

Bangladesh sees fresh violence after activist's death

Sharif Osman Hadi's death sparks violent protests across Bangladesh, targeting media, political residences, and prompting heightened security nationwide

DHAKA

Fresh violence broke out across Bangladesh early Friday after Sharif Osman Hadi, a prominent activist from last year's pro-democracy uprising, died in a Singapore hospital following an assassination attempt. News of the 32-year-old's death triggered widespread protests in Dhaka, with thousands demanding the arrest of those responsible.

Angry demonstrators torched several buildings, including offices housing the country's leading newspapers, the English-language Daily Star and the Bengali daily Prothom Alo. Journalists and staff were briefly trapped inside as fires spread, though firefighters later brought the blazes under control and evacuated those inside. Reporters described scenes of panic, smoke-filled corridors, and protesters chanting slogans outside the buildings.

Protests also targeted the residence of India's assistant high commissioner in Chattogram, where stones were hurled but no damage was reported. Police dispersed the crowd using tear gas and detained several protesters. Elsewhere, the home of a former Awami League minister was vandalised and set on fire, and party offices were attacked in other cities. Authorities reported arson incidents, road blockades, and clashes in multiple locations, underscoring rising tensions following the activist's death. The body of Sharif Osman Hadi, who died in Singapore while undergoing treatment, arrived in Dhaka on December 19, 2025. The Bangladesh Airlines flight (BG-585) carrying Hadi's body from Singapore landed at Shahjalal International Airport.

Yunus announces mourning after activist Hadi's death
Bangladesh's interim chief Muhammad Yunus announced a half-day of mourning after activist Sharif Osman Hadi died in Singapore despite medical efforts. Calling his death an irreparable national loss, Yunus said democracy would not be derailed by violence. The government ordered special mosque prayers, while authorities prepared to repatriate Hadi's body to Dhaka.

Who was Sharif Osman Hadi?

Sharif Osman Hadi, a prominent leader of Bangladesh's July 2024 uprising, hailed from Nalchity in Jhalakathi district. Born to a madrasa teacher, he studied at Nesarabad Kamil Madrasa before earning a political science degree from Dhaka University. He later worked as a lecturer at the private University of Scholars. Hadi founded the socio-cultural platform Inquilab Mancha, which gained influence after the uprising and called for the disbandment of Sheikh Hasina's Awami League. A vocal critic of the Hasina government, India, the Bangladesh Army, and the Yunus-led interim administration, he often accused authorities of failing to bring meaningful change.

North Karnataka. Bengaluru

Bescom has announced a scheduled power cut in several Bengaluru areas on Saturday, December 20, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The outage is due to maintenance and emergency management work. Major localities affected include Nimhans, Jayadeva, RR Nagar, Banashankari, and surrounding neighborhoods, along with Jayanagar, BTM, Bannerghatta Road, and Wilson Garden. Residents in areas such as Thiagaraja Nagar, Basavanagudi, and Chunchughatta should also prepare for temporary outages. Authorities advised citizens to charge essential devices in advance and cooperate during the blackout.

Russell Market set for ₹140 crore upgrade

Bengaluru

Bengaluru's historic Russell Market in Shivajinagar is set for a Rs 140 crore redevelopment ahead of its 100th anniversary in 2027. The Greater Bangalore Authority (GBA) plans to modernize the market while preserving its Indo-Saracenic heritage. Improvements include proper drainage, waste management, fire safety, upgraded toilets, pedestrian-friendly flooring, and a refurbished clock tower. Temporary arrangements will allow traders to continue business during construction. GBA Chief Commissioner Maheshwara Rao has instructed officials to invite tenders and improve surrounding areas.

Donors unite to launch 55-bed care facility

Bengaluru

Bengaluru's Nelmangala outskirts will soon host the Nemmadi Palliative Care Center, a 55-bed facility providing free care with support from donors. Despite 6–8 million Indians needing palliative care yearly, only 2% receive it due to awareness and facility gaps. The center, backed by Sukriti Charitable Trust, Rotary Bangalore Midtown, and generous donors including former MLA Krishnappa, Prestige Foundation, and Brigade Foundation, will operate without billing counters. Inauguration on December 21 will be attended by dignitaries including Health Minister Dinesh Gundurao and Dr. C. N. Manjunath. The center aims to offer humane, accessible care to those in need.

Local teams proposed to solve neighborhood issues

The Commissioner urged local collaboration, suggesting ward representatives coordinate with officers for faster problem-solving and improved communication

BENGALURU

The Bangalore South City Corporation has proposed forming local level teams to address civic issues more effectively, following a meeting held in the Jayanagar zone on Friday. The meeting was chaired by Commissioner K. N. Ramesh and attended by office bearers of apartment associations and local residents' associations.

During the discussion, residents highlighted several long pending problems affecting daily life. These included footpath encroachments, poor street lighting, irregular solid waste collection, bad road conditions, illegal building construction, commercial activities in residential areas, maintenance of public toilets, e-khata issues and other civic concerns.

After listening to the grievances, the Commissioner said many issues can be solved at the local level if citizens and officials work together. He suggested identifying ward level representatives who understand ground realities and can coordinate directly with corporation officers. Such co-ordination, he said, would help in faster problem solving and better communication.

On solid waste management, the Commissioner noted that several non government organisations have already studied the issue and provided useful suggestions. He said effective implementation requires cooperation between citizens and the corporation. He also encouraged the expansion of garbage kiosks through private partnerships to manage waste disposal black spots across the city.

Speaking about urban planning, Mr. Ramesh said private organisations and educational institutions can play a role by studying the city's current conditions and offering practical solutions. He added that college students can also contribute by giving ideas on city design and planning.

The Commissioner informed residents that daily updates about civic works are being shared on the corporation's social media platforms and urged citizens to follow them for information.

He also announced that he would conduct a spot inspection of local issues next week and assured residents that concerned officials have been directed to take necessary action.

Representatives from several apartment and residents' associations, including Shriram Symphony, Kanakapura Road, Anjanapura and Balaji Layout, attended the meeting.

Police propose strict safety guidelines for IPL

BENGALURU

Bengaluru Police are preparing to issue detailed safety guidelines to the Karnataka State Cricket Association (KSCA) ahead of the hosting of Indian Premier League matches at the M. Chinnaswamy Stadium. The move comes as the KSCA has begun preparations to stage IPL games in the city.

Police sources said the KSCA governing body will be instructed to strictly follow key recommendations made by an expert committee headed by retired Justice John Michael D'Cunha. These recommendations were framed after a stampede incident near the stadium in the past. Officials said the stadium will be inspected soon, and guidelines will apply not only to the IPL but also to all major matches held in the future.

The police plan to insist on proper parking and pick-up and drop-off arrangements around the stadium, which has a seating capacity of around 32,000 spectators. Since stadium entry points are close to footpaths, separate queuing areas inside the stadium premises will be made mandatory. Entry and exit routes must be clearly separated, with narrow gates of at least six feet width and proper stairways. Special arrangements will be required for women and children during international matches. Emergency medical care will be strengthened with ambulances, dedicated routes and permanent medical teams. Fire and electrical safety audits will also be compulsory.

Security measures will include trained staff for ID checks, bomb disposal squads, metal detectors, CCTV cameras and baggage scanners. Separate entry and exit paths will be reserved for players, and safe holding areas will be created for emergencies. All stadium staff, guards and stall owners must have police verification.

Guidelines will also cover food safety checks, public transport access, crowd management, real-time crowd monitoring systems, ticket counters and waiting areas. The police are also expected to demand immediate payment of ₹2.40 crore towards IPL 2025 security costs. Meanwhile, KSCA President Venkatesh Prasad said discussions are ongoing with the BCCI to host the IPL opening match in Bengaluru, with positive responses received so far.

Bengaluru railway exams previously excluded Kannada, unlike Hubballi and Mysuru, seen as unfair to local candidates

Kannadigas win: Railway exams now allowed in Kannada

BENGALURU

Railway recruitment exams in Bengaluru will now allow candidates to write in Kannada, marking a major win for Kannadigas after a long-standing demand. The decision comes after a meeting held on December 19 between Karnataka Defense Forum President T.A. Narayana Gowda, the Karave delegation, and senior officials of the South Western Railway Division.

