BMTC to introduce audio ads in 300 buses

CH NEWS, BENGALURU
The BMTC plans to introduce location-based audio advertisements in 300 non-AC buses as part of a revenue-generation initiative. The Bangalore Metropolitan Transport Corporation (BMTC) has invited tenders to install and operate an audio advertising system in 300 non-AC buses across Bengaluru. The advertisements will be broadcast on regular, express and night services. Each Kannada advertisement will be limited to 10 seconds, with English translations optional. The selected agency will maintain the system under a three-year contract. BMTC plans to use its GPS network for location-based advertisements while ensuring passenger stop announcements are not affected. The corporation will reserve 10% of advertising time for its own announcements and public-service messages. BMTC said it would regulate the volume, language and quality of advertisements to minimise inconvenience to passengers.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU
A Bengaluru woman has alleged that a man she met on Instagram took obscene photographs of her without consent and later threatened to circulate them to extort money. According to a complaint filed by her father, the woman met Anfal in 2024 while studying at Manipal University. B'loru CEO repairs broken footpath after complaints go unanswered

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A Bengaluru entrepreneur repaired a long-broken footpath in Koramangala for Rs 2,700 after repeated complaints to civic authorities failed to get a response.

Siddharth Dialani, founder and CEO of BharatAgri, shared before-and-after photographs of the footpath on X, saying it had remained damaged for years near his residential society.

Dialani said he had complained to the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP), emailed the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA), raised a complaint ticket and contacted the GBA's WhatsApp helpline.

However, he claimed that none of the efforts resulted in action.

He eventually decided to get the footpath repaired himself. The work, including labour and cement used to construct a ramp, cost Rs 2,700.

"Finally, decided to fix it myself," Dialani posted, adding that the repaired stretch would allow parents with strollers and senior citizens using wheelchairs to move conveniently.

His post received significant attention online, with around 3.9 lakh views.

Congress chief calls Umar Khalid 'nationalist' amid NLSIU row

Karnataka Congress president B.K. Hariprasad's remarks on Umar Khalid have intensified a political row over a documentary screening at NLSIU.

Karnataka Congress president B.K. Hariprasad on Tuesday called jailed activist Umar Khalid a "nationalist" while criticising the Akhil Bharatiya Vidyarthi Parishad (ABVP) for opposing a proposed documentary screening at the National Law School of India University (NLSIU) in Bengaluru.

Hariprasad said the ABVP had no moral right to comment on Khalid, referring to its alleged admiration for Nathuram Godse. His remarks came amid controversy over the proposed screening of Prisoner No 626710 is Present, directed by Lalit Vachani.

The documentary, which focuses on Khalid and issues surrounding his incarceration, was scheduled to be screened at NLSIU on Monday. The university subsequently postponed the programme, citing logistical and security considerations.

NLSIU said the decision was precautionary and maintained that the screening would be held during the current trimester. It said the programme was part of a wider discussion on pre-trial detention, bail, dissent, political incarceration, criminal law and democratic freedoms.

Khalid has been in Tihar Jail since September 2020 following his arrest by the Delhi Police in connection with the larger conspiracy case linked to the 2020 Northeast Delhi riots.

KPSC SCAM PROBE

KPSC veterinary recruitment scam probe widens

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The probe into alleged irregularities in the KPSC Veterinary Officer recruitment examination has widened with the ED examining financial transactions.

The Criminal Investigation Department (CID) investigation into the alleged Karnataka Public Service Commission (KPSC) Veterinary Officer recruitment scam has intensified with the Enforcement Directorate (ED) joining the probe.

Investigators are examining allegations that some candidates obtained the question paper before the examination and allegedly prepared answers at a resort in Devanahalli. The investigation is also focusing on the suspected network through which the question paper was allegedly circulated and money was collected from candidates.

CID traces alleged paper leak network

According to investigation details, accused Basavaraj Kannale allegedly received the question paper from Gyanendra Kumar. The CID is also probing allegations that candidates from Rajajinagar and Majestic were taken to a resort in Devanahalli, where they allegedly prepared answers before returning to examination centres.

Investigators are examining claims that some candidates who received training linked to Kannale allegedly sold question papers to other candidates for ₹3 lakh to ₹5 lakh near examination centres.

The CID has reportedly seized CCTV footage from the resort, vehicles and other material linked to the case. A resort security guard has emerged as an important witness. More than 400 people, including KPSC personnel, accused persons and suspected candidates, have reportedly been questioned.

Search for electronic evidence

The CID has also searched areas along the Cauvery River near Srirangapatna following suspicions that electronic evidence, including mobile phones and pen drives, may have been discarded there.

ED examines financial trail

The ED has entered the probe to examine suspected financial transactions and the source of funds allegedly linked to the recruitment irregularities.

"The ED is examining the financial trail to establish whether the suspected transactions are connected to the recruitment examination allegations,"

13 Months later, ₹204-crore Ainapur project stuck in limbo

₹204-CRORE PROJECT TO IRRIGATE 3,710 HECTARES; 13 MONTHS AFTER AGREEMENT, FARMERS AWAIT COMMENCEMENT

CH NEWS, KALABURAGI

The proposed Ainapur Lift Irrigation Project in Chincho-li taluk, aimed at providing irrigation to farmlands in 17 villages and tandas, continues to face delays, leaving farmers disappointed.

Though the tender process for the first phase of the project was completed several years ago, and the Karnataka Irrigation Corporation entered into an agreement with the contractor in August 2025, work is yet to commence even after around 13 months. The project has an estimated cost of Rs 204 crore. The first phase, estimated at Rs 111 crore, is intended to provide irrigation to around 3,710 hectares. Officials have reportedly completed the required preliminary procedures, but the actual execution is still awaited.

Sources associated with the project said the Deputy Commissioner's office had recently sought details regarding the Ainapur Lift Irrigation Project ahead of Chief Minister DK Shivakumar's participation in the Kalyana Karnataka Utsav on September 17. The required information has been submitted, they said. The demand for irrigation in the Ainapur region dates back several decades. When the detailed project report for the Lower Mullamari Project was prepared on the directions of former Chief Minister Veerendra Patil, both left and right bank canals had been proposed. However, only the left bank canal was eventually taken up. A canal extending nearly 80 km was constructed to irrigate about 25 villages, and was later renovated. Farmers in the Ainapur region have continued their struggle for a dedicated irrigation facility, citing the area's chronic drought conditions. The Ainapur Lift Irriga-

RAIN DEFICIT CASTS SHADOW OF DROUGHT OVER DISTRICT

The failure of monsoon rains to arrive as expected has cast a shadow of drought over district, with rain-fed crops drying up and farmers growing increasingly worried about crop losses.

CH NEWS, VIJAYAPURA

Had the monsoon been adequate, ragi fields across the district would have been thriving by now. Instead, crops sown in rain-fed areas are facing moisture stress due to prolonged dry conditions, leaving farmers fearing heavy losses. With the onset of monsoon delayed, a large number of farmers had opted to sow ragi. At this stage, they would normally be engaged in weeding, inter-cultivation and spraying pesticides. However, the lack of rain has left many of them unable to carry out these operations effectively.

According to Agriculture Department data, ragi was targeted to be sown on 62,700 hectares this year. Against the target, sowing has been completed on 63,274 hectares, achieving 101 percent of the target.

Farmers who borrowed money and invested in ragi cultivation relying on rainfall are now facing uncertainty as the crop struggles for moisture. Overall, the district had set a sowing target of around 74,000 hectares for ragi, maize, tur, cowpea and other commercial crops. As of September 11, sowing had been completed on 66,734 hectares, achieving around 90 percent of the target.

Some parts of the district received good rainfall during the first week of August, prompting farmers to sow various crops. However, nearly a month has passed without significant rainfall in several areas. With temperatures rising and the sun beating down, the situation is increasingly resembling summer despite the ongoing monsoon season.

The drying up of lakes and tanks has raised concerns over drinking water availability, while groundwater levels in borewells are also declining. Farmers are facing a shortage of fodder for livestock, forcing some to sell their cattle at distress prices. Farmers with limited irrigation facilities are also struggling to save their crops.

Maximum temperatures of around 32°C to 34°C are being recorded in the district. In several areas, young ragi crops have withered due to the heat and lack of moisture. In places that received light rainfall during the first week of August, ragi plants had grown to around half a foot. However, the prolonged dry spell has now caused even these crops to wilt and fall, adding to farmers' concerns over the fate of the kharif season.

Ganeshotsav committees install POP idols defying rules

CH NEWS, RAICHUR

Despite repeated appeals from the district administration to avoid Plaster of Paris (PoP) idols in the interest of environmental protection, several public Ganeshotsav committees in the city have reportedly installed large POP idols two days ahead of the scheduled muhurat.

Sources said, some committees brought the idols to their mantaps late at night, reportedly apprehending that the police might prevent their installation if they waited until the prescribed time. The idols have been covered with plastic sheets, with formal puja planned on Monday.

At Ramanagar, an attractive mantap has been erected on the premises of the Kodandarama Temple, where a large idol was brought in a procession on a lorry and installed. At Chandramouli Circle too, an idol was installed two days ahead of the festival. The administration and police had appealed to organisers not to erect mantaps in the middle of roads or install excessively tall idols. However, large idols have been installed at some locations. Ensuring compliance with regulations while maintaining law and order during a religious festival remains a challenge for the police.

Some Ganeshotsav committees have opted out of installing idols this year due to the prevailing drought situation, while celebrations are being organised mainly in areas where funds have been collected. The traditional practice of installing a common Ganesh idol for an entire locality has also reportedly declined, with idols increasingly being installed by caste- and community-based groups in some areas. The festival has also brought a surge in commercial activity across the city. Major markets and roadside shops are witnessing increased footfall, with demand rising for flowers and other puja materials used for decorating mantaps. Traders have stocked gajpota, roses, marigolds and other flowers, while sales of bananas, apples, grapes, oranges, coconuts and other fruits have also increased. Though prices of flowers and fruits have risen slightly ahead of the festival, people continue to purchase puja materials and other essentials. Markets, major junctions and areas surrounding Ganesh mantaps are witnessing brisk business activity.

₹1.50 crore millet processing unit to come up at Gobbur (B)

CH NEWS, KALABURAGI

A millet processing unit costing Rs 1.50 crore will be established at Gobbur (B) village in Afzalpur constituency under the 2024-25 Macro Grant Scheme of the Kalyana Karnataka Region Development Board (KKRDB).

Afzalpur MLA MY Patil performed the groundbreaking ceremony for the unit, which is being established with the support of the Karnataka Government, district administration, Zilla Panchayat and Agriculture Department. Speaking on the occasion, MY Patil said there was huge demand for millets in global markets and the proposed unit would facilitate their processing and value addition.

The facility would help farmers access better markets directly, reduce dependence on middlemen and secure better prices for their produce, he said. Value addition to agricultural produce would also contribute to increasing farmers' income, he added. The unit is expected to generate employment opportunities for local youth and encourage small-scale industries in rural areas.

Aland MLA BR Patil attended the programme and extended his best wishes for the successful implementation of the project. Former Zilla Panchayat and Taluk Panchayat members, senior party leaders, youth leaders, Agriculture Department officials, farmers and residents of Gobbur (B) were present.

Farmers welcomed the project, saying the processing facility would save time and transportation costs for millet growers from several surrounding villages.

Aurad BJP plans massive protest on September 19

CH NEWS, BIDAR

The BJP Aurad Mandal has decided to stage a massive protest in Aurad town on September 19, demanding that Aurad and Kamalnagar taluks be declared drought-hit and condemning what the party termed the anti-people policies of the Congress government.

The protest will be held under the leadership of Aurad MLA Prabhu Chavan. At a meeting chaired by the MLA, party leaders and workers discussed the arrangements and chalked out the programme.

The protest will begin with a special prayer at the Amareshwar Temple in Aurad. BJP leaders, office-bearers, workers and farmers will then take out a protest march to the APMC Circle, where they will raise slogans against the government.

Speaking at the meeting, Prabhu Chavan said farmers in Aurad and Kamalnagar taluks were facing severe hardship due to deficient rainfall during the monsoon. Crops have been damaged and farmers are facing financial difficulties, he said.

Despite repeatedly bringing the issue to the government's notice, no action had been taken to address the situation, Chavan alleged.

He also criticised the Congress government over alleged increases in charges for services such as RTC corrections and mutation, claiming that the move had placed an additional burden on farmers and the general public. He further alleged that thousands of ration cards had been cancelled, causing difficulties for poor families, while beneficiaries of social security schemes, including old-age pensions, were also facing problems.

