'ARMED NAXALS GONE, DIMAGI NAXALS REMAIN'

PM Modi said armed Naxalism was defeated but warned of 'dimagi naxals' in public life, while unveiling seven pillars—from manufacturing and agriculture to technology, defence and green energy.

NEW DELHI

The aspirations of Gen Z and the power of 'Yuva Shakti' were at the heart of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's Independence Day speech on Saturday, close on the heels of the massive student strikes post NEET paper leaks that snatched one of his ministers.

From a seven-point 'Saptdhara' reform framework to a caution against a new threat called "dimaagi naxal", the PM used his address from the ramparts of the historic Red Fort in New Delhi to highlight both the opportunities and challenges faced by the country as it hurtles towards the goal of a 'Viksit

Bharat' by 2047.

Delivering his 13th consecutive Independence Day speech, becoming the second PM after Jawaharlal Nehru to achieve the milestone, Modi reiterated his 'Atmanirbhar Bharat' push, sportlighting civil defence reforms, expansion of semiconductor manufacturing and new targets for nuclear power generation as core areas.

Another strongest message was on women's representation in policymaking. Amid the impasse over the women's quota bill, Modi appealed to the opposition to set aside differences and ensure 33% reservation for women in Parliament and assemblies.

The state will also launch the 'Yuva Udyoga Setu' platform to connect job seekers with private sector employers, alongside the 'Udyoga Nidhi' scheme, which provides an incentive of Rs 2,500 per month per job for two years to businesses generating employment in the state's 10 most backward districts.

To boost rural representation in higher education, the state introduced 'Vidyarthi Sahayashasta', reserving 7.5 per cent of seats within the existing 15 per cent rural quota for students from rural government schools applying for professional courses like engineering and medicine.

To decentralise growth, five Global Technology Centres (GTCs) will be set up under the LEAP programme in Kalaburagi, Belagavi, Hubballi-Dharwad, Mangaluru and Mysuru. An Advanced Manufacturing Cluster with an investment commitment of Rs 20,000 crore is also slated for Doddaballapura.

"These ideological Naxals must be identified and isolated," he added.

Push for Women's Reservation Bill

With the government's backchannel talks with the opposition over the women's reservation bill, which it has linked to delimitation, coming a cropper, Modi used his Red Fort address to appeal for consensus. He urged parties to rise above politics and facilitate the implementation of the proposed 33% reservation for women in Parliament. "Take the credit yourselves, but give our mothers and sisters their due rights," he said.

Weaponisation of sea routes, fuel

Citing the turbulent period during the Iran war, he said self-reliance and diversification helped ensure India did not face fuel crunch. The incident occurred around 5.10 am in the dense forest area falling under the Cauvery Wildlife Sanctuary when forest personnel, acting on information about hunting, encountered four men, Forest Minister Ramalinga Reddy said.

"The Chief Minister directed that a magistrate inquiry be conducted to ascertain the facts from both sides. We need to find out what actually happened and whether the firing was deliberate or carried out in self-defence," Reddy said.

According to Reddy, two forest teams entered the area after receiving information that the hunters had gone hunting and followed a torchlight before intercepting them. The men allegedly had two country-made pistols and four bags containing deer meat, Reddy said.

Youth India's demographic dividend: Bhagwat

NAGPUR

RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat on Saturday said the country's youth constitute a major demographic dividend and could immensely benefit the nation if guided and utilised properly, but may become a burden on society if their potential is not harnessed effectively.

Addressing his second interaction with Gen Z in 10 days, Bhagwat said the present generation of youth would become old in about three decades and therefore, should think beyond their own interests and remain mindful of the requirements of future generations.

"The youth are a demographic dividend. We will benefit greatly if they are handled properly; otherwise, there will be a burden on society," he said. Bhagwat stressed that employment should not be viewed only in terms of conventional jobs, adding that people engaged in labour and other forms of work must also be given due dignity and respect.

He urged the youth to understand that Bharat has its own distinct identity and circumstances and should not blindly follow the development models of countries such as the US, Australia, China, New Zealand and Canada.

"We are Bharat and it has its pride, dignity and supreme honour. We need to decide for ourselves the kind of development we want and the yardsticks by which progress should be measured," he said.

The RSS chief said Bharat has a responsibility to present the world with a balanced vision for the future and develop a thought process suited to its own conditions.

"The world, due to its imperfect vision, is stumbling. It is our obligation as part of Bharat to show the world the future path through our vision and balance it. We need to prepare for it," he said.

“Freedom is meaningless without the freedom to live”

Prof. Niranjan Vanalli, former Vice-Chancellor of Bengaluru North University and chief guest at the 80th Independence Day celebrations organised at Karnataka State Open University (KSOU), hoisted the national flag and said that money was necessary to lead a life, while time was required to spend it.

“But if there is no freedom despite having both money and time, they are meaningless. The value of freedom is realised only when it is lost,” he said.

He said the British, who initially came to India for trade, ruled the country for more than 300 years because Indians lacked unity. India eventually attained freedom due to the sacrifices and struggles of several great leaders, giving people the opportunity to live independently. “If people in every field perform their duties with commitment, integrity and honesty, that itself is enough to ensure the prosperity of the nation,” he said.

Prof. Vanalli stressed that remembering the great freedom fighters should not be restricted to a single day. “We must remember their struggles, sacrifices and patriotism every day. Such programmes become meaningful only when we bring their principles and ideals into our daily lives,” he said.

UOM REGISTRAR (EVALUATION) APPOINTMENT Govt must not violate its own law, says Syndicate member Gokul Govardhan

MYSURU

The State Government's order appointing Prof. Kempegowda B.K. as the new Registrar (Evaluation) of the University of Mysore has raised serious questions over whether the appointment is in accordance with the laws, regulations and clarifications issued earlier by the government itself, alleged Gokul Govardhan, Syndicate member of the university.

