CESC adds another Guinness World Record to its crown

3,473 drones create a peacock design as the spectacular show enthrals audiences for the second consecutive day

CH NEWS, MYSURU

The Chamundeshwari Electricity Supply Corporation (CESC) has once again drawn global attention by setting another Guinness World Record with its spectacular drone show organised as part of the world-famous Mysuru Dasara celebrations.

After creating a tiger design using drones and earning a Guinness World Record last year, CESC has added another feather to its cap this year by creating a design of the peacock, India's national bird, using 3,473 drones.

The new record was achieved during the drone show held on Sunday evening at the Torchlight Parade Grounds in Bannimantap, Mysuru. Thousands of drones illuminated the night sky with synchronised, colourful lights, forming an impressive peacock design that left thousands of spectators gathered at the venue spellbound.

Among the 12 designs presented during the show, the peacock formation created using 3,473 drones earned the distinction of being the largest aerial display of a bird formed using drones, securing a place in the Guinness World Records.

Following the performance, members of the Guinness World Records team, who arrived from London, officially announced the achievement and presented the Guinness World Records certificate to CESC Technical Director L. Lokesh and other officials.

The second day

The second day of the drone show also proved to be a major attraction, entertaining audiences with a dazzling display of lights and colours in the night sky. The Bannimantap grounds were packed with spectators who had gathered in large numbers to witness the spectacular event.

The synchronised movements of thousands of illuminated drones created a series of captivating patterns in the sky, filling the audience with excitement and wonder.

Before the drone show, renowned singers Manikanth Kadri and Anuradha Bhat, along with Bollywood singer Hamsika Iyer, entertained the audience with their melodious performances.

MLA D. Ravishankar, Mysuru Regional Commissioner Nitesh Patil, and officials from CESC and the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) were among those present.

CH NEWS, MYSURU

Union Minister Shobha Karandlaje hosted breakfast for the families of mahouts and kavadis who are taking part in this year's Dasara, on the Palace premises in Mysuru on Monday.

It was Shobha who introduced lunch and breakfast for the mahouts and kavadis and their families on all days of Dasara. Since then, every district in-charge minister after her has followed the practice.

Though she is now a Union Minister, she still visits Mysuru on one day of the ten-day Dasara festival, climbs Chamundi Hill by the steps and hosts breakfast for the families of mahouts and kavadis. Local leaders led by MLA T.S. Srivatsa accompanied the Minister and fed the 'guests from the wild'.

A colourful race against time!

CH NEWS, MYSURU

With barely 24 hours left for the grand Jamboo Savari procession, Bandipallya on Mysuru-Nanjangud Road has turned into a hive of artistic activity, with sculptors, painters, welders, carpenters and decorators working round the clock to give the finishing touches to an array of colourful tableaux that promise to be among the major attractions of Mysuru Dasara 2026.

As many as 31 tableaux, representing districts across Karnataka, will roll through the streets of Mysuru during Wednesday's spectacular Jamboo Savari, showcasing the State's rich cultural heritage, historical legacy, social achievements, folk traditions and regional identities. Each district has chosen a distinct theme, transforming its tableau into a moving canvas that tells a story about its people, traditions and accomplishments.

At Bandipallya, the atmosphere is charged with excitement and urgency. The sprawling worksite echoes with the sounds of hammering, cutting, welding and the movement of materials as teams of artists race against the clock to ensure that their creations are ready for the grand procession.

While tableaux from some districts have reached the final stages of preparation, with their structures, sculptures, paintings and decorative elements largely completed, others are still working tirelessly to finish the remaining tasks. For these teams, every passing hour is precious, as the deadline approaches and the finishing touches must be completed without compromising the visual appeal of their creations.

Artists and craftsmen are putting in long hours, often stretching their work well into the night, to bring their imaginative designs to life. Intricate sculptures, elaborate backdrops, vibrant colour combinations and carefully crafted figures are being assembled to give each tableau its distinctive identity. The final stages involve painting, embellishment, checking structural stability and ensuring that the decorative elements are securely fitted for the procession.

The tableaux are more than mere decorative floats. They serve as moving showcases of Karnataka's diversity, highlighting the unique traditions, historical personalities, architectural marvels, folk art forms, development initiatives and achievements associated with different districts. Through carefully selected themes and visual storytelling, each participating district seeks to capture the attention of spectators and communicate a message to the thousands expected to line the procession route.

For the artists, the challenge lies not only in completing the work on time but also in ensuring that every detail is visible and impressive when the tableaux move past the crowds. The creations must combine artistic imagination with technical precision, as the massive structures are expected to travel through the city amid the festive atmosphere.

As Wednesday's procession approaches, Bandipallya is witnessing a fascinating transformation. What began as frameworks of metal, wood and other materials is gradually taking the shape of colourful, elaborate creations, reflecting weeks of planning and the collective effort of artists, craftsmen and supporting workers.

31 tableaux set to bring Karnataka's heritage, culture and achievements alive at Jamboo Savari

The final hours will be crucial for the teams still racing to complete their assignments. With some districts already poised for the spotlight and others making a determined last-minute push, the excitement is steadily mounting.

When the 31 tableaux finally roll out as part of the Jamboo Savari, the hard work of these unsung artists will take centre stage, adding colour, creativity and cultural splendour to Mysuru's most celebrated festival. For the visitors, it will be a visual feast; for the artists, it will be the moment when countless hours of labour are transformed into a moving celebration of Karnataka's pride and heritage.

Hebbal Dasara enters sixth year, spreading festive cheer

CH NEWS, MYSURU

The world-famous Mysuru Dasara is a symbol of Karnataka's rich culture, heritage and grandeur. With the objective of taking the festive spirit to every neighbourhood of the city, bringing people together and creating a platform for building a better society, Hebbal Dasara, organised under the guidance of K.V. Sridhar, president of the Navabharath Nirman Organisation, has entered its sixth year.

Thousands of people visit the areas surrounding Mysuru Palace during Dasara to witness the grand celebrations. However, heavy crowds, traffic congestion and distance prevent many from participating in these events. Organising Dasara festivities within local neighbourhoods offers residents of Hebbal an opportunity to experience the festive atmosphere in their own locality. This is one of the key objectives of the initiative.

K.V. Sridhar, president of the Navabharath Nirman Organisation, is striving to develop Hebbal Dasara into more than an annual festival. He envisions it as a platform that brings people together and contributes to positive social change.

The successful continuation of the event for six consecutive years reflects the organisation's commitment to maintaining close ties with the community and encouraging active participation by local residents.

Building a better society requires more than the development of infrastructure. Trust, mutual cooperation, cultural awareness and a sense of social responsibility among people are equally important. With this in mind, the organisation is making efforts to bring people together through sports, arts and cultural activities.

This year, Hebbal Dasara will be organised at two venues to enable more residents to participate in the festivities. Holding programmes at different locations within the neighbourhood will make the celebrations more accessible to people living in various parts of Hebbal and encourage wider community participation.

When children, youngsters, women and senior citizens come together for such events, they get opportunities to interact, forge friendships and strengthen mutual cooperation. These celebrations also foster a sense of pride in their neighbourhood and strengthen their feeling of belonging to the community.

Encouraging sport

Sports competitions are among the major attractions of Hebbal Dasara. They provide people across different age groups, from children to senior citizens, with opportunities to demonstrate their abilities.

Apart from promoting physical fitness, sports help inculcate discipline, punctuality, teamwork, self-confidence and the ability to accept both victory and defeat with equal composure.

Local-level competitions also provide talented sportspersons with opportunities to demonstrate their abilities and gain recognition.

Such events promote the idea that participating in competitions, making new friends and showcasing one's talent are just as important as winning prizes.

Under the guidance of K.V. Sridhar, the Navabharath Nirman Organisation has consistently organised Hebbal Dasara, providing a platform for active community participation.

Hebbal Dasara

- Sixth year running
- Two venues this year
- Sports for every age group
- Arts and cultural activities

In the coming years, such initiatives could inspire more activities in sports, culture, environmental cleanliness, youth leadership and social service.

The six-year journey of Hebbal Dasara demonstrates how a local festival can evolve into a distinctive community tradition through collective participation and cooperation.

By bringing the grandeur of Mysuru Dasara closer to the homes of Hebbal residents, the festival is emerging as an initiative that promotes not only cultural heritage but also neighbourhood unity, community spirit and a sense of collective social responsibility.

Help alleviate sugarcane growers' pain: CM to PM

Shivakumar writes to PM Modi, seeks resolution for sugarcane farmers' demands to end their ongoing strike in North Karnataka and facilitate start of crushing season.

BENGALURU

Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on Monday urged Prime Minister Narendra Modi to address sugarcane farmers' demands urgently to end the ongoing agitation in North Karnataka and facilitate the start of the crushing season.

In a letter to Modi, he said the agitation had delayed the start of the crushing season in North Karnataka, leaving mature sugarcane in fields and exposing farmers to losses due to declining cane weight and sugar content.

The CM said farmers were protesting at various places and taking out padayatras towards Hubballi to gherao the residence of Union Minister for Food, Consumer Affairs and Public Distribution Pralhad Joshi. Road blockades had been reported at several locations, while the High Court had issued directions restraining the protest at the minister's residence.

He said he had visited Kittur in Belagavi district on October 17 and appealed to the protesting farmers to call off their padayatra."The farmers stated that their principal demands concern matters within the purview of the Government of India and that they would not call off the agitation without an assurance from the Government of India," he said in the letter.

Describing the situation as grave, the CM said the continuing road blockades were disrupting public order and causing considerable hardship to the general public. He said the state government had taken measures within its jurisdiction to address farmers' concerns.

Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, along with his wife Usha, performs Ayudha Puja at Vidhana Soudha in Bengaluru on Monday, offering prayers for the happiness, peace, and prosperity of everyone in the state.

REASONS FOR RAISING THE ISSUE

Growers across Belagavi, Vijayapura, and Bagalkote protested demanding ₹3,500 per ton instead of the ₹3,200 offered by mills. While the state offered minor relief, Shivakumar highlighted five core central policy changes needed to resolve the crisis:

CM's key demands to PM Modi

- Revision of sugar MSP: Raising the frozen ₹31/kg rate from 2019 to match rising FRP costs, to ensure mills can pay fair prices to farmers.
- Dual pricing: Establish separate MSPs for domestic and commercial bulk buyers to protect household consumers.
- Review cane-based ethanol exclusion: Reconsider the oil marketing companies' procurement tender for 2026–27 that excluded ethanol from sugarcane juice, syrup, and B-heavy molasses, which limit mill revenues.
- Hike cane-based ethanol prices: Raise procurement prices for ethanol produced from cane juice and B-heavy molasses, frozen since 2022–23 despite rising costs and grain-based ethanol revisions.
- Restore FRP base recovery rate: Restore the baseline recovery rate of Fair & Remunerative Price (FRP) to 9.50% from 10.25% to protect farmers in lower-recovery regions.

STATE GOVT ACTIONS & CONTEXT

Additional payout
Karnataka mandated an extra ₹100 per tonne (split between the state and mills) for a net price of ₹3,200–₹3,300 per tonne, while pushing for federal reforms.

All-party delegation
Shivakumar requested a meeting with PM Modi and invited opposition leaders to join a joint delegation.

Cane farmers suspend stir, set Nov 26 deadline to meet demands

Dharwad: Sugarcane growers in North Karnataka on Monday temporarily suspended their agitation demanding a fair price for sugarcane and an increase in the minimum selling price (MSP) of sugar, giving the Centre time until November 26 to address their demands.

The suspension follows after the Centre assured of forming a high-level committee to study the demands and give recommendations for implementation. The protest, which was spearheaded by farmer leader Chunappa Pujeri said the farmers would decide on their next course of action if the Union government failed to respond to their demands within the deadline.

The farmers have been protesting over the fixation of sugarcane prices, an increase in the minimum selling price of sugar and changes to the ethanol procurement policy and took out paadayatra from Belagavi district and the march reached Dharwad district on Sunday evening.

Seeks Rs 5,500 per tonne

The farmers are demanding a price of Rs 5,500 per tonne of sugarcane and an increase in the minimum selling price of sugar from the current Rs 31 per kg to Rs 60 per kg. They have also called for a review of the ethanol procurement policy for sugarcane-based ethanol, transparency in determining cane weight and sugar recovery rates, and timely payment to growers.

K'taka pens 3rd relief memo to Centre amid biting drought

- 82% food production loss across state due to drought.
- Third memorandum for NDRF relief within two days.
- State using own funds for tanker water and relief measures.

BENGALURU

Karnataka is facing a severe drought situation, with an estimated 92% loss in crop production, Deputy Chief Minister and Revenue Minister G Parameshwara said on Monday, adding that the state government was preparing its third memorandum seeking financial assistance from the Centre.

Speaking to reporters in Bengaluru, he said the drought had severely affected food production and fodder availability, while several parts of the state were also facing drinking water shortages.

"The situation is very serious. Although we have received some scattered rainfall recently, the impact of the drought in the state remains severe. There is an estimated 92% loss in production, which has a consequential impact on fodder availability for livestock. People are struggling to get food, and livestock are not getting fodder," he said.

He warned that the drinking water situation could worsen if existing sources dried up, noting that the government was already supplying water through tankers and private borewells in several places.

"If these sources themselves dry up, where will we get water from to supply through tankers? That is the situation we are facing. This is a very serious issue," he said.

Parameshwara said the government would declare drought-affected areas in accordance with the guidelines issued by the Centre and assess the extent of losses before seeking financial assistance under the National Disaster Response Fund (NDRF) guidelines.

"The Centre should release the funds. At least then, we will be able to provide assistance to our farmers and others who are facing difficulties," he said.