Previously, railway promotion exams in the Bengaluru division were restricted to Hindi and English, while Hubballi and Mysuru divisions allowed Kannada as an option. This exclusion was seen as unfair to local candidates, ignoring the state language in the capital city.

Officials from the Railway Department, including DRM and PCPO, responded promptly and approved Kannada as an exam medium. "This is a big win for the employees of Bengaluru Division," Gowda said, thanking the authorities and the media for their support.

Union Minister of State for Railways V. Somanna also intervened, instructing the South Western Railway to cancel the previous notification and issue a revised one including Kannada. The exams cover positions such as Freight Train Manager, with 317 posts in Bengaluru, 101 in Hubballi, and 56 in Mysuru.

Gowda emphasized that the Karnataka Defense Forum will continue to safeguard the rights of Kannadigas. "There is no compromise in protecting the interests of Kannada-speaking people," he said, celebrating the success of the long campaign.

Aindrita Ray raises alarm over garbage burning

BENGALURU

Actress Aindrita Ray has raised concerns over garbage burning near her home in RR Nagar, Bengaluru, causing serious breathing problems. She expressed outrage on social media by tagging Rajarajeshwari Nagar MLA Munirathna.

According to Aindrita, Greater Bangalore Authority (GBA) staff cleaned the garbage around the Ideal Home Layout and set it on fire. Smoke from the burning waste entered her apartment, making it difficult for her to breathe. She said the problem has persisted for three days.

The actress tried contacting the GBA control room and helpline, but received no response. Frustrated, she posted a video online, highlighting the health risks and appealing to local authorities, including MLA Munirathna, for urgent action. Residents of the area have expressed concern over the practice, noting that burning garbage in residential neighborhoods can cause serious respiratory issues and pollution. The incident has sparked calls for stricter waste management measures and better coordination by the civic authorities to prevent such hazards in densely populated areas. Authorities have yet to respond publicly to Aindrita's complaint.

Footpath walk aims to improve pedestrian safety

BENGALURU

The Bengaluru Uttar Nagar Corporation has announced the seventh Footpath Walk under its "Vakalur" project to promote safer and more walkable streets in the city. The 7 km community footpath walk will be held on Saturday, December 20, starting at 7:00 am, with a focus on pedestrian safety, smoother traffic movement and better road design.

Chitaguppi Park development work progresses at a sluggish pace

HUBBALLI
The development work to protect the 96-year-old historic 'Lady Sykes' garden, popularly known as 'Chitaguppi Park', is proceeding at a snail's pace. It has been over 8 months since the Hubballi-Dharwad Municipal Corporation (HDMC) began the phase-wise project adjacent to the commissioner's office on Lamington Road, yet the first phase remains incomplete. The HDMC allocated Rs 80 lakh for the initial phase, but significant work is still pending. The corporation planned the phased development to safeguard the park, which adjoins its own office premises. Unfortunately, more than 8 months into the project, significant portions of the work remain incomplete, leaving the park in a state of limbo. The delay in the development work has sparked frustration among the citizens and park-goers who have long awaited the promised improvements. The park, which once thrived as a vibrant community hub, now struggles with outdated facilities and neglected landscapes. The slow progress has also raised questions about project manage-

A major share of the state budget is being spent on works undertaken by the water resources department and therefore the benefits of these works should reach the people, said Additional Chief Secretary Gaurav Gupta. Inaugurating 'Jal-Sankalp-25', conference of engineers of water resources department organised by the Water and Land Management Institute (WALMI), he said there is also need for enhancing water-use efficiency, Gupta stressed that all stakeholders of the water resources department namely, water users, water users' co-operative societies, CADA, the agriculture department, WALMI and engineers must work in coordination. Engineers should enhance their skills by adopting innovative technologies, he added.

He said engineers must complete projects within the stipulated timeframe. To strengthen water users' co-operative societies, a state-level federation is being formed. Amendments have been made to the Karnataka Irrigation Act to prevent unauthorised lifting of water from canals and to ensure efficient water management, and legal powers are being vested with engineers. He urged engineers to understand their responsibilities and discharge their duties diligently. K. Jayaprakash, technical advisor to the deputy chief minister said that when water is abundant there are no major problems, but in the current situation of water scarcity, proper water management is essential. He advised engineers to use the legal powers vested in them judiciously.

Water resources department secretary Ejaz Hussain said engineers should stay connected with local communities and understand field-level challenges.

They must patiently listen to farmers' grievances and continuously enhance their technical knowledge through regular study.

In his introductory address, WALMI director Girish Maraddi said that along with managing irrigation water in command areas across the state, it is essential to create awareness among the general public about the importance and conservation of water resources at the village level, and to instil such awareness among students from an early age. By fostering a sense of "our canal – our water – our soil" among people, there is a need to transform the water movement into a people's movement, he said.

TVs, cellphones go blank in Halaga village during digital detox

It's a gentle and rather quiet rap on the knuckle for about 500 school students to heave themselves out of playgrounds, start looking into their satchels and study. It's also a reminder for elders to walk across the street and greet neighbours and reconnect with lost threads of friendly conversation. For once, there's no white noise, ear-splitting ringtones or ad jingles on the big screen from 7pm to 9pm, all days of the week.

In Halaga village, about 10km from Belagavi and home to Suvarna Vidhana Soudha. At 7pm, a sharp siren cuts through the evening air and all screens TV, laptops, tabs and mobiles go blank. Halaga with a population of 12,000 became the first village in Karnataka to adopt digital detox. The community-driven initiative is called 'No TV, No Mobile, Just Study and Conversation'. The primary aim is to reclaim evening hours for learning and family interaction. The no-screen initiative was inaugurated by gram panchayat president Laxmi Gajapati, inspired by a similar experiment in Agran Dhulgaon village of Sangli district in Maharashtra, which drew national attention for its impact on students' learning habits.

The Maharashtra village launched the restricted screen time in 2022 just as effects of Covid lockdown were tapering off. The village has two govt schools and as many private schools with a combined student population of 500. The school quartet has been posting above-average pass results.

Former gram panchayat President Ganpat Marihalkar said the intention was simple: Prioritise academics, which is increasingly getting affected by excessive screen time. Marihalkar said the gram panchayat invests Rs 2.5 lakh every year from its own funds to strengthen the two govt schools in the village.

On the choice of timing, social worker Anil Shinde said, the 7pm to 9pm slot is prime time for TV serials and dramas. That is exactly when distractions are highest.

Minister Satish Jarkiholi unveils statue of B Shankaranand

District Minister Satish Jarkiholi unveiled a statue of late B Shankaranand at Club Road Circle. Shankaranand was a senior Congress leader and a close associate of the Gandhi family. Party functionaries and supporters attended the event, paying tribute to his political legacy and contribution to the party and public life.

Unveiling the bronze statue of former Union minister Shankaranand on Club Road, Minister Satish Jarkiholi said that Shankaranand represented Lok Sabha seven consecutive times from the Chikodi constituency. The people of the constituency still remember the work done by B Shankaranand as a Union minister. Shankaranand was an influential politician. We remember him with the historical incidents of his time. When Shankaranand was in the last stage of politics, we entered politics. His contribution to the construction of educational institutions, hospitals, and sugar factories in Belagavi district is memorable, he said.

B Shankaranand's statue will perpetuate his memory and show the way to the younger generation. In the coming days, work should be done to introduce Shankaranand's contributions in the district. If Shankaranand's family members wish to join politics, they will provide the necessary help and cooperation, the Minister added.

Prabhakar Kore, President of KLE Society, said Shankaranand brought him into politics after the death of his brother Chidananda Kore and was responsible for his raise. Kore said, he was a powerful politician in the Congress.

Maize Farmers Refuse to Pay Transport Charges

KOPPAL

Rather than establishing the procurement centre in regions known for high maize production, state government chose to establish one in faraway Dharwad. This choice resulted in the notable failure of a crucial element, Minimum Support Price (MSP).

This season, the state produced 54 lakh tonnes of maize, and in response to the steep decline in prices, the state government announced it would buy up to 50 quintals of maize from each farmer at a rate of Rs 2,400 per quintal. A total of 7 lakh tonnes will be procured statewide in this manner. Following the directives of the state government, KMF established five maize procurement centres across the state, in Gubbi, Shikaripura, Dharwad, Hassan, and Rajanukunte in Bengaluru.