In a press release here, he said under the Karnataka State Universities Act, 2000, subsequent amendments and the regulations currently in force at the university, the government is required to strictly adhere to the prescribed qualifications and statutory criteria concerning the parent institution while making appointments to key posts such as Registrar. In particular, in a letter addressed by the Principal Secretary, Higher Education Department, to the Governor on September 25, 2024, the government had clearly stated its position regarding the appointment of Registrars to universities established and incorporated under the Karnataka State Universities Act, 2000. The letter explained the provision for appointing professors or senior members of the teaching faculty of the concerned university as Registrars. It also clarified, in effect, that teaching faculty from the Department of Collegiate Education, Department of Technical Education or other institutions governed by separate statutes could not be considered for such appointments.

In this context, he said, if the government has acted contrary to its own earlier clarification in 2026, it has a responsibility to publicly explain the legal validity of the appointment. Once the government enacts laws and amendments in the legislature and frames regulations based on them, it is not appropriate for it to issue administrative orders in violation of the same legal provisions and rules. The law must apply equally to everyone, and the government cannot be an exception.

Govardhan said therefore, the government should immediately reconsider the August 10, 2026 order relating to the appointment of the Registrar (Evaluation) of the University of Mysore. A comprehensive review must be conducted by taking into consideration the applicable laws, regulations and the government's September 25, 2024 clarification, particularly with regard to the legality and eligibility of the appointment.

If the government has acted contrary to its own Acts, rules and earlier orders, the matter cannot be treated merely as an administrative issue. It raises serious questions concerning the alleged violation of law, the autonomy of universities and the credibility of public administration. The government should therefore reconsider the appointment order without delay and take appropriate action in accordance with the law. If suitable action is not taken, there will be no alternative but to challenge the appointment through appropriate legal and judicial channels. The government must remain bound by its own laws and regulations.

Pride, politics, and patriotism: Zameer Ahmed fires back at BJP

Karnataka Minister Zameer Ahmed Khan defended his ministerial responsibilities, criticizing opposition BJP politics over Independence Day celebrations

BENGALURU

Karnataka Minister Zameer Ahmed Khan strongly defended his decision regarding district responsibilities, accusing the opposition Bharatiya Janata Party of playing petty politics over Independence Day celebrations. Speaking after hoisting the national flag in Chamarajpet, Khan emphasized his core identity, stating proudly that he considers himself a Hindustani first, a Kannadiga second, and a Muslim last.

The clarification came in response to criticism from political rivals regarding his status as in-charge minister. Khan explained that he voluntarily requested Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar and former leadership to relieve him of his duties in Vijayanagar district due to heavy workload and time constraints. He noted that he had previously served as in-charge for 3 years and felt that newcomer ministers deserved the opportunity to hoist the flag and lead local development initiatives. According to Khan, he personally recommended that Minister Basavanthappa be given charge of the district so new leaders could gain valuable administrative experience.

Addressing attacks from saffron party members, the minister dismissed allegations of undermining national symbols. He asserted that the opposition has no right to lecture anyone on patriotism, questioning the historical role of certain ideological groups during the freedom struggle.

Political observers point out that administrative reshuffles and ceremonial flag-hoisting duties often trigger friction between ruling and opposition parties across various states. While rival leaders frequently scrutinize ministerial assignments and workload justifications, senior cabinet members continue to defend their internal party decisions and public service records as part of ongoing regional political discourse.

ARC Cancer Hospital launches screening drive

BENGALURU

Local healthcare providers are stepping up to change how people think about serious illnesses. Recently, ARC Cancer Hospital rolled out a brand-new screening program tailored specifically for adults over the age of forty. Leaders behind the effort want to turn early checks into a normal habit rather than something people avoid out of panic.

Rolling out on Independence Day with a focus on breaking free from worry, the campaign offers a mix of expert medical chats, lab work, scans, and personal risk checks. Doctors designed the system so that each person's roadmap depends entirely on their age, daily habits, and past family health records.

Hospital leaders noted that money troubles and a lack of clear information often stop middle-class and rural families from getting checked. Besides cost, old-fashioned social stigma and pure dread keep many folks away until a problem gets too big to ignore. Hospital co-founder Dr. Srihari R Shapur explained that catching a tumor early means treatments can be much gentler and far more successful.

Under the new plan, women can receive breast exams and mammograms, while men can get checked for prostate concerns. The program also looks closely at family trees. Anyone with a heavy history of illness might be offered genetic testing to spot inherited risks for various cancers, including breast and colon conditions.

Chairman Dr. Dinesh Mavinahalli pointed out that modern genetic tests have become much cheaper over time. He also stressed that living a clean lifestyle is wonderful, but it does not

Hospital leaders emphasized that the program uses a risk-based model guided by individual age, lifestyle, and medical history. Speaking at the launch, Co-founder Dr. Srihari R. The initiative also incorporates family medical history to evaluate hereditary risks, offering genetic counseling and testing for specific conditions when clinically necessary.

Clash over RSS registration and public spaces

BENGALURU

A fresh political storm has erupted in Karnataka over a new government rule. The state government has introduced a law that makes prior permission mandatory for any public event or program. This move is widely seen as a direct way to halt public activities and gatherings held by the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh, commonly known as the RSS. The new rule has quickly ignited a fierce war of words between the ruling Congress party and the opposition Bharatiya Janata Party.

Cabinet Minister Priyank Kharge strongly defended the decision. He pointed out that the RSS has never been formally registered as an organization. Because of this, he argued, the group must follow the same laws and rules as everyone else in the state.

BJP National Organizing Secretary BL Santosh quickly fired back at the government. He firmly stated that the RSS does not need to register with the government to carry out its social and cultural work.

Hearing this, Priyank Kharge hit back even harder. He made it clear that the organization has avoided registration in the past and will not register in the future either. Kharge stressed that no group can operate above the law of the land, regardless of its background or influence. Political experts believe this clash is only the beginning. The new rule creates a tough challenge for the RSS, which relies heavily on public grounds and open spaces for its daily shakhas and meetings. Observers expect the tension between the state government and opposition leaders to grow stronger in the coming days as both sides refuse to back down.

The fallout from the investigation also heavily impacted other high-profile inmates, including Kannada actor Darshan and co-accused Pavithra Gowda, who are currently implicated in the high-profile Renukaswamy murder case. Jail officials completely overhauled Pavithra Gowda's living arrangements. Previously kept in a quiet barracks with only two other inmates, she has now been moved to a much larger and more populated holding area containing 16 prisoners.