The state government is preparing its third memorandum, which is expected to be ready within a day or two. Chief Minister DK Shivakumar and Parameshwara will visit the Centre as part of a delegation to seek relief, with the details of the visit being finalised.

He said the Centre had suggested sending an all-party delegation, but the Opposition had expressed unwillingness to participate. The government would discuss how to proceed in view of the Opposition's stand.

Meanwhile, the state government has released funds to address drinking water shortages, with Deputy Commissioners and Chief Executive Officers overseeing relief measures in their respective jurisdictions.

Crisis through DyCM's words

Severity and extent: Parameshwara terms the state's drought conditions as "extremely serious," noting that despite scattered recent rains, the underlying severity has not abated in large parts of Karnataka.

Crop and food losses: The state is facing up to a 92% loss in overall crop production, severely impacting food output and agricultural livelihoods.

Fodder & water shortages: The crisis has triggered a sharp decline in livestock fodder availability, alongside worsening drinking water crisis.

Prior relief demand & action

Karnataka previously sought ₹7,142.64 crore central aid for Kharif drought mitigation covering 177 affected taluks (an initial request of ₹3,705.30 crore for 101 taluks, followed by a supplementary request of ₹3,437.34 crore for another 76 taluks).

An inter-ministerial central team (IMCT) previously visited the state to evaluate ground conditions.

State's response

The state government is actively undertaking relief operations using its own resources while finalizing the third memorandum, which is expected to be submitted to the Centre within two days.

Tiger firing: 'Injured bystander hemodynamically stable'

MUMBAI

A bystander identified as Umesh Chauhan, who sustained a bullet injury when assailants opened fire at actor Tiger Shroff's car in Mumbai, is currently "hemodynamically stable" and under close medical observation, KEM Hospital authorities said on Monday.

Chauhan was present outside Pushpa Park in Juhu on Sunday night when shots were fired at the actor's car, a police official said. He received initial treatment and stabilisation at Cooper Hospital in Juhu before being transferred to the civic-run KEM Hospital around midnight for specialist care and further evaluation, the official added.

According to a medical bulletin released by the hospital, the bullet injury has not affected his heart or lungs. "He is currently hemodynamically stable and is receiving treatment in the Emergency ICU under the Department of General Surgery, with consultation from the Cardiovascular and Thoracic Surgery team."

Hemodynamically stable means a patient has a steady, normal blood flow and consistent vital signs—specifically a stable heart rate and blood pressure—that adequately supply oxygen and nutrients to the body's vital organs.

In view of his stable vital parameters, doctors are managing his condition conservatively under close clinical monitoring.

3 accused nabbed in Kota

Mumbai: Bollywood actor Tiger Shroff escaped unharmed after five to six rounds were fired at his car in Mumbai's Juhu area on October 18. Mumbai Police have arrested three accused in connection with the incident, with the Crime Branch saying none of them is a minor. The actor's driver and an autorickshaw driver were reportedly injured. According to Mumbai police, two of the three accused fired at Shroff's car before fleeing on a motorcycle. The Crime Branch traced their escape route from Andheri to Borivali, then to Surat and finally to Kota, Rajasthan, where they were detained with the help of local police. The motorcycle allegedly used in the firing was found in Mumbai's Andheri area, while no weapons have been recovered from the accused so far.

4 killed in Manipur violence, locals take bodies to CM's house

Imphal: Three people collecting firewood in a forest were killed allegedly by militants in Manipur on Monday, triggering protests by locals who placed two bodies outside the Chief Minister's residence.

Three people were also injured as militants opened fire on a group of firewood collectors on the border of Imphal East and Kangpokpi districts, officials said, adding that three more have gone missing.

While Arubam Ronil (35) and Lairenlakpam Inaobi (51) died on the spot, Kshetrimayum Sushil (32) succumbed to injuries at a private hospital, an official said. The injured — N Suraj (19), Meisnam Somendro (53) and K Bosan (45) — were undergoing treatment.

They were among 16 people who had gone to the hills near their village around 7 am to collect firewood when they were ambushed, officials said.

Following the demonstration outside his residence, CM Y Khemchand Singh visited the injured undergoing treatment at a private hospital, but did not respond to any media queries. Angry locals brought the bodies to the State capital to protest the violence that has plagued the State since May 2023. They placed the bodies outside the main gate of the CM's residence at Babupara. It was not immediately known whether the CM was at the residence during the protest.

The police fired several rounds of tear gas shells to disperse the protesters, following which the bodies were taken to the Jawaharlal Nehru Institute of Medical Sciences.

30 Yemeni fighters killed as Houthis strike military camp in Yemen

Shabwa: Over 30 fighters of the Saudi-led coalition were reportedly killed on Monday after the Houthis fired several ballistic missiles on the Yemeni government military training camp in Shabwa province.

The rebels fired at least three ballistic missiles on the al-Alam military camp in the southern province, as per agency reports. The attack also wounded around 70 fighters, with many wounded eventually dying.

The attack was among the deadliest in a recent escalation of fighting that began months ago amid rising tensions in the wider Iran-US conflict.

'ANARCHIC STIR UNCALLED FOR'

Spare India from Anarchy: Diaspora

PARIS

More than 400 Indian-origin students, researchers, academics and alumni associated with universities across 27 countries have signed a statement titled 'Spare India from Anarchy', expressing concern over what they describe as attempts to undermine public confidence in India's constitutional institutions and democratic processes.

The statement, which lists signatories from institutions across four continents, condemns the use of what it calls "anarchic street protests" to delegitimise democratic processes. It argues that constitutional democracy should not be undermined in the name of defending it.

The signatories include individuals affiliated with institutions such as the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the universities of Oxford and Cambridge, Princeton University, Harvard University, Yale University, Stanford University, Columbia University, the London School of Economics and Political Science, the National University of Singapore, Seoul National University, the Technical University of Munich and the University of Toronto.

According to the statement, the signatories are currently based in or have studied in countries including the United States, the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, Germany, France, the Netherlands, Ireland, Italy, Spain, Sweden, Norway, Poland, Ukraine, Russia, South Korea, Japan, Singapore, Malaysia, Israel, the United Arab Emirates, Kazakhstan, Georgia and the Philippines.

Statement raises concerns over democratic institutions

Highlights of the statement

Target of criticism: The diaspora statement explicitly condemns the ongoing street protests organised by opposition parties against the Election Commission of India (ECI).
Core argument: Signatories argue that these actions represent an "unconscionable and devious plan of sowing seeds of doubt in Indian democracy" by weaponizing matters that are sub judice and amplifying them through anarchist street forces.
Defense of institutions: The group warned against subverting constitutional democracy under the pretext of trying to "save" it.
Proven resilience: They reaffirmed that Indian democracy has repeatedly proven its resilience and that its constitutional bodies function with adequate checks and balances.
Call to action: The signatories urged all factions to resolve political or systemic differences through peaceful debate, dialogue, and dissent within authorized constitutional forums rather than through volatile public disruptions.

The statement argues that Indian democracy has demonstrated resilience since Independence, with constitutional institutions functioning alongside checks and balances and peaceful transfers of power.

‘Metal birds’ paint Mysuru’s Dasara skies in tricolour

Surya Kiran aerobatic team thrills thousands with breathtaking aerial manoeuvres at Bannimantap

CH NEWS, MYSURU

The skies above Mysuru turned into a spectacular canvas of colour, courage and precision on Monday as the Indian Air Force’s Surya Kiran aerobatic team enthralled thousands of spectators with a breathtaking display of aerial manoeuvres during Dasara 2026.

Flying at high speed, the ‘metal birds’ sliced through the skies, leaving behind trails of coloured smoke and a wave of excitement among the spectators gathered at the Torchlight Parade Grounds in Bannimantap. The 20-minute spectacle transformed the vast blue expanse into a vibrant aerial gallery, drawing thunderous applause, whistles and cheers from the mesmerised audience.

The successful show came as a major relief to aviation enthusiasts after the previous day’s performance on October 18 was curtailed due to adverse weather conditions. Although a light drizzle before

Hawk Mk-132 jet aircraft of the Indian Air Force’s Surya Kiran Aerobatic Team

Monday’s show briefly raised concerns, the clouds soon cleared, paving the way for the much-awaited full-fledged aerial extravaganza.

The sky becomes a living canvas

The nine Hawk Mk-132 jet aircraft of the Indian Air Force’s Surya Kiran Aerobatic Team took centre stage, demonstrating remarkable coordination, discipline and flying skills. Their synchronised formations, daring turns and intricate aerial manoeuvres kept spectators on the edge of their seats.

What made the show truly captivating was the colourful smoke streaming from the aircraft as they painted artistic patterns across the sky. The tricolour trails added a patriotic touch to the spectacle, turning the aerial performance into a stirring celebration of national pride.

The moment the aircraft traced a heart-shaped formation in the sky, the grounds erupted in excitement. Cameras and mobile phones went up instantly as spectators scrambled to capture the fleeting masterpiece. For a few magical moments, the sky itself appeared to be a giant canvas, with the pilots using precision flying and coloured smoke as their artistic tools.

The aircraft, which arrived from the Indian Air Force station at Yelahanka in Bengaluru, were led by Abhimanyu Tyagi, Ajay Kumar, Gagan, Vishnu and Diwakar Singh. Their breathtaking formations and seamless manoeuvres won widespread appreciation from the audience.

From anxiety to applause

The weather had played spoilsport during Sunday’s air show, forcing the performance to be cut short and leaving many spectators disappointed. Consequently, expectations were high for Monday’s event.

The light drizzle that began shortly before the show momentarily revived fears of another disruption. However, as the jets roared into view and the weather improved, the anxiety gave way to excitement. Thousands of spectators welcomed the aircraft with loud cheers, whistles and applause as the pilots launched into their spectacular routine.

The uninterrupted performance ensured that aviation enthusiasts finally got to witness the full splendour of the Surya Kiran team’s aerobatic skills.

Roads turn into grandstands

The excitement extended well beyond the boundaries of the parade grounds. With the seating area packed to capacity, many people who could not find space inside the venue watched the show from roads and open spaces nearby.

Large crowds lined the stretch from St. Philomena’s College and LIC Circle towards Highway Circle, turning roadside vantage points into impromptu viewing galleries. While some stood patiently along the roads to catch a glimpse of the aircraft, others discovered that the open spaces outside the grounds offered an equally thrilling view of the action.

The enormous turnout, however, resulted in increased traffic congestion in the surrounding areas, affecting the smooth movement of vehicles.

Rooftops become viewing galleries

Across several residential neighbourhoods of Mysuru, rooftops and terraces turned into informal viewing platforms as residents stepped outside to witness the aerial spectacle.

The roar of the approaching jets sent people rushing out of their homes and onto terraces, eager to catch a glimpse of the aircraft streaking across the sky. Groups of women gathered on rooftops, while children enthusiastically recorded the manoeuvres on their mobile phones and shared the videos on their social media status updates.

For many residents, the show offered an opportunity to enjoy the grandeur of Dasara without having to travel to Bannimantap. The distant roar of engines, colourful smoke trails and sudden appearances of the jets turned an ordinary afternoon into an unforgettable experience.

From the packed parade grounds to crowded roads and residential rooftops, Mysuru collectively looked skywards as the Surya Kiran team delivered a dazzling blend of aviation skill, precision and patriotic fervour.

The spectacular performance once again added a high-flying highlight to the city’s Dasara celebrations, leaving thousands with memories of a sky transformed into a magnificent canvas of colour and courage.

A jumbo challenge for Prashantha

SHYAM SUNDAR VATTAM
MYSURU

The spotlight is firmly on Prashantha, the tusker entrusted with one of the most prestigious and challenging responsibilities of Mysuru Dasara — carrying the 750-kg Golden Howdah during the grand Vijayadashami procession, popularly known as Jamboo Savari, on October 21.

For the Forest Department, the occasion is more than just another ceremonial procession. It is a moment of truth for Prashantha, who steps into the enormous footsteps of Captain Abhimanyu, the trusted jumbo that has carried the Golden Howdah with remarkable composure and confidence for six consecutive years.

With lakhs of people expected to throng the streets of Mysuru to witness the spectacular culmination of the world-famous Dasara celebrations, all eyes will be on the new howdah bearer. The question on everyone’s mind is whether Prashantha can rise to the occasion and prove himself worthy of the coveted responsibility.

The golden howdah

HOWDAH 750 kg	ROUTE About 5.5 km
JAMBOO SAVARI October 21	REHEARSALS 15-20 days

Captain Abhimanyu, who has reached the retirement age of 60, will make his final appearance at the Dasara festival this year as the Nishane elephant, marking the end of an important chapter in the annual celebrations. Considering his age and the demanding nature of the howdah-carrying assignment, the Forest Department decided to spare him the arduous task and identify a suitable successor.

The search for the right replacement was far from easy. The department put several tuskers through a series of trials to assess their strength, stamina and ability to carry the massive Golden Howdah. Weighing approximately 750 kg, the ceremonial structure demands not only physical endurance but also the ability to walk steadily over a distance of nearly 5.5 km, from the Mysuru Palace to the Bannimantap Grounds.

The department tested the suitability of three to four elephants by placing the equivalent weight on their backs and observing their performance. Mahendra, another promising tusker, was among those considered for the prestigious assignment. However, he reportedly stopped abruptly midway during a trial, prompting the department to look for another candidate. Prashantha eventually emerged as the choice for the demanding role.

A test of nerves amid a sea of humanity

While carrying the Golden Howdah is a test of strength, remaining calm amid the deafening excitement of Jamboo Savari is equally important. The procession winds its way through crowded streets, where cheering spectators, beating drums, festive music and a multitude of voices create an electrifying atmosphere.