Farmers are required to register through the agriculture department, e-governance, or NIC portals before selling their crops. Those who register will receive procurement schedules via SMS. In Ballari, 42 farmers signed up to sell 771.12 quintals, while 323 farmers in Koppal are offering 6,447.8 quintals, and 479 farmers in Vijayanagara registered 6,128 quintals. However, transporting the produce to Dharwad at their own cost posed a challenge for the farmers.

As a result, maize farmers in Raichur district opted out of the registration process. The procurement centres should have been established within the RABAKOVI Milk Federation of KMF. The government has not fulfilled this obligation, undermining the basic objective of the MSP. If we incur transportation costs, we will end up with nothing, stated Basavaraj Maradi, a maize farmer from Yelburga taluk of district. Officials from RABAKOVI Milk Union gathered crop samples from registered farmers, which have been forwarded to the Dharwad KMF for analysis. KMF indicated that it will only buy Madhav Reddy, President of the State Farmers' Association and Hasiru Sene, voiced his frustration over the govt's procurement criteria being detrimental to farmers. He emphasised that the crops should be purchased near the production area. Due to the high transportation expenses, many maize growers are selling their produce to local private traders, he said.

Bus terminal lacks basic facilities for passengers

HUBBALLI

Poor maintenance has left the NWKRTC Hosur regional bus terminal in a state of disrepair just a few years after its inauguration. Lack of regular cleaning has resulted in walls stained with pan spit and gutka residue, while waste bottles are strewn across the premises.

Thousands of passengers using the terminal daily have expressed distress over the unhygienic and dilapidated conditions prevailing at the facility. The terminal began operations for long-route buses from Hosur regional bus stand to various cities in 2020. Bus operations were shifted to Hosur terminal and Gokul new bus stand to reduce pressure on the Old Bus Stand, Hubballi.

Footfall at the terminal increased day by day as long-route buses departed in large numbers for towns including Vijayapura, Bagalkot, Koppal, Savadatti, and Ranabennur. Passengers reported that the facility remained unclean despite the significant investment. Walls and corners bore pan spit stains, underground areas were unused and had fallen into bad shape, and garbage piled up across platform.

Shivaraj Chikodi, a passenger from Hubballi, said, there is garbage everywhere, gutka stains, plastic bottles, plastic covers and cigarette packs. The underground part of the terminal remains unused, as it is in a bad shape.

Lakhs of rupees were spent on this terminal. From past 5 years, the whole terminal has not been cleaned. When we enter the terminal, it should look clean and beautiful, and passengers should feel comfortable when stepping into the terminal, he said.

Y M Shivaraj, NWKRTC's Hosur regional bus terminal divisional traffic officer, said, the contract to maintain the cleanliness of the terminal has been awarded to an agency. Every month, Rs 1 lakh is paid to the agency for maintaining cleanliness in the terminal. The agency is supposed to clean it every day in two shifts. Five labourers in the morning hours and five in the evening hours are involved in cleaning the terminal. Spitters on the premises are being fined. The public should also stop spitting in the terminal and support us in maintaining a clean terminal. Soon, all waste will be lifted, he said.

PASSENGERS EXPLOITED

Passenger outraged as toilet fees double unfairly at bus stands

HUBBALLI

Passengers using three key bus stands are facing an unexpected burden as contractors have hiked toilet charges from Rs 5 to 10, violating contractual terms. Despite removing price boards, they continue to collect the inflated fee, including Rs 10 for women's urinals, which are supposed to be free. The fees are also going on at New Bus Stand, located on Gokul Road. Officials claim they are unaware of the issue, leaving passengers frustrated.

Frequent traveller Mayur Patil told that he went to Hosur bus terminal in the morning last week. When I went to use the toilet, the staff at the toilet demanded Rs 10. When I enquired them of the high charge, they said they have permission from their higher-ups, he added.

Lingaraj Dharwad Shettar, a social worker, said that the NWKRTC has already burdened passengers by hiking bus fare by upto 35 percent on some routes, against the government's decision of hiking 10 percent. Now, it is imposing an additional burden on passengers by silently hiking toilet charges too. There should be a display of charges, but they have intentionally masked it to collect exorbitant fares, he alleged.

Sumitra Bharamagoudra asserted that it is an open secret that women must pay to even use urinals. Whenever we complain of the issue, elected representatives turned blind on the issue. Now NWKRTC has moved a step ahead, and collect Rs 10 from women even for urinals, she said angrily.

Vivekanand Vishwadnya, Chief Traffic Manager, NWKRTC and H Ramana-goudra, Divisional Controller, Hubballi rural division, said that they will ensure that rate boards are displayed at toilets and impose a penalty on the contractor for violating the contract. We will also take action against the station manager for negligence on the issue, they assured.

Water supply to canals disrupted due to due to installation of crusted gateVIJAYANAGARA

In the backdrop of the important project of installing crusted gates in the Tungabhadra reservoir, a team of experts of the Technical Sub-Committee of the Karnataka Irrigation Corporation conducted a comprehensive inspection of the reservoir and its left bank canal routes. Due to the work of changing and installing crusted gates, it has been decided to temporarily stop the release of water to the canals for the next six months. With the aim of utilizing this period, it is planned to carry out repair and improvement works to overcome various technical problems in the left bank canals of the Tungabhadra.

A team of experts led by GT Chandrashekarappa, Chairman of the Technical Sub-Committee of the Karnataka Irrigation Corporation, had arrived for this inspection. The team conducted local observations at Hitnal in Koppal district, Papayya Tunnel in Gangavathi taluk, and some parts of Raichur district and collected information about the current condition and repair needs. Sindhanur MLA Hampanagouda Badarli was also present with this inspection team and drew the attention of the local farmers and the officials about the irrigation problems.

The Tungabhadra Left Bank Canal is about 241 km long and is a major canal that provides irrigation to an area of 6.30 lakh acres. However, this canal, which was built years ago, has now faced several technical and structural problems and needs comprehensive repair. Now that the canal is in a period of no water release, it is a good opportunity for the repair work.

A Detailed Project Report (DPR) worth around Rs 430 crore has already been prepared for these repair and improvement works. Officials said that once the expert team submits its review report, the tender process will be initiated after getting approval from the government cabinet.

As part of the review, special attention was also paid to the condition of the Papaiah tunnel. Currently, only 4,200 cusecs of water is flowing through this tunnel, which is about one kilometer long. If the tunnel is widened, it will be possible to flow up to 5,000 cusecs, which will allow water to reach the last parts of the Tungabhadra left bank canal smoothly. If these improvement works of the Tungabhadra reservoir and the left bank canal are completed, it is expected that thousands of farmers of North Karnataka will get permanent relief.

BELGAUM

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah challenged BJP leaders to come clean on what they have given to Uttar Karnataka. What did you contribute. And how much funding the state received from the Centre during the rule of Manmohan Singh and Narendra Modi.

While replying to the debate on the development of North Karnataka in the Assembly, you were in power for about 11 years out of the last 20 years. What is your contribution to North Karnataka. You remember North

Karnataka before coming to power. When you are in power, you have North Karnataka, you do not feel that you have to protect its interests. R Ashok, Vijayendra and other BJP and JDS members have said that our government has not given anything to North Karnataka. R Ashok has demanded a white paper. We are ready. We will also tell you what you have done since 2006, what we have done.

It was our Congress party that fought for the implementation of 371J. We gave a start to the development of the people of Kalyan Karnataka through 371J. Give a record of what you have done. Advani and Vajpayee both gave up on the people of Kalyan Karnataka when they were in power at the Centre, saying that the implementation of 371J was not possible. He also accused the BJP members of being discriminated against from the Centre to the state. Siddaramaiah alleged that a stepmotherly attitude was being followed.

R Ashoka opposed this and said, don't blame the central government for everything. If the center is doing it, why do you need it? You are not needed. Clear the land. The state government's responsibility is also greater. If they are going to declare a drought in this area, they joked that there is a drought here, not a flood.

DCM DK Shivakumar visits temples, performs special pujasKARWAR

Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar visited famous religious centers in Uttara Kannada district on Friday and offered special prayers. The DCM offered prayers at the Sri Mahabaleshwar Temple in Gokarna and at Sri Jagadeeswari Amman in Andle village in Ankola.

