical fitness certificate to participate. While these measures are designed to ensure responsible and safe tourism, the transition has been slow. Officials have stated that trekking will only resume once all safety protocols, including infrastructure upgrades and staff training, are fully in place. As the Forest Department works to finalize these preparations, trekking enthusiasts have expressed growing frustration. Many are urging the authorities to expedite the process, hoping to return to the trails soon. Until then, the state remains committed to ensuring that when the gates finally reopen, every hiker can explore the beautiful hills with significantly improved safeguards in place. The community is eager for clarity on when they can lace up their boots again and safely enjoy the state's natural beauty.

Virendra Pappi seeks special grants for Chitradurga projects

MLA sought ₹25 crore grant to revive Chitradurga Durgotsava as a state-level festival promoting history, culture, art and tourism

CHITRADURGA

MLA K. C. Virendra Pappi has requested Chief Minister D. K. Shivakumar to provide special grants for four major projects aimed at the comprehensive development of Chitradurga city and the preservation of its historical heritage.

The MLA submitted a request letter to the Chief Minister during his visit to Chitradurga on July 13. In the letter, he highlighted the need for government support to improve infrastructure, promote tourism and address the growing needs of the city.

Virendra Pappi requested funds for widening important roads in Chitradurga city, stating that increasing vehicle movement and narrow roads have resulted in traffic congestion and accidents. He said road expansion would improve transportation facilities, support business activities and give a boost to the overall development of the city. He also requested approval and grant allocation for the project during the upcoming August session.

The MLA also sought a special grant of ₹25 crore to revive the historic Chitradurga Durgotsava and organize it as a state-level festival. He said the festival, which was earlier held in 2006 and 2015, has been inactive for several years. Restarting the event would help promote the district's history, culture, art and tourism, he added.

Another important request was the establishment of the Chitradurga Fort and Chandravalli Development Authority for the planned development and protection of these heritage sites. He said forming an authority similar to those created for other historical locations in Karnataka would help in conservation, infrastructure improvement, tourism growth and employment generation.

The MLA also requested administrative approval and ₹47.50 crore for constructing a new high-tech bus station in Chitradurga. He pointed out that although Bhoomi Puja for the project was conducted on March 24, 2023, the work has remained pending due to a shortage of funds. He urged the government to release funds and begin construction soon.

Virendra Pappi said these four projects would improve city facilities, protect historical landmarks, increase tourism opportunities, create employment and contribute to the overall progress of Chitradurga district. He appealed to the Chief Minister to consider the proposals and provide necessary support.

Farmers urged to take crop insurance with loans

CHIKKABALLAPURA

District Collector G. Prabhu has instructed bank managers to encourage farmers to register for crop insurance while providing agricultural loans. He said farmers should be informed about the benefits of insurance and guided to protect themselves from crop losses caused by natural conditions.

The Collector was speaking at a review meeting on the progress of crop insurance registration held at the Sir M. Visvesvaraya Zilla Panchayat Hall. He reviewed the registration process under the Pradhan Mantri Fasal Bima Yojana (PMFBY) for the 2026-27 monsoon season and directed officials to speed up the work.

The Agriculture Department has been given a target to register 80,000 farmers under the scheme in the district. However, only 22,406 applications have been received so far. The Collector expressed dissatisfaction over the slow progress and warned officials of strict action if the given targets are not achieved within the remaining period.

He said only a small number of farmers who have taken loans from banks have received crop insurance coverage. Bank managers were asked to adopt a farmer-friendly approach and ensure that all eligible farmers who have taken loans, as well as those applying for loans in the future, are covered under the insurance scheme.

The Collector directed Agriculture and Horticulture Department officials to review

Collector criticized low crop insurance registrations, urged banks and officials to ensure eligible farmers receive coverage and meet targets promptly the progress of crop insurance registration daily and submit reports to his office. He urged officials to create awareness among farmers and help them complete the registration process through available centres and representatives.

Explaining the importance of crop insurance, G. Prabhu said the district has faced nearly 80 percent rainfall shortage so far. Even if rainfall improves in the coming days, crops may suffer partial damage. He explained that insurance support can help farmers recover losses during such situations.

He said farmers can receive compensation based on the extent of crop damage after paying a small premium amount. For example, millet farmers who pay ₹399 per acre for registration can receive financial assistance in case of crop loss. He appealed to all farmers to register under the scheme before the deadline.

Joint Director of Agriculture Abid, Joint Director of Horticulture Devaraj, representatives of Tata AIG and bank managers attended the meeting. Officials urged farmers to contact Farmer Contact Centres, self-help group representatives and department officers for assistance with crop insurance registration.

Rayawat community seeks survey and reservation benefits

HUNSUR

Members of the Benirayawat Sangh have urged the government to conduct a survey of the Rayawat community and address their concerns regarding reservation and recognition under Category 1. FARMERS OPPOSE TOWNSHIP PROJECT DURING LAND SURVEY

RAMANAGARA

The controversy over the Bidadi township project has intensified after an FIR was registered against 11 people following an alleged attack on officials during a land survey. Farmers opposing the project have continued their protest, stating that they will not give up their land. The agitation against the township project has now crossed 500 days.

The incident occurred on Monday when officials arrived to conduct a survey related to the project. Protesters allegedly confronted the officials using brooms, leading to a complaint being filed. Following the incident, an FIR was registered against 11 individuals. Meanwhile, the Janata Dal (Secular) party has announced plans to support the accused farmers and prepare bail applications.

Speaking at Byramangala village, lawyers Pradeep and Narasimhamurthy said two FIRs were registered regarding the incident. They claimed that one complaint was filed against 11 people, while another was submitted by farmers. They questioned the timing and process of the police action, stating that the complaint was registered several hours after the incident.

The lawyers alleged that some farmers who were not present during the incident were also included in the case. They said legal action should be taken fairly and questioned whether such complaints against people leading the protest would stand in court. They also alleged that supporters of the township project had blocked roads and staged protests earlier, but similar action was not taken against them.

The lawyers said several cases have already been registered against people opposing the project and assured farmers that they would continue to provide legal support. They appealed for a peaceful resolution while stating that the protest would continue within the limits of the law.

Meanwhile, local MLA H. C. Balakrishna criticised former Chief Minister H. D. Kumaraswamy over the issue and alleged political involvement behind the protest. He said the dispute has become more intense due to statements from political leaders.

The Bidadi township project has created a tense situation between supporters and opponents. As legal proceedings continue and political arguments increase, farmers and local residents remain concerned about the future of the proposed development project. Authorities are expected to handle the issue carefully to maintain peace in the region.

Aedes mosquitoes. She said these mosquitoes breed in stored water and advised students to clean water containers like drums, barrels, tanks and other storage items twice a week. She also asked people to keep containers covered, avoid stagnant water and maintain cleanliness around homes and schools.

Devamma said dengue symptoms include high fever, headache, vomiting, pain behind the eyes, skin rashes, black stools and bleeding gums. She urged people not to ignore fever and advised them to visit nearby government hospitals for blood tests and proper treatment. She also highlighted the importance of personal protection from mosquito bites and cooperation

Baburao Chinchansur accuses BJP of voter suppression

Chinchansur urged villagers and women to verify electoral details, submit accurate SIR forms, and ensure timely BLO submission

GURUMATKAL

Former minister and Congress leader Baburao Chinchansur has leveled serious allegations against the BJP, claiming the party is actively working to disenfranchise key demographic groups. During an awareness program focused on the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls in Yaddalli village, Chinchansur accused the BJP of pursuing an agenda designed to keep Dalit, Muslim, and backward class voters away from the democratic process.

Addressing the gathering, Chinchansur emphasized the importance of electoral participation, urging villagers and women to proactively ensure their names are correctly listed. He advised them to fill out the necessary SIR forms accurately and submit them to their Booth Level Officers (BLOs) within the designated timeframe.

Looking toward the future, Chinchansur appealed for support in the upcoming 2028 assembly elections. Expressing his commitment to the community, he stated, "I am not in power now, so I cannot serve you to the fullest extent. However, I have no family of my own—you are my family. I will serve you as long as I am alive."

Supporting the initiative, Gurumatkal Block Congress Committee President Krishna Chapetla underscored the urgency of the voter registration drive, warning that residents must act quickly to prevent their names from being excluded from the records. The program, which featured an introductory speech by Veerabhadrapa Yaddalli, saw a significant turnout of local leaders, party activists, and villagers, all gathered to learn more about the electoral revision process. The event concluded with a strong call for grassroots mobilization to ensure that all eligible citizens are represented in the upcoming electoral cycles.

Citizens must become forest soldiers: Judge Manjunath

SHIVAMOGGA

Principal District and Sessions Judge and District Legal Services Authority Chairman Manjunath G. A. said every citizen should become a "soldier within the village" to protect forests and preserve nature. He stressed that saving forest wealth is as important as protecting the borders of the country.

He was speaking after inaugurating the Afforestation and Lakes Rejuvenation Campaign-2026 at Government Women's Polytechnic College in Shivamogga. The programme was jointly organized by the Karnataka State Legal Services Authority, District Judiciary, District Administration, Forest Department and District Legal Services Authority.

Justice Manjunath said forests and water resources are essential for maintaining ecological balance. Without proper conservation of forests and water bodies, people may face serious difficulties in getting clean air and water in the future. He urged every citizen to consider environmental protection as a responsibility and actively participate in conservation activities.

Comparing forest protection with national security, he said soldiers guard the country's borders from external threats, while citizens must work together to protect the environment within the country. He also encouraged students to develop awareness about forest conservation and environmental protection from a young age.

Justice Manjunath stressed forest and water conservation, urging citizens and students to protect the environment, comparing it with safeguarding national security

BORDER STUDENTS FACE TEXTBOOK SHORTAGE CRISIS

RAICHUR

Over 10,000 students enrolled in Kannada-medium primary and high schools across the border regions of Karnataka, Andhra Pradesh, and Telangana are facing a significant educational crisis. Despite the academic year being underway for more than a month, these students have yet to receive essential textbooks for their subjects, sparking widespread outrage among parents and local activists.

The shortage impacts 16 primary schools and 17 high schools, where the lack of resources has forced teachers to resort to desperate measures. In many classrooms, a single book is being shared among seven to eight students, severely hindering the learning process. Educators are also attempting to mitigate the deficit by collecting and reusing old textbooks from previous batches, though this remains an inadequate solution.

Activists have been vocal in their criticism of the government's handling of the situation. Basavaraj Kalasa, a prominent activist, noted that these schools have served border villages for over a century.