Chavan alleged that the government was deliberately delaying several development projects in the constituency, including the Rs 560-crore lake-filling project and the water supply project from the Karanja reservoir. He appealed to BJP leaders, workers, farmers and members of the public from Aurad and Kamalnagar taluks to participate in large numbers and make the September 19 protest a major agitation in support of farmers.

WAR OF WORDS

Yatnal challenges MB Patil over leadership claims

CH NEWS, VIJAYAPURA

The political war of words between Minister MB Patil and MLA Basanagouda Patil Yatnal has intensified, with both leaders trading sharp remarks over former Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's leadership.

Yatnal had claimed that 36 MLAs had signed in support of Siddaramaiah continuing as Chief Minister. Rejecting the claim, MB Patil said there was no practice in the Congress of collecting signatures for a change of Chief Minister. Siddaramaiah and Mallikarjun Kharge are our leaders. Siddaramaiah was our leader in the past, is our leader today and will remain our leader in the future, Patil said. He also denied reports of differences between Siddaramaiah and Minister Satish Jarkiholi, saying that minor disagreements were natural. Taking a dig at Yatnal, Patil said the BJP MLA had a habit of speaking whatever came to his mind.

Patil also referred to Yatnal's earlier association with the Congress, claiming that Congress leaders had supported Yatnal's bid for an MLC seat and that he later returned to the BJP with the help of BS Yediyurappa. Siddaramaiah may or may not continue as Chief Minister, but he will remain our leader, Patil reiterated.

Reacting sharply to Patil's remarks, Yatnal challenged Siddaramaiah to hold a press conference and state that he, M.B. Patil and Zameer Ahmed Khan had not betrayed him.

If Siddaramaiah himself holds a press conference and says that I, MB Patil and Zameer Ahmed did not betray him, I will withdraw my statement, Yatnal said. Yatnal said Patil need not be under pressure over his remarks and questioned why Siddaramaiah was maintaining silence on the issue. Taking the political battle a step further, Yatnal directly challenged Patil over the next Assembly election. Let us see who will be in the Assembly next time, you or me, he said, adding that politics should not be driven by money power and that the final decision would rest with the people of Vijayapura.

Yatnal also asserted in his characteristic style that, Basanagouda Yatnal will become Chief Minister. The exchange, which began with allegations and counter-allegations over Siddaramaiah's leadership, has now turned into a direct political challenge between MB Patil and Yatnal. The next turn in their escalating war of words remains to be seen.

Strict action warned against illegal mining operations

CH NEWS, CHIKKA-BALLAPURA

Mining operators violating statutory safety and environmental norms will face simultaneous multi-departmental raids and strict legal action, warned Deputy Commissioner G. Prabhu on Tuesday.

Addressing an inter-departmental review meeting following a public grievance hearing with local farmers, Prabhu instructed the Departments of Mines and Geology, Police, Revenue, and Transport to coordinate joint inspections. Farmers from Mandikallu Hobli had complained that unregulated stone-crushing units generate severe dust pollution, damaging standing crops, ruining cattle fodder, and creating respiratory health risks for residents. Furthermore, overloaded tipper trucks have battered rural roads into hazardous potholes, leading to frequent traffic accidents.

Prabhu assured agrarian families that a permanent resolution would be enforced. He directed the Sub-Divisional Officer to chair a joint grievance meeting between farmers and quarry owners within a week to work out immediate mitigation steps. While acknowledging that Chikkaballapura supplies nearly 50 percent of building aggregates and sand to northern Bengaluru, the Deputy Commissioner emphasized that lawful commerce cannot override ecological and public safety.

Operators were directed to install mandatory water sprinklers along conveyor belts and quarry roads, use speed governors on transport vehicles, execute controlled blasting, and adopt AI-based surveillance cameras to detect regulatory breaches. Reaffirming that the administration will not yield to external pressures, Prabhu stated that non-compliant crushing units face immediate closure. Sub-Divisional Officer D.H. Ashwin, Mines and Geology Deputy Director Suresh, Tahsildar Rashmi, and District Environmental Officer Vimalakshamma attended the session.

The meeting concluded with a decisive commitment to protect public health and enforce environmental accountability.

Inaugurating the International Day of Democracy celebrations at Kannada Bhavan, organized by the District Administration, Zilla Panchayat, and Social Welfare Department, the Minister strongly defended affirmative action. He asserted that reservations remain indispensable as long as social inequality persists, warning that eliminating them would widen the divide between the rich and the downtrodden.

Describing Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's Constitution as the nation's guiding light—comparable to the Bhagavad Gita, Quran, and Bible—Suresh noted that its protections helped eradicate bonded labor and untouchability while decentralizing power to marginalized communities.

Highlighting this year's theme, "Youth Parliament," Suresh urged young citizens to participate actively in democratic governance and make conscientious decisions, transcending barriers of caste, creed, and language to live unitedly as patriotic Indians. On the occasion, dignitaries paid rich floral tributes to Bharat Ratna Sir M. Visvesvaraya on his birth anniversary, recalling his engineering feats and dedicated nation-building legacy.

Addressing the gathering, Deputy Commissioner G. Prabhu remarked that democracy stands superior to alternative systems like monarchy or military regimes because people retain supreme sovereignty.

Zilla Panchayat Chief Executive Officer Dr. Y. Naveen Bhat led the ceremonial reading of the Preamble. Karnataka Janapada Academy Chairman Gollahalli Shivaprasad, District Guarantee Schemes Authority Chairman N. Ramesh, Superintendent of Police Padmini Sahoo, Assistant Commissioner D.H. Ashwin, Tahsildar Rashmi, and community leaders attended the convention.

KRS demands probe into marriage scheme
irregularities

CH NEWS, KALABURAGI

Alleging large-scale financial irregularities amounting to nearly ₹21.95 crore in the implementation of the inter-caste marriage incentive scheme, the Karnataka Rashtra Samithi (KRS) has demanded a comprehensive high-level probe into the Social Welfare Department's operations in Kalaburagi district.

Addressing a press conference on Tuesday, KRS District President Sachin Chauhan revealed that serious procedural violations had occurred across 878 applications. Under the scheme's statutory guidelines, incentives of ₹2.50 lakh for eligible male applicants and ₹3 lakh for female applicants are granted. While a portion is transferred directly to joint bank accounts via NEFT, the remaining funds must be secured in fixed deposits for a mandatory three-year lock-in period. Chauhan alleged that these fixed deposits were prematurely liquidated within days of creation without mandatory verification checks.

In Chincholi taluk alone, funds totaling around ₹4.22 crore across 169 applications were reportedly drawn down in violation of norms, pointing to an estimated local scam of ₹6 crore. Chauhan warned that fraudulent practices—including duplicate submissions, bogus couples, forged caste and income certificates, falsified marriage registrations, and fabricated identification cards used for name alterations—may extend statewide, potentially affecting around 40,000 applications.

Announcing plans to submit a formal memorandum to the Chief Minister seeking an independent inquiry, the party insisted on stringent accountability. Party office-bearers Mohsin Patel, Sitaram Pawar, Paramesha Kavalagi, Razak Mannar, Phoenix Shanappa, Shivaraj Donnur, and Shivaputra Garur were present at the briefing.

Koppal DC demands faster delivery of minority schemes

CH NEWS, KOPPAL

Deputy Commissioner Dr. Suresh B. Itnal has directed district authorities to ensure government welfare schemes reach eligible beneficiaries from minority communities within stipulated timelines without administrative delays.

Presiding over the first-quarter review meeting of the Prime Minister's New 15-Point Programme for the 2026–27 financial year, Dr. Itnal emphasized that programs covering Muslims, Christians, Jains, Sikhs, Buddhists, and Parsis must achieve departmental targets to bring these communities into the mainstream. Addressing delayed student scholarships caused by portal errors, he ordered technical glitches resolved so pending funds are disbursed before the next review. He also instructed education officials to draft an assessment on Urdu teacher shortages and directed joint site inspections with PWD engineers to identify unsafe school buildings.

During discussions, district implementation committee member Nazeersab Moolimani urged the administration to submit recruitment proposals to fill long-standing vacancies in Urdu schools. Committee member Manvi Pasha advocated razing unsafe, aging school structures across urban and rural belts to build modern facilities, alongside renovating the municipal Anganwadi center at Sardargalli. Member M.D. Siraj Siddapura insisted on strict quality supervision for the residential school building under construction for girls in Siddapura.

Superintendent of Police Sahil Bagla, Assistant Commissioner Maheboob Jeelana, District Minority Welfare Officer Ajmeer Ali, and senior district officials attended the deliberations. The meeting

AT A GLANCE

- DC directs faster delivery of minority welfare schemes.
- Departments must meet prescribed programme targets promptly.
- Scholarship portal glitches delaying student funds must resolve.
- Urdu teacher vacancies require immediate recruitment proposals.
- Unsafe schools need inspections and modern replacement buildings.
- Residential school construction requires strict quality supervision.

concluded with a collective commitment to track scheme targets diligently and uphold infrastructure quality across all minority institutions.

‘Democratic values serve as India’s core strength’

CH NEWS, YADGIR

India's democratic setup is an exceptional structure founded upon enduring values of equality, liberty, and fraternity, remarked City MLA Channareddy Patil Tunnur on Tuesday.

Inaugurating the International Day of Democracy celebrations and the Taluk and District-level Youth Parliament competitions at the District Administration Building Auditorium, the legislator offered floral tributes to Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's portrait. He highlighted that global bodies like the United Nations instituted the International Day of Democracy to uphold human rights, promote peace, and maintain developmental stability. Patil underscored that the spirit of fraternity enshrined in the Preamble imposes a duty on every Indian to model and share these foundational principles globally.

Addressing the assembly, Deputy Commissioner Rahul Pandve observed that while the Constitution guarantees fundamental rights, it equally delineates civic duties essential for national cohesion. He urged the youth to adopt Dr. Ambedkar's core teachings of education, organization, and public service into their daily lives.

dietary habits. Addressing visiting students from Shiksha Academy, Bengaluru, she emphasized that tackling both undernutrition and rising obesity remains vital to creating a malnutrition-free India. She highlighted that building a resilient workforce requires prioritizing the health of pregnant women, nursing mothers, and young children through effective welfare schemes.

The scientist urged citizens and youth to incorporate locally grown grains and fresh seasonal vegetables into their daily meals. Emphasizing home kitchen gardens for clean produce, she pointed out that biofortification helps eliminate micro-nutrient deficiencies, noting that farmers are actively growing iron- and zinc-rich varieties of pearl millet, paddy, and wheat.

Concurrently, scientist Varalakshmi V. conducted practical demonstrations on organic manure preparation, soil enrichment, and ideal gardening techniques for household fruit and vegetable cultivation. Participants subsequently planted saplings across the campus to enhance green cover and encourage environmental preservation.

Shiksha Academy students, KVK staff members, and local community representatives attended the session enthusiastically. The awareness program concluded successfully with participants taking a collective pledge to adopt wholesome nutrition, protect nature, and support vibrant, sustainable living practices across their regional communities.

Raghumurthy calls for equality, stronger democratic values

The minister ordered Youth Parliament sessions statewide, aiming to educate youth about democracy, parliamentary practices, constitutional duties, and democratic values

CH NEWS, CHITRADURGA

Minister T. Raghumurthy on Tuesday said every citizen must enjoy social, religious and economic equality in keeping with the values of the Constitution. Speaking at an International Day of Democracy programme in Chitradurga, he said political equality has improved through reservation, but wider equality is still needed. He urged people to read, understand and protect the Constitution, recalling Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's call to move the constitutional chariot forward. Raghumurthy said young people and students have a major role in carrying democratic values ahead and becoming responsible citizens. He also highlighted government welfare schemes aimed at supporting poor and disadvantaged families. The minister directed officials to conduct Youth Parliament sessions at taluk and district levels from September 16 to 30. He asked them to use the programme to increase awareness of democracy, parliamentary practices and constitutional duties among students and youth. He stressed that protecting democratic values is the responsibility of every citizen. Deputy Commissioner S. Ramya said India has a long democratic tradition, pointing to the Vedic period's Sabha and Samiti. She said such institutions allowed people to choose leaders and take important decisions. Referring to Gautama Buddha and the Shakya republic, she said India's democratic roots should inspire today's youth to build an equal and responsible society. Writer Arakalavadi Nagendra said political equality alone is not enough and urged faster progress in social and economic equality. He praised constitutional awareness programmes, including the Preamble reading and Youth Parliament. The event ended with

Special teams track suspected Naxal's possible movements

CH NEWS, TUMAKURU

Police have launched an intensive search operation in Pavagada taluk following reports of suspected Naxal activity. A major combing operation is underway in the Kanakalabende area to trace Uppar Venkatesh, who is suspected of being involved in the activity. Police are using drones to search difficult hill and forest areas. The operation is being conducted under the leadership of Additional Superintendent of Police Gopal. Five special teams have been formed to locate Venkatesh. The teams include one Deputy Superintendent of Police, five inspectors and ten sub-inspectors. Officers are checking villages and surrounding areas as part of the effort to find the suspect. Police conducted a search from 6 a.m. to 10 a.m. on Tuesday across more than ten villages near Kanakalabende. Drone cameras were used to monitor areas that are difficult for officers to reach on foot.

