BRINGING PROSPERITY TO HIRIYUR: CHIEF MINISTER

D.K. Shivakumar launched Praja Seva in Hiriyur, pledging Kanakapura-style growth and highlighting ₹2,000 crore in development funds.

CHITRADURGA

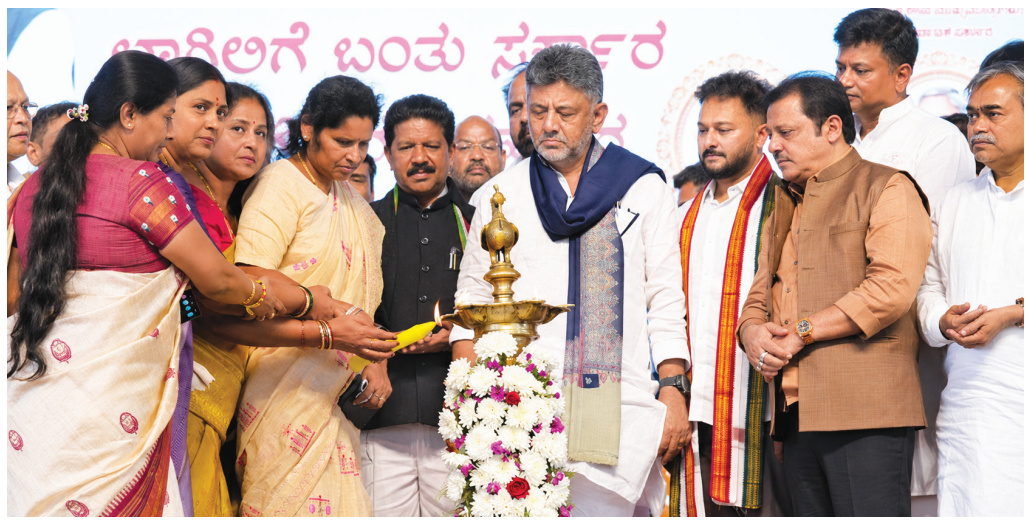

Karnataka Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar launched the Praja Seva public outreach campaign at Nehru Maidan in Hiriyur, declaring that his government had arrived with substantial development funds rather than empty hands and pledging to transform the constituency much like Kanakapura.

Addressing a large gathering ahead of the upcoming assembly by-election, Shivakumar paid emotional tribute to his late friend and former legislator D. Sudhakar, urging residents to honor Sudhakar's memory by backing his unfinished vision for the region. He also praised former MLA Poornima Srinivas, calling her his sister and noting that after observing both the Janata Dal (Secular) and the Bharatiya Janata Party, she realized meaningful progress comes only through the Congress and joined hands to repay the voters' trust.

Framing public office as selfless duty rather than charity, Shivakumar compared genuine service to a tree that never eats its own fruit and a river that never drinks its own water. Positioning himself not as a conventional Chief Minister but as a servant of the people, he said he and his entire cabinet stand behind Hiriyur as collective candidates deserving every citizen's vote.

Highlighting welfare and infrastructure spending, Shivakumar stated that the government has already allocated over ₹2,000 crore for Hiriyur, sanctioned 3,000 houses, backed 17,434 residential site allotments, and ensured water flow through the Upper Bhadra project to ease drought distress. Alongside the five state guarantee schemes, he pointed to grants for community halls, ₹10 crore for temples and religious centers, and ₹20 crore under the Chief Minister's Infrastructure Development Scheme. Dismissing opposition criticism that these grants are an election gimmick, he challenged rival parties to match his record and urged voters to reward his government's work in the bypoll.

For farmers, families, and local communities across Hiriyur awaiting irrigation relief, housing, and faster grievance redressal, the high-stakes pre-bypoll outreach brings direct administrative focus though voters will watch closely to see how swiftly announced grants translate into finished projects on the ground.

HIRIYUR OUTREACH REVIEW

CM urges ASHA workers to end protest

BENGALURU: Chief Minister DK Shivakumar appealed to protesting ASHA workers in Karnataka to call off their agitation, assuring them that the government is committed to resolving their demands. In a post on X, he expressed distress over them protesting day and night away from their families and addressed them like his own sisters. Recalling Congress initiatives that created Anganwadis, health centres, and ASHA roles, he said the government values their hard work and sacrifices. Shivakumar promised Cabinet consultations to find a lasting, fair solution soon, urging workers to trust the administration and return home while talks progress calmly.

PM terms Vaishali event 'Festival of Development'

VAISHALI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi dedicated the six-lane Nitish Setu cable-stayed bridge over the River Ganga and launched development projects worth around rupees 34,470 crore in Bihar's Vaishali district, attacking the Congress over its old "Garibi Hatao" slogan while crediting his government for lifting fifty crore people out of poverty in twelve years.

Addressing a massive post-Chhath crowd alongside Bihar Chief Minister Samrat Choudhary, former Chief Minister Nitish Kumar, and Union Minister Chirag Paswan, Modi hailed the turnout as a "festival of development". He said free food grains for 80 crore people, permanent homes, and free medical care have transformed daily life, contrasting current investor confidence and strict policing in Bihar against pre-alliance scams and crime.

Built at roughly rupees 4,280 crore, the 19.7-kilometre Nitish Setu comprising a 9.7-kilometre main bridge and 10 kilometres of approach roads, links Kachchi Dargah on National Highway 22 in Patna with Bidupur on National Highway 322 in Vaishali. Calling its naming after Nitish Kumar a tribute to his public service, Modi noted the bridge will ease congestion on Mahatma Gandhi Setu and JP Setu while giving Raghopur Diara residents faster access to Patna hospitals, schools, and farm markets.

The Prime Minister also flagged off 100 electric buses, marked housewarmings for over 26,900 urban housing beneficiaries, inaugurated projects worth over rupees 15,600 crore including the Aurangabad-Chordaha six-lane highway and the 660-megawatt second unit of the Buxar Thermal Power Project and laid foundation stones for works worth rupees 14,450 crore. Paswan thanked leaders for realizing a decades-long dream envisioned by his late father, Ram Vilas Paswan.

For families, farmers, and commuters across north and south Bihar, smoother river crossings, cleaner buses, and expanded power and housing networks promise faster trade and better public services.

Nitish Setu, clean transit & poverty pitch

Flagship Ganga Bridge

Built at ₹4,280 crore across 19.7 km (a 9.7-km main bridge plus 10 km of approach roads), Nitish Setu links Kachchi Dargah on NH-22 in Patna with Bidupur on NH-322 in Vaishali, easing farm produce transport, healthcare access, & daily commutes.

E-Buses & Housing

Hailing the gathering as a "festival of development" after Chhath, Modi flagged off 100 PM-eBuses for cleaner urban mobility and handed over keys to over 26,900 Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana (Urban) beneficiaries.

Political & Governance Contrast

Crediting free food grains for 80 crore people and free healthcare for poverty reduction, Modi praised Nitish Kumar and Chief Minister Samrat Choudhary for steering Bihar from scams and crime toward investor confidence, while Union Minister Chirag Paswan hailed the double-engine fulfillment of Ram Vilas Paswan's dream.

Modi urges youth to break limiting mindsets

Prime Minister Narendra Modi urged Indians to drop self-imposed limits and embrace bold goals while addressing IIT Kharagpur's Platinum Jubilee celebrations. Sharing his personal habit of challenging tough obstacles head-on, Modi highlighted India's rapid semiconductor growth and chip exports despite past doubts. He also cited World Bank data showing nearly 50 crore people escaped poverty over twelve years through focused welfare actions like building toilets for dignity. Praising IIT Kharagpur graduates for powering space, atomic energy, and global tech sectors, Modi said India's journey from self-rule to self-reliance drives its vision of becoming a developed nation.

Delhi court orders trial in NEET-UG leak

NEW DELHI

A Delhi fast-track court has formally framed charges against all 14 accused in the NEET-UG 2026 question paper leak case. The trial will now move forward after every suspect pleaded not guilty before Special Judge Ajay Gupta at Rouse Avenue Courts.

The accused face serious charges, including cheating, criminal conspiracy, and breaking anti-corruption and unfair exam laws. This leak forced the National Testing Agency to cancel the May 3 medical entrance test for nearly 22 lakh students and hold a re-exam on June 21.

The Central Bureau of Investigation named three subject experts, coaching staff, and middlemen in its chargesheets, supported by 360 witnesses. For millions of affected students, this trial brings hope for justice.

IRGC threatens US from missile city

IRGC chief Ahmad Vahidi warned the US of deeper humiliation from an underground missile base, as Iran claimed downing an American Reaper drone.

TEHRAN

Iran's Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps Commander-in-Chief Ahmad Vahidi warned the United States and its allies of deeper humiliation during an inspection of an underground weapons facility dubbed a missile city, declaring that current military pressure represents only the beginning of Tehran's response.

Speaking inside the fortified subterranean base, Vahidi stated that Iran's adversaries will face greater disgrace than ever before, insisting that truth will triumph over falsehood. His warning comes amid deepening regional conflict sparked by the February 28 joint United States-Israeli military offensive against Iran that killed Supreme Leader Ali Khamenei and senior commanders, prompting Iranian retaliatory strikes on Gulf bases, shipping restrictions across the Strait of Hormuz, and the collapse of a fragile ceasefire.

Escalating tensions further, the Guard's Aerospace Force claimed it shot down a United States MQ-9 Reaper surveillance and strike drone over the Strait of Hormuz using a newly fielded air defense system, describing it as the 58th Reaper intercepted by Iranian forces.

Days earlier, Guard spokesperson Brigadier General Hossein Mohebbi rejected any prolonged stalemate of neither war nor peace, warning that Washington must either accept Tehran's terms or face resolution on the battlefield, while noting Iran has built at least three domestic air defense systems since the 12-day Israeli bombing campaign in June 2025. Tehran also claimed a six-drone strike on a United States radar site at Bahrain's Al-Riffa base on November 15, though Bahraini forces reported intercepting incoming aerial attacks.

In Washington, United States President Donald Trump told reporters that Iran wants a deal to end the war but has failed to offer acceptable terms, reiterating that Tehran will never obtain a nuclear weapon and warning he would authorize renewed strikes if required.