For an elephant carrying such a valuable ceremonial structure, even a moment of agitation can pose a challenge. This is where the experience and vigilance of mahouts and kavadis become crucial. Their responsibility is to keep the elephants calm and ensure that the procession progresses smoothly until it reaches Bannimantap.

Recognising these challenges, the Forest Department has conducted several rehearsals over the past 15 to 20 days. The elephants have been gradually acclimatised to large gatherings, traffic movement and the sounds of vehicles. They have also undergone training to familiarise them with cannon fire, an integral part of the ceremonial proceedings, so that the loud reports do not startle them on the big day.

The moment of truth

The preparations are nearly complete, but the real examination awaits Prashantha on October 21. Strength and stamina will have to combine with discipline, patience and composure as he leads the magnificent procession carrying the Golden Howdah, a symbol of Mysuru’s royal heritage and cultural grandeur.

For the Forest Department, Prashantha’s performance will also be a test of its judgment in selecting Captain Abhimanyu’s successor. If the new howdah bearer completes the journey without a hitch, it will mark the beginning of a new chapter in the Dasara tradition.

As Mysuru prepares for the grand spectacle, anticipation is building around the debutant tusker. Can Prashantha withstand the pressure, carry the golden legacy forward and win the confidence of thousands of spectators?

The answer will unfold on Jamboo Savari day, when the city turns into a sea of celebration and a new jumbo steps into history.

CM D.K. Shivakumar inaugurates Kambala at Mysuru Dasara

CH NEWS, MYSURU

Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar inaugurated Kambala, the traditional buffalo race deeply rooted in the culture, agricultural life and religious beliefs of the Tulu Nadu and coastal Karnataka regions, for the first time as part of the world-famous Mysuru Dasara celebrations.

The two-day Mysuru Kambala-2026 event is being held on the premises adjoining Visvesvaraya Technological University (VTU), near Sathagalli on the city’s Outer Ring Road.

> “Criticism will fade, but truth will prevail.”
> — D.K. Shivakumar, Chief Minister

After witnessing buffalo races in the Kane Halage, Adda Halage, Hagga and Negilu categories on Sunday, the Chief Minister addressed the gathering.

He said Kambala began around 800 years ago with prayers to Lord Shiva, with the intention of bringing happiness and prosperity to farmers. This traditional sport, which is now discussed across India, has received legal recognition. Kambala had been brought to Mysuru not merely as a sporting event but also to introduce the culture and heritage of coastal Karnataka to the entire State. The initiative was aimed at preserving the traditional art and sporting practices of farmers and working communities. “Many criticisms were levelled against the conduct of Kambala events. Criticism will fade, but truth will prevail,” he said.

Describing Kambala as a traditional sport with a rich history in Tulu Nadu, Shivakumar said it was an integral part of Karnataka’s cultural heritage. The State Government was providing financial assistance of Rs 5 lakh each to 23 Kambala events.

Recalling the Dasara traditions of the Vijayanagara rulers, Shivakumar said buffaloes were worshipped and displayed during celebrations in those days. “Kambala has its roots in agriculture and the soil. If young people who participate in Kambala races are properly trained, they have the potential to win medals in athletics,” he said.

Make Dasara reels and win prizes

The Chief Minister also invited interested young men and women, as well as photographers from across Karnataka, to create reels based on Mysuru Dasara celebrations. The entries may cover the inauguration ceremony, illuminated streets, Jamboo Savari, sporting events, the food mela, cultural programmes and other Dasara-related activities. Participants have been asked to submit their reels through the official Mysuru Dasara website, Mysuru Dasara 2026. The best 100 entries will receive awards and prizes, he announced.

In a gesture of support for the traditional sport, Shivakumar walked along the Kambala track to meet spectators and thank members of the public for encouraging the event.

He also held a barakolu (traditional whip) and used it to urge the racing buffaloes forward. He posed for photographs with the buffaloes, their owners, runners and other members of the Kambala teams, reaffirming his support for the sport.

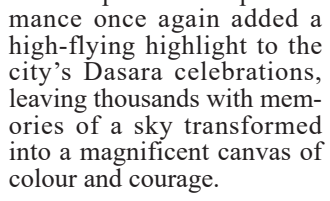

Mysuru markets burst into festive colours on eve of Ayudha Puja

CH NEWS, MYSURU

A vibrant festive buzz swept across Mysuru on Monday, with markets overflowing with colourful flowers, fresh fruits, towering banana stalks, ash gourds and heaps of lemons on the eve of Ayudha Puja.

The city’s bustling bazaars have transformed into a kaleidoscope of colours and activity, as thousands of people pour into the markets to purchase the essentials for the auspicious festival.

From the fragrant blooms of kanakambara, Mysuru Mallige and roses to piles of yellow lemons and green ash gourds, every corner of the markets reflects the spirit of tradition and celebration. Vendors have stocked their stalls with mountains of festive essentials to meet the soaring demand, while shoppers navigate the crowded streets in search of the best deals.

Lemons have emerged as one of the most sought-after items this festive season. Huge quantities have flooded markets across Mysuru, with people buying them in large numbers as part of the traditional rituals associated with Ayudha Puja. Many vehicle owners offer lemons beneath the wheels of their vehicles, seeking divine blessings and protection from evil and misfortune.

Ash gourds, too, are witnessing brisk sales. Considered auspicious for warding off the evil eye, they are widely used in rituals involving vehicles, particularly cars, four-wheelers and heavy commercial vehicles. Owners of trucks and other goods vehicles are also making a beeline for the markets to purchase ash gourds ahead of the puja.

A riot of colours and fragrances

Banana stalks, kanakambara flowers, roses and an assortment of fruits have added to the festive charm. Flower stalls are bursting with bright hues, while fruit vendors are busy attending to customers looking to decorate their homes, shops and workplaces for the occasion.

The markets wear a truly festive look, with vendors calling out to customers, shoppers bargaining over prices and vehicles laden with puja essentials moving through the crowded streets. The atmosphere is charged with excitement as families make their final purchases before the celebrations.

The festive rush, however, has come with a price. Almost every essential commodity is selling at rates considerably higher than those prevailing during normal days. The surge in demand for lemons, flowers, fruits, banana stalks and ash gourds has pushed prices upwards, leaving shoppers spending more to complete their purchases.

Despite the steep prices, the crowds show little sign of easing. With Ayudha Puja being an important occasion to worship tools, machinery and vehicles, people are determined to observe the rituals in keeping with tradition.

As Mysuru’s markets remain packed with thousands of shoppers, the city is immersed in the sights, sounds and fragrances of the festive season. Amid the hustle and bustle, the rush for puja essentials captures the enduring bond between faith, tradition and everyday life.

Silk Board to get Bengaluru's first Metro travelator

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Switching between Metro lines at Central Silk Board is set to become easier, with BMRCL planning Bengaluru's first Metro travelator and a pedestrian walkway connecting the Yellow and Blue Line stations. The two elevated stations are about 250 metres apart, separated by the busy Outer Ring Road. The proposed travelator will allow commuters to move between stations without descending to road level and crossing traffic. A parallel walkway will cater to those who prefer walking. The facility will serve as a key interchange link once the Blue Line towards Kempegowda International Airport becomes operational. The Yellow Line between RV Road and Bommasandra is already running. BMRCL officials said the travelator's design would also enhance the junction's visual appeal. The facility is expected to improve transfers at one of Bengaluru's busiest traffic hubs.

Parameshwara opts for silence on sting, says government will act

Deputy CM G. Parameshwara says the government will handle the sting controversy legally, while urging restraint in public comments.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Deputy Chief Minister G. Parameshwara said the government would handle the sting operation controversy through appropriate legal measures while avoiding excessive public discussion that could further escalate the issue. Parameshwara said the developments were not a welcome sign and urged the Union Minister concerned to reflect on his position and the impact of his actions.

"I would rather remain silent than comment extensively on the sting operation. If everyone keeps reacting, where will the issue lead us?" he asked, speaking to reporters at Sadashivanagar.

He said the government's priority was to protect its image and place the facts before the public. The Home Minister was capable of handling the matter and would take appropriate action within the legal framework, he added.

Responding to reports that former Chief Minister Siddaramaiah was unhappy with the government's handling of the controversy, Parameshwara asked whether the Congress leader had publicly expressed such dissatisfaction.

The government would discuss the matter and decide on its next course of action, he said.

On claims by B.S. Yediyurappa and H.D. Kumaraswamy that Karnataka could face mid-term elections in 2027, Parameshwara said there was no end to responding to every political statement. Replying to Kumaraswamy's remarks about 2028, he said voters would decide who came to power.

Drought situation

Parameshwara described the drought situation in Karnataka as serious, citing shortages of fodder, food and drinking water. Several areas were receiving water through tankers and private borewells, but drying water sources could worsen the crisis.

He said the State would seek Central assistance under the National Disaster Response Fund (NDRF). A third memorandum was being prepared for submission within two days. The State was providing ₹2,500 in relief to farmers, costing ₹1,250 crore, while no Central funds had been received for drought-related works, he said.

Bengaluru advocate shot dead, tenants sought over rent dispute

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Manjunath, a 42-year-old advocate, was allegedly shot dead by two of his tenants at Pattandur Agrahara, within Whitefield police station limits, on Sunday night.

According to preliminary information shared by a senior police officer, an argument broke out between Manjunath and the tenants over non-payment of rent about an hour before the shooting. The officer said the two tenants hailed from Bihar.

The assailants allegedly opened fire, hitting Manjunath in the forehead, and fled the scene. Whitefield police are investigating the killing and trying to trace them.

A Forensic Science Laboratory team visited the spot and inspected the scene as part of the investigation.

An unpaid rent argument allegedly preceded the shooting of a lawyer at his property.

Manjunath's body was subsequently shifted for a post-mortem examination.

Two held at Bengaluru airport with ganja worth ₹9.67 crore

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Customs officials have seized 27.6 kg of hydroponic ganja worth ₹9.67 crore from two passengers arriving from Bangkok in separate cases at Kempegowda International Airport.

Both passengers have been arrested under the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances (NDPS) Act, officials said on Monday.

In the first case, Bengaluru Customs intercepted a passenger arriving from Bangkok, Thailand, and seized 15.5 kg of hydroponic ganja valued at ₹5.43 crore, according to information shared by the department on X.

In a separate case, officials recovered 12.1 kg of hydroponic ganja worth ₹4.24 crore from another passenger. The contraband was concealed in the passenger's baggage, officials said.

The combined seizure amounted to 27.6 kg, with an estimated market value of ₹9.67 crore.

The two cases were registered separately, and both passengers were arrested under the NDPS Act. Further details about the identities of the accused and the circumstances surrounding the alleged smuggling were not immediately available.

Hydroponic ganja is cannabis cultivated using a method that grows plants in a nutrient-rich water-based system rather than conventional soil. Customs authorities have been intercepting suspected narcotics consignments brought into the country through international airports.

The latest seizures highlight the use of passenger baggage to transport suspected narcotics across international routes. The investigation is expected to establish the source of the contraband and whether the passengers were linked to a wider smuggling network.

Karnataka revises penalties for officials, false complaints

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka government has revised penalties for officials delaying public services and citizens filing false complaints under the Karnataka Sakala Services (Amendment) Act, 2026.

Under the amended provisions, officials who fail to provide services or decide appeals within the prescribed timeframe will face financial penalties. The amount will be deducted directly from their salaries and paid as compensation to the affected applicant.

The penalty for delays starts at ₹20 per day for the first five days, subject to a maximum of ₹100. The amount increases with the duration of the delay, reaching ₹100 per day for delays of 21 to 25 days. The maximum cumulative penalty is capped at ₹1,500.

Officials may also face a penalty of up to ₹1,500 for providing deficient services or rejecting applications without valid grounds, according to the government notification.

The amendment also seeks to prevent the misuse of the grievance redressal system by empowering authorities to penalise citizens who file false or malicious complaints against government personnel.

If an inquiry establishes that a complaint was filed with the intention of harassing or intimidating an official, the applicant will be fined ₹1,500 for each application.

Repeat offences will attract an additional fine of ₹1,500 for each instance. These penalties will be recovered as arrears of land revenue.

The revised provisions seek to enforce accountability in public service delivery while discouraging the filing of complaints with malicious intent. The changes cover both delays and deficiencies in government services and the misuse of the complaint mechanism.

Work resumes on long-pending Kaniminike foot overbridge

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Construction of the long-pending foot overbridge (FOB) at Kaniminike on the Bengaluru-Mysuru Expressway has resumed after months of delays, raising hopes of safer road crossings for pedestrians, students and local residents.

The bridge, proposed near Christ University's Kengeri campus on National Highway 275, remained incomplete despite repeated appeals to the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI). Residents have flagged several accidents and deaths on the stretch, where people are forced to cross the busy expressway amid fast-moving traffic.

Shashank S, a resident who has repeatedly followed up with authorities, said the delay had caused serious concern among the local community.

"I have followed up multiple times to get the FOB installed, but it was delayed for a very long time. Many accidents and deaths occurred at the stretch," he said, expressing hope that the work would be completed soon to improve pedestrian safety.

Residents had submitted representations to NHAI, highlighting the risks faced by people travelling between Kaniminike village and the university campus. The absence of a designated crossing has left pedestrians vulnerable, particularly during peak traffic hours and after dark.

In July, NHAI had indicated that the remaining work would be completed by August 2026. However, material shortages and supply-chain disruptions delayed progress, prompting residents to seek a firm completion deadline.

