‘Won’t do any good...’: K’taka plans ban on DJs, item songs at cultural events

BENGALURU

The Karnataka government is in favour of banning disc jockeys (DJ) who play blaring music and “item songs” at cultural events and religious processions, Kannada & Culture Minister Shivaraj Tangadagi told the Assembly on Wednesday.

The issue was raised by Labour Minister Santosh Lad who sought a ban on DJs.

“In all jayantis, DJs have become a big problem. We must discuss this. In any jayanti, our Gods won’t move forward (in a procession) without a DJ and an item song. This is shameful. DJs and item songs won’t do any good for culture,” Lad said.

Replying to this, Tangadagi said: “We will issue an order on this. A lot of problems are caused by DJs.”

He also sought cooperation from the BJP to ban DJs. “If all of them (BJP) agree, we must ban DJs,” he said.

Shimoga BJP MLA SN Channabasappa, however, was not onboard with the idea. “They may not want [DJs], but we do. You should ban Azaan as per a Supreme Court order. Will you do it?” he said. Speaker UT Khader intervened and said the Supreme Court had fixed decibel levels. “All governments must follow that,” Khader said.

Senior BJP lawmaker S Suresh Kumar backed the plan to ban DJs. “I’ve seen people with a pacemaker in their hearts suffer from the sound of DJs. I’ve seen children close their ears. Even the police are helpless. We must seriously consider the sound pollution due to DJs,” Kumar said.

The discussion on DJs emerged from Channabasappa seeking government funds to organise Sahyadri Utvasa or Malnad Utsava regularly.

Khatib was killed in a strike in Tehran, a day after Israel killed top national security official Larijani & Gen. Soleimani

TEHRAN

Iran has confirmed that Intelligence Minister Esmail Khatib was killed in Israeli strikes on Wednesday.

In a X post, Iranian President Masoud Pezeshkian condemned the “cowardly assassination” and offered his condolences. “The cowardly assassination of my dear colleagues Ismail Khatib, Ali Larijani, and Aziz Nasirzadeh, alongside some of their family members and accompanying team, has left us in deep mourning,” he wrote on X. Track the latest updates on the US-Iran war.

“I extend my condolences to the great people of Iran for the martyrdom of two cabinet members, the secretary of the Shura, and the military and Basij commanders. I am certain their path will continue more steadfastly than before,” Pezeshkian added further.

The announcement comes hours after Israeli Defence Minister Israel Katz claimed Khatib had been killed.

This follows death of defence min

Earlier today, Israel's defence minister Israel Katz stated that Khatib was killed in targeted overnight airstrikes. This assassination from Israeli forces comes a day after the killing of Iran's security chief Ali Larijani.

Katz on Wednesday said the country's military had eliminated Khatib, while adding that “significant surprises are expected throughout this day on all the fronts”. Katz also stated that he and Israeli PM Benjamin Netanyahu have given the Israeli military standing authorisation to eliminate other senior Iranian officials in their sights without the need for prior approval.

White House welcomes death of Khatib

The White House said the reported killing of Esmail Khatib was positive for the United States. Trump spokesperson Karoline Leavitt described Khatib as a “known terrorist” and said his death benefits the US and its citizens who have faced threats from Iran. The remarks came after Israel Katz announced that Israel had killed Khatib in a strike. Iranian authorities have not immediately provided detailed confirmation regarding the circumstances of his death.

3rd assassination of Iran's top leaders in two days

The killing of Esmail Khatib marks the third assassination of Iran's top leaders in two days. Gholamreza Soleimani, commander of the Basij, the internal paramilitary force of the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps was also killed in Israeli strikes on Tehran. Aziz Nasirzadeh, Iran's defence minister, was also killed in the initial US-Israeli strikes against Tehran, along with former Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei.

A welcome step: Centre offers 10% extra commercial LPG to states pushing PNG shift

NEW DELHI

The Centre has offered states and Union Territories an additional 10% allocation of commercial LPG if they facilitate a long-term transition to piped natural gas (PNG), a senior official said on Wednesday.

Addressing a press briefing, Sujata Sharma, Joint Secretary (Marketing & Oil Refinery) in the Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas, said the proposal has been communicated to states through a letter dated March 18.

Commercial LPG consumers have been facing supply crunch due to disruptions linked to the Strait of Hormuz.

Under the plan, states can earn additional LPG allocation by undertaking specific reforms and facilitation measures to accelerate the rollout of city gas distribution (CGD) networks and encourage consumers to shift from LPG to PNG.

As per the ministry's framework, 1% of the additional allocation will be given for setting up state- and district-level committees to approve CGD applications and address grievances.

Another 2% is tied to issuing orders granting deemed permissions for CGD projects, while 3% is linked to implementing a “dig and restore” policy to support pipeline laying.

The remaining 4% will be provided if states reduce annual rental or lease charges for CGD entities. “The onus is now on states and UTs to take these reforms forward, expedite approvals, and ensure PNG connections for domestic, commercial and industrial consumers,” Sharma said.

India's over 1.7 million tonnes of oil, LNG, LPG stuck in Strait of Hormuz

NEW DELHI

India's 1.67 million tonnes of crude oil, 3.2 lakh tonnes of LPG and about 2 lakh tonnes of LNG are stuck on the 22 Indian-flagged ships stranded in the Persian Gulf, waiting to transit through the Strait of Hormuz, Rajesh Kumar Sinha, Special Secretary in the Shipping Ministry, said Wednesday.

Originally, there were 28 Indian-flagged vessels in the Strait of Hormuz when the war in the Middle East broke out following US-Israel attacks on Iran. Of these, 24 were on the west side of the strait and four on the east side. In the last week, two vessels from each side have managed to sail to safety. “All 611 seafarers on 22 vessels (on the west side of the Strait) are safe,” he said. There are now 3 vessels on the east side after one more Indian-flagged ship joined them.

Of the 22 remaining Indian-flagged vessels on the west side of the Hormuz, six are LPG carriers, one is a LNG tanker, four are crude oil, one is transporting chemical products, three are container ships, and two are bulk carriers.

Additionally, one vessel is a dredger, another is empty with no cargo, and three are in dry dock undergoing routine maintenance. He said efforts are on to secure passage of the se vessels through the war-hit strait.

Overall, close to 500 tanker vessels remain confined to the Persian (Arabian) Gulf.

Missiles and drones continued to target UAE and others parts of the Gulf on Wednesday as the US-Israeli war with Iran entered the 20th day.

Israeli warplanes struck central Beirut early Wednesday, destroying apartment buildings in one of the most intense attacks on the Lebanese capital in decades. The strikes come as the Israel-Iran conflict widens across the region.

Post Larijani's death, Iran retaliated by launching missiles with multiple warheads toward Israel, killing two people near Tel Aviv. Tehran said the loss of officials would not disrupt its operations, with Foreign Minister Abbas Araqchi insisting the system does not rely on individuals.

Israel has increased strikes and ground operations against Hezbollah in Lebanon, while Iran's new supreme leader Mojtaba has rejected mediation efforts to reduce tensions.

Indian-flagged crude oil tanker 'Jag Laadki' arrives at Mundra port in Gujarat on Wednesday, transiting war-hit Strait of Hormuz. It carried approximately 80,886 MT of crude oil —sourced from UAE—loaded at Fujairah Port. These maritime developments unfolded against a backdrop of escalating West Asia tensions. Earlier, two Indian-flagged LPG tankers — MT Shivalik and MT Nanda Devi - carrying approximately 92,712 MT of LPG — arrived in India on March 16 and 17 crossing the Hormuz. To safeguard its commercial interests, India continues to maintain a consistent naval presence in these waters under “Operation Sankalp.” This initiative remains dedicated to ensuring protection to vital shipping lanes and safe berthing of its vessels.

Fresh jolt for Assam Cong as MP joins BJP

DISPUR

In a major setback for the Congress in Assam ahead of the Assembly polls, its sitting MP Pradyut Bordoloi, who resigned from the party on Tuesday, formally joined the BJP in the presence of Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma and state BJP president Dilip Saikia

Bordoloi, a two-time Lok Sabha member from Nagaon and a former state cabinet minister, cited internal sidelining and repeated disrespect from party leaders as reasons for ending his decades-long association with the Congress. “Today, I have abandoned one of the most important principles of my life, and I am not happy with it... However, I made this decision because I was being insulted on many issues by anyone who approached me from within the Congress party, especially in the Assam Congress,” he told reporters.

His exit follows that of former Assam Congress president Bhupen Kumar Borah.

DGCA FLOATS NEW RULES

Big relief for flyers as Centre caps seat selection fees

NEW DELHI

Airlines will have to keep a minimum of 60% of its seats on any flights free of extra charges for availing facilities to ensure free access and flyers travelling on the same PNR should be seated together, the Ministry of Civil Aviation has told domestic operators.

The Ministry's directions, aimed at further strengthening passenger convenience, transparency and uniformity of practices across airlines, have been conveyed to the airlines through the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA), stated an official.

With airlines charging extra for choosing seats and other facilities, the new directions have mandated that a minimum 60% of seats on any flight be allocated free of charge to ensure fair access. Passengers travelling on the same PNR to be seated together, preferably in adjacent seats, it said.

Minimum free seats: Airlines often charge extra for preferred seats (like window, aisle, or front rows). Under the new rule, minimum 60% of seats on any flight will be allocated free of charge to ensure fair access to all passengers.

Same PNR to be seated together: Passengers travelling on the same PNR will be seated together, preferably in adjacent seats. This will avoid families being split up, especially those travelling with children or elderly passengers.

Carriage sports and musical instruments: Airlines must allow passengers to carry sports equipment and musical instruments in a clear and passenger-friendly way, while following safety rules.

Adherence to rules: Airlines should follow strict adherence to the passenger rights framework, particularly in cases of delays, cancellations and denied boarding.

Passenger entitlement-related communication in regional languages: With many people facing difficulties due to most communication being in English, the new rules mandate clear communication of passenger entitlements in regional languages to ensure wider accessibility and awareness.

Display of rights: There should be a prominent display of passenger rights across airline websites, mobile applications, booking platforms and airport counters.

Drone flies 40 lab samples in 10 minutes in B'luru

A city-based healthcare firm & a logistics startup have teamed up to use to deliver diagnostic samples, bypassing B'luru's gridlocked roads & ensuring faster supply

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

In a pilot project, Narayana Health and Airbound used specialised drone flights to transport samples from a clinic in Chandapura to Narayana Health City in Bommasandra, significantly cutting down transit time compared to road commute. Under the pilot, running since January 2026, around 700 flights were conducted over 54 days, with each flight carrying up to 40 diagnostic samples.

The drone covered a 4km aerial route in just 10 minutes, what would typically take about an hour in peak traffic.