However, he warned that the current state of neglect is driving students away from Kannada-medium education toward Telugu or English-medium institutions. Further concerns were raised regarding hostelry access, with allegations that students residing in border areas are being denied admission to Karnataka state hostels on residency grounds.

Responding to the mounting pressure, Mallikarjun G.,

Deputy Director of the Raichur School Education Department, stated that the necessary requisitions for textbooks were submitted to the state government as early as May. He assured the public that the books are arriving in phases and are being distributed to the affected Kannada schools in neighbouring states as supplies become available.

Despite these assurances, the delay has raised serious questions regarding the government's commitment to supporting regional education and protecting the future of students in these sensitive border zones. The situation remains a point of contention as parents continue to demand immediate, full-scale delivery of learning materials to ensure that no student is left behind due to administrative delays.

Farmers urged to complete crop survey soon

Farmers in Gadag district have been advised to complete the crop survey due to poor rainfall conditions affecting agriculture.

The Agriculture Department said the survey will help farmers receive crop loans, insurance benefits, compensation, and support schemes.

Around 2,57,401 hectares have been sown in the district this year, while many farmers face financial difficulties due to insufficient rain. Out of 3,34,987 land records, 56,889 have been surveyed and the remaining must be completed before July 18. Joint Director of Agriculture Chetana Patil urged farmers to participate in the survey to reduce possible losses.

Former Minister Rajugowda urges action on farmers' suicide

YADGIR

Former Minister Rajugowda has issued a stern demand for the state government to intervene in the growing agricultural crisis in Yadgir, following a series of tragic farmer suicides. During a visit to Chattalli village, where he met with the family of a farmer who recently took his own life, Rajugowda criticized the administration for its perceived inaction in the face of widespread crop failure.

Accompanied by a delegation of BJP leaders, Rajugowda expressed deep concern over the loss of two lives in Chattalli within a single week. He attributed these tragedies to the severe lack of rainfall over the past month and a half, which has left standing crops in a state of decay. He accused the state government of neglecting the agricultural sector, alleging that ministers are prioritizing political matters over the urgent needs of the farming community.

Rajugowda directly challenged district MLAs to set aside their political aspirations for ministerial positions and instead focus on visiting affected villages to address farmer grievances. He warned that if the government does not take immediate remedial measures to support the farmers and curb the rising suicide rate, the BJP would launch a widespread public protest.

On the controversial Bidadi Township project, the former minister insisted that any development must be predicated on the explicit consent of the affected farmers. He emphasized that projects should not be driven by the interests of brokers, but rather by the welfare of those whose land is at stake.

To provide immediate relief to the grieving family of the deceased farmer, Mallikarjuna, senior BJP leader Rachana Gowda Mudnal personally contributed ₹51,000. The event was attended by various district BJP leaders and office-bearers, all of whom reiterated their commitment to supporting the region's agricultural community during this period of distress. The local administration has yet to provide a formal response to the demands raised by the delegation.

Agriculture students begin rural field training

RAICHUR

The University of Agricultural Sciences in Raichur has officially launched its Rural Agricultural Work Experience (RAWE) program, providing 135 final-year agriculture degree students with a hands-on immersion into the realities of farming.

Over the next 70 days, these students will live in rural communities, specifically in the villages of Santhekallur, Aminagad, and Vatagal in Maski taluk, to bridge the gap between academic theory and field application.

During this program, students will work directly alongside farmers, participating in every stage of the agricultural cycle. The initiative is designed to foster professional relationships, allowing students to observe and assist with local farming practices, pest and disease management, seed production, and agricultural engineering. Additionally, students are tasked with studying the functionality of local agricultural organizations and hosting exhibitions to share their findings and technical knowledge.

Inaugurating the camp, Vice-Chancellor Dr. M. Hanumanthappa emphasized that agricultural education must extend far beyond classroom walls. He urged the students to focus on practical learning, covering critical areas such as soil conservation, animal husbandry, and the value addition of agricultural products. "This program is a crucial platform for students to develop essential skills, gain deep awareness of rural life, and understand the diverse challenges and needs of our farming community," he noted.

University officials, including Director of Education Dr. Gururaja Sunkada and Dean Dr. Jagajeevan Ram, attended the launch to support the students as they embark on this intensive fieldwork.

BIDAR

The Karnataka Dalit Sangharsh Samiti (DSS), founded by Prof. B. Krishnappa, has formally demanded the cancellation of the current beneficiary list for the 2024-25 Matsyashraya Yojana in Aurad taluk. The organization alleges that the selection process was compromised by malpractice, resulting in households being allotted to individuals who are not professional fishermen.

A delegation led by District Coordinator Dhanraj Mustapur submitted a petition to the District Collector, calling for an immediate investigation into the allocation process overseen by the Assistant Director of the Fisheries Department in Santpur, Aurad. According to the DSS, several ineligible individuals secured spots on the list by obtaining fraudulent documentation from local Gram Panchayats.

"We demand that the list be legally reviewed and cancelled," the petition stated. The organization is urging the administration to prepare a new, transparent list that strictly adheres to eligibility rules, ensuring that benefits reach genuine, professional fishermen who are the intended recipients of the housing scheme.

149th Jagannath Rath Yatra to proceed under tight tech watch in Ahmedabad

Police have enhanced security with a sophisticated AI-driven surveillance system along the 14-km route; over 3,500 CCTV cameras will provide continuous monitoring, aiming to eliminate blind spots.

AHMEDABAD

Preparations for the 149th Rath Yatra of Lord Jagannath in Ahmedabad have entered their final phase, with Gujarat Deputy Chief Minister Harsh Sanghavi conducting a comprehensive inspection of the entire 16.2-kilometre procession route ahead of the annual religious event scheduled on Ashadhi Beej. The inspection focused on reviewing security arrangements, crowd management measures and emergency response plans to ensure the smooth and peaceful conduct of one of Gujarat's largest religious processions.

Sanghavi was accompanied by Director General of Police G.S. Malik, Ahmedabad Police Commissioner Anupam Singh Gahlaut and several senior police and civic officials during the inspection. The team visited key locations along the route to assess security deployment, identify sensitive areas and evaluate contingency plans for handling any emergencies that may arise during the event. Following the inspection, Sanghavi said the Rath Yatra would proceed along its traditional 16.2-kilometre route through Ahmedabad. The grand procession will feature three main chariots carrying the idols of Lord Jagannath, Lord Balabhadra and Goddess Subhadra. In addition, the procession will include 18 elephants, 103 decorated trucks, 30 traditional akhadas showcasing martial arts and cultural performances, and several devotional music groups performing bhajans throughout the journey. To ensure comprehensive security, authorities have implemented an extensive deployment strategy across the city. The entire procession route has been divided into 26 security ranges, 53 operational sectors and 1,397 security points to facilitate effective monitoring and rapid response. More than 30,000 police personnel have been deployed for the event, making it one of the largest security operations undertaken for a religious gathering in the state. Fodder scam: Supreme Court upholds Lalu Yadav's bail

The Supreme Court on Tuesday refused to interfere with the Jharkhand High Court's order suspending the sentence of Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) chief and former Bihar Chief Minister Lalu Prasad Yadav in the Deoghar fodder scam case. The apex court dismissed the Central Bureau of Investigation's (CBI) plea seeking cancellation of Yadav's bail, while directing the Jharkhand High Court to expedite the hearing of the long-pending criminal appeals related to the case. A Bench comprising Justices M.M. Sundresh and P.B. Varale observed that nearly seven years had passed since the Jharkhand High Court suspended Yadav's sentence, making it inappropriate for the Supreme Court to interfere at this stage. Delivering its order, the Bench said it was not inclined to disturb the High Court's decision. However, considering that the appeals have remained pending since 2018, the court requested the Jharkhand High Court to hear and dispose of them as expeditiously as possible, preferably within six months. We are not inclined to interfere in the impugned order. The appeal is of the year 2018. It will only be appropriate to request the High Court to expedite the hearing of the appeal, preferably within six months, the Bench headed by Justice Sundresh observed. Representing the CBI, Additional Solicitor General S.V. Raju argued that the Jharkhand High Court had suspended Yadav's sentence based on an incorrect understanding that he had completed 50 per cent of the prison term awarded in the case. According to the CBI, this interpretation was legally flawed and resulted in an improper grant of relief. The CBI further contended that Yadav's earlier applications seeking suspension of sentence had been rejected on their merits. It argued that the High Court had mistakenly treated multiple sentences as running concurrently while deciding the bail application, thereby extending a benefit that should not have been available under the circumstances.

Muslim clerics demand transparent probe into Waqf Board 'irregularities'

LUCKNOW

Amid the ongoing controversy surrounding allegations of theft of donations at the Ram Temple in Ayodhya, several prominent Muslim clerics in Uttar Pradesh on Tuesday demanded a comprehensive and transparent investigation into alleged financial irregularities and property mismanagement involving the state's Sunni and Shia Waqf Boards. The demand follows a letter written by All India Muslim Jamaat President Maulana Shahabuddin Razvi Bareilvi to Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, seeking a detailed inquiry into what he described as alleged scams involving both the Sunni and Shia Waqf Boards. In his communication, Maulana Bareilvi alleged that serious irregularities had taken place during the tenure of the Samajwadi Party government in the state. He claimed that if an impartial investigation were conducted, it could uncover financial misconduct on a much larger scale than currently alleged in other recent controversies. However, these allegations have not been independently verified, and no official findings have yet been released. Supporting the demand for an inquiry, President of the Shia Markazi Chand Committee, Maulana Syed Saif Abbas Naqvi, said concerns regarding the functioning of the Waqf Boards have existed for several years and require immediate attention. We have consistently demanded that the government conduct an investigation into the Waqf Board because several matters concerning its functioning are not satisfactory, he said.

Naqvi alleged that illegal encroachments on Waqf properties had become a persistent issue and claimed that certain Waqf lands were also under government possession. He emphasized that a transparent investigation was necessary to determine the facts and ensure accountability. He further stated that individuals found responsible for any wrongdoing should face strict legal action. At the same time, he urged the government to restore properties that legally belong to the Waqf Board if they are found to have been wrongly occupied or retained by government agencies. Expressing dissatisfaction with the pace of official action, Naqvi said that despite repeated claims regarding irregularities, a comprehensive investigation had yet to be initiated.

