

No forcible land acquisition: CM

Shivakumar said the govt will form a panel to review the Bidadi township project and claimed that the protests were part of a conspiracy to mislead farmers.

BENGALURU

Karnataka Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on Wednesday assured farmers that their land would not be forcibly acquired for the proposed GBIT project near Bidadi in Bengaluru South district.

He added that those unwilling to part with their land were free to continue farming.

Asserting that the government would not compel any farmer to surrender land for the Greater Bengaluru Integrated Township project, he said a committee would be formed to review it, and further decisions would be based on its recommendations.

'This is not my dream project'

"This is not my dream project. It was your [BJP and JD(S)] project. You wrote its preface and took the first steps. Nobody will be forced. Those who want to give land to the government may do so. This is not a private business deal. It is a government project," Shivakumar told reporters while sharing developments regarding the project.

'We must hear farmers' hardships, opinions...'

When asked why a committee was needed, the CM said, "We must hear the farmers' hardships, opinions and emotions. We must also examine the legal issues. Many CMs in the past made decisions in haste and later suffered the consequences. I don't want that to happen. We need discussions with knowledgeable people before making decisions."

tions of farmers and villagers, a final notification was issued last month for the acquisition of 499 acres across three villages in Ramanagara and Harohalli taluks for the Greater Bengaluru Integrated Township project, projected as India's "first AI-powered integrated township".

'Govt project will continue'

Noting that some people had already voluntarily given their land for the project, the CM said, "The government project will continue. Why should I stop it? They have already received compensation. Notifications have been issued. They accepted the money willingly."

"At one stage, Kumaranna (HD Kumaraswamy) had promised Rs 25 lakh per acre, but when compensation reached Rs 2.5 crore, many happily accepted it. Once compensation has been accepted, that land becomes government land. Then the government will decide

'Those who wish to retain their land may do so'

"Those who wish to retain their land may do so. I will constitute a small committee. Within one or two months, it may comprise legislators, officials or even retired judges. I will discuss this in the Cabinet and take a decision. Let the committee submit its report. I am in no hurry. This project is not for my personal benefit," he said. Alleging that conspiracies were being hatched against him by those unable to digest the fact that he had become the CM, Shivakumar said farmers should not suffer. "Until the report comes, I will wait. Then we will see what the farmers say. I will leave the decision to the farmers because the relationship is between me and the farmers. If someone voluntarily wants to give land because they need the money, we will accept it. Those who don't want to give it need not. We will not force anyone," he added.

What's GBIT Project?

The Greater Bengaluru Innovation and Tech City (GBIT) is a ₹18,000-crore, 9,000-acre smart township near Bidadi (30 km from Bengaluru). Designed to decongest the city, it features a "work-walk-live-play" model. It includes 2,000 acres for AI industries and 950 acres of green space. The project is currently facing severe farmer protests over land acquisition.

what to do with it," he said.

Appealing to farmers to end their protest and focus on their livelihood, Shivakumar said, "Don't make sacrifices for someone's political interests. Share your views before the committee that will be formed."

Dharmasthala case: SIT files 7005-page final report

MANGALURU

Nearly a year after the government had set up Special Investigation Team (SIT) to unearth the truth in former sanitation worker's sensational allegations in Dharmasthala mass burial case, SIT SP CA Simon on Wednesday submitted its final report before a court in Belthangady.

The final report, comprising 7,005 pages compiled into 12 volumes, was submitted before Additional Civil Judge Shashank Nagendra Bhat at around 3 pm, bringing to a close an extensive probe that has attracted significant public attention in Karnataka.

It includes statements from 255 witnesses, forensic science laboratory reports, and other supporting documents gathered during the investigation. The SIT also submitted a 4TB hard disk containing video-recorded statements of witnesses.

Materials seized during the investigation, including skeletal remains, bones, mobile phones, and other items sent for forensic examination, were produced before the court after completion of testing. SIT Superintendent of Police C.A. Simon, Inspector Kusumadhara, Inspector Manjunath, and other members of the investigating team were present during the submission of the report. C.N. Chinnayya, considered a key figure and popularly referred to as the mask man in the case and one of the accused named in the proceedings, also appeared before the court along with his wife.

Earlier, on November 20, 2025, the SIT had filed a

Key details and events

ALLEGATIONS: CN Chinnayya, a former temple sanitation worker, claimed to have buried hundreds of women and minors in Dharmasthala, Karnataka. He alleged influential figures forced him to dispose of the bodies to cover up violent crimes.

INVESTIGATION: The Karnataka government formed an SIT led by IPS officer Pronab Mohanty. Authorities excavated multiple sites indicated by Chinnayya, such as Bangalagude. They recovered only minimal skeletal remains, which proved to belong to a single male.

LEGAL OUTCOME: The SIT concluded that the mass burial claims were false and orchestrated as part of a larger conspiracy. Authorities arrested Chinnayya for perjury (giving false testimony under oath) and identified several activists allegedly behind the fabricated campaign.

The case that unmasked the whistleblower

A whistleblower claimed he buried hundreds of murder and sexual assault victims between 1995 and 2014. Following excavations and probe, the SIT found no evidence of mass burials and concluded the allegations were fabricated.

3,923-page perjury report under Section 215 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS) against C.N. Chinnayya, Mahesh Shetty Timarodi, Girish Mattannavar, Jayanth T. Vittal Gowda, and Sujatha Bhat. However, the Belthangady court declined to accept the perjury report and directed the SIT to submit a comprehensive final report instead.

The report submitted on Wednesday includes the earlier 3,923-page perjury report along with an additional 3,082 pages, taking the total volume of the investigation records to 7,005 pages.

The controversy surfaced after an individual, identified as CN Chinnayya, claimed that he had been forced to participate in the disposal and burial of bodies at various locations in Dharmasthala. His allegations triggered widespread public debate and led the Karnataka government to constitute a SIT to probe the matter.

He said the pact would deepen economic ties between the two countries and convert their shared vision into concrete opportunities for citizens.

He said the CETA would provide fresh momentum to farmers, entrepreneurs and micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs), while enabling several key sectors to gain greater access to the UK market.

Need Ram Sevak not CEO: Seers as over 1K applicants vie for post

LUCKNOW

Amid the ongoing process to select a Chief Executive Officer (CEO) to look after the administration and financial management of the Ram Temple Trust, several prominent Ayodhya based seers voiced their strong opposition to the appointment of CEO saying that the Temple should be managed by a 'dharmaacharya' and not an 'administrator'.

The Ram Temple Trust had, a few days back, issued a notification inviting applications for the post of CEO. "We don't need a CEO....we want a das (servant)...we want someone who is from the Ramanandi Sect, a sage, a person who knows about religion," Jagadguru Sateeshacharya said.

As per reports, over one thousand applications have already been received by the Trust and the number is likely to rise as the last date of submission of application is July 18.

Bengalureans, need a cylinder sans LPG connection? Order on Instamart

BENGALURU

Buying an LPG cylinder without an existing domestic gas connection is set to become easier for customers in Bengaluru, with Instamart partnering with Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited (HPCL) to launch on-demand cylinder delivery through its quick commerce platform.

The service, which the companies claim is India's first on-demand LPG cylinder delivery facility on a quick commerce platform, will initially be available in Bengaluru.

Customers will be able to order HPCL's newly-launched 10-kg HP Navya composite LPG cylinder as well as a 5-kg metal LPG cylinder directly through Instamart.

The partnership also marks the debut of HP Navya on the quick commerce platform, according to an official release issued by the companies.

No existing LPG connection needed for first purchase

One of the key features of the new service is that customers do not need an existing domestic LPG connection to purchase a cylinder. A first-time purchase through Instamart will be fulfilled as a new cylinder purchase. For subsequent orders, customers can request a refill by returning their empty HPCL cylinder at the time of delivery.

This opens the service to a wider group of users, including students, working professionals, tenants and smaller households who may not already have a conventional domestic LPG connection.

First-time customers will, however, need to complete identity verification. Proof-of-delivery documentation has also been included in the process, the official release said.

Shift Dr Yathindra from Urban Development portfolio: MLC Raghu Kautilya

MYSURU

BJP MLC Raghu Kautilya on Wednesday demanded that Dr. Yathindra Siddaramaiah be relieved of the Urban Development portfolio, alleging that he is facing an investigation and therefore lacks the moral authority to continue as the minister in charge of the department.

Addressing a press conference here, he alleged that Yathindra was a party to the irregular decisions under investigation and that inquiries involving his family are still underway. The appeals are pending before the High Court and questioned the propriety of his continuing as Urban Development Minister.

Referring to an earlier tenure of former minister Byrathi Suresh, the BJP MLC alleged that files had even been transported by helicopter during that period and said Yathindra had been entrusted with the Urban Development portfolio not to serve the interests of Mysuru city but to protect alleged irregularities. The Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) had virtually become dysfunctional due to the absence of key officials. The authority was effectively being run from Yathindra's residence, where files related to important decisions were allegedly being processed and signed. The former MUDA Commissioner is now serving as Dr. Yathindra Siddaramaiah's private secretary. Since MUDA does not have a full-time commissioner and the files were being signed using backdated approvals.

Questioning the delay in appointing a regular commissioner, he said that despite being the district in-charge minister and the son of a former Chief Minister, Dr. Yathindra Siddaramaiah had failed to ensure the appointment of a full-time MDA Commissioner.

The incumbent officer, Rakshith, was holding dual responsibilities as both Land Acquisition Officer and in-charge Commissioner of MDA, describing the arrangement as unfortunate.

He also pointed out that MDA must have a dedicated police station to safeguard its properties from encroachment, but no such facility has been established. Several key posts, including those of Land Acquisition Officer, Commissioner, Superintending Engineer and Executive Engineer,

Invite Rajinikanth for Dasara opening

On the forthcoming Mysuru Dasara celebrations, Raghu Kautilya suggested that actor Rajinikanth be invited to inaugurate one of the major cultural programmes. He said he had made the same suggestion last year as well. Many of Rajinikanth's films have been shot in Mysuru, and the actor shares a deep emotional bond with the city, he said, adding that Rajinikanth has always expressed great affection for Mysuru.

Kautilya also expressed concern over changes to the cultural character of Dasara celebrations. Around 30 years ago, classical music concerts used to be held inside the Mysore Palace before being shifted outdoors to protect the heritage structure.

He alleged that during last year's celebrations, loud DJ music was played in the palace premises, creating vibrations that could potentially damage the historic building and dilute the traditional cultural atmosphere of Dasara.