Prison authorities have deployed additional security personnel directly outside his barracks and installed advanced closed-circuit television cameras to monitor his every single movement. - Enhanced Surveillance: Continuous round-the-clock monitoring through newly installed CCTV cameras around key cells

GADAG ROAD NIGHTMARE

Residents demand permanent repairs to pothole-ridden highway

CH NEWS, Malingaraya Pujar

The Gadag-Lakshmeswar stretch of the Kaiga-Ilkal State Highway has become a serious danger for motorists, with large potholes making travel difficult and unsafe. The road connects important areas of North Karnataka and serves as a key route for daily commuters. However, its present condition has left many people wondering whether they are travelling on a state highway, a village road, or even a farm path. Residents say the deteriorating road has caused frustration for years, while authorities have failed to provide a lasting solution. The 40-kilometre journey between Lakshmeswar and Gadag city now takes several hours because of the damaged surface. According to residents, only about 14 kilometres were repaired last year following strong public protests, while the remaining 26 kilometres continue to be filled with dangerous potholes. Earlier repair work has also failed to last. Patches laid at considerable cost reportedly peel away after the monsoon, exposing the same old potholes and creating fresh problems for commuters. The poor road affects much more than private vehicles. School and college buses, tractors carrying farm produce, public transport vehicles and ambulances regularly use the route. Potholes make it difficult to transport pregnant women and seriously ill patients to hospitals. Regular motorcycle riders complain of back and hip pain, while minor accidents are frequently reported, particularly at night. Bus services have also suffered, as vehicles from distant depots are reportedly reluctant to operate on the damaged stretch, affecting travel and business between Gadag and Lakshmeswar. Residents are questioning promises that the road will be upgraded to a National Highway. They allege that officials have relied on the proposed upgrade as a reason for delaying permanent repairs. They also criticised political leaders for promising action during elections but failing to return after winning. Commuters have demanded that officials, ministers and legislators inspect the road immediately and release funds for permanent asphaltting of the remaining stretch. Chandrakant Chavan, State General Secretary of Jaya Karnataka Sangathan, warned that the potholes must be closed and the road permanently asphalted without delay. He said commuters would launch a strong protest by blocking the highway if authorities failed to act soon. Residents said repairing the route would improve safety, transport, agriculture and local trade, making the long-neglected highway safer for everyone.

MP Prabha urges fairer NEET PG centre allotments

CH NEWS, DAVANAGERE

Davanagere MP Dr. Prabha Mallikarjun has urged Union Health Minister Jagat Prakash Nadda to review the allotment of examination centres for NEET PG-2026 candidates. She said many medical graduates have reportedly been assigned centres far from their homes and outside the states they selected. Under the revised examination system, candidates were asked to choose three preferred states, with their home state as the first choice and two neighbouring states as alternatives. However, complaints have emerged that some applicants received centres in distant cities and states that were not among their selected preferences. Dr. Prabha said such allotments could create additional financial and mental pressure for candidates preparing for an important medical entrance examination. Long-distance travel may increase expenses for transport and accommodation and create difficulties in reaching examination centres on time. She urged the Union Health Ministry to consider shifting candidates to centres within their preferred states or to the nearest available locations.

NEW DELHI

A political storm erupted after senior Congress leaders were seen talking while the national song played during Independence Day celebrations. The BJP strongly criticized the opposition party, accusing its top leadership of showing utter disrespect toward 'Vande Mataram' and demanding a formal public apology. The controversy began after video footage from the Congress headquarters showed party president Mallikarjun Kharge and Sonia Gandhi conversing and calling an aide while the national song was being rendered. BJP MP Sudhanshu Trivedi lashed out at the opposition, pointing out that this historic Independence Day marked the full, uncut rendition of the song. He argued that the behavior of leaders like Sonia Gandhi, Rahul Gandhi, and Mallikarjun Kharge proved they have still not accepted the full version of the song, raising questions about their patriotism. BJP spokesperson Pradeep Bhandari also criticized the leadership, claiming their actions reflected deep annoyance during the national trib-

Political war of words

During the event at the opposition headquarters, key figures like Mallikarjun Kharge and Sonia Gandhi appeared occupied in conversation. Ruling party spokesperson Sudhanshu Trivedi slammed the behavior, calling it shameful. He emphasized that the song holds deep historic value because early freedom fighters honored it before the national anthem was chosen. "They were casually talking and passing remarks while our sacred song played," Trivedi told reporters. "This shows they still do not accept the full version of the song." Another spokesperson added harsh words, questioning their true allegiance to the nation and the freedom struggle.

ute. The ruling party warned that failure to issue an apology would expose the opposition's lack of true allegiance to the nation and its historic freedom struggle. In response, Congress MP Jairam Ramesh quickly defended the party leaders. He clarified that there was absolutely no attempt to interrupt or stop the song. He explained that Kharge had been standing for a long time, prompting Sonia Gandhi to ask an aide to bring a chair for him.

Cong clears the air

Facing heavy backlash, opposition MP Jairam Ramesh quickly stepped forward to defend his party chiefs. He explained that there was never any attempt to stop the music. Instead, he stated that leaders were simply asking staff to bring a chair for the Congress President who had been standing for a long time. As the debate continues to heat up across television channels and social media platforms, citizens watch closely to see if the political tension will ease or grow further over the coming days.

The heated exchange added political tension to the national holiday. While the ruling party maintained that the incident highlighted disrespect toward national symbols, the opposition dismissed the claims as baseless criticism. Both sides locked horns over the optics of the event as the nation marked its 80th Independence Day with various political developments and high-profile celebrations across the country.

DMK MP Kanimozhi marked India's 80th Independence Day by remembering her father and former Tamil Nadu Chief Minister M Karunanidhi. Through sustained campaigning, Karunanidhi successfully established that elected chief ministers should hoist the flag, reinforcing democratic values and state autonomy.