Search op launched in J&K's Rajouri after villagers claim seeing 2 terrorists

JAMMU

Joint security forces launched a search operation in the Thanamandi area of Jammu and Kashmir's Rajouri district on Tuesday after local villagers claimed to have seen two terrorists. Officials said a massive search operation was launched across some villages in the Thanamandi area after CCTV footage purportedly captured the movement of two suspected terrorists. The suspected terrorists were caught on CCTV crossing a road late on Sunday night, prompting the Special Operations Group (SOG) of the local police, the Central Reserve Police Force (CRPF), and the Army to launch a co-ordinated search operation in the area, the officials said. Acting on the footage, the search parties fanned out across Bhanghai, Hasplote, Karyote, Kopra top, and adjoining forested villages to trace the two individuals, the officials said. The search operation is now underway in the area, although so far there has been 'no contact' (Exchange of gunfire) with the terrorists. The operation is part of a prolonged anti-terror hunt, codenamed Operation Sheruwal, which began in May 2026 and targeted suspected terrorist hideouts and infiltration routes across dense forest regions in the Manjakote and Sunderbani sectors. Terrorism in the Rajouri district has been heavily shaped by its proximity to the Line of Control (LoC). The region experienced its most intense phase of militancy in the late 1990s and early 2000s, characterised by targeted massacres designed to displace local communities.

33 IPS officers transferred; Natarajan new intel chief

KOLKATA

A major reshuffle took place in the state police administration on Tuesday, with the Suwendu Adhikari government transferring 33 IPS officers and appointing a new state intelligence chief. The most notable of them is the transfer of IPS officer Supratim Sarkar. He has been transferred from the post of ADG, Criminal Investigation Department (CID), i.e., the state's intelligence chief, to the relatively less responsible post of ADG, Telecommunications. Natarajan Ramesh Babu has been made the state's new intelligence chief. He has been the Director General of Correctional Services until now. The notification of the latest police reshuffle was issued from the state secretariat, Nabanna, on Tuesday afternoon. It may be noted that the Election Commission had removed Supratim Sarkar from the post of Kolkata Police Commissioner after the announcement of the 2026 Assembly elections in March. He was made ADG of CID. Later, he was also given the responsibility of a police observer in another state and was deputed to serve in five Assembly constituencies in Tamil Nadu. Meanwhile, among the transferred IPS officers is K. Jayaraman. He has been transferred from ADG, North Bengal Region, to the post of Director, Directorate of Economic Offences. Jayaraman, known as an honest officer, has been posted as the Director of Economic Offences to investigate financial corruption during the Trinamool Congress era. IPS officer Vishal Garg has been transferred from the post of ADG, Western Zone, to the post of ADG, Intelligence Bureau (IB). Skilled officer Praveen Kumar Tripathi, who was the IG of the Special Task Force (STF), has been transferred to the less important Home Guard division, where he has become the IG. Meanwhile, Tripurari Atharv has been removed from the post of Bidhannagar Police Commissioner. He has been made the ADG, Traffic and Road Safety. IPS officer Rathod Amitkumar Bharat has become the new Commissioner of Police of Bidhannagar.

similar political exchanges. Speaking to IANS, Rajbhar claimed that Akhilesh Yadav wanted communal unrest to return to the state in an attempt to consolidate Muslim votes. He alleged that riots and prolonged curfews had become a recurring feature during the previous SP government and accused the former Chief Minister of attempting to revive that political environment. Referring to the 2013 Muzaffarnagar riots, Rajbhar alleged that widespread violence during the SP government's tenure had caused immense hardship to ordinary citizens. He claimed that Akhilesh Yadav was uncomfortable with the present law and order situation and alleged that the opposition leader was trying to derive political advantage by raising issues capable of creating social divisions. Rajbhar further alleged that Muslims were currently living peacefully in the state and claimed that the SP was unhappy because incidents of communal violence were not taking place under the present government. These remarks come amid increasing political exchanges between the ruling National Democratic Alliance partners and the opposition ahead of the state elections. Earlier in the day, the SBSP chief also posted a strongly worded message on the social media platform X, criticising the Samajwadi Party's tenure in government and accusing it of allowing violence and intimidation against Dalits and backward communities. In his post, Rajbhar referred to the period following the 2012 Uttar Pradesh Assembly elections, when the Samajwadi Party secured a majority in the state. He alleged that soon after the election victory, supporters of the SP engaged in acts of violence against Dalit families in certain parts of the state.

AAP should apologise to people of Delhi: BJPNew Delhi

BJP MP Praveen Khandelwal on Tuesday said the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) should apologise to the people of the national capital after a court convicted former AAP Councillor Tahir Hussain in the 2020 Delhi riots case involving the murder of Intelligence Bureau (IB) officer Ankit Sharma. Reacting to the verdict, Khandelwal alleged that the violence had been pre-planned and accused the AAP of supporting those involved. This clearly shows that the riots were pre-planned and were supported by the Aam Aadmi Party. The party did not take any action against its MLA. Now that the truth has come to light, the Aam Aadmi Party should apologise to the people of Delhi. Those found guilty should receive the punishment prescribed under the law, Khandelwal said.

Giribala Singh, son to remain in judicial custody till July 28BHOPAL

A Bhopal district court on Tuesday extended the judicial custody of former district judge Giribala Singh and her son Samarth Singh till July 28 in the Twisha Sharma death case after the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) informed the court that the two accused had not cooperated during their voice samples. The hearing was conducted through video conferencing amid heavy security at the court premises. The CBI sought extension of the judicial custody, informing the court that both accused had failed to cooperate during the voice sample collection carried out on July 6.

Counsel for Twisha Sharma's family, Advocate Ankur Pandey, said Samarth Singh refused to provide his voice sample, while Giribala Singh initially gave one sample but later declined to continue the process. The CBI informed the court that both accused did not cooperate during the voice sample collection and sought extension of their judicial custody. Accepting the agency's submission, the court extended their custody till July 28, Pandey told reporters after the hearing.

CONGRESS SHOULD CLARIFY ITS STAND ON UCC: MP CM

'The Oppn views sensitive issues such as UCC and Bhojshala dispute through the lens of vote-bank politics rather than constitutional or public interest'

BHOPAL

Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Mohan Yadav on Tuesday called upon the Congress to clearly state its position on the proposed Uniform Civil Code (UCC), a day after the state government's high-level committee submitted its final report on the issue.

The Chief Minister alleged that the Opposition party viewed sensitive issues such as the UCC and the Bhojshala dispute through the lens of vote-bank politics rather than constitutional or public interest.

Speaking to reporters at the Madhya Pradesh Assembly premises, Yadav said the submission of the committee's report marked an important milestone in the state's efforts to examine the feasibility of implementing a Uniform Civil Code.

He maintained that the extensive consultation process undertaken by the panel reflected the views of people from different religious and social backgrounds.

The committee has submitted the Uniform Civil Code report to me. Now the Congress should also make its stand clear on this issue. Whether it is the UCC or the Bhojshala issue, the Congress looks at every matter only from the perspective of Hindu-Muslim politics and vote-bank politics, Yadav said.

He said members of all religious communities had actively participated in the consultation process and expressed their opinions on the proposed legislation. According to him, the broad-based public engagement demonstrated that the issue had been discussed openly and transparently.

It is a positive development that people from all religions expressed their views openly and clearly on the Uniform Civil Code. However, the Congress has still not made its position clear, he added.

Yadav's remarks came a day after the high-level committee entrusted with studying the implementation of the Uniform Civil Code submitted its final report to the state government.

The committee had been constituted by the Madhya Pradesh government to examine the constitutional, legal and administrative feasibility of introducing a common civil code applicable within the state.

Tenures of MOSPI secy Garg, CBDT chief Agrawal extendedNEW DELHI

The government has extended the tenure of Statistics and Programme Implementation Secretary Saurabh Garg by another year and the term of the Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) Chairman Ravi Agrawal by six months and promoted two IPS officers as Joint Directors in the CBI in a string of decisions covering various posts at the Centre.

Garg, a 1991-batch Indian Administrative Service (retired) officer of the Odisha cadre, will continue to serve on a contract basis till July 31, 2027. His current term expires at the end of this month. In addition to heading the Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation, Garg will continue as Secretary of the National Statistical Commission, the order issued by the Ministry of Personnel states.

The order issued to implement the decision of the Appointments Committee of the Cabinet (ACC) also extends by six months the tenure of Agrawal as CBDT Chairman on a contract basis till December 31 this year. He is an Indian Revenue Service officer of the 1988 batch.

The government has promoted two DIGs of the CBI to the rank of Joint Directors. Atul Kumar Thakur, IPS (AGMUT:2008), currently serving as DIG in CBI, has been appointed as Joint Director, CBI, with an overall tenure approved up to November 24, 2028 or until further orders.

Mumbai police bust health insurance cyber fraud racketMUMBAI

In a major operation against cyber-crime, the Mumbai Police on Tuesday uncovered an organised online fraud racket that allegedly targeted health insurance policyholders by posing as representatives of a reputed insurance company.

The operation resulted in the arrest of 12 individuals, the busting of multiple fake call centres and the seizure of digital equipment and valuables worth more than Rs 17 lakh.

The action was carried out by the Govandi Police, who raided three fake call centres allegedly being used to deceive customers under the guise of processing health insurance benefits. During the raids, officers recovered computers, laptops, mobile phones, gold coins and other electronic devices believed to have been used in the fraudulent operations.

The investigation began after a complainant approached the Govandi Police on June 22, alleging that he had been cheated by individuals claiming to represent the health insurance division of HDFC ERGO. According to the complaint, the callers informed him that he was eligible for a No Claim Bonus amounting to Rs 1,53,825 under his health insurance policy.

The fraudsters allegedly told the victim that certain formalities had to be completed before the bonus could be credited to his account.

Believing the callers to be genuine representatives of the insurance company, the victim shared his credit card details and other financial information.

Police said the accused subsequently used those details to carry out unauthorised online transactions, fraudulently withdrawing approximately Rs 3.43 lakh from the victim's account.

During the investigation, police interrogated the arrested suspects and uncovered details of the group's alleged modus operandi.

SC seeks CBSE reply on 3-language policy petitionsNEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Tuesday issued notices to the Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE), the Central government and the National Council of Educational Research and Training (NCERT) on a fresh batch of petitions challenging the implementation of the revised three-language policy in CBSE-affiliated schools. The apex court directed the respondents to file their replies within two weeks and scheduled the matter for a detailed hearing on July 29.

A Bench comprising Chief Justice of India Surya Kant and Justices Joydip Bagchi and V. Mohan heard the petitions, which question the legality and constitutional validity of the revised language policy introduced through the CBSE's curriculum framework and subsequent circulars.