He warned that if DJs are again allowed inside the palace premises and traditional classical performances are replaced by loud commercial music, the BJP would launch a strong protest.

continue to remain vacant.

Kautilya urged Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar to immediately appoint a senior IAS officer of Regional Commissioner rank as the MUDA

Commissioner. If another Assistant Commissioner cadre officer is appointed to the post, the BJP would launch a strong protest inside the Legislative Council.

BJP opens voter list revision help centre in Sharadadevinagar

A voter list special revision assistance centre was inaugurated at Sharadadevinagar on Wednesday by BJP leader Kaveesh Gowda under the initiative of the Chamundeshwari Assembly Constituency (Urban) BJP Mandal.

The help centre has been set up to assist voters in locating their names in the 2002 electoral rolls, establishing contact with their respective Booth Level Officers (BLOs), and filling out the Enumeration Forms as part of the ongoing Special Summary Revision of the electoral rolls.

Speaking after inaugurating the centre, Kaveesh Gowda said many voters have been facing difficulties in tracing their names in the 2002 voter list. Recognising these challenges, the BJP has decided to establish similar assistance centres at various locations across the Chamundeshwari Assembly constituency to help citizens complete the revision process with ease. He appealed to voters to make full use of these facilities.

The programme was held under the leadership of Chamundeshwari Urban Mandal President Rakesh Bhat.

'Keep Mysuru Dasara Rooted in Tradition, Drop Kambala Event'

MYSURU

A citizens' forum has urged the state Government to drop its reported proposal to organise the traditional coastal sport of Kambala during the world-famous Mysuru Dasara celebrations, arguing that the move would dilute the festival's unique heritage and place an unnecessary burden on the city's infrastructure.

In a memorandum submitted to Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar through the Additional Deputy Commissioner, the forum said Mysuru Dasara is globally recognised for its rich history, royal grandeur, religious traditions and cultural identity. In recent years, the addition of several new events, including Yuva Dasara, has resulted in unprecedented crowds, traffic congestion, noise pollution, air pollution and heaps of garbage, causing inconvenience to residents. The increasing emphasis on large-scale entertainment programmes has gradually overshadowed the festival's traditional and cultural essence, thereby diminishing the grandeur and dignity of Mysuru Dasara.

They noted that introducing Kambala, an event that attracts thousands of spectators, would further intensify public inconvenience and trigger widespread resentment among Mysuru residents. Kambala as an 800-year-old rural sporting tradition unique to the coastal Tulu Nadu region, the memorandum said the buffalo race originated as a thanksgiving ritual performed by farmers after the paddy harvest. The sport is deeply intertwined with the geography, religious practices and cultural traditions of the coastal districts and is conducted with great devotion and discipline. Shifting such a region-specific tradition to Mysuru during Dasara would neither be appropriate nor respectful to its original cultural context. It further claimed that even several people from the coastal region have opposed the proposal.

The memorandum also highlighted the prevailing drought-like conditions in several districts due to deficient rainfall, pointing out that many farmers have either been unable to sow crops or are watching their newly sown fields wither for want of rain. In such circumstances, addressing farmers' distress should be the Government's foremost priority rather than organising large-scale new events. The Government must focus on improving the quality of existing Dasara programmes, correcting organisational shortcomings, providing greater opportunities to local artists, ensuring fair remuneration and treating performers with dignity and respect.

The forum urged the State Government to seriously consider these concerns and withdraw the proposal to organise Kambala during Mysuru Dasara. It warned that if the decision is not reconsidered, farmers' organisations, environmental groups, Kannada organisations, progressive groups, writers, artists, heritage experts and prominent citizens would unite to launch a large-scale protest against the move.

Sampath Kumar, was credited with successfully leading the publication for 31 years and expanding its reach. Several scholars and well-wishers continue to support the newspaper through articles and guidance.

The tragic incident claimed eleven lives, sparking public outrage. Ashoka asked who should be blamed if the authorities are completely innocent. Reddy explains absence from Bengaluru lawmakers' meeting

CH NEWS, BENGALURU
Minister Ramalinga Reddy has cleared the air about missing a recent meeting of Bengaluru lawmakers. Reddy explained that only those facing specific problems attended the discussion. Since he had absolutely no issues to address, he decided to stay away. Some believed he skipped it because he was unhappy about missing out on the city's development portfolio. Finally, he refused to talk about any upcoming cabinet or portfolio changes in the near future.

Hit me, not my hardworking officials: CM DK Shivakumar

DK Shivakumar urged critics to target him instead of officials amid tensions over the Bidadi township project.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Chief Minister DK Shivakumar made an emotional plea, asking critics to target him instead of government officials following a tense clash over a controversial township project in Bidadi.

Addressing a press conference, a visibly shaken Shivakumar defended his staff against politically motivated attacks. He stated that he would gladly take the blame, or even be hit with a broom, rather than see his officers harassed by opposition parties who are misleading local farmers.

Shivakumar firmly clarified that the Bidadi suburban township is not his personal dream project. He revealed that the initiative actually started in 2006 under Union Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy, who was the Chief Minister at the time. Shivakumar accused his rivals of hypocrisy, pointing out that previous governments had locked private lands into red zones and handled massive developer deals.

Reassuring the public, the Chief Minister stressed that as a farmer's son, he understands their struggles deeply. He promised that the current government will never snatch land by force. Instead, land acquisition will remain entirely voluntary, allowing farmers to hand over their property only if they are satisfied with the compensation.

Responding to Kumaraswamy's recent taunts that he would soon end up in prison, Shivakumar remained unfazed. He remarked that jail is nothing new to him and dismissed the comments as political jealousy from rivals who cannot accept his leadership. To resolve the ongoing dispute, the government will form a special cabinet committee to review the township project.

HAL Police book masterminds behind fake job racket

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Local police have busted a major job racket operating on the Outer Ring Road, exposing a fake agency that tricked hundreds of desperate graduates. The HAL police raided the fake placement center after receiving complaints from cheated job seekers. According to investigators, the scammers lured unsuspecting candidates from Karnataka and Andhra Pradesh by claiming partnerships with nine prestigious software companies. They promised high paying IT jobs to young graduates.

To make the setup look genuine, the agency charged candidates a fee of two to four thousand rupees under the guise of registration, test, and interview charges. Every week, the center sent exam details to nearly two hundred hopeful candidates, conducting elaborate mock tests and interviews to maintain their cover.

However, the jobs were entirely fake. None of the applicants ever received an employment offer. Whenever anxious candidates called the center to check their selection status, the staff simply told them they had failed the test rounds.

The police have arrested several representatives working at the office during the raid. Whitefield Division Deputy Commissioner of Police, Saidulu Adawat, confirmed that a First Information Report has been registered at the HAL police station. The police have also issued official notices to the primary masterminds behind this fraudulent center.

Authorities have strongly urged job seekers to remain extremely cautious when applying through private consultancy firms.

Ramalinga Reddy prioritizes drinking water needs over releases

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Karnataka Water Resources Minister Ramalinga Reddy announced that the Cauvery Water Regulation Committee has ordered the prioritizing of drinking water supplies. Speaking at the Vidhana Soudha, Reddy addressed the growing tensions following the latest high-level committee meeting held in New Delhi. He emphasized that the state's current priority remains protecting the immediate daily water needs of its own citizens.

During the video conference meeting, legal and technical advisors representing Karnataka clearly explained the state's difficult hydrological situation to the panel. Although neighboring Tamil Nadu strongly demanded an immediate release of river water, the regulatory board ultimately directed that available resources must be reserved for drinking purposes. Reddy firmly stated that Karnataka will not release extra water to Tamil Nadu right away, clarifying that no such official order has been issued by the panel.

The minister firmly dismissed political accusations claiming the state government was secretly giving away resources. He noted that the exact quantity of outflow is always transparently recorded at the Biligundlu gauging station for anyone to verify.

Currently, only three TMC of water has flowed to the neighboring state. Reddy explained that Karnataka simply does not possess enough excess water reserves to satisfy any further external demands at this time. The water crisis has also raised serious concerns among local agricultural communities.

When questioned about providing immediate relief to struggling farmers in Mandya, the minister reiterated that the committee's current mandate strictly focuses on securing drinking water first.

However, he reassured the farming community that their livelihood concerns are not being ignored. Reddy stated that he plans to discuss the agricultural water situation directly with Chief Minister DK Shivakumar very soon.

Since the Chief Minister is scheduled to visit New Delhi this weekend, Reddy mentioned he would follow up on the phone to find a solution.

Patil urges CM to bypass water bureaucracy

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Former Minister and MLA Shivanand Patil has urged Chief Minister DK Shivakumar to immediately release water from the Alamatti Dam. In a matter of life and death, he stated that thousands of villagers and livestock in Vijayapura and Bagalkote districts are currently facing a severe drinking water crisis.

In a formal letter written directly to the Chief Minister, the senior leader highlighted the ground reality of the situation. He urged the government to bypass bureaucratic delays, such as waiting for the Irrigation Advisory Committee to hold its regular meeting. Patil argued that the critical situation demands instant action to save lives, rather than slow discussions.

MLA Shivanand Patil urged Chief Minister DK Shivakumar to immediately release Alamatti Dam water, resolving a severe drinking water crisis in Vijayapura and Bagalkote.

Addressing concerns about future water safety, Patil assured that the reservoir currently holds 70 TMC feet of usable water. It needs only 35 TMC feet more to fill up completely. Since the monsoon season is far from over, he expressed strong confidence that the dam will easily fill up soon. He reminded authorities that history shows the dam often fills up even during later months. Patil criticized irrigation department officials for being too cautious. Currently, engineers are delaying the water release, waiting for another 10 to 15 TMC feet to gather. The MLA warned that this stubborn stance is creating massive public anger against the state government. He noted that every year, hundreds of TMC of excess water are ultimately wasted into the sea once the dam overflows. Therefore, keeping the gates closed now while local people suffer makes no sense.

Praising the Chief Minister's reputation for taking swift, public-friendly decisions, Patil asked him to intervene immediately. He stated that the thirsty residents and dying cattle of the twin districts cannot afford to wait any longer. He concluded that the government must act on humanity rather than rigid technical rules. Opening the canals now will resolve the painful water scarcity and bring immediate relief to the struggling farmers.

Hebbal police bust ring after Nigerian kingpin's dare

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Hebbal police have successfully dismantled an arrogant interstate drug trafficking ring that openly mocked law enforcement capabilities on social media.

