‘DROUGHT LIST EXCLUDES OPPOSITION MLA TALUKS’

Union Minister Pralhad Joshi accused the Karnataka Congress administration of partisan drought-relief bias and systemic financial corruption.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Union Minister Pralhad Joshi launched an attack on the ruling Congress administration in Karnataka, accusing the government of blatant partisan bias, administrative decay, and severe institutional corruption. Addressing reporters, the senior BJP leader vehemently contended that the state's official drought-relief lists had been manipulated to serve narrow political interests, alleging that executive favors and calamity compensation were restricted exclusively to constituencies represented by ruling party lawmakers who exerted intense political pressure or threatened resignation.

Questioning the ethical foundations of the administration, Joshi remarked, "Have you no shame or decency?" Pointing to glaring disparities in relief distribution, he asserted that regions represented by opposition legislators were deliberately bypassed, leaving agrarian communities to suffer in isolation despite acute dry-spell conditions. He further castigated the state executive for failing to disburse and utilize available financial buffers under the State Disaster Response Fund (SDRF), instead choosing to rely on a persistent pattern of deflecting blame onto the Union Government.

The Union Minister drew a direct connection between the administration's aggressive rhetoric against central allocations and what he termed an internal admission of systemic insolvency. Referencing recent confidential correspondence originating from the State Finance Department that

“The taluks of all MLAs who threatened to resign have been included in the drought list, while opposition regions are excluded, do they have any shame or decency?”

- Pralhad Joshi, Union Minister

KEY HIGHLIGHTS

- Drought List Bias: Joshi criticized the arbitrary inclusion criteria following recent political pressures, pointing out that urgent rural distress calls from opposition-held constituencies are being sidelined.
- Fiscal Deficit Retort: Dismissing the state's frequent financial blame game against the Centre, he challenged the government to address its internal treasury crisis and pending contractor dues first.
- Administrative Corruption: Highlighting governance failures, Joshi alleged that key administrative posts are being compromised, citing recent high-value bribery stings involving newly appointed state officials.
- National Opposition Critique: Weighing in on wider political developments, he also ridiculed Congress protests over electoral matters, questioning the party's national relevance and electoral track record.

exposed crippling treasury constraints, unpaid contractor bills, and frozen capital allocations, Joshi argued that the government's constant finger-pointing at Delhi is a calculated smokescreen designed to hide its own structural bankruptcy.

"They know nothing other than blaming the Centre," Joshi stated. "Fix that financial emergency first. They have stated everything else in that internal advisory except the stark reality of bankruptcy; they are manufacturing political diversions now to cover up the fact that the treasury is completely empty."

Expanding his critique to systemic administrative governance, Joshi alleged that deep-rooted corruption and financial leakages have permeated every tier of the state machinery, claiming that lucrative bureaucratic positions are routinely commercialized. Pointing to recent high-profile bribery scandals involving administrative officers—including cases where mid-level revenue officials such as tahsildars were caught red-handed accepting massive illicit gratification within months of assuming sensitive postings—he questioned the transparency of executive transfers and placements managed under the current dispensation.

Shifting his focus to national political dynamics and recent protests organized by the Congress party, Joshi ridiculed the opposition's stance

Rebuttal on Electoral Controversies

Turning his attention to national political developments and recent protests staged by the Congress party concerning the Election Commission, Joshi dismissed their grievances as hollow rhetoric. Mocking opposition leaders over electoral outcomes, he contrasted the grassroots campaigning efforts of Prime Minister Narendra Modi—who engaged directly with rural citizens across every corner of the country—with opposing leaders touring abroad, questioning the political viability and future relevance of the Congress party.

regarding electoral institutions and democratic processes. Commenting on public remarks and press conferences led by senior national figures like Rahul Gandhi questioning electoral outcomes and institutional integrity, Joshi dismissed the criticism as an exercise in political dissonance. Contrasting the grassroots engagement of national leadership with what he characterized as intermittent political tourism, Joshi questioned the ideological coherence and electoral viability of the Congress party in contemporary Indian democracy, maintaining that public rejection of their policies stems directly from governance failures and hollow rhetoric.

After ED, IT Department raids Attica Gold

Income Tax and Enforcement Directorate officials launched massive multi-state raids on Attica Gold Company across nineteen locations, investigating systemic financial irregularities and money laundering.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Escalating financial investigations into prominent corporate entities across South India, the Income Tax (IT) department has launched massive search and seizure operations targeting 19 distinct locations linked to Attica Gold Company.

This sweeping fiscal crackdown follows hard on the heels of extensive multi-state raids conducted by the Enforcement Directorate (ED), which targeted the firm's central administrative offices and corporate branches over grave allegations of systemic financial irregularities, illegal gold liquidations, and money laundering.

The sudden influx of tax enforcement officials into Attica Gold's commercial hubs marks a severe escalation in regulatory scrutiny. Federal investigators from both agencies have spent consecutive days securing vital accounting documents, digital transaction databases, and covert ledger books.

The initial ED sweep—backed by central paramilitary units—spanned nearly 19 properties, primarily focusing on the company's high-profile corporate headquarters situated along Cunningham Road and Queen's Road in Bengaluru, alongside regional extensions across neighboring states. Following the preliminary collection of incriminating asset and transaction trails by the ED, Income Tax authorities moved swiftly to audit corporate tax compliances, scrutinize bullion purchase records, and investigate discrepancies between declared commercial revenues and actual cash flows.

Attica Gold, widely known for its aggressive commercial presence in second-hand gold buying and instant cash-for-gold exchanges, has faced mounting public and regulatory complaints concerning its operational framework. Investigators are closely examining allegations that the firm systematically bypassed standard banking channels for large-scale customer transactions, directly purchased precious metals without mandatory customer verification protocols, and engaged in questionable asset routing to evade statutory duties.

Complicating the investigation further, central intelligence agencies have reportedly flagged the conspicuous absence of the company's founder and Managing Director, Bommanahalli Babu (also known as Ayub P. Syed Basha). Enforcement teams searching for the promoter during the initial raids found his primary residences and offices deserted, with unconfirmed intelligence reports suggesting he may have slipped abroad prior to the execution of the search warrants. As IT department teams continue combing through the seized financial portfolios across all 19 locations, federal authorities are preparing to widen the probe into potential shell company networks and hawala channels tied to the enterprise.

Minister Bangarappa dismisses substandard shoe claims

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Karnataka Primary and School Education and Literacy Minister Madhu Bangarappa has strongly refuted allegations circulating across media platforms regarding the procurement and distribution of allegedly substandard footwear to government school students, clarifying that viral photographs depicting flawed items actually belong to previous academic cycles.

Addressing the media following legislative proceedings, the Minister detailed the state-wide rollout of student welfare amenities while simultaneously raising sharp administrative concerns over the deployment patterns of educators for continuous electoral duties.

Addressing mounting scrutiny over the execution of student support welfare programs, Minister Bangarappa emphasized that the administration has maintained strict adherence to quality parameters under the current academic framework. He noted that viral images and reports highlighting defective or substandard shoes do not represent fresh supplies procured for the ongoing academic year, but rather recycled photographs of old footwear distributed in past terms.

Providing structural context to the distribution drive, the Minister highlighted that over 12.5 million pairs of shoes and socks are being systematically rolled out across government and aided schools throughout the state. While acknowledging minor logistical delays tied to initial student enrollment verifications and sizing discrepancies—which have occasionally resulted in tight-fitting footwear requiring localized exchanges—he maintained that the quality of supplies has not been compromised. Furthermore, the Education Department has instituted rigorous supervisory clauses, confirming that direct penal action will be initiated against any tender-awarding contractors found flouting quality benchmarks specified under state procurement acts.

Shifting focus to administrative bottlenecks affecting academic continuity, Minister Bangarappa expressed strong reservations regarding the heavy reliance on school teachers for non-teaching administrative burdens, specifically the ongoing Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls managed by election authorities.

While acknowledging the exemplary dedication and co-operative spirit demonstrated by teaching faculty in execut-

KEY HIGHLIGHTS

- Quality Assurance: The education department assured that strict penal action will be initiated against any tender-winning contractors found supplying inferior material.
- Size Replacements: Acknowledging minor logistical complaints regarding tight-fitting footwear due to sizing discrepancies, immediate local exchange channels have been set up for students.
- Teacher Deployment Friction: Voicing frustration over administrative disruptions, the Minister criticized the deployment of academic staff for Special Intensive Revision (SIR) voter duties, remarking that the Election Commission's approach causes student inconvenience.

ing assigned civic duties, the Minister criticized the operational friction caused by pulling educators away from classrooms. Highlighting the disruptions faced by students as academic calendars progress, Bangarappa remarked that the unrelenting demands of the electoral machinery often stretch school administration thin, metaphorically describing the inflexible scheduling approach of election authorities as heavy-handed.

Education department officials reiterated that while compliance with statutory electoral revisions remains mandatory, synchronized micro-planning is urgently required between district administrations and school boards to safeguard instructional hours and minimize student learning loss.

Thieves steal 48 liters Nandini milk in Richmond Town

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

As citizens debate a potential state-wide price hike for Nandini milk, thieves in Richmond Town targeted a local supply drop. Two suspects on a scooter stole 48 liters of milk along with their storage crates from Renius Street at dawn. Caught clearly on CCTV cameras around five in the morning, the daring theft has shocked locals under the Ashok Nagar police limits. Police are currently analyzing the footage to track down the culprits behind this unusual heist amid growing concerns over dairy costs.

Transport dept faces ₹8,000 cr loss, says minister

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Karnataka's public transport sector is facing an unprecedented financial crunch, with the state's four major road transport corporations—the Bangalore Metropolitan Transport Corporation (BMTC), the Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC), the Kalyana Karnataka Road Transport Corporation (KKRTC), and the North Western Karnataka Road Transport Corporation (NWKRTC)—collectively grappling with an estimated loss of ₹8,000 crore.

Addressing the Legislative Council, Transport Minister Byrathi Suresh revealed that despite mounting operational expenditures, multiple hikes in diesel prices by the Centre, and severe cash-flow bottlenecks that have routinely delayed staff salary disbursements, the government has consciously avoided raising bus passenger fares. The administration has held off on fare revisions primarily due to the apprehension of triggering intense public pushback and political protests from opposition parties.

This acute fiscal stress is further compounded by massive structural arrears. Outstanding reimbursement dues owed by the state government to the transport corporations under the flagship 'Shakti' free-travel scheme for women have climbed to over ₹5,650 crore. Since the inception of the populist initiative, the four corporations have accommodated nearly 800 crore free passenger journeys, incurring a staggering operational expenditure that has heavily outpaced actual government disbursements. When Leader of the Opposition Chalavadi Narayanaswamy and other members raised concerns regarding long-delayed recruitment appointments—noting that youth who cleared interviews three years prior still awaited placement—Minister Suresh defended the administration by pointing out the harsh fiscal reality: with internal revenues deeply depleted and insufficient funds even to cover monthly salaries for existing personnel, new recruitments remain temporarily unfeasible.