Meanwhile, Tamil Nadu celebrated the historic anniversary with grand events across the region. Chief Minister C. Joseph Vijay led the state-level celebrations at Fort St. George in Chennai. However, organizers reportedly informed them that the complete song must be performed.

PM MODI NERVOUS AND SHAKY: KEJRIWAL

NEW DELHI

Aam Aadmi Party chief Arvind Kejriwal launched a sharp attack on Prime Minister Narendra Modi, describing his Independence Day address as nervous and lacking confidence. Kejriwal posted a video clip on social media featuring a segment of the Prime Minister's speech at the Red Fort. In the shared footage, the Prime Minister highlighted the growth of the nation's bioeconomy sector since 2014. According to the former Delhi Chief Minister, the delivery and overall demeanor of the Prime Minister during this moment reflected uncertainty and hesitation. At the same time, opposition leaders voiced strong criticism regarding the Prime Minister's call for women's quotas in legislative assemblies and the Lok Sabha. Senior Congress leader Jairam Ramesh dismissed the pitch as insincere, pointing out that the historic Women's Reservation Bill was passed unanimously back in September 2023. He blamed the central administration for delaying its implementation, noting that it prevented female representation in the 2024 general elections and was only notified recently in April 2026. Ramesh added that foundation work for female quotas actually began decades ago under constitutional amendments introduced in 1993. Nationalist Congress Party leader Supriya Sule also weighed in on the discussion. Speaking to journalists in Mumbai, Sule reminded the public that opposition parties fully supported the legislation when it came up for voting, ensuring its smooth passage through both houses of Parliament with unified backing. Political tensions frequently rise during national celebrations as rival factions analyze leaders' speeches and policy timelines. While the ruling administration promotes its long-term development goals and inclusive governance agendas, opposition figures continue to question the timing, execution, and true motives behind major policy announcements. These ongoing debates highlight the deep political divisions as parties prepare for upcoming electoral battles across various states.

Indonesia earthquake kills 38, Tsunami warning lifted

Authorities issued a tsunami warning, advising residents in vulnerable coastal regions to evacuate to higher ground immediately.

JAKARTA

A powerful magnitude 7.7 earthquake struck off the coast of Indonesia early Saturday, killing at least 38 people, injuring more than a dozen others and damaging or collapsing buildings and homes, authorities said.

The earthquake triggered panic across parts of the country, which is frequently affected by powerful seismic activity. Several buildings and houses were toppled by the strong tremors, while residents rushed outdoors seeking safety.

Authorities initially issued a tsunami warning and advised people living along vulnerable coastal areas to move to higher ground. The warning was later lifted after Indonesia's Meteorology, Climatology and Geophysics Agency reported that monitoring showed no significant changes in sea levels that could threaten coastal communities.

The initial earthquake was followed by several aftershocks, adding to concerns among residents and emergency responders. Rescue and relief teams began assessing damage and searching affected areas for people who may have been trapped beneath collapsed structures.

East Manggarai in East Nusa Tenggara province was among the areas affected by the earthquake. Images from the region showed residents clearing rubble from damaged homes as authorities continued their response.

The powerful tremor caused widespread fear in communities near the epicentre, with people gathering in open areas as a precaution against further building collapses and aftershocks.

Indonesia is located along the Pacific Ring of Fire, a zone where several tectonic plates meet and which experiences frequent earthquakes and volcanic eruptions.

Officials continued to assess the extent of damage and casualties following the disaster. Authorities also urged residents to remain cautious because aftershocks could continue even after the main earthquake. Emergency agencies were coordinating rescue and relief operations in affected areas, while officials monitored seismic activity and local conditions. Further details on casualties and damage were expected as assessment teams reached more locations.

Government reduces fuel export duties

The reduction in export duties is expected to provide greater flexibility to refiners and exporters while the government continues to monitor domestic fuel availability.

Officials are expected to continue reviewing the duty structure at regular intervals based on domestic consumption requirements and prevailing market conditions. The latest decision maintains the existing excise duty rates for petrol and diesel used for domestic consumption.

Maharashtra FDA cracks down on Blinkit, Swiggy, Zepto

MUMBAI

Maharashtra's Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has intensified its crackdown on food safety violations, suspending permits of 12 warehouses operated by quick-commerce companies Eternal's Blinkit, Swiggy's Instamart and Zepto after inspections found unhygienic conditions.

The action follows an aggressive campaign led by Maharashtra food safety chief Tukaram Mundhe, who has ordered inspections across the state's food and grocery sector. The latest crackdown targeted the rapidly expanding quick-commerce industry, where groceries and other products are delivered within minutes.

According to the state FDA, officials inspected 86 establishments and issued 60 improvement notices. Per-

Recent crackdowns focused on the fast-growing quick-commerce sector, which promises rapid delivery of groceries and products within minutes.

■ After Domino's, state targets $13 billion quick commerce sector

mits were suspended for five Blinkit warehouses operated by Eternal, five Zepto facilities and two Swiggy Instamart warehouses.

Inspectors reportedly found cockroach infestations, dirty and rusted storage racks, rotten vegetables, rodent droppings and other unhygienic conditions at several facilities. At a Zepto warehouse in Nashik, delivery personnel were found entering storage areas in street footwear, which officials said could increase the risk of cross-contamination.

The crackdown has drawn attention to India's quick-commerce sector, estimated at around $13 billion and backed by substantial foreign investment. Blinkit, Zepto and Swiggy each operate large networks of delivery outlets across the country.

The FDA had earlier taken action against several popular food outlets in Mumbai. This week, four Domino's outlets were shut over alleged hygiene violations, highlighting the department's wider campaign to enforce food safety standards.

The inspections have prompted strong reactions on social media, with consumers expressing concern over the conditions shown in photographs released by the FDA. A Reuters photographer visiting one inspected Blinkit facility found cleaning and pest-control work under way.

Mundhe warned that authorities would take tougher action against businesses that compromise public health. "We will not tolerate any playing with public health," he said, stressing that food storage and preparation facilities must maintain required hygiene standards.

Swiggy and Eternal declined to comment, while Zepto did not respond to Reuters queries.