During the hearing, the Supreme Court sought responses from CBSE and Centre on petitions challenging the revised three-language policy implementation nationwide

Bench did not grant any interim stay on the operation of the impugned CBSE circulars. However, the court took note of the submissions made by the parties and sought responses from all concerned authorities before proceeding further.

Appearing on behalf of the CBSE, Additional Solicitor General Aishwarya Bhati assured the court that the board would submit its response within the two-week period specified by the Bench.

The petitions challenge the CBSE's Secondary School Curriculum for Classes IX and X for the academic session 2026-27, along with circulars issued on April 9 and May 4.

BJP welcomes verdict, slams Sonia, Rahul, Kejriwal for appeasement politicsNEW DELHI

The BJP on Tuesday welcomed a Delhi court's verdict convicting former AAP councillor Tahir Hussain for the murder of IB officer Ankit Sharma during the 2020 city riots, demanding an apology from Arvind Kejriwal for trying to shield his party colleague and slamming the Congress for pursuing politics of appeasement.

BJP National Spokesperson Gaurav Bhatia said that when the conspiracy of these riots was being hatched, Congress leader Sonia Gandhi's statement was: Yeh Ladai Aar-Paar Ki Ladai Hai. Ghar Se Niklo, Aar-Paar Ki Ladai Lado.

He said the trial court's verdict had exposed the petty and deplorable politics practised by Kejriwal and Congress leaders Sonia Gandhi and Rahul Gandhi, who represent a culture-like political culture.

Bhatia said Kejriwal provided political patronage to Tahir Hussain and Congress leadership created an inflammatory atmosphere during the riots while pursuing politics of appeasement. He said that AAP leader Amanatullah Khan had stated that the sentence awarded by the court, based on evidence, material proof, and witness testimonies, was unfortunate.

Amanatullah Khan claimed that Tahir Hussain had been punished due to his religion and that injustice had been done to him, said Bhatia.

Families claim bodies of Bangkok pub fire victims

BANGKOK
Grieving relatives of the victims of a huge Bangkok bar fire claimed their bodies Tuesday as the death toll rose to 30, even as others held out hope that missing loved ones were alive. Flames tore through the Rong Beer Na Lat Phrao bar and restaurant in the Thai capital late on Sunday evening during a live music performance, sending people fleeing, several with their clothing ablaze. 27 people were declared dead in the early hours of Monday, with another succumbing to their injuries later that day. By Tuesday morning, Bangkok's Chatuchak district office put the death toll at 30, with 75 people injured -- 24 in critical condition.

Unpaid salaries: Workers of Ebola treatment center strike

RWAMPARA
Dozens of people working at an Ebola virus treatment center in northeast Congo went on strike Monday over unpaid salaries and bonuses, posing a new challenge for the fastest-growing Ebola outbreak ever recorded on the continent. Congo since May has been battling the outbreak of a type of Ebola with no approved treatment or vaccine. Last week, the Congolese health minister, Roger Kamba, said the virus had spread to two more provinces. The striking staff at Rwampara General Hospital in Ituri province, the epicenter of the outbreak, includes epidemiologists, case investigators, drivers and gravediggers who say they have not been paid by Congolese authorities.

Trump reduces size of two national monuments in Utah

RWAMPARA
President Donald Trump on Monday sharply reduced the size of two national monuments in Utah, undoing protections established by his Democratic predecessors on public lands that are sacred among many Native Americans. Bears Ears and Grand Staircase-Escalante national monuments in southern Utah have ancient cliff dwellings, petroglyphs and scenic canyons, as well as coal and uranium deposits that state officials want made available for development. Trump, a Republican, issued proclamations under the Antiquities Act to reduce their size by about 90% each. He took similar actions during his first term, but those were reversed by President Joe Biden, a Democrat.

Deadly Bangkok pub fire raises serious safety regulation questions

A devastating overnight fire at a crowded Bangkok pub killed 30 and left 75 others hurt, including 24 people who remain in critical condition dozens, raising doubts about scrutiny of safety enforcement

BANGKOK

A tragic fire at a popular pub in northern Bangkok has claimed at least 30 lives and left 75 others injured, including 24 people who remain in critical condition. The incident, which unfolded just before midnight on Sunday, has triggered renewed concerns over fire safety standards and the enforcement of regulations across Thailand's hospitality sector. According to authorities, the fire broke out at approximately 11:57 p.m. local time.

Investigators believe the blaze was most likely caused by an electrical short circuit in a ceiling-mounted air conditioning unit. Within moments, the fire spread rapidly through the building, leaving many patrons trapped inside as thick smoke and intense flames engulfed the venue.

Video footage shared on social media and verified captured the terrifying sequence of events. The recording initially showed heavy smoke pouring from the front entrance of the establishment before an enormous horizontal burst of flames suddenly erupted through the doorway and onto the street. The dramatic images were accompanied by the desperate screams of people attempting to escape the rapidly spreading fire. One survivor, 41-year-old Usa Tadsree, recalled the frightening moments before the disaster intensified. Standing outside the pub for a cigarette, Usa noticed the lights inside flickering before seeing smoke emerge from the entrance. Driven by concern, Usa initially attempted to return inside to rescue friends but was forced to retreat because of the overwhelming heat. I wanted to go back in to get my friends but there was intense heat coming out, so I had to run out, Usa said while recounting the horrifying experience.

There can't be security guarantees for Ukraine: Russia

MOSCOW

The Kremlin said on Tuesday that there could be no security guarantees for Ukraine without Russia's involvement, responding to a statement by German Chancellor Friedrich Merz that Moscow should play no part in shaping such arrangements. Merz said the issue - central to attempts to end the 4-1/2 year war - should be decided by Ukraine and its partners, not by Russia. Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov said the comment illustrated the dead-end position taken by European governments over the conflict. It is impossible to formulate security guarantees without Russia's participation; if the Europeans are truly convinced of this stance and insist upon it, Peskov told reporters.

Israel sets fresh terms as Lebanon talks resume in Rome

BEIRUT

Lebanon and Israel resumed indirect negotiations in Rome on Tuesday as both sides sought to advance the implementation of a United States-brokered framework aimed at ending months of conflict along their shared border. While the talks have generated cautious optimism, officials involved in the discussions acknowledged that expectations for an immediate breakthrough remain limited due to deep political and security disagreements. The negotiations are taking place at the United States Embassy in the Italian capital and are scheduled to continue through Wednesday. Lebanese officials said the choice of Rome as the venue would make it easier for delegations from both countries to remain in close contact with their respective governments while discussing sensitive security and political issues. The latest diplomatic effort follows months of renewed hostilities between Israel and

Lebanon and Israel restarted negotiations in Rome seeking progress on withdrawal, security, and ceasefire despite persistent regional tensions

the Iran-backed Hezbollah movement. Fighting intensified after both sides returned to open conflict on March 2 amid broader regional tensions. Since then, the United States has led diplomatic initiatives intended to secure a ceasefire and establish conditions for lasting stability in southern Lebanon. Beirut hopes the discussions will pave the way for a gradual Israeli military withdrawal from southern Lebanon under the framework negotiated by Washington. However, significant differences remain over the sequence of security measures and the future role of Hezbollah, making rapid progress unlikely. Israel currently maintains military forces inside what it describes as a security buffer zone extending roughly 10 kilometres into Lebanese territory along the international border. Israeli authorities argue that the deployment is necessary to protect communities in northern Israel from cross-border attacks launched by Hezbollah fighters. A previous meeting in Washington on June 26 resulted in a proposed agreement calling for an end to hostilities, the disarmament of militant groups, the deployment of Lebanese armed forces across southern Lebanon, and the phased withdrawal of Israeli troops. The framework was viewed as a potential roadmap for restoring stability, but implementation has stalled amid continued violence and political disagreements.

A relentless European heatwave intensified wildfire risks as firefighters struggled to contain devastating forest blazes across multiple countries

Europe heatwave fuels wildfires as France battles massive blaze

PARIS

A severe heatwave sweeping across Western Europe has intensified wildfire risks, with French firefighters battling a massive forest blaze south of Paris that entered its third consecutive day on Tuesday. The rapidly spreading fire, coupled with soaring temperatures across much of the continent, has raised fresh concerns about the growing impact of extreme weather and climate change on Europe's environment and public safety. Firefighting aircraft repeatedly skimmed the waters of the River Seine to collect water before dropping it over the burning forests near Fontainebleau, one of France's most historic woodland areas. Emergency crews worked through the night in an effort to contain the flames, but authorities acknowledged that the fire remained uncontrolled. French Interior Minister Laurent Nunez said the principal wildfire in the Fontainebleau forest, along with another nearby blaze that erupted on Monday afternoon, had already scorched approximately 1,300 hectares, or more than 3,200 acres, of land. The historic forest is home to the renowned Palace of Fontainebleau and is one of the country's most visited natural and cultural landmarks. Authorities have arrested at least two individuals suspected of starting the Fontainebleau fire. Nationwide, French police have detained 59 people this wildfire season on suspicion of deliberately igniting fires, highlighting growing concerns over both natural and human-caused disasters during periods of extreme heat. Meanwhile, the latest heatwave continued to expand across Europe. France, Britain, Spain, and Italy have all experienced exceptionally high temperatures, with Italian authorities warning that temperatures in Sardinia could climb to 44 degrees Celsius later this week. Such conditions have placed emergency services on high alert as dry vegetation and strong winds create ideal conditions for rapidly spreading wildfires. According to the Climate Monitor, the average maximum temperature across Western Europe reached 29.4 degrees Celsius on Tuesday, approximately 6.3 degrees above the long-term seasonal average recorded between 1961 and 1990. The most significant temperature departures were observed in Belgium and France, where daily highs exceeded historical averages by as much as 9.4 and 9.1 degrees Celsius, respectively.

COUNTRIES TIGHTEN TRAVEL RULES AS EBOLA RISK RISES

WASHINGTON

The World Health Organization on May 17 declared an Ebola outbreak in the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) a Public Health Emergency of International Concern and said there was a high risk it could spread to neighbouring countries. The decision has prompted governments to step up travel-related containment measures. Here is a list of screening steps and travel restrictions announced by different countries and measures by airlines. The U.S. on July 13 said it was blocking American citizens in the DRC from returning to the United States on commercial flights, placing recent travellers on a do-not-board list until they have spent at least 21 days in a third country. Washington has also banned non-citizens who had travelled to the DRC, Uganda or South Sudan from entering the country. The Canadian government said on May 26 that residents from the DRC, Uganda and South Sudan would be banned from entering Canada for 90 days starting May 27. The Jordanian government on May 19 suspended the entry of travellers arriving from the DRC and Uganda, according to the Jordanian state agency.