Eight records, one QR code: Land reform unveiled

BENGALURU: Farmers in Karnataka will soon no longer need to run from office to office for property paperwork.

Revenue Minister and Deputy Chief Minister G. Parameshwara announced the rollout of Form 16-A, a single digital sheet with a QR code that brings together eight vital revenue documents.

The new record combines the Pahani, digital Aakarband register, geo-referenced land maps, old handwritten copies, Encumbrance Certificates, survey settlement data, mutation history, and the owner's photo.

By scanning the code, farmers and banks can quickly verify land ownership, area, and loan history in one place.

Calling it a first in the country, Parameshwara noted that central officials have already visited Bengaluru to study the model.

Out of over 2.1 crore land records, 9.59 lakh are ready, with a three-month goal to complete one crore. Linked securely with Aadhaar and digital maps, Form 16-A will speed up crop loans and subsidies, provided rural internet stays reliable.

SIANG PROJECT OUTREACH

Culture intact, talks open: Amit Shah on Siang project

ITANAGAR

Union Home Minister Amit Shah assured residents of Arunachal Pradesh's Siang Valley, that their apprehensions over the proposed 11,200-megawatt Siang Upper Multipurpose Project will be resolved through constructive dialogue without compromising local culture, traditions, or religious beliefs.

Speaking at the Police Training Centre in Banderdewa near Itanagar on the final day of his three-day visit to the state, Shah acknowledged that he had followed local sentiments and media reports closely and recognized the gravity of issues raised by residents. Addressing the crowd alongside Chief Minister Pema Khandu during the President's Police Colour ceremony, he promised that the government would take affected communities into confidence and deliver one of India's most attractive rehabilitation and resettlement packages.

Shah urged villagers and community organizations opposing the mega dam to initiate talks with the state administration, noting that the state government would facilitate direct discussions with the Union Home Ministry.

Calling the project vital for Arunachal Pradesh's revenue, infrastructure, youth employment, and India's energy and water security, he emphasized balancing strategic priorities with local aspirations.

Siang project snapshot

Project & capacity: 11,200-MW Siang Upper Multipurpose Project (SUMP) on the Siang river

Government assurance: Positive dialogue, top-tier resettlement package, zero cultural compromise

Key concerns raised: Displacement, seismic fragility, ecological impact, pre-feasibility transparency

The proposed dam on the Siang river carries heightened strategic significance for New Delhi given China's planned upstream hydropower construction on the Yarlung Tsangpo in Tibet before the river enters Arunachal Pradesh as the Siang and flows into Assam as the Brahmaputra.

Yet the project has faced sustained protests across Siang and Upper Siang districts, particularly from indigenous Adi community bodies worried about submergence of ancestral villages, fragile mountain ecology, seismic risks, and inadequate consultation during pre-feasibility surveys.

The killing occurred five to six days ago, and the suspect locked the door before escaping. Neighbors grew suspicious on Friday due to a strong foul odor from the house and alerted authorities. Court orders security for controversial Gandhi play

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The High Court directed Karnataka's Home Department to provide adequate security at venues staging director Addanda Cariappa's play 'Gandhi Hatye Satya.' Justice C.M. Poonacha issued the order after Cariappa sought protection for his life, property, and liberty following an October 31 ink attack during a Bengaluru show that forced cancellations across the state. Protestors had alleged the play spread false claims about Mahatma Gandhi and Partition. The bench told Cariappa to inform local police and district officials in advance of planned shows so order is maintained.

BJP warns of disrupting Belagavi house session

Vijayendra and Ashoka warned of Belagavi session disruptions over farmer drought aid while announcing statewide price-hike protests.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

BJP state president B.Y. Vijayendra and Leader of the Opposition R. Ashoka at the press conference in Malleshwaram.

Bharatiya Janata Party state president B.Y. Vijayendra warned that the opposition will not allow the upcoming Belagavi legislative session to run smoothly unless the Karnataka government releases full drought compensation to distressed farmers immediately.

Speaking at a press conference at Jagannatha Bhavana in Malleshwaram, Vijayendra expressed alarm over growing desperation among growers facing severe drought and urged ministers to disburse relief without conditions to five million farmers before the legislature convenes. He also pressed the administration to clear up confusion over payout figures, noting that an initial ₹2,500 figure shifted to ₹5,000, while Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar referred to compensation per acre and the revenue minister cited per-hectare rates, and demanded that ₹5,000 be released promptly.

Party funds charge

Leader of the Opposition R. Ashoka, speaking alongside Vijayendra, accused Chief Minister Shivakumar of empty rhetoric and misdirected spending. Ashoka alleged that while the administration claims a lack of funds to pay protesting ASHA workers, who he noted were promised ₹15,000 by Priyanka Gandhi, money is being channeled to party workers through "Bharat Jodo" associations across Bengaluru wards, zilla panchayats, and gram panchayats.

Ashoka announced statewide protests across all assembly constituencies on November 23, 24, and 25 over rising prices, and expressed confidence that the National Democratic Alliance will form the next government and sweep all five Greater Bengaluru Authority zones amid public anger over waste collection, bus fare hikes, and tunnel road plans.

Recalling his own tenure as revenue minister, Ashoka argued that the state should disburse State Disaster Response Fund money immediately rather than waiting on central National Disaster Response Fund releases. On the Hiriyur by-election, he confirmed speaking with Union Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy and scheduling a meeting to finalize a single, consensus NDA candidate without friction.

For farmers awaiting drought relief and households feeling price pressures across Karnataka, the opposition's ultimatum sets the stage for sharp confrontation when lawmakers gather in Belagavi.

ALLIANCE LEADERS TO DISCUSS HIRIYUR BY-POLL TICKET

BENGALURU: BJP and JD(S) leaders will meet in Bengaluru on Sunday (today), November 22, to finalize their strategy and candidate choice for the upcoming Hiriyur by-election following talks with Amit Shah. Opposition Leader R. Ashoka said he spoke with H.D. Kumaraswamy and confirmed both parties will discuss ticket allocation smoothly without disputes. He stressed that whichever partner gets the ticket, the other will campaign wholeheartedly to defeat the Congress, dismissing hopes of an alliance rift. Ashoka also clarified he never claimed tickets were already decided, noting both parties sought the seat while the high command will take the final call soon.

Author Ravi Hanj detained at Cochin Airport

CH NEWS, BENGALURU/KOCHI

Kochi: the author was detained on Saturday on a Look Out Circular.

Author Ravi Hanj was detained at Cochin Airport under a Look Out Circular over alleged defamatory remarks on Basavanna in his book Basava Mantapa.

Non-Resident Indian author Ravi Hanj was detained by security officials at Cochin International Airport in Kerala on Saturday while attempting to fly abroad, acting on a Look Out Circular issued by Karnataka police over alleged defamatory remarks about 12th-century social reformer Basavanna in his book Basava Mantapa and recent online interviews.

Police sources said Hanj, who is originally from Davangere and based in Chicago, had remained unreachable after criminal cases were registered against him despite notices sent to his residence. Airport personnel intercepted him as he prepared to board a flight to Dubai and alerted Karnataka authorities. Belagavi Market Police Inspector J.M. Kalimirchi confirmed that a team is traveling to Kochi to take formal custody and bring him back for questioning, while Bengaluru police are also coordinating handover procedures.

The row stems from Basava Mantapa, released on November 15 at the Federation of Karnataka Chambers of Commerce and Industry hall on Kempegowda Road in Bengaluru, alongside interviews broadcast on November 13 and later shared on Facebook and YouTube channels. Complainants alleged that Hanj distorted Basavanna's teachings, made offensive remarks linked to the vachana tradition, and hurt the religious sentiments of Veerashaiva-Lingayat followers.

Following a complaint by Basava Samiti president Aravind Jatti, High Grounds Police in Bengaluru registered a First Information Report against Hanj as well as publisher and journalist Vishweshwar Bhat. Separate cases were also filed at Market Police Station in Belagavi following complaints from Jagathika Lingayat Mahasabha members, along with registrations in Vijayapura and Basavana Bagewadi under provisions of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita. Earlier, the Karnataka Cabinet approved confiscating the book and pursuing social media video removals, even as Hanj issued a video expressing regret if his remarks caused hurt while defending his research.

For community organizations and readers across Karnataka, the airport detention moves the dispute into formal police questioning and court scrutiny.

ASHA workers' protest enters fifth day

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

ASHA workers at their round-the-clock sit-in at Freedom Park, Bengaluru.

The round-the-clock sit-in by thousands of Accredited Social Health Activist (ASHA) workers at Freedom Park in Bengaluru entered its fifth day on Saturday, with protesters venting sharp anger at Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar and vowing not to budge until the state issues an official government order fixing a monthly honorarium of ₹15,000.

Protesters who have camped day and night since Tuesday, November 17, accused the government of ignoring their plight despite freezing nights, exhaustion, and illness spreading at the venue.

Speaking from the protest site, workers questioned whether Shivakumar lacked concern for women, noting he had not visited Freedom Park even as a basic courtesy to check on their health.

Declaring that their struggle could melt even a boulder and carve it into a sculpture, workers urged the Chief Minister to resolve their grievances rather than prolonging the standoff.

What they want
- → ₹15,000 fixed monthly honorarium
- → No forced app reporting
- → ₹5,00,000 retirement benefit

Although union leaders met Shivakumar at his official residence earlier in the week alongside Health Minister U.T. Khader, talks failed to yield a written commitment.

The Chief Minister noted that workers receive around ₹8,000 including state incentives while blaming the Centre for not raising its share, and appealed to the roughly 41,000 workers across Karnataka to call off their agitation. Union leaders including Karnataka State Samyukta ASHA Workers' Association president K. Somashekar Yadgiri and D. Nagalakshmi rejected verbal assurances, citing an unfulfilled January 2025 promise of ₹10,000.

Beyond a fixed ₹15,000 monthly honorarium, protesters are demanding an end to compulsory mobile app reporting on platforms like Samasta or smartphones with fixed allowances, release of pending central incentives and lumpsum retirement dues, a ₹5,00,000 retirement benefit, reinstatement of ASHA facilitators with arrears, and paid medical leave for serious illnesses.