The operation is continuing as police examine possible routes and hiding places in the region. According to police, villagers have reported seeing Venkatesh occasionally. A letter believed to have been written by the suspected Naxal was also recently found in the village, leading to further inquiries. Officials suspect he may be hiding in the hilly and forested parts of Pavagada taluk, where dense terrain could make the search more difficult.

V-Guard launches premium modular switches

CH NEWS, HUBBALLI

Leading electrical and electronics manufacturer V-Guard Industries Limited has officially introduced its premium modular switch collections, Arizo and Xyro, alongside designer cover plate series Paceart and Trossia, during a special unveiling ceremony in Hubballi. Senior company leadership, including Managing Director Mithun Chittilappilly, Director & COO Ramachandran Venketaraman, Senior VP of Marketing Deepak Augustine, and National Product Head Vimal Dixit, presided over the launch alongside regional channel partners. The expansion aims to transform switches from mere functional utilities into integral elements of contemporary interior decor. The design-oriented Arizo collection showcases sculpted forms in finishes including White, Champagne Gold, Metallic Steel Grey, and Dark Wood. It pairs with Paceart customizable acrylic plates—recognized at India's Best Design Awards 2026—and carries a 15-year warranty. Designed for minimalist spaces, the ultra-slim Xyro range pairs with elegant Trossia plates and offers a 10-year warranty. Both collections feature flame-retardant, impact-resistant materials engineered for enhanced safety, tactile precision, and easy installation. Managing Director Mithun Chittilappilly stated that the launch reinforces V-Guard's commitment to bridging aesthetics with innovation, while Director V. The award carries ₹25,000 and a memento, with the ceremony scheduled in Raichur during the first week of October. Foundation member Chikkappanahalli Shanmukha announced the selection at a press conference on Tuesday. Kushtagi played an important role in the campaign for Article 371(J) for Kalyana Karnataka. He co-founded Jana Sangrama Parishat with S.R. Hiremath to oppose illegal mining, unfair land acquisition, and damage to natural resources.

Balakrishna rebuts HDK's claims over Prajwal case

CH NEWS, RAMANAGARA

Congress MLA and Minister H.C. Balakrishna strongly countered Union Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy's recent allegations that the Prajwal Revanna sexual abuse investigation is being deliberately highlighted by the state government to deflect public attention from alleged irregularities in the NICE project and KPSC examinations.

Speaking to reporters in Ramanagara, Balakrishna criticized Kumaraswamy for repeatedly raising the sensitive issue, questioning how a criminal investigation could possibly be linked to distinct administrative controversies surrounding NICE or the state public service commission. Balakrishna alleged that Kumaraswamy's recurring remarks contributed to Prajwal being remanded to judicial custody, further claiming that the Union Minister harbored an underlying political motive to keep Prajwal imprisoned in order to dismantle his political career and pave the path for establishing his own son in regional leadership.

Criticizing Kumaraswamy's conduct, Balakrishna remarked that an individual holding a cabinet portfolio at the Centre ought to conduct himself with institutional dignity rather than engaging in petty political rhetoric reminiscent of a local gram panchayat member. He challenged the Union Minister to formally demand a Central Bureau of Investigation probe if he possessed legitimate suspicions regarding how Prajwal accessed communication devices while in custody. Addressing Kumaraswamy's sarcastic remarks regarding the Congress administration's '100 Days of Achievements' initiative, Balakrishna dismissed the critiques, stating that the JD(S) leader operates under a self-righteous conviction that he alone understands governance while others do not.

HDK accuses govt of fabricating prison phone controversy
Union Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy accused the state leadership of orchestrating the recent Parappana Agrahara prison controversy to divert attention from administrative scandals surrounding the Bidadi, KPSC, and NICE projects. Speaking to reporters at Mavinakere, Kumaraswamy questioned how an unauthorized mobile phone and explicit digital files allegedly surfaced with former MP Prajwal Revanna only after public scrutiny mounted over land and recruitment irregularities. He claimed the ruling Congress administration was systematically releasing timed allegations to target and silence former Prime Minister H.D. Deve Gowda's family. Asserting that he would not be intimidated, Kumaraswamy reiterated that the opposition will continue challenging governmental corruption.

Hunsur MLA faces criticism over meeting absence

HUNSUR

MAS Foundation representative Satyappa has criticised Hunsur MLA G.T. Harish Gowda for missing a public service meeting held at Gavdagere Hobli. The meeting was intended to hear farmers' and residents' complaints and discuss development needs. Satyappa said Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar had directed that Praja Seva Abhiyan meetings be organised in every taluk under the respective MLA's leadership. Accordingly, people gathered at the Gavdagere Hobli centre with several grievances, but the MLA was absent. Satyappa said he later learned that Gowda had travelled to Bengaluru for official work. He contrasted this with the neighbouring taluks, where Priyapatna MLA Venkatesh and K.R. Nagar MLA Ravishankar reportedly attended similar meetings, heard public complaints and visited affected locations. Satyappa said Gowda's absence had disappointed residents and demanded a public explanation. He also questioned whether the MLA avoided the meeting because farmers are angry over the failure to fill local lakes with water. Satyappa said Gavdagere Hobli, a low-rainfall area, faces serious water problems. The foundation had recently submitted a memorandum to the district in-charge minister seeking action on the Gavdagere lift irrigation project and lake-filling works. According to Satyappa, a meeting on lake filling was held after the minister instructed the MLA, but such discussions had not been organised regularly in recent years.

Hindu-Muslim children set model of communal harmony in Gadag

Malingaraya Pujar
CH NEWS

Amid an era where adult socio-political discourse frequently divides communities along religious and caste lines, children from Mundargi town in Gadag district have delivered an inspiring demonstration of mutual respect and unity during the Ganesha festival. In the Hudedu Oni locality of Mundargi, young boys from both Hindu and Muslim households came together spontaneously to install a Ganesha idol christened 'Samrat'. Setting a remarkable precedent for interfaith solidarity, the youngsters placed the idol adjacent to the neighborhood mosque. Untouched by sectarian prejudice, the children jointly conducted traditional rituals, performed devotional aarti, cracked coconuts, and distributed consecrated prasad among themselves and passing residents. The celebration stood out for its unpretentious innocence. Devoid of political speeches, polarizing narratives, or artificial fanfare, the initiative reflected pure festive joy and deep neighborhood camaraderie. Observers noted that while adult societies often grapple with communal discord surrounding public festivities, the children demonstrated through everyday friendship that festivals serve primarily to foster affection, inclusion, and collective goodwill. Gadag district holds a storied heritage as a historic land of Sufi saints and enduring communal brotherhood. The children's gesture in Mundargi continues this rich cultural tradition, reaffirming the town's legacy of cross-community solidarity.

Sensex, Nifty plunge amid broad market sell-off

MUMBAI
Indian benchmark indices ended sharply lower on Tuesday as rising oil prices triggered broad-based selling across key sectors. The Sensex fell 777.94 points, or 1.04 per cent, to 74,003.82, while the Nifty declined 279.50 points, or 1.19 per cent, to 23,118.60. The sell-off intensified towards the session's close. Metal, realty and chemical stocks faced heavy pressure, with Bharat Electronics, Shriram Finance and IndiGo among the biggest Nifty losers. Broader markets also weakened, with MidCap falling 2.12 per cent and Small-Cap 2.43 per cent. Realty plunged 4 per cent. IT bucked the trend, gaining around 2 per cent during trading.

ITAT allows Rs 25 lakh as business loss

NEW DELHI
The Delhi Income Tax Appellate Tribunal ruled in favour of a Mathura taxpayer, allowing a Rs 25.09 lakh futures and options (F&O) loss as an ordinary business loss. The taxpayer earned Rs 8.64 crore from real estate trading and reported a total trading loss of Rs 34.21 lakh. The Assessing Officer treated the F&O loss as speculative and denied its set-off. The tribunal held Section 73 cannot override eligible derivatives under Section 43(5)(d), while classifying Rs 9.11 lakh share trading loss as speculative.

INR weighed down by escalating Middle East conflict

Rising crude oil prices and West Asia tensions pushed the rupee lower, as stronger dollar demand added pressure on currency markets.

MUMBAI

The Indian rupee fell 38 paise to close at 95.92 against the US dollar, pressured by escalating tensions in the Middle East, rising crude oil prices and a stronger dollar.

The rupee opened at 95.84 at the interbank foreign exchange market before weakening during the session. Traders said increased dollar demand from oil importers raised concerns over inflation and India's external trade balance.

Brent crude rose 1.92 per cent to $107.71 a barrel in futures trading, with oil prices reaching around $108 amid fears of supply disruptions through the Strait of Hormuz.

Weak domestic equities, rising global Treasury yields and a strong US dollar also weighed on investor sentiment. The dollar index was trading 0.22 per cent higher at 99.61.

India sees rise in labour participation, employment

NEW DELHI

India recorded an increase in labour force participation and employment in August, with official data showing higher Labour Force Participation Rate (LFPR) and Worker Population Ratio (WPR) compared with the same month last year.

The overall LFPR for people aged 15 years and above rose to 55.6 per cent in August from 55 per cent in August 2025, marking a 0.6 percentage point increase. It was also higher than the 55.4 per cent recorded in July. Rural LFPR rose to 58.2 per cent from 58 per cent in July, while urban LFPR remained unchanged at 50.4 per cent.

Rural LFPR increased by 1.2 percentage points year-on-year. Female participation also improved, with overall female LFPR rising to 34.8 per cent from 34.4 per cent in July and 1.1 percentage points higher than August last year. Rural female LFPR increased to 39.4 per cent, while the urban figure remained broadly stable at 25.4 per cent.

Overall WPR increased to 52.8 per cent in August, its highest level since March this year. Rural WPR rose by 1.3 percentage points year-on-year to 55.8 per cent. Meanwhile, the overall unemployment rate remained unchanged at 5 per cent. Rural unemployment declined to 4.1 per cent, the lowest level recorded since January 2026.

The figures were released by the National Statistics Office under the Periodic Labour Force Survey, the primary source of data on employment and unemployment conditions. The survey methodology was modified from January 2026 to provide monthly and quarterly estimates of labour force indicators.

The latest figures indicate improving labour participation, particularly in rural areas and among women, while unemployment remained stable nationally during the month amid continued monitoring of labour market trends.

'You must lead, put country first': FM to Gen Z, Alpha

CHENNAI

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Tuesday urged students to embrace humility, responsibility and leadership while keeping the nation's interests at the centre of their professional journeys.

Addressing students at MGR University in Chennai, Sitharaman cited renowned scholar Sir Isaac Newton as an example of humility. She said Newton acknowledged the contributions and assistance of other scholars in helping him achieve success and make important discoveries.

"A brilliant scholar like Newton acknowledged that he required the assistance of various other scholars to achieve his success," Sitharaman said, highlighting how the scholar recognised the role of collaboration in his achievements.

The finance minister stressed that students should develop humility alongside academic and professional excellence. She said recognising the contributions of others was an important quality that could help young people grow personally and professionally.

Sitharaman also called on graduating students to take up leadership responsibilities and put the country first as they enter their professional careers. She emphasised that the security and strength of the nation were essential for providing a stable future for its citizens.

She further encouraged the students to remain humble while pursuing excellence and adapting to rapid technological changes. Her message focused on combining ambition with responsibility, collaboration and a strong commitment to the nation.

Addressing the younger generations, including Gen Z and Gen Alpha, Sitharaman underlined the importance of developing leadership qualities while remaining grounded. She urged students to recognise that success is often built through collective efforts and support from others.

The minister's address highlighted humility, responsibility and national interest as key values for young people preparing to navigate changing academic, professional and technological environments.

We are all ready to listen to what you have to say. But you must reflect on what is happening around you, what your role is, and what can be achieved for the country through you.