Bahrain said on May 19 it was suspending for 30 days the entry of foreign travellers arriving from South Sudan, the DRC and Uganda. India has launched screening and surveillance measures at airports and other entry points, issued advisories on precautions, and urged citizens to avoid non-essential travel to the DRC, Uganda and South Sudan.

Israeli fire kills 9 in Gaza, including a 10-year-old

CAIRO

An Israeli strike and gunfire killed at least nine Palestinians, including a 10-year-old boy, and a senior Hamas police officer, in the Gaza Strip on Tuesday, Gazan health and police officials said. The deaths add to a toll of more than 1,100 Palestinians killed by Israeli attacks since an October ceasefire between Israel and Hamas took effect, according to health officials in the enclave. The truce halted major fighting but has failed to stop sporadic violence. Four Israeli soldiers have been killed by militants in Gaza over the same period. Medics said Muataz Abu Shaar, 10, was shot on Tuesday by Israeli gunfire in Rafah, southern Gaza. In Jabalia, in the north of the enclave, an Israeli airstrike on a post of the Hamas-led police force killed at least seven people, including a woman, and wounded several other people, medics and police officials said. The Hamas-led interior ministry said in a statement the dead included the head of the Jabalia police force, Colonel Mohammad Marwan Salem, along with other officers. Israel has stepped up its attacks against Hamas security men and police posts, killing dozens of them since October, according to police sources. Israel wants Hamas to cede control of Gaza and disarm, and while the group said it was ready to relinquish power, it has always resisted calls to lay down arms. In Khan Younis, in the south, an Israeli airstrike killed a 36-year-old man and left three people wounded, medics said. The Israeli military said it struck a Hamas militant.

China fires senior leader Ma Xingrui over corruption

BEIJING

China has expelled former Politburo member Ma Xingrui from the ruling Communist Party following an extensive corruption investigation, marking another significant development in President Xi Jinping's ongoing anti-corruption campaign. Ma is the third serving member of China's elite decision-making leadership to be removed since 2025, highlighting the continued intensity of Beijing's efforts to root out misconduct within the country's highest political ranks. Ma, who also served as deputy head of the central rural work leading group, was placed under investigation in April for what Chinese authorities described as serious violations of law and discipline, the standard term used by the Communist Party to refer to corruption-related offences. His membership in China's national parliament was revoked last month, paving the way for further disciplinary and legal proceedings. The Central Commission for Discipline Inspection (CCDI), China's top anti-corruption watchdog, announced that investigators had uncovered multiple violations involving abuse of authority and misconduct during Ma's tenure in senior government positions. According to the commission, Ma improperly assisted others in securing official appointments and employment opportunities, using his influence to benefit associates in personnel decisions. The watchdog also alleged that Ma failed to supervise officials working under him and ignored or permitted serious violations of party discipline and national law committed by members of his staff. Authorities stated that some of these actions may constitute criminal offences, although no specific criminal charges have yet been publicly announced. Investigators further accused Ma of accepting illegal gifts, helping relatives purchase property at prices below market value, and engaging in exchanges involving power, money, and sexual favours. The CCDI alleged that his family members exploited his political influence to obtain substantial financial benefits, describing the case as an example of large-scale family corruption. Officials did not disclose the total value of the money or property allegedly involved.

New FIFA rules and technology spark debate over controversial WC decisions

Technology & rule changes reshape WC with contentious decisions dominating tournament headlines worldwide

ATLANTA

The FIFA World Cup 2026 has witnessed several controversial decisions influenced by new rules and advanced technology, with video reviews and connected-ball systems playing decisive roles in some of the tournament's biggest matches.

The latest flashpoint came during Argentina's quarterfinal victory over Switzerland when Swiss striker Breel Embolo was sent off after intervention from the Video Assistant Referee (VAR).

Initially, referee Joao Pinheiro booked Argentina's Leandro Paredes, but a review showed Embolo had simulated the foul. The referee overturned the decision, issued Embolo a second yellow card and reduced Switzerland to 10 men.

The intervention was made possible under FIFA's "mistaken identity" rule, which allows VAR to step in when the wrong player or team is penalised, resulting in a yellow or red card. Switzerland coach Murat Yakin criticised the decision, saying the rule had "destroyed" his team's game after Argentina went on to win 3-1 in extra time.

Germany also fell victim to a controversial interpretation of the laws during their Round of 32 defeat to Paraguay.

Jonathan Tah's apparent winning goal was ruled out after VAR detected a foul on goalkeeper Orlando Gill by Waldemar Anton. FIFA's refereeing department has instructed officials to penalise players who block opponents without making a genuine attempt to play the ball, particularly during attacks involving goalkeepers.

Another major talking point has been FIFA's connected-ball technology. The specially designed match ball contains sensors that record movement and contact 500 times per second, helping officials make precise offside and touch decisions.

The technology proved decisive in Croatia's defeat to Portugal after an almost imperceptible touch by Igor Mantanovic was detected before Josko Gvardiol's late equaliser, resulting in the goal being disallowed. Croatia coach Zlatko Dalic said such decisions were taking "the joy out of football."

Egypt also voiced strong objections after a goal against Argentina was ruled out because VAR identified an earlier foul during the attacking move. FIFA defended the decision, explaining there is no time or distance limit for reviewing incidents that directly lead to goals.

Norway also questioned decisions in their quarterfinal loss to England, including a disallowed goal and a claim that the ball had struck an overhead camera cable. FIFA maintained that sensor data showed no contact, reinforcing its confidence in the tournament's new technologies despite continuing criticism.

Paulo Dybala extends Roma stay with new contract until 2027

ROME

Argentina international Paulo Dybala has committed his future to AS Roma by signing a new contract that will keep him at the Serie A club until June 2027, ending speculation over his future after an injury-hit campaign.

The 32-year-old forward, who joined Roma from Juventus in 2022, has become one of the club's most influential players and remains central to its ambitions both domestically and in European competition.

Roma confirmed the contract extension, rewarding Dybala for his consistent contributions since arriving in the Italian capital. Over four seasons with the Giallorossi, the Argentine has made 139 appearances in all competitions and scored 45 goals, establishing himself as a fan favourite. Dybala made an immediate impact during his debut season, playing a key role in Roma's run to the UEFA Europa League final. His creativity, vision and eye for goal have made him one of Serie A's standout attacking players despite recurring injury setbacks.

Last season proved challenging for the former Juventus star after he suffered a serious knee injury that required surgery in March. The setback kept him sidelined for nearly four months and fuelled speculation about whether Roma would extend his stay beyond his existing contract. Despite those concerns, the club has reaffirmed its faith in the experienced forward by handing him a new two-year deal. The contract extension comes at a positive time for Roma, who finished third in Serie A last season to secure qualification for the UEFA Champions League for the first time since the 2018-19 campaign.

Argentina-England rivalry transcends football with history, politics and WC legacy

EAST RUTHERFORD

Argentina and England will renew one of international football's fiercest rivalries when they meet in the FIFA World Cup 2026 semifinals, a contest shaped as much by history and politics as by events on the pitch.

Unlike many football rivalries built on geography or regional competition, the animosity between the two nations stretches across continents and has been forged through decades of sporting drama, colonial history and national identity.

The rivalry first gained prominence during the 1966 World Cup quarterfinal, when Argentina captain Antonio Rattin was controversially sent off in a heated contest. England went on to win the tournament, but tensions between the two sides continued to simmer.

Two decades later came the defining chapter. At the 1986 World Cup in Mexico, Diego

Maradona scored two of football's most famous goals against England in the quarterfinals.

The first, the infamous "Hand of God", symbolised street-smart cunning, while the second, later christened the "Goal of the Century", showcased extraordinary individual brilliance as Maradona dribbled past half the England team before scoring.

The match carried added significance as it came only four years after the Falklands War between Argentina and Britain. For many Argentinians, victory over England represented far more than sporting success, becoming a symbol of national pride and resilience.

Football has long played a central role in Argentina's national identity. Introduced by the British during the late 19th century, the game evolved into a uniquely Argentine expression built around creativity, flair and improvisation.

Historic football rivalry blends politics, identity and unforgettable World Cup moments across generations worldwide.

Historians often describe the country's football philosophy through the concept of the pibe—the street footballer whose intelligence, skill and unpredictability embody the nation's sporting character.

Maradona became the ultimate symbol of that tradition, while Lionel Messi has carried its legacy into the modern era. Although Messi's football education largely came in Spain, he remains the standard-bearer for Argentine excellence.

England, meanwhile, continue their pursuit of a first World Cup title since 1966, while Argentina are aiming to become back-to-back world champions.

Interestingly, Messi has never faced England in a competitive international fixture, adding another compelling storyline to the semifinal.

Norway striker faces online abuse after crucial miss in heartbreaking WC defeat

Sorloth subjected to online abuse after Norway's WC quarterfinal defeat

MIAMI

Norway striker Alexander Sorloth has become the target of severe online abuse following his country's dramatic FIFA World Cup quarterfinal exit to England, prompting coach Stale Solbakken to condemn the behaviour and urge players to stay away from social media.

The abuse began after Sorloth chose to shoot instead of passing to an unmarked Erling Haaland during a crucial second-half counter-attack with Norway leading 1-0. England defender John Stones blocked the effort, and England equalised shortly afterwards before going on to secure a 2-1 victory after extra time.

The missed opportunity quickly became the focus of criticism online, with Sorloth's partner, Lena Selnes, sharing screenshots on Instagram that revealed a stream of abusive messages. Some of the posts reportedly included disturbing comments encouraging the 30-year-old striker to take his own life.

Norway coach Solbakken described the abuse as tragic and senseless, expressing concern over the increasing hostility athletes face on social media.

"It is tragic. That is the world we live in," Solbakken said. "I tell the boys to stay away from social media, especially on days like this. There is nothing more to say about it other than it is completely devoid of sense on every possible level."

Sorloth later explained the reasoning behind his decision during the decisive attacking move. The Atletico Madrid forward said his first instinct had been to pass to Haaland, but believed England defender John Stones had successfully closed the passing lane, leaving him with little option but to attempt a shot.

"The only thing I wanted to do in that situation was to pass to Erling," Sorloth said. "But it felt like the pass wasn't there, so I went to shoot."

Norway had enjoyed an impressive World Cup campaign before falling agonisingly short of a semifinal berth. Despite taking the lead against England, the Scandinavian side could not withstand the late fightback from the 1966 world champions.

