SIR ROW: CONG CALLS FOR RESIGNATION OF PM, CEC

Citing removal of 13.3 crore voters and constitutional concerns, CWC passed a resolution calling for an independent probe to restore faith in democratic process.

NEW DELHI

Calling for the removal of Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) Gyanesh Kumar over alleged SIR irregularities, Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge on Tuesday put forth five demands before the Centre.

Kharge, at his opening address at the Congress Working Committee (CWC) meeting in Delhi on Tuesday, demanded Prime Minister Narendra Modi's resignation on moral grounds for "pressuring" the poll panel chief.

His demands included making public the complete data regarding every major change made to the electoral rolls, providing political parties with the electoral rolls and relevant data in a simple format promptly, and an independent and time-bound inquiry wherever evidence of serious discrepancies emerges.

He also demanded the immediate resignation of CEC Gyanesh Kumar and suspension of the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls and restoration of 13 crore 30 lakh names that the party claims have been removed from the rolls.

"Most importantly, the voters of India must have confidence that their vote is secure," Kharge said. "We do not view this issue merely as a battle to win or lose an election. Elections come and go, and governments change, but democracy and the Constitution are enduring. This is the foundation of Indian democracy. We must convey to every citizen that in a democracy, the most powerful person is the ordinary voter -- not the prime minister, the chief minister, or a leader in power," he said.

The CWC also passed a resolution which referred to reports that Election Commissioners Sukhbir Singh Sandhu and Vivek Joshi had raised objections at least 14 times over 10 months regarding decisions and procedures linked to SIR.

The resolution said that the report validated Rahul Gandhi's claims of vote chori, adding that the credibility of the poll panel is under question due to the reported concentration of control over electoral rolls during the nationwide SIR.

The CWC also expressed concern over what it described as the constitutional validity of SIR, claiming that the exercise had "already wiped out 13 crore 30 lakh Indians from the electoral rolls".

The resolution said the process shifted the burden onto citizens to prove their eligibility, and the current process resulted in "arbitrary mass-disenfranchisement" that could not be reconciled with the guarantees under Article 14 and universal adult suffrage under Article 326.

"An exercise of doubtful constitutional validity cannot be allowed to decide who may vote in the world's largest democracy," the resolution said.

The CWC meeting, chaired by Kharge, is being attended by former party chiefs Sonia Gandhi and Rahul Gandhi, party general secretaries Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, Jairam Ramesh, KC Venugopal, Sachin Pilot, Mukul Wasnik, and senior leaders P Chidam-

CONGRESS LISTS 5 DEMANDS

Kharge laid out five demands that he said the Congress would pursue:

- ➡ Full data on major changes to voter lists should be made public.
- ➡ Voters whose names have been removed should receive complete information and a full opportunity to appeal.
- ➡ Political parties should receive voter lists and essential related data in a simple format and in a timely manner.
- ➡ Serious discrepancies should be independently investigated within a fixed timeframe.
- ➡ Election-related data and decisions should be transparent so that no political party can claim information is being withheld.

baram, among others, attended the meeting.

Chief ministers of Congress-ruled states -- DK Shivakumar (Karnataka), VD Satheesan (Kerala), A Revanth Reddy (Telangana) and Sukhvinder Singh Sukhu (Himachal Pradesh) -- also attended in the meeting.

Home, Law ministries brief JPC on FCRA Bill 2026

A 31-member panel, headed by BJP MP Sanjay Jaiswal, was formed to examine the provisions of the legislation in detail before coming out with a report.

NEW DELHI

The ministries of Home Affairs and Law and Justice on Tuesday gave a clause-by-clause briefing to the Joint Parliamentary Committee (JPC) examining the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Amendment Bill, 2026, as the proposed law continues to face objections from Opposition parties and Christian groups.

The 31-member parliamentary panel, headed by BJP MP Sanjay Jaiswal, was constituted to scrutinise the Bill before submitting its report. Officials from the two ministries gave detailed presentations explaining the reasons for amending the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Act, 2010, and the proposed way forward, according to sources.