DK Shivakumar, who arrived in Gokarna on Friday morning, performed Bilvapatra and Panchamrutha abhishekam to the Mahabaleshwar deity. Later, he had darshan of the Atmalinga and performed special puja at the Mahaganapati temple. On this occasion, District In-charge Minister Mankala Vaidya accompanied the DCM.

After the Gokarna programme, he was supposed to visit the Jagadeeshwari Amman temple in Andle village of Ankola. However, due to the 'Rahu Kala' since morning, the DCM's arrival was slightly delayed. After reaching the temple, he was received by priest Ganesh. Shivakumar circumambulated the temple premises and had darshan of the goddess in the sanctum sanctorum. On this occasion, the temple committee had taken strict measures not to allow anyone else to enter the sanctum sanctorum.

DCM DK Shivakumar and this constituency have an inseparable relationship. On November 22, 2019, DK Shivakumar visited here and prayed for 3 hours continuously. That day, the deity blessed him by giving him a hug from his right side. Furthermore, when DK Shivakumar was in jail, his wife and mother visited here.

Normally, puja is not performed here on Amavasya. However, on the special request of DK Shivakumar, priest Ganesh Naik performed puja on Friday.

Jagadishwari Devi in Andle, Ankola taluk, tells fortunes through a 'hingara'. For the goddess to agree to the questions asked by devotees, the hingara on her head should fall on the right side. Devotees here believe that if there are obstacles or delays in the work, the goddess gives instructions in another way.

SC overturns murder conviction over last seen evidenceNEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Friday overturned the life sentence of an accused in a 21-year-old murder case, ruling that a conviction cannot be based solely on the "last seen together" theory without a complete chain of circumstantial evidence. A bench of Justices Sanjay Karol and Prashant Kumar Mishra set aside the Chhattisgarh High Court and trial court judgments, which had convicted the appellant under Sections 302 and 201 of the IPC, awarding life imprisonment for murder and five years for destroying evidence.

The prosecution claimed the appellant and others lured a tractor driver under the pretext of collecting cable wire. The driver was later found dead with burn injuries. While five co-accused were acquitted, the appellant was convicted mainly based on witness testimony regarding last-seen circumstances.

The Supreme Court emphasised that circumstantial evidence must form a complete and coherent chain, pointing

Video of Manjhi sparks Bihar 'vote chori' controversyPATNA

A controversy has erupted in Bihar after a video of Union Minister Jitan Ram Manjhi surfaced, appearing to show him claiming he "helped" a candidate trailing in an assembly election. The video, reportedly from Manjhi's Gaya Lok Sabha constituency, was shared by the opposition RJD-Congress combine, which lost the recent elections, as "proof of vote chori" by the BJP-led NDA.

In the video, the former Bihar Chief Minister, who heads the Hindustani Awam Morcha, is heard referring to the Tikari assembly segment. He allegedly said that in the 2020 polls, his party candidate Anil Kumar was trailing by 2,700 votes, and after Manjhi contacted the officials, the candidate was declared the winner. In the recent elections, the same candidate lost by 1,600 votes. Manjhi said nothing could be done this time as the candidate chose to concede, they could not independently verify the video.

The RJD, which regained Tikari but saw its tally drop from 75 to 25 seats, shared the video on social media, accusing Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the Election Commission of trying to manipulate votes. Bihar Congress also condemned the incident, calling it "vote dacoity."

Manjhi responded angrily, claiming the video was tampered with and posted to defame him. He said he will not be intimidated and emphasized his identity as a leader from the Musahar community.

solely to the accused's guilt. "Circumstantial evidence can support conviction only when wholly inconsistent with innocence and consistent only with guilt," the bench said, rejecting the sole reliance on last-seen testimony.

The court also criticised the High Court's use of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, noting that failure to explain separation from the deceased does not relieve the prosecution of proving guilt beyond reasonable doubt. The absence of motive or corroborative evidence further strengthened the benefit-of-doubt ruling.

"In this case, the evidence may raise suspicion, but it is not conclusive enough to convict solely on last seen together," the bench observed. The Supreme Court acquitted the appellant of all charges and discharged his bail bonds, as he was already out on bail.

Jaishankar says India enters decisive phase in EU free trade talks, seeking Netherlands support amid deepening bilateral ties

India seeks Netherlands support in EU trade talksNEW DELHI

Speaking with Netherlands Foreign Minister David van Weel, he emphasised the importance of support from key EU members, including the Netherlands.

Jaishankar noted the strong bilateral ties with the Netherlands, describing it as a key EU partner. He pointed out that recent agreements have expanded cooperation, particularly in trade, security, defence, and emerging technologies, while stressing there is potential to further raise the ambition of the relationship. The meeting allowed the minister to hear directly from the parliamentarians about their experiences and feedback from the UNGA sessions.

Congress demands CM Vijayan to apologise over police brutalityTHIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Kerala Opposition leader V.D. Satheesan on Friday demanded that Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan apologise for failing to act on a 2024 complaint about the alleged brutal assault of a pregnant woman and her family by police personnel. Satheesan said the Chief Minister, who also holds the Home portfolio, was aware of the incident but chose not to intervene, allowing it to be suppressed.

According to the Opposition, the woman's husband was taken into custody over a minor issue, detained, and subjected to severe assault. When the woman reached the station with her children to protest, she too was allegedly assaulted. Satheesan described the incident as unprecedented, saying assaulting a pregnant woman in a police station was unheard of. He added that the case only came to light after reaching the courts.

Satheesan demanded a thorough investigation and action against all responsible personnel. He also sought a probe into whether senior police officers or officials from the Chief Minister's Office had shielded the errant staff. Criticising police excesses and corruption under the current government, he alleged that even senior officers facilitated parole for criminals in exchange for bribes.

Referring to previous instances of police misconduct, including a case involving a Youth Congress leader in Thrissur, Satheesan accused the CPI(M) and the Chief Minister's Office of shielding guilty officers and failing to honour Assembly assurances.

Meanwhile, the police officer Prathapachandran, accused of assaulting the pregnant woman, has been suspended. The victim has stated that her family will pursue legal action, claiming other police officials also humiliated her. The case surfaced after a video of the assault went viral, drawing widespread public attention.

PUC CHECKSAwareness grows as 'No PUC, No Fuel' rule takes effect*NEW DELHI

A day after Delhi enforced the 'No PUC, No Fuel' rule, commuter awareness has increased, with many voluntarily showing pollution-under-control certificates before refuelling.

Nischal Singhania, president of the Delhi Petrol Dealers' Association, said compliance levels are improving, though queues at PUC centres remain long. Fuel sales have dipped at some border areas, including Badarpur, as commuters adjust to the mandatory checks.

Some pump owners reported reduced sales, while customers increasingly carry PUC documents themselves.

However, enforcement remains uneven across the city. At certain petrol pumps, commuters reported buying fuel without verification, with no police presence. Piyush, a commuter on Rohtak Road, said checks were not conducted at his pump, while Bhusan Singh observed normal operations at Gulabi Bagh.

Traffic police and transport department teams were deployed at city entry points, toll plazas, and petrol pumps to ensure compliance. Officers used smart number plate recognition devices to verify documents and issue challans. At Bijwasan toll plaza on Dwarka

Integrity crucial in civil service recruitment: PrezHYDERABAD

President Droupadi Murmu on Friday called on Public Service Commissions across India to ensure honesty and integrity remain non-negotiable in civil service recruitment. Speaking at the national conference of Chairpersons of State Public Service Commissions in Hyderabad, she said skill gaps can be addressed through training, but lack of integrity creates irreversible challenges.

Civil servants, as the "permanent executive," provide continuity, impartiality, and stability, making their competence and ethics vital for implementing policies effectively.

The President also highlighted the need for Public Service Commissions to prepare for emerging challenges in technology, transparency, and governance credibility. She urged building globally competitive, future-ready teams to support India's rapid economic growth and the vision of becoming the world's third-largest Telangana Governor Jishnu Dev Varna, University Grants Commission Chairman Vineer Joshi, and other dignitaries attended the conference, supporting the President's call for strong, ethical, and people-focused civil services.

SIR exercise sparks fear among Bengal's Matua votersKOLKATA

The Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls in West Bengal has unsettled the BJP's Matua vote base ahead of the 2026 assembly elections. The draft rolls and the second phase of hearings have created anxiety among the Matua community, a Dalit Hindu refugee group from Bangladesh, in around 40-50 key seats the party has relied on since 2019.