The incident has once again highlighted the growing problem of online abuse directed at professional athletes following high-profile matches.

Slaven Bilic returns as Croatia coach after Dalic's WC exit

ZAGREB

Former Croatia international Slaven Bilic has been reappointed as head coach of the national football team, replacing Zlatko Dalic, who resigned following Croatia's early exit from the FIFA World Cup 2026.

The Croatian Football Federation (HNS) confirmed Bilic's appointment, stating that the 57-year-old was unanimously chosen to take charge as the country begins preparations for its next international cycle.

Dalic stepped down last week after Croatia's disappointing 2-1 defeat to Portugal ended their World Cup campaign before the knockout stages. His departure brought an end to one of the most successful coaching tenures in Croatian football history.

During his eight-year spell in charge, Dalic guided Croatia to the 2018 FIFA World Cup final in Russia, where they finished runners-up to France. He also led the team to the semifinals of the 2022 World Cup in Qatar and the Round of 16 at UEFA Euro 2020, establishing Croatia as one of Europe's most consistent international sides.

Bilic is no stranger to the role, having previously managed Croatia between 2006 and 2012. During his first spell, he oversaw 65 matches, recording 42 wins, 15 draws and only eight defeats, giving him a higher winning percentage than Dalic.

His greatest achievement with the national side came at the 2008 European Championship, where Croatia reached the quarterfinals before suffering a dramatic penalty shootout defeat to Turkey.

As a player, Bilic earned 44 international caps and represented Croatia with distinction. At club level, he enjoyed successful spells with Hajduk Split before moving to England, where he played for West Ham United and Everton during the mid-1990s.

Bilic has also built an extensive coaching résumé, managing several clubs across Europe and Asia, including West Ham United, West Bromwich Albion and Watford in England. His most recent managerial assignment was with Saudi Arabian club Al-Fateh during the 2023-24 season.

The Croatian federation will now look to Bilic's experience and familiarity with the national setup to guide the country's rebuilding process.

Manchester United sign Brazilian midfielder Andrey Santos from Chelsea

Manchester United bolster midfield by signing Brazilian international Andrey Santos from Chelsea permanently.

Manchester United have strengthened their midfield by signing Brazilian international Andrey Santos from Chelsea on a five-year contract, with the 22-year-old arriving as the replacement for veteran midfielder Casemiro.

The move comes just weeks after Casemiro departed Old Trafford following the expiry of his contract, ending a successful spell with the Premier League club. United hope Santos can add energy, creativity and defensive stability as they rebuild their midfield ahead of the new season.

Santos joins after an impressive campaign with Chelsea, where he made 43 appearances across all competitions and also featured as a substitute during the club's FIFA Club World Cup triumph last year. His performances earned praise for his composure in possession, ball-winning ability and maturity despite his young age.

Speaking after completing the transfer, Santos described the move as a dream come true and said he was eager to begin the next chapter of his career at one of football's biggest clubs.

"Everything about Manchester United is special. It is an incredible feeling to join a club that some of my biggest idols have represented," Santos said in a club statement.

Andy Reid voted NFL's top head coach for fourth straight preseason

NEW YORK

Kansas City Chiefs head coach Andy Reid has been voted the NFL's top head coach for the fourth consecutive preseason in an annual survey, reaffirming his status as one of the league's most respected coaches despite the Chiefs enduring a disappointing 2025 campaign.

A panel of eight pro football writers ranked the league's top five coaches heading into the 2026 season. Reid secured five first-place votes and one second-place vote to finish at the top of the list, while Los Angeles Rams coach Sean McVay placed second after receiving the remaining three first-place votes.

Bowl title last season, finished third. San Francisco 49ers coach Kyle Shanahan was ranked fourth, while Denver Broncos coach Sean Payton completed the top five.

Reid's selection comes despite Kansas City finishing 6-11 last season, ending a remarkable run of 12 consecutive winning seasons. The Chiefs' campaign was derailed by injuries, including a season-ending knee injury to star quarterback Patrick Mahomes in Week 15.

The veteran coach has enjoyed a distinguished career with both the Philadelphia Eagles and Kansas City Chiefs. He led the Eagles to five NFC Championship Games and a Super Bowl appearance before joining the Chiefs, where he has delivered three Super Bowl titles, nine straight AFC West crowns and five Super Bowl appearances in six seasons.

Reid is fourth on the NFL's all-time coaching wins list with 307 victories.

Barcelona agree deal to sign Borussia Dortmund forward Karim Adeyemi

BARCELONA

Barcelona president Joan Laporta has confirmed that the Spanish champions have reached an agreement to sign Borussia Dortmund forward Karim Adeyemi, adding another exciting attacking option to the club's squad ahead of the new season.

Although the transfer has not yet been officially announced, Laporta revealed that the deal was effectively complete while speaking to reporters after arriving in Dallas to attend the FIFA World Cup.

"We're very excited about Adeyemi. We've liked him for a while. He's dangerous and fast," Laporta said, expressing confidence that the Germany international will strengthen Barcelona's frontline.

The club president did not disclose the financial details of the transfer or provide information regarding the length of the player's contract. Borussia Dortmund also stopped short of confirming the move but acknowledged that the 24-year-old missed the club's preseason fitness tests because he was involved in transfer discussions.

Adeyemi joined Dortmund after establishing himself as one of Germany's brightest young forwards and has earned recognition for his pace, dribbling ability and versatility across the attacking positions. However, he endured an inconsistent campaign last season, struggling to maintain regular form despite showing flashes of his immense talent.

The forward also attracted attention after publicly expressing frustration when substituted during a Bundesliga match, highlighting a season that proved challenging both on and off the pitch.

Subaru recalls over half million US cars

WASHINGTON

Subaru is recalling more than 541,000 vehicles in the United States due to a labelling error. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration announced that these cars were manufactured with an incorrect Gross Axle Weight Rating on their certification labels. While this issue involves a documentation mistake rather than a mechanical failure, accurate weight ratings are crucial for vehicle safety and proper loading. The automaker is now working to address the error to ensure all vehicles meet federal compliance standards. Concerned owners should contact their local Subaru dealers to verify if their specific vehicle is part of this recall.

BMW recalls thousands over engine fire risk

WASHINGTON

German automaker BMW is recalling over 29,000 vehicles across the United States due to a serious fire hazard. According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, a faulty engine starter relay can corrode over time, potentially causing overheating and dangerous short circuits. The recall specifically impacts several luxury models, including the 530e xDrive and various iPerformance vehicles. To ensure driver safety, BMW dealerships will replace the engine starter units for all affected customers completely free of charge. Owners are urged to contact their local dealers promptly to resolve this critical safety issue and prevent accidents.

India's wholesale inflation hits double digits soon

NEW DELHI

India's wholesale inflation climbed to 9.87 percent in June, up from 9.68 percent in May. New government data shows rising costs across various sectors, impacting the overall Wholesale Price Index. While fuel and power inflation slowed down slightly to 27.41 percent, prices for primary articles and mineral oils surged. Meanwhile, food inflation remained steady at 6.14 percent. The government also updated its measurement methods, using a new base year of 2022-23 to better track producer prices. As living costs rise, officials are closely watching these trends to understand the broader impact on the national economy.

Singapore Court denies Byju Raveendran jail relief

Byju Raveendran faces immediate imprisonment in Singapore after the High Court rejected his plea to pause a sentence.

SINGAPORE

The legal troubles for Byju Raveendran have deepened significantly. The Singapore High Court has officially rejected the embattled edtech founder's plea to pause a six-month jail sentence. This ruling means that Raveendran now faces immediate imprisonment if he enters the city-state, marking a major blow to his ongoing efforts to resolve his complex international legal battles. The prison term stems from a contempt of court ruling issued back in May. The court previously found that Raveendran failed to comply with specific orders regarding the disclosure of his personal assets. Additionally, he was directed to pay $90,000 in legal costs and provide documents regarding his ownership of Beeaar Investco Pte. Byju Raveendran continues to maintain his innocence. His legal representative, J. Michael McNutt, stated that his client denies intentionally violating any court mandates. The defence team insists that they will keep fighting for every available legal remedy to challenge the decision. This specific case was initiated by a subsidiary of the Qatar Investment Authority, following disputes over investments made during the company's restructuring phase. While Raveendran found some success in a separate U.S. court case last December, where a $1 billion judgment was reversed, his situation in Singapore remains precarious. As creditors and investors continue their global push for accountability, Raveendran faces an increasingly difficult path. For now, he remains effectively barred from Singapore unless he is prepared to serve his time, leaving his future and the remnants of his company's legacy in serious doubt.

Google launched new AI initiatives in India, focusing on education, healthcare, and developer support to strengthen the local ecosystem.

‘GOOGLE ECOSYSTEM’ GENERATES BILLIONS FOR INDIA

BENGALURU

Google has launched a major push to strengthen India's artificial intelligence landscape. During the Google I/O Connect India 2026 summit held in Bengaluru, the tech giant introduced several new AI-focused programs designed to support local developers, startups, enterprises, and educational institutions.

The company showcased significant growth, noting that its Android ecosystem and Play Store generated an impressive ₹5.3 lakh crore for the Indian economy in 2025. Karnataka Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar praised Google, highlighting its vital role in revolutionizing digital services and internet access across the nation.

Among the standout announcements, Google DeepMind unveiled a free 56-hour AI Research Foundations curriculum. Created in partnership with NASSCOM and the Indian Institute of Science, this training aims to help learners master the development of large language models. Furthermore, Google introduced "ATL Saathi," a Gemini-powered virtual assistant designed to aid teachers under the Atal Innovation Mission, starting with a pilot program in 100 schools.

In the healthcare sector, Google is collaborating with AIIMS Delhi. Researchers are utilizing the company's MedGemma open-source models to build specialized tools for public health, which will eventually be shared with the broader developer community.

Additionally, Google announced that its Gemini Live assistant now supports 25 Indian languages and dialects, including Sanskrit, Bhojpuri, and Maithili. By focusing on both infrastructure and accessible education, Google aims to provide the essential guardrails and tools needed for Indian innovators to thrive safely in the rapidly advancing global era of artificial intelligence.