Foreign funding rules under scanner

Organisations and non-governmental organisations (NGOs) receiving foreign contributions are required to register under the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Act (FCRA). The Ministry of Home Affairs is the nodal authority overseeing their activities.

The panel is also expected to hear the views of domain experts, including State Bank of India chairman Challa Sreenivasulu Setty, senior government law officers and lawyers. Their inputs assume significance as the panel examines the financial, legal and compliance implications of the proposed changes.

JPC briefing in a nutshell

Committee: The 31-member panel (21 from Lok Sabha, 10 from Rajya Sabha) is chaired by BJP MP Sanjay Jaiswal.

Briefing and consultations: MHA and Law Ministry officials gave a clause-by-clause presentation at Parliament Annex. The panel also lined up consultations with experts like SBI Chairman Challa Sreenivasulu Setty and ASG Chetan Sharma.

FCRA data shared: Officials reported active NGOs fell from 29,022 (2015) to 14,466, while foreign contributions rose from ₹17,832 cr to ₹22,974 cr in 2024-25, led by TN, Maharashtra, and Karnataka.

Context and controversies
The FCRA Amendment Bill faces push-back from opposition and civil groups over fears of tightening restrictions, though India maintains it is an internal matter. The JPC must report back by the first week of the Winter Session 2026.

Fewer NGOs, but more foreign funds

At the JPC's first meeting on September 18, a Ministry of Home Affairs team led by Union Home Secretary Govind Mohan told the panel that the number of active NGOs registered under the FCRA had nearly halved over the past decade even as foreign contributions increased. According to the data presented to the committee, 14,466 FCRA-registered NGOs are active across 15 states. Tamil Nadu has the highest number with 2,102 organisations, followed by Maharashtra with 1,578, Karnataka with 1,355, Delhi with 1,218, Andhra Pradesh with 1,022 and Kerala with 1,013. There were 29,022 active FCRA-registered NGOs in 2015. At the same time, foreign funds received by FCRA-registered NGOs increased from Rs 17,832 crore in 2015-16 to Rs 22,974 crore in 2024-25, even as the number of active organisations declined from 29,022 to 14,466.

The Bill was introduced in the Lok Sabha on March 25 and referred to the parliamentary committee on August 12 following demands from Opposition parties for greater scrutiny. Opposition parties have alleged that some provisions could restrict legitimate foreign funding received by Christian NGOs and minority-run social welfare and educational institutions.

Govt rejects minority charges

The Centre has rejected allegations that the proposed law discriminates against minorities and has maintained that the legislation is not religion-specific. It says the changes are intended to regulate foreign contributions and improve transparency in their use.

While introducing the Bill in the Lok Sabha, Union Minister of State for Home Nityanand Rai said the legislation was intended to improve transparency and ensure the proper utilisation of money received from abroad. Responding to Opposition claims that the Bill was "dangerous", Rai said it was "indeed dangerous" for those using foreign contributions for "forced religious conversion" and for people who "abuse foreign funding" for personal gain.

The disagreement goes to the heart of the debate surrounding the legislation: while the government has presented tighter regulation as necessary for accountability, its critics fear that stronger controls could make it harder for NGOs and minority institutions dependent on overseas contributions to operate.

CISF jawan opens fire, kills 4 personnel in J&K's Kathua

As per reports, an argument broke out among the personnel before the firing.

SRINAGAR

Four Central Industrial Security Force (CISF) personnel, including an Assistant Commandant, were killed after a colleague opened fire at a security camp guarding a hydel power project in Jammu and Kashmir's Kathua district on Tuesday evening, in what officials described as a fratricide incident.

The firing took place at around 7 pm during a change of duty at the CISF deployment at the Sewa hydel power project in Mashka village in the Basohli area, close to the Himachal Pradesh border, officials said.

According to preliminary inputs, an argument broke out among the personnel before the firing. The exact cause of the argument and the circumstances that led to the shooting are being investigated.