Apart from saving time, each of these drone flights cost about Re 1 in operational expenses, making it a more economical option than road transport. The blended wing-body tailsitter design of the drones combined vertical takeoff with the aerodynamic efficiency of a fixed-wing flight, thereby enabling lower cost per km of delivery compared to conventional ground transport. Earlier, diagnostic samples used to be transported on three to four road trips daily.

Dr Devi Prasad Shetty, Founder and Chairman of Narayana Health, said the model will be scaled up at its upcoming hospital in Banashankari, set to be inaugurated in the coming months.

While DGCA approval was obtained for the test flights, for operating services from Banashankari to Bommasandra, a formal approval is still awaited.

Naman Pushp, founder and CEO of the logistics startup said the pilot recorded zero failures so far. Conventional logistics is primed for change. Our ambition is to build a new layer of infrastructure for commercial freight, he further added.

Commenting on the upcoming medical facility, Dr Shetty said, this will be the first hospital in India to go completely paperless and smart. Only those directly involved in patient care will be on-site, while all other services will be handled remotely.

Apartments await KAOMA-2025, political timing clouds bill's future

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The city's apartment residents are intensifying their demand for the long-pending Karnataka Apartment Ownership and Management Act (KAOMA-2025), as uncertainty continues over when the legislation will finally be tabled.

With the legislature session in progress and MLAs turning the spotlight on the challenges faced by the tech capital, members of the Bangalore Apartments' Federation (BAF) hoped the proposed legislation would not be put on the back burner once again.

The residents said the urgency stemmed from persistent gaps in the existing Karnataka Apartment Ownership Act-1972, which they argue fails to address key issues such as redevelopment norms, dispute resolution mechanisms, and the powers and responsibilities of apartment associations.

The absence of a comprehensive and updated legal framework has made governance within apartment complexes difficult, often leading to conflicts and lack of accountability, they pointed out.

According to BAF, the city has over 1,700 apartments and 3.5 lakh apartment residents, though the federation itself represents only a section of this population.

BAF President Satish Mallya said, the delay in passing the KAOMA-2025 Act is leaving citizens struggling to manage their apartments, resolve disputes, and protect their ownership rights without a clear legal framework.

Kiran Hebbar, Treasurer of BAF, said repeated delays in tabling the bill have made governance within apartment communities increasingly difficult.

When certain provisions are enforced while others are overlooked, it creates uncertainty.

A timely, clear, and uniform implementation of the Act is essential for transparency and smooth functioning, he said.

LPG crunch threatens to stall over 3K MSMEs

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The spectre of complete shutdown looms over Peenya Industrial Area, one of the largest industrial hubs in the country, with disruptions in gas supply threatening over 3,000 Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) with slowdown or shutdown of operations.

The situation is worsening by the day, triggering fears of production losses, delayed orders, and wage stress on workers.

Many units report that supply has dropped sharply, affecting daily operations and forcing production cuts. Nearly 3,500 industries in the Peenya region are dependent on LPG, which is a primary source of production activity. Fuel costs account for 15-30 percent of production expenses. We are already facing fiscal-end pressures and the upcoming festival season, and such disruptions will severely affect output, manpower, and the local economy, R Shivakumar, former President of Peenya Industries Association (PIA), told.

He added that gas agencies have cited supply constraints and are distributing cylinders based on availability. We request the government to intervene, handhold the MSME sector, and ensure a proper dispatch schedule from manufacturers. Without timely supply, industries may be forced to halt operations and could face penalties for delayed deliveries, he said.

Peenya, spread over nearly 50 sqkm, is one of Asia's largest industrial clusters, employing close to 13 lakh workers. The cluster generates an annual turnover of about Rs 35,000 crore and contributes nearly Rs 8,500 crore worth of exports, making it a critical pillar of Kar-

Industries dependent on LPG for critical processes such as welding, heat treatment, metal casting, and food processing have been grappling with irregular supply over the past 10 days.

'Prolonged disruption will hit sector hard'

PIA president DP Danna said prolonged disruption could lead to reduced industrial output, supply chain bottlenecks in engineering and automobile components, increased manufacturing costs, and potential job losses across the MSME ecosystem.

nataka's manufacturing ecosystem.

Industry representatives point to global factors exacerbating the crisis. India imports 65-66 percent of its LPG, over 90% of it from war-ravaged West Asia. The shortage is already disrupting furnace-based operations, gas cutting, and moisture-removal processes across sectors such as foundries, fabrication units, powder coating, and pharmaceuticals.

For micro enterprises operating on thin margins, rising fuel costs and supply uncertainty are adding to working capital stress.

Despite the gravity of the situation, industry leaders say no formal meeting has yet been convened by the industries department to address the crisis or discuss mitigation measures.

'B'luru pollution trail may reach Mekedatu project site via Vrishabhavathi'

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Government's ambitious Mekedatu balancing reservoir project on Cauvery river, planned as a major drinking water source for Bengaluru, may face fresh environmental scrutiny. A recent report warned that untreated sewage flowing through the city's polluted river network could eventually reach the Cauvery basin near the proposed dam site in Kanakapura.

The report, State of Vrishabhavathi River, released by Mapping Malnad, a citizen-led platform working on Western Ghats and river conservation, cautioned that wastewater from Bengaluru carried by Vrishabhavathi river ultimately joined Arkavathi river, which drained into Cauvery near the Mekedatu region. Without addressing the upstream pollution sources, contamination originating in Bengaluru could travel downstream towards the region where the govt is proposing to build the reservoir, it stated. Researchers found that Vrishabhavathi carries large amounts of untreated sewage, industrial effluents, and urban waste, degrading water quality in the Arkavathi basin. Monitoring data shows high organic pollution, bacterial contamination, and reduced dissolved oxygen in stretches receiving its inflows, harming the river's ecological health.

Despite the Rs 391-crore rejuvenation project for Byramangala reservoir, the report says such measures fail to address the root cause, unchecked discharge of sewage and industrial effluents into Vrishabhavathi.

It warns that these efforts merely shift pollution downstream, placing an unfair burden on farmers in areas like Kanakapura and the Harobele dam command region.

Offer of free notebooks for schoolchildren under review: Min

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The initiative of distributing free notebooks for the government school students from the 2026-27 academic year, announced by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah at a state-level Teachers' Day celebration last year, is under review, according to Minister for School Education and Literacy Madhu Bangarappa.

The Chief Minister had announced that notebooks will be distributed free of cost along with textbooks. Later, the same announcement was made by the state's school education minister at various public events.

However, with no mention of the freebie in the state budget or in the call for intent for books for the next academic year, where schools had to give the number of books required, it was evident that free notebooks would unlikely be distributed.

Replying to a question in the Legislative Council during the ongoing session, he said the policy is under review.

When asked whether the announcement was on hold because the finance department had rejected the proposal, the Minister said the proposal is being examined at the government level.

As per the September 2025 announcement, all students in 46,000 government schools and 7,000 aided schools were to get free notebooks along with textbooks from the 2026-27 academic year.

Meanwhile, books for remedial classes, the Marusinchan programme will be distributed only among students who have not achieved the expected learning levels. Marusinchan was initiated in 2023 to help students catch up on the age-appropriate learning levels.

While initially all students were given the worksheets, it was later restricted to only a few students.

The programme is being conducted for classes 6-10.

District Health Education Officer Shivananda V.H.P. emphasized that rabies spreads through dog bites, mostly from stray animals. of dogs by the Animal Husbandry Department and immediate treatment at public health centers are essential. BJP LEADERS SLAM GOVT OVER CANAL BREACH

BJP leaders, including former Lok Sabha candidate Basavaraj Cavor, visited the site of the breach in the Tungabhadra Left Bank Canal and strongly criticized the government for alleged negligence.

The leaders inspected the damaged stretch between Basapura and Bandiharlapur villages and expressed shock over the large quantity of water lost and the damage caused to farmers' crops. They said the incident has worsened the problems faced by farmers in the region.

Basavaraj Cavor blamed the authorities for failing to act despite warnings from local villagers about a weak point in the canal months ago. He alleged that the negligence of officials and leaders led to the breach.

The BJP leaders also accused Shivraj Tangadgi and MLA Raghavendra Hitalnal of not taking timely action to modernize and maintain the canal system.

Farmers joined the protest at the site, expressing anger that proper repairs were not carried out earlier. They said the sudden increase in water flow from the reservoir worsened the situation, leading to the canal collapse.

The canal was supplying water for drinking purposes to Koppal and Raichur districts, but the breach has now created fresh concerns over water shortage during the summer. In addition, nearby agricultural fields have been damaged due to the overflow.

MP seeks expansion of underpasses in Davanagere

DAVANAGERE

Dr. Prabha Mallikarjun has submitted a petition to Union Minister Nitin Gadkari seeking expansion of key underpasses in Davanagere to ease traffic and improve safety.

During a meeting held in New Delhi, the MP requested widening of the Light Vehicle Underpass near SS Hospital and the Vehicle Underpass at Bada Cross as per national highway guidelines. She pointed out that the existing structures are too narrow to handle the growing number of vehicles.

According to the petition, both locations witness heavy daily traffic. Bada Cross is a busy junction, while the SS Hospital area is an important healthcare hub with a Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation depot nearby. Due to limited space, traffic congestion has become a regular problem. The MP also highlighted safety concerns, stating that narrow underpasses are causing delays for ambulances and public transport, which can affect emergency services. She stressed the need to upgrade infrastructure considering future traffic demands. In her proposal, Dr. Mallikarjun suggested constructing larger underpasses with better planning. Key recommendations include separate lanes for pedestrians and non-motorized vehicles, safe ramp systems, and the development of proper slip roads.

The petition cites heavy traffic at Bada Cross and SS Hospital, narrow underpasses delaying ambulances, and urges infrastructure upgrades to address congestion and future traffic needs.

Officials believe that such improvements will help reduce congestion and ensure smoother movement of vehicles in the city. The demand has gained importance as Davanagere continues to grow, with increasing traffic putting pressure on existing road infrastructure.

Authorities are expected to review the proposal and take necessary action based on feasibility and guidelines.

Smart city works in Hubballi face criticism

HUBBALLI

Concerns are rising in Hubballi over the effectiveness of Smart City projects, with residents questioning the use of large amounts of public money on development works that have shown limited benefits.

Several citizens have expressed frustration, saying that crores of rupees have been spent, yet basic issues continue to trouble people in many parts of the city. Areas such as Indira Gandhi Glass House, Nehru Maidan, Putani Rail Road, and Janata Bazaar Market are facing problems related to poor planning and incomplete works. Locals say many projects under the Smart City initiative lack proper management and coordination. They feel that despite modern infrastructure being introduced, the execution has not met expectations. Some even described the situation as wasteful spending, as the benefits have not reached the common people.

Residents also raised concerns about accountability, questioning whether officials and public representatives are properly monitoring the use of funds. Many believe that if the same money had been used in a more planned and systematic way, it could have solved several important civic issues. The Smart City project was introduced to improve urban services and provide better living conditions. However, people now feel that the gap between plans and actual results remains wide.