Statewide, 58.2 lakh names were excluded from draft rolls, reducing the electorate from 7.66 crore to 7.08 crore. Around 1.36 crore entries have logical discrepancies, and nearly 30 lakh voters are unmapped, many of whom belong to the Matua community. Voters flagged in the SIR process must produce prescribed documents, but many families, displaced over decades, lack formal records. Citizenship Amendment Act certificates or applications are reportedly not being accepted in verification, leaving thousands uncertain.

In Thakurnagar, the spiritual and political centre of the Matua movement, residents expressed fear over possible exclusion. Many have Aadhaar and voter cards but worry these may be insufficient. EC officials stated hearings will continue until January 15, with final rolls published on February 14.

The BJP's rise in West Bengal since 2019 relied heavily on Matua support, particularly in Bongaon and Ranaghat, where the party performed strongly in Lok Sabha and assembly elections. Analysts warn that if large numbers of Matua voters fail verification, it could hurt the BJP's prospects in nearly 50 assembly seats, including 30 reserved constituencies in Nadia and North and South 24 Parganas.

Political leaders from both sides have expressed concern. While TMC claims Matuas risk losing voting rights, BJP leaders argue Aadhaar with supporting documents will suffice. Observers suggest the SIR exercise may challenge the BJP's hold over its core voter base.

Rights group warns of growing sexual harassment targeting Chinese activists abroad

HRW Flags Rising Sexual Harassment Against Exiled Chinese Activists

NEW YORK

A new Human Rights Watch report has raised alarm over a rise in sexual harassment targeting Chinese activists living in exile, calling it a worrying form of cross border repression.

The report says Chinese authorities have long tried to silence critics overseas, but recent cases show a disturbing use of sexually explicit material to intimidate and shame dissidents and their families.

Hong Kong activists Carmen Lau and Ted Hui, now living abroad, face arrest warrants under the National Security Law. Last week, they revealed that unknown persons circulated sexually explicit deepfake images of them and their relatives in the United Kingdom and Australia.

Police in both countries have not identified those responsible. However, a Chinese government spokesperson defended the pursuit of "wanted fugitives" as reasonable, the report noted.

Human Rights Watch pointed to earlier evidence from 2024 showing direct Chinese government involvement in similar harassment. Online accounts spread sexual threats against the teenage daughter of US based critic Deng Yuwen, later traced to Chinese security agencies.

The report said such tactics have increased in recent years. A 2022 study by the Australian Strategic Policy Institute also warned of growing gender based online attacks against critics of Beijing.

While not all harassment can be directly linked to the Chinese state, HRW said arrest warrants, bounties, and hostile official rhetoric signal that exiled activists are enemies, making them targets.

HRW urged governments to act against transnational repression. It called for public condemnation, proper investigations, and reporting systems for diaspora communities.

The group also asked governments to offer digital security and mental health support to victims, ensuring exiled activists feel safe and protected in their new countries.

Baloch Rights Group Condemns Hajra Baloch Disappearance

BALUCHISTAN

Baloch Voice for Justice has condemned the enforced disappearance of Hajra Baloch, wife of Sanaullah Baloch, alleging she was unlawfully detained by Pakistani security forces, including the Counter Terrorism Department, from the Daru Hotel area of Hub Chowki. The rights group called her disappearance a serious violation of fundamental rights and international human rights law, highlighting a growing trend of repression in Balochistan. They cited similar cases over the past year, including Mahjabeen Baloch from Quetta, Nasreena Baloch from Hub Chowki, Raheema Baloch from Dalbandin, and Farzana Baloch from Khuzdar. According to the organisation, these incidents suggest a policy of targeting family members, particularly women, as part of broader crackdowns. The group urged the United Nations, international human rights bodies, and independent media to urgently address these violations and demanded the immediate recovery of all forcibly disappeared Baloch women.

EU Approves Aid, Zelenskyy Urges Russian Freeze

KYIV

Ukraine President Volodymyr Zelenskyy on Friday welcomed the European Union decision to provide ninety billion euros in financial support for 2026 and 2027, calling it vital for national resilience during war with Russia.

He thanked EU leaders for approving the package and stressed that frozen Russian assets must remain blocked until Moscow pays compensation. Zelenskyy said the guarantees give Ukraine stability for coming years and protect Europe's shared future.

European Council President Antonio Costa announced the agreement after long talks in Brussels, saying the bloc committed and delivered. The money will be given as an interest free loan raised through EU borrowing on capital markets.

European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen said leaders met with a clear aim to meet Ukraine urgent funding needs and succeeded through focused discussions.

Former German chancellor Olaf Scholz said the decision sent a strong message to Moscow and added that Russian assets would stay frozen until damages are paid.

The move followed Zelenskyy meetings with European leaders where he urged use of frozen Russian funds to support Ukraine economy and defence. He called such action morally justified.

The European Union has asked the Commission to examine the possibility of a reparations loan using frozen Russian assets, though legal challenges persist.

Belgium, which holds most of the funds, has expressed concerns, leading to discussions with Prime Minister Bart De Wever. EU leaders confirmed that €210 billion in Russian assets will remain frozen until reparations are paid, after which Ukraine could use the money to repay EU loans. President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said talks also covered coordination with the US, energy support, reconstruction, and EU membership, while settlement talks remain unresolved.

Kremlin Warns Seizure Of Russian Assets Unacceptable

MOSCOW

The Kremlin on Friday warned that the seizure of Russian assets will not go unpunished, saying those responsible will face legal consequences. Presidential Press Secretary Dmitry Peskov stated that individuals involved in such actions, whether collectively or individually, will be held accountable.

The warning comes as European Union leaders failed to reach a deal on a reparations loan for Ukraine, instead agreeing to raise 90 billion euros in joint debt to fund the country over the next two years. Hungary, the Czech Republic, and Slovakia opted out of the scheme. EU leaders had initially sought to use immobilised Russian assets in Belgium to provide a reparations loan, but Belgian demands for unlimited guarantees blocked the plan. German Chancellor Friedrich Merz led the efforts but was unable to secure the loan, prompting the move to joint debt financing. Following the Brussels summit, European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen and Danish Prime Minister Mette Frederiksen confirmed that EU support for Ukraine's funding needs has been secured. Frederiksen told reporters, "The bottom line, after today, is that our support for Ukraine is guaranteed."

Study Reveals Widespread Labour Violations In Karachi Factories

KARACHI

A recent study has highlighted widespread labour rights violations in Karachi and Faisalabad textile factories producing healthcare exports for Europe. The report, titled "Public Money, Private Harm", was conducted with Swedwatch, AwazCDS-Pakistan, and NowCommunities, based on worker testimonies from both cities.

The findings pointed to serious abuses, including long working hours, unsafe conditions, lack of social protections, limited maternity benefits, and gender pay gaps. Many workers do not have formal employment contracts, and women often earn far less than men despite performing the same tasks. Supervisory roles are mostly reserved for men, and workers are largely excluded from decision-making processes.

The report criticised reliance on social audits and certifications, stating they frequently fail to detect or resolve labour violations. It emphasised that inadequate enforcement of Pakistani labour laws and EU procurement rules worsens these conditions. Farhat Parveen, Executive Director of NowCommunities, said workers in both formal and informal sectors face serious challenges, while Zia-ur-Rehman of AwazCDS-Pakistan noted that European countries, including Sweden, heavily depend on Pakistani textile exports, highlighting the global supply chain's role in perpetuating abuses. The study also cited the ITUC Global Rights Index 2024, which ranks Pakistan among the worst countries for workers, noting insufficient legal protections for union activities and limited real access to rights.

US Commander Warns DMZ Should Remain Protected

SEOUL: The commander of US Forces Korea, General Xavier Brunson, on Friday urged that the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) between North and South Korea should not be politicized, responding to a South Korean bill that seeks government control over non-military access to the buffer zone. Brunson, who also serves as commander of the UN Command, emphasized that the 1950-53 Korean War armistice must guide all actions regarding the DMZ. He said the UNC currently has authority to approve access and that altering these arrangements would violate the legal agreement.

CHINA SLOWDOWN DEEPENS

China Slowdown Deepens As Investment Sales Fall

BEIJING

China economy showed deeper weakness in November as investment fell further and retail sales hit their weakest growth since COVID rules were lifted. Official data and reports pointed to slowing demand, weak property activity, and limited consumer confidence.