The deceased were identified as Assistant Commandant Ankit Kumar Pandey, Sub-Inspector Lakshman Singh, and constables Sanjeev Kumar and Mohd Rafiq, officials said.

Pandey was the company commander of the CISF unit deployed at the project.

The four personnel were initially critically injured in the firing and were taken for medical treatment to an NHPC hospital in neighbouring Himachal Pradesh, where they later succumbed to their injuries, reports said.

The shooter, a CISF head constable, was apprehended and handed over to the police.

A team from the Kathua district police reached the area and has been entrusted with the investigation. The CISF headquarters has also ordered a Court of Inquiry to establish the sequence of events and determine the circumstances leading to the firing.

The incident occurred at a particularly remote security deployment. The Sewa project is located in the mountainous Basohli area at the far end of Kathua district, close to Himachal Pradesh's Chamba district.

The CISF company was deployed on the Jammu and Kashmir side of the Chamera Dam over the Ravi river, and the site is reportedly more accessible through Himachal Pradesh than from the rest of Kathua.

For the CISF, whose mandate includes protecting critical infrastructure, such deployments involve guarding installations vital to power generation and transmission.

The Sewa project is located on the Sewa river, a tributary of the river Ravi, in a sparsely connected mountainous area.

The shooting was an instance of fratricide, referring to violence by personnel against members of their own force.

Officials have not yet established what triggered the confrontation or whether there were any other factors behind the shooting.

HDK raises BMIC project irregularities

BENGALURU

Union Minister HD Kumaraswamy on Tuesday alleged changes were made to the Bengaluru-Mysuru Infrastructure Corridor Project without Cabinet approval, raising questions over land allocation.

He challenged Chief Minister DK Shivakumar to an open debate on the alleged irregularities. Releasing documents, he said the original Framework Agreement had been approved by the Cabinet and questioned how subsequent changes could be made without returning to it.

He pointed to differences between the original Framework Agreement and the revised Outline Development Plan (ODP), particularly in land allocation for the project.

According to Kumaraswamy, the total project area was 20,193 acres, while land earmarked for the toll road increased from 6,999 acres under the original framework to 9,468.86 acres in the revised plan. He also alleged that land allocations for townships were altered, with acreage increased in some locations and reduced in others.

BMIC expansion questioned

Kumaraswamy questioned the State Government's decision to continue and expand the BMIC project despite the operational Bengaluru-Mysuru National Highway through Mandya. He alleged that further expansion could lead to additional land acquisition and financial liabilities for Karnataka. He also questioned whether the changes to land allocation and the revised project plan were placed before the Cabinet for approval, and alleged links between the government and private interests.

Russian military aircraft crashes in Amur, 6 killed

Preliminary reports identified the aircraft as a Tupolev Tu-154, a Soviet-era three-engine jet that was originally designed as a medium-range passenger aircraft but has also been used by Russia's military and government for special missions. It crashed shortly after takeoff, with seven people reportedly on board.

SC on 10x markup on cancer drugs, bats for 16% margin

SC flags Rs 27,000 MRP on Rs 3,000 cancer drug; unchecked MRPs on 82% of non-scheduled drugs; hospital pharmacy practices and taxpayer burden.

NEW DELHI

Calling the vast gap between marked retail prices and actual procurement costs "carnage, plain and simple," the Supreme Court on Tuesday said opaque and soaring medicine prices were inflicting suffering on ordinary patients while private hospitals and others pocketed the difference.

A bench of Justices Vikram Nath and Sandeep Mehta, hearing petitions seeking stricter price controls, highlighted stark anomalies and

Supreme Court observations

Massive price discrepancy
Highlighted a cancer drug priced at an MRP of ₹27,000 despite being procured/supplied to retailers for just ₹2,700.

Forced in-house purchases
Criticized corporate hospitals for compelling patients to buy medicines exclusively from in-house pharmacies under threat of denying treatment.

Burden on taxpayers
Noted that inflated prices directly drain public funds when treatments are reimbursed via government welfare schemes.