Residents have also pointed out that crossing through the toll plaza involves a considerable detour. Poor visibility and reportedly non-functional streetlights further increase the risks for pedestrians.

The resumption of construction has brought cautious optimism to the area. Residents hope the bridge will be completed and opened for public use without further delays, preventing more accidents on the high-speed expressway.

Yellow alert as thunderstorms, rain likely across Karnataka

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The India Meteorological Department (IMD) has issued a yellow alert for several parts of Karnataka, forecasting rain accompanied by thunderstorms, lightning and gusty winds over the coming days.

The alert will remain in force in south interior Karnataka until October 24 and in coastal districts from October 20 to 22, according to the weather forecast.

Rainfall is expected to intensify in the coastal districts of Dakshina Kannada, Udupi and Uttara Kannada.

In south interior Karnataka, moderate rainfall accompanied by gusty winds of 30–40 kmph is forecast in Davanagere, Mysuru, Ramanagara, Shivamogga, Vijayanagara, Bengaluru Urban, Bengaluru Rural, Mandya, Chamarajanagar, Kolar and Chikkaballapur, among other districts. The yellow alert will continue in these areas until October 24.

The forecast indicates that several districts could experience unsettled weather, with thunderstorms and lightning accompanying the rain.

In north interior Karnataka, moderate rainfall is likely in Belagavi, Dharwad, Gadag and Haveri districts. Bagalkot and Koppal are expected to receive light rainfall during the forecast period.

However, dry weather is likely to continue in Bidar, Kalaburagi, Raichur, Vijayapura and Yadgir districts.

The weather department has advised residents to remain alert to changing weather conditions as thunderstorms and gusty winds are expected in several regions.

The forecast comes as the State prepares for another spell of rainfall across the southern interior and coastal belts. The yellow alert indicates the need for awareness of potentially adverse weather conditions, particularly in areas expected to experience thunderstorms, lightning and strong winds.

The IMD will continue to monitor weather conditions across the State.

POLICE RECRUITMENT

Transgender candidates challenge Karnataka police recruitment rules

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Seven transgender candidates have approached the Karnataka High Court challenging the lack of appropriate physical standards and relaxations in police recruitment tests, besides their alleged exclusion from recruitment to certain police forces.

The petitions, filed by J. Vikash and others against the State government and police recruitment authorities, are yet to be listed for hearing.

The applicants have questioned the implementation of the 1% horizontal reservation for transgender persons under Rule 9(1D) of the Karnataka Civil Services (General Recruitment) Rules, 1977, and the physical eligibility criteria prescribed for police recruitment.

One petition challenges the September 12, 2022, notification for armed police constable recruitment. The candidates allege that they were placed in a separate "male transgender" category and subjected to the same physical standards as male candidates. Although they cleared the written examination, they were disqualified in subsequent physical standard and endurance tests.

The petitioners have sought an "Other" category in recruitment applications to enable transgender candidates to avail themselves of horizontal reservation.

The Karnataka State Administrative Tribunal dismissed their applications on June 2, 2026, stating that transgender candidates could not be exempted from prescribed physical standards solely because of their gender identity.

Challenging the order, the petitioners argued that merely allowing transgender persons to apply does not fulfil the purpose of reservation if the eligibility criteria prevent them from benefiting from it.

The recruitment notification requires candidates to complete a 1,600-metre run within six minutes and 30 seconds, besides qualifying in long jump or high jump and shot put.

The petitioners have also challenged a government directive dated October 10, 2025, which allegedly excluded transgender persons from recruitment to four police forces, along with subsequent notifications issued in June and July 2026.

The petitioners contend that reservation becomes ineffective when physical eligibility requirements prevent transgender candidates from participating meaningfully in the selection process.

Joshi seeks time to address Karnataka sugarcane farmers' demands

Farmers suspend their protest till November 26 after Joshi promises a committee within three days to examine their demands

CH NEWS, HUBBALLI

Union Minister Pralhad Joshi has assured Karnataka's protesting sugarcane farmers that the Centre will consider their demands positively. The assurance came during a late-night meeting with farmers' leaders at the Government Guest House in Hubballi on October 18. Discussions continued until 3 a.m. on Monday.

Farmers' representatives pressed for a remunerative sugarcane price, complete procurement of ethanol produced in Karnataka and separate pricing for sugar used commercially and domestically, with higher rates for commercial use. Farmer leader Chunappa Pujeri presented these demands during the meeting.

Union Minister Pralhad Joshi

Joshi said the Centre would make efforts to address the issues by placing them before a committee expected to begin functioning within three days. He urged farmers to cooperate with the process and allow time for their demands to be examined. However, no final decision on their demands was announced during the meeting.

Following the talks, the farmers suspended their agitation and gave the government until November 26. Pujeri said they would resume it on November 27 if their demands remained unfulfilled. The protest had resumed on October 12 after earlier discussions failed to resolve the dispute.

Former Chief Minister and MP Jagadish Shettar, MLAs C.C. Patil, M.R. Patil and Maheshesh Tenginkai, and senior district officials attended the meeting. Representatives of farmers' organisations also participated in the discussions.

Farmers' demands

- → A remunerative price for sugarcane
- → Complete procurement of the ethanol produced in Karnataka
- → Separate prices for sugar used commercially and domestically, higher for commercial use

The farmers have been demanding a fair share of sugar and ethanol revenues. Their agitation has included protests and a 'Hubballi Chalo' march. The farmers say the suspension is temporary.

Siddaramaiah accepts honorary doctorate after reluctance

CH NEWS, KOLAR

Former Karnataka Chief Minister Siddaramaiah accepted an honorary doctorate from Devaraj Urs Medical College during the foundation day celebrations of R.L. Jalappa Hospital on Monday, after previously declining similar honours from several institutions.

The doctorate had been announced for Siddaramaiah during the college's convocation a year ago, but he had refused to accept it. However, when he attended Monday's event, his name was announced, and the dignitaries present reportedly urged him to accept the honour. He eventually agreed to receive it.

After accepting the doctorate, Siddaramaiah thanked the institution but requested that people continue addressing him simply as Siddaramaiah rather than Dr. Siddaramaiah. He said he had earlier made it clear that he did not want the honorary title and had been uncertain about accepting it.

Siddaramaiah accepts the honorary doctorate at the R.L. Jalappa Hospital foundation day in Kolar on Monday

Siddaramaiah had previously declined honorary doctorates proposed by Bangalore University and the University of Mysore, as well as an honour announced by the Sri Devaraj Urs Academy of Higher Education and Research. The latest recognition was reportedly linked to his public service and the implementation of five guarantee schemes aimed at supporting poor and middle-class families in Karnataka.

Siddaramaiah has served as Karnataka Chief Minister twice and is known for presenting a high number of state budgets during his political career. His acceptance of the doctorate comes amid heightened political tensions in the state following allegations and counter-allegations involving a reported sting operation.

The event at R.L. Jalappa Hospital brought renewed attention to the former Chief Minister's position on honorary academic titles and recognition for his public service.

Rachana Vedike to expand across Karnataka

CH NEWS, KOLAR

The Karnataka Rachana Vedike, which has worked for the Kannada cause for 25 years, will expand its organisation across the State, district president Medihala Raghavendra said.

Speaking at a meeting of district and taluk-level office-bearers at the Scouts and Guides Bhavan, Raghavendra recalled his participation in several protests for Kannada language, farmers and local issues. He said agitations in Bengaluru, Ramanagara, Channapatna and Belagavi strengthened his commitment to the Kannada cause.

He recalled a road blockade organised against the arrival of milk from Andhra Pradesh, which had affected the sale of Nandini milk and created difficulties for dairy farmers. He also mentioned protests concerning the Cauvery and Mahadayi river disputes, opposition to non-Kannada films in Kolar, the demand for a university in North Karnataka, campaigns against single-number lotteries and demands for local employment in industries.

Raghavendra said he and 26 associates were jailed for four days in Kolar sub-jail in 2017 after gheraoing the then district in-charge minister on January 26 during a protest seeking permanent irrigation facilities. He said the struggle contributed to KC Valley water reaching the district. He also recalled efforts that helped retain the Women's College in Kolar under Bangalore University instead of transferring it to Bijapur, after which the legal case was dismissed.

He called for public cooperation in strengthening the organisation and said there would be no compromise on Karnataka's land, language, culture, territory or water resources. District general secretary V. Muniraju, Narasapura Shekhar, Naveen, KGF Nanjundappa, Rajashekhar, Bangarapet Manjunatha, Prabhakar Gowda, Manjunath and others attended the meeting. Several office-bearers and members were also present.

SP praises activists for fighting illegal lottery racket

KOLAR: Karnataka Rachana Vedike district president Medihala Raghavendra recalled how District Superintendent of Police Srinivas appreciated their campaign against single-number lotteries in Kolar. Raghavendra said he and his friends conducted simultaneous raids on four single-number lottery outlets, causing losses worth lakhs of rupees to the operators. They later surrendered at Kolar City Police Station. The then Sub-Inspector, Gudegowda, offered them coffee, but the lottery operators did not arrive to file complaints despite a long wait. When the group met SP Srinivas, he warmly welcomed them and acknowledged the damage caused by single-number lotteries to police personnel and their families. He explained that legal limitations had made it difficult to shut down the racket despite complaints. Raghavendra said the SP praised their efforts to protect the public and police families. He expressed gratitude for the support and encouragement shown by the officials.

Chitradurga to keep Valmiki Jayanti simple

CH NEWS, CHITRADURGA

Deputy Commissioner S. Ramya has instructed officials to organise this year's Sri Maharshi Valmiki Jayanti celebrations in a simple and meaningful manner, following the Election Model Code of Conduct currently in force in the district.

She was speaking while chairing a preparatory meeting at the Deputy Commissioner's office hall in Chitradurga on Monday. The birth anniversary of Sri Maharshi Valmiki will be observed on October 26 at 11 am at the same venue. She directed officials to make all necessary arrangements while strictly following the election guidelines issued by the authorities.

Ramya stressed that the programme must be conducted without violating any rules under the Model Code of Conduct. She asked officials to ensure that the celebrations remain dignified and meaningful while complying with the district administration's instructions.

H. Diwakar, District Scheduled Tribes Welfare Officer, said permission for the programme had been granted subject to Election Commission guidelines.

BJP and Congress adopt different strategies for graduate polls

MALINGARAYA PUJAR, GADAG

Political activity has intensified in the Karnataka West Graduates' Constituency election, with the BJP and Congress adopting different strategies to attract voters across Gadag, Haveri, Dharwad and Uttara Kannada districts.

The election is crucial for sitting BJP MLC S.V. Sankanur, who is seeking a third consecutive term. As Gadag is his home district, the BJP has stepped up its campaign to increase his victory margin. Union Minister Pralhad Joshi, former Chief Minister and MP Basavaraj Bommai, Anil Menasinakai and Ravi Dandina have participated in meetings across Mundargi, Lakshmeshwar, Shirahatti and Gadag. Local MLAs C.C. Patil and Dr. Chandru Lamani are also mobilising party workers.

The Congress, meanwhile, is focusing on direct voter contact rather than large public meetings. Its candidate, Mohan Limbikai, is being supported through grassroots campaigning. Minister Satish Jarkiholi has visited households, including in Shigli village of Lakshmeshwar taluk. KPCC president B.K. Hariprasad has also urged party leaders to work together for victory. Former minister and MLA H.K. Patil, former MLA D.R. Patil and other local leaders are overseeing the campaign in Gadag.

The constituency has 97,398 registered voters across four districts, including 21,594 in Gadag alone. Their support could significantly influence the overall result. Both parties are seeking to strengthen their positions ahead of polling.

Issues such as unemployment, concerns in the education sector and possible anti-incumbency sentiments may influence graduate voters. While the BJP is relying on its established leadership and large-scale campaign, the Congress hopes its door-to-door outreach will prove effective.

'Vokkaliga leaders must unite to protect community dignity'

Ramakrishnayya urges the seers to help resolve the political differences and asks Kumaraswamy to reciprocate Shivakumar's past support

CH NEWS, MAGADI

Taluk Vokkaligara Sangha president KEB Ramakrishnayya has appealed to Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar and Union Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy to set aside their personal differences and work towards protecting the dignity and unity of the Vokkaliga community.

Speaking at a press conference at the Sangha office in NES Layout, Magadi, he said the dispute between the two leaders was not merely a personal matter but one that could affect the community's unity and future. He recalled the contributions of leaders such as Kengal Hanumanthaiah, S.M. Krishna, H.D. Deve Gowda, Sadananda Gowda and H.D. Kumaraswamy to Karnataka and the country.

Ramakrishnayya urged Adichunchanagiri Math seer Sri Nirmalanandanatha Swamiji and Nanjavadhuta Swamiji to intervene and help resolve the political differences. He said the Sangha would request the seers to guide both leaders towards reconciliation. He also pointed out that Shivakumar had earlier supported Kumaraswamy's efforts to become Chief Minister and urged Kumaraswamy to reciprocate that support.

He expressed concern that the continuing allegations and the reported sting operation could damage the community's reputation and affect the political future of second-rung leaders, including N. Chaluvarayaswamy, H.C. Balakrishna and Krishna Byre Gowda. He appealed to both leaders to stop targeting each other and resolve their differences through dialogue.

Sangha director D.C. Shivanna also criticised Kumaraswamy, alleging that he was focusing more on accusations against Shivakumar than on public issues. Shivanna questioned his contribution to industrial development in Karnataka and urged him to support sugarcane farmers who are protesting for their demands. He also alleged that opposition to the township project was linked to protecting personal land interests.