Citizens have urged authorities to review ongoing works and ensure better implementation in the future. They are demanding transparency, proper planning, and quick action to address the problems so that the projects truly benefit the public as intended.

Awareness program urges snake bite safety for villagers

KOPPAL

An awareness program on snake bite prevention and control was organized on Monday at Huligemmma Temple in U-Katapura village. The initiative was jointly conducted by the District Administration, Zilla Panchayat, District Health and Family Welfare Department, District Surveyors Unit, Community Health Center Kanakagiri, and Gram Panchayat Office Hirekheda. Addressing the gathering, Epidemiologist Dr. Madhavi highlighted the risks of snake bites, especially for farmers, who make up over 70 percent of India's rural population. She explained that four venomous snakes—the viper, cobra, krait, and saw-scaled viper—cause 90 percent of snake bite deaths. Most are active at night, except for cobras, and precautions like using a torch, keeping homes and fields clean, and wearing shoes while working outdoors can save lives. Dr. Madhavi also advised on immediate first aid: move the bitten person calmly, avoid cutting the wound or using a tourniquet, keep the bitten limb still, and seek treatment at the nearest government hospital within 40 minutes. She cautioned against herbal remedies or unsafe practices.

District Health Education Officer Shivanand V.P. spoke about summer health precautions, infectious disease control, and HPV vaccination.

Canal breach causes heavy water loss in Koppal

Irrigation officials said rodent damage weakened the canal, causing collapse despite sandbags

KOPPAL

A major breach in the Tungabhadra Left Bank Canal led to a large loss of water late Tuesday night, raising concerns among officials and farmers in the region.

The incident occurred between Basapur and Bandiharlapur villages in Koppal taluk, near the 13th-mile stretch of the canal. According to officials, the canal was carrying water released to fill tanks in Koppal and Raichur districts to meet drinking water needs during the summer.

Sources from the Irrigation Department said that seepage had been noticed earlier at the same spot. The area was reportedly weakened due to rodent burrows, which damaged the canal structure. Though sandbags were placed to control the leakage, the canal bund eventually collapsed, causing water to flow into nearby agricultural fields.

Officials stated that water release into the canal had resumed recently after being stopped for crest gate installation work at the reservoir. Based on available storage, water was being released at a rate of 2,000 cusecs from March 16, and it was planned to continue until March 27.

The sudden breach has resulted in the loss of a significant amount of water meant for drinking purposes. Authorities are now working quickly to repair the damaged section and stop further leakage. Senior officials have directed teams to assess the damage and take immediate action. Efforts are also being made to prevent similar incidents in the future by strengthening weak points along the canal.

He said nearly 50,000 farmer families depend on tobacco cultivation in areas like Hunsur, Periyapatna, H.D. Kote, K.R. Nagar, and Arakalagodu. Despite producing good quality crops, farmers are struggling as market prices have dropped significantly in recent months.

Oppn slams Fadnavis govt over acid attack on girl

Raut accused the govt of failing to control rising crimes against women and paying more attention to target political opponents

MUMBAI

Shiv Sena (UBT) MP Sanjay Raut and Congress leader Vijay Wadettiwar on Wednesday strongly criticised Maharashtra Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis following an acid attack on an 11-year-old girl in Ahilyanagar district.

Both leaders raised concerns over the state's law and order situation and demanded accountability from the government.

Raut said that if Fadnavis had any conscience, he should resign from the Home Department. He accused the government of failing to control rising crimes against women and alleged that more attention was being given to targeting political opponents than ensuring proper governance. He also questioned official statements and claims that women and girls are safe in the state.

Wadettiwar brought up the issue in the Assembly through an adjournment motion, calling the incident deeply disturbing. He questioned whether criminals still feared the police and pointed out that the victim from Sangamner was in critical condition. He also asked why the accused had not yet been arrested.

Further, Wadettiwar alleged a collapse of law and order and criticised the local police for negligence and corruption. He said such failures by authorities give confidence to criminals and result in serious crimes.

Assembly Speaker Rahul Narwekar described the matter as serious and directed the government to take immediate action and present a detailed report in the House.

Raut also alleged that opposition MLAs and MPs were being denied funds, claiming that public money was being used unfairly for political purposes.

Palam fire tragedy claims 9 lives, injures 3

A devastating fire in Delhi's Palam area killed nine family members and injured three others on Wednesday, officials said. In a desperate attempt to escape, a man and his one-and-a-half-year-old daughter jumped from the third floor after a rescue ladder failed to reach them.

The child suffered fractures in both legs, while her father sustained head injuries. Both were admitted to Safdarjung Hospital for treatment.

The fire broke out in a five-storey building near Ram Chowk Market, which housed a cloth and cosmetic showroom on the lower floors and the residence of owner Rajender Kashyap's family above. Thick smoke quickly filled the building, leaving residents trapped.

Eyewitnesses said a ladder was placed only up to the second floor, forcing those on higher floors to take extreme steps. During the chaos, the child slipped from her father's grip and fell, while he later jumped and hit a parked vehicle below. Another family member escaped by jumping to a neighbouring house but suffered burn injuries.

Neighbours tried to rescue the trapped family by breaking windows and walls. They alleged that there were no safety nets and that the initial fire tender failed, causing delays. Another fire engine reportedly arrived after nearly 50 minutes.

Around 30 fire tenders and 11 ambulances were deployed, along with teams from police, BSES, Air Force police and NDRF. The fire has now been brought under control, and the area has been sealed. A forensic team will investigate the cause of the blaze.

ED attaches properties worth Rs 20.59 cr in dairy fraud

BHOPAL

The Enforcement Directorate ED in Bhopal has attached 11 immovable properties worth Rs 20.59 crore in connection with a major dairy fraud case involving M/s Jayshri Gayatri Food Products Pvt Ltd and its Managing Director, Kishan Modi.

The action was taken under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002, following an ongoing investigation into the production and export of adulterated dairy products.

Officials said the company, which sells products under the brand Milk Magic, allegedly replaced milk fat with palm oil and harmful chemicals. These products were sold in India and exported abroad.

To secure export approvals, the firm is accused of submitting fake laboratory reports to the Export Inspection Agency in Indore. Later checks confirmed that many reports were forged and never issued by the laboratories.

Centre pushes PNG adoption, asks states for quick approvals

The Centre has also urged states to expedite approvals for CGD pipeline laying, mandate clearance of new applications within 24 hours, waive road restoration and other local charges, relax working hours and seasons for project execution, and appoint nodal officers to ensure faster implementation.

Commercial LPG users, particularly in urban areas, have been encouraged to switch to PNG, with CGD companies offering multiple application channels and incentives for new connections.

concerns over LPG availability, even as supply conditions have improved in recent days.

Sharma said about 93% of LPG bookings are now being made online, while home delivery has increased significantly to around 81%, up from 53% earlier.

The official said domestic LPG production from refineries has been ramped up by around 40%, and there are adequate crude oil inventories.

There has been no "dry-out" reported at retail outlets or LPG distributorships, she added.

Nemom contest heats up ahead of Kerala polls

THIRUVANANTHA PURAM

The Nemom constituency in Kerala is witnessing an intense political battle ahead of the 2026 Assembly elections, with the BJP aiming to regain lost ground. State BJP president Rajeev Chandrasekhar has already declared his candidacy and is confident of victory.

The BJP is encouraged by its recent success in local body polls, especially in Thiruvananthapuram Corporation. Chandrasekhar secured over 45 per cent votes in Nemom during the 2024 Lok Sabha elections, boosting the party's hopes.

However, sitting MLA V Sivankutty of the CPI(M) remains confident of retaining the seat. He dismissed BJP's claims and accused the Congress of indirect support to the party in the past. Sivankutty highlighted development works carried out by the Left government and expects voter support again.

The constituency has seen shifting voting trends over the years. BJP's vote share dropped after its 2016 win by O Rajagopal, while both Left and Congress improved their positions. In 2021, Sivankutty defeated BJP's Kummanam Rajasekharan by over 4,000 votes.

PUNE

Pune is set to introduce three-letter vehicle registration numbers as the existing 'MH-12' series nears its limit. Officials from the Regional Transport Office said the current two-letter combinations have almost been exhausted due to the rapid rise in vehicles. With over 43 lakh vehicles registered, the new format like 'MH-12 AAA 0001' will soon be introduced to continue registrations smoothly in the city.

Acid attack on minor girl sparks protests

AHILYANAGAR

An acid attack on a 13-year-old girl in Vadgaonpan village of Sangamner taluk has triggered protests in Maharashtra's Ahilyanagar district. The incident occurred when the student was returning home from school. She suffered facial burns and is undergoing treatment at a hospital in Loni. Police have registered a case and launched a search for the absconding accused. Locals staged a "rasta roko" protest demanding swift action. Authorities assured financial aid and strict steps to arrest the attacker soon.

Maha acts against absent docs, moots reforms

MUMBAI

The Maharashtra government has taken strict action against absentee doctors in state hospitals, terminating 58 medical officers. Public Health Minister Prakash Abitkar said notices were issued to 710 doctors, with 442 facing disciplinary action. To improve accountability, biometric and GPS-based attendance systems will be introduced. The government has also expanded treatment coverage under key health schemes and directed hospitals not to charge extra fees. IRAN'S RESILIENCE SURPRISED EVERYONE: EX-DIPLOMAT

Iran's preparedness and decentralised system have helped it withstand pressure from the US and Israel, raising concerns for global stability and India's energy security.

NEW DELHI

Former diplomat Dilip Sinha has said the ongoing conflict involving Iran could develop into a long war of attrition, as it continues despite pressure from the United States and Israel.

Speaking on the situation, Sinha observed that Iran has surprised many by sustaining the conflict for so long. He said the country had made strong preparations over the years, including building and safely storing missiles and drones in locations that are difficult to access. He also pointed out that even after the killing of key leaders such as Ali Larijani, Iran's governance and decision-making systems remain active. According to him, decentralised decision-making has ensured that operations continue smoothly without major disruption.

Sinha explained that Iran's approach involves spreading both its military resources and leadership responsibilities, which has helped it continue the conflict for an extended period.

Referring to India's concerns, he mentioned Prime Minister Narendra Modi's recent discussions with the UAE leadership about the Strait of Hormuz. He noted that the narrow route remains sensitive and difficult to protect, affecting the flow of oil supplies.

He stressed that India should reduce its dependence on Gulf oil and diversify its supply sources. He also suggested increasing focus on self-reliance in energy and critical minerals.

On regional tensions, Sinha criticised Pakistan over reports of an airstrike in Afghanistan, calling the situation serious and urging consistent global standards in dealing with counter-terror operations.

Indian oil tanker reaches Mundra Port amid West Asia tensions

MUNDRA

An Indian-flagged oil tanker reached Mundra port safely, strengthening crude supply despite rising tensions in West Asia region.

