Issue notice and come for discussion: CM tells Oppn

The Chief Minister defended his decision to induct Nagendra, saying he was ready to address every allegation raised by BJP members.

BENGALURU

Chief Minister D K Shivakumar urged the Opposition to follow legislative procedure, issue notice and allow a detailed discussion on Minister B Nagendra's resignation.

Speaking in the Legislative Council on Friday, Shivakumar criticised the Opposition for demanding Nagendra's resignation without giving notice or allowing a discussion in the House.

"There would be meaning if the Opposition protested by specifying the exact reason for demanding Nagendra's resignation.

Is there any meaning in demanding his resignation without issuing a notice and without even coming to the well of the House?" he asked.

The Chief Minister said Opposition members also held constitutional positions and should act responsibly in a democracy.

"There is no objection to the Opposition staging protests. When I was party president, I had approached Nagendra and obtained his resignation to facilitate an

CM seeks debate, not disruption

Chief Minister D K Shivakumar said the Opposition had every right to protest but should follow legislative procedures. He urged BJP members to issue a notice and participate in a detailed discussion on the allegations against B Nagendra. Shivakumar said he would answer their questions and explain why Nagendra was inducted into the Cabinet. He also warned that naming ministers facing cases could upset Opposition members.

investigation. Subsequently, the government conducted an inquiry.

Now they are again demanding his resignation. There is a proper procedure. Let them issue a notice and come for a discussion," he said.

'What have you discovered?'

Shivakumar questioned what evidence the Opposition had against Nagendra and urged it to place all information before the House.

"Why should Nagendra resign? What have the Opposition members discovered?

What information do they possess? Let them inform the people through the House about what the CBI, ED and SIT have found," he said.

He said the issue could be discussed throughout the day if the Opposition gave notice, adding that there was no need to disrupt proceedings.

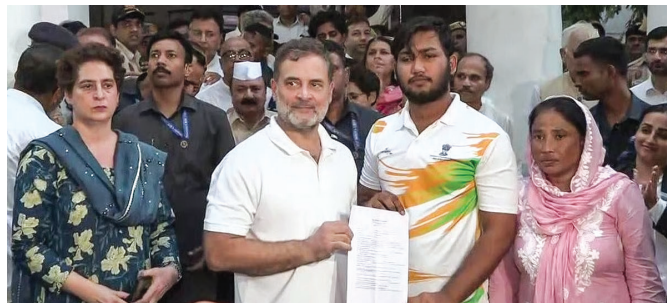

"If the Opposition gives us an opportunity, I will explain why I inducted Nagendra into the Cabinet. If they remain dissatisfied, they can continue their protest. But is it reasonable to call Nagendra corrupt, allege that money went to Rahul Gandhi's house and call the D K Shivakumar government corrupt without holding a discussion?" he asked.

'You may be upset if I name your leaders'

"Please give notice. Let us discuss this for two days. I will answer all your questions, doubts and concerns. You may feel bad if I name Union and State ministers against whom cases were registered and explain how the investigations were conducted," Shivakumar told BJP members.

Centre denies permission for Revanth's US visit

HYDERABAD

The Centre has denied permission for Telangana Chief Minister A Revanth Reddy's scheduled US visit, forcing him to cut short his foreign tour. Reddy will return to Hyderabad from London on August 23 instead of travelling to Boston and New York.

He had planned to visit leading educational institutions and sign MoUs with Harvard, MIT, Northeastern University and Virginia Tech.

The Chief Minister directed Telangana officials to continue the US tour and complete the proposed engagements.

During his UK visit, Reddy met academics from Oxford and Cambridge under the Telangana Rising initiative.

He alleged that the Centre's decision was politically motivated and said youth development should remain above politics.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Congress legislators on Friday protested against BJP and JD(S) members, accusing them of disrupting legislative proceedings over the B Nagendra issue.

in the embezzlement of funds from the Karnataka Maharshi Valmiki Scheduled Tribes Development Corporation.

Nagendra had resigned from the previous Siddaramaiah-led Cabinet as Tribal Welfare Minister following allegations of financial irregularities in the corporation.

He was later inducted into the D K Shivakumar-led ministry on August 3.

Opposition protests

The BJP and JD(S) have been protesting in both Houses demanding Nagendra's removal over alleged irregularities in the Valmiki Corporation. Congress accused the Opposition of repeatedly obstructing proceedings and preventing discussion of pressing public issues. Nagendra, who resigned from the earlier Cabinet after the allegations surfaced, was reinducted into the ministry on August 3. He remains named in ED and CBI charge sheets related to the case.

India says Pakistan mission demolition was 'proportional'

NEW DELHI: India described the removal of structures outside Pakistan's High Commission in Delhi as a proportional response to similar action by Islamabad.

External Affairs Ministry spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal said Pakistan had removed certain structures outside the Indian High Commission in Islamabad despite New Delhi's request not to proceed. India subsequently removed temporary structures located in the lane outside the Pakistani mission in Delhi.

"Regarding the Indian High Commission in Pakistan, certain structures there were removed despite our request that this not be done. Once it happened, we took what could be described as a proportional action," Jaiswal said.

Delhi authorities used a bulldozer to remove structures and barricades outside the Pakistan High Commission in Chanakyaपुरी after finding that they extended beyond the mission's approved boundary.

Modi pitches India as global space hub at start-up meet

NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Friday met CEOs of 20 space start-ups, urging them to make India a global hub for space technology, innovation and investment.

Modi interacted with founders and CEOs at Seva Teerth as India seeks to expand private participation and strengthen its position in the global space sector.

The meeting brought together companies working on rocket development, reusable semi-cryogenic launch vehicles, avionics, satellites, advanced propulsion systems, space and defence intelligence, space-debris removal, and AI-powered weather and climate intelligence.

The entrepreneurs highlighted the rapid growth of India's private space industry and shared their vision for the sector. They said their companies had developed technologies indigenously and credited government support and the opening of the space sector to private players for creating new opportunities.

Congratulating the entrepreneurs, Modi said their confidence had reinforced the vision behind opening the space sector to private participation. He noted that many countries either lacked the resources or did not want to invest heavily in space, creating an opportunity for India to expand its global footprint.

The Prime Minister urged companies to explore applications of space technology that could directly improve people's lives. He suggested partnerships between space companies and organisations in sectors such as agriculture and the environment.

Companies developing space-debris technologies, he said, could work with environmental organisations, while those developing agricultural applications could collaborate with agricultural universities and departments to help farmers improve productivity and decision-making.

Modi also called for closer engagement with Atal Tinkering Labs to encourage children to develop an interest in space technology from an early age.

US nuke industry to submit SHANTI Act recommendations

NEW DELHI: The US nuclear industry is preparing detailed recommendations on India's draft SHANTI Act rules as New Delhi opens the civil nuclear sector to private participation.

The US-India Strategic Partnership Forum (USISPF), which has been facilitating engagement between US nuclear companies and Indian stakeholders, is coordinating a comprehensive industry submission to the Department of Atomic Energy (DAE) by the September 4 deadline.

The move follows the release of draft rules and regulations under the Sustainable Harnessing and Advancement of Nuclear Energy for Transforming India (SHANTI) Act last week.

USISPF held discussions with Indian legal experts and the Nuclear Energy Institute and also conducted a virtual briefing for its Nuclear Industry Committee.

The discussions covered licensing, operator liability, financial safeguards, insurance, project structuring and procedures for private-sector participation. Industry representatives also identified areas requiring greater clarity and proposed feedback for the government.

The draft rules are aimed at establishing procedures for licensing, insurance and approvals while retaining government control over sensitive nuclear activities.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Opposition Leader R Ashoka on Friday demanded Minister B Nagendra's resignation, alleging documentary evidence links him to the alleged Rs 187-crore Valmiki Corporation scam.

Speaking at a protest near the Sri Valmiki Maharshi statue at Legislators' Home, Ashoka said the agitation was a fight for Dalits and alleged that more than one crore Dalits had been deprived of funds.

He claimed the CBI and ED charge sheets had named Nagendra as the main accused and that he was also the main accused in 31 Lokayukta cases.

Ashoka said Valmiki Development Corporation officer P Chandrashekhara, who died by suicide, had exposed the alleged irregularities. He said Chandrashekhara's suicide note mentioned transfers made on ministerial instructions and named others allegedly involved.

He claimed documents showed Rs 40 crore had been transferred, with Union Bank cheques and details of beneficiary accounts available. He also alleged that Rs 50 crore was deposited in the corporation before a loan was obtained on the same day to conceal the transactions.

Ashoka alleged that funds were diverted without tenders and used for the Telangana elections, including payments to bars, vehicle dealers and drivers. He further alleged that a Lamborghini and 40 kg of gold were purchased from the money.

He said Rs 1.20 crore had reached accounts linked to Nagendra's family and demanded that another Dalit leader be made minister instead.

"Despite all the documents, the minister has not resigned. No bigger evidence than the suicide note is needed."

—R Ashoka, Leader of Opposition

Ashoka's demands

Ashoka demanded Nagendra's immediate resignation and alleged that the government was shielding him despite evidence in investigative agency and Lokayukta cases. He urged the government to release at least Rs 300 crore for drought management in each affected district, instead of seeking relief from the Centre first. He said the government should provide assistance before holding discussions in the Assembly. Ashoka also criticised the government for adjourning the Assembly over the issue and said other Dalit leaders could be considered for ministerial responsibility.

A novel way to teach garbage dumpers

Srirampura TP staff 'returns' garbage to shopkeeper concerned; imposes penalty

MYSURU

In a stern action against illegal dumping of solid waste, the Srirampur Town Panchayat has imposed a ₹5,000 fine on the owner of Sunrise Store, Kuvempunagar, Mysuru for allegedly dumping solid waste along the outer ring roads of the town.

The action was taken under the Karnataka Government Solid Waste Management Rules, 2016, as part of the town panchayat's efforts to maintain cleanliness, beautification and public health.

Officials and staff of the Town Panchayat caught the offender while allegedly dumping waste illegally at different locations in Srirampur. The authorities immediately initiated legal action and imposed the penalty.