Industrial output rose 4.8 percent year on year in November, easing from 4.9 percent in October and missing forecasts of 5 percent. This was the slowest factory growth since August. Retail sales, a key sign of spending, grew just 1.3 percent, sharply lower than the 2.9 percent rise seen in October and the weakest since December 2022.

Economist Huang Zichun of Capital Economics said the numbers showed broad domestic weakness, mainly due to lower government spending. He said policy support may bring a partial recovery, but overall growth is likely to stay weak through 2026.

Fixed asset investment outside rural households fell 2.6 percent in the first eleven months, worse than the 1.7 percent fall seen earlier this year. Statistics bureau official Fu Linghui said the drop was driven largely by falling real estate investment.

Property investment declined 15.9 percent during the same period, deepening from earlier losses. Once a quarter of the economy, the property sector has struggled since mid 2021, hurting household wealth and spending.

The crisis worsened in November as home prices fell across seventy major cities. New home sales by value dropped 11.2 percent in the first eleven months, adding pressure to an already slowing economy. Analysts expect challenges to persist next year.

Nifty to touch 29,094 in 12 months supported by durable earnings

New Delhi

India's benchmark index Nifty is expected to touch 29,094 in one year based on long-term valuation averages and earnings durability, a report said on Friday. Wealth management firm PL Wealth said in the report that India enters the end of 2025 from a position of relative macro strength with record-low inflation, a dovish monetary stance, resilient domestic demand and improved corporate earnings visibility. In the near term, large-cap stocks remain preferred due to their earnings stability and strong balance sheets, while selective exposure to high-quality mid-cap names is being added as visibility improves.

Adani's airport unit plans $11 bn investment, seeks partner ahead of IPO

AHMEDABAD

Billionaire Gautam Adani's group plans to invest more than $11 billion in its airports business by 2030, as it seeks to bid for nearly a dozen new terminals, upgrade infrastructure and expand into aircraft maintenance, a top executive said. The unit will spend ₹1 trillion ($11.1 billion) on terminals, runways and aircraft-handling facilities and passenger amenities, Jeet Adani, director at Adani Airport Holdings Ltd., said in an interview at the group's new airport outside Mumbai. He did not specify how the investments will be funded, but confirmed that the company is preparing for an initial public offering by the year ending March 2028, likely by spinning off the airports unit that's currently under the flagship Adani Enterprises Ltd. I personally believe a demerger is the better route as it unlocks greater value for Adani Enterprises shareholders, he said, adding that the group is open to bringing in a strategic investor before the listing although no formal

PUNE REAL ESTATE MARKET RECORDS STRONG GROWTH

Pune's housing market showed steady momentum in November 2025, with higher registrations and strong stamp duty revenues nationwide

PUNE

Pune's real estate market continued to demonstrate resilience and stability in November 2025, registering solid growth in both transaction volumes and revenue collections, according to a report released by real estate consultancy Knight Frank on Friday. The city recorded 14,234 property registrations during the month, reflecting a year-on-year increase of 6 per cent. Stamp duty collections stood at Rs 565 crore, underscoring the sustained demand for residential properties despite moderation following the festive season peak. The report highlighted a sharper rise in revenue collections compared to registrations, with stamp duty revenues increasing by 19 per cent year-on-year in November. On a month-on-month basis, property registrations rose by 12 per cent, while stamp duty collections grew by 7 per cent, indicating continued buyer activity and stable pricing dynamics. This performance further reinforced Pune's position as one of India's more balanced and resilient residential markets. On a year-to-date basis from January to November 2025, Pune achieved its highest property registrations and stamp duty collections in the past four years. During this eleven-month period, the city recorded a total of 1,73,578 registrations, generating revenue of Rs 6,675 crore. Compared to the same period last year, registrations and stamp duty collections were up by 0.5 per cent and 3 per cent, respectively, reflecting steady long-term growth. The distribution of ticket sizes remained largely unchanged, pointing to consistent buyer preferences. Homes priced up to Rs 1 crore continued to dominate the market, accounting for 85 per cent of all transactions, while properties priced above Rs 1 crore contributed the remaining 15 per cent. In November alone, properties priced under Rs 25 lakh made up 27 per cent of transactions.

IBM has unveiled an ambitious skill development programme in India aimed at training millions in future technologies

IBM TO TRAIN 5 MILLION IN ADVANCED TECH BY 2030

NEW DELHI

IBM on Friday announced a significant expansion of its skill development efforts in India, committing to train 5 million learners in advanced technologies such as Artificial Intelligence (AI), cybersecurity and quantum computing by 2030. The initiative is aimed at strengthening India's digital talent pipeline and making advanced technology education more inclusive, accessible and aligned with future workforce needs. The company said the programme will focus on expanding AI and emerging technology education across schools, universities and vocational training ecosystems. By targeting learners at different stages of their academic and professional journeys, IBM aims to build a strong foundation of future-ready skills that can support India's ambitions in the global technology landscape. As part of the initiative, IBM will collaborate closely with key academic and regulatory institutions, including the All India Council for Technical Education (AICTE). These partnerships will promote hands-on learning and practical exposure through AI-focused courses, faculty development programmes, curriculum integration, hackathons and internship opportunities. The emphasis on experiential learning is intended to bridge the gap between theoretical knowledge and real-world application.

IBM Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer Arvind Krishna said India has the talent and ambition required to emerge as a global leader in AI and quantum technologies. He noted that fluency in frontier technologies will play a critical role in determining future economic competitiveness, scientific advancement and broader societal transformation. India possesses the talent and ambition to lead the world in AI & Quantum. Fluency in frontier technologies will define economic competitiveness, scientific progress and societal transformation, Krishna said. He added that by democratising access to advanced skills, IBM aims to empower youth and students to innovate, build solutions and contribute to India's long-term growth.

S. Korea to funnel public growth fund into AI, semiconductors

SEOUL

The newly launched mega-sized Public Growth Fund will first be used to support the artificial intelligence (AI), semiconductor and battery sectors, the chief of the state financial regulator said on Friday. Lee Eog-weon, chairman of the Financial Services Commission (FSC), said the FSC has selected seven projects to be first funded by the 150 trillion-won (US$101.5 billion) fund during a policy briefing to President Lee Jae Myung. The projects include the development of advanced AI chip production facilities, large-scale graphic processing unit (GPU) clusters using the recently purchased GPUs from Nvidia, a national AI computing center and materials for secondary batteries. Last week, the mega-sized fund, one of the Lee administration's key economic pledges, set sail with a focus on accelerating AI adoption across sectors and channeling resources into key industries, including secondary batteries and biotechnology, over the next five years. Lee said 40 per cent of the fund will be used for investment projects that can help induce regional growth. According to the FSC, over 30 trillion won will be invested next year, with the initial investments including 6 trillion won for the AI sector, 4.2 trillion won for the semiconductor segment and 3.1 trillion won in future mobility.

SFIO interacts with IndusInd Bank officials over accounting discrepancies

MUMBAI

Private sector lender IndusInd Bank on Friday said the Serious Fraud Investigation Office (SFIO) has interacted with bank officials this week and will send a written communication seeking specific details related to the accounting discrepancies identified at the bank. In a regulatory filing, the bank said that under the Reserve Bank of India's Master Directions on Fraud Risk Management in Commercial Banks (including Regional Rural Banks) and All India Financial Institutions dated July 15, 2024, any fraud involving Rs 1 crore or more reported to the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) must also be reported to the SFIO, Ministry of Corporate Affairs

Domestic Investors Drive Equity Markets as Household Savings

MUMBAI

Domestic investors have emerged as the backbone of India's equity markets, pumping nearly Rs 4.5 lakh crore into equities during the year through mutual funds and other indirect investment routes, according to a report released by the National Stock Exchange (NSE). This surge in investments highlights a clear and sustained shift in household savings away from traditional instruments such as fixed deposits, gold and small savings schemes, towards market-linked assets. The trend underlines the growing influence of retail investors in shaping market depth, liquidity and long-term stability. The NSE report noted that India's retail investor base has expanded rapidly in the post-pandemic period. The number of individual investors has grown more than fourfold, rising from nearly three crore in 2019 to over 12 crore by 2025. This sharp rise reflects increasing financial awareness, wider penetration of digital trading platforms, and easier access to investment products. It also points to a growing acceptance of equities and mutual funds as preferred tools for long-term wealth creation among Indian households.