VOTER LIST REVISION

Navigating electoral notices: Essential guide for voters

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

As the comprehensive Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls moves forward across Karnataka, election officials have urged citizens who receive official verification notices to remain calm and follow structured remedial procedures. Representing the first large-scale structural revision of voter registries since 2002, this routine administrative drive aims to clean up database records, eliminate duplicate registrations, and seamlessly incorporate newly eligible demographics ahead of the final electoral roll publication scheduled for October 27, 2026.

The Special Intensive Revision is a rigorous administrative exercise instituted by the Election Commission of India to guarantee absolute accuracy across urban and rural voter databases. With initial public objections and institutional cross-verifications having concluded on September 23, notices have been dispatched across major metropolitan sectors—including approximately 4.5 million notices issued in Bengaluru alone, of which over 1.3 million have already been successfully resolved through targeted hearings.

Historical Baseline Mismatches: Discrepancies arising when current demographic information fails to reconcile smoothly with foundational records from the 2002 electoral roll archive.

Clerical and Submission Errors: Inconsistencies or omissions resulting from improperly filled particulars during past data collections handled through Booth Level Officers (BLOs).

Identity and Documentation Variations: Minor or major discrepancies between a voter's declared identity parameters and supporting legal documentation, such as spelling variations in names, parental names, or age declarations.

With the formal window for initial claims and objections having closed, the electoral administration has established an extended corrective window through October 24, 2026, during which citizens can submit fresh applications or clarify pending discrepancies before the final roll is unveiled on October 27.

Voters attending verification hearings or submitting paperwork to designated Electoral Registration Officers (EROs) are advised to carry a comprehensive set of verifying credentials, including official photo identification (such as an [Aadhaar Redacted] card or passport),

Statutory application forms for rectification
Form 6	Designed primarily for new registrations, this document must be filed by young citizens turning 18 who are seeking inclusion for the first time, individuals whose names were omitted from previous drafts, and voters who have permanently relocated across assembly constituencies.
Form 7	Utilized strictly for objections and deletions. This form enables citizens to voluntarily request the removal of redundant entries—such as individuals holding active registrations simultaneously in both an urban residence and a native village—thereby ensuring single-location compliance and preventing duplicate voting.
Form 8	Dedicated to corrections and modifications. Voters utilize Form 8 when their names already exist on the draft roll but require alterations regarding demographic particulars, including corrected names, updated addresses, adjusted age details, gender markers, changed photographs, or internal relocations within the same assembly constituency.

secondary school leaving certificates (SSLC marks cards) for age proof, current passport-size photographs, and verifiable residential proof such as a registered rental agreement or utility bill. In instances where a registered voter is temporarily unavailable due to out-of-state employment or overseas travel, authorized family members may appear before local EROs with requisite authorization and documentation to safeguard the voter's franchise, ensuring full democratic participation across the state.

650-year-old Shivalinga found in Kodagu forest

CH NEWS,MADIKERI
An ancient Shivalinga and temple remains discovered in a forest have prompted villagers to revive the abandoned shrine.
A 650-year-old Shivalinga has been discovered in Aimangala village on the outskirts of Virajpet in Kodagu district, drawing attention to the remains of what villagers believe was an ancient Mahadev temple.
Several remnants, including the Shivalinga, a Basava idol, traces of a sanctum sanctorum and a holy pond, have been found in a forest area around three kilometres from Aimangala village on the Chembellur road.
The Shivalinga has remained intact in the forest despite exposure to rain, wind, cold and sunlight over several years. A Basava idol was also found beside it, facing the same direction.

Villagers believe the site once housed a Mahadev temple and say the survival of the Shivalinga without major damage makes the discovery significant. They also believe that the discontinuation of daily worship at the shrine was followed by various difficulties faced by local residents.

"The centuries-old Shivalinga and remnants of the ancient temple have once again drawn attention to this historic site. With the collective efforts of villagers, we hope worship will resume here."
Local residents

Against this backdrop, village leaders convened a meeting to gather information about the temple's history and discuss measures to restore the site.
According to villagers, members of the old priestly family had worshipped at the temple for generations. However, as family members later settled elsewhere, regular worship stopped and the shrine gradually fell into neglect.
The villagers have now planned several restoration works, including reconstruction of the Shivalinga pedestal, sanctum sanctorum, Tirthakunda and Kalyani. Steps, pauli, facilities for ritual bathing and a house for the priest are also proposed as part of the project.

The villagers said tantris had suggested shifting the Shivalinga to a location towards the southeast and re-establishing it through prescribed rituals and ceremonies.
The community has set a target of reviving the ancient temple at an estimated cost of around Rs 2 crore. Donations are proposed to be collected from villagers, organisations and institutions to fund the restoration and construction works.

WIN SHIKARIPURA FIRST, THEN WE'LL SEE, SAYS BELUR

CH NEWS,SHIVAMOGGA
Speaking to reporters in Shivamogga, Belur said public representatives should exercise restraint while criticising political opponents. He said he was also capable of responding in similar language but maintained that elected representatives must understand how to conduct themselves in public life.
Referring to remarks allegedly made by Raghavendra in Shikaripura a few days ago, Belur said the MP had criticised Bangarappa in an aggressive manner. Belur said he had followed Raghavendra's family's political background throughout his own political career and was aware of how the MP had spoken to different people.
"People's issues and the welfare of farmers are more important than personal animosity. Despite political differences, everyone should unite to raise their voices on issues faced by the public," he

Responding to a question about Raghavendra challenging Bangarappa to contest and win from the Soraba constituency, Belur said the MP should first focus on ensuring that his brother wins from Shikaripura. He also questioned what Raghavendra's position would have been if the Congress had given the Lok Sabha ticket to Kumar Bangarappa in the previous election. Belur said the Congress candidate had lost the election due to certain "technical reasons" and asserted that such an outcome would not be repeated. The exchange comes amid political differences among leaders in Shiv-amogga district. Raghavendra and Belur were among public representatives present at a recent government consultation in Thirthahalli on the Kasturirangan report. The meeting also saw participation by Madhu Bangarappa and other elected representatives. Belur also raised concerns over the agricultural situation in Karnataka, saying inadequate rainfall had severely affected farmers. Several taluks have been declared rain-dependent areas, he said, adding that farmers were facing difficulties because of the rainfall deficit. He said the government had a responsibility to provide necessary financial assistance to farmers affected by the situation. On the Kasturirangan report, Belur said the issue had been discussed in detail during the legislative session. He said an all-party delegation would meet the Centre and that the legislature had unanimously passed a resolution rejecting the report.

Nine seniors booked for ragging, assault on first-year students

CH NEWS,MANGALURU
A ragging incident involving alleged confinement, stripping and assault of two first-year BBA students at a private college has come to light.

According to the complaint, the seniors allegedly forced the two students onto a motorcycle, took them to a room in a deserted house and confined them. The students were allegedly stripped and assaulted with belts and hangers after their mouths were covered when they screamed.

The complaint further alleged that one accused struck the students on their head and neck with an iron punch, with an alleged intention to kill them. The incident was also allegedly recorded on a mobile phone.

The students reportedly asked for water after the assault. The accused allegedly brought contaminated water and poured it on them when they refused to drink it. They were also allegedly threatened with further violence if they informed police or anyone else about the incident.

The incident has brought renewed attention to the need for strict enforcement of anti-ragging measures in educational institutions.
Authorities are expected to examine the circumstances surrounding the alleged confinement and assault and record statements from the students and other persons connected with the case.
Police are also examining the alleged video and other evidence to verify claims in the complaint.

Bommai slams govt financial mismanagement & debt

Former Chief Minister Basavaraja Bommai accused the Karnataka administration of attempting to mask severe economic mismanagement.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The political crossfire surrounding Karnataka's financial health intensified sharply as former Chief Minister and Member of Parliament Basavaraja Bommai launched a scathing counter-attack against Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar. Bommai accused the current administration of attempting to deflect public scrutiny and mask severe economic mismanagement by repeatedly shifting blame onto previous governments.

The fiery exchange follows a leaked internal advisory note from the State Finance Department, which cautioned the government against launching major new development projects or sanctioning unbudgeted expenditures, citing a precarious fiscal squeeze, soaring debt levels, and a massive backlog of pending bills exceeding ₹36,000 crore across key departments.

Reacting to Chief Minister Shivakumar's defense—wherein he claimed that similar cautionary fiscal notes had been issued during preceding administrations led by B.S. Yediyurappa and Bommai himself—the former Chief Minister argued that drawing comparisons across timelines ignores fundamentally different macroeconomic realities and fiscal indicators.

Court denies bail to IAS officer in KPSC scam

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The legal troubles surrounding the high-profile Karnataka Public Service Commission (KPSC) recruitment irregularities deepened as the 52nd CCH Court officially rejected the bail application filed by suspended IAS officer Gyanendra Kumar.

The officer, who previously served as the KPSC Exam Controller, is currently lodged in judicial custody at the Bengaluru Central Prison following his arrest by the Crime Investigation Department (CID) and subsequent custody enforcement by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) under provisions of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA). The corruption scandal centers around widespread systemic manipulation in the recruitment process for 400 veterinary officer posts conducted by the KPSC. Investigators allege that confidential question papers were systematically leaked to a select cohort of candidates in exchange for massive illegal gratification.

According to evidence placed before the special court by the prosecution, the illicit operations were coordinated alongside co-accused Basavaraj Kannale—a politi-

Deepening economic stand-off

As internal fiscal warnings and opposition attacks converge on the state's handling of public finances and drought relief allocations, the debate over budgetary sustainability continues to intensify within legislative circles.

There is a vast difference between managing finances during unprecedented global crises like COVID-19 and plunging the treasury into deficit despite buoyant national revenues.

- Basavaraja Bommai, Member of Parliament

KEY HIGHLIGHTS

- Surging Debt Burden: Bommai pointed out that while previous BJP administrations borrowed under pandemic constraints to manage economic stagnation, current borrowings have nearly doubled to ₹1.20 lakh crore.
- Deficit Budgets Critique: Highlighting that his tenure presented surplus budgets, the former Chief Minister noted that the ruling government has delivered three consecutive deficit budgets.

- Rejection of Comparisons: Dismissing attempts to equate current fiscal warnings with notes issued during past administrations, Bommai stressed that revenues have grown nationally, making current fiscal distress a result of policy mismanagement rather than unavoidable external shocks.

- Call for Tough Reforms: Urging the government to stop deflecting blame, the MP demanded immediate administrative measures to restore fiscal discipline and rescue the state's empty treasury.

Bommai emphasized that previous administrations successfully navigated extreme economic contractions, maintaining strict fiscal discipline despite the unprecedented disruptions caused by successive waves of the COVID-19 pandemic. He noted that while the state's total outstanding liabilities hovered around ₹65,000 crore during his tenure, the current Congress government has nearly doubled the debt burden to approximately ₹1.20 lakh crore. Furthermore, Bommai contrasted the surplus budgets delivered during his administration with the consecutive deficit budgets presented by the current dispensation, asserting that these figures expose a systemic failure in revenue administration and resource allocation.