Beneficiaries
Remarked that pharmaceutical manufacturing companies are often not the primary gainers, pointing instead toward hospital profiteering.

Legal & policy questions raised

Uniform margins: Questioned why a standard 16% margin norm under the Drugs (Prices Control) Order (DPCO) isn't strictly enforced across all drugs instead of allowing massive, uncapped markups.

Essential vs. Non-essential distinction: Challenged the rationale behind differentiating pricing caps based on whether a medicine is classified as essential or non-essential.

Next steps: Directed Solicitor General Tushar Mehta to consult with govt officials and submit a response, deferring the hearing to October 12, 2026.

Rs 27,000 has a price-to-retailer of around Rs 3,000.

"Where does this chunk of money go, 10 times (the MRP)," Justice Mehta asked, adding, "This is carnage."

Hospitals mandating in-house medicine purchases

Patients are routinely forced to buy medicines from hospital in-house chemists, the bench noted. Those who try to procure the same medicine at a lower price from outside risk doubts over its genuineness or may even face resistance from the hospital, the court observed.

"A corporate hospital... says that you have to buy from our chemist. If you bring it from outside, we are not assuring you of the treatment; what does the patient do," Justice Mehta observed, adding that hospitals "do not even allow a dead body to be taken out."

Unethical practices and taxpayer burden

The court questioned the distinction between essential and non-essential medicines and the exclusion of many drugs from the Drugs (Prices Control) Order. "Why not keep 16% margin on MRP which is prescribed in the DPCO on everything? Why not? Ultimately, the result is the taxpayer (is paying)," Justice Mehta said.

It stated that medical devices and medicines fall under the Essential Commodities Act and asked why they should be left outside price control.

Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, who joined the hearing, said the government would examine a balanced solution and described the court's suggestion of a uniform 16% ceiling as appearing "logical." The bench said the real loser was the taxpayer, whether under government schemes or otherwise.

Voters in parts of Bengaluru say Election Commission directions on home visits by BLOs have yet to reach the ground. The ECI has directed Booth Level Officers to collect documents from voters who received notices over unmapped names or discrepancies, instead of requiring them to attend hearings. However, residents said hearings continued at several centres, with relatives submitting documents and video calls used for voters outside the city or abroad. A Kasavanahalli resident said BLOs may face difficulties making home visits amid existing workloads. Another resident said field-level instructions remained unclear. The ECI has also asked officials to set up help desks and special camps for vulnerable voters.

Despite ban, artificial colours continue to spice up K'taka food

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Despite a statewide ban, artificial colours continue to be used in popular food items across Karnataka, raising health concerns. Brightly coloured gobi, kebabs, egg rice, fish fry, jalebi, falooda and ice candy are commonly sold at eateries and roadside stalls. Officials have restricted colours such as Rhodamine-B, Sunset Yellow FCF and Carmoisine in certain foods, while testing has flagged others above permitted limits. Sources said the price gap drives use, with artificial colours costing Rs 200-300 per kg compared to around Rs 20,000 for natural colours. Health Minister U.T. Khader warned of strict action against sellers compromising public health.

Kharge questions BJP leaders over children's RSS participation

The minister also sought clarity on the organisation's funding, donor disclosures, audited accounts and registration status.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Karnataka Home Minister Priyank Kharge has questioned BJP leaders over their children's participation in RSS activities and sought financial disclosures. In a post on X, Kharge referred to Karnataka's 224 Assembly constituencies and challenged the BJP to produce photographs showing children of its candidates wearing RSS uniforms, attending shakhas, serving in gaushalas or following the lifestyle advocated by the organisation. He claimed that such participation would be found among fewer than 10% of the children of BJP candidates. Kharge also named several senior BJP leaders, including Union ministers Amit Shah, Rajnath Singh, Nitin Gadkari, Anurag Thakur, S Jaishankar, Ashwini Vaishnaw and Piyush Goyal, and asked how many of their children active RSS swayamsevaks were or regularly attended shakhas. Kharge has previously sought greater transparency from the RSS, while the organisation has maintained that it does not require formal registration to function.