In an unusual but firm move, the illegally dumped waste was collected and transported in a Town Panchayat vehicle and deposited in front of the Sunrise Store warehouse at Kuvempunagar, from where it had allegedly originated. The shop owner was also warned against repeating such violations in future. The Town Panchayat has appealed to residents, shopkeepers and commercial establishments to dispose of solid waste responsibly and cooperate with civic authorities in keeping Srirampur clean and healthy.

The authorities have urged newspapers and news media to give wider publicity to the action to create public awareness about responsible waste disposal.

Provide alternative space before evicting street vendors: Lakshman

MYSURU

KPCC spokesperson M. Lakshman has opposed the ongoing footpath encroachment drive by the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC), alleging that street vendors were being evicted without providing them with alternative arrangements.

In a memorandum submitted to the Regional Commissioner, he said street vendors selling fruits, vegetables, clothes and other goods from baskets on major roads, including Sayajirao Road, Chikka Gadiyara and Olympia Talkies Road, had been earning their livelihood from these locations for several years without causing major inconvenience to pedestrians.

He said the Congress-led government should protect the interests of the poor and ensure that enforcement measures do not deprive them of their livelihood. While supporting the Supreme Court's direction that pedestrians should have free access to footpaths, he said the civic authorities should distinguish between genuine obstructions and small-scale vending that does not significantly affect pedestrian movement. "Buildings and permanent structures that completely encroach upon footpaths should certainly be removed. However, poor vendors who occupy a small portion of a footpath for a few hours to earn their livelihood should not be treated in the same manner," he said.

Lakshman questioned why permanent structures occupying entire stretches of footpaths in several parts of Mysuru were allegedly being allowed to remain while small vendors were being targeted. Transformers, milk booths, telephone booths and other structures also occupied portions of footpaths, forcing pedestrians to walk on the roads.

He suggested that a portion of wider footpaths could be earmarked for street vending while ensuring adequate space for pedestrians. For instance, on a 10-foot-wide footpath, four feet could be considered for regulated vending, leaving sufficient space for pedestrian movement, he said.

He also demanded that the authorities adopt a uniform policy and remove all forms of encroachments irrespective of the status or influence of those responsible. "If eviction is the only solution, the law must be enforced equally against all encroachments. The poor should not be singled out while powerful interests are allowed to retain their encroached spaces," he said. He urged the authorities to first identify and allot alternative vending spaces for street vendors and only thereafter undertake the eviction drive. He said the objective should be to maintain clear and accessible footpaths while simultaneously protecting the livelihood of thousands of poor vendors.

Youth must embrace performing arts and folk traditions: Nirmala Mathapathi

MYSURU

Youth should make it a habit to learn and engage in performing arts, said Nirmala Mathapathi, Joint Director of the Department of Kannada and Culture.

Speaking after inaugurating a one-month free folk and theatre training camp organised by the Gautama Educational and Cultural Service Trust here, she said participation in such camps helps inculcate values of co-existence, sacrifice and love among youngsters. Youth to keep aside their mobile phones for at least two hours every day and devote time to learning and appreciating art.

She said the purpose of constructing art spaces is fulfilled when they are filled with people just as temples are filled with devotees. Youth should not stop learning after completing this one-month training. They should continue their artistic journey. Referring to the Tourism Department's slogan 'One State, Many Worlds,' she said it could also be interpreted as 'One Art, Many Worlds.' There are several branches of art, which provide exposure to literature and culture while helping individuals understand rhythm, beat and musical notes. Learning art also contributes to overall personality development.

Dinesh Chammalige, president of the Nalwadi Trust and chief guest, recalled that he had participated in a similar theatre camp conducted under the leadership of H. Janardhan 23 years ago. Playing the role of a farmer in Kuvempu's play Jalagara during the camp, he said, had changed the direction of his life.

Presiding over the programme, Maddikere Gopal, president of the District Kannada Sahitya Parishat, advised youngsters to learn different art forms with interest and lead culturally enriched lives. He also observed that had Rashtrakavi Kuvempu, who initially wrote literature in English, continued writing in that language, he could have become one of the greatest writers in the world. If Kuvempu's extensive Kannada literary works across various genres had been translated into English, he might have received the Nobel Prize long ago.

Senior journalist Amshi Prasannakumar was the chief guest. Gautama Educational and Cultural Service Trust president Krishnamurthy Tal-

Vara Mahalakshmi festival sparkles in Mysuru

RAIN PLAYS SPOILSPORT IN EVENING

MYSURU

The city wore a festive glow on Friday as women across Mysuru celebrated Vara Mahalakshmi Vrata with devotion, colour and cheerful camaraderie.

From the early hours, homes and temples resonated with the sounds of prayers and devotional songs, while beautifully decorated entrances, colourful rangolis and traditional arrangements added to the festive spirit.

Dressed in bright silk sarees and adorned with jewellery, women stepped out to visit temples and exchange greetings with friends and relatives. The festival brought a special sparkle to neighbourhoods as women gathered to perform puja and seek the blessings of Goddess Mahalakshmi, the deity of prosperity and well-being.

One of the most cherished traditions of the celebration was the exchange of ‘Bagina’ among women. Decorated plates and baskets containing traditional items, fruits, sweets, turmeric, kumkum and other auspicious articles were exchanged with warmth and affection. For many women, the ritual was as much about strengthening bonds of friendship and family as it was about observing religious customs.

“The festival gives us an opportunity to come together, pray for the well-being of our families and share happiness with one another. Giving Bagina to other women is a beautiful tradition that strengthens our relationships,” said a festival reveller.

Another woman, dressed in a traditional silk saree, said, “We have been celebrating Vara Mahalakshmi Vrata in our family for generations. Wearing new clothes, decorating the house, preparing special dishes and meeting friends make the day very special.” Markets and flower stalls also witnessed a festive rush, with women purchasing flowers, fruits, puja articles and other items needed for the celebrations. Temples saw a steady stream of devotees, with women patiently waiting for darshan.

However, the festive mood suffered a slight dampener in the evening when rain lashed several parts of the city. The sudden showers forced many women to stay indoors or cut short their visits to relatives and temples. Outdoor gatherings and planned visits were particularly affected, with umbrellas and raincoats becoming an unexpected part of the festive attire.

“We were all set to visit a few houses and exchange Bagina, but the evening rain forced us to remain indoors. Still, we completed the puja at home and celebrated with our family,” said another woman.

Despite the weather interruption, the spirit of Vara Mahalakshmi remained undiminished. Homes continued to glow with lamps, flowers and festive decorations, while women offered prayers seeking prosperity, happiness and peace for their families.

The rain may have cooled the streets of Mysuru, but it did little to extinguish the warmth and devotion that marked the celebration.

ADVISE STATE GOVT AGAINST HOLDING KAMBALA DURING DASARA 2026

Greens appeal to ex-CM Siddaramaiah

MYSURU

A Joint Action Committee comprising the Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha, Dalit Sangharsha Samithi, Parisarakagi Naavu, Bhoomi Thaayi Horata Samithi, Kanada and progressive organisations and other groups urged former Chief Minister and senior Congress leader Siddaramaiah to advise the State Government against organising Kambala as part of the Mysuru Dasara festivities this year.

The committee members met the former CM and submitted a memorandum requesting him to direct the incumbent government not to hold Kambala during Mysuru Dasara as it would undermine the unique identity and traditional character of the world-famous Mysuru Dasara.

They pointed out that the festival had already expanded considerably with events such as Yuva Dasara, Yuva Sambhrama, Women’s Dasara, Children’s Dasara and Raitha Dasara. The resultant crowds, traffic congestion, air and noise pollution and accumulation of garbage were causing inconvenience to residents, they claimed.

“Amid the noise and extravagance, the unique features and traditional practices of Dasara are gradually getting overshadowed,” the committee said.

The committee said Kambala was a traditional rural sport rooted in the culture and geographical conditions of coastal Karnataka and Tulu Nadu. While respecting the sport and its traditions, it argued that transporting it to Mysuru and incorporating it into Dasara was inappropriate. It also claimed that opposition to holding Kambala at Mysuru was not confined to the city, stating that sections of people in the coastal region were also against moving the event outside its traditional setting.

Referring to the high-level Dasara meeting held in Bengaluru on July 10, the committee welcomed the reported suggestion that Dasara celebrations should be extended to other districts to showcase their local art, culture and literature.

Such decentralisation would help make Dasara a true “Nada Habba” and provide opportunities to local artists and traditional cultural forms, it said.

The committee also raised concerns over the expenditure and environmental implications of the proposed Kambala event. It questioned the proposal to bring around 400 buffaloes and nearly 20,000 people to Mysuru for a two-day event.

It further objected to the proposed clearing of vegetation on 25.28 acres of land for creating the Kambala track, alleged plans to close the Sathagalli Lake and the use of large quantities of water at a time when the State was facing water-related concerns.

With farmers in several parts of Karnataka facing rainfall deficiency and crop losses, the Government should prioritise addressing agrarian distress rather than spending on what it termed an unnecessary event, the committee said.

The members urged the Government to instead focus on correcting shortcomings in the Dasara celebrations, promoting local art and artists, ensuring proper remuneration and treating artists with dignity.

Recalling that Siddaramaiah had opposed the Kambala proposal when it was mooted during Dasara last year, the committee appealed to him to once again advise the Chief Minister to drop the proposal.

The letter was signed by A.T. Ramaswamy, Darshan Puttannaiah, Major General (Retd.) Sudhir Ombatkere, Indudhar Honnapur, Guruprasad Keragodu, Badagalapura Nagendra, Parashurame Gowda, M.G. Sadanandaiah, Kalachanne Gowda, Bhanumohan, Mansoor Ahmed, Ravi Bale and Prabha Nandish.

Speedy expansion of Mysuru airport

Yaduveer also urged the Union Minister to expedite the ongoing expansion and development works at Mysuru Airport. Completing the expansion works at the earliest was essential to handle the growing number of passengers and facilitate the operation of more flight routes as well as larger aircraft. He had been continuously following up on the development of Mysuru Airport and that providing infrastructure and air connectivity suited to the city’s future requirements remained one of his key commitments.