The senior BJP leader lamented that Karnataka's current misfortune stems from a perceived absence of political will to implement tough corrective measures and arrest the deteriorating economic trajectory. With the state's cumulative liabilities nearing the critical 25 percent limit stipulated under the Fiscal Responsibility and Budget Management (FRBM) framework, and borrowing capacities nearly exhausted, Bommai urged the administration to stop manufacturing political diversions. Instead, he called upon the Chief Minister to acknowledge the empty state treasury transparently and enact rigorous expenditure-control protocols to safeguard Karnataka's long-term financial stability.

CM invited to Alampur Navaratri Mahotsava

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Karnataka Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar has received a formal, high-level invitation to participate in the upcoming Navaratri Mahotsava at the revered Sri Jogulamba Shakti Peetha in Alampur, Telangana. The invitation was extended by Sri Krishnaram Bhoopal of the historic Gadwal Samsthanam, accompanied by Karnataka State Bioenergy Development Board Chairman S.E. Sudheendra. The grand festival is scheduled to be celebrated with deep devotion and traditional splendor from October 11, 2026, to October 20, 2026.

During the official meeting, the delegation requested the Chief Minister to visit the sacred shrine, seek the divine blessings of Goddess Sri Jogulamba—revered as one of the ancient and principal Shakti Peethas in the subcontinent—and partake in the festivities.

A central highlight of the invitation involves presenting a traditional, world-renowned Gadwal silk saree to the presiding deity as an offering on behalf of the state's leadership. Dignitaries noted that the Chief Minister's participation would significantly elevate the grandeur of the celebrations while reinforcing deep-rooted historical, cultural, and spiritual connections uniting Karnataka and the contiguous Gadwal—Alampur border region.

The annual Navaratri Mahotsava at Alampur draws thousands of pilgrims and dignitaries from across southern India, serving as a vital focal point for preserving centuries-old religious traditions and fostering spiritual harmony. Temple authorities and festival organizers anticipate a strong turnout of devotees, with elaborate arrangements underway to accommodate pilgrims during the ten-day celebration.

Government cleanup exposes brutal Sampigehalli murder

CH NEWS, BENGALURU: A brutal murder was exposed in Sampigehalli after a government-ordered cleanup of vacant plots revealed a decomposing body. 32-year-old Sagar Chandra Rawat strangled his wife, Anusuya, following a financial dispute on August 11. He hid her corpse at home for three days before wrapping it in a mattress and dumping it on nearby land. Workers sent by the site owner stumbled upon the remains, which stray dogs had mauled. Police tracked down the husband using a clothing tag bill found on the victim, successfully arresting him twenty days after the crime.

FSSAI to ban 'Paneer' label for non-milk analogues

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

In a major regulatory crackdown aimed at safeguarding consumer health and eliminating deceptive market practices, the Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI) has introduced a comprehensive draft proposal to prohibit the use of the term "paneer" for any food item not manufactured exclusively from milk.

The landmark regulatory intervention addresses the surging commercial proliferation of "analogue paneer"—a cheap, synthetic imitation typically fabricated from vegetable fats like palm oil, starches, emulsifiers, and industrial binding agents instead of authentic dairy. These substitutes are engineered to closely mimic the physical texture and appearance of traditional cottage cheese, frequently finding their way into commercial kitchens, restaurants, and retail packaging without adequate customer disclosure.

Under the newly formulated draft amendment to the Food Safety and Standards (Prohibition and Restrictions on Sales) Regulations, 2011, the apex food regulator seeks to insert a dedicated structural category explicitly covering "paneer made of constituents not derived from milk".

The proposed rules mandate that any food product currently registered or licensed under the 'Analogue in Dairy Context' classification must immediately drop the word "paneer" from its commercial nomenclature, product descriptions, marketing campaigns, and packaging labels.

Food business operators, hotels, cloud kitchens, and catering establishments utilizing dairy substitutes will be legally bound to provide prominent, transparent disclosures across physical menu cards, digital food aggregator listings, and display boards, ensuring buyers are fully cognizant of product composition.

Health specialists have consistently warned that regular consumption of synthetic dairy analogues—particularly by vulnerable demographics such as children, the elderly, and individuals managing metabolic conditions like diabetes or obesity—can negatively affect dietary quality and introduce unnecessary trans fats and additives.

The regulatory tightening arrives as India's massive multi-billion-dollar dairy sector faces intense economic pressure from low-cost imitations. While authentic milk-derived paneer involves higher raw material overheads for commercial vendors, synthetic substitutes are often marketed deceptively at a fraction of the cost. Several state enforcement wings and major food delivery aggregators have already initiated strict compliance checks, penalizing establishments failing to separate genuine dairy offerings from chemical replicas.

FSSAI has made the official draft notification public, opening a mandatory 60-day window for stakeholders, consumer advocacy groups, and members of the public to submit formal objections, suggestions, or feedback before the regulation is finalized and legally enforced nationwide.

KPCC President demands arrest of CEC Gyanesh Kumar

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The political fallout surrounding the ongoing Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls reached a boiling point today as Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) President B.K. Hariprasad launched a ferocious attack against Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) Gyanesh Kumar, demanding his immediate resignation and subsequent arrest on charges amounting to treason.

Addressing a high-profile press conference at the KPCC headquarters, Hariprasad alleged that the Election Commission has systematically undermined constitutional democracy to favor a single political party and leadership. Citing alarming statistics, he claimed that unilateral decisions by the CEC resulted in the deletion of 63 million votes in Bihar, 9.1 million in West Bengal, and a staggering 10.7 million votes in Karnataka, disproportionately targeting minority and Dalit communities to disenfranchise the poor.

Denying the KPCC chief laid bare explosive allegations concerning the internal functioning of the poll panel, asserting that over the preceding ten months, CEC Gyanesh Kumar routinely overruled the recorded dissent of fellow Election Commissioners Sukhbir Singh and Vivek Joshi on at least 14 separate occasions. According to Hariprasad, critical modifications—including contentious changes to Form 6—were forced through without consensus, bypassing institutional

The responsibility of preserving democracy lies with the Commission, but unilateral decisions and mass voter deletions undermine the constitutional rights of citizens.

- B.K. Hariprasad, KPCC President

KEY HIGHLIGHTS

- Allegations of Unilateral Decisions: The Congress leader accused the CEC of overriding dissent from fellow commissioners on 14 occasions over a ten-month period to push through controversial modifications, including changes to Form 6.
- Mass Vote Deletion Claims: Citing sweeping removals—including 1.07 crore voters in Karnataka alongside large-scale deletions in Bihar and West Bengal—the party alleged a systematic attempt to disenfranchise minorities, Dalits, and the poor.
- Targeted Deletion Applications: Releasing documentation concerning 65,000 deleted votes across areas like Babalashwar, Hubballi, and Dharwad, Hariprasad pointed out that the applications lacked necessary signatures, tying them to partisan requests.
- Statewide Protests Plan: Following the initial demonstration at Freedom Park, the party will mobilize second-phase protests across all district headquarters, inviting all political entities that value constitutional democracy to participate.

checks and balances.

Highlighting specific local discrepancies, Hariprasad presented physical documentation and applications concerning 65,000 deleted votes across constituencies such as Babalashwar, Hubballi, and Dharwad, pointing out that numerous deletion requests lacked mandatory signatures. He contrasted these findings with a previously released letter by BJP MLA Abhay Patil, which allegedly requested the arbitrary deletion of 2,500 voters. The KPCC president argued that these widespread omissions were structural anomalies deliberately introduced during the execution of the SIR process rather than genuine voter relocation or death.

Characterizing the actions of the poll leadership as an unconstitutional assault on national sovereignty equivalent to treason, the Congress party announced a massive state-level demonstration at Bengaluru's Freedom Park, extending invitations to all democratic entities and opposition organizations. Furthermore, the party outlined a second phase of intense protests to be staged across all district headquarters throughout Karnataka.

FARM LOAN WAIVER

R. Ashoka slams government over ₹2,500 drought relief

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The political crossfire over Karnataka's intensifying agrarian crisis reached a new pitch as Leader of the Opposition R. Ashoka launched a scathing attack on the state government, demanding an immediate and comprehensive waiver of all agricultural loans.

The opposition leader's sharp reaction came in the wake of an announcement made by Deputy Chief Minister Dr. G. Parameashwara regarding a drought relief input subsidy of ₹2,500 earmarked for approximately 46 to 50 lakh farmers across the state. The financial package, designed to mitigate crop losses resulting from severe dryspell conditions affecting more than 40,000 hectares of agricultural land, involves an estimated state expenditure of ₹1,250 crore.

Taking to social media platform X (formerly Twitter), Ashoka vehemently condemned the relief quantum, arguing that offering a meager ₹2,500 while washing the administration's hands of broader agrarian distress represents a profound injustice to the farming community.

He highlighted the stark economic reality on the ground, pointing out that daily wage rates for rural agricultural laborers have already surpassed ₹1,000. Under such inflationary pressures, a one-time relief installment of ₹2,500

A common laborer earns more than ₹1,000 in daily wages, making a ₹2,500 relief payout after a special legislative session a complete mockery of farmers' distress.

Deepening agrarian crisis

As crop losses mount past the ₹40,000-crore threshold and opposition parties rally behind demands for expanded compensation packages and debt relief, the state legislature remains locked in heated debates over resource allocation and disaster management.

Ashoka demanded that the government move past token compensation and implement an unconditional farm loan waiver.

The mounting political friction underscores the gravity of Karnataka's current environmental and fiscal landscape. With over 200 taluks experiencing acute drought conditions, farming households are grappling with severe drinking water shortages, fodder scarcity, and insurmountable institutional debts.

While the state government has defended its fiscal allocations and indicated plans to dispatch an all-party delegation to New Delhi to press Prime Minister Narendra Modi for a formal declaration of the drought as a "national disaster," opposition leaders continue to press for immediate internal fiscal restructuring. Critics argue that instead of prioritizing populist measures or engaging in rhetorical blame games, the executive must direct comprehensive resources toward debt relief, guaranteed irrigation power supply, and sustainable employment generation under rural welfare frameworks to rescue the state's beleaguered agricultural sector from collapse.

BJP stages massive protest near Mangaluru Clock Tower

Mangaluru MLAs Vedavyas Kamath and Dr. Y. Bharath Shetty slammed the government's budgetary declarations and neglected rural development

CH NEWS, MANGALURU

The Dakshina Kannada District Bharatiya Janata Party staged a massive demonstration near the city's Clock Tower on Friday, accusing the ruling state government of deceiving citizens with empty promises. Addressing party workers, BJP District President Satish Kumpala alleged that despite grand official announcements claiming to fulfill public aspirations, the administration has left ordinary citizens completely empty-handed. Referring to Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar's recent visit to Mangaluru—where he claimed the administration builds lives without exploiting emotions—Kumpala countered that it is an ineffective and corrupt dispensation that cares neither for livelihoods nor community sentiments. He demanded that if funds are genuinely available, approved development works must begin immediately, warning that agitation will intensify otherwise.