AHMEDABAD

Adani Group Chairman Gautam Adani on Saturday said India's next generation of builders and innovators is already emerging across the country and needs support, opportunities and platforms to realise its potential.

Adani made the remarks while announcing the completion of the first edition of the 'Vande Bharatam' initiative, which attracted more than 26,000 entries from across India. He said the initiative offered a powerful reminder of the country's capabilities on Independence Day.

He said the participants represented the depth of talent available across India and described them all as winners whose journeys had only begun. Participants also highlighted the platform's role in helping them connect with investors and mentors.

He said major transformation could not happen without sacrifice or patience and that these lessons remained relevant as India pursued its development ambitions.

He extended Independence Day greetings to citizens and concluded his message with "Jai Hind."

India's EV sales surge over 16-fold: PM Modi

NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday highlighted the rapid growth of electric mobility in India, saying electric vehicle sales rose to 25 lakh units in 2025-26 from 1.5 lakh in 2009-10.

Addressing the nation from the Red Fort on the 80th Independence Day, Modi said the sharp increase in EV adoption reflected India's progress in new-age mobility and the emergence of opportunities for the country's youth.

According to the Prime Minister, electric vehicle sales increased by more than 16 times over the period, representing a rise of around 1,566 per cent. He cited the growth as an example of how emerging sectors were expanding rapidly in India.

Modi also highlighted the growth of the country's bio-economy. He said its turnover had increased from around Rs 60,000 crore before 2014 to nearly Rs 20 lakh crore currently. He attributed the expansion to supportive government policies and the potential of India's young population.

The Prime Minister also pointed to developments in the aviation sector, saying the construction of new airports, expansion of routes and creation of jobs were

FCNR(B) deposits mobilise $52.3 billion: SBI

NEW DELHI

India has mobilised $52.3 billion through Foreign Currency Non-Resident (Bank), or FCNR(B), deposits, with total mobilisation expected to reach $65-70 billion by the end of the scheme, according to an SBI Research report released on Saturday.

The report said the mobilisation has been strong despite the scheme being curtailed by one month. Including overseas foreign currency bonds (OFCBs) and external commercial borrowings (ECBs), total dollar mobilisation could reach $80-85 billion.

The Reserve Bank of India recently announced an early closure of its swap facility for FCNR(B) deposits after witnessing strong demand and substantial foreign exchange inflows. The facility will now be available only for deposits mobilised until August 31, 2026.

According to SBI Research, the facility has attracted steady inflows since June 8. The RBI had already recouped around $31 billion of foreign currency assets as of August 7, equivalent to nearly 55 per cent of the amount mobilised.

Qatar Challenges AFC Over Infantino

DOHA

A rift within Asian football has emerged over FIFA President Gianni Infantino's leadership, with Qatar challenging the Asian Football Confederation's decision to join UEFA and CONCACAF in calling for him to step down.

Qatar Football Association President Hamad bin Khalifa Al-Thani, who is also an AFC Executive Committee and FIFA Council member, wrote to AFC President Sheikh Salman bin Ibrahim Al-Khalifa questioning whether the confederation had the authority to speak collectively for its 47 member associations.

Al-Thani said neither he nor the QFA had been consulted before the AFC joined UEFA and CONCACAF in an open statement criticising Infantino's conduct and his failed at-given, no draft was circulated and no opportunity was provided to comment before the statement was issued publicly in the AFC's name. The dispute highlights deep divisions within Asian football as Infantino seeks re-election next year. The challenge from Qatar is particularly significant because six Arab football associations, including Qatar and 2030 World Cup co-host Morocco, recent-

The six associations praised Infantino's efforts to expand opportunities globally and strengthen football's role in bringing communities together.

The AFC declined to comment on Al-Thani's letter. His intervention now raises questions over whether the confederation can maintain a unified position on Infantino's future as the leadership battle intensifies.

Athletics' Jacob Wilson listed as day-to-day with bruised hand

WEST SACRAMENTO

Athletics shortstop Jacob Wilson is listed as day-to-day after X-rays on his injured left hand came back negative following 8-3 victory over the Texas Rangers in West Sacramento, Calif.

Wilson was hit by a 95 mph pitch from Rangers right-hander Kumar Rocker in the bottom of the first inning. The pitch struck him on the hand, leaving the 24-year-old shortstop in visible pain. Despite the discomfort, Wilson chose to remain in the game and eventually scored when Carlos Cortes delivered a three-run double.

Wilson returned to the field for the top of the second inning, but the Athletics decided not to risk further aggravation of the injury. When his spot in the batting order came up in the bottom half of the inning, Alik Williams pinch-hit for him. The team subsequently described Wilson's injury as a contusion.

Following the game, Wilson was dealing with swelling around his pinkie, according to MLB.com. However, the negative X-rays provided some relief for the Athletics, indicating that there was no apparent fracture. The club will continue to monitor the injury before determining when Wilson can return to the lineup.

Wilson has been an important contributor for the Athletics this season. He is batting .269 with seven home runs and 37 RBIs across 79 games. His defensive consistency has also been particularly notable. By completing two innings in the field, Wilson extended his major league record for consecutive errorless games by a shortstop to 114. The achievement highlights his reliability defensively despite the physical setbacks he has experienced this season.

The Los Angeles native has already spent time on the 10-day injured list twice this year, missing games because of left shoulder and right thumb injuries. Friday's hand injury therefore represents another concern for an Athletics team hoping to keep one of its key young players healthy. Wilson entered the 2025 season with considerable expectations after making the American League All-Star team as a rookie.

Arsenal Trio Available For Shield

BUDAPEST

Arsenal manager Mikel Arteta said Declan Rice, Bukayo Saka and Martin Zubimendi are available for Sunday's Community Shield against Manchester City after returning to training following extended breaks at Wembley this weekend.

The trio have joined the squad and could feature despite missing Arsenal's pre-season programme. Arteta said they trained on Saturday and would train again before the match, with their involvement dependent on their physical condition.

Saka managed an Achilles issue late last season, while Rice revealed during the World Cup that he had been dealing with hamstring-related neural pain since December before suffering a knee problem. Arteta said the rest period had benefited both players ahead of the new campaign.