BDA vows 95% tree transplant at Hebbal

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Responding to a Rapid Environmental Impact Assessment by Azim Premji University researchers questioning tree loss, biodiversity impacts, and lake safety along the proposed four-kilometre Hebbal–Mekhri bypass, the Bangalore Development Authority placed detailed engineering data and environmental commitments on public record.

Clarifying the widely debated figure of 1,128 trees, the agency stated that this count covers all trees surveyed within the notified corridor under the Karnataka Preservation of Trees Act, 1976, not trees marked for felling. Switching to a top-down diaphragm-wall construction method narrowed the work zone by up to 60%, cutting affected trees from 1,465 to 1,128 and leaving 337 mature trees untouched. Of 1,104 living trees, the authority plans to scientifically transplant 1,050 to 1,051, including all six heritage trees over 240 centimetres in girth and 17 keystone Ficus trees, into nearby campuses, limiting unavoidable felling to 54 to 58 trees. No trees have been cut or shifted yet, and work awaits Tree Expert Committee verification and Tree Officer orders following over 1,500 public objections.

THE TREE COUNT
1,128	TREES SURVEYED
95%	OF LIVING TREES TO BE MOVED
54-58	TO BE FELLED
11,280	SAPLINGS TO BE PLANTED

Carbon and saplings

Addressing carbon and species concerns, the authority noted that standard breast-height measurements show 71% of surveyed trees have girths of 90 centimetres or less, making them suitable for root-ball relocation, while invasive species like Paper Mulberry will be replaced through a 1:10 drive planting 11,280 native saplings with an 85% 18-month survival target. Retaining transplanted trees preserves over 73.5 tonnes of static carbon, while cutting stop-and-go idling for 1.5 lakh daily vehicles will prevent 15,000 to 20,000 tonnes of annual tailpipe emissions.

Five minutes, not 30

With Hebbal junction operating at severe breakdown flow, the sequential 1.78-kilometre elevated road and 2.209-kilometre twin-tube tunnel aims to slash transit times from 30 minutes to five minutes without touching the main GKVK campus four kilometres north. The authority added that 99.94 per cent of Hebbal Lake's catchment lies outside the work zone, backed by statutory lake clearances, geotagged tree audits, and public groundwater monitoring. For commuters, residents, and conservationists weighing airport gridlock against north Bengaluru's green cover, transparent quarterly survival audits and strict statutory oversight will decide whether mobility gains truly coexist with ecological protection.

State orders fresh study on Kadugolla ST bid

Over six lakh Kadugollas live in 1,273 hattis across 40 taluks in 12 districts

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka government has decided to conduct a fresh ethnographic study to bolster its long-pending demand to include the Kadugolla, also known as Adavigolla, and Hattigolla communities in the Scheduled Tribes list, following repeated central rejections of earlier proposals.

The decision emerged from a State Cabinet meeting chaired by Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar, with officials moving away from recycling older reports and instead preparing a comprehensive dossier tailored to objections raised by Union authorities. Under an order issued on November 18 by the Department of Scheduled Tribes Welfare, the department's director and the head of the Karnataka State Tribal Research Institute in Mysuru have been directed to finish the study and submit a report within three months, enlisting anthropologists from the Centre for Multi-Disciplinary Development Research in Dharwad.

Rejected five times

The study will document the community's social, cultural, and economic life, habitats, traditional customs, and distinct tribal traits. Since March 2015, Karnataka has sent multiple proposals to the Union Ministry of Tribal Affairs, yet the Office of the Registrar General of India declined to endorse them five times between 2017 and June 2026, citing a lack of fresh evidence under revised September 2022 guidelines. Consequently, the tribal affairs ministry formally turned down the state's plea on July 22, 2026.

Union Minister of State V. Somanna wrote to Shivakumar in October advising an expert-led report meeting revised central norms rather than resubmitting old records. Around the same time, Karnataka State Kadugolla Development Corporation chairman Mahesh M submitted a memorandum noting that over six lakh Kadugollas live across 1,273 settlements, or hattis, in 40 taluks spanning 12 districts, often three to four kilometres from main villages along forest fringes without basic roads or drinking water.

For hundreds of thousands of Kadugolla families seeking constitutional recognition, education quotas, and better village infrastructure, the three-month Dharwad-assisted study marks a decisive test of whether new empirical evidence can finally clear central scrutiny and end an 11-year wait.

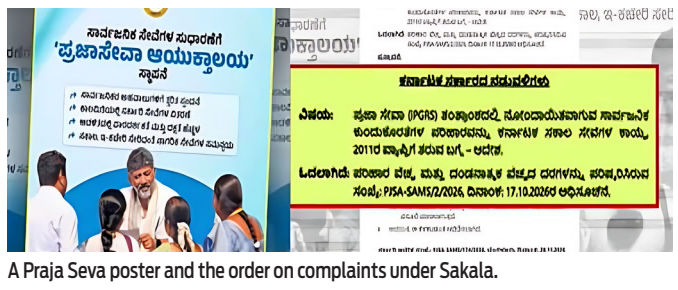

SAKALA GRIEVANCE PUSH

Public complaints now under Karnataka Sakala Act

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka government has brought public complaints filed on the Praja Seva portal and allied citizen channels under the Sakala Act with immediate effect, setting a 21-day deadline for resolution and imposing penalties of up to ₹1,500 for delays or false filings.

Issued following a State Cabinet decision, the government order covers grievances submitted not only through the Praja Seva portal but also via the state helpline 1902, WhatsApp, social media platforms, and public meetings. Praja Seva Department Principal Secretary Harsh Gupta noted in a press release that a complaint will be marked resolved only after due inquiry, disposal on merits, and uploading of an Action Taken Report on the portal.

A Praja Seva poster and the order on complaints under Sakala.

To spare citizens from making repeated rounds of government offices, authorities have structured a 21-day resolution window divided into three stages. Under an automated technical workflow, any complaint left unresolved by the initial officer within 21 days escalates automatically to the second-level appellate authority, and then to the third-level appellate authority if still unsettled. The initiative aims to strengthen administrative transparency, speed up citizen service delivery, and enforce clear accountability across state departments, boards, corporations, and local bodies.

Under the amended Sakala framework, officials who cause unnecessary delays or wrongfully reject genuine applications face compensatory deductions of up to ₹1,500 recovered directly from them. The graded compensation structure rises from ₹20 a day for delays of one to five days up to ₹100 a day after 20 days, capped at ₹1,500.

At the same time, the order guards officials against harassment by introducing a ₹1,500 fine on citizens found guilty after inquiry of filing false or malicious complaints. Repeat offenders face an additional ₹1,500 penalty per application, with unpaid fines recoverable as arrears of land revenue.

How a complaint climbs
1. Officer: 21 days to resolve it
2. Second level: the appellate authority takes over automatically
3. Third level: the next appellate authority, if still unsettled

For residents across Karnataka seeking timely fixes for civic, revenue, or welfare grievances, binding deadlines and automatic escalation offer stronger recourse while discouraging frivolous filings.

Konanakunte Cross to get ₹77 crore flyover

Officials at the launch of the Ward One Campaign's third phase.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Krishna Byre Gowda announced a ₹77 crore split flyover at Konanakunte Cross while launching phase three of Bengaluru's Ward One civic drive across 41 wards.

A ₹77 crore split-type flyover is in the tender stage at Konanakunte Cross to untangle heavy daily traffic, Greater Bengaluru Development Minister Krishna Byre Gowda announced while launching the third phase of the citywide Ward One Campaign.

Inaugurating the latest round of the civic drive by painting a roadside wall at the bustling south Bengaluru junction, Gowda said Bengaluru Smart Infrastructure Limited has designed elevated stretches measuring roughly 600 metres on either side of Konanakunte Cross. Including construction and land acquisition, the project carries an estimated budget of ₹77 crore, and officials have been instructed to speed up tendering and begin site work quickly so motorists gain signal-free passage through the bottleneck.

Alongside long-term construction, the minister rolled out immediate junction fixes. Civic teams will upgrade footpaths, paint fresh zebra crossings and lane markings, and secure a strip of Metro-owned land near Forum Mall to open a free-left turn. Gowda also ordered the immediate removal of an obstructing compound wall outside the mall and new pedestrian steps, while directing officials to plan a skywalk without interfering with the future flyover to handle rising footfall once the upcoming Konanakunte Cross Metro station opens.

Turning to neighborhood upkeep, Gowda noted that the Ward One Campaign, launched on November 1 across Greater Bengaluru Authority's 369 wards, brings civic agencies together to fix potholes, footpaths, street lights, overhanging branches, and garbage hotspots. After covering 43 wards in phase one and 40 in phase two, the third phase expands work to 41 more wards, bringing the tally to 124 wards and extending the drive into December. He also told staff to deploy jetting machines efficiently using compliant treated wastewater sourced from local apartment complexes. Local legislator Krishnappa, Chief Commissioner Maheshwar Rao, Commissioner Ramesh K.N., and senior engineers joined the inspection.

For daily commuters and pedestrians navigating Kanakapura Road's busy stretch, pairing quick walkway upgrades with a signal-free flyover and skywalk promises tangible relief provided agencies keep tendering and ground execution on tight schedules.

No more settlements at police stations: R. Hithendra

Bengaluru's first Chief Commissioner of Police R. Hithendra banned station-level settlements and broker interference while prioritizing drugs and safety.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Newly appointed Bengaluru Chief Commissioner of Police R. Hithendra delivered a stern warning against informal compromises inside police stations, declaring that unauthorized settlements and broker interference will no longer be tolerated under his leadership.

Speaking to television media in his first detailed interaction since taking charge of the city's newly restructured policing setup, the 1996-batch Indian Police Service officer expressed pride in becoming Bengaluru's first-ever Chief Commissioner of Police, a historic shift introduced 63 years after the city got its first police commissioner in 1963. At the same time, Hithendra acknowledged that public expectations from the revamped administrative structure are high and that major operational challenges lie ahead.