> The dispute between the two leaders is not merely a personal matter but one that could affect the community's unity and future

The press conference was attended by vice-president H.R. Ramesh, treasurer A.L. Narasimha Murthy, A.R. Manjunath, Kiran, Anand, Hanumanthaiah, Siddaraju, Renukappa and other Sangha members.

Kannada Bhoomi backs farmers' protest for fair prices

CH NEWS, KALABURAGI

The Kannada Bhoomi Jagruti Samiti has extended its support to the ongoing farmers' protest in Kalaburagi, demanding fair crop prices and water for irrigation.

Samiti president Lingaraja Siragapura said the organisation would participate in the dharna until the farmers' demands were fulfilled.

Farmers have been staging a sit-in protest for six days, seeking a support price of ₹5,500 per tonne for sugarcane, ₹15,000 per quintal for pigeon peas and the release of 15 TMC of water into the Bhima River. In a press statement, Siragapura said inadequate rainfall had caused drought conditions, leaving sugarcane fields dry and farmers struggling to protect their crops.

He criticised the Central and State governments for failing to respond to farmers' concerns. He also urged sugar factory owners, many of whom are reportedly politicians, to address the demands. According to Siragapura, factories could still earn profits from sugar production and its by-products even if sugarcane farmers received ₹5,500 per tonne. He expressed disappointment that elected representatives had not visited the protest site to hear farmers' grievances.

Siragapura said farmers across Kalaburagi district were facing severe financial hardship. Delayed or failed sowing of green gram, black gram, sesame and pigeon peas had caused heavy losses. Many farmers had purchased seeds and fertilisers on credit, increasing their financial burden. Sugarcane and banana crops had also suffered due to insufficient rainfall. Despite the drought declaration covering 195 taluks, including those in Kalaburagi district, farmers were still awaiting relief funds, he said.

The farmers' demands

a tonne for sugarcane
₹5,500
a quintal for pigeon peas
₹15,000
of water into the Bhima
15 TMC

The Samiti urged District In-charge Minister Priyank Kharge to press Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar to ensure immediate action on the farmers' demands. Siragapura called for urgent measures to provide relief, protect livelihoods and address the continuing agricultural crisis in the district.

Sanjeevini Market supports rural women entrepreneurs in Gudibande

CH NEWS, CHIKKABALLAPURA

The Sanjeevini Monthly Market was organised at Somanahalli Gram Panchayat premises in Gudibande taluk on Sunday and Monday to promote products made by women from Self-Help Groups (SHGs) and support their economic independence.

Gudibande Taluk Panchayat Executive Officer M. Nagamani said arrangements had been made to bring products prepared by women from SHGs across various gram panchayats under one roof. Items required for Ayudha Puja and Vijayadashami celebrations were also made available to customers.

The market was organised jointly by the Taluk Panchayat, the Department of Skill Development, Entrepreneurship and Livelihood, and the Sanjeevini Karnataka State Rural Livelihood Promotion Society. It offered a platform for rural women entrepreneurs to display and sell their products directly to consumers.

The stalls featured puja materials, handicrafts, food products, household goods and other locally made items.

The initiative aims to provide women with better market access, increase sales and improve their household incomes. By connecting producers directly with customers, the market also seeks to reduce dependence on middlemen and ensure women receive better returns for their efforts.

The monthly market gives rural women an opportunity to showcase their skills, promote locally produced goods and develop their entrepreneurial abilities. Such initiatives can strengthen self-help groups and encourage women to become financially independent through small businesses.

Officials said the programme would help create greater awareness about products made by SHG members while encouraging consumers to support local enterprises. Sanjeevini DAY-NRLM and Taluk Panchayat staff members were present during the event.

The initiative reflects ongoing efforts to strengthen rural livelihoods by creating direct marketing opportunities for women-led enterprises and helping them achieve sustainable economic growth.

FIGHTING PLASTIC POLLUTION

'Reduce plastic use to protect our environment'

CH NEWS, RAMANAGARA

Everyone must work together to protect the environment by reducing plastic use and keeping public places clean, said Prakash M.H., president of Rotary Ramagad Rockers. He stressed that environmental protection is a shared responsibility and requires active participation from every citizen.

He was speaking while distributing paper bags to traders in various market areas of Ramanagara city as part of an environmental awareness initiative organised by Rotary Ramagad Rockers. He explained that the excessive use of plastic bags causes serious environmental problems because plastic waste does not decompose easily and remains in the soil for long periods.

Prakash said plastic waste damages soil quality, affects the cleanliness of water sources and poses risks to animals. He urged people to avoid unnecessary plastic bags and adopt eco-friendly alternatives such as paper and cloth bags. He also appealed to traders to encourage customers to carry reusable bags while shopping.

He added that even small changes in daily habits could make a significant difference in environmental conservation. If every individual takes responsibility for reducing plastic consumption, the community can move towards a cleaner and greener future. Public awareness and cooperation are essential to make such efforts successful, he noted.

With the aim of promoting an eco-friendly society, members of Rotary Ramagad Rockers visited several markets and distributed paper bags to local traders. During the campaign, they explained the harmful effects of plastic pollution and urged traders and residents to support sustainable practices.

2 arrested over ₹29 lakh digital arrest fraud

HYDERABAD

Hyderabad Cyber Crime Police have arrested two men for allegedly defrauding a 63-year-old retired employee and his daughter of ₹29.17 lakh through a digital arrest scam.

The accused, Mohd Ashfaq Hussain and Ahmed Najeeb Uddin, both 27 and residents of Ameerpet, allegedly worked with a Bengaluru-based associate, Sachin, who remains absconding. Police said the fraudsters impersonated officials from Delhi Police, the CBI and the Enforcement Directorate, threatening the victims with arrest in a fictitious money-laundering case. They coerced them into transferring their savings under the pretext of financial verification. Investigators said the stolen money was routed through mule bank accounts and converted into cryptocurrency. Police seized two iPhones and linked the network to at least 16 cyber fraud cases nationwide.

Chargesheet filed against 7 in mob lynching case

NEW DELHI

Delhi Police have filed a chargesheet against seven people in Saket court over the alleged mob lynching of 54-year-old Manipuri musician and music teacher Chongtham Vikram Singh in southeast Delhi's Kilokari village.

Singh was allegedly beaten to death on September 6 after objecting to noise outside his house. Police named Bharat Kumar, Pramod, Ramzan Khan, Deepanshu, Mohan Vishwakarma, Vijay and Mannu as accused. A juvenile was also apprehended.

According to police, the group chased Singh from the ground floor to the third floor of his building and assaulted him in front of his son.

The postmortem found that he died from haemorrhagic shock caused by blunt-force injuries to his chest and abdomen, with multiple rib fractures and a ruptured spleen.

The chargesheet includes charges of murder, criminal conspiracy, mob lynching and house-trespass. Police are also examining a possible racial motive behind the killing.

Police book X user over investors' summit posts

DEHRADUN

Dehradun Police have registered an FIR against an X user, Kamran (@CitizenKamran), and others for allegedly spreading misinformation about Uttarakhand's 2023 Global Investors Summit.

The FIR was registered on October 17 at Rajpur police station under Sections 66C and 66D of the Information Technology Act, following a complaint by Additional Director of Industries Mritunjay Singh.

The complaint alleged that misleading social media posts could damage investor confidence and the state's investment climate.

The action follows Congress leader Rahul Gandhi's criticism of Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami's government over the implementation of investment proposals announced at the summit. Gandhi questioned claims involving ₹3.56 lakh crore in proposed investments.

Kolkata stampede exposes serious crowd management failures

The fatal Kolkata pandal stampede has triggered scrutiny of safety arrangements, police deployment and evacuation planning as former officers question preparedness for massive festive crowds.

KOLKATA

The deaths of 19 people in a stampede at the Chorbagan Durga Puja pandal have raised concerns over inadequate crowd management, restricted entry and exit routes, and a possible shortage of police personnel, former Kolkata Police officers said on Sunday.

A former police commissioner, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the incident highlighted shortcomings in planning and crowd control. Kolkata Police traditionally classified community pujas as large, medium or small to prepare crowd and traffic management plans in advance. The Chorbagan puja, which reportedly attracted huge crowds this year, had been categorised as a small event a decade ago.

The former officer said reports indicated that the exit point, estimated to be 11 to 11.5 feet wide, was inadequate for evacuating a large crowd during an emergency. Stalls allegedly placed outside the exit further narrowed the available space.

A retired Indian Police Service officer also pointed to social media videos in which people reportedly complained about the absence of police personnel inside and outside the pandal. The officer alleged that a separate guarded route for VIPs reduced the general entry passage to approximately 7.5 to eight feet.

West Bengal Chief Minister Suvendu Adhikari on Sunday formed an expert team to inspect the site and investigate the incident. The team includes disaster management secretary Rajesh Kumar Singh, fire services director general Anuj Sharma and Special Task Force additional director general Javed Shamim, along with three other IPS officers.

The team has also been tasked with auditing safety arrangements at major Durga Puja pandals across the state.

However, Sushanta Shibani Pal, the artist who designed the Chorbagan mandap, said the tragedy could not be attributed to a single factor. He maintained that both entry and exit points were 11.5 feet wide and had accommodated crowds for three days before the incident.

Pal said people had taken shelter from rain under covered pathways before attempting to flee following rumours that the pandal was collapsing. The resulting panic, he said, contributed to the tragedy.

What the officers flagged

- Small event: the Chorbagan puja was categorised as small a decade ago
- Narrow exit: about 11 to 11.5 feet wide, with stalls outside it
- VIP route: the general passage cut to about 7.5 to 8 feet
- Police: videos of people complaining of no personnel at the pandal

Yogi highlights women's empowerment, growth in UP

LUCKNOW

Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath on Monday highlighted women's empowerment, economic growth, employment generation and infrastructure development, claiming that the state had undergone significant transformation since 2017 under the BJP-led government.

In a post on X during Navratri, Adityanath said women were playing a decisive role in the state's progress through their capabilities, determination and self-confidence. He emphasised that respecting women was essential for prosperity and well-being.

The Chief Minister contrasted the state's situation before 2017 with the current administration, asserting that the government had adopted a zero-tolerance policy towards crime and criminals to strengthen law and order and improve women's safety.

Adityanath claimed that Uttar Pradesh's gross state domestic product, per-capita income, budget and female labour force participation had tripled over the past nine and a half years. He also said the state had received investment proposals worth more than ₹50 lakh crore.

Three held in Kota over firing at Tiger Shroff's car

MUMBAI

Three suspects have been arrested in Rajasthan's Kota in connection with the firing at Bollywood actor Tiger Shroff's car in Mumbai, with the accused allegedly receiving ₹50,000 collectively to carry out the attack, police said on Monday.

The suspects were detained at Kota railway station while travelling on the Pune-Jaipur Express. According to Kota Superintendent of Police Tejaswani Gautam, they were allegedly planning to reach Delhi before fleeing to Nepal.

The accused have been identified as Rehan alias Sukka, from Sonipat in Haryana; Hritik Kurmi alias Roshan, originally from Bihar and residing in Mumbai; and a minor from Haryana. They will be handed over to Mumbai Police for further investigation.

"Acting on this information, our team, within just 15 minutes, set a trap and thoroughly searched the entire train," Gautam said.

Preliminary questioning indicated that Rehan had been in contact with Anil Pandit, who is allegedly linked to the Lawrence Bishnoi gang.

Police detained the suspects aboard a train in Kota as investigators probe the alleged gang links, escape plan and motive behind the Mumbai shooting.

The incident occurred around 7 pm on Sunday when Shroff was leaving Pushpa Park in Mumbai's Juhu area. Three assailants allegedly fired five rounds at his car while he was seated in the front passenger seat. The actor escaped serious injury, but his driver and an autorickshaw driver sustained gunshot injuries.

Mumbai Police have recovered the two-wheeler allegedly used in the attack near Andheri railway station.

The Lawrence Bishnoi gang has reportedly claimed responsibility for the shooting through social media posts attributed to alleged operatives Anil Pandit and Harman Sandhu.

UJJAIN

Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Mohan Yadav on Monday reviewed preparations and ongoing development projects for Simhastha 2028 in Ujjain, directing officials to ensure adequate facilities for pilgrims and complete all works within the stipulated deadlines.

During the meeting, Yadav assessed construction progress and stressed efficient planning to manage the large crowds expected for the religious gathering. He said the government was preparing to accommodate an estimated 30 crore to 40 crore pilgrims.

"Simhastha is not just the biggest fair in the country but in the world," Yadav said, adding that arrangements would enable devotees to take a holy dip and participate in religious activities without difficulty.

The Chief Minister said the government was prioritising permanent infrastructure so that development projects would benefit Ujjain, the surrounding division and Madhya Pradesh beyond the event.

He also highlighted the growth of religious tourism in the state, stating that pilgrim numbers at religious destinations had increased nearly 16 times over the past three years. The development of Mahakal Lok in 2022 had significantly increased visitor numbers in Ujjain, he added.

Keralam revokes horti-wine licence, moves officer

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

The Keralam government has revoked a licence granted to a bakery in Thrissur to sell horti-wine, an alcoholic beverage made from locally grown fruits, and transferred the excise officer who issued the order.

Excise Minister M Liju said on Sunday that although the licence was permitted under rules introduced by the previous Left Democratic Front (LDF) government, it should not have been granted while the current United Democratic Front (UDF) government was finalising its liquor policy.

Horti-wine contains 15.5% alcohol and was developed primarily to improve the income of fruit farmers, particularly those cultivating pineapple, mango, banana and jackfruit. The Kerala Small Scale Winery Rules were introduced in 2022 to encourage wine production using ingredients other than food grains, especially fruits.