The Indian-flagged crude oil tanker Jag Laadki has arrived at Adani Ports in Mundra, Gujarat, carrying around 80,886 metric tonnes of crude oil. The shipment was sourced from the United Arab Emirates and loaded at Fujairah Port.

The vessel is a larger, measuring over 274 metres in length, with a beam of about 50 metres. It has a deadweight capacity of over 164,000 tonnes, making it suitable for transporting large volumes of crude oil.

Officials said the arrival highlights the important role played by Adani Ports and Special Economic Zone in handling major energy imports.

These shipments are crucial for refineries to ensure steady fuel production and support India's growing energy needs.

The development comes at a time when tensions remain high in West Asia, affecting key shipping routes. Despite these challenges, India has continued to ensure safe maritime operations.

Earlier, two Indian LPG carriers, MT Shivalik and MT Nanda Devi, successfully crossed the Strait of Hormuz and reached India with over 92,000 metric tonnes of LPG.

To protect shipping routes, India has maintained a naval presence under Operation Sankalp. This mission aims to ensure the safety of vessels and secure important trade lanes.

The Directorate General of Shipping is closely monitoring the situation in coordination with stakeholders and Indian missions abroad.

The government is also working with ports and shipping companies to avoid disruptions.

Authorities have advised ports to offer relief measures, including reduced charges where needed, to support smooth maritime trade during this period.

BJP leaders claim more Cong exits likely soon

NEW DELHI

After Assam MP Pradyut Bordoloi quit the Congress and joined the BJP, BJP leader Nishikant Dubey on Wednesday said more leaders could leave the party soon. He even suggested that Gaurav Gogoi might step down in the future.

Speaking outside Parliament, Dubey questioned the strength of the Congress, saying the party appeared inactive and weak during recent proceedings. He claimed that Congress members neither participated in debates nor protested effectively, raising concerns about the party's current condition.

BJP spokesperson Shehzad Poonawalla also criticised the Congress, alleging internal divisions and lack of leadership. He said several leaders have lost confidence in Rahul Gandhi, pointing to recent resignations as a sign of growing dissatisfaction.

Senior BJP leader Mukhtar Abbas Naqvi echoed similar views, stating that the Congress leadership has failed to manage internal issues and retain trust among members.

India building a strong energy ecosystem with focus on sustainability: PM

NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday said India is building a strong energy ecosystem while ensuring sustainability for future needs.

He highlighted an article by Union Minister Manohar Lal Khattar, urging people to understand the country's evolving energy policies aimed at achieving a developed India.

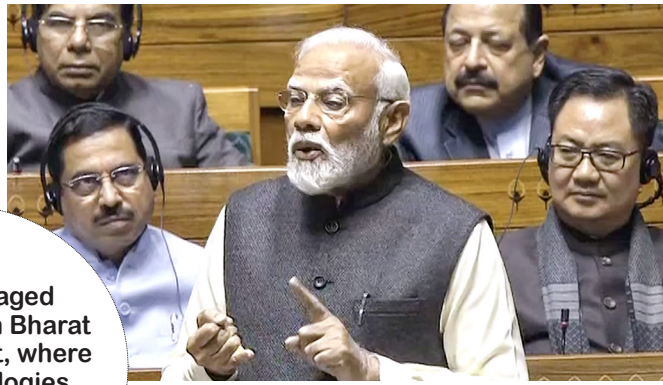

Khattar noted that India's power sector has seen major progress over the past decade, including electrification of households and a sharp reduction in power shortages. He said energy shortage has dropped from 4.2 per cent in 2013-14 to just 0.03 per cent in 2025-26.

The minister added that a record 52.53 gigawatts of power capacity was added in 2025-26 alone, the highest ever in a single year. This growth has strengthened both power generation and transmission across the country.

Electricity generation has also increased significantly, rising from over 1,020 billion units in 2014 to around 1,830 billion units in 2025. Per capita electricity consumption has gone up from 957 kWh to 1,460 kWh during the same period, showing improved access and economic growth.

The PM encouraged participation in Bharat Energy Summit, where future technologies, innovation, and energy goals will be discussed.

Khattar said these developments have ensured reliable power supply for homes, farms, and industries. He added that India is now the third-largest producer and consumer of electricity globally.

The Prime Minister also encouraged participation in the Bharat Energy Summit, where future technologies, innovation, and energy goals will be discussed.

CONGRESS SLAMS RS 1K EPF PENSION

NEW DELHI

The Congress on Wednesday criticised the government after a Parliamentary panel called for a review of the Rs 1,000 minimum monthly pension under the Employees' Pension Scheme, 1995.

Congress leader Jairam Ramesh said the current pension amount is too low and has not changed despite rising inflation. He alleged that several social security schemes have weakened over the past years, affecting vulnerable sections, especially the elderly.

Ramesh said the small pension fails to meet basic needs as prices of essential goods and healthcare have increased sharply. He described the amount as inadequate for ensuring a dignified life for retired workers.

The Parliamentary Standing Committee on Labour, Textiles and Skill Development also noted that the Rs 1,000 pension has remained unchanged for a long time. It recommended an urgent and detailed review to raise the amount to a more realistic level. The committee said many pensioners have submitted requests for increasing the minimum pension, highlighting financial difficulties faced by economically weaker groups.

The demand gains importance as pensioners have been seeking an increase to Rs 7,500 per month. Recently, several beneficiaries staged a protest at Janar Mantar, urging the government to revise the pension amount. The Labour Ministry informed the panel that the government is already providing financial support to the scheme, including contributions for current members and budgetary assistance to maintain the minimum pension.

However, the committee maintained that the present pension is not sufficient to meet even basic living expenses in the current economic situation.

It urged the government to take immediate steps to review and increase the pension, ensuring better financial security and dignity for millions of retired workers across the country.

Oppn protests rock Odisha Assembly over hospital fire

BHUBANESWAR

The Odisha Assembly witnessed major disruptions on Wednesday as Opposition members demanded action after the deadly hospital fire.

Members of the BJD and Congress created a ruckus in the House, seeking the resignation of Health Minister Mukesh Mahaling over the fire at SCB Medical College and Hospital in Cuttack that claimed 12 lives.

During Question Hour, MLAs holding placards rushed to the Speaker's podium and raised slogans.

Speaker Surama Padhy adjourned the House several times due to the chaos.

Opposition members also held a symbolic funeral procession of the health department within the Assembly premises, alleging failure by the government to prevent the tragedy.

They demanded increased compensation of ₹1 crore for victims' families, calling the current ₹25 lakh ex-gratia inadequate.

Leader of Opposition Naveen Patnaik criticised the government, saying the Health Minister should resign on moral grounds.

He said the incident highlights serious issues in the state's healthcare system.

Senior Congress leader Tara Prasad Bahinipati also criticised the condition of medical infrastructure, calling hospitals unsafe and demanding immediate action.

However, BJP MLA Manas Dutta termed the protest inappropriate, saying a tragedy should not be used for political purposes.

Other BJP leaders also opposed the demand for resignation.

The protest led to repeated disruptions, reflecting rising political tensions over the incident and accountability concerns.

UNANIMOUS CHOICE

BJP MLA Jamatia elected Tripura Assembly Speaker

AGARTALA

Senior BJP leader Ram Pada Jamatia was elected unopposed as the Speaker of the Tripura Assembly on Wednesday, as he was the only candidate to file nomination papers.

The post fell vacant after the death of former Speaker Biswa Bandhu Sen in December last year. Acting Speaker Ram Prasad Paul officially announced Jamatia's election in the House.

Following the announcement, Chief Minister Manik Saha, Leader of Opposition Jitendra Chaudhury, and other senior leaders escorted him to the Speaker's chair.

Jamatia has earlier served as a minister, handling portfolios such as Tribal Welfare and Industry. He is a two-time MLA from the Bagma constituency and joined the BJP in 2017 after retiring from the Oil and Natural Gas Corporation. Before that, he also worked at the Tripura Jute Mill.

With this appointment, he becomes the second tribal leader to serve as Speaker of the Tripura Assembly since the state attained full statehood, following Sudhanwa Debbarma.

Meanwhile, the Budget session of the Assembly is currently in progress. Governor Indrasena Reddy Nallu addressed the House at the start of the session. Finance Minister Pranajit Singha Roy later presented a budget of Rs 34,212 crore for the financial year 2026-27.

The session will continue until March 25, during which several important bills, including proposals for new universities, are being discussed.

SC slams lawyers' violence, grants bail to staff

NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court of India has strongly criticised violence by lawyers in Barabanki, Uttar Pradesh, and ordered bail for toll plaza employees.

A Bench led by Justice Vikram Nath said members of the Bar had created fear, denying the accused fair legal representation. The court observed that those expected to uphold justice had instead engaged in unlawful acts.

The case involved toll workers employed by M/s Skylark Infra Engineering Pvt Ltd at Gotona Bara Toll Plaza.

They were arrested after a dispute with a lawyer over toll payment in January and remained in custody for over two months.

The accused claimed they were arrested without proper information and later faced threats from local lawyers.

The court noted that a resolution had been passed urging lawyers not to represent them. When one advocate filed a bail plea, his office was reportedly vandalised.

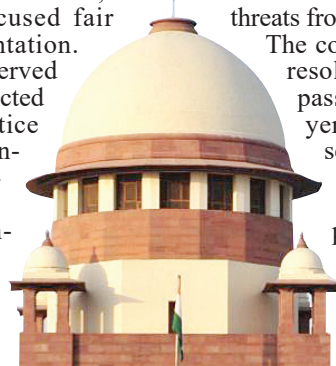

Calling the situation serious, the court said such actions had damaged the dignity of the legal profession. It added that unity among lawyers cannot justify violence or lawlessness.

The court directed that the employees be released on bail and held that denial of bail violated their right to personal liberty under Article 21.

To ensure a fair trial, the case has been transferred to Tis Hazari Courts in New Delhi.

The court also asked the Uttar Pradesh police to provide protection to the accused after their release.

It further directed the Bar Council of India to take appropriate action against those involved.

The ceremony took place at the Imamzadeh Saleh shrine, as Iran mourns the deaths of dozens of crew members in the attack. Iranian President Masoud Pezeshkian condemned the strike as an "inhumane crime" and honoured the sailors' memory. Many bodies were recovered and repatriated, while survivors were saved by rescue teams. The incident has further heightened tensions in the ongoing wider Middle East conflict.

Around 1,600 Indians fly home from Qatar

Qatar

About 1,600 Indian nationals returned to India on five Qatar Airways flights, the Indian Embassy in Qatar confirmed. Two flights landed in Delhi, while one each reached Mumbai, Kochi, and Thiruvananthapuram. Qatar Airways is operating limited, non-scheduled services due to airspace restrictions, with plans to fly to nine Indian destinations starting March 19. The embassy is also issuing temporary transit visas for travel via Saudi Arabia and providing 24/7 consular support. Community groups have assisted stranded Indians, including fishermen, with essential supplies. Passengers are advised to follow updated flight schedules and embassy guidance for safe travel.