Following a major drug bust where eight local operatives were jailed, a powerful drug kingpin based in Nigeria textually challenged local handlers to continue their illegal operations, daring the Karnataka police to stop them. Accepting the challenge, the Hebbal police launched a highly sophisticated counter-operation. The police discovered that the smuggling network was cleverly moving synthetic substances by hiding them inside everyday edible food packets to avoid canine and border security checks. Acting swiftly on precise intelligence, the department formed five dedicated special teams and executed simultaneous raids across Delhi and Bengaluru. The massive operation resulted in the arrest of four major peddlers. HC cancels corrupt Hosahalli land acquisition

The Karnataka High Court has cancelled a corrupt land acquisition process meant for a housing cooperative society in Hosahalli, ruling that fraud invalidates the entire legal process. The division bench of Justice D.K. Singh and Justice T.M. Nadaf ordered the Chief Secretary to conduct a thorough departmental inquiry against guilty officials who submitted false information.

Additionally, the court scrapped a heavy fine of 1.5 lakh rupees previously imposed on the struggling landowner, V. Srinivasiah.

The long dispute began in 1988, when officials tried to acquire ten acres of private land. Although government records claimed the land was handed over to the society, no houses were ever built. Affected farmers never received any compensation and are still actively cultivating their ancestral fields.

A special probe committee exposed massive cheating within the housing group. Investigators discovered that out of nearly two thousand listed members, only fifty were actual soldiers, while the rest were wealthy outsiders. The society had illegally collected large sums from innocent buyers for these non-existent plots.

Rejecting arguments that the case was too old to be reopened, the High Court declared that systemic fraud cannot be protected. The judges strongly condemned the double standards of land officers who misled the judiciary with false claims.

This crucial ruling brings great justice to local farming families who have spent several decades bravely fighting powerful land grabbers to protect their only source of livelihood, marking a major victory for truth and the rule of law in the state of Karnataka.

Bengaluru breaks 112-year-old July heat record

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A weakening southwest monsoon has triggered an unprecedented heatwave across Karnataka, forcing the state's capital to break a massive 112-year-old weather record. Recently, the garden city recorded a maximum temperature of 33.6 degrees Celsius. Weather officials confirmed this is the highest temperature Bengaluru has ever experienced during the month of July since 1914. The city's previous historical July highs peaked at 33.3 degrees Celsius, recorded way back in 1914 and 1926.

Typically, Bengaluru enjoys pleasant monsoon weather in July with an average maximum temperature of 28.3 degrees Celsius. However, a lack of regular rainfall has pushed the mercury more than five degrees above normal seasonal levels.

This unexpected warming trend is affecting the entire state, with most districts reporting daily temperatures climbing three to four degrees higher than usual.

The Indian Meteorological Department explained that dry weather conditions will likely persist for a few more days, particularly across northern regions.

Khader warns 108 service over emergency delays

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

To revolutionize emergency medical care, the Karnataka Health Department has introduced an innovative rule for the 108 emergency ambulance service. Henceforth, if an ambulance fails to reach a patient within fifteen minutes of a call, a stiff penalty of ₹5,000 will be slapped on the operating agency or driver.

The strict directive was issued by Health Minister U.T. Khader, who emphasized that any form of public negligence during medical emergencies will face zero tolerance. This rule applies to all districts across the state, ensuring urban traffic congestion can no longer be used as an excuse for delayed response times. The health department clarified that assigned service agencies will be held completely accountable for keeping their drivers punctual. To seamlessly implement this rule, the state government is overhauling its existing medical infrastructure.

Officials have been ordered to permanently retire the slow, aging vehicles that frequently break down on roads. The state has already initiated the procurement process to deploy brand-new, modern ambulances equipped with advanced life-saving technology.

BENGALURU'S HANGING HAZARD

Flyover barrier sparks collapse fear

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A severely damaged safety barrier on the busy Tumakuru Road flyover near the Sandal Soap Factory has triggered widespread fear among local motorists and pedestrians. Despite the visible hazard, civic authorities have failed to take immediate repair action, leaving citizens completely vulnerable.

The iron reinforcement bars of the barrier have detached completely, causing the heavy structure to lean dangerously over the main road. This particular route serves as a major connection between Yeshwantpur and Rajajinagar, handling thousands of vehicles daily. Locals are terrified that the cracked concrete and loose metal parts could collapse onto the traffic passing below at any moment. Frustrated daily commuters expressed deep anger over the extreme negligence of the Bangalore West Municipal Corporation. One local motorist, Sambayya, lamented that common citizens must travel in constant fear of falling debris. Another driver, Chandrashekar, criticized the authorities for delaying essential restoration work while waiting for a disaster to happen. Bengaluru residents, already troubled by dangerous potholes, now face this terrifying overhead threat daily.

Residents have urgently demanded that the municipal corporation remove the unstable barrier immediately and construct a sturdy new one before a fatal accident occurs. Pedestrians who walk beneath the flyover are also urging officials to install temporary safety nets.

A sudden rise in Covid cases in neighboring Andhra Pradesh has sparked fresh health concerns in Karnataka, where thirty-two new infections were reported in just ten days. This unexpected spike has triggered anxiety among local residents.

According to official data, Karnataka recorded only fourteen positive cases during the entire month of June. However, the situation shifted in July. Out of nearly two hundred suspected patients tested, thirty-two tested positive, showing a quick rise in active cases. State Health Commissioner Gurudutt Hegde addressed these growing public fears directly.

He clarified that the recent deaths reported in Kadapa, Andhra Pradesh, are currently just suspected cases, and Karnataka authorities are actively communicating with neighboring health officials to gather accurate data.

Hegde reassured the public that the situation in Karnataka is fully under control and urged people not to panic. Most of the newly detected cases are asymptomatic. These infections were primarily discovered during routine medical screenings that hospitals conduct before patients undergo surgeries.

Health officials have strongly urged anxious citizens to avoid spreading fake news and unverified rumors on social media platforms. The state's dedicated public health department is closely monitoring the daily data and warmly advises everyone to maintain basic hygiene practices.

For now, leading medical experts state there is absolutely no need for worry as the state has more than adequate medical infrastructure ready to handle any sudden healthcare emergency.

The Andhra Pradesh government said on Wednesday that it has initiated a transparent bidding process for Ramayapatnam Port aimed at attracting international players and defended its decision on its operation and maintenance under the Public-Private Partnership (PPP) model. Amid strong criticism of the coalition government by the YSR Congress Party for its decision to hand over the operation and maintenance of the port to private players, the government defended its stand. The government, in a release, claimed that a transparent bidding process has been initiated, with clearly defined payment mechanisms for the government, including revenue share with minimum guaranteed revenue, equity share, upfront payment, and specified capacity augmentation obligations.

Shah to attend Ahmedabad Jagannath Rath Yatra rituals

Union Home Minister Amit Shah will offer prayers before Ahmedabad's historic Jagannath Rath Yatra begins on Thursday morning

AHMEDABAD

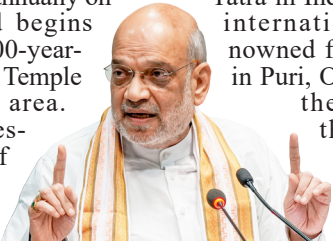

Union Home and Cooperation Minister Amit Shah will participate in the traditional Mangala Aarti at the Shri Jagannath Temple in Ahmedabad's Jamalpur area, ahead of the commencement of the city's 149th Jagannath Rath Yatra. Officials confirmed the programme, stating that the Union Minister will offer prayers before the annual religious procession begins.

According to the official schedule, Shah will attend the Mangala Aarti at 3:15 a.m. on July 16 at the historic Shri Jagannath Temple. The temple serves as the starting point of the city's annual Rath Yatra, one of Gujarat's most significant religious events, which attracts lakhs of devotees from across the state and other parts of the country every year.

The Ahmedabad Jagannath Rath Yatra is held annually on Ashadhi Bij and begins from the nearly 400-year-old Shri Jagannath Temple in the Jamalpur area. During the procession, the idols of Lord Jagannath, Lord Balabhadra, and Devi Subhadra are placed on elaborately decorated chariots and taken along the traditional route through different parts of the city before returning to the temple later in the day.

The Rath Yatra in Ahmedabad is regarded as the second-largest Jagannath Rath Yatra in India, after the internationally renowned festival held in Puri, Odisha. Over the decades, the procession has become one of Gujarat's most prominent religious and cultural events, drawing participation from devotees, saints, community leaders, and public representatives.

Amit Shah has consistently attended the Mangala Aarti before the Rath Yatra in previous years, continuing a long-standing tradition of offering prayers before the ceremonial departure of the chariots. His participation is considered an important part of the festivities, reflecting the significance of the annual event in Gujarat's cultural and religious landscape.

Veteran singer Anuradha Paudwal says her comments were taken out of context amid controversy over recent podcast remarks

Anuradha Paudwal responds to remarks on Vishwaguru debate

MUMBAI

National Award-winning singer Anuradha Paudwal has responded to the controversy surrounding her recent remarks on the Ram Mandir and India's Vishwaguru narrative, saying that her comments have been taken out of context and sensationalized. In a statement shared, the veteran playback singer urged people not to encourage the circulation of edited clips that, according to her, misrepresented the tone and intent of her conversation.

Addressing her followers, Paudwal expressed gratitude for the love and respect she has received throughout her career while reiterating her respect for the country and its leadership. She said every citizen has the right to express personal views respectfully and emphasized that constructive discussion is an essential part of a democratic society.

In her social media post, Paudwal stated that she believes education is fundamental for the country's growth and progress. She added that she would always support that principle and maintained that respectful expression of opinions should be protected. The singer also made it clear that she strongly objected to conversations being presented out of context for sensational purposes. She said she did not endorse videos that selectively used portions of her remarks and appealed to people not to promote such content.

Paudwal stressed that her statement should not be viewed as a clarification but rather as an objection to the misuse of her comments. The controversy stems from her recent appearance on journalist Shubhankar Mishra's podcast, where she spoke about India's aspiration to become a Vishwaguru, or global leader.

Calcutta HC refuses plea from Mamata's Trinamool faction over rally venue

KOLKATA

A single-judge bench of the Calcutta High Court on Wednesday rejected the plea from the Mamata Banerjee-led faction of the Trinamool Congress to hold the Martyrs' Day rally on July 21 at the traditional venue in front of the CESC House near Esplanade in Central Kolkata.

A petition filed by the Mamata Banerjee-led faction seeking permission to organise the rally at the traditional venue came up for hearing at the single-judge bench of Justice Sougata Bhattacharya this morning.