Exporters gain duty-free access to UK

NEW DELHI

A historic chapter in bilateral economic relations begins as the India-UK Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA) officially enters into force on July 15, 2026. Signed in July 2025, this landmark deal marks a significant milestone, aiming to deepen the strategic partnership between the two nations and boost trade to a target of $100 billion by 2030. Under the new framework, Indian exporters will gain zero-duty access to nearly 99% of tariff lines in the UK market. This provides a massive competitive edge for labour-intensive sectors such as textiles, leather, footwear, and processed foods, which previously faced duties ranging from 4% to 16%. Other key beneficiaries include engineering goods, marine products, and gems and jewellery.

Trump's energy policies stall green investments

The Trump administration's recent shift in energy policy has triggered a significant economic downturn for the renewable sector. A new report reveals that federal actions aimed at scaling back support for clean energy have led to the cancellation or delay of $83 billion in project investments.

According to the analysis, 223 major manufacturing and clean energy initiatives have stalled during President Trump's second term. These disruptions have jeopardized approximately 111,765 potential jobs. The coalition attributes this decline directly to the administration's signature tax and spending legislation, which repealed many of the clean energy incentives established during the Biden era.

President Trump has consistently argued that renewable sources, such as wind and solar, are unreliable and overly reliant on government subsidies. However, labour leaders argue that the administration's regulatory rollbacks go beyond just funding.

E20 Fuel Strategy to Reduce Import Dependency: CSIR Prez

NEW DELHI

As global energy markets face uncertainty, India's push for E20 fuel - a blend of 20 percent ethanol with gasoline, is gaining strong support from leading experts. Dr. Raghunath Anant Mashelkar, a renowned scientist and former head of the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR), emphasized that ethanol is a proven, viable solution to help India achieve energy self-reliance. Dr. Mashelkar pointed to Brazil's successful track record as a model for the world. Brazil has powered its transportation sector with ethanol for decades, proving that the technology is reliable and efficient. By following this path, India can significantly cut its heavy reliance on imported crude oil, which currently makes the nation vulnerable to global supply chain disruptions and political instability in energy-producing regions.

"We need self-reliance. We should produce our own fuels," Dr. Mashelkar noted, highlighting that domestic production is the most effective way to protect the country from volatile international markets. However, the expert also cautioned that while ethanol is a vital piece of the puzzle, it should not be the only one. He advocated for a diverse approach to clean energy. India should simultaneously invest in multiple alternatives, including methanol, compressed biogas, and biomass-based green hydrogen. A key part of his vision involves utilizing India's abundant natural resources. Dr. Mashelkar highlighted that biomass, which effectively stores solar energy, should become a primary feedstock for the nation's fuel production. He suggested that farmers could grow energy crops like Napier grass on degraded or semi-degraded land.

Poultry industry targets steady FY27 growth

NEW DELHI

India's poultry sector is heading for a bright year ahead. Recent reports indicate that the industry is projected to see revenues climb by approximately 6 to 7 percent during the fiscal year 2027. Along with this growth, profit margins are expected to improve by 50 to 100 basis points compared to the previous year.

The industry found stability throughout FY26, driven by strong production levels and resilient demand from retail stores, food-service businesses, and institutional buyers. As a global leader in egg and poultry meat production, India continues to benefit from shifting dietary habits, increasing urbanization, and greater affordability. Consumers are increasingly prioritizing protein-rich diets, which keeps demand steadily climbing.

Organized players, who currently control roughly 60 to 65 percent of the market, are leading the charge. These companies have significantly boosted profitability through better pricing discipline, integrated operations, and smarter feed procurement. Notably, a

Key government officials receive tenure extensions

NEW DELHI

The Indian government has announced several significant personnel updates, focusing on leadership continuity within key ministries. In a series of high-level decisions, officials have received extensions to their current tenures to maintain stability across important administrative departments.

Saurabh Garg, the Secretary for the Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation, will remain in his role for an additional year. A retired 1991-batch IAS officer, his contract now runs until July 31, 2027. He will also continue leading the National Statistical Commission. Similarly, the government has extended the tenure of CBDT Chairman Ravi Agrawal. The 1988-batch IRS officer will serve on a contract basis for six more months, keeping him in his position until December 31, 2026.

The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) also saw major promotions as the Appointments Committee of the Cabinet elevated two Deputy Inspector Generals to the rank of Joint Directors. Atul Kumar Thakur and Pankaj Kumar Singh, both 2008-batch IPS officers, were promoted to these key investigative roles, with tenures spanning through late 2028.

Additional updates include the appointment of Rahul Kumar as Officer on Special Duty to the Minister of State for Rural Development. Meanwhile, other officials, such as Krishna Kumar Tiwari and Sanap Bajirao Ramnath, received extensions on their ongoing central deputations. These strategic moves reflect the government's aim to balance experienced leadership with fresh promotions, ensuring that vital administrative functions continue running smoothly as the nation navigates its various ongoing developmental and fiscal responsibilities.

Adani Electricity reduces power distribution losses

MUMBAI

Adani Electricity has achieved a major victory in its ongoing battle against illegal power usage. The company announced that it has successfully lowered its Aggregate Technical and Commercial (AT&C) losses to 4.46 percent for the fiscal year 2025-26, down from 4.7 percent the previous year. This improvement ranks the company among the best-performing power distributors in India.

The effort is more than just about numbers, it is about fairness. When people steal electricity, it creates an unfair financial burden on honest customers who pay their bills on time. By stopping this theft, the company can keep electricity costs stable and fair for everyone.

To achieve these results, the company's vigilance teams launched an aggressive campaign. During the last year, they conducted over 36,000 raids across their network. These operations were strategically timed, with a 40 percent increase in inspections held during holidays, early mornings, and late evenings to catch offenders off guard.

The crackdown led to the discovery of 5,897 cases of power theft. Authorities seized nearly 80 tons of illegal wires used to bypass meters. In total, the stolen electricity was valued at approximately Rs 43.39 crore. Notable cases included large-scale theft at industrial sites in Malad and Goregaon, where illegal direct connections were feeding heavy molding machinery.

Stealing power is a serious crime. Under the Electricity Act of 2003, it is a non-bailable offense that can result in heavy fines and up to three years in prison. Adani Electricity is working closely with the police to ensure that responsible face these consequences.

A company spokesperson emphasized that power theft often happens in crowded areas, which puts dangerous stress on transformers and cables. By stopping these illegal connections, the company is not only protecting its revenue but also making the local power grid safer and more reliable for every law-abiding citizen.

The company plans to intensify these efforts further to ensure that honest customers continue to receive high-quality service at competitive rates.

DATA'S NEW FRONTIER

India's Data Center market to hit $22 billion

NEW DELHI

The sector has already secured over $126 billion in investment commitments. However, experts warn that this rapid expansion faces a significant hurdle: a widening skills gap. To meet the growing demand, industry leaders and policymakers must collaborate closely to ensure the workforce is prepared for the technical challenges ahead.

As artificial intelligence begins to drive roughly 30 percent of total data center workloads, the nature of employment is shifting. Demand is spiking for professionals proficient in AI infrastructure, cloud operations, and DevOps. Furthermore, the physical construction of these advanced facilities requires experts in specialized fields, including liquid cooling systems, energy optimization, and power management.

Sachin Alug, CEO of NLB Services, emphasized that this transition is a vital nation-building opportunity. "This is not simply about filling jobs; it is about building a workforce capable of powering India's digital economy for decades to come," he noted. By bridging the current gap between education and industry needs, India stands to turn its data center infrastructure into a major engine for long-term economic growth and professional development.

India and Maldives progress on trade deal

NEW DELHI

India and the Maldives have successfully concluded the first round of negotiations for a landmark Free Trade Agreement (FTA). This development marks a significant step toward deepening economic ties between the two nations, which are currently celebrating 60 years of diplomatic partnership.

During these extensive talks, negotiating teams held eight technical sessions covering various policy areas. Officials reported substantial progress and broad agreement on multiple issues, signalling a strong commitment to finalizing the framework. India's delegation was led by Ujjwal Kumar Ghosh from the Department of Commerce, while the Maldivian side was headed by Yusuf Riza.

Trade between the two neighbours has shown impressive momentum, rising by over 13 percent to reach $771.76 million in the 2025-26 fiscal year. India currently stands as the Maldives' second-largest trading partner, and both governments view this new FTA as a vital tool to further boost investment, improve market access, and drive sustainable growth.

India script history with commanding Lord's Test triumph over England

India produce complete team effort to register landmark Women's Test victory at Lord's.

LONDON

India created history by defeating England by a massive 270 runs in the first-ever Women's Test played at the iconic Lord's, sealing one of their finest victories in the longest format with a clinical all-round performance.

Needing four wickets on the fourth morning, India wrapped up the contest by dismissing England for 186 in 62.5 overs after setting the hosts an imposing target of 457. Despite a determined half-century from Sophie Ecclestone, England never looked capable of pulling off the daunting chase.

The victory was built on outstanding performances across all departments. Smriti Mandhana and Yastika Bhatia laid the foundation with disciplined batting, while the bowlers exploited the Lord's conditions superbly to outclass the hosts. Kranti Gaud emerged as the star with a memorable five-wicket haul, earning a place on the famous Lord's Honours Board for her remarkable spell.

India's pacers, led by Gaud and Sayali Satghare, made excellent use of the slope and seam movement, consistently troubling England's batters. Off-spinner Sneha Rana complemented them perfectly by maintaining relentless pressure and claiming key wickets. Deepti Sharma cleaned up the tail with two quick dismissals before Rana produced a superb delivery to remove Ecclestone and complete the famous victory.

England resumed the day on 130 for six and delayed the inevitable for over 90 minutes. Amy Jones, the hosts' top scorer with 54, was the first batter dismissed on the final morning. Ecclestone fought hard despite being dropped twice, but lacked meaningful support as India's bowlers steadily closed in on victory.

The triumph underlined India's growing strength in women's Test cricket despite playing the format infrequently. It also extended India's impressive record against England, with four wins from 16 Tests compared to England's solitary victory, which came in 1995.

Cricket legend Sachin Tendulkar visited the Indian dressing room before play and later congratulated the players after the victory. ICC Chairman Jay Shah watched the action from the stands as India celebrated a landmark achievement at the Home of Cricket. The match also marked the farewell appearance of England veterans Tammy Beaumont and former captain Heather Knight.

Lennox's five-for powers NZ to series-levelling win over WI

PROVIDENCE

New Zealand bounced back strongly to defeat West Indies by five wickets in the second ODI at Providence Stadium, levelling the five-match series 1-1 with a disciplined all-round display led by left-arm spinner Jayden Lennox.

After losing the opening match by seven wickets, the visitors produced a much-improved performance, bowling out West Indies for just 138 before comfortably chasing down the target with 17.2 overs to spare.