Electronic Manufacturing Services emerged as the most-funded segment, attracting $313 million since 2025, including $89 million in the past 12 months. Embedded Hardware followed with $51.9 million, all of which was raised over the last year. Power Management Integrated Circuits and Fabless Semiconductor Manufacturing were among other segments drawing investor interest.

Bengaluru remained the leading semiconductor hub, with 626 companies, accounting for around 18 per cent of the country's semiconductor ecosystem. The city also accounted for about 40 per cent of total equity funding raised by the sector. Noida, Gurugram, Kochi and Hyderabad were also identified as key semiconductor clusters.

The sector recorded 62 acquisitions and 42 initial public offerings as of 2026 year-to-date, highlighting growing investor activity.

Government data cited in the report showed electronics production rising from about Rs 1.9 lakh crore in 2014-15 to Rs 13.11 lakh crore in 2025-26. Electronics exports increased from around Rs 38,000 crore to Rs 4.24 lakh crore during the same period.

SBI Research sees 2 RBI rate hikes

NEW DELHI

The Reserve Bank of India may raise its policy rates by 25 basis points each in October and December as inflationary pressures broaden and higher crude oil prices increase risks, according to an SBI Research report.

The report expects consumer price inflation to cross 6.5 per cent in the coming months before easing below 6 per cent in early 2027. It said two calibrated rate hikes could help the central bank build a policy buffer before pausing to assess incoming data.

Retail inflation rose to 4.82 per cent in August from 4.45 per cent in July. Rural inflation stood at 5.23 per cent, compared with 4.31 per cent in urban areas, while food inflation climbed to 5.66 per cent. Core inflation also increased to 4.16 per cent from 3.87 per cent.

SBI Research said inflation was becoming more broad-based. Its analysis showed that 51 commodities accounted for the bulk of CPI's weighted contribution in August, compared with 22 in January. The contribution of the top 25 commodities, excluding gold and silver, fell to 62 per cent from 83 per cent during the period.

The report projected inflation at 5.88 per cent in September and 6.70 per cent in October, before moderating to 6.19 per cent in November and 5.64 per cent in December.

The report also cautioned against aggressive liquidity withdrawal, saying strong credit growth could naturally absorb surplus funds. It recommended a calibrated approach, followed by a pause to assess inflation, oil prices, liquidity and financial-market conditions.

India-NZ FTA likely from Oct 19

NEW DELHI

The India-New Zealand free trade agreement is likely to come into force from October 19, an official said, opening the way for increased trade in goods and services between the two countries.

India and New Zealand signed the free trade agreement on April 27 to boost bilateral commerce and promote investments. The pact provides duty-free access for 100 per cent of India's exports to the New Zealand market.

Currently, New Zealand imposes peak tariffs of up to 10 per cent on several key Indian products, including ceramics, carpets, automobiles and auto components. The removal of these duties is expected to improve market access for Indian exporters.

The agreement is aimed at strengthening economic ties between the two countries by expanding opportunities across goods and services while encouraging greater investment flows.

New Zealand has also committed to invest $20 billion in India over 15 years under the broader economic partnership.

The pact comes as India continues to pursue trade agreements aimed at expanding export opportunities and improving access to international markets. The agreement with New Zealand is expected to provide Indian businesses with greater access to the country's market once it becomes operational.

The FTA is therefore set to deepen bilateral economic engagement, with Indian exporters expected to benefit from duty-free access across the entire range of India's exports to New Zealand.

NEW DELHI

Pakistan's decision to allow the export of 108,000 metric tonnes of sugar has raised concerns over domestic prices, food security and the country's agricultural resources, according to a report published by The Express Tribune.

The move marks a shift from the government's earlier approach of importing sugar to maintain domestic supplies and stabilise prices. Critics fear that exporting available stocks could reduce buffer reserves and increase the risk of shortages if domestic supplies tighten.

The policy could also expose consumers to higher sugar prices, particularly if imports become necessary in the future to meet local demand. Similar situations in the past have resulted in Pakistan importing sugar after domestic supplies fell.

Environmental concerns have also been raised over the decision. Sugarcane is a highly water-intensive crop and relies heavily on Pakistan's groundwater reserves, which are already under pressure. The report argued that government support and export incentives for sugar producers could effectively encourage the export of water through sugar.

The policy could have wider agricultural implications as well. Increased emphasis on sugarcane cultivation may divert farmland and resources away from other important crops, including wheat, potentially affecting food security.

The report also highlighted concerns over the influence of sugar mill owners on government policy. It referred to previous warnings from the Competition Commission of Pakistan regarding the reliability of industry data used while making decisions on sugar exports.

Earlier reform proposals had called for reducing government intervention in the sugar trade and allowing market forces to determine production, prices and imports.

However, the latest export decision has renewed debate over the balance between supporting the sugar industry and protecting consumers. Critics warn that reducing domestic stocks could leave consumers exposed to sharper price increases if supplies become insufficient in the coming months.

GROWTH SURGE

Passenger vehicle sales soar 36.5% in Aug

NEW DELHI

India produced more than 31.57 lakh vehicles in August 2026, while domestic sales recorded strong growth across passenger vehicles, three-wheelers and two-wheelers, according to data released by the Society of Indian Automobile Manufacturers (SIAM).

Passenger vehicle sales rose 36.5% year-on-year to 4,39,309 units in August, compared with 3,21,901 units during the same month last year. SIAM said total production of passenger vehicles, three-wheelers, two-wheelers and quadricycles stood at 31,57,822 units during the month.

Three-wheeler sales increased 22.8 per cent to 93,764 units from 76,324 units a year earlier. Within the segment, passenger carrier sales climbed 22.4 per cent to 78,680 units, while goods carrier sales rose 34.9 per cent to 13,320 units.

However, sales of e-rickshaws declined six per cent to 1,264 units, while e-cart sales fell 38.3 per cent to 500 units.

Two-wheeler sales grew 10.5 per cent to 20,34,698 units from 18,41,954 units in August 2025. Scooter sales recorded a sharper rise of 23.8 per cent to 8,55,715 units, while motorcycle sales increased 2.4 per cent to 11,33,047 units.

SIAM Director General

Rajesh Menon said passenger vehicles, three-wheelers and two-wheelers recorded their highest-ever August sales in 2026. He attributed the growth partly to a lower base in the previous year.

Menon said strong consumer confidence, resilient rural markets, improving financing conditions and growing adoption of alternative drivetrains were supporting demand. He added that festive demand was expected to provide an additional boost and contribute to healthy second-quarter numbers.

India's imports from China rise to $65.49 billion

NEW DELHI

India's imports from China rose sharply to $65.49 billion during April-August 2026-27, making China the country's largest import source during the five-month period, according to Commerce Ministry data released on Tuesday.

Imports from China increased from $51.56 billion in the corresponding period of 2025-26, reflecting a rise of nearly $14 billion. Russia was the second-largest import source at $41.44 billion, followed by the United States at $28.09 billion and the United Arab Emirates at $24.36 billion.

India's imports from South Korea stood at $12.10 billion during the period, while imports from Saudi Arabia reached $11.81 billion. Singapore accounted for $11.40 billion in imports, followed by Japan at $9.71 billion.

Hong Kong and Germany also remained among India's major import sources during the period, with imports valued at $9.41 billion and $9.16 billion, respectively.

On the export side, the United States remained India's largest export destination during April-August 2026-27, with exports reaching $42.79 billion.

The data highlights the continued importance of China in India's import basket, with the country maintaining a substantial lead over other major trading partners during the first five months of the financial year.

India's trade figures continue to be closely watched amid efforts to strengthen domestic manufacturing and diversify supply chains. The widening value of imports from China also underscores the scale of bilateral trade and India's dependence on Chinese goods and components across several sectors.

PARYUSHAN: A JOURNEY FROM SELF-PURIFICATION TO SELF-AWAKENING

Paryushan Mahaparva, the most significant spiritual festival of Jainism, is being observed across the country with devotion, austerity, self-discipline, meditation and introspection. It is not merely an eight-day religious observance; it is a profound opportunity to awaken the soul, purify one’s life and restore harmony in human relationships. The concluding phase will be marked by Samvatsari on September 14, followed by Kshamapana and World Fellowship Day on September 15, when people seek forgiveness from one another and reaffirm the spirit of friendship. In essence, Paryushan is a beautiful spiritual journey—from self-purification to universal fellowship. The true meaning of Paryushan is to turn inward, become established in the self and cleanse the layers of passions, impurities and negligence that have accumulated within us. Most of human life is spent pursuing external achievements, desires, competition and worldly ambitions. We remain busy judging and changing the world, but seldom find time to look within ourselves. Paryushan teaches us to pause, introspect and discover our own inner reality. That is why practices such as meditation, austerity, scriptural study, Samayik, Pratikraman and Pratyakhyam become significant during these days. They provide an opportunity to transform life from within.

The relevance of Paryushan has become even greater in the world we live in today. Warmth in family relationships is gradually declining, social divisions are deepening, economic competition is pushing people into an endless race for more, and political rivalry often replaces dialogue with confrontation. Distrust, violence and terrorism between nations continue to challenge humanity. In such circumstances, the message of Paryushan is profoundly relevant: outer peace begins with inner peace. Unless human beings reduce anger, ego, greed, deceit, possessiveness, prejudice and hatred within themselves, lasting peace cannot be established in families, societies or the world. The central message of Paryushan is introspection. Pratikraman is the spiritual process through which this introspection takes concrete form. Prati means “back” and kraman means “to move”—thus, Pratikraman signifies returning to one’s true self by turning away from one’s mistakes. It means moving from falsehood to truth, from negativity to goodness, from negligence to awareness and from hostility to friendship. Mistakes are an inevitable part of human life; the real problem is our unwillingness to acknowledge them. The moment a person accepts a mistake, the possibility of transformation begins. But when one remains busy justifying one’s mistakes, the path to self-improvement closes.

Samvatsari represents the culmination of this process of self-purification. It invites us to review our conduct, thoughts and actions throughout the year and ask ourselves: Whom have I hurt? Towards whom have I developed resentment? Whose feelings have my words wounded? When did ego influence my behaviour? Where did anger, greed or insistence overpower my wisdom? Such introspection lightens the burden carried within. Seeking forgiveness is not a sign of weakness; it is a sign of inner strength. It takes courage to acknowledge one’s own mistake and an even greater heart to forgive another. The concluding message of Paryushan is Kshamapana, asking for and granting forgiveness and universal fellowship. It is not merely a ritual expression of Micchami Dukkadam, but a

The Bhagavad Gita too presents the ideal of Atmaupamyā: seeing others as oneself and recognising their joys and sorrows as one’s own. The essence of both teachings is universal to treat another person’s happiness and suffering as we would our own. At a time when bitterness and distance are increasing in personal relationships, Paryushan can offer a new perspective to families as well. Whether between istence are universal human values. Religious beliefs may differ and forms of worship may vary, but respecting every human being is not the monopoly of any one faith. Violence cannot provide a lasting solution to any problem. It breeds revenge, and revenge gives birth to further violence. Dialogue, tolerance, forgiveness and friendship, on the other hand, create possibilities for genuine resolution. The by restraint, compassion and ethical responsibility. Paryushan offers precisely this balance: change yourself before attempting to change the world. When anger within is calmed, conflict outside begins to diminish. When ego is reduced, relationships become more natural. When greed declines, exploitation decreases. When friendship expands within, trust grows in society. Paryushan can therefore become not merely a religious observance but a movement for the moral renewal of individuals and society.

The true celebration of Paryushan will begin when the discipline of these eight days becomes a way of life for the rest of the year. The introspection of Samvatsari should not remain confined to a single day, nor should the spirit of forgiveness become merely an annual ritual. We should ask ourselves every day: Whom did I bring closer today? Whose pain did I understand? Which bitterness did I remove from my heart? This is the path of genuine self-elevation. Indeed, Paryushan is a spiritual dawn that awakens human beings from the sleep of negligence and leads them from the darkness of ignorance towards the light of awareness. If Samvatsari on September 14 awakens us to our mistakes, and World Fellowship Day on September 15 fills our hearts with forgiveness, compassion and friendship for all, it will be the true fulfilment of Paryushan. In today’s troubled world, if there is one force humanity needs most, it is the force of non-violence, forgiveness and peaceful coexistence.

sincere resolve to remove bitterness and hostility from the heart. Forgiveness becomes meaningful only when it is genuine. If we seek forgiveness with our lips while resentment remains in our hearts, the process remains incomplete. Similarly, asking forgiveness does not make a person smaller; it makes the relationship larger and more meaningful.