The rules were subsequently amended to allow horti-wine to be supplied through outlets other than the state-run Kerala State Beverages (M&M) Corporation Limited, commonly known as BEVCO. The provision enabled bakeries to purchase the beverage from BEVCO warehouses and sell it during periods of high demand, particularly the Christmas and New Year season.

Liju said the order was issued two days after the excise commissioner assumed office. Although the order did not technically require the minister's approval, he said he should have been informed.

"The order doesn't technically need to be sanctioned by the minister, I should have been informed," Liju told reporters.

The officer who issued the licence, C K Anil Kumar, has been transferred and placed on compulsory wait.

Former excise minister and CPI(M) leader M B Rajesh defended the earlier amendments, saying they were intended to support fruit farmers. He warned that farmers could react if the current government decided to withdraw the provision.

"We amended the rules for horti-wine to help our farmers."

Manipur protesters leave body outside CM's residence

IMPHAL

Security personnel fired tear gas shells after protesters placed a body outside Manipur Chief Minister Y. Khemchand Singh's residence in Imphal on Monday, following the alleged killing of two Meitei men by Kuki militants, officials said.

The deceased, identified as Arubam Ronil, 35, and Lairenlakpam Inaobi, 51, were reportedly collecting firewood in a forest when they were attacked. Four other people were injured in the alleged firing.

According to officials, a group of 16 people had gone to the hills near their village around 7 am to collect firewood when they were ambushed. The incident occurred at Khongbal Sunurok Uyok in Kangpokpi district, near Nongshum village in Imphal East district.

The killings triggered protests, with locals bringing the bodies to the Chief Minister's residence. Security personnel responded by firing several rounds of tear gas shells to disperse the protesters. The bodies were subsequently taken to the Jawaharlal Nehru Institute of Medical Sciences (JNIMS) for further procedures.

It was not immediately known whether Chief Minister Singh was present at his residence during the protest.

The fresh violence comes amid continuing tensions in Manipur. On Saturday, a 36-year-old man was killed and four others injured in a gunfight involving armed groups belonging to the Kuki and Naga communities in Chassad village in Kamjong district.

The injured in that incident were rescued by Assam Rifles personnel and taken to a paramilitary-run hospital in Chassad. One of them, Seikhohou Haokip, later succumbed to his injuries.

Haryana releases ₹104 crore for Manesar civic body HQ land

MANESAR

The Haryana government has released ₹104 crore for the purchase of land for the Municipal Corporation of Manesar's (MCM) permanent headquarters in Sector 2, paving the way for the civic body to move out of rented premises.

The funds will be transferred by the municipal corporation to the Haryana State Industrial and Infrastructure Development Corporation (HSIIDC), which will transfer a 2.99-acre plot near IMT Chowk and the Delhi-Jaipur highway service road to the civic body.

The new headquarters

FUNDS RELEASED ₹104 crore	PLOT 2.99 acres, Sector 2
RENT NOW About ₹25 lakh a month	IN RENTED OFFICES Nearly six years

The corporation has been operating from rented buildings for nearly six years, spending around ₹25 lakh every month on rent. Acquiring its own land is expected to reduce recurring expenditure and establish a permanent administrative centre for the rapidly expanding urban area.

Mandeep Ghanghas, executive engineer of the Municipal Corporation of Manesar, said the funds would be transferred to HSIIDC this month. Following the formal transfer of the land, the corporation's engineering wing will prepare the building plan and appoint a consultant to oversee the project's planning.

The construction cost of the proposed building will be met from the corporation's own revenue. The timeline for construction has not yet been announced.

The new office is expected to improve access to civic and administrative services. Several government offices, including HSIIDC, the pollution control board, Manesar tehsil, the electricity department and the sub-divisional officer's office, are already located in Sector 2.

The co-location of the municipal corporation with these offices could reduce the need for residents to travel across the city to access different services. It is also expected to streamline grievance redressal and make civic administration more convenient.

BIRC 2026 rice conference draws buyers from over 150 countries

The 3-day event will bring global stakeholders together to strengthen trade ties, explore export opportunities and expand India's presence in international rice markets.

NEW DELHI

The Bharat International Rice Conference (BIRC) 2026 has attracted buyers from more than 150 countries, with 4,649 registrations and 2,038 business-to-business meetings scheduled ahead of its opening on October 23 in New Delhi.

Organised by the Indian Rice Exporters' Federation (IREF), the three-day conference will be held at Bharat Mandapam from October 23 to 25.

More than 180 companies are expected to participate, while exhibition space has been fully booked for the second consecutive year, reflecting strong interest in India's rice export sector.

The conference aims to strengthen India's position in the international rice market by connecting exporters with overseas buyers and providing opportunities to explore new business partnerships. Discussions will focus on global rice prices, export opportunities, shipping costs, quality standards and market prospects for 2027.

Industry experts and stakeholders are expected to examine changing international demand, payment-related risks and emerging destinations for Indian basmati and non-basmati rice. These discussions are intended to help exporters understand market challenges, improve trade strategies and identify opportunities amid changing global conditions.

India is a major participant in the international rice trade, supplying different varieties to markets across the world.

The inaugural edition of BIRC, held in 2025, reportedly generated business commitments worth ₹33,453 crore, covering approximately 8.63 million tonnes of rice. The outcome established the event as an important platform for bringing together international buyers and Indian exporters.

Organisers expect the 2026 edition to build on this momentum by expanding business connections and facilitating new trade agreements.

With participation from buyers across more than 150 countries, the conference is expected to offer Indian rice exporters opportunities to strengthen existing relationships, explore new markets and support the country's position in the global rice industry.

Naidu slams Jagan for reversing stand on CEC selection

AMARAVATI

Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister N Chandrababu Naidu on Monday accused YSR Congress Party (YSRCP) president YS Jagan Mohan Reddy of reversing his position on the selection process for the Chief Election Commissioner (CEC), alleging that his opposition stemmed from dissatisfaction with the Election Commission's functioning.

The remarks came a day after Reddy expressed regret over supporting the 2023 legislation governing the appointment of the CEC when his party was in power in Andhra Pradesh.

Addressing a press conference at his residence in Undavalli, Naidu questioned the change in Reddy's position, claiming that he had supported the appointment procedure earlier but was now opposing it because the Election Commission was not acting according to his expectations.

Naidu also criticised Reddy's recent remarks that the arrest of leaders of the Cockroach Janta Party (CJP) would not resolve the underlying issues and that public trust in the electoral process needed to be restored. The Chief Minister questioned the reasoning behind the former Chief Minister's comments.

The CEC row

- 2023 — Jagan's YSRCP, then in power in Andhra Pradesh, backs the law on appointing the CEC
- SUNDAY — Jagan says he regrets supporting it
- MONDAY — Naidu accuses him of reversing his stand

The political exchange has intensified the debate over electoral credibility and the appointment of the country's top election official. Reddy had earlier said he regretted backing the legislation introduced in 2023, renewing questions about the process used to select the CEC.

Naidu also levelled allegations against the YSRCP over its approach towards individuals accused of criminal activities. He claimed that the party encouraged people to commit crimes, helped secure their release and enabled them to engage in more serious offences.

The Chief Minister alleged that such actions could contribute to the growth of criminal networks.

The latest exchange highlights continuing tensions between the Telugu Desam Party (TDP)-led government and the YSRCP in Andhra Pradesh, with both sides engaging in criticism over electoral institutions, political accountability and law and order.

Northeast monsoon rains lift Chennai reservoir storage levels

CHENNAI

The first spells of the northeast monsoon have improved water storage levels in Chennai's reservoirs, raising their combined storage to 37 per cent of capacity.

The rainfall has provided relief to the city's water supply system as the northeast monsoon brings seasonal precipitation to Tamil Nadu. The increase in reservoir levels is expected to support drinking water requirements in Chennai and surrounding areas.

The northeast monsoon, which typically sets in during October, is a crucial source of rainfall for Tamil Nadu. Its performance significantly influences the state's water availability, agricultural activities and overall reservoir storage.

Although the initial rainfall has improved storage, continued and well-distributed showers will be important to sustain water reserves in the coming months. Authorities will continue monitoring rainfall and reservoir levels to manage supplies and meet the city's growing water demand.

Scrap disposal earned govt nearly ₹6,000 cr in 5 years: Jitendra

India's cleanliness drive has combined public participation with resource recovery, turning discarded materials into substantial revenue for the government over five years.

NEW DELHI

The government has generated nearly ₹6,000 crore or more in revenue through scrap disposal over the past five years under its cleanliness initiatives, Union Minister Jitendra Singh said on Monday, highlighting the financial benefits of effective waste management.

Speaking to the media during Special Campaign 6.0, Singh said the initiative had evolved into a mass movement since Prime Minister Narendra Modi launched the cleanliness drive in 2014.

"Over the past five years, through the collection of scrap, we have managed to contribute nearly Rs 6,000 crore or even more to the government exchequer," Singh said.

He explained that the government had developed systems to manage discarded materials efficiently and sell them in the market instead of allowing them to go to waste.

"We have learned how to manage this waste effectively, ensuring it does not go to waste but is instead converted into revenue by bringing it to the market," the minister said.

Singh noted that a dedicated month-long cleanliness campaign was introduced around six years ago. It is observed annually from October 2, Gandhi Jayanti, to October 31, the birth anniversary of Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel. The current edition, Special Campaign 6.0, focuses on improving cleanliness, managing waste and strengthening administrative efficiency across government institutions. Previous campaigns have also helped authorities identify areas for improvement and introduce new measures.

> — Jitendra Singh, Union Minister

As part of the ongoing Special Campaign 6.0 for Institutionalising Swachhata and Minimising Pendency, the Ministry of Panchayati Raj organised a cleanliness and pending-work disposal drive on October 14.

The campaign aims to improve workplace hygiene, optimise office space and expedite the resolution of pending matters. Government divisions and sections participated in the drive, while Panchayati Raj Institutions and rural local bodies were encouraged to undertake similar activities.

The initiative combines cleanliness with efficient resource utilisation, demonstrating how discarded government materials can be converted into revenue while improving public administration.

Centre urges Meta to curb algorithms fueling social unrest

NEW DELHI

The Centre has raised concerns over social media algorithms that could amplify content capable of triggering unrest and has asked Meta to take steps to address the issue.

The government's intervention focuses on how platform algorithms recommend and circulate content, potentially increasing the reach of inflammatory material and intensifying tensions.

Meta, which operates Facebook, Instagram and WhatsApp, faces growing scrutiny over the responsibility of digital platforms in preventing the spread of harmful content.

The move highlights the government's broader efforts to ensure that social media companies comply with Indian laws and strengthen content moderation mechanisms.

However, regulating online content also raises concerns about freedom of expression, transparency and the possibility of excessive censorship.

Balancing public safety with users' constitutional rights remains a key challenge as authorities and technology companies navigate the responsibilities of managing India's expanding digital space.

DMK questions TN govt over 137-kg meth seizure

CHENNAI

The Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK) on Monday questioned the Tamil Nadu government's response to the seizure of 137 kg of methamphetamine in a case involving the arrest of Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK) functionaries. Separately, Marumalarchi Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (MDMK) general secretary Vaiko criticised Chief Election Commissioner Gyanesh Kumar over alleged deletions from electoral rolls.

DMK Advocate Wing Deputy Secretary I Paranthamen said the State government and police had not issued a statement on the drug seizure, questioning their response to the incident.

He asked whether the police were taking action or remaining inactive.

Paranthamen also sought transparency regarding the Anti-Drug Task Force, claiming that more than 64 teams had been appointed and ₹264 crore allocated to tackle narcotics. He urged the government to disclose the expenditure incurred and the performance of the teams.

The controversy follows the Directorate of Revenue Intelligence's (DRI) arrest of N Boopalan, a 42-year-old advocate and TVK Nagapattinam district executive committee member, along with another person.

Nagapattinam: the DRI's methamphetamine seizure; investigators suspect the drugs were meant for Sri Lanka

The arrests were made in connection with a methamphetamine seizure in Nagapattinam on Friday. Investigators suspect the drugs were intended to be smuggled to Sri Lanka and distributed through a network of associates.

Earlier, DMK president and former Chief Minister M K Stalin criticised the TVK, describing it as a "Breaking Bad party" following the arrest.

Meanwhile, Vaiko supported protests by the Cockroach Janta Party (CJP) and students against alleged voter deletions. He claimed that more than 13 crore voters had been removed from electoral rolls and accused Kumar of undermining democracy.

Vaiko further alleged that the two other Election Commissioners had objected to the Chief Election Commissioner's decisions on 14 occasions, but their concerns were ignored. He also accused Kumar of acting in favour of the ruling government.

The allegations concerning electoral rolls and the drug seizure have intensified political exchanges in Tamil Nadu.

Navy eyes multi-domain force, from air and sea to AI and quantum

NEW DELHI

The Indian Navy is pursuing development across multiple domains, ranging from air and underwater operations to artificial intelligence (AI) and quantum technology, to evolve into a multi-domain network force, Vice-Chief of Naval Staff Vice Admiral Ajay Kochhar said on Monday.

Addressing a press conference in New Delhi on October 19, Kochhar said the Navy was working not only to adopt emerging technologies but also to strengthen its operational capabilities. The initiative aims to improve the Navy's preparedness to address evolving security challenges and operate effectively across different domains.

The Vice-Chief emphasised the importance of integrating advanced technologies into naval operations, reflecting the growing role of digital capabilities and technological innovation in modern warfare.

AI and quantum technology are among the areas being explored as the Navy works towards strengthening its future capabilities.

Kochhar also referred to Operation Urja Suraksha, a naval initiative that has helped safely escort several ships to Indian shores amid attacks in strategically important sea lanes. The operation highlights the Navy's role in protecting maritime movement and supporting the safe passage of vessels during periods of heightened security concerns.