The Arsenal manager also expressed optimism over captain Martin Odegaard, who endured an injury-hit campaign last season. The Norwegian made only 16 Premier League starts because of recurring knee, muscle and shoulder problems.

Arteta believes greater consistency from Saka and Odegaard could provide a significant boost to Arsenal. He said he could see a strong desire from both players to return to their best level.

The manager also gave an update on defender Jurrien Timber, who is recovering from a groin injury that ruled him out of the World Cup. Arteta said the Dutchman was progressing well and had returned to the pitch, with Arsenal gradually increasing his workload.

Jay Shah, Virat Kohli lead Indian sporting fraternity's Independence Day wishes

NEW DELHI

India is celebrating its 80th Independence Day on August 15, 2026, with members of the country's sporting fraternity taking to social media to extend their wishes and reflect on the values of freedom, unity, sacrifice and national pride.

Leading the wishes were ICC Chairman Jay Shah and former India captain Virat Kohli, who shared messages highlighting the values that continue to unite the country. The year also marks 150 years of 'Vande Mataram', which played a significant role in India's freedom movement and continues to hold a special place in the country's national consciousness.

"The true strength of a nation lies not only in its victories, but in the values that unite its people. Wishing everyone a proud and Happy Independence Day," ICC Chairman Jay Shah wrote.

Virat Kohli also shared a post on Instagram that read, "Happy Independence Day. Celebrating the freedom that unites us, the diversity that defines us, and the dreams that drive us forward. May we continue building an India that inspires generations. Jai Hind."

India's cricketing legends also joined the celebrations. "Happy Independence Day!" wrote both former India legend Sachin Tendulkar and Indian T20 captain Shreyas Iyer. Olympic gold medalist Abhinav Bindra used the occasion to highlight the importance of sport and ensuring every child gets the opportunity to play.

"I'll never forget standing there and watching the tricolour rise. This Independence Day, my hope is that every child in India has the right and opportunity to play. Because play is joy. Play is freedom. And every child deserves both," wrote India's Olympic gold winning legend Abhinav Bindra.

Former India cricketer VVS Laxman called for people to honour the sacrifices behind India's freedom and contribute towards building a stronger nation. "Happy Independence Day. Let us celebrate the spirit of freedom, honour the sacrifices of those who gave us our independence, and continue to contribute towards building a stronger, more united and progressive India. Jai Hind!" posted VVS Laxman.

Perez, Fiorini Set Race-Walk Records

BIRMINGHAM

Spain's Maria Perez and Italy's Sofia Fiorini produced record-breaking performances at the European Athletics Championships on Saturday, winning gold in the women's half-marathon and marathon race walks respectively.

Perez clocked one hour, 30 minutes and six seconds to establish the inaugural world record in the newly introduced women's half-marathon race walk. Her performance comfortably surpassed the 1:30:30 standard set by World Athletics for the distance.

The Spaniard returned to the top of the European podium after winning the 20-km race in 2018. The half-marathon distance officially replaced the 20-km event from January 1 as part of changes to race-walking competition.

Perez, a four-time world champion and world record holder over 35 km, finished ahead of Italy's Alexandrina Mihai, who claimed silver. Ukraine's Lyudmila Olyanovka took bronze. Fiorini was equally dominant in the marathon race walk, crossing the line in three hours, 15 minutes and 11 seconds to set the inaugural world record. The Italian's winning time was more than 10 minutes faster than her previous personal best.

The 3:17:00 standard established by World Athletics was comfortably beaten as Fiorini pulled away from her rivals with less than 10 km remaining. She eventually lapped most of the field during her commanding performance.

Poland's Katarzyna Zdziebło, who stayed close to Fiorini for much of the race, finished more than four-and-a-half minutes behind to take silver. Spain's Raquel Gonzalez secured bronze. Fiorini had finished second at the World Athletics race walking team championships in Brazil in April, clocking 3:25:42. Her Birmingham performance represented a remarkable improvement and placed her among the event's leading figures.

Ferran Torres Joins PSG Until 2031

PARIS

Paris St Germain have completed the signing of Spain forward Ferran Torres from Barcelona, with the World Cup winner agreeing to a contract that will keep him at the French club until 2031.

The transfer, announced by both clubs on Saturday, strengthens PSG's attacking options as the Parisian side continues to strengthen its squad ahead of another demanding season in France and Europe. Financial details were not officially disclosed, although media reports put the fee at €50 million for the 26-year-old.

Torres said he was delighted to begin a new chapter with a club as ambitious as PSG. He thanked president Nasser Al-Khelaifi, football advisor Luis Campos and coach Luis Enrique for giving him the opportunity to join the team.

The move brings Torres back together with Enrique, who previously coached him while managing Spain. Their reunion could help the forward settle quickly into PSG's system.

Torres arrives in Paris after an impressive campaign with Barcelona, scoring 21 goals and providing three assists in 49 appearances across all competitions as the Catalan club retained the LaLiga title.

He joined Barcelona in 2022 following a spell at Premier League club Manchester City. Torres developed at Valencia before establishing himself in Spain's national setup.

The forward has scored 25 goals in 65 appearances for Spain. His move gives him an opportunity to compete at the highest level while working again with Enrique.

'Pressure will follow him, but he has been up to the task': Steven Croft

NEW DELHI

Lancashire coach Steven Croft spoke on rising English star Rocky Flintoff, son of legendary former England cricketer Andrew Flintoff. Croft admitted that the 18-year-old would be burdened with the pressure of being the son of such an iconic cricketer, but emphasised that he has done well so far.

Rocky scored his maiden first senior century on Tuesday against Somerset in the One-Day Cup for Lancashire before his team's tournament came to a close with the defeat to Durham in the knockout stage. The teenager made 22 as Durham won the quarterfinal by 162 runs.

Speaking on his short and impressive journey, Croft highlighted that the pressure would be there on Rocky due to his surname. "Naturally, pressure will follow him, unfortunately, because of his surname, but he has been up to the task so far," Croft told BBC Sport. "The way he has carried himself in this competition has been brilliant." Rocky was a vital member for Lancashire in their One-Day Cup, with his 65-ball ton against Somerset being the stand-out of his season apart from an unbeaten 61 against Warwickshire. "That first hundred for him [against Somerset] is massive," Croft said on his hundred. "To get his first one... I won't say out of the way... but now he knows he can do it at this level. The next for him is to do it at first-class level. He is a very fast learner."