Lord Mahavira’s eternal message, “Mitti me savva bhu-esu, veram majjham na kenai”, “I have friendship with all living beings and enmity with none” is immensely relevant to the contemporary world.

spouses, parents and children, siblings, friends or colleagues, many conflicts can disappear if people begin to understand one another’s feelings instead of focusing solely on their own expectations. Everyone speaks of rights, but when duties and sensitivity receive equal importance, relationships become more harmonious. Forgiveness possesses the remarkable power to repair relationships and gradually rebuild even damaged trust.

The message of Paryushan should not remain confined to the Jain community. Non-violence, restraint, forgiveness, friendship and peaceful coexworld today is passing through an intense phase of economic, political and strategic competition. Nations are seeking greater power, markets are constantly pursuing expansion, and technology has given humanity unprecedented capabilities. But if technological progress is not accompanied by moral progress, development itself can become a source of danger. The world therefore needs not merely powerful nations, but sensitive nations; not merely prosperous societies, but societies committed to peaceful coexistence; and not merely successful individuals, but people guided

LET THE WATER FLOW, NOT THE DISPUTE, SON WATER AGREEMENT PAVES A NEW PATH FOR COOPERATIVE FEDERALISM

Interstate rivers are not just flowing streams, but lifelines that support agricultural production, drinking water supplies, industries, ecosystems, and the livelihoods of millions. However, rivers can also cross state boundaries, so their management can lead to conflict between states. The recent Bihar-Jharkhand agreement on the Son River, which aims to resolve a nearly 25-year-old water dispute through dialogue, is an important example of sustainable water management a water issue that can only be resolved through cooperation, not conflict.

The main reason interstate water conflicts persist is due to conflicting interests in water development. One state may want to use more water for irrigation, while another for drinking water, industry, or urban development. All of these needs are legitimate, but water is limited. If multiple states depend on the same river, resources become scarce, and balancing these needs poses a challenge for the federal administration.

Water imbalances across regions and seasons further compound the complexities. Areas that receive good rainfall during the monsoon season may experience heavy rainfall during that time, but may experience a lack of rainfall during the summer. Thus, a river may be abundant one year and scarce the next. This situation is becoming even more uncertain due to climate change. Changing rainfall patterns are altering river flows, while prolonged droughts and extreme weather events are also affecting water availability and making projections about water availability less reliable.

Administrative reorganization can also lead to disagreements over historical agreements. This is also the case with Bihar-Jharkhand relations. Agreements reached within the same administrative structure may have to be reconsidered if states are reorganized and their agricultural, demographic, and economic needs evolve. The concept of “fairness” prevalent decades ago may not necessarily apply in the current context.

Another major source of conflict is the development and utilization of ongoing projects in the upstream areas. Dams, barrages, and irrigation schemes can impact water supply and discharge schedules in the downstream areas. Lack of information sharing and project coordination between states can also lead to mistrust in technical expertise.

The lack of transparent and real-time hydrological data further fuels disputes. States may have different goals regarding the amount of water allocated and the amount of water available. Without shared, scientifically accepted information on rainfall, river flows, reservoir levels, and water use, negotiations can easily devolve into debates over conflicting demands.

If people become politically organized, the situation could worsen. The water issue is emotive and directly impacts farmers, families, and local economies. If a technical problem becomes a regional issue or a political dispute, compromise becomes difficult. This is the purpose of institutional dialogue, so that it does not become a protracted federal conflict.

The Bihar-Jharkhand status agreement for the Son River exemplifies the importance of negotiations. Both states have attempted to resolve the dispute non-violently by engaging with each other to find a mutually agreed solution. According to reports, Bihar received a water allocation of 5.75 billion acre-feet (MAF) and Jharkhand 20 million acre-feet (MAF). But the impact of this agreement is not limited to these figures; it has far-reaching consequences. Its real significance lies in the message it sends that states are capable of protecting their own interests while also understanding the needs of other states.

Dialogue can also provide opportunities for better utilization of shared infrastructure. Integrated water management, rather than fragmented water management, can yield greater benefits from the Indrapuri Barrage and its associated canal network. Shared infrastructure should become the basis for cooperation, not a new cause for division. It is time for India to move away from a state-based approach and adopt a river-basin-based approach. A river basin is a single ecological-economic unit. Therefore, water planning must take into account upstream and downstream communities, groundwater, environmental flows, agricultural, drinking water, and industrial uses.

First, it is crucial to establish open and up-to-date processes for sharing hydrological data. All interested states should have access to the same reliable information. Technology can help improve the accuracy of river monitoring and reduce conflicts over data from different sources.

FROM THE EAGLES TO THE OCEAN: BIRDS HELPING BIRDS

The world of birds is full of remarkable connections. Birds may belong to different species and live in completely different environments, yet human communities can sometimes bring them together in unexpected ways. One such interesting connection links the Philadelphia Eagles with the protection of migrating seabirds.

The Philadelphia Eagles are famous as an American football team, but their name and identity have also become connected with a broader message of bird conservation. The idea of “birds helping birds” shows how sport, public awareness and environmental responsibility can come together for a meaningful cause.

Migrating seabirds undertake extraordinary journeys across oceans and continents. They depend on healthy beaches, islands, wetlands and coastal waters for food, rest and breeding. During these long journeys, they face numerous threats, including habitat destruction, pollution, fishing-related dangers, climate change and disturbance at important nesting sites.

This is where public support becomes valuable. A famous sports team has the ability to reach millions of people. When an organisation associated with the word “Eagles” draws attention to real birds and their conservation, it can turn an environmental issue into something people can easily understand and remember.

The story also reminds us

that conservation is not limited to scientists, wildlife departments or environmental organisations. Schools, sports teams, businesses, communities and ordinary citizens can all contribute. Protecting a beach, reducing plastic waste, keeping nesting areas undisturbed or supporting conservation programmes may appear to be small actions, but together they can make a difference.

There is also a beautiful symbolism in the connection. An eagle represents strength and freedom, while a migrating seabird represents endurance and an extraordinary instinct for navigation. Both remind us of the remarkable diversity of life in the sky.

Bird conservation ultimately benefits humans as well. Birds are important parts of ecosystems, helping control insects, disperse seeds, recycle nutrients and indicate the health of natural habitats.

The message is simple but powerful: different birds may follow different paths, but they share one sky and one planet.

When the world of sport helps draw attention to the world of wildlife, a game can become more than entertainment it can become a platform for protecting nature.

“From the Eagles to the ocean, every wing matters”.

On Global Diplomacy

The hosting of the BRICS Summit in New Delhi marks a pivotal moment for Global South diplomacy. As world leaders gather to address trade, economic integration, and emerging technology frameworks, India’s leadership serves as a crucial bridge between differing global blocs. To foster genuine multilateral progress, member nations must prioritize tangible economic cooperation over ideological posturing. Resolving regional trade imbalances and establishing transparent supply chain networks will ensure that the summit yields equitable benefits. A collaborative approach in New Delhi can set a constructive precedent for future international governance.

On Urban Safety and Governance

The tragic collapse of a multi-storey building in Satya Niketan highlights the systemic failure of urban safety oversight. Thousands of students reside in uninspected paying guest accommodations that blatantly disregard building codes and structural safety guidelines. The High Court’s directive to inspect all hostel properties across the capital is a necessary step toward accountability. However, municipal bodies must implement continuous monitoring rather than reactive audits following disasters. Stricter compliance rules, routine structural tests, and harsh penalties against non-compliant property owners are urgently required to ensure young lives are never compromised again.

- Ananya Deshmukh, New Delhi

On Environment and Conservation

The Supreme Court’s firm stance setting a strict November deadline for defining the Aravalli range offers hope for an imperiled ecosystem. Delays in finalizing ecological boundaries have long left this vital natural shield vulnerable to illegal mining and unchecked urban sprawl. The Aravallis play an irreplaceable role in checking desertification and replenishing depleted groundwater reserves across northern India. Committee members and policymakers must meet the court’s deadline without seeking further extensions. Defining clear statutory protections and strictly enforcing land preservation rules are paramount to protecting environmental health for future generations.

Bengal launches AI-enabled app to curb land, property registration fraud

Kolkata
The West Bengal government has launched a technology-driven mobile application to prevent fraud and forgery in land, flat, and house registrations by introducing a mandatory identity verification mechanism for buyers and sellers. The new app, named 'Apani', has been developed to address complaints of properties being sold or registered in the name of individuals without their knowledge. Under the new system, both buyers and sellers will be required to complete identity verification through the mobile application before the registration process can proceed.

India, China working to address trade imbalance issue

New Delhi
Commerce Secretary Rajesh Agarwal said that India and China were working to address concerns over bilateral trade, including the structural imbalance and supply-chain challenges. The two countries are exploring measures to narrow the trade gap and make cross-border commerce more balanced, the official said here. The BRICS meeting in New Delhi, last week, provided an opportunity for senior officials from the two countries to take up trade concerns, with more talks expected as India and China work toward resolving the issues that have strained their economic relationship.

EOW arrests fugitive in Burari jewellery scheme fraud

NEW DELHI
The Delhi Police's Economic Offences Wing (EOW) on Tuesday arrested a 24-year-old man for allegedly cheating more than 700 people of approximately Rs 1.5 crore through a jewellery kitty scheme.
The accused, identified as Aniket Verma, lured members of the public into depositing Rs 1,000 every month with the promise of receiving jewellery worth Rs 28,000, or an equivalent amount, after completion of the 24-month kitty period. According to the EOW, a multi-victim case was registered under FIR No. 128/25 dated October 8, 2025, under Sections 420, 406 and 120B of the IPC. The case was registered on the complaint of multiple victims against Naresh Kumar Verma, proprietor of M/s Baba Shyam Giri Jewellers in Jagatpur, Burari, and his son Aniket Verma.
The accused persons operated jewellery kitty societies and committees in the Burari area and induced members of the public to deposit money by assuring them of substantial returns or equivalent jewellery upon completion of the scheme. By enrolling a large number of people, the accused collected approximately Rs 1.5 crore from more than 700 victims.

During the investigation, the EOW found that the accused persons collected cash instalments from members of the kitty societies. Handwritten receipts acknowledging the payments and bearing the signatures of the accused were obtained and seized from victims, providing documentary evidence of the alleged collections. The investigation further revealed that both accused persons had allegedly fled Delhi after disposing of their properties, and their whereabouts could not initially be ascertained. Subsequently, Look Out Circulars (LOCs) were issued against the Vermas to facilitate their apprehension. Further investigation revealed that the accused persons had shifted to Dubai, where they were residing with their family.

Pilot Sachin leads Punjab ‘anti-drug’ protest

CHANDIGARH
Congress Punjab in-charge Sachin Pilot on Tuesday led a protest march against the ruling Aam Aadmi Party government, demanding the resignation of Finance Minister Harpal Singh Cheema over the alleged suicide of Sangrur resident Gulzar Singh. Gulzar Singh had publicly raised concerns about the availability of drugs, commonly referred to as “chitta”, in his village and had questioned Cheema on the issue. He allegedly consumed poison after claiming that he faced pressure and intimidation following his public intervention. Pilot accused the Punjab government of failing to respond adequately to the matter and said Cheema had been named by Gulzar Singh. He demanded an inquiry and registration of an FIR, alleging that pressure had been placed on the victim. “The Finance Minister is responsible for this, and he has been named by Gulzar Singh,” Pilot told IANS, adding that the government had become disconnected from the people and was not addressing the wider drug problem in Punjab. The Congress leader also accused the

Kishau MoU boosts Shekhawati water security

Six states sign Kishau MoU, advancing a Rs 15,000 crore multipurpose project expected to significantly strengthen Shekhawati's water security, irrigation, drinking water access and regional development over the coming years.

JAIPUR

The long-pending Kishau Multipurpose Project moved closer to implementation on Tuesday with six participating states signing a memorandum of understanding in New Delhi, in a move aimed at strengthening water security across North India. The agreement was signed at a meeting chaired by Union Home Minister Amit Shah, with Rajasthan Chief Minister Bhajanlal Sharma and the chief ministers of the other participating states signing the MoU in the presence of Union Jal Shakti Minister C.R. Patil. The project, proposed on the Tons River along the Uttarakhand-Himachal Pradesh border, is estimated to cost around Rs 15,000 crore and will generate 660 MW of hydropower. Rajasthan, Uttarakhand, Himachal Pradesh, Delhi, Uttar Pradesh and Haryana are expected to benefit from the project.