After the first round of hearing earlier in the day, the bench asked the state government to clarify its stand in the matter by the second half. As the state government suggested an alternative venue for the event, the second round of hearings in the matter started.

Finally, Justice Bhattacharya's bench permitted the Mamata Banerjee-led faction to conduct the rally on July 21 in front of Birla Planetarium, also in central Kolkata.

The bench, at the same time, imposed several restrictions on the rally at the alternative venue.

The first condition is to limit the number of participants in the rally, which the court clearly said should not exceed 2,500. At the same time, the gathering will be restricted to one of the two lanes in front of Birla Planetarium, keeping the other lane free for vehicular movement.

Justice Bhattacharya's bench also fixed the rally timing and duration from noon to 3 p.m.

The state government counsel initially argued and pleaded with the court to restrict the number of participants to 500, considering that there were a number of schools and hospitals near the Birla Planetarium.

The petitioner's counsel and four-time Trinamool Congress Lok Sabha member, Kalyan Banerjee, accused the state government of picking issues and excuses to deny permission for the rally.

He also requested the court to allow a maximum number of participants at 5,000.

BKTC treasurer transferred amid Badrinath temple embezzlement row

CHAMOLI

Shri Badrinath-Kedarnath Temple Committee's (BKTC) Chief Executive Officer Sohan Singh Rangad on Wednesday said that the temple body's treasurer has been transferred amid alleged irregularities in the management of donations at the Badrinath Temple in Uttarakhand's Chamoli district.

An investigation team had given us a report regarding certain things that were kept in the double-lock, specifically materials made of silver. There was a discrepancy between that material and the entry in the register — the amount recorded in the register was less, while the actual material found at the site was more. So, it is quite possible that this was a human error, especially because the quantity of the material was larger. Had it been less than what was recorded, I would have said that some of it had been taken out, he said.

However, Rangad said that since the metals and ornaments recovered from the holy site were more than the entry made in the register, it may have been overwritten.

Supreme Court questions Patna High Court ruling on attempt to rape

PATNA

The Supreme Court expressed serious concern over a recent Patna High Court ruling that held that attempting to remove a woman's sarwar and allegedly molesting her by touching her inappropriately did not amount to an attempt to rape.

A Bench comprising Justice Surya Kant, Justice Joymalya Bagchi, and Justice V. Mohan heard the matter and indicated that it would issue a detailed order addressing the observations made by the Patna High Court.

The issue surfaced during the hearing of a suo motu case initiated by the Supreme Court following a controversial judgment of the Allahabad High Court.

In that matter, the apex court had already directed the National Judicial Academy to frame guidelines aimed at improving judicial sensitivity while dealing with cases involving sexual offences.

During the proceedings, Senior Advocate Shobha Gupta brought the Patna High Court's order to the Bench's attention.

She argued that despite the Supreme Court having set aside the Allahabad High Court's controversial ruling, the Patna High Court had made similar observations in a case involving comparable facts.

Describing the development as unfortunate, Gupta said such orders continued to emerge even after the Supreme Court had clearly laid down its position.

Senior Advocate H.S. Phoolka also supported the submission. Responding to the concerns, Justice Surya Kant observed that such rulings often stem from inadequate legal research and insufficient study of the law.

He stated that the Supreme Court would make detailed observations on the Patna High Court's decision in its forthcoming order.

The Patna High Court case originated from Banka district's Amarpur police station area.

According to the prosecution, the victim had accompanied her father to a photography studio owned by a man identified as Himanshu. The complaint alleges that the accused asked the victim's father to wait outside before taking the young woman into a room and locking the door.

HC seeks Bengal DGP's report on number of cases

KOLKATA

A single-judge bench of the Calcutta High Court sought a detailed report from the office of the Director General of West Bengal Police on the number of cases and FIRs registered against the Trinamool Congress general secretary and the party's Lok Sabha member, Abhishek Banerjee, in different police stations in the state.

The counsel for Abhishek Banerjee approached the High Court's single-judge bench of Justice Sougata Bhattacharya, seeking clarity on the exact number of cases and FIRs registered against him at different police stations. After a preliminary hearing on the matter in the afternoon, Justice Bhattacharya sought a detailed report from the office of the DGP.

While submitting the petition seeking clarity on the exact number of cases and FIRs registered against him, the counsel for Abhishek Banerjee also argued that since his client was a political person, so many cases had been filed against him out of sheer vendetta.

We are aware that, so far, a total of eight FIRs have been registered against my client.

However, I am not aware of the total number of cases going on against him. So, we want clarity in the matter. After the detailed police report, we will place our next line of arguments in the matter, submitted Banerjee's counsel to the court.

In his counterargument, the state government counsel said there was no question of political vendetta since all the cases against the Diamond Harbour MP were based on specific complaints registered against him.

Jammu and Kashmir's ruling National Conference remains committed to demanding restoration of statehood through its planned Delhi protest ence president Dr. Farooq Abdullah instructed party leaders to proceed with a previously planned programme in Jammu on July 12.

Omar Abdullah said that if the party had not cancelled its earlier political programme under those circumstances, there was no reason to withdraw or postpone the planned protest in New Delhi.

He also confirmed that party legislators and leaders have been instructed to leave for the national capital on July 19, a day before the scheduled demonstration. According to the Chief Minister, preparations will continue irrespective of whether formal permission for the protest is granted by the authorities.

We know how to remain patient.

We will wait, but we will also keep our alternate plan ready, Abdullah said, indicating that the party was prepared to explore other options if permission for the gathering at Jantar Mantar was denied.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi highlighted the significance of Bharat Tex 2026, describing it as a major platform that brings together India's complete textile value chain under one roof while reflecting the country's Vision 2030 roadmap for the textile sector. The Prime Minister said the event showcases India's manufacturing capabilities, rich textile traditions, and expanding presence in the global textile industry. Sharing an article on social media written by Union Minister of State for Textiles Pabitra Margherita, Prime Minister Modi underlined the importance of Bharat Tex as a symbol of India's growing leadership in textiles and apparel. The event is being held at Bharat Mandapam in New Delhi from July 14 to July 17, bringing together industry leaders, manufacturers, buyers, exporters, designers, and policymakers from India and abroad.

In his article, Margherita described India's textile heritage as a reflection of the country's extraordinary cultural and geographical diversity. He referred to products such as the delicate Kashmiri Pashmina, the distinctive Assam Muga silk, the colourful Rajasthani Bandhani, and the elegant Kanjeevaram silk, stating that these traditions together represent a living map of India's craftsmanship and cultural identity.

According to the minister, Bharat Tex 2026 provides a unified platform where this diversity is showcased before a global audience. He said the exhibition demonstrates not only India's traditional strengths but also its growing capabilities in modern textile manufacturing and innovation.

Margherita described Bharat Tex as India's flagship global textile trade fair, designed to display the country's manufacturing excellence and creative leadership on an international stage. The event serves as a comprehensive marketplace that hosts domestic manufacturers.

Puri completes final preparations for grand Jagannath Rath Yatra

Puri readies for the annual Rath Yatra as millions of devotees gather for the sacred nine-day chariot festival

PURI
The holy city of Puri in Odisha has completed the final phase of preparations for the world-renowned Jagannath Rath Yatra, one of India's largest and most significant religious festivals. The grand annual event will commence on Thursday, July 16, when Lord Jagannath, his elder brother Lord Balabhadra, and sister Devi Subhadra will begin their traditional nine-day journey from the 12th-century Jagannath Temple to the Gundicha Temple.
As part of the final preparations, the three majestic chariots of the deities were ceremonially moved on Wednesday from the traditional construction site, known as the Ratha Khala, to a position near the Lion's Gate of the Jagannath Temple. The ritual marks an important milestone before the commencement of the annual procession and signals that all arrangements for the festival are nearly complete.

Lakhs of devotees from across India and abroad have already arrived in Puri to witness the centuries-old tradition. During the procession, worshippers will pull the three elaborately decorated wooden chariots—Nandighosh for Lord Jagannath, Taladhawaja for Lord Balabhadra, and Darpadalan for Devi Subhadra—over a distance of approximately three kilometres to the Gundicha Temple amid devotional chants and religious celebrations.
According to Hindu beliefs, the Gundicha Temple is regarded as the birthplace of the Chaturddha Murti, comprising Lord Jagannath, Lord Balabhadra, Devi Subhadra, and Sudarshan. The annual journey symbolizes the deities' visit to their birthplace and is considered one of the most sacred occasions in the Jagannath tradition.

The Odisha government has made extensive arrangements to ensure the smooth conduct of the festival.
Multiple departments, including the district administration, police, health services, transport authorities, and emergency response teams, have coordinated efforts to manage the expected influx of pilgrims and maintain law and order throughout the celebrations.
Chief Administrator of the Shree Jagannath Temple Administration (SJTA), Arabinda Kumar Padhee, said all preparations for the Rath Yatra have entered their final stage. He expressed confidence that the elaborate planning undertaken by the temple administration and government agencies would ensure the successful and peaceful conduct of the event.

UP minister seeks SIT probe into temple donation claims

LUCKNOW
A political dispute over alleged irregularities involving donations at Ayodhya's Ram Temple intensified on Wednesday after Uttar Pradesh Minister Dharampal Singh questioned how Samajwadi Party president Akhilesh Yadav first became aware of the allegations. The minister called for a Special Investigation Team (SIT) inquiry not only into the alleged embezzlement but also into the source of the information cited by the opposition leader.
The controversy began after Akhilesh Yadav, on June 7, became one of the first senior political leaders to publicly raise allegations regarding the alleged misuse of donations made by devotees at the Ram Temple. In a post on social media, he demanded a judicial investigation into the matter and called for transparency in handling temple funds.
Political confrontation intensifies as Uttar Pradesh leaders clash over allegations involving donations at Ayodhya's Ram Temple
The issue resurfaced after Yadav accused the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) government in Uttar Pradesh of attempting to divert public attention from the allegations. In a strongly worded post, he claimed that the ruling party was engaging in childish antics instead of addressing concerns related to the alleged misuse of donations.
Yadav alleged that the controversy surrounding temple offerings had exposed what he described as serious shortcomings within the BJP. He accused the party of attempting to shift public focus away from the allegations and asserted that such actions were increasing public dissatisfaction with the ruling party.

Cabinet approves railway expansion projects worth Rs 3,907 crore

NEW DELHI
The Cabinet Committee on Economic Affairs (CCEA), chaired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, on Wednesday approved two multi-tracking railway projects with a total investment of Rs 3,907 crore. The projects will cover four districts across Odisha and Jharkhand and are expected to expand the Indian Railways network by approximately 145 kilometres, strengthening transport infrastructure and improving operational efficiency.