There is a hype to get Rocky 'fast-tracked' into the international set-up with David 'Bumble' Lloyd advocating for it. Lloyd, a former England and Lancashire cricketer and ex-coach of the two sides, hailed the youngster, saying "He's got everything. I think he's an international cricketer." "England have been pretty good in recent years in identifying talent and stretching and pushing them forward, and I think they can do that with Flintoff," Lloyd added.

Ferran Torres Completes PSG Move

Born in Foios, Spain, Torres began his football journey in futsal before entering Valencia's academy at seven. He made history in December 2017 by becoming the first player born in the 21st century to appear in La Liga.

Short breaks Thorpe record as Australia sweeps 400m freestyle golds at Pan Pacific

Australians completed a freestyle sweep at the Pan Pacific Championships after Sam Short clocked a career-best time to win the men's 400 metres title in a championship-record time, while compatriot Lani Pallister claimed gold in the women's race.

Short, who also won the 800m freestyle on the opening night of the meet on Wednesday, led from the start at the William Woollett Aquatics Center in California and clocked 3:40.52 to finish ahead of China's Zhang Zhanshuo (3:42.42) and American Aaron Shackell (3:43.44).

His time eclipsed Ian Thorpe's championship record of 3:41.83, set in Sydney in 1999, and also bettered the U.S. Open record of 3:43.33 set by Rex Maurer in 2025. "I thought I was going 3:39. I had so much left for the end, but personal best can't complain and to beat Thorpe's record ... It's about time it went," Short said.

"He's one of my heroes growing up. I've watched every single one of his races." The victory followed Short's 400m freestyle title at last month's Commonwealth Games.

In the women's 400m freestyle, Pallister held off American Katie Ledecky to secure her gold medal after clocking 3:58.42. Ledecky took silver in 4:00.15, while New Zealand's Erika Fairweather claimed bronze in 4:02.35. The 24-year-old Pallister, who won four gold medals and a silver at the Commonwealth Games, built a lead of more than two seconds by halfway and resisted a late charge from Ledecky to post a personal best.

"I did the first 50 and after having two really good 200s at the start of the week, I knew I had easy speed. And I think it got me on the back end," Pallister said.

Warner, O'Keeffe back Konostas, McSweeney for Australia Test recall

NEW DELHI

With some of Australian batters' troubles continuing in the first Test match against Bangladesh, former Aussie cricketers chalked up their long-term contenders to solve the batting jigsaw, putting their weight behind the return of the likes of Sam Konostas, Nathan McSweeney and Matt Renshaw in the Test side. Australia's 20 Test odyssey till next year is off to an underwhelming start after their batters failed to find the mojo, with the struggles continuing for Jake Weatherald, Cameron Green and Marnus Labuschagne.

Weatherald's five-match Test career has been off to a shaky start with just one fifty, and the troubles were compounded for him when he was dismissed for a duck and 23 in the two innings of the first Test against Bangladesh. Labuschagne's wait for a Test century continued since he last got to a three-figure mark during the 2023 Ashes, and Green has not set the stage alight since his unbeaten 174 in Wellington in February 2024.

Taking note of the Aussie batting performance and providing long-term contenders, former cricketers David Warner, Kerry O'Keeffe and Brendon Julian have called for the return of the likes of Konostas, McSweeney and Renshaw, while also picking Victorian duo Campbell Kellaway and Ollie Peake as ones to keep a tab on for the future. Warner insisted that Konostas' debut against India was an impressive one, while Julian believed the Border-Gavaskar series outing at SCG should have got him a ticket for the series in Sri Lanka last year in February.

"He's got the base. He (has) scored runs," Warner said on Kayo Sport. "That series there (against India), he wanted to do something a little bit different. That's fine. But now (he has to) go back to batting, go back to the way that he knows how to play the game and score runs and score big runs.

Atletico Madrid sign Argentina defender Cristian Romero from Tottenham

Atletico Madrid have completed the signing of Argentina defender Cristian Gabriel "Cuti" Romero from Tottenham Hotspur, with the 28-year-old centre-back signing a contract until June 30, 2031.

Romero joins Atletico after five seasons with Tottenham, where he established himself as a key figure in the club's defence and helped Spurs win the 2024/25 UEFA Europa League.

The Argentine defender was named the best player of both the competition and the final as Tottenham secured their first European title in 31 years. A right-footed central defender known for his physicality, anticipation, aggressive tackling and leadership, Romero brings considerable experience to Atletico's backline.

Born in Cordoba on April 27, 1998, Romero began his professional career with Club Atletico Belgrano, making his first-team debut in August 2016. He moved to Europe in 2018 to join Genoa before signing for Juventus in 2019.

During his time under contract with Juventus, Romero spent the 2019/20 season on loan at Genoa and the following campaign at Atalanta. He was named Serie A's best defender during his season with Atalanta.

Romero then moved to Tottenham on loan for the 2021/22 season, with the Premier League club making his transfer permanent at the end of the campaign. He made 156 appearances for Tottenham, scoring 13 goals and providing seven assists across five seasons.

At international level, Romero has won 58 caps for Argentina since making his debut in June 2021. He has been an important member of the Albiceleste squad that won the 2021 and 2024 Copa America titles and the 2022 FIFA World Cup.

Romero was also part of Argentina's campaign at the 2026 FIFA World Cup, where they finished runners-up. Tottenham, meanwhile, paid tribute to Romero in a farewell message, describing him as "a warrior on the pitch" and highlighting his role in the club's Europa League triumph and his captaincy during the 2025/26 campaign.