“I have been continuously following up on the development works at Mysuru Airport. My commitment is not limited to meeting temporary requirements. I am working towards a long-term and permanent solution that will provide Mysuru with strong air connectivity to different parts of the country,” he said.

He stressed that Mysuru needed a long-term aviation strategy rather than temporary or short-term solutions. This Airport should be developed as a strong regional aviation hub capable of connecting the city with major cities across the country.

“Mysuru will get better air connectivity”

Speaking at the meeting, Union Civil Aviation Minister Ram Mohan Naidu gave a positive assurance that efforts would be made to improve air connectivity to Mysuru.

“Mysuru needs better air connectivity. I am confident that Mysuru will soon get its due share. MP Yaduveer ji has been continuously following up with me for all possible support. I will direct my office to immediately take up all the pending works,” he said.

The assurance is expected to provide further momentum to efforts to strengthen Mysuru Airport and expand flight connectivity.

Yaduveer said direct connectivity to cities such as Mumbai, Kochi, Tirupati and Goa would benefit both tourists and residents of Mysuru while creating new opportunities for the local hotel, tourism, business and service sectors. Better connectivity with major aviation hubs would make it easier for Mysuru passengers to travel to various parts of the country as well as international destinations.

From confusion to clarity: New rules ordered

Karnataka has introduced a new law to streamline apartment administration, prevent rival associations, and simplify redevelopment processes.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka government has introduced a brand new law to safeguard apartment residents and clear up messy administrative rules. Bengaluru Development Minister Krishna Byre Gowda tabled this fresh legislation in the assembly to solve everyday housing troubles.

City living has grown rapidly, including apartments the top housing choice for most families.

However, older rules from decades ago failed to fix modern housing issues. Because of this, many complexes ended up with multiple rival associations, causing constant fights among neighbors over shared spaces, compound walls, and roads.

The new bill introduces strict guidelines to fix these problems. Every apartment complex will now operate under just one single registered

THE NEW BILL

Single Association: Every housing complex will feature only one registered Residents' Welfare Association to completely stop rival groups.

Common Areas: Builders are legally barred from selling shared spaces, roads, or open compounds meant for residents.

Civil Powers: Local authorities will gain civil court-like powers to quickly settle daily neighborhood management disputes.

Redevelopment Rules: Old, crumbling apartment blocks can be rebuilt if at least 75% of owners agree, backed by fair compensation.

directly to the residents.

Old and unsafe apartment buildings also get a clear path forward for rebuilding. Redevelopment can move ahead if 75 percent of property owners agree.

If someone disagrees, the law allows property acquisition using an independent valuation at twice the local market value, ensuring fair compensation.

To solve local conflicts

Fixing urban living challenges

State leaders emphasized that the new framework arrived after extensive public feedback sessions with residents and housing experts. By establishing dedicated local authorities to handle local complaints, the government aims to give apartment owners total control over their daily community affairs.

quickly, the legislation sets up special local authorities equipped with civil court powers. Residents can take their disputes straight to these bodies instead of enduring long court battles. Officials spent months gathering feedback from citizens and experts before finalizing this balanced act.

Leaders believe these rules will bring transparency, protect buyer rights, and create better harmony in housing societies across the state.

BNCC Commissioner orders quick grievance disposal

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Bengaluru North City Corporation is fast solving public problems using digital tools and phone calls. Officials are working hard to clear pending cases quickly and help local residents get fast answers to their daily civic issues.

Since launching the Sa-haaya 2.0 app, citizens have used it to share their neighborhood troubles.

Before a new authority formed, people filed over one lakh cases, and workers fixed almost all of them.

After the transition, thousands more complaints poured in through apps, direct office visits, and Friday phone sessions hosted by the commissioner.

Back in May, thousands of issues remained stuck without solutions. To fix this, leaders started daily review meetings. Thanks to this push, pending cases dropped heavily. Now, only a small number of issues wait for action. Complaints come from over twenty different sources, including social media pages, emails, and news reports.

Vet staff boost to protect cattle

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The state government plans to hire 100's of new veterinary workers soon. Officials recently shared details about these upcoming job opportunities in the legislature.

The Animal Husbandry Minister announced that authorities will soon recruit hundreds of junior medical examiners and veterinary officers. These new positions will be filled through outsourcing and contract arrangements to help support public veterinary institutions across the region. Leaders noted that thousands of veterinary medical centers currently function throughout the state to care for animals.

Meanwhile, the process for direct recruitment of permanent posts is already moving forward through official channels. Officials submitted formal proposals to finance departments to secure approval for these new hires. Once final clearance is granted, recruitment will begin immediately to fill the gaps in local healthcare services.

Additionally, discussions highlighted the ongoing work of mobile medical units operating across various districts under central schemes. Officials reviewed current helpline operations and emergency response times for livestock care. Although proposals were made to extend daily operating hours and expand helpline staff to better serve rural areas, federal agencies rejected those specific requests.

Even with these administrative hurdles, local leaders remain committed to improving animal healthcare delivery. Lawmakers continue to push for better resources and increased manpower to support farming communities. Ensuring proper medical attention for livestock is vital for the local agricultural economy and animal welfare. Authorities hope that adding new contract and outsourced staff will ease the workload on current professionals. Further updates regarding the hiring schedule are expected to be released as soon as administrative approvals are finalized in the coming weeks.

Staffing push

Contract Roles: Proposals have been submitted to hire 400 veterinary officers on contract and 300 junior medical examiners on an outsourced basis.

Direct Recruitment: Permanent posts for Basava Vedyadhikari are currently processing directly through the state public service commission.

Mobile Units: Dozens of mobile veterinary vehicles operate statewide under central schemes to reach remote livestock.

Emergency Lines: The emergency helpline works to coordinate quick responses for urgent cattle treatments across dispersed regions.

Addressing rural treatment challenges

The state currently manages thousands of functional veterinary centers, ranging from super specialty hospitals to local primary care clinics. Officials explained that mobile treatment units face heavy travel times across wide rural geographies, averaging hours per emergency call. Although central guidelines recommend specific staff and vehicle ratios for large cattle populations, local authorities continue pushing to strengthen infrastructure and helpline shift capacities to deliver seamless healthcare services.

Starting near the Hebbal Flyover, the chief spotted piles of waste building material left behind by the K-RIDE project. He ordered work teams to clear the mess right away to keep the area tidy for everyday traffic.

Moving along the service road close to Bhadrappa Layout, officers found garbage dumped on walking paths. The local manager received orders to clean it up fast. Field marshalls must now watch this spot closely to stop people from turning it into a regular trash dump.

Between Bell Circle and Guruguntepalya, bumpy roads caused trouble. Engineers got direct orders to patch up all holes quickly so drivers can travel safely without bumps. Close by at Bhadrappa Layout, street sellers had blocked walking paths. Officials were told to run a clear-up drive immediately.

Further along the route, construction waste was spotted near BMRCL metro zones. Project officials must clear and clean these spots within one week. Near Kalyan Nagar, more garbage and building waste piled up on the roadside. Teams received a strict deadline to clean everything completely by 25th August. During the visit, the commissioner told all department heads to keep their sectors spotless, smooth, and free of road damage. Regular checks are now a must so small problems do not turn into big headaches. Other top officers joined the inspection tour to make sure every order was heard clearly. Local residents hope these strict steps will finally bring smooth roads and clean footpaths to their neighborhoods soon.

JD(S) demands cancellation of NICE agreement

Janata Dal (Secular) lawmakers urged the state legislature to terminate a delayed multi-decade highway infrastructure agreement with a private partner.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A prominent regional political party has officially urged the state government to scrap a long-standing infrastructure agreement. Lawmakers recently raised serious concerns regarding an ongoing multi-decade highway project in the legislature.

Leaders from the Janata Dal Secular recently submitted a formal notice to assembly officials under specific legislative rules. They argued that the original project implementation has faced severe delays and widespread irregularities over the years. According to historical records, the state initially signed a basic agreement decades ago to build a massive network of expressways, peripheral roads, and new townships.

However, critics pointed out that only a small fraction of the planned work has been successfully completed. Party representatives emphasized that previous judicial reviews and official committee reports have already highlighted numerous violations of the original terms and conditions. Because the private partner failed to deliver most of the promised infrastructure within the expected timeframe, politicians insist that authorities must terminate the contract immediately.

Long standing infrastructure debate

The controversy stems from the Bangalore-Mysore Infrastructure Corridor (BMIC) project agreement established decades ago, which involved acquiring thousands of acres of land through local industrial boards. While initial plans promised extensive highway and suburban development, critics argue that non-fulfillment of core conditions has left the project stalled. With fresh demands raised on the assembly floor, lawmakers are pressing the state administration to reconsider its contractual ties and re-examine the future of the corridor project.

Furthermore, lawmakers stressed that this matter involves deep public importance and requires urgent debate in the house. The ongoing delays have caused immense inconvenience for daily commuters and local residents alike. Political leaders continue to pressure state administrators to take decisive legal action. Public interest in large-scale infrastructure accountability remains exceptionally high across the region. Officials have not yet announced a final decision regarding the cancellation demand, but discussions are expected to continue in the legislative assembly over the coming days. Citizens and transport experts are watching these developments closely to see how the government responds to these growing political pressures.

Minister B. Nagendra confident of legal vindication

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

State Minister for Planning and Statistics B. Nagendra has strongly asserted his innocence regarding the Maharishi Valmiki Scheduled Tribes Development Corporation financial irregularities. Following a public demonstration by Congress party workers near the Mahatma Gandhi statue close to the Vidhana Soudha, the minister addressed reporters to clarify his stance on the allegations that previously led to political turmoil.

Mr. Nagendra stated that the entire disputed amount of 187 crore rupees, which was alleged to have been misused during the episode, has been successfully recovered and safely deposited back into the state government treasury. He expressed total confidence that the ongoing judicial proceedings will completely exonerate him of any personal wrongdoing or administrative negligence linked to the corporation.