IIT-B study backs Hebbal tunnel, flyover amid IISc objections

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

An IIT Bombay assessment projects faster peak-hour traffic movement, while an IISc review questions assumptions behind the findings. An IIT Bombay study on the Hebbal short tunnel and elevated corridor has recommended implementing both projects, projecting improved traffic speeds and reduced delays if a substantial share of traffic shifts to the proposed infrastructure. The study, conducted by Professor Archak Mittal for Rithwik Projects Private Limited, the BDA contractor for the short tunnel, estimated that average peak-hour speed in 2027 could increase from 13.74 kmph on the existing road network to 20.64 kmph if 50% of traffic shifts to the tunnel and elevated corridor. At an 80% shift, the projected speed is 22 kmph. The study tested 50%, 60%, 70% and 80% traffic-shift scenarios based on assumptions in the project DPRs. It examined the existing road network, elevated corridor, tunnel and combined project, and recommended the two facilities together. However, the Sustainable Transportation Lab at the Indian Institute of Science (IISc) reviewed the assessment and described it as “biased in favour of building the two projects”, citing insufficient evidence for its recommendations. IISc IST Lab convener Ashish Verma questioned the traffic-diversion assumptions, calling the 50% and 80% levels “arbitrary”. He said the study did not establish the figures through a robust route-assignment methodology. The review also noted that the tunnel has 3+3 lanes while the elevated corridor has 2+2 lanes, making identical diversion assumptions questionable. It said the detailed analysis primarily covered the existing network and combined project, rather than independently evaluating each facility. The IIT-B study itself flagged a possible bottleneck where traffic from both facilities could converge downstream. It recommended traffic channelisation and at least a 250-metre gap between the structures. Prof Verma also said the assessment did not compare public transport alternatives or environmental, ecological and road-safety costs.

High Court quashes case against 'Drone Prathap' over sodium experiment

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The Karnataka High Court has quashed the criminal case registered against YouTuber N.M. Prathap, popularly known as 'Drone Prathap', over a science experiment involving sodium in an agricultural pond. Justice Suraj Govindaraj, hearing Prathap's petition seeking quashing of the case, observed that the experiment was related to science prescribed in the Class 10 NCERT curriculum. The Bench said the experiment appeared to have been conducted for educational purposes and there was no apparent malicious intent. Prathap is known for conducting educational experiments on YouTube and has reportedly built around 600 drones using electronic waste. The video in question was allegedly made to explain a chemical reaction to viewers. However, the court made it clear that it neither endorsed nor appreciated the manner in which the experiment was conducted. The Bench said the material before it did not establish the malicious intent required to justify continuing the investigation and criminal proceedings against Prathap. It consequently quashed the FIR and related criminal case. At the same time, the court cautioned that any repetition of similar incidents in the future would be viewed more

Case background Prathap had conducted the experiment using 100 grams of sodium in an agricultural pond on his friend's private property. The experiment was recorded and uploaded on YouTube, after which the video went viral on social media. Prathap was arrested in December 2024 in connection with the incident. Police had registered a case under Section 3 of the Explosive Substances Act, alleging an explosion in a manner that could endanger life or property. He was also booked under Section 288 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita for negligent handling of explosive substances. Challenging the proceedings, Prathap approached the High Court seeking quashing of the FIR and criminal case. The court subsequently allowed his petition and closed the proceedings.

Rs 5.48 crore MDMA seized, six held

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Girinagar, Hebbal and Vidyaranya police have busted separate drug operations, arresting six people and seizing 5.48 kg of MDMA. The accused include a foreign national and three persons from other states. Police said the drugs were allegedly procured at cheaper rates from foreign countries, other states and various parts of Karnataka before being sold at higher prices to customers, including college students. Girinagar police seized 4.320 kg of MDMA, while Hebbal police recovered 1.054 kg and Vidyaranya police seized 106 grams. The combined value of the seized contraband was estimated at Rs 5.48 crore based on the quantity and prevailing market rates. The raids followed information received by police about the sale of banned narcotic substances within the limits of the three police stations. Separate cases were registered under the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances (NDPS) Act before police teams conducted raids at locations identified through their sources. Bengaluru Police Commissioner Seemant Kumar Singh said the city police had seized 79.5 kg of MDMA and 1,000 ecstasy pills, collectively valued at Rs 161 crore, during operations over the past four months. “Thirty-six teams involving around 140 officers and personnel worked on the crack-