Germany urges diplomacy to end Gulf conflict

Munich

German Ambassador to India Philipp Ackermann said Germany wants the ongoing Gulf war to end quickly and called for diplomatic solutions. He emphasized that peaceful talks are the best way forward, as the conflict affects global stability. German Defence Minister Boris Pistorius added that Germany will not join military operations but supports efforts to ensure safe passage through the Strait of Hormuz. European nations have expressed scepticism over U.S. proposals for a naval coalition in the region. Officials stressed diplomacy over military action, highlighting the importance of collaboration to prevent further disruption of global oil shipments.

Israel strikes 80 sites across Lebanon to stop Hezbollah

Israel launched major strikes in southern Lebanon, targeting Hezbollah sites and leadership to prevent attacks and dismantle terror networks.

TEL AVIV

The Israeli military launched a massive operation in southern Lebanon, destroying more than eighty sites linked to the group Hezbollah. Officials described the mission as a “forward defense” effort. The goal is to stop Hezbollah from rebuilding its military strength near the border, ensuring that they cannot launch future attacks against Israeli families. During the precise raids, soldiers also removed two operatives who had been hiding in the area. This intense wave of strikes followed a series of rocket attacks fired into Israeli towns. In response, the military targeted Hezbollah’s headquarters and weapons storage buildings. Many of these sites were located in crowded neighborhoods, leading to evacuations in the city of Tyre. Overnight, the mission expanded to Beirut, where the military hit financial hubs used to fund fighters and pay for operations. By cutting off this money, Israel hopes to weaken the group’s ability to stay organized. In a separate move, the military reported the death of a top Hamas commander, Yahya Abu-Labda. He was responsible for smuggling the materials used to build rockets, including equipment used in past major attacks. Israeli leaders emphasized that these combined efforts are necessary to dismantle terror networks and protect their national security. As the situation remains very tense, the military has vowed to continue its mission until the border is safe.

TEL AVIV

Tensions in the Middle East reached a breaking point after a reported Israeli attempt to assassinate Iran’s intelligence chief Ismail Khataib. While news agencies in both Israel and Iran confirmed the strike occurred, it remains unclear if Khataib survived the attack. This bold move is the latest in a series of high-profile hits that have shaken the Iranian government. Just days earlier, Ali Larijani, a very senior advisor and close ally to Iran’s top leadership, was killed in a separate strike during this nineteen-day conflict. The violence has also claimed the life of Brigadier General Gholamreza Soleimani, who led Iran’s internal security forces for six years. Iranian state media blamed the “American-Zionist enemy” for his death, marking him as a key military figure lost in the fighting. Despite these heavy blows to the country’s leadership, Iranian Foreign Minister Abbas Araghchi insists that their political system remains strong. He argued that the nation’s foundations are resilient enough to survive the loss of individual leaders, pointing out that the government stayed stable even after the death of their Supreme Leader in February. Araghchi shifted the blame for the escalating war onto the United States, claiming Washington started the conflict and must answer for the lives lost. As both nations trade threats, the entire region is on high alert for what might happen next. With military moves increasing on both sides, the world is watching closely, fearing that these targeted attacks could lead to an even larger and more dangerous international struggle.

Middle East tensions escalate after Israel targets Iran’s intelligence chief, amid multiple high-profile strikes, leadership losses, and accusations, raising fears of broader regional conflict.

Iran demands UN action against major strikes

NEW YORK

Iran is calling on the United Nations to take a firm stand against Israel and the United States. In a formal letter sent to the Security Council, Iran’s representative, Amir Saeid Iravani, accused both nations of breaking international laws. He urged the global community to launch an investigation into recent military strikes that have caused widespread destruction. According to Iranian officials, the violence has turned deadly for many, claiming the lives of over 1,300 civilians, including women and children, in just the last few weeks. The report paints a grim picture of the damage on the ground. Thousands of homes, schools, and medical clinics have reportedly been destroyed, leaving communities in ruins. Iran also criticized neighboring countries for allowing their land to be used as a base for these attacks. Iravani argued that these actions are “brazen violations” of human rights and national sovereignty. He warned that if the world does not act quickly to hold the aggressors accountable, the entire region could fall into even deeper instability. While calling for peace through the UN, Iran also defended its own military actions. The envoy stated that using missiles and drones against specific targets is a legal act of self-defense. They believe these strikes are a necessary response to protect their people from ongoing threats. As the conflict intensifies, both sides continue to blame each other for the escalating violence. Iran’s message to the UN is clear: the international community must step in now to stop the fighting and uphold the rules that protect global peace.

Iran claims strong leadership amid top losses

TEHRAN

Iran’s Foreign Minister, Abbas Araghchi, sent a defiant message, insisting that the nation’s government remains rock-solid. His comments follow the high-profile killing of Ali Larijani, a top security official and close ally to the country’s highest leaders. Larijani is one of the most senior figures lost since this intense conflict began nearly three weeks ago. Despite this blow, Araghchi told reporters that Iran does not depend on any single person to function and that its political and social institutions are built to survive such losses. The violence has also claimed the life of Brigadier General Gholamreza Soleimani, the head of Iran’s internal security forces. State media described his death as a targeted strike by "American-Zionist" enemies. Soleimani had led thousands of troops for six years and was a central figure in the country’s military plans. Araghchi pointed out that the government has already moved quickly to fill these empty seats, ensuring that the country stays under control. He noted that the system even remained stable after the death of their Supreme Leader, Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, earlier this year. In a sharp warning, the Foreign Minister blamed the United States for starting the war. He stated that Washington must be held accountable for every life lost and every dollar spent during this crisis. By placing the blame on foreign powers, Iran is signaling that it will not back down. As the conflict continues to escalate, Tehran is focused on showing the world that its leadership is resilient and ready to face any challenge, no matter how many officials are targeted.

RIYADH

Saudi Arabian defense forces successfully blocked a dangerous aerial attack over the capital city. Military officials confirmed they intercepted a ballistic missile and several drones that were specifically aiming for the city’s diplomatic district. While falling debris landed near a local air base, authorities are relieved to report that no one was injured and no buildings were damaged. This bold strike is part of a larger wave of violence currently shaking the Middle East, as tensions between international powers and regional groups continue to climb. The Ministry of Defense explained that these attacks are a direct result of ongoing conflicts involving the United States, Israel, and Iran. As retaliatory strikes spread across the Gulf, security concerns are reaching a breaking point. The instability has already caused major chaos for global travel and trade, with airports in Dubai and Doha forced to close their doors repeatedly. These closures have made it difficult for families to travel and have even delayed the delivery of life-saving medical supplies to those in need. In a move to restore peace, Saudi Arabia is now calling for an emergency meeting with foreign ministers from across the Arab and Islamic world. Leaders from Egypt, Iraq, and the Emirates are gathering in Riyadh to build a plan that stops the crisis from getting worse. The Saudi government remains on high alert, ready to protect its citizens and its cities from further harm. By working together with neighboring nations, they hope to create a shield of safety and find a diplomatic way out of this volatile situation.

Chopper crashes while landing in Eastern Nepal, 1 hurt

KATHMANDU

A helicopter carrying five passengers and a deceased body crashed in a remote part of Eastern Nepal. The aircraft, operated by Air Dynasty, was attempting to land on farmland in the Khotang District when the accident occurred around 11:51 AM. Despite the frightening impact, officials confirmed that there were no fatalities. One passenger sustained injuries, while the pilot and the other travelers managed to escape the wreckage safely. Local authorities quickly moved to secure the area and provide medical help. Chief District Officer Rekha Kandel reported that the injured person was rescued by a second helicopter sent by the company. Preliminary reports suggest that the crash may have been caused by sudden strong winds or thick dust kicked up during the landing process. However, a full investigation is currently underway to find the exact cause of the mechanical failure or pilot error. In many mountainous parts of Nepal, helicopters are a lifeline because roads are difficult to build and travel is slow. While these flights are usually safe, this incident highlights how dangerous the weather can be in high-altitude regions. Heavy winds and shifting clouds can make landing a massive challenge for even the most experienced pilots. Aviation experts are expected to conduct a safety review to prevent similar accidents in the future. For now, the community is relieved that everyone survived the crash, and the injured passenger is receiving the necessary care.

‘EXTREME HYPOCRISY’

Activists blast China’s stance on Anti-Muslim hate

WASHINGTON, DC

Uyghur human rights activists are calling out the Chinese government for what they describe as ‘extreme hypocrisy’. The backlash began after China’s mission to the United Nations posted a message supporting the International Day to Combat Islamophobia. In the post, Beijing claimed to oppose religious discrimination and pledged to work closely with Islamic nations. However, activists argue that these words hide a dark reality of state-sponsored persecution against the Uyghur Muslim minority in the Xinjiang region. Rushan Abbas, a prominent advocate, pointed to the destruction of thousands of mosques and the detention of millions of people in “training centers” as proof of China’s true policies. She shared the heartbreaking story of her own sister, who has been imprisoned for over seven years, simply because of her family’s activism. Other leaders, like Salih Hudayar, labeled the government’s message a “calculated attempt” to trick the international community. They argue that while China speaks of religious harmony at the UN, it is actually working to erase Islamic culture and identity back home. Human rights groups are now urging the world to look past the official statements and hold Beijing accountable. They claim that banning children from mosques and criminalizing daily prayers are clear signs of a war on Islam. As the debate grows on social media, international observers are being asked to recognize the gap between China’s diplomatic words and its actions on the ground. The activists insist that true progress against Islamophobia cannot happen until all Muslims, including the Uyghurs, are allowed to practice their faith without fear.

GENEVA

A prominent human rights activist has brought a chilling message to the United Nations, accusing Pakistan’s military of deep-rooted violence against its own people. Speaking in Geneva, Fazal ur Rehman Afridi claimed that civilians in the regions of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa and Balochistan are living in constant fear. He described a long history of military operations that have led to thousands of deaths, families being forced from their homes, and people vanishing without a trace. Afridi called these ongoing actions a "genocide" against the Pashtun people that has lasted for decades. The activist highlighted a terrifying rise in "enforced disappearances," where individuals are taken by security forces and never seen again. He alleged that many are held in secret centers where they face brutal treatment. Afridi also criticized laws that give the military broad powers to ignore civil liberties, making it nearly impossible for victims to find justice in court. He argued that as long as the military remains above the law, the cycle of violence and heartbreak for these communities will never end. Beyond internal issues, Afridi noted that cross-border tensions with Afghanistan often result in strikes that kill innocent villagers. He urged the international community and the UN to stop looking away and start a formal investigation into these human rights violations. By demanding that Pakistan’s government repeal unfair laws and hold its leaders accountable, Afridi hopes to bring global attention to a crisis that has been hidden for too long. His plea is a call for urgent action to protect the lives and freedom of millions.