Under the Karnataka government's sweeping reorganization aligned with the Greater Bengaluru Authority, policing across the metropolis has been decentralized into five geographically defined zones (Central, East, West, North, and South), each headed by an Inspector General-rank Commissioner reporting to the Chief Commissioner, alongside a separate Traffic Commissionerate. Hithendra stressed that the primary purpose of dividing command is to sharpen accountability, boost visible policing on the streets, and ensure officers treat citizens fairly when they approach stations for help.

Policing in Bengaluru now runs in five zones under one Chief Commissioner.

His priorities

- Stations: no settlements or broker interference
- Narcotics: an aggressive crackdown on networks
- Women: safety in neighborhoods and transit hubs
- Traffic: tighter coordination across zones

Drawing a firm line on station-level conduct, Hithendra warned personnel against acting as mediators in civil or criminal disputes, asserting that transparent procedures and strict adherence to the law will remain his highest priorities. He added that senior officers have also been directed to crack down aggressively on narcotics networks, strengthen safety measures for women across residential neighborhoods and transit hubs, and ease chronic traffic bottlenecks through tighter coordination across zones.

For everyday residents, commuters, and complainants across Bengaluru who often worry about red tape or backroom deals at local stations, the new top cop's clear warning sets an early benchmark for cleaner, more accountable policing across all five zones.

Smart parking launches across 12 HSR roads

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Bengaluru South City Corporation is rolling out an artificial intelligence-based smart parking management system across 12 major commercial roads in HSR Layout, aiming to curb chaotic roadside parking, keep traffic moving smoothly, and reclaim footpaths for pedestrians.

Building on a similar smart parking rollout in Jayanagar, civic officials drafted an area-based parking action plan for HSR Layout. Following a detailed ground study, the corporation identified twelve busy commercial stretches totaling 18.02 kilometers for organized on-street paid parking.

Smart parking comes to HSR Layout's commercial roads.

Under the new layout, roughly 3,355 parking bays are being marked for two-wheelers alongside more than 627 spaces for cars. The plan also sets aside dedicated slots for bicycles and autorickshaws, designated pick-up and drop-off bays for passengers, and reserved spots for persons with disabilities and emergency vehicles.

Hourly parking charges have been fixed at ₹15 for two-wheelers and ₹30 for cars, with all fees collected exclusively through digital payments. Artificial intelligence cameras will track real-time bay occupancy and maintain continuous monitoring to enforce parking rules, eliminating revenue leakages and fraud common under manual cash collection.

The new bays

- 3,355 two-wheeler bays
- 627+ spaces for cars
- ₹15 / ₹30 an hour for two-wheelers / cars, paid digitally

Through a competitive tender, the corporation selected Parklens India Private Limited to operate and maintain the system. An agreement was signed between the executive engineer of the corporation's Traffic Engineering Division and Parklens India Private Limited in the presence of Ramesh, Chief Engineers Basavaraj Kabade and Malathi, Executive Engineer Janardhan, and company officials.

For shoppers, officegoers, and neighborhood residents navigating HSR Layout's crowded commercial avenues, structured bays, clear pedestrian walkways, and transparent digital billing promise easier parking and less gridlock provided enforcement keeps vehicles off footpaths and no-parking zones.

GBA REVIEWS MONSOON DISASTER PREPAREDNESS

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Greater Bengaluru Authority Special Commissioner for Disaster Management Lakshmi Priya directed officials across all five city corporations, line departments, and emergency response units to tighten inter-agency coordination and digitize operational systems ahead of future monsoon challenges.

Chairing a disaster preparedness review meeting within Greater Bengaluru Authority limits, Priya assessed ongoing engineering progress and preventive steps at neighborhoods hit by waterlogging and rain damage during earlier monsoons. She instructed officials in all five municipal corporations to complete targeted civil works at identified vulnerable spots, put lasting safeguards in place before the next rainy season, and submit action-taken reports.

To prevent communication gaps during heavy downpours, Priya ordered teams to build seamless links among control rooms across all five corporations, zonal offices, and subdivision-level staff. Officials were told to compile and digitize emergency contact directories, officer assignments, vulnerable-zone inventories, engineering work status, and operational protocols into a single accessible digital platform so field teams can act without delay.

She also stressed faster complaint routing, directing control room operators to relay public alerts immediately to responsible engineers while maintaining a regular reporting loop to track resolution on the ground. Alongside digital tracking, Priya instructed corporations to keep Quick Response Teams fully equipped and on standby so engineers and field crews can tackle localized flooding, fallen trees, or drainage blockages the moment emergencies arise.

Additional Commissioners Kavitha Rajaram and Mona Roth, Disaster Management Division Assistant Commissioner Girish Nandan, and senior disaster management staff participated in the review.

For residents living in low-lying layouts and flood-prone corridors across Bengaluru, early civil repairs paired with unified digital control rooms promise faster emergency response and fewer monsoon disruptions provided corporations complete preventive drainage works well before rains return.

BECC pushes ward fixes and Hopefarm work

Officials at a civic works site in Bengaluru East.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Bengaluru East City Corporation Additional Commissioner (Development) Lokhande Snehal Sudhakar inspected cleanliness drives and ongoing civic works along New Temple Road in Nallurhalli, directing officials to prioritize fixing local problems flagged under the third phase of the Ward One Campaign.

Examining roads, footpaths, garbage black spots, drains, and stormwater channels at the site, Sudhakar stressed that roads, streetlights, underground drainage, power lines, and greenery fall across separate agencies that must work together rather than in silos so one department's digging does not damage another's completed infrastructure. Sudhakar ordered immediate spot fixes for minor complaints and structured monitoring for larger tasks, noting that while November was set as the initial target, the campaign can extend into December so quality is never rushed.

Eight wards have been chosen for the third phase across Bengaluru East: Ward 42 Priyadarshini in Doddanekkundi Division, Ward 30 Belathur in Kadugodi Division where works are ongoing, Ward 38 Whitefield, Ward 41 Munnekollal in Marathahalli Division, Ward 7 Channasandra in Ramamurthy Nagar Division, Ward 11 Basavanapura in K.R. Puram Division, Ward 2 Horamavu, and Ward 20 A. Narayanapura in HAL Division.

Sudhakar also reviewed the Hopefarm underpass construction site, checking pothole repairs, footpath building, junction improvements, and overall underpass progress aimed at easing congestion and safeguarding pedestrians. He inquired about a BESCOM transformer obstructing the footpath and reviewed steps to shift the unit onto private land for road widening, instructing departments to coordinate closely and finish pending works on time without compromising standards. Chief Engineer Vishwanath J. and executive engineers joined the inspection.

For residents and daily commuters across Whitefield, Marathahalli, and K.R. Puram, tighter coordination between civic engineers and utility agencies promises safer footpaths, cleaner streets, and faster relief around the busy Hopefarm bottleneck provided departments sustain follow-through into December.

WEST CIVIC TOUR

BWCC reviews lakes, junctions and Parishe plans

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Bengaluru West City Corporation Commissioner Shilpa Nag conducted an extensive field inspection along corporation boundaries on November 21, reviewing footpath repairs, solid waste management, lake conservation, junction upgrades, and Ward One campaign progress across multiple divisions.

Spanning Kengeri and Rajarajeshwarinagar divisions in Zone-1 alongside Govindarajanagar, Yediyur, and Basavanagudi divisions in Zone-2, Nag directed engineers and field staff to clear garbage piles, repair broken footpaths, and fix street lighting without delay. In Kengeri Division, she instructed the assistant general manager to clear refuse systematically near Herohalli Cross so the stretch does not turn into a chronic garbage black spot.

Turning to waterbodies, Nag directed the lakes division executive engineer to desilt Herohalli Lake and inspected Halagevaderahalli Lake, ordering officials to verify boundaries and remove any encroachments promptly. At Nayandahalli Junction in Govindarajanagar Division, she told officials to secure necessary clearances from traffic police and Bengaluru Metro Rail Corporation Limited so road and safety upgrades under the Suraksha 75 junction improvement initiative can begin quickly.

In Basavanagudi Division, Nag inspected Kempambudhi Lake and instructed staff to maintain the waterbody and surrounding parks consistently without lapses. She also visited the historic Dodda Ganapathi Temple, directing civic teams to put thorough advance arrangements in place for the upcoming four-day Kadalekai Parishe groundnut fair scheduled from December 5 to 8 and the traditional Teppotsava float festival at Kempambudhi Lake. Chief Engineers Swayamprabha and Jayashankar B.S., Superintending Engineer Nagaraja Singri, and division executive engineers accompanied her during the tour.

ICL surgery restores accountant's spectacle-free vision

CH NEWS, MANGALURU

Phakic ICL surgery places a lens inside the eye.

A 30-year-old accountant has regained clear, spectacle-free vision after undergoing bilateral Phakic Implantable Collamer Lens (ICL) surgery at Dr Agarwal's Eye Hospital in Mangaluru.

Tulasi had suffered from severe myopia in both eyes for nearly 15 years and depended on thick, high-power spectacles. Her prescription was -11.25 dioptres in the right eye and -7.75 dioptres in the left. Prolonged computer use and reading required for her accounting profession made wearing the glasses uncomfortable.

After a detailed eye examination, specialists recommended ICL surgery for both eyes. Unlike conventional laser procedures, ICL surgery involves implanting a customised, biocompatible lens inside the eye without changing the cornea or removing the natural lens. It can be an option for carefully selected patients with high refractive errors.

The procedures were performed by a team led by Dr. Aditi Singh, with the right eye operated on July 15 and the left eye on July 16. The patient reportedly experienced rapid visual recovery and can now carry out her professional and daily activities without spectacles.

Dr. Singh said ICL surgery could provide good visual outcomes for suitable patients with high spectacle power and improve their quality of life.

Expressing her gratitude, Tulasi said being able to see clearly without thick glasses after 15 years had brought a major change to her life. She thanked the doctor and hospital team for their care.

The case highlights the availability of advanced refractive eye-care treatment in Mangaluru.

MALINGARAYA PUJAR, GADAG

Gadag has achieved national recognition for its clean air, securing third place among Indian cities with the lowest air pollution levels, according to the 2026 Air Quality Report attributed to the Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB).