Echoing these criticisms, Mangaluru City South MLA Vedavyas Kamath accused the government of trying to hoodwink the coastal population through inflated budgetary declarations. He asserted that local residents see through misleading propaganda and will deliver a fitting political response in due course. Meanwhile, Mangaluru City North MLA Dr. Y. Bharath Shetty criticized leadership priorities, questioning the real outcome of high-level ministerial tours and cabinet interactions when rural development remains stagnant. Former MLA Sanjeeva Matandoor also addressed the gathering. Several prominent leaders participated, including MLC Kishore Kumar Puttur, former legislators Balakrishna Bhat and Monappa Bhandari, alongside District General Secretaries Premananda Shetty and Yathish Arvar. Senior functionaries Ravishankar Mijar, Nitin Kumar, Kavitha Sanil, Sudhir Shetty Kannur, Jayananda Anchan, Mahila Morcha President Manjula Rao, and Yuva Morcha chief Nandan Mallia joined hundreds of municipal workers. Speakers collectively resolved to continue holding public rallies across the coastal belt until the administration releases sanctioned grants and provides transparent governance for regional infrastructure.

Rain brings relief from heat in coastal districts

CH NEWS, MANGALURU

Good rainfall in Dakshina Kannada and Udupi districts over the past 24 hours has brought relief to residents after weeks of sweltering heat. The Meteorological Department has forecast more rain across the state, including the coastal belt, over the next four to five days. Officials attributed the change in weather to a depression formed over the Bay of Bengal, which has influenced weather conditions over the Arabian Sea region. In Dakshina Kannada, Mangaluru, Ullal, Bantwal, Dharmasthala, Konaje, Deralakatte and Surathkal received showers from Thursday morning until evening. The district had been experiencing intense heat for two to three weeks, with the maximum temperature reaching 33.7 degrees Celsius. Following the showers, the maximum temperature fell to 30.1 degrees Celsius, while the minimum temperature was recorded at 23.4 degrees Celsius. In neighbouring Udupi district, Byndoor and Kundapur taluks received the highest rainfall during the past 24 hours. Byndoor recorded 82.9 mm, followed by Kundapur with 73.9 mm. Hebri received 45.1 mm of rainfall. Other parts of the district recorded comparatively lower rainfall. Brahmapur received 14.9 mm, Udupi 3.5 mm, Karkala 2.5 mm and Kaup 0.3 mm. Several parts of Udupi received good showers on Friday morning, but the rainfall later subsided. Cloudy conditions prevailed across the district during the day. The rainfall and overcast weather brought down temperatures considerably, providing respite to residents of the two coastal districts. The forecast of continued rainfall over the coming days has also raised hopes of further relief from the prevailing heat.

Cleanliness Drive Protects Marine Ecology At Aligadda.

CH NEWS, KARWAR

Maintaining clean coastlines is a shared civic responsibility vital for preserving delicate marine ecosystems, emphasized Dr. Mahesh, senior scientist at the ICAR-Central Marine Fisheries Research Institute (CMFRI). Speaking during a beach cleanliness drive conducted at Aligadda Beach on Friday, he addressed volunteers participating in the ongoing 'Swachhata Hi Seva' national campaign. The initiative was organized jointly by the ICAR-CMFRI Karwar Regional Centre and the Reliance Foundation under the mission slogan "Partnership in Cleanliness; Clean India, Developed India." Dr. Mahesh pointed out that coastal zones and marine waters serve as indispensable habitats for marine biodiversity while sustaining the livelihoods of traditional fishing communities. Indiscriminate littering, non-biodegradable plastic rubbish, and abandoned synthetic fishing nets severely jeopardize aquatic life and degrade maritime breeding grounds. He called for comprehensive public awareness regarding responsible waste segregation and disposal to prevent trash from choking coastal belts. Supporting the mission, CMFRI Principal Scientist Dr. Kalidas noted that systematic shoreline cleanup drives prevent toxic plastics and industrial pollutants from washing into deep oceanic currents, thereby protecting endangered marine life and delicate coral beds. Reliance Foundation Coordinator Santhosh, institute personnel, enthusiastic National Cadet Corps (NCC) cadets, students from the Karwar Government Arts and Science College, and local fishermen joined forces to clear accumulated waste along the shore. The drive was coordinated by scientists Dr. Raghu Ramudu and Dr. Tanveer Hussain, concluding with a community pledge to safeguard coastal waters.

Chaluvarayaswamy assures public welfare schemes will continue

Minister pledged to deliver results for local voters, highlighting ₹10 crore in completed rural projects and a new ration shop

CH NEWS, NAGAMANGALA

Affirming his deep dedication to public service, Mandya District In-charge and Water Resources Minister N. Chaluvarayaswamy stated that his constitutional authority belongs entirely to the people. Speaking after laying foundation stones for the Maulana Azad Model School building and a post-matric minority girls' hostel at Umar Nagar near Bellur on Friday, he pledged that the Congress administration will never discontinue its popular guarantee schemes.

Addressing the energetic gathering, the minister declared that he believes in delivering tangible results rather than indulging in empty rhetoric. He recalled how local voters placed immense trust in his leadership and helped him reach the Vidhana Soudha, promising that he will work tirelessly to repay their faith.

Highlighting ongoing rural progress, he noted that projects worth ₹10 crore had already been inaugurated in the village, adding that a long-demanded fair price ration shop will open soon to serve local residents.

Taking strong exception to bureaucratic inertia, Chaluvarayaswamy openly reprimanded officials from the Land Army Department for delaying the construction of the proposed Ambedkar Bhavan for over a year. He issued an ultimatum, telling negligent officers to execute work immediately or vacate the site. He questioned how modifying project blueprints could take twelve months, warning that administrative delays would not be tolerated.

Following the event, the minister broke ground for a backward classes residential school near Devihalli Gate and launched fresh roadworks in Yaraganahalli. Prominent figures including DCC Bank Director Dinesh, guarantee committee president Mudalappa, community activist Shivanna, Jamia Masjid leader Suleman, and minority welfare officer Madhushree attended the ceremonies. Speakers appreciated the government's infrastructure initiatives, concluding that steady educational facilities and reliable civic roads remain crucial for rural transformation across the taluk.

AAM AADMI PARTY PROTESTS AGAINST ABOLISHING KPSC

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Aam Aadmi Party staged a spirited protest at Freedom Park, strongly opposing the state government's reported move to consider abolishing the Karnataka Public Service Commission.

Addressing the gathering, State Organizing Secretary Dr. Satish Kumar asserted that authorities must pursue stringent legal action against corrupt officials, middlemen, and fraudulent agents rather than shutting down the constitutional recruitment agency entirely.

He emphasized that government hirings must be conducted transparently through a dedicated public body, noting that talk of dismantling the commission has created panic among lakhs of young job aspirants across Karnataka. He urged the government to launch an independent, time-bound investigation into recruitment scams while issuing clear directives to protect the future of candidates who have already appeared for competitive examinations.

Endorsing these concerns, Vice-President of the party's campaign committee Lakshmikan Rao warned that closing down the commission would never solve the systemic problems faced by youth who dedicate years to exam preparation. He stated that the ruling administration cannot simply wash its hands of responsibility by using the commission as an excuse for broader governance failures. Demanding full accountability and administrative transparency, Rao insisted that officials consult aspirants, legal luminaries, and education experts before taking drastic measures. He warned that weakening the recruitment framework would trigger massive statewide student demonstrations.

Protesters raised slogans demanding swift institutional reform and justice for honest candidates preparing for state employment. Prakash Raj demands resignation of Gyanesh Kumar

CH NEWS, TUMAKURU

Actor and activist Prakash Raj demanded the immediate cancellation of the Special Intensive Revision process, alleging that the chaotic exercise has disenfranchised lakhs of eligible citizens across Karnataka.

Speaking at a joint press briefing hosted by the SIR Resistance Committee and progressive collectives at the Jana Chalavali Kendra on Friday, he sought the immediate resignation of Chief Election Commissioner Gyanesh Kumar over controversial, non-consensual modifications made to voter forms.

Raj alleged that deploying undertrained Booth Level Officers led to widespread administrative collapse, leaving approximately 1.08 crore citizens without valid voting rights. He pointed out severe anomalies across rolls, where genuine living voters disappeared while deceased individuals remained enrolled, alongside numerous deletions triggered by minor typographical errors. He questioned why ordinary citizens must endure hardship on the streets for institutional lapses, stressing that the Constitution guarantees absolute equality before the law, with no special privileges for VIPs over ordinary citizens.

Announcing a nationwide

agitation roadmap, Raj revealed that civil society movements Eddelu Karnataka and Jagruta Karnataka will conduct state-wide fact-finding tours to document operational blunders. Organizers will present detailed dossiers at a press conference in Bengaluru on September 30, followed by a national media briefing in Delhi on October 1 featuring affected leaders from multiple states. Furthermore, he declared that legal teams will initiate the process of filing an FIR against Chief Election Commissioner Gyanesh Kumar on October 3.

Progressive groups plan to stage a massive protest rally at Jantar Mantar in New Delhi on October 15, bringing together opposition parliamentarians, farmers, Dalit collectives, and labor unions. Senior activists Dorairaju, C. Yathiraju, Indira, and CITU leader Syed Mujeeb attended the briefing, vowing to fight fearlessly as a unified platform for aggrieved voters.

‘Quality and branding essential for farm exports’

CH NEWS, KOPPAL

High product quality and strategic branding are vital for agricultural goods to succeed in global export markets, stated Thimmanna Chavadi, Board of Management member at the University of Agricultural Sciences, Raichur.

Speaking after inaugurating a specialized export training workshop organized jointly by UAS Raichur and APEDA at the Agricultural Extension Education Centre, Chavadi urged growers to follow scientific cultivation methods to secure premium international prices. He encouraged farmers to embrace integrated farming models like sericulture and fisheries alongside traditional crops.

Joint Director of Agriculture Krishnamurthy highlighted that Koppal's favorable climate and extensive Tungabhadra canal irrigation create immense opportunities for horticultural exports. He requested APEDA's technical support in building modern cold-storage facilities to preserve harvested crops. Addressing quality concerns, Joint Director of Horticulture Krishna Ukkunda revealed that although Koppal's famous 'Kesar' mango commands high export value, consignments have faced overseas rejections due to excessive pesticide residues. He demanded that APEDA set up chemical residue testing laboratories at the district's upcoming rice and horticulture parks to ensure compliance with strict international safety norms.

APEDA Development Manager Karanth B. explained the simple registration procedure for prospective exporters, noting that registered members receive three days of specialized training alongside an attractive seventy-five percent government subsidy for sorting, grading, packaging, and storage infrastructure.

Extension Leader Dr. P.R. Badari Prasad urged farmers to utilize institutional assistance, while progressive farmer Anandatirtha Pati shared practical insights on meeting rigorous food safety standards in Israel and Thailand.