Guardiola Under Pressure After Madrid Knockout, Hints at Uncertain Future

City boss faces questions after another Champions League exit to Madrid

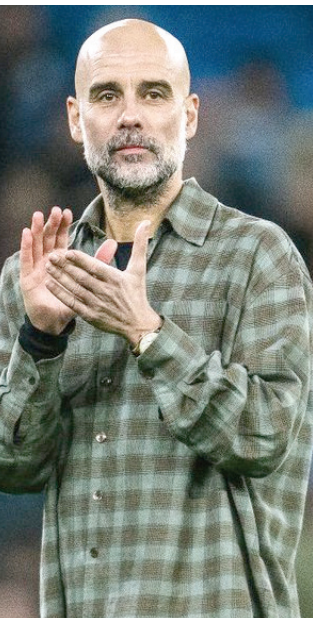

MANCHESTER

Pep Guardiola admitted that “everybody wants to fire me” after Manchester City suffered yet another painful UEFA Champions League exit at the hands of Real Madrid, intensifying speculation over his future at the club. City’s 2-1 defeat at the Etihad Stadium sealed a 5-1 aggregate loss in the round-of-16 tie, marking the fourth time in five years that Madrid have eliminated the English champions from Europe’s premier competition. Despite dominating English football in recent seasons, Guardiola’s side has struggled to consistently overcome the Spanish giants on the continental stage. Speaking after the match, Guardiola struck a reflective tone when addressing questions about his position. “Everybody wants to fire me. One day I will come out here and say ‘bye, bye guys,’” he said, adding to the uncertainty surrounding his tenure, with just one year remaining on his contract. The Spaniard, who has been in charge of City since 2016, is already in his longest managerial stint, having previously coached Barcelona and Bayern Munich without seeing out such an extended period. While he suggested that “the future will be bright,” he stopped short of confirming whether he would remain beyond the current campaign. Real Madrid once again proved to be City’s biggest obstacle in Europe. Even with injury concerns affecting key players, the 15-time champions showcased their pedigree to dismantle Guardiola’s side. Their consistent dominance over City in knockout stages has become a defining narrative of recent Champions League seasons. Guardiola, a three-time Champions League winner—twice with Barcelona—acknowledged the high expectations surrounding his record. “I should win six Champions Leagues,” he remarked sarcastically, reflecting on the scrutiny he faces despite reaching multiple semifinals and finals. Madrid’s latest triumph also highlighted the impact of their emerging leadership, with coach Alvaro Arbeloa guiding the team to notable victories over top managers in successive rounds. As speculation grows, Guardiola’s future remains uncertain, but his commitment to City’s long-term success appears intact—for now.

Delay in National Sports Awards Raises Concerns Over Ministry’s Functioning

CHENNAI

A prolonged delay in announcing the National Sports Awards has left athletes anxious and raised serious questions about the functioning of the Union Sports Ministry, with the final approval of shortlisted names still pending months after the selection process concluded. The prestigious awards, including the Arjuna Award and the Dhyan Chand Khel Ratna, are traditionally presented on August 29 to mark National Sports Day, commemorating hockey legend Dhyan Chand’s birth anniversary. However, this year’s delay has stretched well beyond precedent, with no official announcement even after the selection committee submitted its recommendations on December 24. Athletes whose names are believed to be on the shortlist have been left in a state of uncertainty, repeatedly questioning whether they have made the final cut and when the awards will be announced. Around 24 names were reportedly forwarded for the Arjuna Awards, along with one recommendation for the Khel Ratna, but the file is yet to receive ministerial approval. The delay is unprecedented in the history of the awards and has added to existing concerns over transparency and consistency in the selection process. Coaches’ awards, including the Dronacharya Award and Rashtriya Khel Protsahan Puruskar, are also pending, further compounding the uncertainty. While past delays were often attributed to major sporting events such as the Olympics, Commonwealth Games, and Asian Games, the current holdup is harder to justify, especially following a relatively less congested sporting calendar in 2025. The situation has also reignited debate over the number of awardees.

Consistency Key for Veer, Ramit Ahead of Crucial Season: Coach Palmer

CHENNAI

Consistency will be the defining factor for Indian squash players Veer Chotrani and Ramit Tandon as they gear up for a demanding season, according to their coach David Palmer. The duo will look to build momentum at the JSW Indian Open in Mumbai, a PSA Copper-level event beginning Wednesday, as they prepare for a year packed with high-stakes competitions, including the World Championships and the Asian Games. Palmer, a former World No. 1 and two-time world champion, emphasised that while both players possess the ability to challenge top-ranked opponents, maintaining consistency remains their biggest hurdle. “They have shown they can beat top-20 players and push top-10 players, but doing it regularly is the key,” he said. While Tandon is aiming to bounce back from a disappointing season, Chotrani heads into the tournament with confidence after an impressive performance against Joel Makin at the New Zealand Open, where he stretched the World No. 5 to five games. The coming months are particularly significant, with

Olympic qualification criteria now in place. Rankings will play a crucial role, and a strong showing at the Asian Games could secure a direct berth. Palmer believes both players have a realistic chance but stressed the importance of sustained performance and fitness. The coach, however, will miss the Mumbai event due to travel constraints. Despite his absence, his structured training approach continues to guide the players. Known for his emphasis on physical conditioning, Palmer has built his philosophy on lessons learned from his former coaches Joe Shaw and Sean Moxham. He explained that modern squash demands a balance of fitness, technique, and mental strength, with increasing competition depth making it tougher to break into the top 20. Palmer also highlighted the need to adapt training schedules this year, especially with a tight window leading up to the Asian Games. As the season unfolds, both Chotrani and Tandon will aim to translate potential into consistent results, keeping their Olympic ambitions firmly in sight.

CAF overturns final result after chaotic scenes, Senegal to challenge ruling

Senegal Stripped of AFCON Title, Morocco Crowned Champions After Appeal

PARIS

African football was rocked by controversy as Senegal national football team were stripped of their Africa Cup of Nations (AFCON) title, with Morocco national football team officially declared champions following a ruling by the Confederation of African Football. The dramatic decision comes two months after a chaotic final in Rabat on January 18, where Senegal had originally secured a 1-0 victory in extra time thanks to a goal from Pape Gueye. However, CAF’s Appeals Committee ruled that Senegal forfeited the match due to their players walking off the pitch in protest during stoppage time. The incident occurred when a late penalty was awarded to Morocco, sparking protests from Senegal players who left the field for nearly 20 minutes before eventually returning. Though Morocco missed the penalty—taken by Brahim Diaz—and Senegal went on to win, CAF deemed the walk-off a violation of competition rules. Citing Articles 82 and 84 of AFCON regulations, CAF stated that any team refusing to continue play without referee approval forfeits the match and is recorded as losing 3-0. As a result, Morocco have been awarded the title. The Royal Moroccan Football Federation welcomed the decision, clarifying that their appeal was not against Senegal’s performance but aimed at ensuring adherence to tournament regulations. Senegal’s football federation has strongly condemned the ruling, calling it “unjust, unprecedented and unacceptable,” and confirmed plans to appeal to the Court of Arbitration for Sport. The final had already been marred by disorder, including attempted pitch invasions by fans and prolonged disruptions following the penalty decision by referee Jean-Jacques Ndala. Senegal goalkeeper Edouard Mendy had saved the controversial spot-kick before the match proceeded to extra time. FIFA president Gianni Infantino had earlier criticised the “unacceptable scenes,” stressing the importance of discipline and respect for the game. The decision has sparked widespread debate, raising serious questions about governance, fairness, and the future handling of disciplinary issues in African football.

PSG, Real Madrid and Arsenal Storm Into Champions League Quarter-finals

PARIS

Holders Paris Saint-Germain, record champions Real Madrid and Premier League leaders Arsenal powered into the UEFA Champions League quarter-finals, while Sporting CP produced a stunning comeback to end Bodo/Glimt’s fairytale run. PSG delivered a commanding performance in London, thrashing Chelsea 3-0 to complete a dominant 8-2 aggregate victory. Georgian star Khvicha Kvaratskhelia continued his fine form by opening the scoring early, setting the tone for a one-sided contest. Goals from Bradley Barcola and Senny Mayulu sealed PSG’s emphatic progression as they look to defend their maiden European crown. Meanwhile, Real Madrid once again proved their dominance in Europe by eliminating Manchester City with a 5-1 aggregate win. Brazilian forward Vinicius Junior played a key role, converting a penalty and adding a late goal to underline Madrid’s superiority. Despite a goal from Erling Haaland, City were unable to overturn the European giants dominate as knockout drama sends top clubs into last eight deficit, continuing their struggles against the Spanish giants. Arsenal kept their dream season alive with a solid 2-0 win over Bayer Leverkusen at the Emirates Stadium, sealing a 3-1 aggregate triumph. Eberechi Eze broke the deadlock with a stunning long-range strike before Declan Rice added a composed second to confirm progression. Manager Mikel Arteta praised his team’s control and attacking intent. In Lisbon, Sporting staged one of the most remarkable comebacks of the competition, overturning a 3-0 first-leg deficit to defeat Bodo/Glimt 5-0 after extra time. Goals from Goncalo Inacio, Pedro Goncalves and a crucial penalty by Luis Suarez forced extra time, before Maxi Araujo and Rafael Nel completed the turnaround. Sporting’s victory marks their first quarter-final appearance since 1983, while Bodo/Glimt’s memorable European journey comes to an end.

Education Crucial as Sporting Careers Are Short: PV Sindhu

GURUGRAM

Two-time Olympic medallist PV Sindhu has emphasised the importance of education for young athletes, cautioning that relying solely on sports careers can be risky due to their uncertain and limited span. Sindhu highlighted that while sporting success requires dedication and hard work, academic grounding is equally essential for long-term stability. “You can’t play sport all your life. At some point, you have to retire, and that’s the reality. Education stays with you forever,” she said. The former world champion, who has balanced academics alongside an illustrious badminton career, shared insights from her own journey. She revealed how injuries and setbacks abruptly disrupted even the most promising careers, making it vital for athletes to have a strong educational foundation to fall back on. Sindhu recalled battling self-doubt ahead of the 2016 Rio Olympics after suffering a stress fracture in her left foot in 2015. The injury sidelined her for months and raised questions about her return to top-level competition. However, she made a remarkable comeback to win a silver medal at the Games, underlining both her resilience and the unpredictability of sporting careers. Echoing views often expressed by her mentor Pullela Gopichand, Sindhu urged parents and young athletes to strike a balance between academics and sports. She pointed out that success in either field demands discipline and commitment, and excelling in both is challenging but achievable. “Studies and sports are equally important. I have done my MBA, and I know it’s not easy to manage both. But at the end of the day, education gives you security for life,” she added. Currently on a short break after being stranded in Dubai due to regional airspace disruptions, Sindhu also spoke about the physical toll of injuries, noting that they often occur unexpectedly and can sometimes end careers prematurely. Her message to aspiring athletes was clear — pursue sporting dreams with passion, but never at the cost of education, which remains a lifelong asset beyond the playing arena.