Rising domestic investments have strengthened India's equity markets, signalling a long-term shift in household savings patterns nationwide

Importantly, the expansion has not been limited to direct equity investments. A significant portion of new participation has come through mutual funds and other market-linked products, which have helped investors diversify risk while staying invested in equities. Since 2020, total household investments in market-linked instruments have reached approximately Rs 17 lakh crore, underscoring a structural transformation in India's savings and investment behaviour. The report emphasised that the rise in investor numbers has gone hand in hand with strong and consistent inflows into equities. Households alone contributed close to Rs 4.5 lakh crore during the current year, providing steady support to the markets even during periods of volatility. This domestic participation has added resilience and reduced the markets' dependence on foreign capital.

Indian Railways run Niryat Cargo Express from Gurugram to Mundra Port

NEW DELHI

Indian Railways has launched the Niryat Cargo Express, a milestone in export-focused logistics. This double-stack container train provides a time-bound, weekly service from Gurugram's Ichhapuri Terminal to Mundra Port, Gujarat. Operated as a "crack train" with minimal halts, it ensures faster, predictable transit, significantly reducing logistics costs for high-value cargo. Simultaneously, the government approved the Export Promotion Mission (₹25,000 crore) for FY 2025-31. This initiative consolidates export support via two sub-schemes: Niryat Protsahan, which improves trade finance for MSMEs through interest subvention and digital tools, and Niryat Disha. By merging fiscal incentives and regulatory flexibility, the mission aims to strengthen India's global competitiveness and support labor-intensive sectors.

In the bustling lanes of Delhi's Chandni Chowk, a small textile manufacturer employs fifteen workers, producing exquisite fabrics that find their way to international markets. In Kerala's Thrissur district, a family-run spice processing unit packages organic products for health-conscious consumers across Europe. Meanwhile, in Pune's industrial belt, a precision engineering startup fabricates components for aerospace applications. These diverse enterprises, scattered across India's vast geography, share a common identity: they are Micro, Small, and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs), and together, they form the very backbone of India's economic architecture.

Innovation and Adaptability: The MSME Advantage

Contrary to the perception that MSMEs are merely traditional or low-tech operations, many enterprises in this sector demonstrate remarkable innovation and technological sophistication. Small and medium enterprises in sectors like pharmaceuticals, biotechnology, information technology, and precision engineering operate at the cutting edge of their respective fields, often serving as innovation laboratories where new ideas are tested and refined. The agility of MSMEs is one of their greatest strengths. Unencumbered by bureaucratic hierarchies and rigid organizational structures, these enterprises can pivot quickly in response to market changes, adopt new technologies rapidly, and experiment with novel business models. This adaptability proved invaluable during the COVID-19 pandemic, when numerous MSMEs swiftly reconfigured their operations to produce personal protective equipment, sanitizers, and other pandemic-related products, demonstrating both their resilience and their responsiveness to national needs. Moreover, MSMEs often serve as the bridge between traditional knowledge systems and modern market requirements. An organic food processing unit that uses traditional recipes but employs modern packaging and marketing, or a textile manufacturer that combines handloom techniques with contemporary designs, exemplifies how MSMEs synthesize heritage with innovation.

Government Support: Building an Enabling Ecosystem

Recognizing the critical importance of MSMEs, successive governments have implemented numerous schemes and initiatives to support the sector. The Credit Guarantee Fund Trust for Micro and Small Enterprises provides collateral-free credit, addressing one of the sector's most acute challenges. The MUDRA (Micro Units Development and Refinance Agency) scheme has extended millions of small loans to micro enterprises, enabling entrepreneurs to start or expand their businesses. Digital initiatives like the Government e-Marketplace (GeM) have opened up government procurement to MSMEs, providing them access to a vast and reliable customer base. The Technology and Quality Upgradation Support scheme assists MSMEs in adopting cleaner and energy-efficient technologies. Meanwhile, the ZED (Zero Defect Zero Effect) certification scheme encourages quality consciousness and environmental responsibility. The Atmanirbhar Bharat package announced during the pandemic included substantial measures for MSMEs, including emergency credit lines, subordinate debt provisions, and equity infusion mechanisms. These interventions acknowledged the sector's vulnerability during the crisis and provided crucial support for survival and recovery.

MSMEs in India: The Backbone Shaping a Nation's Future

The MSME Universe: Understanding the Classification

The MSME sector in India operates under a framework established by the Ministry of Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises, with classification based on investment in plant and machinery or equipment, and annual turnover. As per the revised definitions effective from July 2020, a micro enterprise has an investment of up to ₹1 crore and turnover up to ₹5 crore. Small enterprises are defined by investments up to ₹10 crore and turnover up to ₹50 crore, while medium enterprises can have investments up to ₹50 crore and turnover up to ₹250 crore. This sector encompasses an extraordinarily diverse range of activities, from traditional handicrafts and handlooms to modern technology-driven startups, from food processing units to sophisticated manufacturing facilities. The sheer variety within the MSME ecosystem reflects India's economic diversity and the entrepreneurial spirit embedded in its social fabric.

Economic Powerhouse: Numbers That Tell a Story

The statistical significance of MSMEs in India's economy is staggering. These enterprises contribute approximately 30% to the nation's GDP, a figure that underscores their critical role in wealth creation. More impressively, MSMEs account for nearly 45% of India's total manufacturing output and around 48% of the country's exports, making them indispensable to India's global trade competitiveness. Perhaps most significantly from a developmental perspective, the MSME sector is the second-largest employment generator after agriculture, providing livelihoods to over 110 million people across the country. This employment generation capacity makes MSMEs crucial instruments of inclusive growth, offering opportunities across urban and rural areas, across skill levels, and across social strata. The sector comprises over 63 million enterprises spread across the country, with micro enterprises forming the overwhelming majority. This vast network creates an intricate economic web that touches virtually every aspect of Indian economic life, from the production of consumer goods to the provision of services, from traditional crafts to cutting-edge technology solutions.

The Digital Transformation Journey

Digitalization presents both opportunities and challenges for MSMEs. On one hand, digital technologies can dramatically enhance efficiency, expand market reach, and improve customer engagement. Cloud computing, for instance, provides access to sophisticated software without massive upfront investments. Social media and digital marketing enable even tiny enterprises to build brand awareness and connect with customers globally. The formalization drive, accelerated by GST implementation and digital payment systems, has brought many enterprises into the formal economy, improving their access to credit and government benefits. Digital lending platforms are beginning to address the credit gap by using alternative data and artificial intelligence to assess creditworthiness, potentially expanding formal credit access to previously underserved MSMEs. However, the digital divide remains real. Many MSMEs, particularly in smaller towns and rural areas, lack the digital literacy, infrastructure, or resources to fully leverage digital opportunities. Bridging this divide through capacity building, affordable connectivity, and user-friendly platforms remains a policy priority.

Catalysts of Inclusive Development

One of the most profound contributions of MSMEs lies in their role as engines of inclusive growth. Unlike large corporations that tend to concentrate in metropolitan areas, MSMEs have a remarkable geographic dispersal, operating in tier-2 and tier-3 cities, small towns, and even rural areas. This distribution pattern ensures that economic opportunities and wealth creation are not confined to major urban centers but percolate to the hinterlands. The sector has been particularly effective in empowering traditionally marginalized communities. Women entrepreneurs, who constitute a growing segment of MSME owners, find in this sector an opportunity to achieve economic independence and social recognition. Similarly, scheduled castes, scheduled tribes, and other backward classes have found pathways to entrepreneurship through MSMEs, often supported by government schemes designed to promote inclusive entrepreneurship. MSMEs also play a crucial role in preserving and promoting India's rich heritage of traditional crafts and skills. From Banarasi silk weavers to Moradabad's metal craftsmen, from Kashmir's papier-mâché artisans to Thanjavur's bronze sculptors, countless traditional skills survive and thrive within the MSME framework, ensuring that India's cultural heritage remains economically viable in the modern era.