Lennox was the architect of New Zealand's victory, returning exceptional figures of 5/19 from eight overs. The spinner consistently troubled the West Indies batters with his accuracy and variations, dismantling the middle and lower order after the hosts made a promising start.

Opener John Campbell top-scored for West Indies with a brisk 43 off 41 deliveries, hitting four boundaries and a six. Ackem Auguste and Keacy Carty contributed 18 runs each, while Amir Jangoo added 24. However, none of the batters could convert their starts into a substantial innings as wickets fell at regular intervals.

Mitchell Santner and Michael Bracewell supported Lennox effectively with two wickets apiece, while Jacob Duffy and Matthew Fisher kept the scoring in check during the early overs to ensure West Indies never built meaningful partnerships.

perienced a few anxious moments despite the modest target. Will Young scored a fluent 28 off 31 balls, while Henry Nicholls chipped in with 17 before both departed. West Indies briefly sensed an opening when Mark Chapman and Dean Foxcroft were dismissed without scoring.

Daryl Mitchell steadied the innings with a composed 28 before skipper Tom Latham anchored the chase with a patient 37 off 61 deliveries. Bracewell then finished the job in style with an unbeaten 24 as New Zealand reached 141/5 in 32.4 overs.

Khary Pierre was the pick of the West Indies bowlers with 2/33, while Alzarri Joseph and Gudakesh Motie claimed a wicket each.

The victory levels the series at 1-1 ahead of the third ODI on July 16, with both sides now eyeing the crucial advantage in what promises to be a closely contested five-match series.

Karthik dismisses speculation over Andy Flower's move to England Test coaching role

LONDON

Royal Challengers Bengaluru mentor Dinesh Karthik believes Andy Flower is unlikely to leave the IPL champions for England's vacant Test coaching position, despite the former Zimbabwe captain emerging as one of the leading contenders to replace Brendon McCullum.

overlap between the IPL and the international calendar.

The England and Wales Cricket Board (ECB) is searching for a new Test coach after McCullum stepped down following England's 2-1 home series defeat to New Zealand. Flower, who previously enjoyed a successful stint as England coach, has been widely tipped as a strong candidate, with former England captain Nasser Hussain also endorsing his credentials.

However, Karthik feels Flower's existing commitments with RCB and the increasingly demanding international and franchise calendar make such a move improbable.

"In all seriousness, I think he'll be a great candidate. He definitely should be one of the names considered, but I would be very surprised if he took it, considering where England are and his packed schedule," Karthik said.

Recent reports suggested the ECB could allow Flower to continue coaching RCB while also taking charge of England's Test side. Karthik, however, questioned the practicality of such an arrangement, pointing to the growing debates over player availability, including Jacob Bethell and Jofra Archer, as examples of how scheduling conflicts can create controversy and disrupt team preparations.

Karthik also highlighted Flower's long-term commitment to RCB, arguing that England would find it difficult to accept their head coach missing parts of an important Test season because of IPL responsibilities.

He noted that England's scheduled Test against Bangladesh next May could clash with the IPL, potentially forcing Flower to choose between franchise and international commitments at a crucial stage.

Flower guided Royal Challengers Bengaluru to their maiden IPL title earlier this year and remains central to the franchise's future plans. His tactical expertise and leadership have earned widespread praise, making him one of the most respected coaches in world cricket.

The ECB is expected to finalise McCullum's successor in the coming months.

Ryan ten Doeschate seeks India coaching exit amid personal commitments: Report

NEW DELHI

India assistant coach Ryan ten Doeschate has reportedly expressed his desire to step down from his role with the national men's team, citing personal reasons, though the final decision rests with the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) and head coach Gautam Gambhir.

According to a report, the former Netherlands all-rounder has informed the BCCI of his intention to leave after completing the ongoing ODI series against England. If his request is approved, the third and final ODI at Lord's on July 19 could mark his last assignment with the Indian team.

The report states that ten Doeschate's decision is driven by family commitments rather than dissatisfaction with the role. With his wife balancing professional responsibilities in London and their three young sons at home, he is understood to be seeking a position that allows him to spend more time with his family and reduces the extensive travel associated with international coaching.

Ten Doeschate joined India's coaching setup in 2024 after Gambhir took over as head coach. His appointment came following a successful working relationship with Gambhir during their stint together at the Kolkata Knight Riders in the Indian Premier League. Since then, the former all-rounder has become a key member of the support staff, contributing to player development, strategy and match preparation.

His initial contract with the BCCI is believed to have recently concluded, prompting discussions over his future. While the board is expected to consider his request, Gambhir's opinion is likely to play a significant role in the final decision.

The Indian head coach has often praised ten Doeschate's contribution and is known to value his tactical input. Reports suggest Gambhir may attempt to persuade him to continue, although no decision has been taken yet.

The development comes at a difficult time for the Indian team, which has come under intense scrutiny following disappointing limited-overs series defeats to Ireland and England. The recent results have raised questions about the team's direction and the effectiveness of the support staff.

Neither the BCCI nor ten Doeschate has officially commented on the report, and an announcement on his future is expected after the conclusion of the England ODI series.

British Open returns to Royal Birkdale as golf's final major tees off

Southport: The spotlight shifts to England's iconic Royal Birkdale this week as the world's leading golfers assemble for the 2026 British Open, the final major championship of the season, with defending champion Scottie Scheffler aiming to add another chapter to his remarkable career.

Royal Birkdale, regarded as one of the finest links courses in the world, returns to the Open rota for the first time since 2017. The par-70 layout stretches 7,223 yards and is expected to test players with its demanding bunkers, unpredictable coastal winds and fast-running fairways.

Scheffler arrives as the defending champion after claiming last year's Open at Royal Portrush by four strokes with a closing 68. The American now has the opportunity to become only the ninth player since 1934 to win a major championship in three consecutive years. However, he enters the tournament after missing the cut at last week's Scottish Open—his first missed cut in almost four years.

The field also includes several experienced campaigners with fond memories of Royal Birkdale. Padraig Harrington, David Duval, Stewart Cink and Justin Rose are the only players competing this week who also featured in the Opens held at the venue in 1998, 2008 and 2017.

India eyes ODI rotation policy as World Cup preparations gather pace

NEW DELHI

The Indian team management is reportedly planning to introduce a rotation policy for senior players in the ODI format as it begins preparations for the 2027 World Cup, with the aim of building squad depth while ensuring experienced campaigners remain fresh for the marquee event.

According to a report, the management, led by head coach Gautam Gambhir, wants to periodically rest veterans such as Rohit Sharma and Virat Kohli to provide opportunities for younger players and test the team's bench strength ahead of next year's World Cup in South Africa, Zimbabwe and Namibia.

The proposal, however, is expected to present a significant challenge as Rohit and Kohli now feature only in ODI cricket for India. With limited international appearances in the format, convincing the experienced duo to miss matches could prove difficult, especially when they also need adequate game time to maintain form and rhythm.

The report claimed that India had considered resting Rohit during the third ODI against Afghanistan last month to accommodate Yash-asvi Jaiswal at the top of the order. Instead, captain Shubman Gill moved himself to No. 3, allowing Rohit and Jaiswal to open the innings together. Despite scoring two centuries in his last three ODIs, Jaiswal has not been included for the ongoing England series.

The management is also understood to be keen on preparing reliable backup options, including an additional wicketkeeper to support first-choice gloveman KL Rahul, while ensuring replacements are ready if injuries strike senior players before the World Cup.

A team source quoted in the report said the objective is to avoid a situation where an experienced player is unavailable and the replacement lacks sufficient international exposure.

Ahead of the opening ODI against England, Gill dismissed suggestions that India have an unsettled playing XI.

Sindhu cruises into Japan Open second round; Satwik-Chirag retire injured

TOKYO

Two-time Olympic medallist P.V. Sindhu made a confident start to her Japan Open campaign by storming into the second round with a straight-game victory, while India's premier men's doubles pair of Satwik-sairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty were forced to retire because of injury.

World No. 10 Sindhu looked in complete control throughout her opening-round clash against Malaysia's Wong Ling Ching, defeating the world No. 37 21-14, 21-11 in the BWF Super 750 tournament. The Indian ace dictated proceedings from the outset, mixing powerful smashes with delicate net play and precise drop shot to keep her opponent under constant pressure. Sindhu established an early lead in the opening game and never allowed Wong an opportunity to stage a comeback.

She raced to an 11-6 advantage at the mid-game interval before closing out the first game with ease. The second game followed a similar pattern as Sindhu surged to an 11-3 lead before extending her dominance to comfortably seal the match in straight games.

In the men's doubles competition, however, there was disappointment for India as world No. 4 pair Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty retired from their opening-round contest against Denmark's Daniel Lundgaard and Mads Vestergaard after losing the first game 19-21.

Satwiksairaj's recurring shoulder injury forced the pair to withdraw, dealing another setback after they had also pulled out of last month's Indonesia Open despite ending a two-year title drought by winning the Singapore Open earlier this season.

Jaffer says India rushed Vaibhav Sooryavanshi's debut amid media hype

New Delhi: Former India batter Wasim Jaffer has criticised the Indian team management for rushing teenage batting sensation Vaibhav Sooryavanshi into the national side, saying the decision appeared to have been influenced by intense public and media pressure rather than long-term planning.

Jaffer said the 15-year-old should have been allowed more time to develop before making his international debut. He argued that Sanju Samson, who was instrumental in India's T20 World Cup triumph, deserved a longer run despite a string of low scores.

Sooryavanshi eventually made his debut against England after Samson was dropped following three disappointing innings. However, the youngster failed to make a significant impact in the three T20Is he played and was subsequently left out of the final match of the series, with Samson returning to the playing XI.

"I think we rushed Vaibhav's inclusion.

There was a lot of media hype around him, and the public was very emotional about seeing him play. India should have continued with Sanju Samson," Jaffer said. He added that the teenager would have benefited from spending more time around the squad, learning from senior players and understanding the demands of international cricket before being handed an opportunity.

Jaffer also suggested the team management had been "carried away" by the excitement surrounding Sooryavanshi, leading to inconsistent selection decisions. According to him, if the selectors truly believed Samson was out of form, they should have backed the youngster for a longer period instead of recalling Samson after just three matches.

The former opener also questioned Samson's omission from India's upcoming tour of Zimbabwe. The selectors have not clarified whether the wicketkeeper-batter has been rested or dropped, a move Jaffer described as surprising.

He maintained that Samson deserves regular opportunities because T20Is remain the only format he currently plays for India.