Reflecting on the timeline of events, the minister noted that an independent Special Investigation Team was originally constituted to probe the matter during his tenure. He emphasized that he chose to step down from his ministerial portfolio voluntarily at that time to ensure a completely unhindered and transparent investigation by law enforcement agencies. Subsequent inquiries by multiple investigative bodies, including the Central Bureau of Investigation and the Enforcement Directorate, have thoroughly examined the financial transactions, with the minister asserting his full cooperation throughout the legal process.

Addressing critics and political opponents who have continued to raise questions, Mr. Nagendra alleged a partisan pattern behind the persistent demands for his removal. He pointed out that various leaders across different political affiliations face numerous legal challenges and formal charges nationwide, yet different standards are often applied based on political affiliations. He reiterated his unwavering faith in the judiciary of the country and affirmed that he will pursue his legal defense rigorously until all remaining doubts are cleared.

CLEARING KHATA CONFUSION

Karnataka approves B-Khata to A-Khata bill

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka government has approved a major new legal reform to bring massive relief to lakhs of property owners living in unauthorized layouts. Minister Krishna Byre Gowda introduced the Karnataka Municipal Corporations Amendment Bill to end decades of ownership uncertainty.

For the past 30 to 40 years, numerous families owned plots and houses trapped in administrative limbo because their land only held B-Khata records. Unregulated layouts developed in the past lacked proper roads, drainage, water supply, and electricity, leaving buyers struggling without true legal protection.

The newly passed legislation amends Section 284 to officially allow municipal corporations to declare roads in unauthorized layouts as public roads. Once these roads receive official recognition, eligible property owners can finally transition from B-Khata to A-Khata. This vital legal pathway grants complete ownership security and a true land guarantee to residents. With the new A-Khata status, property owners gain easier access to bank loans, building plan approvals, and occupancy certificates. While offering a practical fix for legacy issues, the state has also tightened regulations to stop new unauthorized layouts from coming up in the future.

The assembly unanimously passed this historic step to protect ordinary citizens who suffered through no fault of their own. Leaders believe this reform will clear long-standing administrative hurdles and provide proper urban recognition to thousands of struggling neighborhoods across the state.

Bringing legal relief to families

For 3 to 4 decades, many families unknowingly purchased plots in unauthorized layouts lacking proper infrastructure like wide roads, drainage, and water supply. Because these developments bypassed standard rules, owners were restricted to B-Khata certificates, blocking bank loans and legal building approvals. While the state previously cracked down on new illegal developments in 2024, this new amendment provides a practical, regulated solution for legacy properties. Originally tested in Bengaluru, this citizen-friendly framework is now expanding to municipal corporations, town municipalities, and local panchayats across Karnataka, offering permanent legal peace of mind to countless homeowners.

The centre has been established to promote the teachings and philosophy of Swami Vivekananda and stands at the historic site of the former Niranjana Math on N.S. Road. Swami Vivekananda stayed at the site as a wandering monk in November 1892. The property was later handed over by the government to Sri Ramakrishna Ashrama, Mysuru, for the development of the centre.
Led by Ashram President Swami Muktidananda, the facility has been designed as a youth-focused centre where more than 10,000 students are expected to participate in specialised workshops and programmes. The project com-

Koppal Horticulture Campaign draws 12,000 participants

KOPPAL

The 10th edition of the 'Plant Fair and Horticulture Campaign-2026', organised by the Koppal Horticulture Department from August 15 to 20, concluded successfully with overwhelming participation from farmers and the public. More than 12,000 people attended the six-day event, generating demand for over 55 lakh saplings and horticulture-related inputs.
The campaign focused on promoting horticulture crops along field bunds, dryland farming, drought management and rainwater harvesting under the theme of low investment, low maintenance and continuous income. Demand was also recorded for more than 5,000 exotic fruit plants, including macadamia, mangosteen, litchi, foreign jackfruit and cherry varieties.

Shirahatti Town Panchayat awaits new building

MALINGARAYA PUJAR, CH NEWS

The Shirahatti Town Panchayat in Gadag district is struggling to function from a dilapidated British-era sub-jail building, raising questions over when the civic body will get a proper office of its own.
The town panchayat had earlier functioned from a small building near Basaveshwara Circle. However, due to lack of space, it was shifted to the old sub-jail building on the outskirts of the town around three years ago. The structure is now in poor condition, with rainwater leaking through the roof even during light showers. A tarpaulin sheet has been placed over the building as a temporary measure. Staff members are reportedly struggling to protect property documents, official records and other important files from water damage.

Ironically, funds have already been sanctioned for a new building. Around Rs 1.55 crore has been allocated under the fourth phase of the Urban Upgrading project. The tender process has also been completed and a work order issued to the contractor. Property No. 149/2 has been identified as the site for the proposed building.
However, the project has reportedly hit a roadblock over ownership of the identified land. The site is said to belong to the Sports Department, leading to confusion among authorities over its ownership and legal status. Contractors are reportedly reluctant to begin construction despite receiving the work order, fearing future legal complications.

Residents have questioned why construction has not begun despite the availability of funds and completion of the tender process. They have urged the government and concerned departments to resolve the land issue immediately and start construction.
With the existing building posing serious challenges to staff and public records, residents are demanding that authorities act quickly and provide the Shirahatti Town Panchayat with a safe and permanent office.

Public outrage

Despite having both money and permission, the project has been shelved just on the pretext of land dispute between departments. The people's representatives and officials, who should be working with a development vision, are turning a blind eye to this plight. The public is expressing strong anger that the district administration and the concerned minister should immediately intervene, resolve the land dispute with the sports department and construct a new, well-equipped building for the Shirahatti town panchayat.

Gadag reviews Mid-Season Crop Adversity relief measures

GADAG

Gadag Deputy Commissioner C.N. Sridhar has directed officials to use satellite data and conduct joint field surveys to assess crop losses and provide timely compensation to farmers under the Pradhan Mantri Fasal Bima Yojana amid adverse weather conditions during the ongoing monsoon season.
Sridhar issued the directions while chairing a district-level high-level review meeting to discuss invoking the 'Mid-Season Adversity' provisions for monsoon crops. He said irregular rainfall, prolonged dry spells and other weather-related conditions had affected crops in several areas, making immediate assistance essential for affected farmers.
The Deputy Commissioner instructed officials and representatives of insurance companies to identify areas where crop losses were likely to exceed 50 per cent due to inadequate rainfall or prolonged dry conditions. Joint field inspections involving the Agriculture Department, Revenue Department and insurance companies should be conducted immediately, he said. Reports should be submitted as per the prescribed guidelines to facilitate payment of 25 per cent advance interim compensation to eligible farmers.

The meeting decided to use satellite-based indicators, including NDVI and NDWI, along with rainfall-related satellite data from KSNMDC, to scientifically assess crop growth and moisture conditions. Joint teams were directed to inspect affected agricultural fields and submit reports without delay.
Sridhar instructed officials to complete the Mid-Season Adversity process before the completion of harvesting so that eligible farmers receive fair compensation without unnecessary delays.
Joint Director of Agriculture Chetana Patil said the department was scientifically assessing the condition of maize, sunflower, groundnut and other monsoon crops. NDVI and moisture-index data were being examined to identify eligible Insurance Units that could be activated under the Mid-Season Adversity guidelines.
Patil said Agriculture Department officials, Revenue officials and insurance company representatives would coordinate closely to ensure that no eligible farmer was deprived of insurance benefits. She added that the department was committed to conducting an accurate assessment of crop damage and facilitating insurance benefits for registered eligible farmers according to the rules.

VALMIKI CORPORATION SCAM PROTEST

KOPPAL

BJP leaders and workers staged a major protest and attempted to lay siege to the Koppal Urban Development Authority (KUDA) office on Friday, condemning allegations that more than Rs 8.43 crore belonging to site applicants was misappropriated through fake bank accounts.
Before the protest, BJP leaders and workers from Koppal constituency participated in the ongoing dharna outside the Deputy Commissioner's office, demanding the resignation of Minister B. Nagendra over the Valmiki Corporation scam. Later, a procession was taken from the DC office to the KUDA office under the leadership of Dr Basavaraj Kavatagere, MLC Hemalatha Naik, former MP Shivaramagowda and district BJP president Naveen Gulagannavar.

Carrying placards and raising slogans against the state government and KUDA, the protesters attempted to enter the authority's office. Police stopped them, leading to a brief scuffle and pushing between the protesters and police. Several BJP leaders and workers were subsequently taken into custody and later released.
Speaking during the protest, Dr Basavaraj Kavatagere said the alleged misuse of more than Rs 8.43 crore paid by hundreds of people aspiring to own sites was a serious matter. He demanded a comprehensive probe into how outsourced employee Ravindra Kumar, who is allegedly a key accused, was entrusted with such responsibilities at KUDA.

He also sought an investigation into alleged transfers of money to bank accounts of the accused's family members and demanded that the final beneficiaries of the funds be identified. The BJP leaders questioned the delay in arresting key accused persons and demanded that a Special Investigation Team comprising competent officers be formed for an impartial investigation.

Incorrect to attribute sugar price hike to ethanol production

New Delhi

Government on Friday said it is incorrect to attribute the recent increase in sugar prices to diversion of sugar for ethanol production, as the share of sugar diverted for this purpose has declined from around 12 per cent in 2022-23 to around 9 per cent in 2025-26. "Moreover, nearly three-fourths of the ethanol produced in the country now comes from grains, particularly maize," the Ministry of Consumer Affairs, Food, and Public Distribution said in a statement. The government said it is closely monitoring the situation and has taken a series of measures to ensure adequate availability of sugar and stable prices for consumers.

India eyes 20% of global smartphone production in 1-2 years

NEW DELHI

India is rapidly emerging as a key alternative manufacturing hub in the global electronics supply chain and could account for nearly one-fifth of the world's smartphone production within the next one to two years, according to a report.

The shift reflects a broader transformation in the global electronics manufacturing landscape, as companies seek to reduce their dependence on China and diversify production across multiple countries, according to One World Outlook report.

The strategy, widely described as "China plus one", has gained momentum amid supply-chain disruptions, rising geopolitical tensions, tariffs and tighter controls on critical technologies.