The reported Air Quality Index (AQI) places Shillong first with a score of 39, followed by Srinagar at 40 and Gadag at 47. With this achievement, Gadag has emerged as Karnataka's leading city in the reported list, bringing pride to residents and environmentalists.

The region's rich natural surroundings, particularly the extensive forest area of Kappatagudda, are considered important contributors to its relatively clean air. Often described as the 'Sahyadri of North Karnataka', Kappatagudda is known for its diverse vegetation, medicinal plants and ecological importance. Its green cover helps absorb pollutants and supports the region's environmental balance.

Gadag's favourable wind conditions have also attracted several domestic and international companies to establish wind energy projects, contributing to renewable energy production.

> "Gadag has secured the third position in the list of cities with the least air pollution. The reason for this is Kappatagudda. It is the duty of all of us to preserve and develop the environment."
> — Venkanagouda Govindagoudra, JD(S) state spokesperson

However, environmentalists have expressed concern over the possibility of increased industrialisation and mining activities in the district.Large-scale development without adequate environmental safeguards could threaten the region's natural resources and air quality.

Residents and environmental organisations have called upon the administration to protect Kappatagudda and preserve Gadag's ecological heritage.

Karnataka seeks 50 additional days of rural employment

Minister Eshwar Khandre urged the Centre to grant 50 extra employment days under VB-G RAM G for drought-hit rural workers.

CH NEWS, GADAG

Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Minister Eshwar Khandre has written to the Central Government seeking an additional 50 days of employment under the Viksit Bharat – Guarantee for Rozgar and Ajeevika Mission (Gramin) (VB-G RAM G) scheme to support rural workers facing drought conditions.

The request, if approved, would increase the annual employment guarantee from the existing 125 days to 175 days per job card, providing additional livelihood support to rural households and helping prevent distress migration in search of work.

The Minister announced this while visiting a desilting work site at a check dam on Tanda Road, under the jurisdiction of Adavisomapura Gram Panchayat in Gadag taluk. He interacted with workers and said he had instructed officials to ensure continuous employment under the scheme, particularly in drought-affected areas.

He said the additional 50 days had been sought in view of the shortage of rainfall and the difficulties faced by farmers and rural labourers. The proposal has been submitted to the Centre, and a favourable response would help provide 175 days of work to eligible households.

During the visit, farmers and workers requested permission to take up trench-and-bund construction works to meet local requirements. Khandre responded positively to their demand.

The Minister also reviewed photographs of farm ponds recently completed within the Gram Panchayat limits, appreciated the work and asked officials to sanction more such projects to improve water conservation.

Street plays spread the word on govt welfare schemes

CH NEWS, KOPPAL

Koppal's Information Department and a Hanumasagara cultural group organised programmes in Guduru and Mailapura to raise awareness of government welfare schemes.

The Department of Information and Public Relations, Koppal, in association with Sri Guru Puttaraja Swara Sangeetha and Kala Samskruthika Samsthe, Hanumasagara, organised cultural awareness programmes to educate people about various government welfare schemes in Guduru and Mailapura villages of Karatagi taluk.

In Guduru village, the programme was inaugurated near Sri Hemareddy Mallamma Circle. Village elders Rudragowda and Hanumantappa formally launched the event by playing the traditional tamate drum.

Artists from the cultural troupe presented street plays and awareness performances highlighting the government's five guarantee schemes and various welfare programmes implemented by different government departments. The performances aimed to explain the benefits of these schemes and encourage eligible beneficiaries to make use of them.

Programme in Mailapura

A similar programme was organised in Mailapura village near the Dalit Sangharsha Samithi signboard. Former Gram Panchayat Vice-President Lingaraj Gowdru and Gram Panchayat staff member Basavaraja inaugurated the programme by playing the tamate.

Artists Siddappa Kalalabandi, Devappa Tingunti, Sukamuniyappa Gadagi, Shashikumara Madara, Nagaraja Nidagundi, Sharif Saab Nadaf, Mahalakshmi Harijana and Lakshmavva Sandimani participated in the awareness campaign.

The troupe president, Venkatesha Hosamani, and other members of the Hanumasagara cultural team presented street plays and awareness songs explaining government schemes to villagers.

The initiative aimed to take information about welfare programmes directly to rural communities through traditional art forms, making it easier for people to understand the schemes and access available benefits.

Drinking water must receive top priority: Patil

CH NEWS, VIJAYAPURA

Minister for Large and Medium Industries and Infrastructure Development Dr. M.B. Patil has directed officials to manage the district's available reservoir water efficiently, giving top priority to drinking water needs and ensuring equitable distribution to urban and rural areas.

He was speaking at the Karnataka Development Programme (KDP) review meeting held at the Zilla Panchayat hall on Saturday. He said deficient rainfall had reduced water availability, while storage in the Almatti reservoir remained low. If there was no further rainfall, managing available water would become increasingly challenging.

The Minister said a meeting involving the Irrigation Minister, Forest Minister, Rural Development Minister, local MLAs and senior officials would be convened to address water management and technical issues. He stressed that the two TMC of water allocated for drinking purposes must be used carefully. Officials were instructed to ensure uninterrupted supplies to areas in Indi and Nagathan constituencies and implement lake-filling projects according to approved allocations.

He also directed officials to assess fodder availability in every Gram Panchayat, prevent shortages and encourage farmers to cultivate fodder through seed distribution. Crop insurance benefits must reach farmers directly, without fraud or middlemen.

The KDP review meeting at the Zilla Panchayat hall in Vijayapura

MLAs Shivananda Patil, Yashwantrayagouda Patil, C.S. Nadagouda and Ashok Managuli stressed efficient water use, priority for drinking water, proper lake filling and improved supply infrastructure. They also raised concerns about urban water supply and maintenance of civic facilities.

Deputy Commissioner Dr. Anand K. presented details on reservoir storage, drinking water schemes, lake filling, Jaladhare progress and drought management. Zilla Panchayat CEO Anand Prakash Meena, Superintendent of Police Lakshman Nimbargi, MLC Sunilgouda Patil and other officials attended.

'Libraries nurture knowledge and intellectual growth'

CH NEWS, UDUPI

Libraries are repositories of knowledge that provide access to books and information in different languages from across the world. Regular reading broadens knowledge and promotes intellectual development, said MLA Yashpal A. Suvarna.

He was speaking after inaugurating the National Library Week celebrations at the Vidyavachaspati Bannanje Govindacharya Memorial District Central Library auditorium in Ajjarkadu on Friday. The programme, organised by the Department of Public Libraries, also featured awards for the best readers and staff members.

Suvarna said learning was a continuous process and that there was no limit to the knowledge one could gain through reading. The more people read, the greater their interest in exploring new subjects, he observed.

He noted that many students use public libraries, particularly competitive examination books and reference materials, to prepare for examinations and pursue careers in government services. Recalling the contribution of S.R. Ranganathan, the Father of Library Science in India, he said public libraries had become accessible across the country because of his vision.

Urging people of all age groups to make regular use of libraries, he encouraged them to read books and newspapers. He also called upon students to achieve better results in SSLC and II PUC examinations and bring recognition to Udupi, known for its educational institutions.

Best readers honoured

Ganesh B. Hegde and Vijayalakshmi B.V. received the Best Reader awards. Pushpa, Nalinakshi, Sadhana and Anita were honoured for their service as library staff members.

Nilesh from the Cyber Crime Police Station delivered a special lecture on cyber safety. Prizes were also distributed to winners of competitions conducted during National Library Week.

SHIMLA

Himachal Pradesh Chief Minister Sukhvinder Singh Sukhu on Saturday inaugurated the Software Technology Parks of India (STPI) Centre at Chetru, near Gaggal Airport in Kangra district. Built at a cost of ₹18.29 crore, the facility aims to strengthen the state's information technology sector, support start-ups and create employment opportunities.

The centre is expected to support 15 to 20 budding entrepreneurs and generate jobs for 350 to 400 people over the next five years. It also aims to attract IT investment and provide an environment for innovation and entrepreneurship, giving local businesses and professionals access to modern facilities.The centre has 106 plug-and-play seats, four managers' cabins and 5,031 square feet of raw incubation space. Other facilities include a 40-seater auditorium, conference and meeting rooms, a Network Operations Centre, reception area and guest rooms.

Sukhu said the state government was committed to developing Himachal Pradesh as an emerging destination for information technology and investment. He said steps were being taken to attract IT companies, promote start-ups and create a supportive ecosystem for innovation.

NGT seeks replies over forever chemicals in drinking water

The NGT in New Delhi.

NEW DELHI

The National Green Tribunal (NGT) has issued notices to five institutions, including the Union Environment Ministry, Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB) and Bureau of Indian Standards (BIS), over concerns about harmful chemicals in drinking water. The tribunal has sought explanations on the presence of per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances (PFAS), commonly called forever chemicals, and the ability of conventional water treatment plants to remove them.

A bench headed by NGT Chairperson Justice Prakash Shrivastava took up the matter on its own after a newspaper report published on October 15 raised concerns about PFAS contamination. The other institutions named are CSIR-Indian Institute of Toxicology Research and IIT Madras.

Asked to reply

- MoEFCC: Union Environment Ministry
- CPCB: Central Pollution Control Board
- BIS: Bureau of Indian Standards
- CSIR-IITR: Indian Institute of Toxicology Research
- IIT Madras: studied Chennai water samples

In its November 20 order, the tribunal directed all five bodies to submit replies through affidavits at least one week before the next hearing. The matter will be heard again on March 3, 2027.

PFAS are synthetic chemicals used in textile coatings and industrial products. They resist natural breakdown and can remain in the environment for long periods. The tribunal noted that studies had detected these chemicals in water sources across different parts of India, but the overall extent of contamination remains unclear.

A 2025 study found contamination concerns in Gujarat, Maharashtra, Tamil Nadu and West Bengal. Another study by IIT Madras examined 14 water samples from Chennai and found higher levels of eight targeted PFAS compounds in treated water than in raw water in some cases.

The tribunal also highlighted the absence of specific drinking water limits for PFAS in India and called for responses on environmental protection and safety standards.