UK trade pact takes effect, promising tariff cuts & services boost

London
India and Britain's comprehensive trade pact took effect on Wednesday, cutting tariffs on thousands of goods and widening access for services firms and professionals in both markets. The India-UK Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement gives Indian exporters immediate duty-free access to most British tariff lines, benefiting labour-intensive sectors such as textiles, leather, footwear, marine products, gems and jewellery, and processed foods. Britain gains wider access to one of the world's fastest-growing major economies, with phased tariff cuts and quotas for sectors such as automobiles, and openings in procurement, financial services, education, insurance and professional services.

Info. from NATO member states shows Russia attempted sabotage

VILNIUS
Information from NATO member nations, including Lithuania and Latvia, shows that Russia has made various attempts to conduct sabotage, Latvian president Edgars Rinkevics said on Wednesday. Information we are getting from Lithuanian, Latvian and other NATO states, from various agencies there, shows various attempts to do sabotage and to lower the security in our states, Rinkevics said at a press conference with his Lithuanian counterpart Gitanas Nauseda in Vilnius. Lithuania has intelligence that Russia is planning attacks on infrastructure, and the Baltic nation will tighten security around energy and transport sites as a precaution, Nauseda said in an interview published earlier on Wednesday.

EU seals deal for drone production with Ukraine

KYIV
Ukraine and the European Union have sealed a drone deal to combine Kyiv's expertise with European industrial capacity to establish joint projects and scale up production, European Commission Ursula von der Leyen said on Wednesday. We need to combine our strengths, von der Leyen said in a speech in Kyiv at a ceremony to mark the country's Statehood Day. This deal will bring together Ukrainian ingenuity and Europe's industrial scale. Ukraine has signed a series of such deals with individual countries. At last week's NATO summit in Akara, President Volodymyr Zelenskiy signed three more, saying that brought the total to nine. But Wednesday's deal is the first agreement intended to cover countries and companies across the European Union.

US strikes boost

WASHINGTON
The United States launched a fresh wave of military strikes against Iran on Wednesday, marking another major escalation in the ongoing conflict between the two countries. The latest attacks came after Washington reimposed a naval blockade on Iranian ports, while Tehran responded by threatening to disrupt additional regional energy export routes, raising fresh concerns over global oil supplies and regional stability. According to the U.S. military, forces under the U.S.

Zelenskiy Cabinet Reshuffle Raises Questions Over Minister

Ukraine braces for leadership changes as uncertainty surrounds Defence Minister Mykhailo Fedorov amid critical wartime reforms

KYIV

Ukraine is preparing for another major political transition as President Volodymyr Zelenskiy moves ahead with plans for a fresh cabinet reshuffle, creating uncertainty over the future of Defence Minister Mykhailo Fedorov. The 35-year-old technology specialist, who took charge of the defence portfolio only six months ago, has become a central figure in efforts to modernize Ukraine's military while the country continues to defend itself against Russia's ongoing invasion. Fedorov has earned recognition for introducing innovative approaches aimed at making Ukraine's armed forces more efficient despite limited manpower and growing battlefield challenges. His leadership has focused on accelerating technological adoption, improving military coordination, and reducing bureaucratic delays that have often slowed decision-making within the defence establishment. Maria Berlinska, a well-known volunteer and advocate for drone warfare, publicly praised Fedorov's leadership style, describing him as a thoughtful and mature leader capable of finding unconventional solutions to complex military problems. She recalled her first meeting with him after his appointment and said his strategic thinking and ability to overcome bureaucratic barriers had distinguished him in every position he has held. According to Berlinska, these qualities have played an important role in advancing reforms during a difficult period for the country. Despite the praise from supporters, Fedorov's future remains uncertain as Zelenskiy begins his second cabinet reshuffle within a year. The president has not confirmed whether he intends to retain the defence minister, leaving lawmakers and political observers awaiting Thursday's parliamentary vote. Under Ukraine's constitutional framework, the president nominates the defence and foreign ministers, but both appointments require parliamentary approval before taking effect. Even if Zelenskiy nominates Fedorov again, several lawmakers have suggested that parliamentary approval cannot be taken for granted. Reports indicate that concerns exist across multiple political groups, creating uncertainty about whether he can secure sufficient support to remain in office.

EU Expands Humanitarian Support

EUROPEAN UNION

The European Union has announced an additional €20 million in humanitarian assistance to support Venezuela's recovery efforts following the devastating earthquakes that struck the country last month. The latest funding package is intended to strengthen emergency response operations, provide essential medical supplies, and enhance search-and-rescue capabilities as authorities continue to deal with the aftermath of one of the country's deadliest natural disasters in recent years. According to the European Union, the newly announced financial assistance will help deliver urgently needed medical equipment, support healthcare services training injured survi-

The latest commitment comes in addition to the €5 million emergency aid package approved by the European Union in June.

“Briton jailed in Iran given additional two-year sentence”

LONDON

The family of British couple Craig and Lindsay Foreman, who are serving a 10-year prison sentence in Iran on espionage charges that they deny, said on Wednesday that a judge had extended Craig Foreman's sentence by two years for speaking to the media. The couple were arrested in 2025 while travelling through Iran by motorcycle as part of a round-the-world journey. Britain has described their original sentences as totally unjustifiable. Joe Bennett, Lindsay Foreman's son and the family's spokesperson, said they had received reports that Craig Foreman had been taken before a judge and informed that his sentence had been extended because he had spoken to the media.

Congo forms new council in push for war crimes justice

BUNIA

Democratic Republic of Congo has formed a new advisory council that includes senior war crimes lawyers from the United States and Europe to support its push for accountability for atrocities committed in the country's conflict-ridden east. The move comes as Congo's government pursues an increasingly ambitious campaign for international justice in connection with the fighting, a decades-old struggle involving dozens of armed groups and competition for mineral resources, in which millions are estimated to have died. The conflict in eastern Congo is rooted in the fallout from neighbouring Rwanda's 1994 genocide. After the genocide, many perpetrators fled into eastern Congo, helping fuel cycles of violence that have persisted for decades. Last month, Kinshasa filed a case at the International Court of Justice accusing Rwanda of breaching international conventions on genocide, racial discrimination and torture. At the U.N. General Assembly last year, President Felix Tshisekedi called for recognition of what he described as a silent genocide in Congo and urged the creation of an international commission of inquiry to help break a cycle of impunity. Fighting in eastern Congo intensified last year when the AFC/M23 rebel group, which the United Nations and Western governments say is backed by Rwanda, seized large swathes of eastern Congo. Kigali denies backing the rebels. The new advisory council, known as the Council for the Examination of Atrocities in the DRC, will advise two Congolese state institutions as they seek recognition of crimes and push for reparations for victims.

Violence in Gaza intensifies as ceasefire negotiations struggle to advance despite ongoing international mediation efforts and diplomacy

Israeli airstrike kills family amid stalled Gaza ceasefire talks

CAIRO

An Israeli airstrike killed a Palestinian man, his wife, and their six-year-old daughter in the central Gaza Strip on Wednesday, as efforts to advance a United States-brokered ceasefire agreement between Israel and Hamas continued to face significant obstacles. The latest attack underscores the fragile security situation in Gaza, where violence has persisted despite a ceasefire that formally ended large-scale hostilities last October. According to Palestinian health officials, the strike hit an apartment building in Deir Al-Balah, killing Omar Abu Qassem, his wife Asma, and their young daughter Habeeba. Medical personnel said the couple's son survived the attack but sustained injuries and was taken for treatment. The incident has added to growing concerns about the humanitarian impact of continuing military operations across the territory. The Israeli military stated that the strike targeted a Hamas militant but did not immediately provide further details regarding the operation or comment on the civilian casualties reported by Palestinian authorities. In a separate incident on Wednesday, medics said another Israeli airstrike in the Sheikh Radwan neighborhood of Gaza City killed one person. The Israeli military did not immediately issue a statement regarding that strike. Palestinian health officials say that more than 1,100 Palestinians, the majority of them civilians, have been killed in Israeli military attacks since the October ceasefire came into effect. Hamas has generally not released detailed information regarding the number of its fighters killed during this period, making independent verification of combatant casualties difficult. Although the ceasefire halted the large-scale fighting that had devastated Gaza, Israeli military operations have continued almost daily. Israeli authorities maintain that these strikes target militants and infrastructure associated with Hamas and other armed groups. During the same period, four Israeli soldiers have reportedly been killed in attacks carried out by militants operating in Gaza.

Brazil's Lula gains ground on Flavio Bolsonaro

SAO PAULO

Brazilian President Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva has widened his lead over right-wing Senator Flavio Bolsonaro ahead of the country's presidential election scheduled for October, according to a new Quaest opinion poll commissioned by brokerage firm Genial. The survey indicates that Lula has increased his advantage despite recent political controversies and growing debate over Brazil's economic and diplomatic challenges. The latest poll is the first conducted by Quaest following a series of significant political developments, including a corruption investigation involving a senior political ally of President Lula and public discussions surrounding accountability for potential new United States tariff measures affecting Brazilian exports. Despite these issues, the survey suggests that voter support for the incumbent president has remained resilient. In a simulated second-round runoff, Lula received 45 percent of voter support, compared with 37 percent for Senator Flavio Bolsonaro, who has emerged as the leading opposition contender. The results represent a slight improvement for Lula compared with the previous Quaest survey conducted in June, which showed him leading Bolsonaro by 44 percent to 38 percent. The poll also measured voter preferences in a first-round election scenario involving several candidates. According to the survey, Lula would secure 40 percent of the vote, while Flavio Bolsonaro would receive 28 percent.

BLACK SEA FIGHTING INTENSIFIES AS RUSSIA AND UKRAINE ESCALATE

ODESA

Russia and Ukraine intensified their military confrontation in the Black Sea on Wednesday, with both sides launching major attacks targeting ports, shipping routes, and strategic infrastructure. The latest escalation highlights the growing importance of maritime operations in the conflict, as each side attempts to disrupt the other's military logistics and economic lifelines. Ukrainian authorities said a large-scale Russian drone and missile assault on the southern Odesa region entered its fifth consecutive day. According to Odesa Regional Governor Oleh Kiper, the attacks targeted civilian areas as well as industrial facilities and critical port infrastructure that play a vital role in Ukraine's wartime economy. Officials reported that three people were killed and at least three others were injured after a Russian missile struck a seven-storey residential building in the city of Odesa. Emergency responders were deployed to search the damaged structure and assist survivors as rescue operations continued. Ukrainian authorities condemned the attack, describing it as another strike on civilian infrastructure. Russia has significantly increased attacks on Ukraine's deepwater Black Sea ports in recent days. Facilities in the Greater Odesa region are particularly important because they handle a substantial share of Ukraine's grain exports and other cargo, making them essential to the country's economy during the war. Continued attacks on these ports have raised concerns about the security of commercial shipping and the stability of global agricultural supply chains.