Nepal drives green future with electric vehicles

KATHMANDU

Electric vehicles are booming across Nepal, transforming the country's roads into cleaner pathways. Official data reveals that more than 63,000 EVs are now registered nationwide, making up a remarkable seventy percent of all newly imported private cars.

This rapid shift helps the Himalayan nation utilize its abundant hydropower resources while cutting down on costly imported fossil fuels. Government tax breaks, affordable loans, and a flood of new models especially affordable Chinese brands have driven this incredible growth in recent years.

Nepal now proudly stands right behind Norway as the world's second-largest market for new private electric car sales.

Solar expansion in China causes bird diversity decline

BEIJING

Rapid expansion of solar farms in China is linked to a reduction in bird diversity as cropland and grassland are cleared for development, a new report has said, calling the trend a green dilemma that pits carbon reduction against conservation.

Both resident and migratory bird species showed significant declines in areas of rapid solar development, with stronger effects observed in wealthier and non desert regions, the report from France 24 said citing Chinese research.

Species native to mountain habitats that are poorly suited to solar farms were largely unaffected, the report said citing a study, which analysed policy driven solar growth across 2,344 Chinese counties from 2014 to 2023.

The research paired that data with citizen science bird records, and found that stricter pro solar policies were consistently linked with declines in bird biodiversity.

"The main message is not to slow the renewable energy transition, but to make solar development more ecologically informed," the report cited first author Huiming Zhang of Nanjing University of Information Science & Technology.

China aims to achieve carbon neutrality before 2060 and the country's solar footprint reached nearly 4,520 square kilometers by 2024 - equivalent in size to the US state of Rhode Island.

Solar locations are chosen based on the government's "Five-Year Plans" to promote economic development in certain regions rather than land availability or intensity of sunlight.

Several projects in the state require substantial funding, while the government is also seeking assistance for ongoing and proposed initiatives. Among the important issues is the Kosi-Mechi River Interlinking Project, for which Bihar currently bears part of the project cost. The state is also pursuing major expressway and infrastructure projects and is expected to seek timely release of funds for their implementation. However, no specific request for additional financial assistance made during Fri-

Choudhary's Delhi visit was his first reported trip following the Bankipur bye-election. Before meeting the Union ministers, he visited BJP leader Vinod Tawde's residence and congratulated him on his reappointment as the party's National General Secretary and Uttar Pradesh In-charge. Choudhary praised Tawde's organisational leadership and expressed confidence in his future contribution. Delhi Health Minister D Pankaj Kumar Singh was also present during the meeting, where officials discussed the current health situation and measures needed to handle seasonal influenza. Officials reviewed the availability of hospital beds, critical care facilities and other essential supplies required to manage patients during a possible increase in seasonal influenza cases. The review came as health concerns have grown over reports of more H1N1 cases in the capital. Delhi has been experiencing humid and changing weather conditions, with fluctuations in temperature. ED seizes cash, locker keys from MP Avinash Reddy

HYDERABAD,

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) on Friday seized unaccounted cash of ₹24 lakh and two locker keys during searches linked to YSRCP Lok Sabha MP YS Avinash Reddy in a money laundering case connected with the 2019 murder of former Andhra Pradesh minister and MP Y S

Vivekananda Reddy. The searches were conducted at seven premises in Hyderabad and Kadapa under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act. The ED also seized documents and digital devices that it described as incriminating. The agency said the searches covered residential premises linked to key accused in the case. Vivekananda Reddy, a prominent political leader and uncle of former Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister Jagan Mohan Reddy, was found murdered at his residence in Kadapa on March 15, 2019. Following an Andhra Pradesh High Court order in March 2020, the Central Bureau of Investigation was directed to conduct further investigation into the case. The CBI later

Jharkhand HC stays cancellation of JSSC-CGL, CDPO exams

RANCHI

The Jharkhand High Court has stayed the state government's decision to cancel the JSSC-CGL and CDPO examinations, providing temporary relief to candidates whose appointments were affected by the order. The court's intervention comes amid a wider controversy over alleged irregularities in several competitive examinations conducted in the state. The state government had ordered the cancellation of several examinations following an inquiry into alleged irregularities in the recruitment process. Candidates selected through the JSSC-CGL examination challenged the decision before the High Court, arguing that cancelling the entire examination and appointments was unfair to those who had followed the prescribed selection process. A total of 1,932 candidates were selected through the JSSC-CGL examination. Many had already received appointments and were working in different government departments. The candidates argued that if wrongdoing had occurred during the examination, responsibility should be fixed against those involved rather than penalising all successful candidates. The High Court's order has offered temporary relief to the affected employees. The development comes a day after the court also stayed the government's decision to cancel appointments linked to the JPSC 11th-13th Civil Services and Food Safety Officers examinations. The court directed the concerned individuals to continue working until further orders and sought a response from the state government. The controversy has triggered protests by candidates and employees affected by the cancellations. Officers whose JSSC-CGL appointments were cancelled had been staging a sit-in since August 18, demanding withdrawal of the government order. On Thursday, they held a protest outside Project Bhawan and later organised a Tiranga Yatra from Morhabadi to Albert Ekka Chowk. The wider dispute began after the Jharkhand government announced the cancellation of 22 examinations conducted by the TDPL agency. The decision affected people who had already cleared examinations, secured government jobs and begun working. Many protested after their appointments were suddenly put at risk. The High Court has now provided judicial relief while the dispute continues. The next hearing is scheduled for September 15, when the court is expected to consider the state government's response and further arguments on the examination cancellations and appointments.

Udhayanidhi challenges CM vijay to release corruption files

Tamil Nadu Opposition Leader Udhayanidhi Stalin challenged Chief Minister C Joseph Vijay to release alleged DMK-era corruption files, triggering a heated Assembly exchange on Friday

CHENNAI

Tamil Nadu Leader of Opposition Udhayanidhi Stalin on Friday challenged Chief Minister C Joseph Vijay to release alleged corruption files linked to the previous DMK government and take action if there was evidence of wrongdoing. The remarks were made during a heated debate in the state Assembly over Vijay's earlier statement that he would make the files public at an "appropriate time."

Udhayanidhi questioned why the alleged findings had not yet been released and criticised Vijay's approach to the issue. He said the Assembly should not be treated like a film set while responding to the chief minister's remarks. "Don't deliver punch dialogues like in cinema in the assembly," Udhayanidhi said. He also urged Vijay to release the documents immediately if there was credible evidence of corruption, asking why the chief minister was delaying their publication.

Vijay did not directly respond to Udhayanidhi in the House. However, the state's School Education Minister defended the government, saying Vijay remained committed to transparency and would release the alleged corruption files at an appropriate time.

The exchange triggered heated arguments between DMK and TVK legislators, with members raising slogans and briefly disrupting proceedings before the Assembly resumed. The dispute followed Vijay's statement on Wednesday that he possessed files concerning alleged corruption in three government

The Assembly has recently witnessed repeated clashes between the ruling TVK and opposition DMK over corruption allegations, government finances and welfare schemes. During an earlier budget discussion,

The Assembly also passed a resolution seeking fairer tax devolution from the Centre.

Supreme court holds rare Lok Adalat to reduce backlog

NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Friday held a special Lok Adalat bringing judges, lawyers and senior advocates together to settle long-pending disputes. The exercise marked the first time lawyers joined judges on the bench during the process. The initiative began as part of a three-day effort to reduce the court's growing case backlog.

Judges heard matters involving banking, matrimonial disputes, motor accident claims, consumer compensation, labour issues, RERA cases, cheque disputes, property matters, taxation and service-related cases. Litigants appeared either physically or through virtual proceedings. Judges also checked whether parties accepting settlements had agreed freely and without pressure before disposing of cases.

The special hearing was part of the Supreme Court's SAMADHAN Samaroh, with proceedings scheduled to continue on Saturday and Sunday. Nearly 15 benches participated after completing the court's regular business. Chief Justice of India Surya Kant headed one bench with Justices Joymalya Bagchi and V Mohana. Senior lawyers also assisted the bench during the proceedings.

The court also took up several old public interest litigations during the day. Matters related to oxygen supplies during the Covid-19 pandemic, vaccination for vulnerable groups, employment schemes, nurses' service conditions and migrant children were addressed.

Petitions challenging the repealed farm laws and the imposition of President's Rule in Jammu and Kashmir were also dismissed as infructuous.

The special Lok Adalat followed preparations that began about four months ago, when the Supreme Court invited lawyers and litigants to seek settlements. Most matters heard on Friday were settled, disposed of or withdrawn. The court also identified tax cases involving faceless assessments for further hearing. Settlements reached during the three-day exercise will have the force of judicial orders, providing parties a quicker way to resolve their disputes.

Jajpur floods: man's body stuck on rooftop for 18 hours

JAIPUR

Flooding in Odisha's Jajpur district has highlighted the severe humanitarian challenges faced by residents in inundated areas. In Chintasahi under Bari panchayat, families have remained surrounded by floodwaters for nearly six days following the swelling of the Brahmani and Kharsrota rivers. The situation became particularly distressing after 61-year-old Hrushikesh Mallik died on Wednesday afternoon. His family was forced to keep his body on the rooftop of their house for nearly 18 hours because the ground floor was submerged under around four feet of water. Relatives said they repeatedly sought administrative assistance to transport the body for the last rites but received no immediate help. As water levels receded, villagers carried the body through waist-deep water for about one kilometre because the road remained submerged.

Congress seeks review of E20 policy, non-ethanol options

NEW DELHI

The Congress on Friday demanded an immediate review of the Centre's E20 petrol policy and called for non-ethanol fuel options, alleging that consumers were facing higher food and transport costs. Congress communications chief Jairam Ramesh raised the issue in a post on X, arguing that increased ethanol production was affecting food prices while raising concerns about vehicle mileage and compatibility.

Ramesh alleged that sugarcane and foodgrains were being diverted towards ethanol production, contributing to higher prices of food products. Citing figures from a news report, he said 2.5 million tonnes of sugarcane meant for sugar production

"The people are paying the price for both expensive food and expensive travel."
Jairam Ramesh, Congress leader

had been diverted to ethanol. According to the figures cited by Ramesh, sugar prices increased from ₹48 to ₹67 per kg, while jaggery prices rose from ₹50 to ₹65 per kg over three months. He also questioned why petrol prices had not fallen despite lower international crude oil prices and the increased use of ethanol blending.