Gadag forms panel for upcoming council elections

CH NEWS, GADAG

To prepare effectively for the 2026 biennial election to the Karnataka West Graduates' Constituency, the district administration has reconstituted its Systematic Voters' Education and Electoral Participation committee.

The primary goal is to design an extensive action plan that spreads vital civic awareness and boosts democratic voter turnout across all educational institutions, workplaces, and rural communities throughout the region.

The Chief Executive Officer of the Gadag Zilla Panchayat serves as chairperson and designated nodal officer, while the District Information Officer functions as member secretary. Key panel members include deputy directors and leaders from women and child development, district health, social welfare, backward classes and minorities, public instruction, pre-university education, and industries.

To maximize local outreach, the committee also incorporates youth coordinators, National Service Scheme leaders, the Gadag-Betageri municipal commissioner, and chief officers from town councils across Lakshmeshwar, Mundaragi, Ron, Gajendragad, Naragund, Mulgund, Shirahatti, and Naregal.

Deputy Commissioner and District Election Officer C.N. Sridhar issued formal directives mandating all members perform duties strictly under Election Commission of India guidelines. Dalit leader criticizes former lawmaker Pratap Simha

KALABURAGI
Dalit activist Surinvas Bannakki strongly criticized former Parliamentarian Pratap Simha, describing him as an unemployed politician seeking cheap publicity through controversial remarks. Issuing a public statement, Bannakki condemned Simha's recent claim that Dalit groups stage demonstrations wearing blue scarves without reading Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's literature. Bannakki stressed that community organizations work ceaselessly across India to spread constitutional principles, Ambedkarite ideology, and social justice. He stated that making disparaging remarks against dedicated reform bodies is unacceptable. Bannakki concluded that the former lawmaker spoke out of pure ignorance, having completely failed to understand the sacred significance behind the color blue or community sentiments.

PARENTS EXPRESS SEVERE ANGER OVER DELAYED SCHOOL SHOES

Malingaraya Pujar CH NEWS
The ambitious Vidya Vikas Yojana to supply free footwear to government school pupils has completely broken down across the taluk. A clear failure exists at the Government Higher Primary School in Haripura, Shirahatti. Although the previous academic session concluded months ago and Dussehra holidays are fast approaching, eligible children have still not received the footwear promised for last year. This delay has triggered widespread fury among local parents. Administrative paralysis began when former headmaster H.M. Jalihal was transferred elsewhere in June. Department regulations require departing heads to transfer school responsibilities, financial accounts, and institutional files immediately to a successor. Jalihal, however, failed to return to hand over charge. Consequently, daily school administration has frozen. Current staff and Cluster Resource Persons remain helpless, while bank accounts stay inaccessible, preventing authorities from releasing funds to distribute the footwear. Most students at Haripura are children of impoverished agricultural laborers who cannot afford basic footwear. Left without support, vulnerable children walk to classes barefoot or in torn slippers beneath the blazing sun.

Healthcare is pure service, not mere business: ADC

Police and medical leaders in Koppal urged chemists to prevent youth substance abuse and report suspicious bulk medicine purchases

KOPPAL
Healthcare is fundamentally a life-saving social service rather than a business for making profit, so pharmacists must never compromise on professional ethics, advised Additional Deputy Commissioner Sidrameshwara. He spoke while inaugurating World Pharmacist Day celebrations and the district-level Best Pharmacist award ceremony at the District Administration Bhavan auditorium on Friday. Organizers observed the global theme, "Empowering Pharmacists for a Healthy Future," urging professionals to embrace digital tools and continuous research. Stressing the delicate nature of medical dispensing, Sidrameshwara noted that a single careless error harms the reputation of the entire fraternity.

Koppal City Police Inspector Suresh stated that if doctors resemble God, pharmacists act as distributors of divine offerings. He cautioned against youth substance abuse, asking chemists to report suspicious, bulk purchases of cough syrups or sleeping tablets. He highlighted the state's "Byada Bro" campaign, which works to protect youths from addictive peer pressures. Assistant Drug Controller Venkatesh Rathod honored Professor Mahadev Lal Schroff as the father of Indian pharmacy education, recalling the heroic sacrifices made by pharmacists as front-line Covid warriors. He warned against growing antibiotic resistance, reminding retailers that the Drugs and Cosmetics Act strictly forbids dispensing scheduled drugs on plain slips without valid medical practitioner registration details and authorized signatures.

During the commemorative event, authorities presented prestigious district awards to five outstanding pharmacists and formally felicitated 125 senior practitioners who dedicated over twenty-five years of service to public healthcare. Senior Civil Judge Mahantesh Daragad, Assistant Commissioner Mehboob Jilan, District Health Officer Dr. Eshwar Savadi, alongside chemist association leaders Suresh Morageri, Kotrappa Korlalli, Ashokaswamy Her-

Rich minds foster truly contented human lives: Annayyanavara

CH NEWS, RAMANAGARA
True prosperity lies in cultivating a generous mindset rather than accumulating worldly possessions, observed Principal District and Sessions Judge M.H. Annayyanavara. Inaugurating the valedictory program of a legal awareness initiative at the foothills of SRS Betta on Friday, the judge stated that those with an impoverished spirit remain poor despite material riches, noting that contentment is the ultimate form of wealth. The outreach event was organized jointly by the Karnataka State Legal Services Authority, Ramanagara Advocates' Association, District Legal Services Authority, Zilla Panchayat, Hulikere Gunnuru Gram Panchayat, and Padma Law College. Addressing law students, Annayyanavara urged them to uphold social equity, discipline, and hard work regardless of their chosen career paths. He stressed that actively serving vulnerable and underprivileged citizens is essential for leading a purposeful and peaceful existence. District Legal Services Authority Member Secretary and Senior Civil Judge Savita P.R. noted that the valedictory session marked only the start of the students' legal journey. Describing law as an empowering instrument for the public, she advised young entrants to listen attentively to grassroots grievances and uphold statutory ethics. She observed that while adjudicating cases presents tough challenges, securing justice for disadvantaged individuals brings unparalleled professional gratification.

Presiding over the gathering, Ramanagara Advocates' Association President K. Kempayya hailed the legal profession as a noble calling dedicated to defending constitutional rights. Emphasizing that practitioners remain lifelong learners, he urged students to dedicate themselves to continuous study and preserve professional dignity. Association of office-bearers V.N. Jayaram, T.M. Chandrashekhkar, H.D. Jyothi, Padma Law College Principal G. Rani Lalini, management trustees, and law faculty attended the ceremony, reaffirming their collective commitment to expanding equal legal aid across rural communities.

Solur Rural Cooperative Society unveils new building

MAGADI
A modern administrative building built at an estimated cost of ₹1.50 crore will officially open on November 20, announced S. Chandrashekarayya, President of the Solur Multipurpose Primary Agricultural Rural Cooperative Society. Addressing members during the Annual General Meeting for the 2025-26 fiscal term, he recalled that although the institution was originally founded in 1949, it remained defunct for forty-two years. Sixteen years ago, local leaders revived operations overnight, transforming the society into a vibrant, solvent organization that generated ₹4.42 lakh in net profit this year. Chandrashekarayya noted that ₹8.50 crore in agricultural loans had been distributed, alongside ₹40 lakh lent to local merchants at a concessional one percent interest rate. Construction funding comprised a ₹45 lakh composite advance from the BIDCC Bank, ₹13 lakh in farmer contributions, ₹1 lakh from Apex Bank, personal donations, and legislative constituency grants totaling ₹20 lakh from local lawmakers. While ₹30 lakh is still needed, the society plans to expand into gold, vehicle, and housing loans, while operating a commercial fertilizer dealership. Taking the stage, former Zilla Panchayat member Shivarudrayya urged the board to insure ragi crops and firmly admonished administrative staff for lax loan recovery. Highlighting accessible credit

Rupee rises 14 paise to 95.85 against dollar

MUMBAI
The rupee gained 14 paise to 95.85 against the US dollar in early trade on Friday, supported by a positive trend in domestic equities. The rupee opened at 95.92 at the inter-bank foreign exchange market before strengthening to 95.85. However, traders said persistent dollar demand from importers, particularly oil companies, elevated crude prices and a stronger US dollar index continued to weigh on the currency. The Reserve Bank of India is likely to intervene to manage volatility, according to forex traders. On Thursday, the rupee had weakened 26 paise to close at 95.99 against the dollar. The dollar index stood at 101.28, while Brent crude futures declined 0.85 per cent to $105.69 per barrel. In domestic equities, the Sensex rose 86 points to 73,672.98, while the Nifty gained 18.80 points to 23,080.45. Foreign Institutional Investors sold equities worth Rs 5,027.36 crore on a net basis on Thursday.

India needs diversified energy, wider trade ties: Economist

NEW DELHI
India needs to diversify its energy supply routes and expand trade partnerships amid geopolitical risks, economist Kent Oliver Bhupathi said. Speaking at the PAFI's 13th Annual Forum, Bhupathi said India's dependence on imported LPG and oil makes it important to diversify energy sources, pipelines and ports of entry. He said geopolitical conflicts have exposed vulnerabilities in concentrated supply chains. Bhupathi also urged India to strengthen trade ties with Europe, Asia and Southeast Asia, particularly smaller economies. He said high US Treasury yields could raise borrowing costs and put pressure on equities and the rupee. He also called for greater renewable energy adoption to reduce dependence on imported oil, while noting that the transition would take time.

Oil disruptions could widen global market deficit

NEW DELHI
Continued disruptions in oil supplies from producing countries could widen the existing supply deficit, with physical markets already under pressure, S&P Global Energy's Global Director, India Content, Pulkit Agarwal, said on Friday. Agarwal said supply-side challenges had affected global oil and gas markets for more than six months. Oil prices have moved through several peaks and declines as markets assessed ongoing conflicts, possible agreements and when supplies could resume. He said some oil was still flowing through the Strait of Hormuz, helping limit a rise in prices, but the market remained tight. Physical supplies, particularly refined products, are also facing pressure. Agarwal said diesel was one area where record cracks were being seen. He stressed that oil prices depend on several variables, including supply, demand response to prices and possible future agreements.

He said prices could not be assessed simply by looking at how much oil was being produced today. Agarwal also discussed India's dependence on Russian crude, saying Russian oil had remained an important part of the country's oil demand equation since the Russia-Ukraine conflict began in 2022. He said removing a major supplier would be difficult for an importing country while physical markets remained tight. He added that market participants wanted greater supply resilience, although global oil markets had developed around logistical efficiency and competitive sourcing. On hydrogen, Agarwal said India's ambition to become a major exporter would require optimism alongside realism. He said hydrogen should form part of a broader energy ecosystem, while domestic consumption in sectors such as refining and fertilisers would need to increase. Building that ecosystem, he said, would be necessary to achieve the scale required for India to emerge as a global hydrogen exporter.

ing responsibility for end-to-end business processes and research and development activities. The proposed fintech hub in Coimbatore is expected to strengthen the city's position in financial technology and support the State's efforts to attract more technology-driven businesses. Chennai, which already has a strong technology and financial services ecosystem, is also being positioned as a key location for fintech-focused GCCs. The development is part of Tamil Nadu's broader efforts to expand technology-led investment and employment beyond traditional IT services.