Conclusion: The Continuing Saga of Nation Building

The story of India's MSMEs is, in many ways, the story of India itself—diverse, resilient, innovative, and aspiring. These enterprises embody the entrepreneurial dreams of millions, provide livelihoods to countless families, and collectively shape the economic trajectory of the nation. From the artisan in a remote village preserving traditional crafts to the tech entrepreneur in a tier-2 city building software solutions, from the food processor creating employment in rural areas to the precision engineer supplying to global aerospace giants, MSMEs reflect the extraordinary breadth of India's economic landscape. As India navigates the complexities of the 21st-century economy, the continued growth and strengthening of the MSME sector will remain central to achieving inclusive, sustainable, and robust development. With appropriate policy support, improved access to resources, and an enabling business environment, MSMEs will continue their role as the backbone of India's economy and the architects of the nation's prosperous future.

Challenges in the Growth Journey

Despite their immense contributions, MSMEs in India face a complex array of challenges that constrain their growth potential. Access to formal credit remains one of the most persistent obstacles. While banks and financial institutions have lending targets for the MSME sector, many small enterprises struggle to navigate the documentation requirements and collateral demands of formal lending. The credit gap in the MSME sector runs into trillions of rupees, forcing many entrepreneurs to rely on informal sources of financing at exorbitant interest rates. Technological upgradation presents another significant hurdle. While large corporations can invest heavily in research and development and adopt the latest technologies, many MSMEs operate with outdated machinery and processes, limiting their productivity and competitiveness. The cost of technology acquisition, combined with limited awareness about available options and insufficient technical expertise, creates a technology deficit that hampers growth. Market access, particularly for micro and small enterprises, remains challenging. Many MSMEs produce quality products but lack the marketing capabilities, brand recognition, and distribution networks to reach wider markets. The rise of e-commerce has opened new avenues, but many traditional MSMEs struggle to establish an effective digital presence or navigate the complexities of online marketplaces. Regulatory compliance, while necessary, often poses disproportionate burdens on smaller enterprises. Navigating multiple registrations, licenses, tax filings, and labor regulations requires time, expertise, and resources that many MSMEs find difficult to spare. Though reforms like the Goods and Services Tax have simplified some aspects of compliance, the overall regulatory landscape remains complex.

Looking Ahead: The Future of MSMEs in Nation Building

As India aspires to become a developed nation by 2047, MSMEs will undoubtedly play a central role in realizing this ambition. Their contribution to employment generation will be crucial in harnessing India's demographic dividend. Their innovation capacity will be essential in building globally competitive industries. Their geographic spread will ensure that development reaches every corner of the country. The integration of MSMEs into global value chains presents immense opportunities. As multinational corporations diversify their supply chains and adopt China Plus One strategies, Indian MSMEs can position themselves as reliable suppliers of quality components and products. However, this requires continued focus on quality improvement, technological upgradation, and meeting international standards. Sustainability will increasingly become a defining theme for MSMEs. Consumer preferences are shifting toward environmentally responsible and socially conscious products. MSMEs that embrace sustainable practices, whether in energy use, waste management, or social policies, will find themselves better positioned for long-term success. The emergence of MSME clusters and industrial parks facilitates economies of scale, knowledge sharing, and collaborative growth. Supporting such cluster development, along with improved infrastructure connectivity, will enhance competitiveness. Similarly, fostering linkages between MSMEs and large corporations through supply chain integration can create win-win scenarios.

Ukraine and Russia sliders set for close start

LAKE PLACID

Ukrainian and Russian athletes are set to start back to back in the men's World Cup luge race at Lake Placid, creating a moment that is drawing global attention. The start order shows Ukraine's Andriy Mandziy will begin second, followed immediately by Matvei Perestoronin, a Russian competing as an independent neutral athlete. Because of the consecutive start positions, both athletes are expected to be near each other at the top of the Mount Van Hoevenberg track and again near the finish area after their first runs on Saturday. This also increases the chance of brief interaction between coaches from the two countries.

The order was decided based on results from the Nations Cup race held earlier this week, which served as a qualifier. Italy's Lukas Peccei will start first, followed by Russia aimed to send six athletes, but three lost eligibility due to neutrality rules; only three, including Perestoronin, remain, competing to preserve Milan Cortina Olympic qualification hopes.

Mandziy and Perestoronin. American slider Jonny Gustafson, who won the Nations Cup, will start fifth.

Russia had hoped to send six athletes to this World Cup event, but three lost eligibility after failing to meet neutrality requirements linked to the ongoing war that began in 2022. Only three Russian athletes remain eligible, including Perestoronin on the men's side. They are competing to keep their Olympic qualification hopes alive for the Milan Cortina Games.

Training sessions in Lake Placid have kept Russian and Ukrainian athletes in separate groups. Ukrainian supporters are expected in large numbers, as the town has strong ties with Ukraine and has shown public support throughout the conflict.

The men's race on Saturday will be the first World Cup luge event involving Russian athletes since before the war.

Head shines as Australia tighten Ashes grip

Travis Head's brilliant century put Australia firmly in control against England on Day Three of the third Ashes Test.

ADELAIDE

Travis Head produced a brilliant batting display to put Australia in a commanding position against England on Day Three of the third Ashes Test at the Adelaide Oval. At stumps, Australia reached 271 for four in their second innings, taking a massive lead of 356 runs and pushing England closer to defeat in the series.

Head remained unbeaten on 142, playing with confidence and control throughout the day. He was well supported by wicketkeeper Alex Carey, who also stayed not out on 52. Together, the pair added an unbeaten 122 runs for the fifth wicket, frustrating the England bowlers and strengthening Australia's grip on the match. This was Head's second century of the series and another reminder of his importance in big games.

Earlier in the day, England showed some fight with the bat. Captain Ben Stokes led from the front, scoring 83, while Jofra Archer added a useful 51. Their ninth-wicket partnership of 106 runs helped England reach 286 after starting the day at 213 for eight. Despite their effort, England still trailed by a large margin.

Australia's second innings began with a minor setback when opener Jake Weatherall was dismissed early. England found brief hope after lunch when Marnus Labuschagne was also removed cheaply. However, Usman Khawaja and Head steadied the innings with a solid partnership, batting patiently and wearing down the bowlers.

After tea, England struck twice in quick succession, dismissing Khawaja and Cameron Green. But by then, Australia's lead was already close to 300 runs. Carey then joined Head and ensured there were no further wickets before stumps.

With one full day left, Australia are firmly in control and England face an uphill battle to save the Test.

Cricket Australia eyes BBL as T20 Grand Slam

MELBOURNE

Cricket Australia (CA) CEO Todd Greenberg has outlined plans to elevate the Big Bash League (BBL) into a "Grand Slam" event on the global T20 franchise cricket circuit, Greenberg compared the vision for BBL with the Indian Premier League (IPL) and England's The Hundred, suggesting Australia aims to host one of the premier T20 competitions worldwide.

Currently in its 14th season, the BBL is exploring privatisation following a Boston Consulting Group report recommending the move. If approved, the sale of stakes could raise up to AUD 800 million, providing CA with funds to strengthen budgets and invest across all levels of Australian cricket.

Greenberg emphasized the need for investment, top players, and proper scheduling to compete with leading T20 leagues. "To be part of the Grand Slam series, you need capital, you need investment, you need the best players, and you need the right window," he said.

PRESSURE PLAN FUELS Chakaravarthy World Cup push

AHMEDABAD

Indian spinner Varun Chakaravarthy said he is deliberately putting pressure on himself as part of his preparation for the upcoming T20 World Cup. The mystery bowler has been India's standout performer in the ongoing T20I series against South Africa, picking up six wickets in three innings so far.

India lead the five match series 2-1, with the fourth game abandoned due to fog. The final match will be played at the Narendra Modi Stadium, where India will aim to seal the series with a 3-1 result. South Africa will look to level the series and finish strongly against one of the top teams from the last T20 World Cup.

Speaking ahead of the final match, Chakaravarthy said confidence and mindset have played a big role in his recent success. He explained that his main focus is on bowling the right lengths and trusting his basic skills rather than trying too many variations.

The spinner also reflected on his early struggles at the international level. He said those experiences helped him understand his game better and pushed him to work harder in practice. Playing regularly at the highest level, he added, helps players know where they stand.

Chakaravarthy believes creating mental pressure is necessary, even in matches that feel comfortable. He said challenging himself will help him stay sharp and prepared for big tournaments. Understanding opponents and backing strengths are lessons he wants to carry into the World Cup.

With the final T20I approaching, Chakaravarthy hopes to continue his good form and help India end the series strongly and confidently together.