Ramesh said vehicles not designed for 20% ethanol blending could face concerns related to mileage and compatibility. He also questioned the availability of alternatives for consumers and alleged that the policy had benefited ethanol producers while leaving vehicle owners with additional costs.

"The people are paying the price for both expensive food and expensive travel," Ramesh said, criticising the government's policy. He demanded that consumers be allowed access to non-ethanol petrol and argued that fuel policy should not increase costs for households and vehicle owners. Ramesh also said Congress leader and Leader of the Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi had repeatedly raised concerns over the implementation of the E20 policy. The Congress has sought a policy review and greater choice for consumers amid the continuing debate over ethanol blending, fuel prices and its wider economic impact.

Congress seeks 25-year freeze on Lok Sabha seats

NEW DELHI

Senior Congress leader P Chidambaram said Friday that the party wants the existing Lok Sabha seat allocation to remain unchanged for another 25 years, keeping the total strength at 543 and Tamil Nadu's share at 39 seats.

Chidambaram said resolutions passed by the Tamil Nadu Legislative Assembly and the Congress Working Committee support the same position. He also noted that both the ruling TVK and opposition DMK in Tamil Nadu back the demand.

The statement came amid concerns over the proposed Delimitation Bill, 2026. Tamil Nadu Chief Minister Joseph Vijay had earlier warned that southern states could lose parliamentary representation if constituencies are redistributed mainly according to population.

Speaking at the Southern Zonal Council meeting, Vijay urged the Centre to ensure that states which successfully controlled population growth are not penalised through reduced representation. He said the issue had gained importance as the freeze based on the 1971 Census approaches its end. The Tamil Nadu Assembly has already passed a resolution seeking to permanently retain the Lok Sabha's strength at 543 seats. It also called for 33 per cent reservation for women to be implemented in the 2029 Lok Sabha elections using the existing seat strength.

CANCER VACCINE SHOWS POSITIVE RESULTS

NEW DELHI

A personalised cancer vaccine developed by Moderna with Merck has shown encouraging results in a large Phase-3 trial involving patients with high-risk melanoma, a potentially aggressive form of skin cancer.

The INterpath-001 trial involved 1,137 patients whose melanoma tumours had been completely removed through surgery. Participants received either the personalised mRNA vaccine, intismeran autogene, along with Merck's Keytruda, or Keytruda alone.

According to Moderna and Merck, the combination met the trial's primary goal of improving recurrence-free survival, helping patients remain free from the cancer returning. It also achieved a key secondary goal by reducing the risk of the disease spreading to distant parts of the body. Unlike preventive vaccines, the treatment is designed for people who already have cancer. Keytruda works by helping the immune system recognise and attack cancer cells, while the personalised mRNA treatment is tailored to the individual patient's tumour. The results have generated significant interest in personalised cancer treatment. Moderna's shares rose sharply following the announcement of the late-stage trial data, boosting the company's market value. Indian oncologist Dr Mandeep Singh Malhotra described the development as an important advance, while noting that affordability and access could remain major challenges for patients in India.

CJP leader threatens Jaipur protest over school

JAIPUR

CJP leader Abhijeet Dipke has threatened to stage a protest at a government school in Jaipur if those allegedly responsible for attacking a party team are not arrested within 48 hours.

Dipke alleged that a team led by CJP activist Ashutosh Ranka was attacked by BJP workers while attempting to highlight the condition of a school where children were reportedly studying in a buffalo shed. He demanded arrests and immediate repair work at the school. "If within 48 hours, the goons aren't arrested and repair work doesn't begin, I'll visit Jaipur and will sit at the school until its repair begins," Dipke said.

DMK rejects Government cars for all MLAs

CHENNAI

Tamil Nadu Chief Minister C Joseph Vijay's decision to provide government cars to all MLAs has triggered a political debate, with the opposition DMK announcing that its legislators will not accept the vehicles.

Leader of Opposition Udhayanidhi Stalin said on Friday that all 59 DMK MLAs had decided to reject the cars and had informed Assembly Speaker J C D Prabhakar about their decision. He suggested that the government should provide vehicles only to legislators who genuinely need them, after reviewing their financial status as declared in election affidavits.

Vijay had announced on August 19 that every MLA would receive a government car along with ₹1 lakh as an allowance for fuel expenses and hiring a personal assistant. The Chief Minister said the facilities would help legislators serve their constituencies more effectively.

The announcement has drawn criticism from opposition parties and activists, particularly amid concerns over Tamil Nadu's financial position and the government's earlier emphasis on reducing borrowing. Public Works Minister Aadhav Arjuna defended the scheme, saying a car is a basic requirement for an MLA to travel and meet people.

The CPI said its MLA did not require a government vehicle, while the PMK suggested that cars should be given only to legislators who do not already own one. Congress and AIADMK have not clearly stated their positions.

The dispute has added to the political debate over government spending and benefits for elected representatives, with parties divided over whether the proposed facilities are necessary.

Chess underdogs shine in action-packed second round

ASIAN JUNIORS CHESS CHAMPIONSHIPS 2026 MUMBAI, INDIA

MUMBAI

The second round of the Asian Junior Open and Girls Classical Chess Championships produced several surprises on Friday, with lower-rated players defeating strong opponents.

The biggest upset came when 2113-rated Guru Prakash defeated recently crowned Asian Junior Rapid champion FM Vivaan Vishal Shah, rated 2339, in the Open section.

Manav Kumar also caused a major surprise by beating higher-rated FM Arun Kataria. Hardik Shah held Turkmenistan's FM Amanmuhamet Hommadov to a draw, while Mehul Sondhi shared the point with FM Madhvendra Pratap Sharma. The results added excitement as players continued their fight for leading positions. Top seeds, however, continued to show their strength. IM Mayank Chakraborty defeated Vivaan Sardana to maintain his perfect record and move to two points from two games. IM Artem Pingin, IM Apoorv Kamble and IM Aaditya Dhingra also won their matches and stayed among the players with perfect scores. The Girls section also witnessed unexpected results. Sunetra Dey held higher-rated FM Prishita Gupta to a draw, while Tripurambika V defeated WCM Anushka Babu Kutwal. Pranavasri S produced another notable result by defeating Uzbekistan's WFM Begmuratova Sarvinoz.

Albon and Sainz back Williams despite difficult season

ZANDVOORT

Alex Albon and Carlos Sainz have both committed to Williams for 2027, despite the team's difficult Formula One season.

Their decisions reflect continued faith in Team Principal James Vowles and his plans to move the Grove-based team higher up the grid. Williams enjoyed a strong 2025 campaign, finishing fifth in the Constructors' Championship, but its 2026 car started the season late, overweight and lacking competitiveness. Albon admitted the year has been frustrating, but said the team is now examining its problems more deeply and responding with greater urgency.

Albon believes the current struggles are a temporary setback after years of steady progress. He said the team's weaknesses were sometimes hidden by stronger downforce in previous seasons, while this year's problems became more obvious. He chose to stay because he believes Williams can return to its expected potential.

Sainz, meanwhile, said leaving when the team is facing its biggest challenge would not fit his character. Although other teams had been linked with him, he wanted to understand how Williams' long-term plans had changed before making his decision. He said several important new signings and changes in working methods have strengthened his confidence.

Both drivers believe the team must turn its lessons from 2026 into improvements for next year. Sainz said the current setback may have delayed Williams' progress, but its medium and long-term plans

Alonso takes his time deciding Aston Martin future

Fernando Alonso has not decided whether he will continue racing for Aston Martin next season. The 45-year-old driver said his future is not his main focus, as he remains concentrated on the current Formula 1 weekend. Aston Martin has indicated that the decision belongs to Alonso and expects clarity in the coming weeks. Alonso said he remains committed to the team, whether as a driver or in another role. However, he still wants to race and hopes to pursue major goals, including another Formula 1 title. He added that age is not a concern, with motivation and competitiveness being more important to him.

still give him hope. He stressed that the team must begin showing positive momentum in 2027.

Their continued commitment now places greater pressure on Williams to deliver on its promises.

England build strong lead against struggling Pakistan

LEEDS

England secured a commanding 238-run first-innings lead over Pakistan after being dismissed for 409 early on the third day of the opening Test at Headingley on Friday. England resumed at 366 for eight and added another 43 runs before losing its final wickets, putting Pakistan under significant pressure.

Jofra Archer led England's late resistance, scoring 23 runs from the lower order. He struck two fours and a six but eventually ran out of partners as Pakistan completed the innings. England's total gave the home side a strong advantage heading into Pakistan's second innings.

Pakistan bowler Khurram Shahzad took the final two English wickets. He dismissed wicketkeeper Jamie Smith, who scored 25, after Smith mistimed a pull towards midwicket. Shahzad then bowled Josh Tongue for eight to end England's innings. Despite taking three wickets, Shahzad had an expensive outing, conceding 133 runs. Pakistan now faces the difficult task of overcoming a large deficit and preventing England from taking control of the Test.

England's strong batting effort has placed Pakistan under immediate pressure at Headingley. The visitors must now produce a much improved performance with the bat to reduce the deficit and give themselves a chance of staying competitive in the match. England, meanwhile, will look to maintain its advantage and push for a winning position.

The first Test remains finely poised in terms of the overall result, but England's substantial lead has given the hosts a clear upper hand. Pakistan's response in the second innings will determine whether the visitors can recover from their difficult position.

FIA praises Atiqa Mir as future motorsport star

NEW DELHI

The Federation Internationale de l'Automobile (FIA) has praised 11-year-old Indian racer Atiqa Mir, saying young talents like her are helping shape the future of motorsport.

Atiqa, the first Indian supported by the F1 Academy, has impressed in European karting events while competing against older drivers in the 12-14 age category.

The FIA highlighted her recent performances and said her progress showed the bright future of motorsport. With support from the Western India Automobile Association, Atiqa has represented India at the MENA Karting Championship Nations Cup and is now competing in international FIA Karting events.