Spain outclass France to storm into FIFA World Cup 2026 final Disciplined Spain subdue France's star attack to book deserved World Cup final berth.

ARLINGTON

Spain produced a clinical display to defeat France 2-0 in the first semi-final of the FIFA World Cup 2026, booking their place in the title clash and moving within one victory of lifting their second World Cup crown.

The European champions neutralised France's star-studded attack with a disciplined defensive performance before goals from Mikel Oyarzabal and Pedro Porro sealed a memorable win at the AT&T Stadium in Arlington.

Spain broke the deadlock midway through the first half after referee Ivan Barton awarded a penalty when French left-back Lucas Digne brought down teenage winger Lamine Yamal inside the box. Oyarzabal calmly converted the spot-kick, registering his fifth goal of the tournament and handing France their first deficit of the World Cup.

France suffered another setback moments later when central defender William Saliba was forced off with a recurrence of a lower-back injury, disrupting Didier Deschamps' defensive plans.

Spain continued to dominate possession and created several opportunities with their trademark quick passing. France, despite boasting attacking stars such as Kylian Mbappe, Ousmane Dembele and Michael Olise, failed to register a shot on target in the opening half.

Road to the final

Spain's march to the World Cup final has been built on balance rather than brilliance alone. While teenage winger Lamine Yamal has dazzled with his creativity, the team's greatest strength has been its defensive organisation. Spain have conceded just one goal throughout the tournament, successfully containing some of the world's best attacking sides. Head coach Luis de la Fuente has blended experienced campaigners with emerging talent, creating a side capable of controlling possession while remaining ruthless in front of goal. Victory over France underlined Spain's credentials as deserving finalists and serious favourites to lift the trophy for the second time.

Deschamps attempted to revive his side by introducing Desire Doue early in the second half, but Spain doubled their advantage almost immediately.

Pedro Porro finished off a superb move involving Dani Olmo, collecting a return pass before calmly beating goalkeeper Mike Maignan to put the result beyond doubt.

France threw on Theo Hernandez and Rayan Cherki in search of a comeback, but Spain's well-organised defence held firm to preserve

ICC approves revamped formats for ODI and T20 World Cups

DUBAI

The International Cricket Council (ICC) has approved a new competition format for its marquee events, introducing significant changes to the Men's Cricket World Cup and Men's T20 World Cup in an effort to create more meaningful contests and enhance the tournament experience.

The decision was ratified by the ICC Board following recommendations from the Chief Executives' Committee, which includes representatives from both Full Member and Associate Member nations.

A key feature of the revamped structure is the introduction of a new 'Super Series' round before the traditional group stage. This will be followed by a 'Super 7' phase, where seven teams will compete for places in the semi-finals.

According to the ICC, the revised format has been designed to improve competitive balance, increase the quality of matches and provide greater opportunities for emerging cricketing nations.

The 2027 ICC Men's Cricket World Cup, to be jointly hosted by South Africa, Zimbabwe and Namibia, will continue to feature 14 teams but will now be played under a new three-stage format culminating in the knockout rounds.

Similarly, the 2028 ICC Men's T20 World Cup, to be co-hosted by Australia and New Zealand, will retain its 20-team field while adopting a revised structure aimed at increasing the number of teams progressing to the second phase.

The new format is expected to strengthen competition by ensuring more teams remain in contention for longer periods while reducing the number of inconsequential matches.

ICC officials said the changes reflect the governing body's commitment to growing the global game and making

New tournament structure promises tougher competition, greater excitement and expanded opportunities for emerging teams.

A new era for ICC tournaments

The ICC believes the revised formats will deliver more high-quality contests while giving emerging nations a better chance to compete against established teams in the latter stages of global events. By introducing the Super Series and Super 7 phases, the governing body aims to maintain competitive intensity throughout the tournaments, reduce dead rubbers and create a more rewarding experience for players, broadcasters and fans.

ing major tournaments more engaging for players, broadcasters and fans alike. The revised system is also expected to offer greater exposure to Associate nations by expanding representation in the latter stages of the T20 World Cup.

Asunta Lakra seeks NCW intervention over Hockey India harassment complaints

NEW DELHI

Former India women's hockey captain Asunta Lakra has sought the intervention of the National Commission for Women (NCW), alleging serious lapses in the handling of sexual harassment complaints within Hockey India and its affiliated bodies.

In a letter addressed to the NCW, Lakra urged the commission to conduct an independent inquiry into what she described as "institutional failure" in addressing complaints of sexual harassment, intimidation and abuse of authority.

Lakra requested the commission to examine whether there had been deliberate inaction, suppression of complaints or protection extended to individuals holding positions of authority despite allegations being brought to the attention of officials.

The controversy stems from Lakra's allegations against Hockey India Secretary General Bholanath Singh, whom she accused of threatening and intimidating her after she raised concerns over alleged misconduct by Jharkhand coach Sudhir Gola towards women players at the Eklavya Hockey Academy in Ranchi.

Earlier, Lakra had written to the Union Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports seeking immediate intervention. Acting on the complaint, the ministry directed Hockey India to investigate the allegations and submit a report.

In her communication to the NCW, Lakra also called for an independent inquiry into the allegations against Sudhir Gola and the manner in which complaints were handled by Hockey India and Hockey Jharkhand officials. She further alleged that several complainants belonged to Scheduled Tribe communities and had reported caste-based humiliation and derogatory remarks.

Lakra appealed for an investigation into the role of Hockey India and Hockey Jharkhand officials to determine whether their actions or omissions contributed to the intimidation of complainants or the failure to provide adequate protection to women athletes.

Stressing the need for accountability, she urged the NCW to ensure a safe, secure and dignified environment for female sportspersons across the country.

The case has intensified scrutiny of Hockey India's internal grievance mechanisms, with both the Sports Ministry and the NCW now expected to examine the allegations and the processes followed in addressing complaints.

Mbappe rues France's World Cup exit after Spain outclass Les Bleus

ARLINGTON

France captain Kylian Mbappe described his team's World Cup semi-final defeat to Spain as an "immense disappointment", admitting tactical and technical shortcomings ended Les Bleus' hopes of reaching a third successive FIFA World Cup final.

Mbappe, who scored eight goals during an outstanding tournament, acknowledged that France failed to execute their game plan against the European champions. "I don't think we played the match we wanted to play—tactically, technically or in terms of our over-

Spain's midfield made the difference

France captain Kylian Mbappe admitted Spain's superiority in midfield proved decisive in the semi-final. He said Les Bleus failed to execute their high-press strategy and were repeatedly outnumbered in central areas, allowing Spain to control possession and dictate the game's tempo on their way to a deserved 2-0 victory.

all performance," the Real Madrid forward said. France had planned to press Spain high up the pitch and prevent them from dictating possession, but Mbappe admitted the strategy failed.

He pointed to Spain's midfield dominance, with Rodri, Dani Olmo and Fabian Ruiz consistently outnumbering Adrien Rabiot and Aurelien Tchouameni. "When you are outnumbered against Spain in midfield, it becomes a real problem," Mbappe said. Despite the setback, the French skipper urged his teammates to learn from the defeat and return stronger.

"We have to hold our heads high, learn from this failure and move on. Football waits for no one," he said.

Belgian midfielder strengthens United's squad as club continues ambitious summer rebuilding ahead successfully.

Manchester United sign Youri Tielemans from Aston Villa

LONDON

Manchester United have completed the signing of Belgian international Youri Tielemans from Aston Villa for a reported fee of £35 million, bolstering their midfield ahead of the new Premier League season.

The 29-year-old has signed a five-year contract at Old Trafford after returning from the FIFA World Cup, where he captained Belgium to the quarter-finals before injury ruled him out of the defeat to Spain.

Tielemans becomes United's third signing of the summer transfer window following the arrivals of Brazilian midfielder Andrey Santos from Chelsea and veteran goalkeeper Karl Darlow from Leeds United. Expressing his delight after completing the move, Tielemans described joining Manchester United as a dream come true.

"It is hard to describe just how proud I am to join Manchester United. Signing for such a special club is the culmination of years of dedication. My ambition is to help the club compete for the biggest trophies," he said.

United's Director of Football Jason Wilcox hailed the Belgian as one of the Premier League's finest midfielders in recent seasons.

"He possesses outstanding technical ability, ambition and the mentality needed to succeed at Manchester United," Wilcox said.

Tielemans joined Aston Villa on a free transfer from Leicester City in 2023 and quickly established himself as a key figure under manager Unai Emery. He helped Villa qualify for the UEFA Champions League and played an influential role in the club's UEFA Europa League triumph last season.

Sayali stuns Manika as UP Prometheans edge Ahmedabad in UTT thriller

PANAJI

Twenty-year-old Sayali Wani produced one of the biggest upsets of Ultimate Table Tennis (UTT) Season 7 by defeating India's top-ranked woman paddler Manika Batra to guide UP Prometheans to a thrilling 8-7 victory over Ahmedabad APL Pipers.

With the tie evenly poised at 6-6, Sayali displayed remarkable composure to beat World No. 51 Manika, despite being ranked World No. 151, clinching the deciding match 2-1.

The victory gave UP Prometheans their maiden win over Ahmedabad in the league at the Shyama Prasad Mukherjee Indoor Stadium.

Sayali's triumph was all the more remarkable as she saved three match points in the deciding game before completing a memorable comeback. The defeat also marked Manika's third successive loss in the tournament.

Ahmedabad had looked firmly in control after winning the opening two matches. Payas Jain defeated Sudhanshu Grover 2-1 before Sofia Polcanova overcame Yangzi Liu by the same margin, giving Ahmedabad a 4-2 advantage. However, the momentum shifted dramatically in the mixed doubles.

China deploys electric taxis against oil shocks

BEIJING

China is successfully shielding its economy from global oil shocks by rapidly expanding its electric taxi fleet. As the ongoing Iran war drives gasoline prices higher, more citizens are ditching their personal cars for affordable rideshares. Fares are actually dropping because millions of out-of-work drivers are flooding the market using cheap electric vehicles. Currently, half of the nation's taxis are electric, reaching nearly 100% in major cities. This massive green shift slashed China's recent gasoline use by 10%. By burning less fuel, the country is reducing its reliance on foreign oil imports during global crises.