For Rajasthan, the project could be significant for the water-scarce Shekhawati region, including Sikar, Churu and Jhunjhunu. Under the revised arrangement, part of Himachal Pradesh's allocated water share will be made

BJP confident of Bengal bypoll wins

NEWTOWN

The Bharatiya Janata Party on Tuesday announced its candidates for the Nandigram and Rejinagar Assembly bypolls in West Bengal, with Minister of State and former state BJP president Sukanta Majumdar expressing confidence that the party will win both seats on October 6.
The BJP has fielded Hasirani Rath from Nandigram and Sakharav Sarkar from Rejinagar. Rath is the mother of Chandranath Rath, a former personal assistant to Chief Minister Suwendu Adhikari. Sarkar is a former BJP president of Murshidabad district and currently serves on the party's state committee.
Majumdar said the BJP candidates were capable of securing victories despite the presence of multiple political parties in the contest. He pointed to the possibility of the Left, Congress and Trinamool Congress fielding candidates in Rejinagar and said the resulting political contest could work in the BJP's favour. “Both BJP candidates will win,” Majumdar told IANS, arguing that the political combination emerging ahead of the bypolls would ultimately benefit his party.

The BJP leader also commented on the Bengal CID investigation involving the residence of Trinamool Congress MP Abhishek Banerjee. He said the investigation would proceed based on information provided by accused individuals and documents recovered by investigators. Majumdar further asserted that the Uniform Civil Code would be implemented in West Bengal. He referred to Union Home Minister Amit Shah's remarks and said the BJP government was working towards the measure. According to Majumdar, a committee has already been formed and is consulting various stakeholders.

BJP launches major nationwide public service drive

NEW DELHI

The ruling party has announced a massive month-long campaign named the Seva Sankalp Abhiyaan to mark Prime Minister Narendra Modi's birthday and his remarkable 25 years in public office.
Beginning September 17, the nationwide initiative will feature special cleanliness drives, tree plantation programs, and community discussions. A key highlight is the Seva Yatra, where dedicated groups will journey across rural areas.

BJP gets urban poll boost in Rajasthan

JAIPUR

Rajasthan Chief Minister Bhajan Lal Sharma on Tuesday said the BJP's performance in the state's Urban Local Body elections reflected public approval of the government's work over two-and-a-half years under Prime Minister Narendra Modi's leadership.
The ruling BJP won 4,179 wards, finishing ahead of the Congress, which secured 3,613 wards. The BJP also secured clear majorities in four of Rajasthan's 10 municipal corporations, while Independents emerged as a major force with 2,273 wards.
Sharma said the outcome demonstrated faith in development initiatives undertaken by state and Central governments. He highlighted projects and programmes covering water, investment, metro expansion and tourism.
“Certainly, under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, the work accomplished in Rajasthan over the past two-and-a-half years has received the seal of approval from the people of Rajasthan,” Sharma said.
He also claimed that his government had fulfilled 78 per cent of the promises made BJP won 4,179 wards against Congress's 3,613, while Independents secured 2,273. The BJP won clear majorities in four of 10 municipal corporations. Bharatpur saw Independents take 36 of 65 wards, adding significance because it is Sharma's hometown.

in its election manifesto within two-and-a-half years. The chief minister thanked Rajasthan's youth and voters for supporting the BJP and said the result reflected their confidence in Modi's vision.
However, the election verdict also produced setbacks for the ruling party. Congress won a majority in the Bikaner Municipal Corporation and secured a significant victory in the Jhalawar Municipal Council, a stronghold of former chief minister Vasundhara Raje.
The most striking result came from Bharatpur, Sharma's hometown. Independents won 36 of 65 wards, compared with 20 for BJP and seven for Congress.
BSP and RLP won one ward each, making the verdict politically significant.

Patiala House Court grants interim bail to Bhardwaj

NEW DELHI

The Patiala House Court on Tuesday granted three weeks' interim bail to self-styled “influencer” Swatantra Bhardwaj, who is in judicial custody in connection with the alleged assault of the father of a minor activist during a protest at Jantar Mantar. Additional Sessions Judge Saurabh Pratap Singh Laler of the Patiala House Court passed the order granting Bhardwaj interim relief. The development comes a day after the court had reserved its order on Bhardwaj's regular bail plea. During the hearing, the court had questioned the Delhi Police on whether Bhardwaj had used caste-indicative words at the time of the alleged incident.

Jharkhand HC orders quick response in JPSC case

RANCHI

The Jharkhand High Court on Tuesday continued its interim stay on the state government's decision to cancel appointments made through several recruitment examinations, including the JPSC 11th to 13th Combined Civil Services Examinations, CDPO, FSO and JSSC-CGL.
A bench of Justice Deepak Roshan directed the state government to clarify its stand and submit a response within 48 hours. The matter will next be heard on September 18.
During the hearing, the state government informed the court that a report on the progress of the ongoing CID investigation would be submitted in a sealed cover.
The government also sought additional time to file an affidavit detailing the status of the probe and requested a week's extension for the purpose. However, the court declined the request and allowed only 48 hours for filing the response.
The bench also orally observed that the matter concerns the future of a large number of candidates and employees who had secured appointments through the recruitment process, and therefore could not be subjected to unnecessary delays. It also commented on the pace of the CID investigation and asked the government to provide a clear and time-bound update on the probe.

Appearing for the Jharkhand Public Service Commission (JPSC), advocate Sanjoy Piprawal presented the commission's case. The petitioners were represented by senior advocate Indrajit Sinha along with advocates Amritansh Vats, Chanchal Jain and others.
The state government was represented by senior Supreme Court advocate Meenakshi Arora along with the Advocate General. The controversy arose after the state government decided to cancel appointments linked to examinations in which TDPL, a company associated with conducting the recruitment tests, had played a role.
The government ordered the cancellation of appointments made through the JPSC 11th to 13th Combined Civil Services Examinations, JPSC-CGL, CDPO, FSO and JSSC-CGL, among others.

Nitin Nabin to visit Mumbai, Pune Ganesh Pandals

MUMBAI

Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) National President, Nitin Nabin, will undertake a significant one-day religious and spiritual visit to Maharashtra on Wednesday, visiting prominent Ganesh pandals and temples in Mumbai and Pune during the ongoing Ganeshotsav celebrations. On the auspicious occasion of the holy Ganeshotsav, Nabin will visit several prominent places of worship and Ganesh pandals across the two cities to offer prayers and seek the blessings of Vighnaharta Lord Ganesh. During his visit, he will pray for peace, prosperity and the overall well-being of Maharashtra as well as the entire country. 'Unless we instil fear of law, such incidents will continue': Gurugram victim Sia

New Delhi
Gurugram's Golf Course Road hit-and-run victim Sia on Tuesday called for strict action against those who harass and endanger people on the roads, saying such incidents will continue unless there is a strong fear of the law. Sia said she had narrated the entire incident to the police, as she alleged that the occupants of the car were trying to harass her and that there had been an attempt on her life. "As I showed in the video, he was driving from my side. I told the police everything, how they were trying to harass me, molest me, and how an attempt was made on my life," she said. "I also gave him a sign to drive far from me. I was afraid that they would hit me, so I rode my bike farther away."

Kolkata police probe tantrik extortion complaint

Kolkata
A Kolkata woman has lodged a police complaint against a self-styled tantrik, accusing him of extorting Rs 7.66 lakh from her on the false promise of resolving her marital and health-related problems through occult practices and special rituals, police said on Tuesday. The incident took place recently in the Watganj area in Kolkata but came to light after a complaint was lodged, police added. According to police, the accused came in contact with the woman through Facebook. Believing his claims that he could improve her relationship with her husband, address health concerns, and ward off future dangers through tantric rituals, the woman reached out to him using a phone number listed on his social media profile.

Suvendu alleges 'nephew-gang' behind ex-PA's killing

BJP leader Suvendu Adhikari has alleged that a “nephew-gang” conspired to kill former aide Chandranath Rath, as his mother entered the Nandigram poll contest.

KOLKATA

BJP leader Suvendu Adhikari on Tuesday alleged that a “nephew-gang”, an indirect reference to Trinamool Congress general secretary Abhishek Banerjee, was behind the murder of his former personal assistant Chandranath Rath. Adhikari made the allegation as Hasirani Rath, Chandranath’s mother, filed her nomination as a BJP candidate from Nandigram Assembly constituency. The constituency is scheduled to go to polls on October 6. Chandranath Rath, a retired Indian Air Force serviceman, was shot dead in Madhyamgram, North 24 Parganas, on the evening of May 6, two days after the West Bengal Assembly election results were announced. He was reportedly returning home when unidentified attackers opened fire on him from point-blank range. Although Adhikari did not name any individual directly, his reference to the “nephew-gang” was understood as an indication towards Abhishek Banerjee, the Diamond Harbour Lok Sabha hired for Rs 2 crore to carry out the assassination. Adhikari also said he had heard multiple call recordings which, according to him, pointed towards a conspiracy behind Rath’s killing. He alleged that Chandranath was targeted because of his association with him while serving as his principal aide when Adhikari was Leader of Opposition in the West Bengal Assembly. The West Bengal Police initially investigated the case before the Central Bureau of Investigation took over the probe. Seven people have so far been arrested in connection with the murder, but questions remain over who allegedly masterminded the killing.

Manipur governor urges youth to drive development

IMPHAL

Manipur Governor Ajay Kumar Bhalla on Tuesday highlighted the crucial role of young people in achieving Prime Minister Narendra Modi’s vision of Viksit Bharat-2047, urging them to contribute meaningfully through their respective fields. Addressing the presentation ceremony of the Governor’s Award, 2026 and Rajkumari Sanatombi Devi Awards, 2026, Bhalla said Viksit Bharat-2047 and Viksit Manipur-2047 remain key priorities and can be achieved only through the wholehearted participation of citizens, particularly the younger generation. Congratulating the awardees, the Governor said their achievements reflected dedication, hard work and commitment. He noted that awards not only recognise excellence but also motivate others to pursue higher standards. Bhalla recalled that the Governor’s Award, instituted in 1998, recognises excellence in academics and co-curricular activities among students of Rajkumari Sanatombi Devi Vidyalaya. The Rajkumari Sanatombi Devi Awards, established in 1983, recognise achievements across teaching, teacher education, nursing, sports, social work, the differently abled category and co-curricular activities. Emphasising holistic education, Bhalla said excellence extends beyond academics. Participation in sports and co-curricular activities, he said, helps students build confidence, teamwork, leadership skills and a sense of responsibility.

He also acknowledged the role played by parents, teachers, coaches, institutions and communities in supporting the awardees. He urged recipients to uphold discipline, perseverance, integrity and a spirit of service. The Governor’s Award, 2026 was presented to Sushitra Ningthemchamayum, a Class 11 Science student of R.K. Sanatombi Devi Vidyalaya. Bhalla also honoured selected students and personalities with the Rajkumari Sanatombi Devi Awards for their contributions across multiple fields. Manipur University Vice Chancellor Prof. R.K. Hemakumar Singh and Awards Selection Board Chairman Dr R.K. Nimai Singh attended the ceremony.

CBI seeks time on ex-judge's bail application

JABALPUR

The Madhya Pradesh High Court on Tuesday granted no immediate relief to former district judge Giribala Singh, who is in jail in connection with the death of her daughter-in-law and model-actress Twisha Sharma, deferring consideration of her bail plea. The court sought a response from the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) on Giribala Singh’s bail application and granted the agency a week’s time to file its reply. The matter has now been fixed for hearing after a week. A single bench of Justice

Ajay Kumar Nirankari heard arguments from both sides during the hearing. Senior advocate Surendra Singh, appearing for Giribala Singh, sought bail on the grounds of her age and health condition. The defence argued that she had not committed any act that could make her liable for the alleged offence and there was no material to suggest that she had instigated her daughter-in-law to die by suicide. The defence also assured the court that Giribala Singh would fully cooperate with the investigation and comply with any conditions imposed by the court if granted bail. The CBI sought one week’s time to respond to the bail plea and said it wanted to place the case diary before the court. The agency has also filed its objection to the bail application, according to the defence counsel. After hearing the submissions, the court granted the CBI time to file its response and posted the matter for hearing after a week. Giribala Singh, who is currently in jail, will continue to remain in custody till then. Twisha Sharma died under suspicious circumstances at her in-laws’ residence in the Katara Hills area of Bhopal on May 12, with her family alleging foul play. The CBI, which is probing the case, filed a 636-page charge sheet in August against Twisha’s husband Samarth Singh and Giribala Singh.