Atiqa made history in May by completing a clean sweep in Round 2 of the Champions of the Future Academy in Greece. Earlier this month, she became the youngest Indian to achieve two top-10 finishes in a FIA European Championship round in Sweden, further strengthening her reputation on the international circuit. Her biggest recent achievement came in Italy during Round 3 of the Champions of the Future Academy. Atiqa secured pole position and set an event record, finishing ahead of several experienced competitors. She also outqualified Mercedes junior driver Niccolo Perico, attracting widespread attention to her performance.

Atiqa has set her sights on reaching Formula One, where no woman has competed since 1992. The FIA said her achievements demonstrate how greater access to motorsport can help young drivers develop their abilities. The governing body also emphasized its commitment to creating stronger pathways for young talent. For Indian motorsport, Atiqa's rapid rise offers an encouraging glimpse of what the next generation could achieve.

Gill sharpens game against spin before Sri Lanka Test

COLOMBO

India captain Shubman Gill spent extra time practicing against left-arm spin during Friday's training session before the second Test against Sri Lanka.

Gill struggled against Prabath Jayasuriya in the opening Test at Galle, scoring only 16 and 8 as India won by 165 runs.

Gill has now been dismissed 11 times by left-arm spinners in 42 Tests, highlighting an area he wants to improve. At the Sinhalese Sports Club nets, the right-hander faced left-arm spinners Manav Suthar, Ravindra Jadeja and local bowlers for an extended period. His focused practice came as India prepared for another Test in spin-friendly conditions.

India's spin bowling coach Sairaj Bahutule said Gill was mainly adapting to the local pitch rather than making major changes to his technique. He explained that the captain was studying the surface, judging its pace and choosing suitable shots and defensive options. Bahutule added that Gill generally relies on his natural style while adjusting to each innings.

Meanwhile, KL Rahul and Kuldeep Yadav did not take part fully in training. Rahul missed the session, while Kuldeep attended without batting or bowling. Bahutule said both players were simply resting after the long first Test and travel.

Off-spinner Saransh Jain bowled briefly to Gill and Rishabh Pant, but his presence does not mean Kuldeep will be dropped. India will continue preparing for the second Test, which starts on August 23.

Tillakaratne returns as Sri Lanka batting coach

COLOMBO

Former Sri Lanka captain and 1996 World Cup winner Hashan Tillakaratne has been appointed batting coach of the country's senior men's national program, Sri Lanka Cricket announced on Friday.

The 59-year-old former left-handed batter officially began his new role on August 20. His contract will continue until December 31, 2027, with duties based at Sri Lanka Cricket's National High Performance Center in Colombo.

Tillakaratne played international cricket from 1989 to 2003, representing Sri Lanka in 83 Tests and 200 ODIs. He scored more than 8,200 runs across the two formats and captained the Test side in 11 matches.

He previously worked as Sri Lanka's batting coach and led the national women's team. He also coached Bangladesh's women's side and has experience with senior and Under-19 teams.

One of his finest Test performances came against India in 2001, when he scored an unbeaten 136 in Colombo.

Tillakaratne also served as a national selector and recently completed a coaching stint in the United States, bringing wide experience to his new assignment.

Hong Kong Activists Convicted Over Slogan

Hong Kong’s court convicted two democracy activists over peaceful political advocacy, saying their slogan challenged Communist Party rule under the city’s national security law

HONG KONG

Hong Kong’s High Court on Friday convicted two prominent pro-democracy activists of inciting subversion, ruling that their repeated use of the political slogan “end one-party dictatorship” violated the city’s China-imposed National Security Law.

Lee Cheuk-yan, 69, and Chow Hang-tung, 41, were former leaders of the now-disbanded Hong Kong Alliance in Support of Patriotic Democratic Movements of China, a group that organised annual vigils commemorating the 1989 Tiananmen Square crackdown.

The three national security judges said the defendants’ peaceful use of the phrase was central to the offence. They ruled that Lee and Chow intended to undermine confidence in China’s Communist Party by creating hostility and division.

The activists, who have been detained since 2021, pleaded not guilty. They could face up to 10 years in prison under the National Security Law.

The judges rejected arguments from the defence that the pair genuinely believed their political activities were protected by Hong Kong’s previous freedoms of expression. The court said their continued support for the Alliance’s political resistance amounted to a breach of the law, even without violence or threats.

The ruling underscores the sweeping impact of the security legislation introduced in 2020 following months of sometimes violent pro-democracy protests in Hong Kong in 2019.

Khan Returned To Prison, PTI Alleges Court Breach

LAHORE

Pakistan’s Prime Minister Imran Khan was briefly taken to hospital early Friday, declared medically fit and returned to prison within hours, triggering accusations from his Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf party that authorities had violated a Supreme Court directive.

Khan was examined at the state-run Pakistan Institute of Medical Sciences in Islamabad rather than the private Shifa International Hospital specified by the court, according to Information Minister Attaullah Tarar. He said the change was necessary because of a security situation allegedly created by PTI workers along the planned route.

PTI rejected that explanation and said Khan was also denied access to his personal physician, which the party said was required under the court’s order. It announced plans to file a contempt petition, arguing that the directive required Khan to remain under medical supervision until at least mid-September.

Khan’s sister, Uzma Khan, who attended his examination, said the former premier had complained of being repeatedly tortured in prison. She said he appeared stable and medically fit but had a patch over one eye.

There was no immediate response from Pakistan’s interior or law ministries, or from jail authorities, requests for comment on the torture allegations.

PTI supporters have reacted angrily to Khan’s return to prison. The party warned that the episode could fuel public outrage and increase tensions, potentially leading to renewed street protests.

Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Chief Minister Sohail Afridi, a PTI leader, described the developments as contempt of the judges and the Supreme Court. Khan has remained imprisoned since August 2023.

Nigerian Parents Demand Return of Abducted Children

Parents of children abducted from northeastern Nigeria’s Borno state protested, demanding government action to secure the release of their children, nearly 100 days after they were taken from their classrooms.

The children were seized on May 15 from a school in Mussa, a community located on the fringes of the Sambisa Forest, a longstanding stronghold of Islamist militants.

The protest in Uba town highlighted growing frustration among families as kidnappings continue despite years of military operations against Boko Haram and its Islamic State West Africa Province offshoot, ISWAP.

Although the insurgency has weakened from its peak, both groups continue to carry out attacks against civilians, schools and security forces in Borno and neighbouring states.

Families said they remain unaware of where the children are being held or what conditions they are facing. Chinda Buba, whose child was abducted, said parents had received no clear information about their children’s safety.

Peace Nicolas, whose two young children are among the missing, said families were living with constant anxiety and struggling to cope.

The abduction was followed by another attack in nearby Lassa on June 29, when 36 students and a teacher were also taken captive. Around 45 children from Mussa are still believed to be unaccounted for, according to a representative of the community’s traditional ruler.

A police spokesperson said the military was “on top of the situation” but declined to provide further details. A military spokesperson did not respond to requests for comment. The parents are now urging authorities to intensify efforts to locate and rescue the children.

Prince Harry to learn how much failed Daily Mail lawsuit will cost

LONDON

Days after it was revealed he will return to Britain, Prince Harry will learn on Friday how many millions of pounds he might have to pay towards the legal costs of the Daily Mail publisher after losing a high-profile privacy lawsuit. Last month, judge Matthew Nicklin at London’s High Court comprehensively rejected the case brought by King Charles’ younger son alongside singer Elton John and five other British figures, rejecting allegations that the Mail titles had engaged in widespread unlawful activities, such as phone hacking.

Trump Seeks Kim Meeting Amid Pyongyang Caution

WASHINGTON

U.S. President Donald Trump says he wants to meet North Korean leader Kim Jong Un later this year, but Pyongyang has signalled that any renewed engagement will come with strict conditions.

Trump has moved to revive diplomacy with North Korea after abruptly scaling back joint U.S.-South Korean military exercises, describing them as hostile toward Pyongyang. He later said he expected to meet Kim, potentially during a visit to the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation summit in Shenzhen.

A person briefed on discussions between U.S. and South Korean officials said Trump is eager to restart talks and secure a diplomatic achievement on the international stage. South Korea has privately shown some support for the approach, although officials remain concerned about reducing military exercises with Washington.

The United States says it remains open to dialogue without preconditions. A State Department spokesperson said Trump and Kim would meet again at the appropriate time.

North Korea, however, has offered a cautious response. While praising the leaders’ “excellent personal relationship”, Pyongyang appears unwilling to let personal ties determine broader diplomatic or security decisions.

Analyst Lim Eul-chul of Kyungnam University’s Institute for Far Eastern Studies said North Korea considers national security interests and military capabilities separate from the personal relationship between Trump and Kim.

Trump’s outreach also comes as North Korea supports Russia’s war in Ukraine with troops, equipment and missiles, while the U.S. remains engaged in the nearly six-month war involving Iran.

The contrasting positions suggest that a Trump-Kim meeting remains possible, but meaningful negotiations could prove difficult.

China, Indonesia agree to boost military ties

JAKARTA

China and Indonesia agreed on Friday to boost military ties and work closely on minerals, energy and technology, as Jakarta seeks to balance ties with both Beijing and Washington amid economic and geopolitical tensions, including in the South China Sea. Both countries should “seize the moment,” China’s Foreign Minister Wang Yi said in remarks made at the start of his visit to Jakarta. He was travelling with Defence Minister Dong Jun to meet their Indonesian counterparts.

“The current international situation is intertwined and complex. Unilateralism and hegemonic acts bring serious impact on global cooperation and stability,” he said. “China actively aims to build China-Indonesia cooperation at a high level,” Wang added. The two countries pledged to cooperate across multiple areas from artificial intelligence, defence and rail transport to green energy, satellites and fisheries.

Kajal wins second straight U20 World Wrestling gold

SLOVAKIA

India's Kajal Dhochak won her second straight U20 World Wrestling Championship gold medal, defeating China's Jingru Sun 7-0 in the 76kg final in Slovakia.

The 18-year-old produced a dominant performance throughout the tournament and became only the second Indian wrestler to win two U20 world titles.