Apple intelligence wins Chinese regulatory approval

China's cyberspace regulator has approved Apple's new generative AI service, "Apple Intelligence," for local iPhones. To comply with local laws and enhance user experience, Apple is partnering with Chinese tech giants Baidu and Alibaba. Alibaba confirmed its Qwen AI model will power features across Chinese iPhones, iPads, and Macs. While the official launch date remains unannounced, this regulatory milestone is a massive win for Apple. The tech giant recently saw a huge rise in Chinese phone shipments and wants to keep this momentum going by offering localized, cutting-edge AI features to its massive user base.

Intel adopts advanced tool for laptop chips

SAN FRANCISCO

Intel has started using a pricey new machine from ASML to build its newest laptop chips, called Panther Lake. This advanced tool uses special light to print microscopic circuits on silicon. While the machine is very expensive and hard to run, Intel is testing it on specific chip layers. This trial helps both firms learn how to make the system work better. Currently, Intel builds most of these chips with standard tools at its Oregon plant. This move marks a major step forward as the tech giant races to make smaller, faster computer processors for tomorrow.

Patanjali stock plunges 20% before mild recovery

Patanjali Foods shares crashed 20% to a six-year low of ₹328.20, sparking widespread panic among market investors.

MUMBAI

Investors of Patanjali Foods faced a massive shock as the company's stock prices crashed by 20 percent. This sudden drop pushed the shares down to their lowest value in over six years, creating a wave of panic across the Indian stock market.

The company's stock plunged to a worrying low of Rs 328.20 on the National Stock Exchange (NSE). This marks the lowest point the company has seen since April 2020. The crash means the stock value has now split nearly in half compared to its highest peak in July last year. Even though the shares managed to recover slightly later in the afternoon, they were still trading around 16 percent lower at about Rs 345 per share.

As the market panicked, Patanjali Foods quickly stepped forward to calm the public. The company released an official statement to the stock exchanges, assuring everyone that their business is running perfectly normally. They stated that there are no hidden bad news, secret events, or financial troubles that could explain why the stock suddenly lost its value. The management emphasized that they remain fully focused on their growth plans and are running their daily operations just like any other day.

Despite these reassuring words from the management, the numbers show that the popular consumer goods giant is facing heavy pressure. Patanjali Foods, which was earlier known as Ruchi Soya Industries, is one of India's biggest names in the edible oil and daily household products market. However, this latest market crash adds to a very tough year for the brand. Over the past month alone, the stock has dropped by nearly 19 percent. When looking at the bigger picture, the company's shares have lost a whopping 37 percent of their total value since the start of this year. Experts are watching closely to see if the brand can bounce back from this historic low.

India, Australia finalize uranium trade framework

NEW DELHI

India's ambitious push for clean and sustainable energy has received a massive boost following a landmark uranium supply agreement with Australia. The newly finalized administrative arrangement, settled during Prime Minister Narendra Modi's recent state visit, grants India direct access to the world's largest known reserves of uranium, successfully clearing a long-standing hurdle for the nation's expanding nuclear power sector.

For years, the highly anticipated energy deal was delayed due to strict international concerns regarding nuclear safety safeguards. However, this historic breakthrough finally ensures a dependable, long-term fuel supply for India's growing fleet of monitored nuclear reactors. Experts in international nuclear energy view the partnership as a turning point, noting that the steady flow of Australian uranium will allow India to rapidly scale up its electricity generation under global safety guidelines to meet soaring commercial demand.

Beyond securing clean power, the successful summit between PM Modi and Australian Prime Minister Anthony Albanese significantly strengthened strategic and defense relations across the critical Indo-Pacific region. During the high-level talks, both leaders also addressed modern regional security challenges. Foreign Secretary Vikram Misri shared that the two prime ministers explicitly voiced mutual concerns regarding China's recent testing of an intercontinental ballistic missile within the Pacific Ocean.

Smart reskilling sparks AI growth in India

NEW DELHI

Instead of hunting for new employees, Global Capability Centres in India are turning inwards. A new report reveals that these hubs are now retraining their current workers with similar tech backgrounds to fill crucial artificial intelligence roles.

According to reports, hiring demand is booming for mid-career professionals with four to twelve years of experience. To beat a massive 40 percent talent shortage in the AI market, companies are building internal career bridges. For example, standard backend developers are being trained to become applied AI engineers, while data scientists are successfully shifting into machine learning operations.

This smart strategy helped overall tech hiring grow by about 6 percent last quarter. AI and data analytics emerged as the absolute fastest-growing fields, making up nearly 17 percent of all new job demands. Rather than searching for rare outside experts, organizations are finding that upgrading the skills of their existing cloud, cybersecurity, and automation engineers is a much faster way to build digital strength.

IBM stumbles on AI shift, admits CEO

NEW YORK

IBM's stock took a painful nosedive, plunging 25 percent after chief executive Arvind Krishna admitted the company completely misjudged how fast clients are shifting their cash toward artificial intelligence.

In a surprisingly honest letter to investors, Krishna confessed that IBM "faltered" during the second quarter. The tech giant underestimated how aggressively businesses would hijack their own budgets to buy AI infrastructure, like specialized servers and memory chips. IBM expected a few minor supply chain hiccups, but the reality was far more brutal.

As customers scrambled to buy up hardware ahead of predicted price hikes, IBM's sales teams failed to adapt. Krishna noted that the sudden budget shifts, combined with global cybersecurity worries, distracted clients. This deadly mix caused several massive deals to fall through at the very last minute.

FICCI hails landmark zero-duty trade agreement

NEW DELHI

The highly anticipated Free Trade Agreement (FTA) between India and the United Kingdom officially went live. This landmark economic pact has received overwhelming praise from top Indian industrial bodies, who believe it will open historic new pathways for both goods and services while drastically lowering export costs.

The Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FICCI) warmly congratulated Prime Minister Narendra Modi on this historic achievement. FICCI Secretary General Anant Swarup stated that the new Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA) marks a major milestone for Indian businesses. He emphasized that the deal will spark greater cooperation in technology, encourage innovation, and improve talent mobility, which will ultimately make Indian industries far more competitive on the global stage.

Under the new terms of the pact, Indian exporters will enjoy zero-duty market access for nearly 99 percent of their products. This covers almost the entire total value of trade between the two nations, providing a massive boost for local manufacturers. FICCI President Anant Goenka added that this high-quality economic partnership perfectly supports the vision of a developed India, helping the nation secure deeper integration within international trade networks.

At the same time, India's premier IT industry body, Nasscom, enthusiastically welcomed the deal. Technology leaders highlighted that the agreement will unlock incredible new possibilities in digital trade, cross-border investments, and professional growth.

Tamil Nadu plans 20,000 EV charging stations by 2031

CHENNAI

In a massive push toward clean and green transportation, the Tamil Nadu government has announced an ambitious plan to set up 20,000 public electric vehicle (EV) charging stations across the state by 2031. This strategic roadmap aims to make green mobility highly accessible, build a robust support network, and attract significant private investments to the state's rapidly growing EV industry.

The detailed plan was finalized during high-level meetings held in Chennai over the last two days. Top government officials and green energy experts reviewed the state's current charging facilities and discussed practical solutions to expand the network. The first evaluation meeting was led by Chief Secretary Sai Kumar to map out the current hurdles and plan smooth, widespread coverage across both cities and villages.

Following this, a technical session was organized by the Chairman and Managing Director of the Tamil Nadu Power Distribution Corporation (TNPDC). Joined by representatives from the ITDP India and the Mentor Tamil Nadu initiatives, the team focused on building smart, policy-backed strategies to quickly roll out these public stations.

By committing to 20,000 public stations, the government aims to erase "range anxiety" and build strong consumer confidence to switch from petrol or diesel to electric vehicles. Officials highlighted that a well-connected charging network is key to encouraging people to adopt electric cars, two-wheelers, and commercial buses.

Importantly, the government is looking to share the financial load by offering highly supportive policies that invite private businesses to build and operate these charging stations. This collaborative approach will speed up the infrastructure development without draining public funds. Ultimately, this green initiative will significantly lower vehicular emissions, clean up urban air, and position Tamil Nadu as a top-tier national leader in eco-friendly transport.

Passenger vehicle sales jump 24.1% in June

NEW DELHI

India's automobile market is accelerating rapidly as a surge in demand drove up vehicle sales in June. The newest industry data shows a spectacular rise in both passenger cars and daily-use two-wheelers, cementing a strong, sustained recovery for the country's transportation sector.

According to the latest report, local passenger vehicle dispatches from factories to dealerships jumped by 24.1 percent year-on-year. In total, manufacturers shipped 388,144 cars and utility vehicles to showrooms, compared to 312,851 units during the same period last year. Within this booming segment, utility vehicles (UVs) remained the undisputed customer favorite, with sales climbing nearly 20 percent to hit 217,228 units. Standard passenger car sales also enjoyed a healthy double-digit bump of over 15 percent, reaching 98,610 units.

The story was equally exciting for two-wheelers, showcasing strong consumer confidence in suburban and rural markets. Manufacturers shipped over 1.85 million two-wheelers in June, marking an 18.6 percent leap from the previous year. Geared scooters stole the spotlight as the fastest-growing category under two-wheelers, with sales rocketing up by 39.1 percent. Meanwhile, three-wheelers, which are vital for last-mile connectivity and local deliveries, leaped by over 26 percent. Even eco-friendly electric rickshaws witnessed a dramatic 52.4 percent growth in sales.

NITI Aayog event promotes Northeast frontier innovation

GUWAHATI

India's Northeast is rapidly turning into the nation's newest innovation hub. Government policymakers, tech leaders, and investors gathered in Assam, calling for stronger partnerships to supercharge entrepreneurship across the eight distinct frontier states.

The historic meeting, organized by NITI Aayog's Atal Innovation Mission, brought together representatives from Arunachal Pradesh, Assam, Manipur, Meghalaya, Mizoram, Nagaland, Sikkim, and Tripura. Leaders highlighted the region's immense strategic importance, positioning it as India's vital gateway to booming Southeast Asian markets.

Officials explained that the area's rich biodiversity, massive bamboo resources, traditional crafts, and unique cultural heritage give it a massive advantage. When com-combined with modern technology, these local strengths can help drive the country's long-term economic goal of becoming a fully developed nation by 2047.