Tech leadership essential for future warfare: Rajnath

NEW DELHI

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh on Tuesday called for greater investment in innovation and technology, stressing their importance for strengthening India’s defence capabilities and securing strategic advantages in future warfare. Addressing the DRDO-Industry Synergy Meet VIMARSH 2026 in New Delhi, themed ‘Varta Se Vikas’, Singh described technology as a powerful tool of the 21st century. He said technological capability can shape India’s future, strengthen self-reliance and strengthen India’s strategic position. The Defence Minister highlighted the emergence of a new generation of Indian defence startups working in areas including drone technology, Artificial Intelligence and cyber security. He said these enterprises were giving a fresh direction to the defence landscape, while innovations today could become tomorrow’s military capabilities. “Whoever leads technology today will gain a strategic advantage in future warfare,” Singh said, underlining the importance of maintaining technological leadership. He also urged India’s youth to develop confidence in indigenous capabilities and contribute to self-reliance. Singh said startups and Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises have become important drivers of innovation, ranging from deep technology to futuristic defence solutions. Calling for stronger coordination among DRDO, industry and the Armed Forces, Singh said closer collaboration would accelerate technology development and reduce dependence on external sources. He stressed that the defence sector would play a decisive role in achieving the goal of Developed India 2047. According to Singh, combining DRDO’s research, industrial manufacturing, startup innovation and youth aspirations would strengthen India’s military capability. The minister described this convergence as the collective strength of a new India.

Uddhav Thackeray's govt turned blind eye, claims BJP's Ram Kadam

MUMBAI

BJP MLA Ram Kadam on Tuesday blamed the previous Uddhav Thackeray-led government of turning a "blind eye" to the Disha Salian death case and alleged that the police tried to "cover up" the matter to protect the individuals whose names have emerged in the case. Kadam said, "At the time of Disha's death, her father repeatedly came forward, expressing his anguish and seeking justice, saying that his daughter had been murdered and that she had been subjected to torture and atrocities before her death. He also raised suspicions of gang-rape. Despite this, the Uddhav Thackeray government at the time appeared to turn a blind eye, while the police seemed to be trying to cover up the matter. Why was a case not registered at the time? What was the reason?" The BJP MLA alleged, "A sting operation which came to light showed a person present there at the time of the post-mortem."

Main focus now on international Ramkatha museum: Nripendra Misra

AYODHYA

Ram Mandir Construction Committee Chairman, Nripendra Misra, on Tuesday said that the main construction of the Ram Temple in the Ram Jannbhoomi complex has been completed and added that the committee’s primary focus has now shifted to establishing the International Ramkatha Museum. He said tenders for this project would be floated from October 10. Speaking to reporters, Nripendra Misra said, “There will be a discussion on the museum today as well. The biggest work for the museum is now about to begin. Tenders for each gallery will be issued from October 10. There are 20 galleries in total-Gallery 1, Gallery 2, and so on.” He further said that the theme for each gallery was different and has already been decided. “The theme for each gallery has been decided, and the storyline has also been finalised. Our Director, Sanjeev Kumar Singh, has worked very hard to prepare the entire storyline,” he said. Misra said that videos will now have to be created using various technologies, including immersive technology, 3D technology and others. “Based on that, videos will now have to be created using various technologies, including immersive technology, 3D technology and others. The tender for the technology, including the hardware and software required, is expected to be issued by October 10. The tender is likely to be finalised by the end of October, after which it will take around six months to complete the galleries,” he said. Misra added that now that the construction of the Ram temple has been completed, the focus has shifted to taking the remaining work to its logical conclusion. “Our main focus now is on the International Ramkatha Museum. Within the temple complex, and outside the complex, there is an auditorium whose construction is currently underway. There has been a delay of around three to four months in its construction. However, we hope that it will definitely be completed by January or February,” he added.

OMAN VESSEL ATTACK

One Indian Seafarer Missing After Oman Attack

NEW DELHI

Search and rescue operations are continuing to locate an Indian seafarer who remains missing after a commercial vessel carrying 14 Indian nationals was attacked off the coast of Oman on Sunday, the Ministry of External Affairs said on Tuesday. MEA spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal said 13 of the 14 Indian seafarers aboard the Panama-flagged vessel had been rescued with assistance from the Omani authorities. One Indian national remains unaccounted for, with search teams continuing efforts to locate him. “The seafarer was on board. Search and rescue operations continue with the help of the Omani authorities,” Jaiswal said during the ministry’s bi-weekly media briefing in New Delhi.

The Indian Embassy in Oman is closely monitoring the situation and coordinating with Omani authorities involved in the rescue operation. The incident has also prompted India to reiterate its concerns over attacks targeting commercial shipping and civilian infrastructure in the region. Jaiswal said such targeting was unacceptable and called for the restoration of free and safe navigation through international and national waterways. The MEA had earlier condemned the attack on the commercial vessel MT El Gaia and urged immediate de-escalation, dialogue and diplomacy to restore peace in the region. Meanwhile, Iran’s Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps Navy said the super oil tanker El Gaia caught fire after hitting naval mines while attempting to cross the Strait of Hormuz through what it described as a “forbidden” route south of the waterway. According to the IRGC, warnings had been issued about the risks of using the route. It maintained that the Strait of Hormuz remained closed and under the control of Iranian naval forces.

Weeks after Nepal flood, kin of missing hold out hope

Kathmandu

Every day since a torrent of mud and rocks destroyed a Nepal-China border crossing high up in the Himalayas last month, Arushi Gupta's parents have called and messaged their missing daughter hoping she somehow survived. The last photo she sent on the day of the flood was the facade of the Gyrlong Port Immigration post. But the calls and messages from her parents, who are among many families in Nepal and abroad awaiting news of loved ones, have gone unanswered.

Survivor saw vessel capsize, waited 10 hrs for rescue

JAKARTA

Rizky Apriansyah was asleep on the top deck of the Virgo Transport 8, the ferry that capsized in Indonesia's Java Sea, when friends woke him up at around 1 a.m. on Sunday, urging him to grab a life jacket. Panicked, he and his four friends rushed out of their room. Rizky, who worked as a waiter on-board, recalled seeing waves as high as 3 to 4 metres hitting the vessel multiple times, sending the ship listing even further. No alarm was rung, he said, and he feared other passengers might not be aware of the impending tragedy.

Hungary files bill to roll back Orban-era anti-LGBTQ+ rules

BUDAPEST

Hungary's government submitted a bill to parliament late on Monday that would remove anti-LGBTQ+ rules prohibiting the "promotion of homosexuality" to under-18s implemented by Viktor Orban's former nationalist government.

Orban's government, which was ousted after 16 years in an election in April, promoted a Christian-conservative agenda and in 2021 banned the "display and promotion of homosexuality" and gender change in media content accessible by under-18s.

Orban said the anti-LGBTQ+ laws were to protect children, but the restrictions attracted strong criticism from rights groups and the European Union.

Hungary's new Justice Minister Marta Gorog said in May that Hungary would need to revise legislation restricting access to LGBTQ+ content after the EU's top court ruled in April that the restrictions breached EU law and contributed to the stigmatisation and marginalisation of gay and transgender people.

Yemen's Iran-aligned Houthis launched a fresh wave of missile and drone attacks on Saudi Arabia while strengthening their positions along Yemen's western Red Sea coast, Yemeni officials said, as Riyadh held urgent deliberations over its response to the group's rapid advance. The Houthis said on Monday that they fired dozens of missiles and drones at a military airbase in Khamis Mushait in southern Saudi Arabia. They claimed to have targeted aircraft hangars, radar systems, runways and ammunition depots in retaliation for Saudi airstrikes in Yemen. Saudi authorities issued emergency alerts in Khamis Mushait and three other southern cities.

The Saudi-led coalition in Yemen said 13 civilians were wounded in the attacks. The escalation comes as the Houthis have expanded their presence along the Red Sea. Their recent advances include the capture of Perim Island at the entrance to the strategic waterway. Yemeni officials said the group also maintains effective control over almost the entire western coastline. Saudi and Yemeni air forces have intensified strikes on Houthi positions, including areas around the historic Red Sea port of Mocha. However, the bombardment has not halted the group's advance. The developments have added pressure on Saudi Arabia's oil infrastructure after an attack on Thursday knocked its 1,200-kilometre east-west pipeline offline. Riyadh blamed Iranian-backed militias in Iraq for that attack. Traders warned that a prolonged pipeline shutdown could remove up to 4% of global oil supply while the Strait of Hormuz remains largely blockaded. Crude prices rose more than 4% before settling around 1% higher on Monday.

US Senate faces Crypto Bill vote

WASHINGTON

The US Senate is set to vote Tuesday on whether to advance the Clarity Act, a cryptocurrency bill that could establish a federal regulatory framework for digital assets.

The legislation is a key priority for the cryptocurrency industry, which argues that clearer rules would provide companies with legal certainty. The industry has spent hundreds of millions of dollars lobbying and campaigning to support the bill.

However, Senate Republican leaders face uncertainty over whether the measure can secure the 60 votes required to advance. Republicans released revised legislation Sunday to address concerns raised by the banking industry and some Democrats, including questions over ethics and officeholder conflicts.

The procedural vote, scheduled shortly after 2 p.m. EDT, could become a decisive test. Analysts say the Senate has limited time remaining on its calendar, with the election year creating competing priorities. A failed vote could leave little opportunity to revive the bill. The crypto market has largely anticipated that the bill would not become law soon. Investors may therefore not view another delay as a major market shock, although passage could reduce regulatory uncertainty and encourage institutional participation. A major dispute involves restrictions on public officials benefiting from cryptocurrency businesses. Democrats have sought tighter safeguards, with concerns partly focused on President Donald Trump's cryptocurrency interests.

KYIV

Russia and Ukraine exchanged fresh attacks on energy infrastructure on Tuesday, despite US President Donald Trump's announcement that the two sides had agreed to stop targeting each other's energy facilities.

Russia launched around 200 drones overnight at Kyiv and other Ukrainian cities, killing two people, according to Ukrainian officials. The attacks also hit petrol stations in the capital as well as energy and port infrastructure in other regions.

Ukraine responded by striking an oil refinery in Syzran, in Russia's Samara region along the Volga River, Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskiy said. Ukrainian drones also targeted facilities involved in drone production in the Taganrog and Oryol regions.

The Samara regional governor confirmed that an industrial facility had been hit but did not identify the site. In Taganrog, the regional governor said a warehouse belonging to e-commerce company Ozon was struck.

Zelenskiy said Russia was continuing attacks against Ukraine's energy sector, logistics network and critical infrastructure, adding that Kyiv's responses were having a tangible impact.

The latest strikes came a day after Trump said Russia and Ukraine had agreed to halt attacks on each other's energy infrastructure. Trump has described such strikes as a major factor behind a global fuel shortage that has pushed US diesel prices to record levels.

Key developments

Russia launched around 200 drones overnight.

Two people were killed in Ukraine.

Kyiv petrol stations and energy infrastructure were hit.

Ukraine struck a Russian refinery in Syzran.

Zelenskiy said Ukraine was prepared to stop the attacks but wanted credible guarantees from its partners that Russia would do the same. Moscow did not immediately respond to Trump's announcement, although Russia has previously supported his calls for Ukraine to stop attacking Russian refineries.

The continued strikes raise fresh questions over whether the proposed agreement can translate into a durable pause.

'Orlen rushes to find alternatives to Saudi oil supply'

LONDON

Polish integrated oil firm Orlen is rushing to find crude oil cargoes from the North Sea and further afield to replace disrupted Saudi imports, five industry sources told Reuters.

Orlen is one of the major European term customers of Saudi crude oil, but an escalation of the conflict in the Middle East - including Yemeni Houthi attacks against Saudi installations - has left the Polish firm seeking alternative supplies in recent days.

Orlen purchased several cargoes of crude oil in spot tenders on Friday and Monday, the sources said. It picked up North Sea grades including Grane, Johan Sverdrup and Johan Castberg, two of the traders said.

It also tendered for grades further afield including U.S. WTI Midland and Kazakh CPC Blend, two sources added. No further details were available and the tender results could not be directly confirmed with the counterparties.

Orlen declined to comment on details of specific commercial transactions, but said it actively manages its supply portfolio to ensure the uninterrupted operation of its refining assets.

Noncitizens accused of illegal US voting challenge Trump's authority

WILMINGTON

As U.S. President Donald Trump seeks to crack down on what he says is widespread illegal voting by noncitizens, several people charged with that crime are trying a novel strategy to get their cases dropped.