Passenger vehicle sales rose 22% year-on-year in September, while growth during the first half of FY2026-27 reached 28%. Year to date, utility vehicle volumes are up 31%, against a 23% rise for cars. Rupee falls 3 paise to close at 94.92 against US dollar

The rupee slipped three paise to settle at 94.92 (provisional) against the US dollar on Monday, ending a six-session run of gains as domestic equities fell and worries over crude oil prices returned. In interbank foreign exchange trade, the currency opened at 94.90 and moved between a high of 94.75 and a low of 94.97 during the day. The currency faced pressure from foreign institutional investor (FII) outflows and elevated oil prices. On Friday, it had closed 10 paise higher at 94.89, supported by measures taken by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) to curb dollar demand. The rupee had appreciated nearly 2 per cent during the week ended October 16. However, analysts cautioned that a sustained recovery would depend on softer crude prices, stronger foreign capital inflows and easing external pressures.

Meanwhile, the dollar index rose 0.09 per cent to 101.93, while Brent crude futures traded 1.17 per cent lower at $108.58 a barrel. Domestic equity markets weakened sharply, with the Sensex falling 876.37 points to 73,852.90 and the Nifty declining 257.20 points to 22,888.95. Separately, India's foreign exchange reserves declined by $8.578 billion to $726.027 billion in the week ended October 9, according to RBI data.

US, Uzbekistan strengthen ties over critical minerals

Washington and Tashkent are exploring expanded strategic cooperation as Uzbekistan prepares to significantly increase mineral production and develop key industries by 2030.

SAMARKAND

The United States and Uzbekistan have discussed strengthening cooperation in critical minerals, infrastructure and space as the Central Asian country plans a major expansion of its mineral production by 2030.

US Secretary of State Marco Rubio met Uzbekistan's Foreign Minister, Bakhtiyor Saidov, on Monday to discuss deepening the strategic partnership between the two countries, including collaboration through the C5+1 diplomatic platform.

In a social media post, Rubio said the discussions focused on advancing prosperity for both countries and the wider region through cooperation in key sectors.

The talks come as Uzbekistan seeks to strengthen its position in the global critical-minerals market. The country has reserves of copper, uranium, lithium, tungsten, graphite and molybdenum, resources that are important for energy, manufacturing and advanced technologies.

According to data cited by the International Trade Administration, Uzbekistan produced 150,000 tonnes of copper and 3,800 tonnes of uranium in 2024. It aims to raise its annual copper production to 500,000 tonnes, and its uranium output to 10,000 tonnes, by 2030.

Uzbekistan is also working to develop its domestic critical-minerals value chain, covering extraction, processing and downstream manufacturing. It established the Uzbekistan Technological Metals Complex (UzTMC) in 2024 as part of these efforts.

Following his engagements in Uzbekistan, Rubio is scheduled to travel to India for meetings with senior officials and business leaders in Mumbai and Jamnagar. Discussions are expected to focus on strengthening the US-India strategic partnership, energy cooperation and commercial investment.

Tata Sons reviews governance rules ahead of possible IPO

MUMBAI

Tata Sons has begun reviewing its Articles of Association (AoA) ahead of a potential stock market listing, a move that could reshape Tata Trusts' special governance rights while preserving its majority shareholding in the holding company of the Tata group.

According to a report by The Economic Times, the review aims to align the company's internal rules with Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) requirements for listed entities.

The proposed changes could affect the appointment of directors, independent representation on the board, voting rights and restrictions on share transfers. These provisions are significant because they influence how the company is governed and how decisions are made at the group's holding company.

Tata Trusts, which holds a majority stake in Tata Sons, has special rights under the company's existing governance framework. Any revision to the Articles of Association could therefore affect the way these rights operate, even if the trusts retain their majority ownership.

The move comes after the Reserve Bank of India turned down Tata Sons' request to give up its registration as a core investment company, the report said.

A stock market listing could bring changes to Tata Sons' governance and disclosure obligations. However, the review of its Articles of Association does not, by itself, confirm that an initial public offering (IPO) will take place.

The proposed changes could also expose differences within the Tata group over the listing, particularly regarding the balance between Tata Trusts' influence and the governance requirements applicable to a publicly listed company.

India-NZ FTA kicks in on Oct 20

NEW DELHI

Indian goods will enter the New Zealand market duty-free from October 20, when the India-New Zealand Free Trade Agreement (FTA) takes effect, giving exporters fresh opportunities, the Ministry of Commerce and Industry said.

Textiles, apparel, leather, footwear and other labour-intensive sectors stand to gain as tariffs of up to 10% are removed from the first day of the agreement. Better market access is also expected for engineering goods, pharmaceuticals, machinery, chemicals and farm products.

India has kept 30% of its tariff lines out of the deal, which covers the other 70%. Duties on 30% of the tariff lines covered for New Zealand go at once; the rest will be cut in phases over up to 10 years or be subject to tariff reductions and tariff-rate quotas.

Trade between the two now totals USD 2.4 billion. India's services exports to New Zealand rose 13% to USD 634 million from USD 561 million, and its goods exports reached USD 566.5 million in 2025-26, up 16% over four years.

Customs procedures are to be simplified under the FTA: cargo is to be cleared within 48 hours, and express and perishable shipments within 24 hours.

The pact also carries a USD 20 billion investment commitment from New Zealand, along with provisions for cooperation in pharmaceuticals, medical devices and services.

Delhi CM opens 200 TPD biogas plant, announces 6 more

NEW DELHI

Delhi Chief Minister Rekha Gupta on Monday opened a biogas plant with a capacity of 200 tonnes per day (TPD) at Goyla Dairy under the Seva Sankalp Abhiyan, and said six more such facilities would be set up to turn cow dung into green energy.

The inauguration took place in the presence of Delhi Minister Ashish Sood. Gupta said the project had been approved in 2018 but remained incomplete until 2026, blaming the previous Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) government for failing to advance it.

"Because at that time, the BJP was in power in the MCD. They thought that if they did it, another achievement would be credited to the Municipal Corporation's name. They (AAP) didn't care that there wasn't a single biogas plant in Delhi," Gupta said.

The Chief Minister said three biogas plants, each with a capacity of 200 tonnes per day, had been initiated over the past one-and-a-half years. The government plans to establish six more facilities, including one in Ghazipur and five at other locations, to manage the approximately 1,500 tonnes of cow dung Delhi generates daily.

Gupta cited the biogas plant at Nangli, established in September 2025, as an example of the initiative's potential. According to her, the facility processed around 55,000 tonnes of cow dung in a year to produce gas and fertiliser.

Minister Ashish Sood said the inauguration marked progress on a project for which funds had been allocated in 2018. He accused the previous government of prioritising political interests and publicity over public welfare.

Sood said the plant would also help the drive to clean up the Yamuna, by handling cow dung waste and adding to renewable energy output.

US 'very close' to finalising India trade pact: Rubio

NEW DELHI

US Secretary of State Marco Rubio said on Monday that the United States is "very close" to finalising a trade agreement with India, a sign that negotiations between the two countries are making progress.

He made the remarks before meeting External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar in Mumbai on October 20, ANI and Reuters reported.

The US Secretary of State also discussed Washington's decisions regarding sanctions on Russian oil and gas, highlighting the need to consider their potential impact on global energy supplies and prices.

The issue of Russian energy imports has remained significant in discussions involving India and the United States.

Rubio's comments suggest that trade remains a key area of engagement between New Delhi and Washington.

The upcoming meeting between Rubio and Jaishankar is expected to provide an opportunity for discussions on bilateral relations, trade and broader strategic concerns.

Sugar stocks fall up to 6% as ethanol diversion is halted

NEW DELHI

Shares of Indian sugar companies fell between 2 per cent and 6 per cent in early trade on Monday, after the government asked oil marketing companies to cut the use of sugar for ethanol production to nil in the 2026/27 supply year.

The latest ethanol tender excludes supplies produced from sugarcane juice, sugar syrup and B-heavy molasses, removing an important revenue source for sugar mills that use these materials to produce ethanol.

Balrampur Chini Mills, Bajaj Hindusthan Sugar, Dhampur Sugar, EID Parry, Shree Renuka Sugars and Triveni Engineering and Industries were among the companies whose shares fell in morning trade on October 19.

The government's directive is expected to affect sugar producers that rely on ethanol as a higher-margin alternative to selling sugar in the open market.

The exclusion of these supplies from the latest tender could force mills to reassess how they allocate sugarcane-derived products between sugar production and other uses. The stock market reaction reflected investor concerns over the potential impact on earnings and profitability.

ECONOMIC GROWTH

China's economy grows 4.5% in Q3, beating forecasts

BEIJING

China's economy expanded 4.5 per cent year-on-year in the July-September quarter of 2026, supported by strong exports and industrial production, even as weak domestic demand and falling investment continued to weigh on growth, official data showed on Monday.

According to the National Bureau of Statistics of China, gross domestic product grew 5 per cent in the first quarter and 4.3 per cent in the second quarter. For the first nine months of 2026, the economy expanded 4.6 per cent year-on-year, reaching 107.1071 trillion yuan.

China's foreign trade remained a key growth driver. Total imports and exports of goods rose 18.8 per cent year-on-year to 39.9339 trillion yuan during the January-September period. Exports increased 16.4 per cent, while imports climbed 22.3 per cent. Trade with countries participating in the Belt and Road Initiative grew 17.1 per cent.

Industrial activity also remained resilient. Industrial output increased 5.3 per cent during the first nine months, while manufacturing grew 5.7 per cent. Equipment manufacturing expanded 10.2 per cent and high-tech manufacturing rose 14.3 per cent. Production of 3D printing devices, lithium-ion batteries and industrial robots increased 62.5 per cent, 39.5 per cent and 29.1 per cent, respectively.

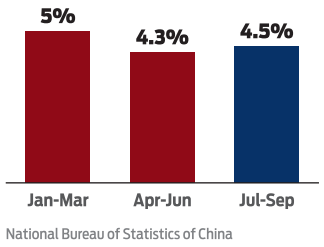

However, investment remained a major concern. Fixed-asset investment, excluding rural households, declined 7.2 per cent year-on-year. Infrastructure investment fell 4.2 per cent, while real estate development investment plunged 20.6 per cent.

Consumer spending showed limited momentum, with retail sales rising 2.6 per cent and online retail sales of goods and services increasing 4.4 per cent.

The statistics bureau said China's economy remained resilient but acknowledged a complex international environment and the need to strengthen domestic demand. Future priorities include boosting consumption, improving public well-being and supporting innovation-led development.

Uyghur Congress highlights rights concerns

WASHINGTON

The World Uyghur Congress has raised concerns over alleged forced labour, cultural assimilation and transnational repression affecting Uyghurs, according to its weekly brief published on October 19, 2026. The organisation has continued to highlight issues surrounding the rights, identity and freedoms of the Uyghur community, particularly in relation to developments in China and the treatment of Uyghurs living abroad. The brief also highlighted concerns about seafood supply chains, environmental damage and China's Ethnic Unity Law, which critics fear could intensify assimilation. WUC representatives have urged stronger international cooperation to protect Uyghur rights and counter alleged abuses.

Taiwan's Straits Exchange Foundation has urged I-Kuan Tao followers in China to return to Taiwan for their safety.

Sanghavi courts Japanese investors in Osaka

OSAKA

Gujarat Deputy Chief Minister Harsh Sanghavi led an "Invest in Gujarat" roundtable with top Japanese industrialists and investors in Osaka on Monday, seeking fresh investment and closer economic links between the state and Japan.

The meeting was organised as part of the Vibrant Gujarat Global Summit initiative.

Welcoming the industry representatives on Gujarat's behalf, Sanghavi spoke of the long ties between India and Japan. Calling Japan the "Land of the Rising Sun" and Gujarat the "Land of Emerging Opportunities", he said the partnership rested on mutual trust and respect, shared values and cultural links.

Sanghavi also outlined Gujarat's economic and industrial strengths. He said the state accounts for more than eight per cent of India's gross domestic product despite having around five per cent of the country's population. Gujarat contributes approximately 18 per cent of India's industrial production and nearly one-third of its total exports, according to the figures presented at the meeting.

The state's ports also handle a significant share of the country's cargo.

Sanghavi referred to existing links between Japan and Gujarat, including Suzuki's operations, the Mumbai-Ahmedabad bullet train project and Japanese industrial parks.

He invited Japanese investors to participate in the Vibrant Gujarat Global Summit and explore opportunities to establish businesses and expand their operations in the state.

Rubio meets Central Asian ministers to boost ties

Rubio says regional cooperation in key sectors can boost economies, generate jobs and enhance security

SAMARKAND

US Secretary of State Marco Rubio met foreign ministers from five Central Asian countries in Uzbekistan on Monday, highlighting the importance of stronger economic cooperation, regional stability and security under the C5+1 diplomatic framework.

Rubio held discussions with representatives from Uzbekistan, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan and Turkmenistan during the C5+1 Ministerial meeting in Samarkand. He said cooperation across key sectors could create jobs, strengthen economies and improve security throughout the region.

In a post on social media platform X, Rubio said the United States was working with its Central Asian partners to expand commercial opportunities and strengthen regional security. He identified critical minerals, energy, transportation and technology as the priority areas for cooperation.

Rubio also met Kazakhstan's Foreign Minister Mukhtar Tileuberdi and reaffirmed Washington's commitment to expanding economic and security ties with the country. He thanked Kazakhstan for supporting US President Donald Trump's peace initiatives, including the Abraham Accords.