NITI Aayog member Dr. Joram Aniya reminded the audience of the Prime Minister's vision, which labels these eight unique states as "Ashta Lakshmi," or the eight forms of wealth capable of driving India's future. Mission Director Deepak Bagla added that the area's raw talent and natural resources will play a defining role in this journey.

Moving forward, the focus will be on upgrading traditional industries through smart eco-tourism and grassroots biotechnology. Experts also mapped out plans to build stronger business incubators. These facilities will mentor local startup founders, helping them transform simple creative ideas into commercial success stories that lift up community livelihoods.

Indian origin pharma patents jump 4%: Report

NEW DELHI

India is rapidly transforming from a simple maker of cheap generic medicines into a global powerhouse for scientific discovery, according to a new report. Over the past decade, the number of pharmaceutical patents coming out of India has jumped more than four-fold, showing that the country is now creating its own unique medical breakthroughs.

Studies reveal that Indian-origin drug patents climbed from just 716 in 2015 to a whopping 2,995 in 2024. Indian companies are actively running over 1,095 drug discovery programs, driven by a growing network of 2,400 biotech startups. This massive shift is backed by a surge in financial investments, with private funding into the country's drug sector doubling to $731 million in the last fiscal year.

Experts highlight that India's growth is not just about quantity, but true quality. Over the last ten years, Indian researchers have successfully created more than ten entirely new drug assets. This momentum is fueled by major factors, including $5 billion in government research funds, closer ties between universities and businesses, and smarter rules that cut drug approval times from nine months down to just two to four months.

The report highlights incredible local success stories, such as BIRSA 101, which is India's first home-grown gene-editing treatment. Another breakthrough is NexCAR19, an advanced cancer therapy developed in India that costs only a fraction of what patients pay for similar treatments abroad.

Industry leaders state that the next five years will be critical in deciding if India can turn these initial successes into a permanent global engine for medical discovery. By combining its famous cost-efficiency with highly skilled scientists and massive patient databases, the nation is uniquely positioned to design life-saving, affordable medicines for the entire world.

Tried hitting too hard in T20s, timing worked in ODIs:

Axar Patel

BIRMINGHAM

India all-rounder Axar Patel said he consciously shifted his approach from power-hitting to timing the ball during the first ODI against England, a move that helped him produce a match-winning all-round performance after a disappointing T20I series.

Axar was named Player of the Match after claiming four wickets in 9.5 overs and scoring a composed 57 off 52 balls, guiding India to a four-wicket victory with 28 balls to spare in the chase of 259. Captain Shubman Gill struck 80, while Washington Sundar contributed 52 in a well-paced chase.

Reflecting on his performance, Axar admitted he had tried to hit the ball too hard during the T20I series, where he managed only 19 runs as India suffered a 0-4 defeat.

"It was important for me to keep believing in myself and execute my plans. During the T20Is, I was trying to hit the ball too hard and was losing my shape," he said.

Axar explained that the ODI situation allowed him to build an innings instead of attacking from the outset.

"After the strong start, I wanted to build a partnership. I knew I had time, so I focused on timing rather than power. On this wicket, trusting the bounce was the key," he said.

The 32-year-old also described the Edgbaston surface as challenging for new batters, saying stroke-making became easier only after spending time at the crease.

"There was bounce, swing and seam movement. You couldn't come in and play attacking shots immediately. Once you settled in, scoring became much easier," he observed.

Axar also highlighted the positive impact of the return of senior players Rohit Sharma, Virat Kohli, Jasprit Bumrah and KL Rahul to the ODI side.

He said their experience creates confidence within the team, with every player clearly understanding their role. "We have played together for a long time. That familiarity, unity and confidence create a relaxed atmosphere. You can see it in the way everyone enjoys themselves on the field," Axar said.

India will look to seal the three-match series when they face England in the second ODI at Cardiff on Thursday.

CARDIFF

India will look to wrap up the three-match ODI series against England when the teams meet in the second match at Cardiff on Thursday, but concerns over captain Shubman Gill's fitness and Rohit Sharma's recent form continue to occupy the team management.

India took a 1-0 lead with a convincing six-wicket win in Birmingham, thanks to Gill's fluent 80, Axar Patel's all-round brilliance and valuable contributions from Washington Sundar. However, Gill's injury scare overshadowed the victory after he retired hurt while batting, apparently suffering from severe cramps.

The Indian camp will hope the problem is not serious, considering Gill's importance both as captain and opener. A similar incident during a Test against South Africa last year resulted in hospitalisation and forced him to miss the remainder of the series.

While Gill's fitness remains under observation, Rohit Sharma's batting continues to raise questions. Since relinquishing the captaincy, the veteran opener has adopted a more measured approach, but the change has yet to produce consistently impactful performances.

Since October 2025, Rohit has scored 563 runs in 13 ODIs at an average of 46.91, including one century and four half-centuries.

In contrast, Virat Kohli has been in outstanding form, amassing 621 runs in 10 matches at an impressive average of 77.62, with three centuries and three fifties.

India, however, will draw confidence from the successful return of pace spearhead Jasprit Bumrah, who played his first ODI since the 2023 World Cup final and looked sharp with the ball.

The resurgence of all-rounders Axar Patel and Washington Sundar has also strengthened the visitors' balance ahead of the crucial contest. England, meanwhile, will be desperate to keep the series alive after another disappointing batting display in Birmingham.

The hosts have suffered 13 defeats in their last 19 ODIs since the start of 2025 and need a much-improved effort from their top order. The match begins at

Rakshit Dahiya, Yogya Bhalla crowned champions at DGC junior golf tournament

Rakshit Dahiya and Yogya Bhalla emerged champions in the boys' and girls' sections respectively at the 16th edition of the Delhi Golf Club (DGC) Junior/Sub-Junior Golf Tournament, presented by Usha.

Held over three days at the Delhi Golf Club, the prestigious event attracted more than 162 young golfers aged between seven and 21 years, marking a significant increase in participation despite adverse weather conditions throughout the competition.

The tournament was played across the Lodhi and Peacock courses, with participants displaying remarkable resilience and skill in difficult playing conditions.

Rakshit not only clinched the boys' championship but also secured the Special A category title and won the Longest Drive award. Yogya enjoyed a similarly successful outing by lifting the girls' championship, winning the Category A title and sharing the Longest Drive honours.

Among the other special award winners, Vir Daulat Singh, Jyoti Mandal and Vansh Tyagi received the Straightest Drive awards for their precision off the tee. A memorable moment of the tournament came on the second day when Aftab Bakshi thrilled players and spectators alike by recording a hole-in-one on the seventh hole.

Organisers said this year's championship featured some of India's most promising young golfers, many of whom have already begun making their presence felt on the international circuit.

Why Kuldeep's exclusion is debated

Kuldeep Yadav is widely regarded as one of India's premier wicket-taking spinners, particularly during the middle overs in ODI cricket. Former players believe his ability to break partnerships and unsettle batters makes him an invaluable attacking option. However, India's current strategy under Gautam Gambhir has favoured all-rounders who strengthen the batting order while contributing with the ball.

Critics argue that although batting depth provides insurance, specialist bowlers like Kuldeep are often the difference in high-pressure matches by producing breakthroughs when the team needs them most.

Kuldeep Yadav's omission sparks criticism

BIRMINGHAM

India's decision to leave wrist-spinner Kuldeep Yadav out of the playing XI for the opening ODI against England has drawn criticism from former cricketers, who believe the team management's preference for batting depth could hurt its chances in the long run.

Despite India's six-wicket victory in Birmingham, former India assistant coach Abhishek Nayar questioned the exclusion of Kuldeep, arguing that taking wickets should remain the priority over extending the batting lineup.

The Indian team management opted for all-rounders Axar Patel and Washington Sundar as the spin options, with both offering depth in batting in addition to their bowling. Under head coach Gautam Gambhir, India have consistently preferred a longer batting order backed by versatile all-rounders.

Nayar said the approach was overly defensive. "You want batting depth, but not at the expense of taking wickets. You win games by picking up wickets. If your attack can't do that, it doesn't matter how much batting you have—you'll struggle," he said. Nayar praised Jasprit Bumrah and Prasidh Krishna as genuine wicket-taking bowlers, while describing debutant Gurnoor Brar as an unknown quantity at the international level.

He added that the remaining bowling options were more suited to containing runs than attacking batters. "For me, Kuldeep Yadav gives you that X-factor in the middle overs. He is someone who can change the course of a match by taking wickets," Nayar said. Former India wicketkeeper-batter Parthiv Patel echoed the sentiment, calling India's team selection a "defensive move" and agreeing that a specialist spinner like Kuldeep would have added greater attacking intent.

Kuldeep had also been left out of India's T20I squads for the series against Ireland and England, prompting criticism from fans who expected the selectors to return to specialist bowlers following disappointing results in the shortest format.

Although India's decision did not affect the outcome in Birmingham, where they comfortably chased down 259 to take a 1-0 lead in the three-match series, the debate over balancing batting depth with wicket-taking ability is likely to continue as the teams head into the second ODI at Cardiff on Thursday.

Uncertainty looms over India's coaching staff after England tour

Contracts nearing expiry leave India's support staff awaiting clarity over future roles and continuity.

MUMBAI

The future of three key members of India's men's cricket team's support staff remains uncertain, with their contracts due to expire after the ongoing limited-overs tour of England.

Assistant coach Ryan ten Doeschate, bowling coach Mome Morkel and fielding coach T. Dilip are all awaiting clarity from the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) as it reviews the team's coaching structure ahead of next year's ODI World Cup in South Africa.

Ten Doeschate and Morkel, who were personally chosen by head coach Gautam Gambhir when he took charge in July 2024, are understood to be undecided about extending their tenures.

Sources indicate that both coaches have expressed concerns over the demanding international schedule, which has kept them away from their families for extended periods. The hectic calendar has reportedly made it difficult to maintain a healthy work-life balance.

Apart from personal considerations, discussions have also centred on role clarity and the long-term roadmap for the support staff beyond the current cycle. The BCCI and Gambhir are believed to be assessing whether to persuade both coaches to remain with the team until the 2027 ODI World Cup. While no final decision has been taken, the matter is expected to be resolved soon after the England tour concludes.

Fielding coach T. Dilip finds himself in a different position. The only member of Rahul Dravid's coaching staff retained after Gambhir's appointment, Dilip has completed his tenure and is waiting to learn whether he will receive a contract extension. The uncertainty comes at a crucial stage, with India preparing for a packed international calendar that includes major bilateral assignments and the build-up to the next ODI World Cup. The BCCI's review committee is scheduled to meet later this month to assess the team's recent performances and finalise plans for the next phase of preparations.