Finance Ministry denies five-day bank week commitment

NEW DELHI

The United Forum of Bank Unions (UFBU), which claims to represent 90 per cent of the banking workforce, has called the strike over several demands, including a five-day work week. Unions have said the Indian Banks' Association agreed to the proposal under the 12th Bipartite Settlement and 9th Joint Note signed on March 8, 2024. Government sources said the proposal, which involves increasing working hours from Monday to Friday by 40 minutes, was subsequently recommended to the government and remains under consideration. Centre cuts FY27 borrowing by Rs 1.2 lakh crore

NEW DELHI
The Centre will borrow Rs 7.86 lakh crore through dated securities during the second half of 2026-27, while reducing its full-year market borrowing plan by Rs 1,20,494 crore from the Budget estimate. The finance ministry said total market borrowing for the financial year is now expected at Rs 15,99,506 crore, compared with the Budget estimate of Rs 17,20,000 crore. The second-half borrowing, decided in consultation with the Reserve Bank of India, will include Rs 15,000 crore through Sovereign Green Bonds. The government is expected to complete the Rs

7,86,000 crore second-half borrowing through 23 weekly auctions. The securities will have maturities of three, five, seven, 10, 15, 30, 40 and 50 years. The largest share will come from 10-year securities at 26.3 per cent, followed by 15-year securities at 17.6 per cent and five-year securities at 12.1 per cent. Other maturities will account for 9.9 per cent for 50-year securities, 9.2 per cent for 30-year securities, 9.1 per cent for seven-year securities, 8.9 per cent for 40-year securities and 6.9 per cent for three-year securities. The distribution includes Sovereign Green Bonds within the overall second-half borrowing programme. During the first half of the fiscal year, ending in September, the government is expected to mobilise Rs 8,13,506 crore through bonds, slightly below the earlier target of Rs 8.20 lakh crore. The borrowing programme is aimed at financing the government's revenue gap. The revised annual plan reflects the lower total borrowing requirement for FY27.

Gupshup launches agentic AI solution for real estate

MUMBAI
Conversational artificial intelligence platform Gupshup has launched an agentic AI solution for the real estate sector, designed to support property discovery, lead qualification, sales and post-sales services through WhatsApp and voice interactions. The solution combines agentic AI and structured workflows with property, inventory and customer relationship management systems. Customers can explore properties, ask questions, share requirements and take further steps through a conversational interface. The system can collect details including budget, preferred location, property type and purchase timeline to qualify leads. Developers can use the platform to provide brochures, arrange callbacks, schedule appointments and connect customers with sales representatives. The same system can also support post-sales services, including maintenance requests, appointment scheduling and access to property documents. It supports text and voice interactions, including regional languages and dialects. Gupshup said the technology is already being used in real estate deployments in West Asia. One developer uses the platform on WhatsApp for property discovery and lead qualification, allowing customers to check availability, unit types, area, payment plans and amenities. Another deployment supports property discovery, lead generation and customer service in English and Saudi dialect Arabic.

BLUE BOND PUSH

Blue bonds to finance India's maritime projects

NEW DELHI
India is preparing to tap the blue bond market to finance projects linked to the country's ocean economy, with Sagarmala Finance Corporation Ltd. (SMFCL) planning to raise up to ₹1,000 crore. The proposed issuance is expected to support maritime infrastructure and related projects under the Sagarmala programme, a major component of India's multimodal infrastructure development plans. Blue bonds are debt instruments designed to raise funds for projects connected with oceans and marine ecosystems. In India, the Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) has recognised blue bonds as part of sustainable finance instruments and highlighted their potential to support the country's blue economy. The proposed bond could provide funding for areas such as port development, fishing harbour upgrades and coastal livelihood programmes. Such projects require long-term capital and could benefit from access to specialised sustainable finance. However, the timing of the proposed issuance comes amid signs of higher global interest rates, which could affect borrowing costs and investor demand. The development therefore comes as India seeks to expand alternative sources of financing for infrastructure while promoting sustainable use of marine resources. The blue bond initiative also reflects the growing role of capital markets in funding projects linked to environmental and economic priorities. If implemented, the ₹1,000-crore issuance would mark an important step in bringing India's ocean-based economy into the sustainable finance market. With its extensive coastline and maritime infrastructure, India has significant economic activity linked to ports, shipping, fisheries and coastal communities. Blue bonds could provide another avenue for financing these sectors while linking infrastructure investment with sustainable ocean development.

Govt To Train 70,000 Rural Youth

The government will train 70,000 rural youth from next month under DDU-GKY 2.0, while over nine lakh training targets have been allocated across 31 participating States and Union Territories for two years.

NEW DELHI

The government will provide skill training to 70,000 rural youth across States and Union Territories from next month under the Deen Dayal Upadhyaya Grameen Kaushalya Yojana (DDU-GKY) 2.0, as part of efforts to expand employment-linked opportunities for rural youth.

DDU-GKY is a Centrally Sponsored Scheme focused on providing placement-linked skill training to poor rural youth. The programme is designed to equip participants with skills that can improve their prospects of securing employment after completing training. The duration of training under the scheme varies depending on the course and skill area, ranging from three months to 12 months. This allows pro-

Rural youth to get skill training:

- 70,000 rural youth to receive training from next month,
- DDU-GKY 2.0 focuses on placement-linked skill development,
- Training duration ranges from three to 12 months,
- Over nine lakh targets allocated for two years,
- 31 States and Union Territories participating.

grammes to address different levels of skills and employment requirements.

The Rural Development Ministry said all 31 participating States and Union Territories have been allocated more than nine lakh targets under the scheme for a two-year period. The training programme is expected to begin from next month, with 70,000 rural youth set to receive direct support.

The expansion comes under DDU-GKY 2.0, which aims to strengthen placement-linked training for rural youth. By linking training with employment opportunities, the scheme seeks to help beneficiaries acquire skills relevant to the job market. The government's focus on rural skill development is also intended to widen access to formal employment opportunities for young people who may have limited access to training facilities.

The new training targets will be implemented across participating States and Union Territories.

The programme is part of efforts to improve livelihood opportunities among poor rural house holds through skill development and employment training.

Telangana To Unveil Manmohan Singh Statue

HYDERABAD

Telangana Chief Minister A. Revanth Reddy will unveil a bronze statue of former Prime Minister Manmohan Singh in Hyderabad on Saturday, marking his birth anniversary. The statue has been installed at Wipro Circle in Gachibowli, an important information technology hub in the city.

Hyderabad In-charge Minister Ponnampallabharathi inspected arrangements for the unveiling ceremony on Friday and recalled Singh's contribution to India's economic development and public life.

Prabhakar described the statue as more than a memorial, saying it would serve as a reminder to future generations of Singh's role in nation-building, economic policy and public service.

The minister highlighted Singh's role as Finance Minister in 1991, when major economic reforms were initiated.

He also recalled Singh's tenure as Prime Minister from 2004 to 2014, during which programmes and legislation including the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme,

Right to Information Act and Right to Education Act were implemented. Prabhakar, who served as a Member of Parliament during Singh's premiership, said working under his guidance was a matter of pride. He recalled Singh's support for development initiatives in the Karimnagar parliamentary constituency.

The minister also highlighted Singh's role in the creation of Telangana. The state government has previously moved to expedite construction of the former prime minister's statue and the associated junction in the Cyberabad area.

Prabhakar said the former prime minister's contribution to the formation of Telangana would remain significant. The process began with the Centre's decision in 2009 and culminated in the state's forma-

Shiv Sena (UBT) in 'Saamana' demands drought declaration in Maharashtra

MUMBAI

The Shiv Sena Uddhav Balasahab Thackeray on Friday said that Maharashtra is grappling with an unprecedented and devastating drought, as rainless conditions during the peak monsoon season have decimated crops across vast stretches of Marathwada, Western Maharashtra, and Vidarbha.

Highlighting the severe distress among the farming community, the Thackeray camp in the party's mouthpiece, "Saamana", has urged the state government to bypass bureaucratic norms, open state coffers unconditionally, and declare an immediate drought emergency.

Driven by the severe effects of the 'El Niño' phenomenon, regions including Solapur, Ahilyanagar, and several districts across Marathwada and Western Vidarbha have gone weeks -- and in some places up to two months -- without a single drop of rain. Standing crops of soybean, cotton, tur, moong, urad, sorghum, and maize have dried up and withered.

Even farmers with access to wells or irrigation facilities expect a yield drop of 50 per cent to 70 per cent, while rain-dependent dryland farmers have faced total crop loss, said the editorial.

According to the editorial, the crisis is set to hit both the Kharif and upcoming Rabi seasons. With wells, ponds, and borewells drying up prematurely in the middle of the rainy season, farmers are left with no water for the next sowing cycle, threatening a complete loss of yearly livelihood.

The editorial took sharp aim at the state leadership for delaying action. Comparing Maharashtra to neighbouring Karnataka -- which officially declared a drought and initiated relief measures weeks ago -- it criticised the Chief Minister and ministers for waiting for the returning monsoon rather than taking decisive action.

"Though the Chief Minister and government officials have recently begun visiting farm boundaries to assess the ground reality, formal surveys, spot inspections (panchnamas), and ministerial review meetings should not delay immediate relief," remarked the Thackeray camp.

ASSAM INNOVATION CHALLENGE

Assam Opens Innovation Challenge Nationwide

GUWAHATI

Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Friday announced the launch of the North East Seva First Innovation Challenge, inviting young innovators and startups from across India to develop scientific and technology-driven solutions to problems faced by the state.

The initiative is being undertaken as part of the state's Seva and Sankalp Abhiyan, which is being organised in connection with Prime Minister Narendra Modi's 25 years of public service, according to the Chief Minister. Sarma said the Assam government has identified around 50 specific challenges covering areas including agriculture, irrigation, transportation and urban management. Young people from Assam, the North-east and other parts of India have been invited to develop workable models addressing these issues.

The Chief Minister said the objective was to encourage the younger generation to develop scientific models demonstrating how practical problems could be addressed. The government will select the best two or three models and provide support extending beyond financial assistance. Relevant government departments will also share data and other necessary support to help innovators turn their ideas into practical solutions. Sarma said solutions that prove useful could eventually be integrated into government policies, while the concerned startups could receive support to grow into companies.

The challenge is being organised in Assam for the first time and is open to innovators beyond the state and the North-east. The initiative could subsequently be held annually if it proves successful, Sarma said. "The idea is that the young generation should develop scientific models showing how these problems can be solved," - Himanta Biswa Sarma (Chief Minister of Assam)

"Once an idea is converted into a solution, the state government will integrate such solutions with its policies wherever appropriate and help the concerned startup grow into a company," - Himanta Biswa Sarma (Chief Minister of Assam) "Let the problems be from Assam and the solutions come from across India," - Himanta Biswa Sarma (Chief Minister of Assam).