Anbumani seeks ₹40,000 an acre drought relief for Cauvery farmers

CHENNAI

Pattali Makkal Katchi (PMK) president Anbumani Ramadoss on Saturday urged the Tamil Nadu government to declare Cauvery delta districts drought-affected and provide ₹40,000 per acre as compensation to farmers whose Samba and Thaladi crops are drying up due to water shortage.

In a statement, Anbumani said crops across the delta were suffering because water had not been released from the Mettur Dam for more than a month. The shortage was made worse by a deficit in the Northeast Monsoon, he added.

Mettur Dam discharge
cusecs, as cited by Anbumani

He said Samba and Thaladi crops are usually cultivated on more than 18 lakh acres across the Cauvery delta districts. However, farmers reduced cultivation to around seven lakh acres this year, expecting inadequate water supply.

Although the Mettur Dam was opened on September 1, farmers were now struggling to protect even the smaller cultivated area, he said.

Anbumani also pointed to falling water levels in the dam. He said water discharge was gradually reduced from 10,920 cusecs on October 15 to just 1,003 cusecs on October 25 because of low storage.

The PMK leader called on the state government to recognise the seriousness of the situation and provide financial assistance to affected farmers. He urged authorities to take immediate steps to support cultivators facing losses due to the continuing water shortage in the delta region.

HPV VACCINATION CAMPAIGN

Ten million HPV vaccine doses administered nationwide

NEW DELHI

India has administered more than 10 million doses of the human papillomavirus (HPV) vaccine, reaching nearly 87 per cent of its target population within nine months of launching a nationwide campaign to prevent cervical cancer, the Union Health Ministry said on Saturday. The achievement marks progress in the country's efforts to protect adolescent girls from HPV infections, which can lead to cervical cancer.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi launched the National HPV Vaccination Campaign in February 2026. The programme provides free and voluntary single-dose vaccination to 14-year-old girls at government health facilities across the country. Vaccination is given with parental consent, allowing eligible girls to receive protection without payment.

The campaign focuses on girls aged 14 to provide protection before their possible exposure to the virus. Health authorities aim to reduce the risk of cervical cancer through early vaccination and preventive healthcare services. The programme also seeks to make vaccination accessible to girls across different parts of the country.

According to the Health Ministry, cervical cancer is the second most common cancer among women in India after breast cancer. HPV infections are a major cause of the disease, making vaccination an important step towards preventing future cases. The ministry said the vaccination drive reflects the growing reach of preventive healthcare services and efforts to protect young girls.

The ministry described the administration of over 10 million doses as a major achievement. Sugar output jumps fourfold as ethanol diversion ban supports availability

NEW DELHI

India's sugar production rose more than fourfold in the first month of the 2026-27 ethanol supply year (ESY2027), aided by the government's decision to prohibit diversion of sugar for ethanol production, a report said on Saturday.

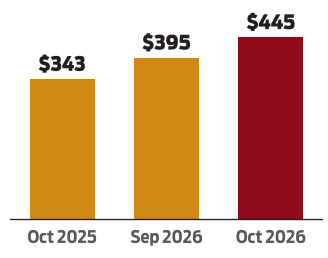

Domestic sugar output reached 1.3 million metric tonnes (MT) during the first month of ESY2027, significantly higher than the corresponding period a year earlier even as industry estimates point to relatively tight inventory levels in the ongoing sugar season, a report by ICRA showed.

It also expected that the restriction on sugar diversion towards ethanol will bolster domestic availability at a time when carry-forward stocks are projected to remain below historical norms.

In addition, net sugar production in sugar year 2027 (SY2027) is estimated at 28-29 million MT, compared with about 27.6 million MT in SY2026, when nearly 3 million MT of sugar was diverted for ethanol production.

Raw sugar prices

Figures: ICRA

Against an estimated domestic consumption of 28.3 million MT, closing inventories are projected at 3.5-4.5 million MT by the end of SY2027, lower than the 4.8 million MT estimated for SY2026 after accounting for the permitted import quota of 1 million MT, according to the report.

However, domestic sugar prices remained firm in November amid strong festive demand and supply constraints.

In Maharashtra, sugar prices increased to Rs 51.4 per kg in November from Rs 49.1 per kg in October, while prices in Uttar Pradesh rose to Rs 54.8 per kg from Rs 51.1 per kg.

"Consequently, all-India prices rose to Rs. 54.7 per kg from Rs. 51 per kg amid heavy festive demand and slower production from Uttar Pradesh," according to ICRA.

Adani Defence demonstrates Bagheera AT1 missile system

POKHRAN

Adani Defence & Aerospace has successfully demonstrated 'Bagheera AT1', a vehicle-mounted anti-tank guided missile (ATGM) system, at the Pokhran Field Firing Ranges in Rajasthan, the company said on Saturday.

'Bagheera AT1' is the outcome of 18 months of design and development, during which Adani Defence customised the missile system for Indian terrain, climate and operational requirements.

The result is a complete combat system comprising the missile, an automated launcher and day and night sights, mounted on a 4x4 high-mobility armoured vehicle designed by Adani Defence. It engages armour at up to 8 km, twice the approximately 4 km range of the land-based anti-tank missile, according to the Adani Group company.

Four ready-to-fire missiles on the automated launcher and 8 reloads onboard provide a total capacity of 12 missiles per vehicle.

The missile rides a laser beam rather than relying on a radio link, making it highly resistant to electronic jamming on a battlefield increasingly shaped by drones and electronic warfare. Two missiles can be fired in quick succession along the same beam at a single target. The first engages the tank's Active Protection System (APS), while the second is designed to penetrate its defences.

The system can also engage aerial targets at an extended range. The crew engages from cover and relocates quickly to reduce exposure to enemy fire.

Adani Defence said that the 'No Cost No Commitment' (NCNC) demonstration at Pokhran on November 20 was witnessed by senior representatives of the Indian Army, Department of Military Affairs and Ministry of Defence (MoD).

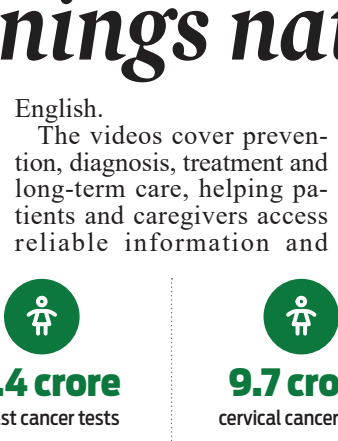

GTA VI biggest entertainment launch with $3.79 bn sales

NEW DELHI

Action-adventure video game Grand Theft Auto VI has generated $3.79 billion in global sales within 24 hours of launch, ranking as the biggest entertainment release ever and breaking the previous benchmark held by its predecessor, "Grand Theft Auto V". Developer Rockstar Games said the title sold 32.5 million units through pre-release and launch-day purchases after the game was received with massive fanfare and critical acclaim globally.

GTA VI's launch-day haul is nearly five times the estimated $800 million its predecessor, GTA V, made on its launch day in 2013. The new launch has also crossed the lifetime worldwide box-office earnings of "Avengers: Endgame", which grossed about $2.94 billion globally.

GTA VI follows criminal protagonists Lucia Caminos and Jason Duval in the fictional Vice City, and Rockstar Games founder and president Sam Houser described the launch as the beginning of a 'new chapter' for the studio.

Take-Two Interactive, the parent company of Rockstar Games, is also the publisher behind other hits such as the "Red Dead Redemption" franchise and the "NBA 2K" basketball series.

Gamers worldwide have reportedly taken paid time off from work and even signed "contracts" with their partners to get uninterrupted game time.

Take-Two has spent nearly $1 billion in production costs for GTA VI, making it one of the most expensive entertainment projects.

The game's promotional trailer, "GTA VI: An Extended Look", released in August, led to a sixfold jump in pre-orders, according to multiple reports.

Investors are keen on details of a PC version and the rollout of GTA Online for the new title, with some industry analysts forecasting both in 2027. The online, multiplayer component of the videogame is key to creating recurring revenue from the acclaimed title.

Actor, writer and filmmaker Rishab Shetty, who directed and stars in Kantara: A Legend – Chapter 1, said the recognition was important for both him and Kannada cinema. He said the film draws inspiration from Karnataka's traditions, beliefs and folklore, which have been part of his life since childhood.

According to Shetty, the success of Kantara has proved that stories rooted in local culture can connect with audiences across languages and countries. He believes filmmakers need not move away from their cultural roots to reach international audiences, as human emotions are universal.

Producer Chaluve Gowda also welcomed the film's selection, calling it an important achievement for the Kannada film industry. He said films such as Kantara and KGF had helped Kannada cinema gain international attention. He expressed hope that more filmmakers would explore lesser-known traditions and cultural stories from Karnataka.

Filmmaker and producer Sagar Puranik highlighted the importance of film festivals in encouraging creative growth. His short film Ulididdu Sampige Maatra, directed by Abhishek KH, is the only Kannada short film selected for IFFI.

Puranik said filmmakers cannot always predict where their projects will reach. He added that major festivals provide opportunities to discover different filmmaking styles, understand diverse cinematic traditions and receive valuable feedback from audiences and fellow filmmakers.

HanuMan 2 Announced With Vaisshnav Tej In Lead

The makers of the 2024 Telugu blockbuster Hanu-Man have announced a new film titled HanuMan 2: The Rise of Vanaras, featuring Panja Vaisshnav Tej in the lead role. The fantasy adventure will be directed by Vi Anand. The announcement has sparked discussions among fans, particularly about the absence of clarity regarding actor Teja Sajja's involvement and the film's connection with Jai Hanuman.

The production banner announced the project through a poster shared on its official X account. The artwork presents a muscular man with dark curly hair, dressed in a rust-orange dhoti, standing above a sea of clouds. A large tail curls around his body, while a massive, transparent image of Lord Hanuman appears in the background. Golden light and a rainbow add to the mystical atmosphere. Announcing the project, the makers said they were taking the legacy of Hanu-Man forward with a bigger vision. They also expressed excitement about collaborating with Vaisshnav Tej and director Vi Anand, promising more updates soon.