KONERU HUMPY Raises Safety Concerns Over Candidates Tournament in Cyprus

NEW DELHI

Indian chess grandmaster Koneru Humpy has voiced strong concerns over participating in the upcoming Candidates tournament in Cyprus, citing serious safety risks amid escalating tensions in West Asia. Humpy questioned the decision of organisers to proceed with a premier event in a region she believes is increasingly unstable. Her remarks come in the backdrop of recent drone strikes and heightened military activity in the Mediterranean, raising fears that Cyprus could be drawn deeper into the conflict. “I am not sure if I will play. It depends on the situation,” Humpy said, expressing apprehension about travelling under current conditions. She pointed to ongoing hostilities involving Hezbollah and regional powers, as well as the presence of warships and reports of aerial threats, as key factors behind her hesitation. The former world rapid champion stressed that elite tournaments demand a peaceful and secure environment, something she feels is lacking at the proposed venue. “You should be able to play in a calm atmosphere, not surrounded by bomb or missile sirens. That is not the stage for a world-class tournament,” she remarked. While acknowledging that the event might proceed without incident, Humpy argued that even a minimal level of risk is unacceptable when players’ safety is involved. She questioned why organisers opted for Cyprus despite early signs of instability in the region. Taking to social media, Humpy clarified that her stance was not driven by personal concerns alone but by a broader principle.

Fuel crisis deepens as Pakistan faces shortages amid Iran war

Karachi
Pakistan is facing a severe fuel crisis after oil supply disruptions linked to Middle East tensions. Citizens are waiting for hours at petrol stations, while prices have risen sharply in recent weeks. The government is considering steps like shorter workweeks and online classes to save fuel. Limited reserves and heavy dependence on imports have worsened the situation. Efforts to reroute supplies are costly and slow. Experts urge declaring an energy emergency and investing in renewable sources to avoid future crises. They also stress building strategic reserves and improving planning to handle sudden supply shocks better ahead.

Tanker with UAE oil reaches Mundra boosting energy supply

Bhuj
The Indian-flagged tanker 'Jag Laadki' arrived safely at Mundra Port in Gujarat carrying about 80,886 metric tonnes of crude oil from the United Arab Emirates. The vessel was loaded at Fujairah and docked after proper coordination by port authorities. Officials said the cargo will support refinery operations and strengthen India's energy supply during global uncertainties. Earlier, LPG carriers 'Shivalik' and 'Nanda Devi' also reached Gujarat ports through the sensitive Strait of Hormuz. Authorities assured that India has enough energy resources, and unloading at Mundra will follow strict safety and environmental rules set by officials.

Tankers reroute from China to India amid spike in Russian oil purchases

New Delhi
India has increased its purchase of Russian oil, leading several tankers to change routes from China to Indian ports. One tanker, Aqua Titan, is now heading to New Mangalore after altering its course mid-journey. This shift follows temporary approval from the United States for higher imports. Indian refiners bought nearly 30 million barrels in a week to manage supply issues caused by Middle East tensions. At least seven ships have diverted recently. Another tanker, Zouzou N., is also heading to Sikka. Experts warn rising demand could push global oil prices higher in coming weeks ahead.

India mandates local parts for solar power

NEW DELHI

The Indian government is taking a massive step to ensure the country builds its own solar technology from scratch. The officials announced that key solar components, known as ingots and wafers, must be sourced from an approved list of local makers starting June 1, 2028. This new rule expands existing laws that already require solar panels and cells to be made in India. By including these "upstream" parts, the government aims to end the country's heavy reliance on expensive imports from abroad. Minister Pralhad Joshi explained that this move is all about making India self-reliant in clean energy. Currently, while India assembles many solar panels, the thin silicon wafers inside them often come from other countries. Under the new framework, any new solar project starting after the deadline must use these government-approved domestic parts. This includes everything from large government solar farms to smaller setups used by private businesses and homes. To make sure there is enough supply, the official list of approved makers will only be released once at least three independent factories are running with a large total capacity.

India leads the way toward greener power

Prime Minister Narendra Modi highlights India's energy transformation, showcasing reliable power, sustainability progress, and growing global leadership in electricity production.

NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi recently shared a bright vision for the nation's future. He highlighted how India is building a strong energy system that protects the environment while meeting the growing needs of its people.

The Prime Minister praised a new report by Minister Manohar Lal Khattar, which explains how local energy policies are turning the dream of a developed India into a reality.

The transformation over the last ten years has been truly incredible. In the past, many areas struggled with frequent blackouts, but power shortages have now almost disappeared. The government has worked hard to ensure that every home, farm, and factory has the electricity it needs to thrive. Statistics show that the country's energy gap dropped from over four percent a decade ago to nearly zero this year. This progress makes India the third-largest producer and consumer of electricity across the entire globe.

Recent records show that India added more power capacity this year than ever before. This massive boost helps support a growing economy where the average person now uses much more electricity than they did in 2014.

To showcase these wins, the Bharat Energy Summit will begin tomorrow at Yashobhoomi. This event will run until March 22, focusing on new technology and smart innovations. By inviting everyone to learn about these changes, the government hopes to inspire a cleaner, more reliable future for the next generation. India is no longer just watching the world change; it is leading the charge toward a sustainable tomorrow.

Indian companies lead global digital investment, embracing Industry 4.0 technologies with strong confidence, innovation focus, and readiness for transformative business change.

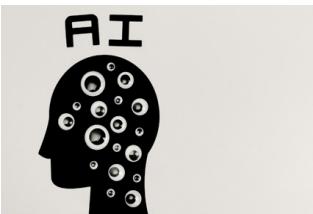

‘India leads world in digital tech spending’

NEW DELHI

Indian companies are now the most eager in the world to spend money on new digital tools.

A fresh report shows that seventy-one percent of firms in India are ready to invest heavily in technology. This is the highest rate found anywhere on the globe, proving that India is charging ahead in the race to modernize industries. The country now ranks among the top three nations for adopting advanced "Industry 4.0" systems.

Experts from MHP and LMU Munich found that most businesses worldwide expect massive changes over the next ten years. While many are nervous about these shifts, Indian leaders are embracing a "software-first" mindset. In fact, forty-four percent of people surveyed in India believe that software is already changing their business for the better. This is a much higher number than what was seen in European countries like Germany or Switzerland. While some regions focus

US fights China's grip on vital minerals

NEW DELHI

The United States is facing a tough challenge as it tries to break China's control over rare minerals. These special materials are needed to build everything from smartphones and electric cars to advanced military equipment.

Currently, China produces most of these minerals and handles almost all the processing. US officials admit that this happened because America chose to send the technology abroad years ago to avoid the pollution caused by mining.

By moving this work away, the US lost decades of experience in science and engineering. Now, the country finds itself depending on China for ninety-five percent of its rare earth needs.

A top defense official recently noted that while the US holds seventeen percent of the world's manufacturing power, China holds thirty percent. This gap is a major concern for national security. To fix this, the US is now looking at a "periodic table" of problems it must solve to catch up and secure its own supplies.

India becomes global leader in chip design: Report

NEW DELHI

India is rapidly transforming into a vital hub for the global semiconductor industry. While other nations focus on massive factories, India's true power comes from its brilliant engineers.

A new report reveals that the country now holds nearly 20% of the world's chip design workforce. This massive pool of talent is shifting how the entire world builds the technology found in our phones and computers.

For a long time, places like Taiwan and South Korea led the market with advanced manufacturing. Now, global tech giants like Intel and NVIDIA are flocking to India to open major research centers. These companies rely on local experts to design and test complex systems. Although building high-end factories takes time, India is moving fast by focusing on assembly and testing first. A great example is the massive new facility being built in Gujarat by Micron Technology.

The government is also playing a huge role through the India Semiconductor Mission. They are providing financial help to startups and offering the tools needed to invent new chips. This support has built immense confidence among international partners. In fact, a major partnership between Tata and a Taiwanese firm will soon bring an eleven-billion-dollar factory to life. By blending human talent with smart gov-

Indian job market booms across multi-sectors

NEW DELHI

India's economy is growing fast, and it is creating many new jobs for people everywhere. A new report shows that the unemployment rate dropped to 4.9 percent this February.

This is great news because it means hiring is no longer stuck in just a few big cities. Instead, work is opening up in factories, building sites, shops, and even on farms. This broad growth is helping families in both busy urban centers and quiet rural villages.

Government projects to build better roads and bridges are a big reason for this success. Programs like "Make in India" are also encouraging global companies to build cars and electronics right here. These big factories do not just hire floor workers; they also create roles for truck drivers and parts makers. Because more international brands are choosing India as their home base, these jobs are becoming more stable and lasting throughout the whole year.

Young people are finding exciting new paths in technology and startups. From online shopping to green energy, there is a huge demand for fresh talent. At the same time, more women are joining the workforce in fields like healthcare and teaching. New digital tools also allow many people to work from

Hiring rush grows as firms seek immediate joiners

Bengaluru: Nearly one in three job postings in India now seek candidates who can join immediately, showing rising urgency among employers. A report said demand for quick joiners has increased sharply since 2022, but availability remains low, creating a talent gap. Many companies prefer mid-level professionals who can start work without long training. Sectors like IT and banking face the biggest shortages, pushing firms to explore contract hiring. While metro cities lead in demand, smaller cities offer more quick joiners. Experts say fast hiring needs are driven by tight deadlines and shorter project cycles across industries today.

AFFORDABLE RAIL TRAVEL

Railways boost cheap travel with big subsidies

NEW DELHI

Indian Railways is putting everyday passengers first by making travel more affordable than ever. The government announced that it is focusing on adding more non-AC and sleeper coaches to trains across the country. To keep ticket prices low for everyone, the railway department provides a massive forty-five percent discount on every passenger's fare. This means the government spends billions of rupees each year just to ensure that travel remains a budget-friendly option for the public. Currently, about seventy percent of all train cars are dedicated to general and sleeper classes. Thousands of new coaches are being built right now to meet the high demand. While keeping fares low, the railways have also become a global leader in moving goods. Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw shared that India is now the second-largest freight carrier in the world. This success in cargo helps support the costs of passenger travel.

Safety and modern technology are also at the heart of these updates. Almost the entire rail network is now powered by electricity, which is better for the environment. Engineers have laid down thousands of miles of new tracks and built many overpasses to make journeys smoother and safer. New, high-tech coaches are replacing older ones to protect passengers during their trips. From automatic signals to better training for staff, every part of the system is getting an upgrade. By combining low costs with better safety, Indian Railways is ensuring that millions of people can reach their destinations reliably and without breaking the bank.