Heavy Rain Triggers Flood Threat in Odisha

BHUBANESHWAR

A depression over South Odisha continued to bring heavy rainfall across several parts of the state, triggering flood-like conditions, disrupting road communication and causing rivers to rise in several districts.

The weather system is weakening over land and is likely to weaken further during the next 12 hours. However, heavy rainfall is expected to continue in vulnerable areas, particularly across southern districts.

In Malkangiri, several major bridges and roads have been submerged, disrupting connectivity with neighbouring districts and Andhra Pradesh.

A weakening depression over South Odisha continues to trigger heavy rain, flooding and major road disruptions across southern districts.

Water is flowing over bridges along National Highway 326, while landslides and uprooted trees have added to the disruption. Disaster response teams have been deployed to clear blocked roads and restore communication.

Rivers across south Odisha are rising amid incessant rainfall. Five sluice gates of the Indravati Dam have been opened to release excess water and manage rising water levels.

Several low-lying areas in north Odisha are also facing the threat of flooding as rivers continue to swell. The government has said there is no immediate threat from the Brahmani and Mahanadi rivers.

However, the Budhabahalanga, Bansadhara, Naluha and Rushikulya rivers are in spate.

The Bansadhara river has crossed the danger level at Kashinagar, raising concerns in downstream areas. The India Meteorological Department has forecast heavy rainfall in Malkangiri, Koraput and Kalahandi. Authorities are monitoring vulnerable areas while response teams remain engaged in clearing roads and managing the impact of the continuing rainfall.

He highlighted Upadhyaya's commitment to the welfare of society and his efforts to develop an approach to nation-building rooted in Indian philosophical traditions.

Mr Radhakrishnan particularly recalled Pandit Deendayal Upadhyaya's advocacy of Integral Humanism, a philosophy that sought to view the individual, society and nation as interconnected elements of a harmonious social framework. Couple thanks Jagan Reddy for daughter's treatment under YSR Aarogyasri

VIJAYAWADA

A couple met former Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister and YSR Congress Party President, Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy, at Gannavaram Airport and thanked him for their daughter's treatment under YSR Aarogyasri scheme when the YSRCP was in power.

Maresh and Vineela from Korlagunta in the Nuzvid constituency met Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy at the airport. They came with their daughter, Dhansika, to thank him for the medical care she received under YSR Aarogyasri.

The parents said Dhansika became seriously ill in 2019, when she was just two months old. Soon after Y.S. Jagan took office as Chief Minister, she underwent a critical brain neurosurgery free of cost under the YSR Aarogyasri at Ashram Hospital in Eluru.

She recovered after the treatment and has been growing up healthy, they said. Maresh and Vineela told YS Jagan that they would never forget the help their family received. They had come to the airport specifically to express their gratitude.

Y.S. Jagan warmly greeted Dhansika and asked her parents about her health. He encouraged her to study well and gave her his blessings. At the family's request, he also took a selfie with them. The family said they would always remember the medical support that helped their daughter recover.

Meanwhile, YSRCP spokesperson and former MP, Gorantla Madhav, accused the TDP-led coalition government of betraying the unemployed.

He criticised the Chief Minister Chandrababu Naidu government for issuing a notification for only 1,600 Police Constable posts. Speaking at the party's central office at Tadepalli, he said Home Minister Vangalapudi Anitha had earlier told the Assembly that 20,000 Constable posts were vacant as of December 2023. The government must explain the gap, he said.

Madhav said the previous government headed by the Y.S. Jagan Mohan Reddy government began recruitment for 6,511 police posts, including 6,100 Constables and 411 Sub-Inspectors.

Women Wrestlers Appeal Against Brij Bhushan Singh's Acquittal

Four women wrestlers have challenged before a sessions court, the acquittal of former Wrestling Federation of India (WFI) President, Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh, and former WFI Assistant Secretary Vinod Tomar, in the alleged sexual harassment and intimidation case. The appeal has been filed before the Rouse Avenue Court, challenging the August 3 judgment of the trial court that acquitted Singh and Tomar after holding that the prosecution had failed to establish the charges beyond reasonable doubt. The sessions court is likely to hear the appeal on Friday. In their appeal, the women wrestlers have contended that the trial court's judgment is not sustainable in law and that the evidence was assessed incorrectly. The appeal also seeks to overturn the acquittal of Tomar, who was facing trial under Section 506 Part I of the Indian Penal Code (IPC) in relation to allegations made by one of the complainants. Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate (ACJM) Ashwini Panwar of the Rouse Avenue Courts had, on August 3, acquitted Brij Bhushan and Tomar, holding that the prosecution failed to establish the charges beyond reasonable doubt. The case dates back to January 2023, when wrestlers, including Olympians Vinesh Phogat, Sakshi Malik and Bajrang Punia, launched a protest at Jantar Mantar, accusing Brij Bhushan of sexual exploitation and intimidation. The wrestlers had demanded the BJP leader's resignation as WFI chief and sought the dissolution of the federation. Following a complaint to Indian Olympic Association (IOA) President, P.T. Usha, an enquiry committee comprising eminent sportspersons, including Mary Kom and Yogeshwar Dutt, was constituted.

MATHADI WORKERS WELFARE

Fadnavis Rules Out Mathadi Act Repeal

Maharashtra Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis on Friday assured Mathadi workers that the state government would not repeal the legislation governing their employment and welfare, while announcing housing and market redevelopment initiatives for the community. Addressing a Mathadi workers' rally at the Agricultural Produce Market Committee (APMC) in Vashi, organised to mark the 93rd birth anniversary of late MLA Annasaheb Patil, Fadnavis said the law providing social security and legal protection to workers would remain in force and be strengthened further. The Maharashtra government's Labour Department describes the Mathadi framework as a system aimed at regulating employment and providing welfare benefits to unorganised manual workers.

Fadnavis also announced that around 3,000 Mathadi workers would receive homes under the Wadala housing project. He said necessary approvals and Floor Space Index requirements had been cleared, allowing the project to move forward.

He further outlined plans to redevelop the Vashi APMC market, which has operated for around five decades, with a long-term vision covering the next 50 years. The proposed redevelopment is intended to create a modern market while expanding employment opportunities for Mathadi workers. The Chief Minister said the government had initiated the empowerment and restructuring of Mathadi Boards across Maharashtra. Independent audits will be undertaken to improve transparency and address pending matters involving wages, provident fund, gratuity, bonus, house rent allowance and accident compensation. He also warned against unauthorised groups operating in the name of the labour movement and said a meeting with labour leaders and officials would be held to consider action against such elements. "Mathadi law will not be allowed to end; it will remain and be strengthened further." - Devendra Fadnavis (Chief Minister of Maharashtra) "To curb unauthorised elements and protect genuine labourers, a high-level meeting with labour leaders and officials will be convened soon." - Devendra Fadnavis (Chief Minister of Maharashtra)

15,000 buses by 2031. During the launch, Yadav also targeted

the Congress over the saffron colour of the newly introduced buses. He questioned the opposition's concern over the colour and used a sharp political metaphor, saying the sight of the buses would be like "a snake crawling on the Congress' chest". Yadav accused previous Congress governments of deliberately shutting down the state transport corporation. He described its revival as an important step towards fulfilling the BJP's 2023 election commitment. The Chief Minister said the new service would improve connectivity between cities, towns and other parts of Madhya Pradesh, while also allowing services to operate outside the state when required. MMDR Amendment row continues to disrupt Odisha Assembly

BHUBANESWAR

Opposition protests against the Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Amendment Act, 2026, continued to disrupt proceedings in the Odisha Assembly on Friday, the fourth consecutive day of the monsoon session. On Friday, Question Hour could continue for only four to five minutes amid a massive uproar by legislators of the Opposition Biju Janata Dal (BJD) and Congress over the MMDR Amendment Act in the House. Subsequently, the continued pandemonium prompted Deputy Speaker Bhabani Shankar Bhoi to adjourn the House till 4 p.m. on Friday. Speaking to media persons outside the House, Leader of Opposition and BJD supremo Naveen Patnaik criticised the ruling BJP MPs in the Lok Sabha for not raising any objections to the MMDR Amendment Act in Parliament. "As far as the MMDR Amendment Act is concerned, why blame others, when 20 BJP Lok Sabha MPs from Odisha supported this bill in the Parliament. "We in the BJD will take this up strongly with the state government to pause and see that it is revised thoroughly," noted Patnaik. He further added that, in its current form, the Act would result in a significant loss of revenue for the state. Meanwhile, after the house adjourned, the BJD MLAs marched to the AG Squ are in Bhubaneswar and distributed leaflets to people there on the MMDR Amendment Act. Speaking to media persons, senior Congress leader Tara Prasad Bahinipati targeted the BJP-led Union government, alleging that Prime Minister Narendra Modi has snatched away the rights of the state. He also stated that the Congress party will continue its protest against the MMDR Amendment Act passed in Parliament recently. Bahinipati said, "If Odisha Chief Minister Mohan Charan Majhi wants to run the House, we urge him to bring legislation in the Assembly stating that the MMDR Amendment Act passed by Parliament will not be implemented in Odisha."

HALDWANI

Uttarakhand Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami on Friday came out in support of the Election Commission of India (ECI) amid reports of differences within the poll panel, saying that everyone is free to express their opinion and that it need not be "portrayed as something seriously wrong". Speaking to reporters in Uttarakhand's Haldwani, CM Dhami said: "There is a procedure in every office, and everyone has their own views. Ultimately, the decision is a collective one. It is not that someone is doing something wrong, while someone else is doing something right." "All officials record their comments (in a government establishment). This happens in all departments and even at the Secretariat. A section officer makes a comment, followed by remarks from the Under Secretary, Additional Secretary and Secretary, and by the time it reaches the Chief Secretary, there are several comments. Ultimately, a decision is taken based on what is considered right," he stated. The Chief Minister further said: "Therefore, I don't think there is any major issue here that needs to be unnecessarily portrayed as something seriously wrong. Ultimately, everyone's views are taken into consideration, and everyone is free to express their opinion." CM Dhami's reaction comes days after a media report triggered a row by claiming that two Election Commissioners had "objected on record" to several decisions taken by the poll panel, allegedly without their knowledge. A day before, Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi launched a scathing attack on Chief Election Commissioner Gyanesh Kumar and the BJP-led Centre, suggesting that Kumar should resign and rather turn "approver" in the alleged "stealing" of votes.