However, the announcement has raised questions among moviegoers about whether Teja Sajja will return in the new film. Some fans have also questioned how the project is connected to Jai Hanuman, which was earlier announced with Kannada actor Rishab Shetty.

One social media user questioned the need for another project when Jai Hanuman was already in development. The makers have not yet clarified whether the two films share the same storyline or cinematic universe. The original Hanu-Man, directed by Prasanth Varma and starring Teja Sajja, was released in 2024. The superhero fantasy film received a strong response from audiences and collected more than Rs 295 crore in worldwide gross earnings.

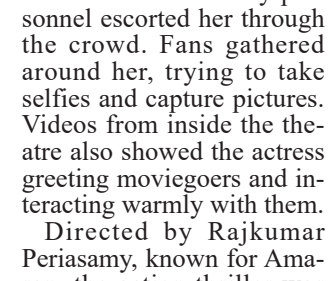

Theatres & OTT Platforms Will Continue to Coexist: Bhandarkar

Filmmaker Madhur Bhandarkar on Saturday said theatres and OTT platforms would continue to coexist, adding that the magic of watching films on the big screen would never disappear.

Speaking at the 57th International Film Festival of India (IFFI) 2026, Bhandarkar discussed the changing nature of Indian cinema and the growing influence of digital platforms on the film industry.

He said technology had brought major changes to filmmaking and storytelling across the world.

Filmmakers now have opportunities to explore stories that require more time and cannot always be presented within the traditional two- or three-hour format.

Bhandarkar noted that OTT platforms provide space for longer narratives, giving filmmakers another way to connect with audiences.

However, he maintained that technological developments would not reduce the importance or appeal of theatrical releases, as both platforms offer different viewing experiences.

5.7-magnitude earthquake strikes China at depth

BEIJING

An earthquake measuring 5.7 on the Richter scale struck China on Saturday, according to the National Center for Seismology (NCS). The earthquake occurred at a depth of 80 kilometres, with its location recorded at latitude 37.099 degrees north and longitude 96.482 degrees east.

According to the NCS, the earthquake took place at 4:15:37 pm Indian Standard Time on November 21. The agency shared details of the seismic event through a post on social media, providing information about its magnitude, depth and location.

The reported depth of 80 kilometres places the earthquake in the intermediate-depth category. Earthquakes are generally grouped according to how far below the Earth's surface they begin. Those occurring at depths of up to 70 kilometres are classified as shallow, while those between 70 and 300 kilometres are considered intermediate-depth earthquakes.

The depth of an earthquake can affect how strongly its shaking is felt at the surface. In general, seismic waves lose energy as they travel through the Earth, and deeper earthquakes may cause less intense shaking at the surface than shallower earthquakes of similar magnitude. However, the actual impact also depends on factors such as the local geology, distance from the epicentre and the strength of nearby buildings.

There was no confirmed information available in the initial report about casualties, damage to buildings or disruption to public services following the earthquake. Further assessments would be needed to establish whether the tremor affected nearby communities or infrastructure.

China has experienced other seismic events this month. The NCS reported a separate earthquake measuring 4.4 in magnitude on November 5.

? HOW DEEP IS DEEP?

Quakes up to 70 km below the surface are classed as shallow; those between 70 and 300 km are intermediate-depth. Saturday's began 80 km down.

4.6-magnitude earthquake strikes Afghanistan again

KABUL

A 4.6-magnitude earthquake struck Afghanistan on Saturday, marking the second moderate earthquake in the region within three days, according to the National Center for Seismology (NCS). The earthquake occurred at a depth of 159 kilometres, with its epicentre located in Afghanistan.

According to the NCS, the earthquake took place at 3:40 pm Indian Standard Time on November 21. Its recorded location was latitude 36.527 degrees north and longitude 71.095 degrees east.

The latest tremor came two days after a 3.9-magnitude earthquake was recorded in Afghanistan on November 19. That earthquake occurred at a depth of 183 kilometres, according to the NCS.

Both earthquakes were recorded at depths greater than 70 kilometres. The United States Geological Survey (USGS) classifies earthquakes occurring between 70 and 300 kilometres below the Earth's surface as intermediate-depth earthquakes.

The depth of an earthquake can affect how strongly the ground shakes at the surface. In general, seismic waves lose energy as they travel through the Earth, meaning deeper earthquakes may cause less intense shaking at the surface than shallower earthquakes of similar magnitude.

However, the actual effects depend on several factors, including the earthquake's magnitude, distance from populated areas and local ground conditions.

There was no confirmed information in the initial report about casualties, damage to buildings or disruption to public services following the latest earthquake. Further information would be needed to determine whether nearby communities experienced any effects.

Trump orders contractors to report requests from Congress

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump has signed an executive order directing federal contractors and subcontractors to inform the White House about requests for information from Congress related to their government work.

The order was signed on Nov 20 and aims to protect confidential information and strengthen coordination between government agencies and private companies.

The directive, titled Protecting the Executive's Privileges and Enhancing Efficiencies in Federal Contracting, requires contractors to notify the White House and relevant government agencies about pending and future congressional requests concerning their work or communications with the executive branch.

Under the order, contractors must also coordinate with the White House and the concerned agencies before responding to such requests. They are required to follow instructions to withhold communications that the administration considers protected by executive privilege.

The rules also apply to subcontractors working on federal contracts. Government agencies have been directed to inform contractors and subcontractors about their responsibilities under the new order.

Sensitive material

The White House said the move was necessary to protect sensitive government communications, including information linked to national security and other important government operations. It argued that sharing such information without proper coordination could expose confidential material and lead to costly legal disputes.

The order also allows contracting agencies to consider action against companies that fail to follow its requirements. Possible measures include ending contracts or suspending companies from future government work.

Power struggle

The decision comes as Democrats prepare to take control of both chambers of Congress in January. They have pledged to investigate several matters involving the Trump administration, including federal contracts, immigration enforcement and the president's business interests.

The order could lead to disagreements over the balance of power between the White House and Congress. While presidents can claim executive privilege to protect certain confidential communications, lawmakers also have powers to seek information for investigations and oversight.

Legal challenges may arise if contractors are instructed to withhold information sought through congressional subpoenas. Courts could be asked to decide whether the administration's claims of executive privilege outweigh Congress's authority to obtain the material.The order highlights growing tensions over government transparency, presidential powers and Congress's ability to investigate the executive branch.

WHAT THE ORDER REQUIRES

- NOTIFY — Tell the White House about congressional requests
- COORDINATE — Consult it before responding
- WITHHOLD — Hold back communications it deems privileged
- PENALTY — Contracts can be ended, firms suspended

Tanker hit by unknown projectile near Oman, no casualties reported

OMAN

A tanker travelling through the Strait of Hormuz was hit by an unknown projectile near Oman on Saturday, according to the United Kingdom Maritime Trade Operations (UKMTO). No casualties have been reported so far, while the possible environmental impact remains unclear.

The incident was reported about 11 nautical miles north of Khasab, Oman, as the tanker was travelling out of the Strait of Hormuz. UKMTO received information about the incident from military authorities and classified it as an attack.

The maritime agency advised vessels passing through the area to remain alert, proceed with caution and report any suspicious activity. Authorities are investigating the incident to establish the circumstances surrounding the strike.

The identity of the projectile and those responsible for the incident were not immediately known. Officials have also not confirmed the extent of the damage caused to the vessel.

Vital shipping lane

The incident comes amid growing security concerns around the Strait of Hormuz, one of the world's most important shipping routes. The narrow waterway connects the Persian Gulf with the Gulf of Oman and is a major route for international oil shipments.

Any disruption in the area can affect commercial shipping, energy supplies and global markets. Tankers carrying oil and other goods regularly pass through the strait, making maritime security a major concern for countries that depend on the route.

The latest report follows other incidents involving tankers near Oman's coast in recent days. These events have increased concerns among shipping operators about the safety of vessels travelling through the region.

Safety warnings

UKMTO has continued to issue safety warnings to ships operating in nearby waters and urged crews to remain watchful while the investigation continues.

Although no injuries have been reported in the latest incident, the lack of confirmed information about environmental effects remains a concern. Authorities are expected to assess the situation further as more details become available.

The incident highlights the need for greater caution among commercial vessels using the Strait of Hormuz, as authorities work to establish what happened and prevent further risks to maritime traffic.

Bangladesh garment workers clash with police over wages

DHAKA

Garment workers clashed with police in Ashulia, Bangladesh, on Saturday as protests demanding higher minimum wages continued to disrupt factory operations. Police used tear gas to disperse demonstrators, while dozens of factories declared holidays amid concerns over further unrest.

The clashes took place around 11 am in the Kathgara area along the Zirabo-Bismail road. Workers from several garment factories stopped production and joined the protest. They later attempted to block the road after factory management announced holidays.

According to local media reports, workers gathered outside factories to demand a minimum monthly wage of 30,000 Bangladeshi taka. The protests reflect growing concerns among garment workers about their pay and working conditions.

Mohammad Mominul Islam Bhuiyan, superintendent of Industrial Police-1 in Ashulia, said the situation had returned to normal by noon. He stated that police and other security personnel intervened after some workers tried to create unrest near factories that remained open.

At least 50 factories across the Savar-Ashulia industrial area declared holidays on Saturday following work stoppages, according to industrial police. Several other factories also remained closed under labour laws, while many units continued operating normally.

Wider unrest

The protests are part of a wider wave of labour unrest across Bangladesh's garment industry. Earlier in the week, workers in Mirpur, Dhaka, also staged demonstrations demanding a monthly minimum wage of 30,000 taka. Some protesters attempted to block roads, prompting police intervention.Bangladesh's garment industry is a major part of the country's economy, providing jobs to millions of workers and supplying clothing to international markets. Continued protests and factory closures could affect production and deliveries if the unrest persists.

Taiwan criticises China over treatment during APEC meetings

TAIPEI

Taiwan has raised concerns over what it described as improper treatment by China during this year's Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) meetings. Despite several rounds of talks with Beijing, Taiwan said its efforts to secure equal participation and fair treatment did not fully succeed.