Five people being prosecuted in separate federal cases in Miami and Madison, Wisconsin, have argued for the first time in court that the 1996 law used to charge them is unconstitutional, according to a Reuters review of court filings. A ruling for the defendants, which could come before the November 3 midterm elections, would raise questions about the federal government's authority to prosecute noncitizen voting cases. The Trump administration has pushed to deport noncitizen voters, raising the stakes for defendants who previously faced as little as a $150 fine if convicted. The defendants were accused of violating the federal "Voting by Aliens" statute enacted three decades ago. The law makes it illegal for noncitizens to vote in federal elections, and violators can be fined up to $100,000 or imprisoned for up to a year. In the five cases identified by Reuters, defendants have asserted that the right to determine voter qualifications is reserved for U.S. states under the Constitution. While all states require voters to be citizens, the defendants argue that it is up to states to prosecute a violation, not the federal government. Trump's Justice Department has argued that the Supreme Court has recognized that Congress has the authority to protect the integrity of elections and has passed laws such as one criminalizing repeat voting in the same election.

NATIONAL SECURITY

China tightens foreign travel curbs

BEIJING

China on Tuesday implemented new exit-and-entry rules that allow authorities to restrict citizens from leaving the country if they are considered a potential threat to national technology and industrial security. The measures, unveiled in July, target violations of export controls and technology import and export regulations that authorities believe could endanger China's national interests or technological security. Under the new rules, Chinese citizens who return home after committing illegal or criminal acts overseas that harm national security or interests can face an exit ban lasting between six months and three years. The regulations also allow foreign nationals to be denied entry for one to five years if they provide false information in visa applications. China has historically imposed foreign travel restrictions on senior government officials and executives of state-linked companies who have access to confidential information. In recent years, Beijing has also expanded scrutiny of private foreign travel and overseas connections among civil servants and employees of state-owned enterprises. Foreign governments have reported cases of people being prevented from leaving China while facing security-related investigations. The broader restrictions have raised concerns among governments and businesses about how Beijing could use national security provisions to control international movement. Taiwan has urged its citizens to exercise additional caution when travelling to China, particularly those working in the technology sector. Taipei has expressed concern that the new references to export controls and technology management could give authorities greater discretion over exit restrictions.

Charani first Indian bowler to cross 800 points

Sree Charani becomes first Indian bowler to cross 800-rating mark, reaching 804 after her 4-20 performance in the Asia Cup final against Sri Lanka.

NEW DELHI

India's Sree Charani has become the first Indian bowler to cross the 800-rating mark in the ICC Women's T20I rankings. The left-arm spinner reached 804 points following her impressive performance in the Asia Cup 2026 final, where she took 4-20 against Sri Lanka to help India secure the title. Charani finished the tournament with 12 wickets and strengthened her position at the top of the T20I bowlers' rankings. She is only the third bowler overall to breach the 800-rating mark. Australia pacer Megan Schutt holds the highest-ever rating of 806, while former No.1 Sophie Ecclestone had previously reached 802. The achievement adds to Charani's impressive year, after she surpassed Poonam Yadav's record for the most wickets by an Indian bowler in a calendar year. Her latest ratings milestone puts her within touching distance of Schutt's record as she continues to lead the rankings. Deepti Sharma also made significant progress after her performance in the Asia Cup final. The star all-rounder claimed 3-19 and finished the tournament as its leading wicket-taker with 14 wickets. Her performances earned her a four-place rise to No.2 in the bowlers' rankings with 729 points, although she remains well behind Charani. India's record-extending eighth Asia Cup title also brought gains for Shafali Verma. She moved one place up to sixth in the T20I batters' rankings following her match-winning 68 in the final. Shafali also climbed five places in the all-rounders' rankings to reach No.15. The latest update highlights the strong impact of India's players across the rankings following their successful Asia Cup campaign.

Dhiraj Bommadevara makes history with WC gold

VIJAYAWADA

Indian archer Dhiraj Bommadevara's historic Archery World Cup Final triumph has been hailed by his family as the result of years of dedication, discipline and relentless practice. Bommadevara won the men's individual title at the 2026 Archery World Cup Final in Saltillo, Mexico, becoming the first Indian male archer to win the season-ending event's individual crown. His father, Bommadevara Sravan Kumar, said Dhiraj regularly trained for six to seven hours a day and began his sporting journey in 2006. "We were extremely happy when Dhiraj became a world champion," Sravan Kumar told ANI, describing the victory as the culmination of 19 years of hard work. Dhiraj defeated Japan's Nakanishi Junya 6-5 in a closely fought final that was decided by a shoot-off. With the match level at 5-5, Dhiraj held his nerve and hit a 10 with his deciding arrow, while Nakanishi managed a nine. The victory made Dhiraj only the second Indian archer to win an individual title at the Archery World Cup Final, after Dola Banerjee's women's recurve triumph in Dubai in 2007.

Govt forms task force to revive Formula 1 in India

NEW DELHI

The government has constituted a task force under NITI Aayog to examine the revival of Formula One and development of the motorsport's ecosystem in India. The panel will study challenges facing the sector and formulate a roadmap for its sustainable growth. The task force will assess taxation-related issues, along with infrastructure requirements for hosting major events. It will also examine the international, economic, tourism and investment benefits of bringing Formula One back to the country. The panel will recommend priorities, a policy framework and Public-Private Partnership models. The Task Force for Formula One Grand Prix feasibility assessment is chaired by Yugal Kishore Joshi, Programme Director at NITI Aayog. Its members include Kunal, Joint Secretary, Department of Sports; senior officials from the Departments of Commerce and Tourism; representatives from CBIC and CBDT; officials from the Uttar Pradesh and Maharashtra governments; representatives of Buddh International Circuit and Madras International Circuit; and the President or Secretary General of the Federation of Motor Sports Clubs of India. A technical expert nominated by FMSCI and other co-opted members may also join.

ing Formula One back to Buddh International Circuit in Greater Noida, nearly 13 years after the last Indian Grand Prix there. Union Sports Minister Mansukh Mandaviya visited the circuit this year, indicating plans for a revival. The Indian Grand Prix was held at Buddh International Circuit from 2011 to 2013, with Germany's Sebastian Vettel winning all three editions for Red Bull Racing. The inaugural race was held October 30, 2011. India also hosted a MotoGP round at the circuit in September 2023, but the event has not returned since. Formula One has remained absent from India since 2013.

Hockey: Pakistan to play Asian Champions Trophy in India

MOHALI

Pakistan will be among six countries competing in next month's Men's Asian Champions Trophy hockey tournament, Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann said. The tournament will run from October 27 to November 5, with India, Pakistan, China, Japan, Malaysia and Korea taking part. The league-stage matches will be played in Jalandhar, while the semi-finals and final will be held in Mohali. Mann said Punjab is committed to hosting the championship, which will be the first tournament of its kind in the state. The Punjab government has allocated Rs 25.40 crore for its organisation, while entry to all matches will be free. India enters the tournament as defending champions after winning the title in 2023 in Chennai and 2024 in Hulubuir, China. The Asian Hockey Federation event is an annual competition, although it was not held last year. Oman and Bangladesh have been named as reserve teams in case any participating side withdraws. Pakistan's participation follows the Union government's policy allowing India and Pakistan to compete in multilateral sporting events, despite restrictions on bilateral engagements. Mann said there was no problem with multinational tournaments, while individual India-Pakistan series could not take place. Pakistan had withdrawn from last year's Junior World Cup in Tamil Nadu, citing tensions between the countries. The India-Pakistan match is scheduled for November 1 in Jalandhar and will coincide with Punjab Day. Mann said the fixture would be an attraction for hockey fans. Hockey India secretary general Bhola Nath Singh said relations between the hockey federations of both countries are excellent, highlighting mutual respect between their players. The championship will open in Jalandhar on October 27 and conclude with the final in Mohali on November 5.

Ganges Grandmasters win Global Chess League 2026

NEW DELHI

Ganges Grandmasters defeated Alpine APL Pipers 1.5-0.5 in the final to win the Global Chess League 2026. Ian Nepomniachtchi produced a decisive victory over Magnus Carlsen, while teammate Stavroula Tsolakidou defeated Koneru Humpy to secure the title for the Grandmasters. The opening round of the final ended in a closely fought 3-3 draw. Ganges Grandmasters then dominated the second match, winning 4-2 with the Black pieces to seal the championship. Nepomniacht-chi played a strong game against Carlsen in the Catalan Opening, an opening Carlsen had also used during their 2021 World Championship match. Carlsen initially caught Nepomniachtchi off guard, but an inaccuracy on the 28th move, when he captured a pawn, allowed Nepomniachtchi to launch a powerful attack. The Russian combined his rook and bishops effectively and defeated Carlsen in 39 moves. Levon Aronian also contributed to the Grandmasters' success, defeating Anish Giri in the first game.

India's Adhiban Bhaskaran coached the Ganges Grandmasters, while Tsolakidou earned the Player of the Tournament award with 21 points. She was popularly known as the Greek Goddess. Interestingly, Carlsen has never been part of a team that won the GCL; Alpine APL Pipers won the previous edition without his participation.

“Neymar has definitely played an important role in my life. He's a friend I've had since childhood.”
— Philippe Coutinho, Santos FC midfielder.

Ex-Barca star Coutinho joins Santos until December

SANTOS

Former Liverpool and Barcelona playmaker Philippe Coutinho has joined Brazilian club Santos FC on a free transfer, with the 34-year-old signing a contract that runs until the end of 2026. Coutinho completed his medical at the Rei Pele training centre over the weekend before finalising the move. Santos confirmed the signing on Tuesday, describing Coutinho as a midfielder with recognised technical quality and vision, along with a successful career in European football and with the Brazilian national team. He had been without a club since leaving Vasco da Gama in February, when he cited mental fatigue. Coutinho revealed that his long-time friend Neymar played an important role in convincing him to join Santos. The two have known each other since childhood and previously played together for Brazil at youth and senior levels, including the 2018 FIFA World Cup in Russia. Neymar first contacted Coutinho after his departure from Vasco but was initially unable to persuade him.

India eye elusive singles gold in squash

NEW DELHI

India's eight-member squash team will travel from Chennai to Japan on Friday for the Aichi-Nagoya 2026 Asian Games, targeting a better medal tally than the five won at Hangzhou 2022, held in 2023, while chasing a first-ever singles gold. India have collected 18 squash medals at the Asian Games since the sport debuted in 1998, including three gold, four silver and 11 bronze. However, the country's best singles results remain Saurav Ghosal's silver medals in 2014 and 2022, along with bronze medals won by Dipika Pallikal Karthik in 2014 and 2018 and Joshna Chinappa in 2018. At Hangzhou, India won gold in mixed doubles through Dipika and Harinder Pal Singh Sandhu and in the men's team event. Ghosal claimed singles silver, while Anahat Singh and Abhay Singh won mixed doubles bronze and the women's team earned another bronze. This year's squash competition runs from September 23 to October 2, with singles champions earning direct berths for the sport's Olympic debut at Los Angeles 2028. Women's world No. 20 Anahat, the reigning junior world champion and third seed, and men's world No. 24 Abhay, the second seed, lead the singles challenge. Veer Chotrani, ranked 38th and seeded fourth, and Tanvi Khanna, ranked 63rd and seeded seventh, will also compete. Joshna, 39, will make her seventh consecutive Asian Games appearance and pair with Velavan Senthil Kumar in mixed doubles. National coach Harinder Pal Singh Sandhu said the team has a strong blend of experience and new talent.

Rodri says Barcelona not Champions League favourites

NEW DELHI

Barcelona midfielder Rodri has played down his side's status as favourites for the UEFA Champions League despite an impressive start to the season, saying the La Liga winners still have areas to improve before they can challenge for European glory. Hansi Flick's Barcelona have scored 21 goals and conceded only four across their last five matches in all competitions. Their Champions League campaign has also begun positively, with Barcelona currently third in the league phase standings behind defending champions Paris Saint-Germain and Bayern Munich. Rodri, who recently joined Barcelona after his spell with Manchester City, believes winning the Champions League would be an important step as the club seeks to return to the top of European football. He said Barcelona remain realistic about their chances and must correct several issues before being considered favourites. Barcelona last won the Champions League in 2015, defeating Juventus 3-1 in the final in Berlin. Since then, the Catalan side have endured several disappointing European exits. They lost to Paris Saint-Germain in the 2020/21 last 16, suffered consecutive group-stage exits in 2021/22 and 2022/23, and were eliminated by PSG again in the 2023/24 quarter-finals. They reached the 2024/25 semi-finals but lost to Inter Milan, before Atletico Madrid ended their 2025/26 campaign in the quarter-finals. Rodri said players such as himself were brought in to help Barcelona take the final step. He stressed that Champions League success can depend on crucial moments during knockout matches, including red cards, penalties and goals conceded.

“The Champions League is possible, but I don't think we are the favourites.”
— Rodri, Barcelona midfielder.