BJP on CJP's ultimatum to poll panel

NEW DELHI

Leader of the Opposition (LoP) in Jammu and Kashmir Assembly Sunil Sharma, reacting to Cockroach Janta Party (CJP)'s ultimatum to CEC Gyanesh Kumar on "either resign within 48 hours or face protests", said on Friday that many forces in the country are working against its growth and are trying to weaken the constitutional institutions. "We heard CJP's ultimatum. This is a newly formed party, and I cannot say yet what their expectations or goals are. But the direction in which they have started doing politics raises questions, because there is a history here," he said, speaking to newsmen. In the aftermath of CJP founder Abhijeet Dipke's Thursday press conference with his peers, spokespersons Saurav Das and Ashutosh Ranka, "Whether in name of secularism or the way the Communists expanded their political ground here, could they also be moving in the same direction?" he asked. "Our nation is growing at fast speed. Many powers are at play, working to reduce the pace of the 'Viksit Bharat'. Owing to these powers, many tools are growing that are working against the nation, we have to counter these forces too," he said. "When the youth of the nation, using some external force, try to debilitate or defame constitutional institutions, somehow it affects their future, as well as it affects the nation's future. We should come together for the growth of the nation,"

NEW YORK

Foreign Secretary Vikram Misri held separate meetings with senior US officials in New York on the sidelines of the United Nations General Assembly, discussing critical minerals, semiconductors, emerging technologies, energy security, civil nuclear cooperation and US sanctions legislation targeting Russia and Iran.

Misri met US Under Secretary of State for Economic Affairs Jacob Helberg and discussed ways to advance India-US cooperation in critical and emerging technologies.

In a post on X, Misri said the two sides agreed to strengthen cooperation 2Misri stated that both sides agreed to enhance cooperation via Pax Silica, alongside joint efforts on semiconductors and critical minerals.

through Pax Silica, along with work on semiconductors and critical minerals. Pax Silica is a US-led initiative focused on secure supply chains linked to advanced technologies and artificial intelligence.

The discussions come as India and the US seek to improve supply-chain resilience in sectors considered important for economic and national security. The Pax Silica framework covers areas including critical minerals, energy inputs, advanced manufacturing, semiconductors and AI infrastructure. India is among the countries participating in the initiative.

In a separate meeting, Misri held talks with US Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs Allison Hooker. According to Misri, the discussions covered India-US bilateral cooperation, energy security, the recently enacted Sanctioning Russia and Iran Act (SRIA), civil nuclear cooperation, TRUST and the Indian Ocean Strategic Venture initiative.

The SRIA has particular relevance for India because of its provisions concerning Russia's energy trade and countries purchasing Russian oil and gas. The legislation provides the US executive branch with authority to impose additional sanctions, tariffs and trade restrictions under specified conditions.

A potential tariff of up to 100% on imports from countries continuing to purchase Russian energy has been discussed in connection with the legislation, but such a tariff is not automatically imposed by the law.

India has maintained that its energy decisions are guided by national interests and market considerations. Misri's meetings highlighted the breadth of the India-US relationship, covering strategic technologies, critical supply chains, energy, nuclear cooperation and the wider Indo-Pacific, while also addressing differences linked to sanctions and Russian energy trade.

SOUTH KOREA VOWS PROBE INTO DMZ EXPLOSIONS

MEXICO CITY

A South Korean presidential official has pledged a prompt and thorough investigation into recent explosions in the Demilitarised Zone (DMZ) that injured three South Korean soldiers.

The official, speaking to reporters in Mexico City while accompanying President Lee Jae Myung on his state visit, said an objective investigation was under way. Forensic analysis of fragments collected from the site is being conducted to determine whether the suspected mines were of South or North Korean origin.

The official said investigators must establish whether the explosions were caused by mines, identify their type and determine whether they were planted by North Korea. If North Korea was not responsible, investigators would examine what caused the explosions. The probe is being conducted in coordination with the United Nations Command because the location is part of a newly established reconnaissance route and remains dangerous to access.

The explosions occurred on Monday and injured three South Korean military personnel. Speculation has grown that the blast may have involved a landmine allegedly placed by North Korea on the South Korean side of the DMZ, although authorities have not confirmed the cause.

UK MP urges stronger action on Balochistan rights

GENEVA

British Labour MP John McDonnell has called on the UK government to take a more active role in addressing alleged human rights violations in Pakistan's Balochistan province, citing Britain's historical links with the region.

Speaking virtually at the 12th Balochistan International Conference at the Geneva Press Club, McDonnell said British ministers should support efforts concerning alleged abuses and recognise what he described as the Baloch people's demands for peace, justice and self-determination. The conference was organised by the Baloch National Movement.

McDonnell also said the British government should consider its responsibilities toward people seeking asylum, amid concerns over restrictions affecting asylum seekers. He said he would continue providing political and diplomatic support in Britain to Baloch people affected by what he described as repression.

At the conference, Jamal Baloch, media coordinator of the BNM-linked human-rights organisation Paank, presented figures on alleged enforced disappearances, killings and other violations.

He said the organisation had documented 485 cases of enforced disappearance over the previous six months and received information about 181 alleged extrajudicial killings.

However, Paank's own published half-year report for January-June 2026 records 556 enforced disappearances and 227 extrajudicial or custodial killings during that period.

The organisation describes these as documented cases and calls for independent investigations.

Lakhu Lohana, general secretary of the World Sindhi Congress, also addressed the conference and spoke about the long-running political and humanitarian concerns in Balochistan.

He said the region's difficulties included poverty, malnutrition, killings and disappearances.

The conference comes amid continuing international debate over the situation in Balochistan, where rights groups have reported disappearances and killings, while Pakistan has also faced a longstanding separatist insurgency and security challenges in the province. The allegations concerning Pakistani authorities and the figures presented by Paank are claims by the respective organisations and have not been independently established in every individual case.

Shehbaz Sharif to address UNGA amid Pakistan crises

NEW YORK

Pakistan Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif is scheduled to address the 81st United Nations General Assembly (UNGA) session on Friday, as his government faces political, economic and security challenges at home. His appearance at the UN headquarters has also drawn attention to questions over Pakistan's approach to terrorism and its handling of individuals designated by India and international bodies.

Sharif was questioned by reporters at the UN headquarters about allegations that Pakistan continues to provide shelter to terrorists. According to ANI, he did not respond to questions about when Pakistan would prosecute Lashkar-e-Taiba (LeT) founder Hafiz Muhammad Saeed. The questions come amid renewed discussion in India over Saeed's alleged role in major terror attacks, including the 2008 Mumbai attacks and the April 2025 Pahalgam attack.

The report also highlighted Pakistan's updated 2026 Red Book of most-wanted terrorists. It said the Federal Investigation Agency increased the announced reward for Jaish-e-Mohammed chief Masood Azhar from PKR 20 lakh to PKR 70 lakh. ANI also cited Indian intelligence assessments claiming that Azhar remains in Pakistan, while alleging that details relating to some 26/11 suspects were changed in the updated list. These claims have not been independently established in the material provided. At home, Pakistan is dealing with economic pressures and planned opposition protests. Finance Minister Muhammad Aurangzeb has warned that strikes, long marches and sit-ins by groups including Jamaat-e-Islami, Kissan Ittehad and Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf could result in substantial daily economic losses. The Punjab government has also imposed restrictions ahead of a planned September 27 PTI protest seeking the release of former Prime Minister Imran Khan. Sharif is expected to use his UNGA address to discuss international issues, including the conflict involving the United States and Iran, along with Pakistan's broader diplomatic priorities. His visit comes as Islamabad seeks to present itself as an active participant in multilateral discussions while facing continuing scrutiny over terrorism, economic stability and political unrest.

Sachin Siwach Advances to Boxing Quarterfinals

AICHI-NAGOYA, JAPAN

Indian boxer Sachin Siwach advanced to the men's 60kg quarterfinals at the Asian Games 2026 after defeating Jordan's Mohammad Abu Jahah 4-1 in a split decision on Friday.

Sachin began cautiously, but landed the cleaner punches in the opening round, including a strong left hook, to take a 3-2 lead on the judges' cards.

The Indian increased his activity in the second round and again connected effectively with his left hook. Although Abu Jahah used his reach advantage to counter, Sachin's punches appeared more effective as he won the round 4-1.

Abu Jahah started aggressively in the final round, attempting to overturn the deficit. However, the Jordanian struggled to land clean punches as the bout progressed. Sachin maintained his composure and grew more effective in the closing stages to secure the 4-1 victory.

With the win, Sachin booked his place in the quarterfinals, where he will face Japan's Shunsuke Kitamoto, another World Championships bronze medallist. The quarterfinal is scheduled for the day after tomorrow.

Sachin's victory adds to India's boxing campaign at the ongoing Asian Games, with the Indian contingent continuing its medal push across multiple disciplines.

Nepal's Ganga Ghimire produced a standout four-point raid to reduce the deficit to 21-15. India, however, tightened its defence and extended its lead before the break, with Sanju Devi and Sonali playing key roles as the defending champions went into half-time 31-17 ahead. India continued to control the contest after the restart, maintaining a comfortable advantage throughout the second half. The defending champions eventually completed a 48-24 victory to book their place in the final.

The Indian pair, ranked eighth in the world, went down 8-11, 5-11, 8-11, 2-11 in the semi-final. With no bronze-medal playoff in the event, reaching the last four guaranteed the duo a podium finish.

The medal is India's second in Asian Games mixed doubles table tennis. The first came through Sharath Kamal and Manika Batra at the 2018 edition.

Shah and Chitale had earlier secured their place in the semi-finals with a 3-1 quarter-final victory over Hong Kong's world No. 4 pair Wong Chun Ting and Doo Hoi Kem. The Indian duo won 11-6, 13-15, 11-9, 11-5 in the quarter-final.

Sammy: Beating India Key to Major ICC Success

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

West Indies head coach Daren Sammy has described the upcoming three-match ODI series against India as an important opportunity for his team to assess its progress ahead of the 2027 ODI World Cup qualifiers.

The first ODI will be played in Thiruvananthapuram on Sunday. West Indies, ranked 10th in the ODI rankings, missed automatic qualification for the 2027 World Cup and will have to go through the qualifiers.

Sammy said the series provides an opportunity for his players to test themselves against India in home conditions. He also highlighted the significance of defeating India for teams aiming to win major ICC white-ball tournaments.

West Indies have not won an ODI series in India for 24 years. Sammy said the team would use the three matches to fine-tune its preparations for the qualifiers scheduled for February.

The coach pointed to the recent contributions of batters Shai Hope, Amir Jangoo and Sherfane Rutherford, while pacer Alzarri Joseph has also returned to form.

Sammy also praised 19-year-old wrist-spinner Vitel Lawes, who took eight wickets in five matches against New Zealand in July. He said the youngster would continue to receive opportunities as part of the team's development plans.

India women's hockey team enters semifinals

AICHI-NAGOYA

India defeated Japan 3-1 in their Asian Games Pool B clash on Thursday to book a place in the women's hockey semifinals and maintain their winning run.

Lalremsiami opened the scoring in the first quarter with a field goal before Ishika doubled India's advantage late in the second quarter. India went into the half-time break with a 2-0 lead despite Japan keeping the Indian attack under pressure for long periods.

India strengthened its position in the third quarter when Navneet Kaur scored the team's third goal. She collected the ball inside the circle, moved towards the right and scooped it over the Japanese goalkeeper into the far corner. Japan pulled one back early in the final quarter through Kobayakawa Shihoh, who struck a backhand from the top of the circle past goalkeeper Savita Punia. Japan could not find another goal as India held on for a 3-1 victory and secured its semifinal berth.