Kajal, who moved up from 72kg this year, did not concede a single point during her campaign. She opened with a victory over Japan's Miyu Takayama, then defeated Turkiye's Elmira Yasin 14-0 and USA's Piper Fowler 6-0. Her latest triumph adds to titles won at the 2024 U17 Worlds and 2025 U20 Worlds.

In the final, Kajal quickly another takedown. The 7-0 score remained unchanged as Kajal completed a fifth consecutive gold-winning performance in 2026.

India also earned two silver medals on the same day. Tanu Sharma lost 3-5 to Japan's Chisato Yoshida in the 72kg final, while Savita finished runner-up in the 62kg category after losing 2-12 to Japan's Sakura Onishi. More Indian wrestlers will compete in the remaining women's and men's freestyle events, with the team hoping to add more medals.

Sri Lanka add two fresh faces for India Test

NEW DELHI

Sri Lanka have added all-rounder Sahan Arachchige and batter Kamil Mishara to their 14-member squad for the second and final Test against India in Colombo from August 23.

The changes come after injuries and poor form affected the team following India's convincing 165-run victory in the opening match at Galle.

Dinesh Chandimal has been ruled out after suffering an injury in Galle, while concussion replacement Pasindu Sooriyabandara has also been left out after making a golden duck. Nishan Madushka, Ramesh Mendis and Dilshan Madushka were also not selected. Arachchige earned his chance after impressing for Sri Lanka A against India A, scoring 209 runs across two unofficial Tests.

Arachchige made 127 in the second game after scoring 72 in the opener, showing strong form with the bat. Mishara has also been in excellent touch, scoring 411 runs in nine innings during the Lanka Premier League. He recently struck a quick 145 from 72 balls in the Major Clubs T20 competition, further strengthening his case for selection.

Sri Lanka will hope the new additions can provide greater stability against a confident Indian side. India dominated the first Test with bat and ball, with Devdutt Padikkal scoring 167 and Manav Suthar claiming 10 wickets. Sri Lanka now face a difficult task in Colombo, where they must improve quickly to level the two-match series and avoid another defeat.

Treesa Gayatri upset Chinese pair to secure medal

NEW DELHI

India's Treesa Jolly and Gayatri Gopichand created a major upset at the BWF World Championships by defeating fourth-ranked Chinese pair Ji Yifan and Zhang Shuxian.

The Indian duo fought back from losing the opening game to win 16-21, 21-15, 21-13 and reach the semifinals, guaranteeing India a medal in women's doubles. The victory makes Treesa and Gayatri only the second Indian women's doubles pair to win a World Championships medal. Jwala Gutta and Ashwini Ponnappa previously achieved the feat with bronze in 2011. The result also adds another important moment to India's growing badminton success on the world stage.

The Indians struggled early, falling behind 2-6 and eventually losing the first game. Their response was impressive, as they matched the Chinese pair in long rallies and improved their attacking play. Cross-court shots and strong defence helped Treesa and Gayatri take control of the second game before win-

The pair stayed composed despite a brief Chinese fightback and moved close to victory at 18-9. Several errors from their opponents then handed India the crucial points. Later, Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty will seek another medal against Chinese third seeds Liang Weikeng and Wang Chang in the men's doubles quarterfinals.

Bangladesh await fitness updates before Mackay Test

MACKAY

Bangladesh are waiting for fitness clearance on opening batter Tanzid Hasan Tamim and veteran wicketkeeper Mushfiquur Rahim before the second Test against Australia. Captain Najmul Hossain Shanto remains hopeful that both players will be available, but said the final decision will come after further medical checks before the match.

Tanzid scored a fine century in the first Test in Darwin but missed Thursday's batting practice because of neck stiffness. He underwent a scan and returned to bat on Friday, giving Bangladesh a positive sign. Mushfiquur suffered a finger injury during training, although Shanto said he was recovering well. The captain added that the team has several options if either player cannot take the field.

Left-arm seamer Shoriful Islam is also fit and ready after recovering from his issue. Bangladesh must decide whether to include him at the expense of spinner Taijul Islam. Shanto said wind at Mackay could provide extra swing for fast bowlers. He added that the squad has five seamers and two experienced spinners, giving the team plenty of flexibility. The final combination will depend on the pitch conditions.

Bangladesh entered the match with confidence after securing their first Test victory in Australia in Darwin. Hasan Mahmud and Mehidy Hasan Miraz impressed with the ball, while Tanzid made a valuable century. However, Shanto said that result is now behind them. He stressed that Bangladesh must remain focused and produce another strong performance over five days to challenge Australia again.

Hussey weighs England Test batting coach role offer

Former Australia batter Michael Hussey is considering becoming England's Test batting coach after an informal approach from new head coach Stephen Fleming. Hussey and Fleming worked together for years at Chennai Super Kings, building a strong professional relationship. Hussey said he would not immediately reject the opportunity but admitted coaching England against Australia in an Ashes series would feel unusual. Family commitments and time away from home remain important factors in his decision. Hussey, who previously worked with England's 2022 T20 World Cup team, also praised Fleming's cricket knowledge and leadership style, backing him to guide England successfully.

Spain plans long contract extension for De La Fuente

NEW DELHI

Spain are preparing to extend coach Luis de la Fuente's contract until around 2030 after he guided La Roja to their second FIFA World Cup title.

Spain defeated Lionel Messi's Argentina 1-0 in the final at New York, completing a remarkable run under the 65-year-old manager. The Royal Spanish Football Federation is pleased with De la Fuente's leadership and wants to secure his services beyond his current agreement, which runs until 2028. The proposed extension would take him through the next World Cup, which Spain will co-host with Portugal and Morocco. Federation president Rafael Louzan confirmed that discussions are already underway.

Louzan praised De la Fuente's calm approach, hard work, leadership, saying the coach deserves to remain with the national team. Since taking charge, De la Fuente has helped Spain win the 2024 European Championship and the 2026 World Cup.

Liam Scott determined to break back into Australia

ADELAIDE

Australian all-rounder Liam Scott is determined to earn another chance with the national team after making his international debut during the white-ball tour of Bangladesh earlier this year.

The 24-year-old believes he can represent Australia in all three formats and is working to improve while waiting for another opportunity. Scott made his ODI debut in Dhaka and took two wickets, giving his growing career a major boost.

His domestic form earned him the national call-up. He was named Sheffield Shield Player of the Year after scoring 496 runs and taking 23 wickets in the 2025-26 season. Scott also made 310 runs for Adelaide Strikers in the Big Bash League.

After Bangladesh, he joined Gloucestershire for a short county stint, gaining useful experience in different conditions and continuing to develop as a batter and medium-pace bowler.

Scott has made technical changes to become more effective against spin and improve his power-hitting. He said bowling adjustments have also helped him gain extra pace. Experience in different conditions, he added, has taught him to adapt quickly when opportunities arrive. Rather than worrying about selection, Scott wants to focus on consistent improvement and remain ready for whatever challenge comes next. Australia's busy year could create openings as senior players age, but Scott knows strong performances will matter. He aims to help South Australia win again.

Fils storms into Cincinnati Semifinal with dominant win

CINCINNATI

French tennis player Arthur Fils reached his third ATP Masters 1000 semifinal of the 2026 season after defeating Argentina's Thiago Agustín Tirante 6-3, 6-2 at the Cincinnati Open.

The 22-year-old completed the match in 64 minutes, controlling the contest with powerful forehands and strong serving. He did not face a single break point and broke Tirante's serve three times.

Fils has enjoyed a strong season after returning from an eight-month injury absence in February. He has recorded 30 tour-level wins from 40 matches, including a title in Barcelona and semifinal appearances in Miami and Madrid.

His latest victory also made him the first Frenchman since Guy Forget in 1991 to reach three Masters 1000 semifinals in one season.

Fils will next meet Italy's Flavio Cobolli, who defeated American Tommy Paul 2-6, 6-3, 6-4. Cobolli reached his first Masters 1000 semifinal and is set to achieve a career-best ranking. Both players will now fight for a place in their first Masters 1000 final.

Rybakina injury ends Cincinnati run as Swiatek advances

CINCINNATI

Elena Rybakina's Cincinnati Open campaign ended painfully after she retired from her quarterfinal against Iga Swiatek because of a left ankle injury.

Swiatek was leading 4-1 when Rybakina struggled to move after attempting a volley. She soon found it difficult to push off while serving. After a medical check, the Kazakh player decided to stop the match.

Rybakina said walking was painful and that she would undergo an MRI to understand the injury. She explained that the ankle had bothered her for some time but had been under control until the latest incident.

The defeat also ended Rybakina's chance to challenge Aryna Sabalenka for the world No. 1 ranking. Sabalenka had already lost in the fourth round, but Rybakina needed to reach the Cincinnati final to take the top spot.

Sabalenka will now remain No. 1 heading into the US Open.

Swiatek advanced to the semifinals, where she will face Jessica Pegula. The Polish star is also aiming to defend her Cincinnati title, hoping to join an elite list of successful champions.

Antonelli accepts grid penalty for home Monza race

NEW DELHI

Formula 1 championship leader Kimi Antonelli has confirmed that he will take a grid penalty at his home Italian Grand Prix in Monza on September 6.

The Mercedes driver plans to use an additional power unit after reaching the limit of his allocated components. His teammate George Russell is also nearing the same limit.

Antonelli is already using his fourth and final power unit allocation after taking it at Spa-Francorchamps, the second-last race before the summer break. Under Formula 1 rules, drivers receive a limited number of power unit components each season. Using more than the permitted number results in grid penalties, making Antonelli's decision an important part of his championship strategy.

The Italian driver said Monza is one of the best places to accept the penalty because overtaking is relatively easier there. Although the race is his home event, Antonelli is putting his title challenge ahead of personal considerations. He believes starting lower on the grid at Monza could still allow him to recover positions and score valuable points.

The Formula 1 season returns with the Dutch Grand Prix at Zandvoort after the summer break. The historic circuit first hosted the championship in 1952 and returned to the calendar in 2021 after a long absence. With Antonelli leading the title race, his planned Monza penalty adds another strategic challenge to an already intense season.