According to a Taiwanese official, Taipei and Beijing held 17 rounds of negotiations after China was selected to host the APEC meetings in November 2024. The discussions focused on ensuring Taiwan's participation as a member economy, along with the safety and freedom of movement of its delegates.

However, Taiwan said several issues remained unresolved. One major concern was the absence of Economics Minister Kung Ming-hsin from the APEC Small and Medium Enterprises Ministerial Meeting held in Guangzhou in September. China cited political reasons for preventing him from attending, the official said.

Invitation row

Taiwan also expressed dissatisfaction with the way its invitation to the APEC Economic Leaders' Meeting was delivered. It had asked Beijing to follow the arrangements used in 2014, when China last hosted the summit, including having a Chinese official personally deliver the invitation.

The official said China did not meet Taiwan's expectations. Taipei had sought support from other countries to raise concerns about its treatment and protect its right to take part in the regional meetings on an equal basis.

Despite these disagreements, Taiwan said the incidents would not set a precedent for future APEC gatherings. It maintained that its participation should follow established rules and practices and that its representatives should receive fair treatment.

More than 400 Taiwanese officials from over 25 government ministries and agencies travelled to China this year to attend APEC-related meetings at different levels, showing the scale of Taiwan's involvement in the forum.

APEC brings together economies across the Asia-Pacific region to discuss trade and economic cooperation. Taiwan's concerns have added to existing tensions between Taipei and Beijing over its international status and participation in global forums.

Taiwan has said it will continue seeking equal treatment and protecting its right to participate in future APEC meetings.

Ferrari drivers face Las Vegas qualifying NIGHTMARE

Ferrari endured a difficult Las Vegas qualifying session as Lewis Hamilton and Charles Leclerc missed Q3, with technical problems, poor straight-line speed and mistakes damaging their hopes.

CH NEWS, LAS VEGAS

Ferrari endured a disappointing qualifying session at the Las Vegas Grand Prix as Lewis Hamilton and Charles Leclerc both failed to secure a place in Q3, leaving the team facing an uphill battle in Sunday's race.

Hamilton described the session as a "nightmare", while Leclerc labelled it a "very poor qualifying" after finishing outside the top 10.

Hamilton qualified 12th, while Leclerc finished 11th. The seven-time world champion struggled with a lack of grip and tyre performance, while Ferrari also suffered from poor straight-line speed and deployment issues.

Hamilton revealed that floor damage cost him three to four tenths of a second, while an energy deployment problem on his final lap resulted in a further six-tenths loss.

"It was a nightmare. It's like… just low grip. It felt like the tyres weren't working," Hamilton said.

Leclerc, meanwhile, appeared capable of reaching Q3 but made a mistake on his final flying lap in Q2, missing the cut by just over one-tenth of a second. He also pointed to Ferrari's loss of nearly a second on the straights as a major disadvantage.

The Monegasque driver admitted frustration with the team's execution and acknowledged that several opportunities had been wasted during qualifying.

Both Ferrari drivers will gain one position on the starting grid after McLaren's Oscar Piastri received a 10-place penalty for taking a new internal combustion engine. Piastri, who qualified seventh, will consequently start 17th.

GILL, PANT ENTER WTC's 3,000-run club

CH NEWS, WELLINGTON

India captain Shubman Gill and wicketkeeper-batter Rishabh Pant achieved a significant milestone during the first Test against New Zealand at the Basin Reserve on Saturday, becoming the first two Indian players to cross 3,000 runs in World Test Championship history.

Gill became the first Indian to reach the landmark, achieving the milestone during his impressive innings of 98 on Day 3. The Indian skipper entered the match with 2,917 runs from 76 innings in the WTC, which began in 2019. He needed 83 runs to reach the 3,000-run mark and completed it with a six off Glenn Phillips in the 115th over.

However, Gill narrowly missed his century, falling for 98 after being bowled by Jacob Duffy on the third-last ball of the day.

Pant followed Gill into the exclusive club shortly afterwards, becoming the second Indian to reach 3,000 WTC runs. He entered the Wellington Test with 2,948 runs and needed 52 to achieve the milestone. The left-hander reached it with a boundary in the 123rd over, which also brought up his 22nd Test half-century.

Pant remained unbeaten on 55 from 62 deliveries at stumps, becoming the first wicketkeeper in the world to score 3,000 runs in WTC history.

The Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) congratulated both players on their achievement, highlighting their contrasting batting styles and historic accomplishment.

Earlier, KL Rahul scored an impressive 136, becoming the first Indian opener to register Test centuries in all four SENA countries — South Africa, England, New Zealand and Australia.

Formula 1 set for V8 engine return in 2030

CH NEWS, PARIS

Formula 1 is set to witness the return of V8 engines in 2030 after the FIA confirmed a unanimous agreement on the proposed power unit technical framework involving the governing body, Formula 1, teams and power unit manufacturers.

The proposed framework marks a significant shift in the sport's engine regulations, with a 2.1-litre turbocharged V8 expected to become the power unit of choice. It would end the V6 hybrid engine era and bring back V8 power for the first time since the 2013 season.

According to the FIA, the proposed engines will run on sustainable fuels while offering a more affordable solution for teams. The changes are also aimed at improving racing by making cars lighter, more agile and placing greater emphasis on driver ability.

"The FIA presented F1 Power Unit regulations for introduction from 2030 with a 2.1-litre turbocharged V8 as the power unit of choice, carrying over some geometrical specifics," the governing body said in a statement.

The proposed engine changes will also seek to restore the distinctive sound associated with V8-powered Formula 1 cars, potentially bringing back an important element of the sport's traditional identity.

FIA President Mohammed Ben Sulayem described the agreement as an important milestone in shaping the championship's future. He said the objective was to create more competitive racing while maintaining innovation and sustainability.

"The return of V8 engines represents an opportunity to reconnect with the DNA of this Championship, bringing back the sound, emotion and pure racing that is loved worldwide," Ben Sulayem said. The next step will be presenting the definitive 2030 Regulatory Framework at the FIA World Motor Sport Council meeting scheduled for next month in Shanghai. All proposed regulatory changes will remain subject to approval.

"This agreement marks a significant milestone in shaping the future of Formula 1," Ben Sulayem said. "I want to thank all involved for their collaboration."

Rizwan, Masood, Ayub left out as Pakistan announce central contracts

CH NEWS, LAHORE

Former captains Mohammad Rizwan and Shan Masood and young all-rounder Saim Ayub were left out as the Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB) on Saturday announced the central contracts for 38 men's cricketers.

The contracts were announced by Pakistan Head Coach Mike Hesson and PCB Director High Performance Aqib Javed during a press conference in Lahore.

The Board announced contracts for 38 players and overhauled the structure, while awarding the contracts based on formats. The contracted players are divided into five categories: Tests and ODIs; Tests-only; ODIs and T20Is; T20Is only; and development contracts.

Current Test captain Babar Azam and former T20I skipper Salman Ali Agha are the only two players in the Test and ODI contract category, while the Test category has young Test batter Azan Awais, veteran speedster Mohammad Abbas, veteran spinner Sajid Khan and middle-order batter Saud Shakeel.

The third category – the ODI and T20I – has 50-over skipper Shaheen Shah Afridi, Abrar Ahmed, Arafat Minhas, Fakhar Zaman, Faheem Ashraf and Haris Rauf. The T20I list features new T20I skipper Sahibzada Farhan, Hasan Nawaz, Maaz Sadaqat, Mohammad Salman Mirza, Naseem Shah, Shadab Khan and Usman Tariq.

Nineteen other players feature in the development category. This includes Naseem's brothers Ubaid Shah and Hunain Shah and recent Test debutant Saqib Khan, among others. The contracts run from July 2026 to June 2027. The Pakistan players were without central contracts after their deals expired in June this year.

BALL-TAMPERING ROW

Warner, Khawaja dropped from Fox commentary

CH NEWS, MELBOURNE

Former Australia openers Usman Khawaja and David Warner have been removed from Fox Cricket's commentary roster as the controversy surrounding Australia's 2018 ball-tampering scandal continues to intensify.

Fox Sports confirmed that both former cricketers would be rested from broadcasts over the coming weeks, citing the growing pressure surrounding the public debate. However, the broadcaster has not announced when either commentator will return.

The decision comes ahead of Australia's five-match T20I series against England, which begins at the Melbourne Cricket Ground on Saturday.

Fox Sports managing director Steve Crawley said the move was intended to protect both commentators from the mounting pressure and allow them to focus on their work without being drawn into repeated public exchanges.

"In light of recent events, both Usman and Davey will be rested from our broadcasts over the next few weeks," Crawley said.

The controversy resurfaced following the release of Khawaja's autobiography, Sabr, in which he claimed that knowledge of the plan to use sandpaper during the 2018 Cape Town Test extended beyond the three players who received bans: Warner, Cameron Bancroft and Steve Smith.

Australia Test captain Pat Cummins strongly rejected the allegations during a press conference in Sydney, describing the suggestion that the entire team knew about the plan as "complete and utter nonsense".

The debate intensified further after Bancroft published an article in The West Australian, alleging that members of the wider squad were aware of what was happening and that bowlers, including Cummins, had discussed the condition of the ball.

Bancroft said Cummins' press conference had been the "final straw" that prompted him to break his silence.

The developments have brought renewed attention to one of Australian cricket's most controversial episodes, with the debate continuing ahead of the home Test summer. Australia are scheduled to begin their Test campaign against New Zealand at Perth Stadium on December 9.

It is designed as a biennial event, to be held ahead of each ICC Women's Under-19 T20 World Cup.

The timing of this edition of the Women's U19 Asia Cup fits that purpose. The 2027 ICC Under-19 Women's T20 World Cup will be held in Bangladesh and Nepal from January 21 to February 6. Sixteen teams, split into four groups of four, will play 41 matches, with the group stage followed by a Super Six round and the knockouts.

India will be chasing a third straight world title, having won the first two editions in 2023 (South Africa) and 2025 (Malaysia). The Women's U19 Asia Cup will give India an important testing platform to fine-tune their combinations ahead of attempting to make a three-peat of World Cup titles.