During his visit, Rubio held discussions with Uzbekistan Foreign Minister Bakhtiyor Saidov on strengthening the strategic partnership between Washington and Tashkent. Their talks covered cooperation in infrastructure, space, critical minerals and other areas of mutual interest.

US Ambassador to India Sergio Gor also highlighted the growing economic partnership between Washington and Central Asia. He said more than 300 business leaders were participating in efforts to deepen commercial engagement and explore investment opportunities across the region.

The visit reflects Washington's efforts to strengthen its presence in Central Asia, a strategically important region situated between Russia and China and rich in natural resources. The United States is seeking to expand trade, investment and cooperation in critical minerals while supporting regional stability.

The C5+1 framework brings together the United States and the five Central Asian republics to discuss shared economic, diplomatic and security priorities.

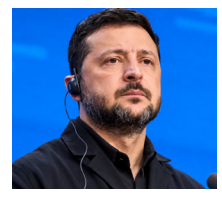

Following his engagements in Uzbekistan, Rubio is scheduled to travel to India for meetings with government officials and business leaders in Mumbai and Jamnagar.

Zelensky ready to contest wartime presidential polls

KYIV

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky says he will stand for president if an election is held before the war with Russia is over, Ukraine's Ukrinform news agency reported.

He indicated that Ukraine could explore arrangements for holding elections during the conflict if Russia agreed to a 60-day ceasefire.

Ukraine last held presidential elections in 2019.

His comments come as questions persist over the course of the war and over international backing for Kyiv. He said the United States had paused vital intelligence sharing with Ukraine for three days, during which Ukrainian forces received no American warnings of Russian ballistic missile attacks.

He said the interruption affected access to information that only the United States could provide, particularly advance warnings of ballistic missile strikes. Zelensky also stated that restrictions on satellite communications used by Ukrainian forces had not been fully lifted.

> "If it takes place during the war, of course, it is my duty, because I must defend my country from the beginning until the end of the war."
> — Volodymyr Zelensky, Ukrainian President

Ukraine still received intelligence from European and other international partners, but Zelensky said they could not fully make up for American systems.

The Ukrainian government faces the challenge of balancing democratic processes with security requirements during the ongoing conflict. Any decision to hold elections would require suitable legal provisions and security arrangements, while the proposed ceasefire remains a key condition in Zelensky's remarks.

Border dispute remains a key hurdle in India-China ties

BEIJING

India and China have stepped up diplomatic contact, but their unsettled border dispute is still the biggest barrier to better relations, and ties have not recovered to where they stood before 2020, according to a report.

The report said that preventing another violent border confrontation remained a priority for both countries, as another such incident could have serious domestic and diplomatic consequences.

Sana Hashmi, a fellow at the Taiwan-Asia Exchange Foundation, said India had continued engaging with China even after the Galwan clashes. She argued that the resumption of high-level meetings and direct connectivity reflected an effort to manage tensions rather than a change in India's position on outstanding issues.

The report also highlighted China's reported position on the Union Territory of Ladakh as evidence of continuing disagreements over territorial issues. Other contentious matters include China's close relationship with Pakistan and the persistent trade imbalance between the two countries.

Preventing another violent border clash remains a priority for both nations to avoid severe domestic and diplomatic fallout.

The Galwan clashes, the analysis said, altered the way India views China and cast doubt on whether the existing arrangements for keeping peace along the Line of Actual Control (LAC) still work.

Hashmi noted that talks between leaders could not, on their own, settle the deeper differences. She said India was unlikely to go back to its earlier stance on the One China policy unless Beijing gave a matching assurance on a One India policy.

During their meeting on the sidelines of the BRICS Summit in New Delhi on September 12, Modi told Xi that both countries should respect each other's core concerns and be guided by mutual respect, mutual sensitivity and mutual interest.

According to India's Ministry of External Affairs, both leaders welcomed progress in bilateral relations since their previous meeting in Tianjin in August 2025. They also agreed that differences should not turn into disputes.

The report concluded that continued dialogue could help prevent further deterioration in relations, but a lasting reset would require progress on the fundamental issues separating the two countries.

Lee pushes for early transfer of wartime control from US

SEOUL

South Korean President Lee Jae Myung has again called for an early handover to Seoul of wartime operational control (OPCON) of the country's armed forces, now held by the United States, saying South Korea is militarily capable of taking on the role.

Speaking to reporters at a meeting marking his 500th day in office, Lee said relying on another country for wartime operational control could not continue indefinitely.

Seoul and Washington differ on when and under what conditions the transfer should happen, Yonhap News Agency reported. Lee's administration wants wartime operational control back before its term ends in 2030, and possibly sooner.

Last week, US Forces Korea Commander General Xavier Brunson said conditions had changed, pointing to North Korea's recent missile launches. He indicated that these developments required new standards for assessing the transfer of operational control.

South Korea's Defence Ministry responded that the transfer target could become difficult to achieve if the conditions continued to change.

South Korea handed over operational control to the US-led United Nations Command during the 1950–53 Korean War. Control was transferred to the South Korea-US Combined Forces Command when it was established in 1978. Seoul regained peacetime operational control in 1994, while wartime control remains with the combined command under US leadership.

Wartime control

- 1950–53 Handed to the US-led UN Command during the Korean War
- 1978 Moved to the new South Korea-US Combined Forces Command
- 1994 Seoul regains peacetime control; wartime control stays with the US-led command

Lee acknowledged Washington's position that South Korea's ability to defend itself must be confirmed before the transfer takes place. However, he said the country should take greater responsibility for its own national defence.

Kim Yo-jong warns of unstable Korean border situation

SEOUL

Kim Yo-jong, sister of North Korean leader Kim Jong-un, has called the situation on the border with South Korea "very unstable", saying Pyongyang is weighing a return to loudspeaker broadcasts and the deployment of additional tactical strike capabilities.

Kim blamed the South Korean military for increasing tensions through what she described as reckless actions along the border.

Her comments came after a landmine blast last month left two South Korean soldiers badly hurt. Pyongyang has repeatedly denied any role and rejected Seoul's conclusion that mines laid on purpose by North Korea set off the explosion.

Kim accused the South Korean military of threatening North Korean soldiers and said its actions had crossed a red line. She dismissed South Korea's account of the explosion as a fabricated incident.

Kim claimed that between August 1 and October 17 the South had carried out 2,870 rounds of loudspeaker broadcasts and fired 201 warning shots, Yonhap News Agency reported.

Kim said the North Korean military was reviewing measures to respond to the situation, including the possible deployment of additional tactical strike capabilities along the border and the resumption of loudspeaker broadcasts.

South Korea stopped its border loudspeaker broadcasts last year as part of President Lee's drive to rebuild trust between the two countries. The North then stopped its own broadcasts in response.

Kim's latest statement raises fresh concerns about a possible resumption of psychological warfare and further escalation along the heavily militarised border.

Marseille bans all public rallies after violent protests

PARIS

Marseille, in southern France, barred all public gatherings and demonstrations between noon and 8 p.m. local time on Monday after protests over the rising cost of living and strained public services turned violent across the country.

About 550,000 people joined demonstrations around France, Xinhua News Agency reported.

Across the country, 2,397 people were arrested and 997 police officers and gendarmes were hurt, seven of them seriously, according to the French Interior Ministry.

Macron condemned the violence, saying there was no place for such acts in France. He warned that those involved in destroying property, attacking government offices and businesses, and looting town halls would face prosecution and punishment.

The unrest was part of a wider wave of demonstrations across Europe over the rising cost of living, housing shortages and pressure on public services.

In Italy, cost-of-living protests turned into clashes in Milan, where protesters hurled firecrackers and bottles at police near Piazza del Duomo.

In Brussels, Belgium, students and their supporters clashed with police during demonstrations against education reforms and rising expenses.

In Portugal, tens of thousands marched in Lisbon, Porto, Coimbra and other cities, calling for affordable homes and steps to rein in living costs.

Italian Prime Minister Giorgia Meloni condemned the violence, stating that peaceful demonstrations were a right but setting cities ablaze was unacceptable.

The developments have highlighted growing public frustration over economic pressures and housing affordability across several European countries.

PARIS

French Prime Minister Sébastien Lecornu has warned that extreme-left groups could attempt to create widespread disorder and disrupt the timetable for the 2027 presidential election, citing information received from intelligence agencies.

Speaking after an interministerial crisis meeting on Monday, Lecornu said intelligence services had alerted the government to the possibility that groups could mobilise to challenge the schedule and even the holding of the presidential election.

The warning follows a weekend of demonstrations across France over the rising cost of living, fuel prices and pressure on public services. While many people participated in peaceful rallies, some protests escalated into clashes, looting and attacks on public buildings and businesses.

Lecornu said the government would not allow violence to determine the country's political agenda. He stressed that peaceful demonstrations were legitimate in a democracy, but acts of arson, destruction and attacks on people had no place in public life.

The prime minister also called for stronger security measures in areas affected by unrest. The government has discussed localised and limited curfews in some cities to prevent further violence and protect residents, businesses and public property.

The allegations against extreme-left groups have added to political tensions ahead of the 2027 presidential election. The government's accusations have been contested by opposition figures, who have criticised its handling of the protests and questioned its response to public grievances.

France is preparing for an election amid concerns about economic pressures, public dissatisfaction and political divisions.

CH NEWS, TOYOTA

Indian shooters Mona Agarwal and Avani Lekhara won gold and silver medals respectively in the women's 10m air rifle standing SH1 event at the Asian Para Games on Monday, giving India its first medals at the ongoing competition.

Mona produced an impressive comeback after finding herself in fifth place during the final. She steadily climbed the standings before taking the lead and holding off her rivals to secure the gold medal.

Her winning score surpassed the previous Asian Para Games record of 249.6 points set by Avani at the 2023 Hangzhou Games. However, Mona narrowly missed the world record of 252 points held by Ukraine's Iryna Shchetnik.

Both Indian shooters had dominated the qualification round earlier in the day. Mona topped the standings with 629.1 points across six series, setting a new Asian Para Games qualification record and surpassing the previous mark held by China's Zhang Cuiping. She narrowly missed the world record of 629.4 points, jointly held by Avani and Slovakia's Veronika Vadovicova.

Avani finished second in qualification with 626.4 points, ensuring a strong one-two position for India heading into the final.

The result also strengthened India's preparations for the 2028 Los Angeles Paralympic Games. Avani secured a quota place through her performance, while Mona had already earned India's first quota place in the event at the World Shooting Para Sport Championships in Changwon last month.

Mona, a bronze medallist at the 2024 Paris Paralympics, continued her impressive international form. Avani, meanwhile, added another achievement to her decorated career. She won gold in the 10m air rifle SH1 event at both the Tokyo 2020 and Paris 2024 Paralympic Games, along with a bronze in the 50m rifle three positions SH1 event in Tokyo.

The Indian duo's medal-winning performance highlighted the country's growing strength in para shooting on the international stage.

CH NEWS, OKAZAKI

Indian para archers Sheetal Devi and Toman Kumar created history on Monday by breaking the world record in the compound mixed team event at the Asian Para Games with an outstanding performance in the ranking round.

1,402 points: the new compound mixed team world record (the old mark: 1,400)

The Indian duo scored a combined 1,402 points at the Okazaki Chuo Sogo Park Multipurpose Square in Okazaki, surpassing the previous world record of 1,400 points. Sheetal and Rakesh Kumar had established the earlier record at the World Archery Para Series in Ahmedabad earlier this year.

Toman scored 698 out of a possible 720 points in the men's compound ranking round, while Sheetal registered an impressive 704 points in the women's qualification event.

Sheetal's individual score of 704 points also equalled the world record and established a new Asian record, further strengthening her reputation as one of India's leading para archers.

SHAFALI VERMA BOUNCES BACK WITH HALF-CENTURY

CH NEWS, RAIPUR

55 runs off 24 balls in the second T20I, with a 96-run opening stand alongside captain Smriti Mandhana

India vice-captain Shafali Verma revealed that her dismissal in the opening match against Zimbabwe left her unable to sleep, prompting her to analyse videos of her previous performances before bouncing back with a match-winning knock in the second T20I.

Shafali struck 55 off only 24 balls and put on 96 for the first wicket with captain Smriti Mandhana as India won comfortably at the Shaheed Veer Narayan Singh International Cricket Stadium. The win gave India an unassailable lead in the three-match series with one game remaining.

Speaking in a video shared by the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) on Monday, Shafali said she was disappointed not only with the manner of her dismissal in the first match but also with her body language.

She watched two or three videos of her earlier performances and worked on improving her technique, particularly adjusting to the low bounce of the wicket.

Shafali said she tried to focus on each delivery and remain at the crease until the end. Although she was dismissed with only seven runs needed for victory, Mandhana stayed on to complete the chase.

The Indian vice-captain dedicated the series victory to the team's young players, saying she was delighted with their contributions. She also praised Niki Prasad, her teammate at Delhi Capitals in the Women's Premier League, for making an impact with the ball, bat and in the field.

Shafali said mental strength and proper preparation were central to her aggressive approach. he explained that she had learned to move on quickly from both good and bad performances rather than dwelling on previous matches.

After being dropped from the team in 2025, she returned during the England series and later won the Player of the Match award in the 2025 Women's ODI World Cup final.

Shafali also expressed her enjoyment of the vice-captaincy role, saying she and Mandhana were working to support younger players and maintain a positive team environment both on and off the field.

Where it began

Shafali made her T20I debut against South Africa in Surat in September 2019, aged 15. Two months later, her 73 off 49 balls against West Indies in St Lucia made her, at 15 years and 285 days, the youngest Indian to score an international fifty, beating Sachin Tendulkar's 30-year-old record.