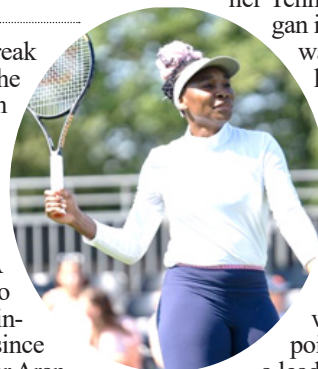

Venus Williams' singles losing streak reaches 13 matches after Cincinnati defeat

OHIO

Venus Williams' singles losing streak has stretched to 13 matches after the seven-time Grand Slam champion suffered a 6-2, 6-2 defeat to Colombian qualifier Emiliana Arango in the first round of the Cincinnati Open.

The 46-year-old American was given a wildcard entry for the WTA 1000 event but was still unable to end her streak of not winning a singles match, which had continued since July 2025. The 25-year-old qualifier Arango managed to beat Williams in one hour and five minutes on the grandstand court at the Lindner Tennis Center. Williams' afternoon began in a difficult manner since her serve was broken in the first game, and she had trouble getting back into the match against a player who constantly applied pressure.

Arango converted four out of her five break-point chances and secured 71 per cent of the points after her first serve, while Williams was unable to convert her one break opportunity and only won 41 per cent of her first-serve points. According to Arango, securing a lead early on had the effect of calming her nerves and enabled her to keep control of the contest.

Harmanpreet Targets Hockey World Cup Glory

NEW DELHI

India men's hockey captain Harmanpreet Singh has set his sights on ending the country's 51-year wait for the FIH Hockey World Cup title, saying the team is determined to convert its recent Olympic success into a sustained challenge for the biggest prize.

India last won the men's Hockey World Cup in 1975, and Harmanpreet believes the current squad has the experience, confidence and belief required to compete for the trophy. The captain pointed to India's back-to-back Olympic medals at Tokyo 2020 and Paris 2024 as a major source of motivation.

Harmanpreet said the World Cup represents a significant opportunity for the team, particularly with several senior players bringing experience into the campaign. He stressed that the squad's hard work and preparation have strengthened its belief that it can produce a strong tournament.

India, however, will enter the competition as underdogs, a status Harmanpreet believes could help the players approach the challenge without excessive pressure.

He said the team wants to use the opportunity to show its capabilities and bring the trophy home, while acknowledging that the journey will be difficult.

The captain also underlined the importance of unity, saying individual performances will matter less than achieving results collectively. According to Harmanpreet, the squad has developed strong trust, with experienced players and younger members contributing to a positive mindset. While winning the title remains the ultimate ambition, Harmanpreet identified defensive organisation as a crucial foundation for India's campaign. A disciplined defensive structure, he believes, can help the team create more opportunities at the attacking end.

With Olympic momentum behind them, India will look to challenge for a first World Cup title since 1975.

Cleverly named Brentford women captain

LONDON

Rhian Cleverly has been appointed captain of Brentford Women for the 2026-27 season, taking on the leadership role just weeks after joining the Bees from third-tier club Rugby Borough. The 31-year-old centre-back will lead the side under head coach Caryl Williams, with Maddie Phillips named vice-captain. Lucy Potter and Makeba Black will also form part of the team's leadership group.

Cleverly joined Brentford in July and said she was surprised but deeply honoured to receive the captaincy so early in her time at the club. She believes communication will be central to her leadership approach while also recognising the importance of listening to teammates.

The defender said she was impressed by the culture she encountered from her first day at Brentford and wants to build on the foundations established by players who have been involved with the project for longer.

Cleverly also praised Phillips for helping her settle into the club and said their different experiences and strengths could complement each other. She stressed the importance of allowing every player to remain authentic while contributing to a positive leadership culture.

Her appointment has also received strong backing from Williams, who praised the defender's early impact both on and off the pitch.

The coach highlighted Cleverly's experience in the women's game at domestic and international levels, alongside her communication and leadership qualities. Williams said Cleverly had made a positive start to her journey as a Bee and demonstrated a strong desire to continue learning and developing.

With a new leadership group in place, Brentford will hope Cleverly's experience and approach can help establish a strong culture as the team enters the new season.

New-look Dolphins offense finds stride

MARYLAND

The Miami Dolphins showed exactly why coaches and players typically don't care about final scores or wins and losses in the preseason.

Though the host Washington Commanders won the game 20-7, the biggest moments of the game may have come on the first drive of the night. Playing their starters and treating the first drive very much like a regular-season game, the Dolphins drove 93 yards for a touchdown on their first march with their new quarterback.

Malik Willis, who joined Miami after excelling as the backup in Green Bay, went 4-for-5 for 43 yards on his only drive of the game, which ended with a 1-yard touchdown run by De'Von Achane -- on his seventh carry of the drive.

While the Commanders kept their starters out of the game, the battle for Washington's No. 3 running back spot took center stage, and both rookies angling for the job made big opening statements. Sixth-round pick Kaytron Allen out of Penn State ran for 85 yards and a touchdown on 23 carries while undrafted Robert Henry Jr. from UTSA posted 75 yards on 12 carries with another score.

The guy Willis is replacing in Miami, Tua Tagovailoa, had an underwhelming debut with Atlanta, throwing for just 22 yards and fumbling a snap across two drives that totaled 19 yards in a loss to visiting Denver.

“Yash Explains Why He Chose Raavan’s Role”

Actor Yash reflected on his early career struggles and explained why playing Raavan was important in the upcoming film Ramayana

Rocking Star Yash, who gained nationwide fame through the KGF series, is preparing for the release of two major films, Toxic and Ramayana. In a recent interview, the actor spoke about his television days, his confidence, and his decision to play Raavan instead of Lord Ram. Yash recalled that while working in television, he received seven film offers. However, he asked all the filmmakers to share scripts before accepting any project. At that time, some people questioned why a television actor wanted to read scripts first. Responding confidently, Yash said that asking for a script was not wrong and added that losing those offers did not matter to him.

The actor also spoke about his success after KGF. When asked about becoming one of India’s highest-paid actors, Yash replied with confidence, saying that his earnings were even higher than reported figures. Yash is co-producing Ramayana, which stars Ranbir Kapoor as Lord Ram and Sai Pallavi as Sita. Explaining his choice of playing Raavan, Yash said that the goodness of Ram can only be shown when Raavan appears powerful and difficult to defeat.