Jayawardene Eyes 'New Rohit' as Mumbai Indians Gear Up for IPL 2026

Coach confident Rohit's fitness and form will boost Mumbai Indians

MUMBAI

Mumbai Indians head coach Mahela Jayawardene is eager to witness a "newer version" of veteran opener Rohit Sharma in the upcoming IPL season, expressing confidence in the former India captain's renewed fitness and commitment.

Rohit, who has not played T20 internationals since leading India to the ICC Men's T20 World Cup title in 2024, remains a pivotal figure for Mumbai Indians. According to Jayawardene, the experienced batter has put in significant work behind the scenes and has looked sharp during the team's preparatory camp.

Despite a relatively modest IPL 2025 campaign where he scored 418 runs in 15 matches, Rohit's experience and leadership continue to be invaluable for the franchise. His return in top form could be crucial for Mumbai Indians as they aim to reclaim their dominance in the league. Jayawardene also dismissed concerns over the recent form of India's T20 World Cup-winning captain Suryakumar Yadav. Although Suryakumar managed just 242 runs during the global tournament, the coach backed his ability to bounce back strongly.

"SKY is a class player. He is not worried about his form, and neither are we. He delivered when it mattered and showed excellent leadership under pressure," Jayawardene noted.

He further praised Suryakumar's decision-making during challenging moments in the tournament, highlighting his composure and tactical awareness as key attributes.

Beyond the senior squad,

NEW DELHI

Punjab Kings head coach Ricky Ponting has approved the delayed arrival of South African all-rounder Marco Jansen for the upcoming Indian Premier League season, citing exceptional travel circumstances following the T20 World Cup.

Several players from South Africa and the West Indies were stranded in India for over a week after their World Cup campaigns ended, due to logistical disruptions linked to reduced operations at key transit hubs in West Asia. Airports in Dubai and Abu Dhabi were functioning below capacity, severely impacting outbound travel.

The situation drew criticism from notable figures, including West Indies head coach Daren Sammy and South African batter David Miller, who expressed frustration over the prolonged delays in leaving India.

Acknowledging these challenges, Ponting has allowed Jansen additional time before joining the squad. The left-arm pacer is now scheduled to link up with Punjab Kings on March 26, while most overseas players, along with Ponting, are expected to assemble by March 21.

An all-rounder Azmatullah Omarzai will arrive on March 23 from Kabul, despite ongoing regional tensions involving his country.

Ponting Backs Jansen's Late IPL Arrival After Travel Delays

Meanwhile, team captain Shreyas Iyer is likely to join the camp on March 19.

In their debut season together, Ponting and Iyer led Punjab Kings to their first IPL final since 2014, raising expectations for the upcoming campaign. Jansen, who claimed 16 wickets last season with an economy rate of 9.20, remains a key asset for the side. Punjab Kings will begin their IPL 2026 campaign against Gujarat Titans on March 31 at home, followed by an away fixture against Chennai Super Kings on April 3.

Spin duo could dominate if Eden pitch suits their strengths

Du Plessis Backs Narine, Varun as KKR's Key Weapons at Eden

"Both are among the best T20 spinners right now. If they are not in the game due to pitch conditions, KKR lose their biggest strength," he noted during an interaction with JioHotstar.Chakravarthy, despite India's recent T20 World Cup triumph, had a relatively modest outing, picking up 14 wickets at an economy rate exceeding nine. However, Du Plessis remains confident in his ability to bounce back strongly in familiar IPL conditions.

KKR, led by Ajinkya Rahane this season, will begin their campaign against the Mumbai Indians on March 29 in an away fixture. The team will look to improve on last season's disappointing performance, where they finished near the bottom of the points table with just five wins from 14 matches.

Du Plessis also highlighted the importance of Australian all-rounder Cameron Green, who joins KKR as a high-profile signing. While praising Green's all-round capabilities, he cautioned that the hefty price tag brings significant expectations and pressure.

Former India pacer Lakshmi-pathy Balaji, meanwhile, suggested a tactical adjustment, recommending Rahane bat in the top order. He proposed a strong top four featuring Finn Allen, Tim Seifert, Rahane, and Green to provide stability and firepower.

With a balanced mix of spin strength and batting depth, KKR will aim to mount a stronger title challenge this season.

Lakshmipathy Balaji Backs Rahane for No. 3 Role as KKR Eye Strong Start

MUMBAI

Former India pacer Lakshmipathy Balaji has strongly advocated for Kolkata Knight Riders skipper Ajinkya Rahane to bat at number three in the upcoming IPL season, insisting that the experienced batter should not slot in any lower in the batting order.

With KKR set to open their campaign against the five-time champions Mumbai Indians on March 29, discussions around the ideal top-order combination have intensified. The squad boasts multiple opening options, including Finn Allen, Tim Seifert, Sunil Narine and young Angkrish Raghuvanshi, creating both flexibility and selection dilemmas.

Balaji outlined a preferred top four comprising Allen and Seifert as openers, followed by Rahane at number three and Cameron Green at number four. He emphasised that Rahane has previously excelled in the one-down role and can anchor the innings while allowing stroke-makers around him to play freely.

"Rahane has done phenomenally well at number three. That position suits his game, and it will benefit both him and the team," Balaji said, highlighting the need for stability in the top order.

Rahane enjoyed a productive IPL season last year, scoring 390 runs in 12 innings at a healthy strike rate, largely operating at number three. His consistency and ability to pace an innings make him a crucial figure in KKR's batting setup.

Balaji also stressed that KKR's top order must step up this season, particularly after the departure of key contributors from their 2024 title-winning campaign, including former skipper Shreyas Iyer and explosive opener Phil Salt.

NEW DELHI

Former South Africa captain Faf du Plessis believes Kolkata Knight Riders possess a formidable advantage in their spin attack, urging the franchise to prepare spin-friendly conditions at Eden Gardens to maximise the impact of Sunil Narine and Varun Chakravarthy in the upcoming IPL season.

Du Plessis described the duo as "absolute cannons" in T20 cricket, emphasising that KKR's success hinges on creating conditions that allow both spinners to dominate. According to him, Eden Gardens should be tailored to assist spin, ensuring Narine and Chakravarthy remain central to the team's strategy throughout the tournament.

Pathan Backs Iyer to Shine Again as Punjab Kings Eye Strong Start

MUMBAI

Former India all-rounder Irfan Pathan has expressed strong confidence in Punjab Kings skipper Shreyas Iyer continuing his stellar form from last season, asserting that the stylish right-hander remains a "proven cricketer" who does not need the IPL as a platform to reclaim his place in India's T20I squad.

Punjab Kings, last season's runners-up, will begin their IPL 2026 campaign against Gujarat Titans on March 31 at New Chandigarh. With Iyer and head coach Ricky Ponting forming a formidable leadership combination, expectations are high for another strong showing.

Iyer was instrumental in PBKS' impressive run last season, finishing as the team's top scorer with 604 runs in 17 innings at an average above 50 and a strike rate exceeding 175. His consistency and aggressive approach made him one of the standout performers of the tournament.

Pathan highlighted Iyer's growth as a batter, recalling his memorable match-winning knock against the Mumbai Indians, where he displayed exceptional composure and shot-making against top-quality bowling. "He has improved leaps and bounds," Pathan remarked, adding that Iyer is already aware of his value to the Indian T20 setup.

The former all-rounder also believes Punjab Kings have a well-balanced squad heading into the season. The top order, featuring Prabhsimran Singh and Priyansh Arya alongside Iyer, appears settled after impressive performances last year.

The middle order, comprising emerging Indian talents like Nehal Wadhwa and Shashank Singh, along with experienced internationals such as Marcus Stoinis, provides depth and finishing power.

Pathan was particularly enthusiastic about the team's pace attack, led by Arshdeep Singh and Marco Jansen, with strong backup options including Azmatullah Omarzai and others.

MILAN

Rising Formula One star Andrea Kimi Antonelli has described his breakthrough victory at the Chinese Grand Prix as just the beginning of a promising career, as the teenage sensation targets sustained success at the highest level of motorsport.

The 19-year-old Mercedes driver clinched his maiden Grand Prix win from pole position, marking a historic moment as he became the first Italian to win an F1 race since Giancarlo Fisichella two decades ago. Antonelli's triumph also underlined his rapid rise after stepping into the seat previously held by seven-time world champion Lewis Hamilton at the start of the 2025 season.

"It's a starting point and I hope I can keep going because we're on the right track," Antonelli said after returning to his hometown Bologna, where he received a rousing welcome from fans and media. "It won't be easy, but this result gives me confidence and belief."

Antonelli finished ahead of his Mercedes teammate George Russell, with Ferrari's Hamilton completing the podium. In doing so, he also became the youngest pole-sitter in Formula One history, further cementing his status as one of the sport's brightest prospects.

The young Italian hinted at even bigger ambitions, including becoming the first driver from his country to win the world championship since Alberto Ascari in 1953. "There's a bigger step ahead, which is the most difficult. But if I do everything right, we can get there," he said.

Antonelli's achievement has sparked excitement across Italy, drawing praise from fellow sports stars, including tennis world number one Jannik Sinner, who dedicated his Indian Wells triumph to the young driver.

Lalit Modi's Message to Kavya Maran Sparks Debate After Abrar Ahmed Row

NEW DELHI

Fugitive former IPL chairman Lalit Modi has stirred fresh controversy with a pointed message to Sunrisers owner Kavya Maran following backlash over the signing of Pakistani cricketer Abrar Ahmed at The Hundred auction.

The Sunrisers franchise, which operates teams in multiple leagues, acquired Abrar Ahmed for ₹190,000 (approximately ₹2.34 crore) during the inaugural men's Hundred auction in London. The move triggered a wave of criticism on social media, with many fans questioning the decision given the longstanding absence of Pakistani players in the IPL ecosystem.

The backlash intensified to the extent that the Sunrisers Leeds' social media account on X was temporarily suspended amid the uproar. Traditionally, Indian franchises with overseas teams have avoided signing Pakistani players due to the political sensitivities surrounding India-Pakistan relations, particularly after the 2008 Mumbai attacks, which led to Pakistani players being excluded from the IPL after its inaugural season.

Amid the growing controversy, Modi weighed in with a cryptic yet direct remark on X, advising the franchise on handling public perception. "Investing ₹2.34 crore on a Pakistani player when fans are already on edge? I know a thing or two about managing optics and building empires.

Call me," he wrote, without explicitly naming the individuals involved. While Modi did not mention Maran or Ahmed directly, the timing, context, and financial reference made the target of his comment evident. His intervention has further fuelled debate, given his own contentious history with Indian authorities.

Modi has been residing in the United Kingdom since 2010 after leaving India amid allegations of financial irregularities, including tax evasion and money laundering linked to IPL operations.