Man steals jewellery from relative's house, replaces it with fake ornaments

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A man allegedly stole gold jewellery from his relative's house while the family was away and replaced the ornaments with fake ones. Kengeri police have arrested Ashwath K.H., a native of Hosanagara in Shivamogga district, and recovered 84.3 grams of gold jewellery and cash, collectively valued at Rs 8.40 lakh, police said. The theft occurred at the house of Ashwath S., who lives at Kailash BDA Apartments in Kengeri. The accused, a distant relative of the complainant's wife, frequently visited the house and was familiar with the family. Police said the accused had recently visited the house after being invited for Lakshmi Puja. He allegedly noticed the jewellery placed before the deity and planned the theft. A few days later, the family left the city to attend a family function. Taking advantage of their absence, Ashwath allegedly brought a person who made a duplicate key and convinced him that the house belonged to him and that he had lost his key. He then allegedly entered the house, replaced the original ornaments with fake ones that he had brought along and fled with the jewellery. After returning, the family noticed that Rs 8,000 kept in the puja plate was missing. A subsequent check revealed that several ornaments in the cupboard had been replaced with fake jewellery. The stolen ornaments included a 17.3-gram gold rope chain, a 45-gram diamond-studded gold necklace and two gold bangles weighing 22 grams. The homeowner lodged a complaint with Kengeri police. After registering a case, police examined CCTV footage and launched an investigation, which led to the accused's arrest. The stolen jewellery and cash were recovered, police said.

Swamiji lauded D Veerendra and Hemavati Heggade for preserving Dharmasthala’s Chaturdhana tradition and popularizing bhajans.

CH NEWS, MANGALURU

When the morning silence is filled with the melodious sound of Bhajans, there is peace of mind. When the day ends with the chanting of God’s name in the evening, there is a sense of meaning in life. With the aim of bringing such Bhajan culture to homes and minds, the 28th annual Bhajana Kammata was launched in Dharmasthala.

The function held at the Mahotsava Sabha Bhavan was inaugurated by Venerable Vidyaprasannathirtha Swamiji of Subrahmanya Math. Swamiji gave the message that chanting bhajans with devotion for at least an hour every morning and evening purifies life. He said that although it is difficult to undertake severe penance in the Kali Yuga, one can lead a happy, peaceful and tranquil life by using the body, mind, tongue and wisdom given by God for good deeds and chanting.

The programme also expressed the hope that Bhajan should not be limited to just the remembrance of God’s name, but should also be a medium of good conduct and religious awareness. Swamiji praised the service of D Veerendra Heggade and Hemavati Heggade for preserving and developing the Chaturdhana tradition of Dharmasthala and bringing the Bhajan culture to homes and minds.

Dharmadhikari D. Veerendra Heggade, who presided over the programme, revealed another important facet of the Bhajana Kammata. Those who return after receiving Bhajana training should become the leaders of the progress of their respective villages. They should work for the development of the society as ideal leaders. They should introduce the Bhajana culture to

BJP demands scrapping of Shiralakoppa ring road plan

CH NEWS, SHIVAMOGGA

Drought has increased since the Congress government came to power and farmers are struggling to save their crops. In such a situation, it is shameful that the government is planning to build a ring road around the town, said MP BY Raghavendra.

Protest at Nada Kacheri
He was addressing a massive protest led by the BJP Raitha Morcha in front of the town’s Nada Kacheri against the proposed ring road project that the Congress government intends to implement.

The money due for the Grihalakshmi scheme has not been released for the last three months. The greed of power has increased, and the poor are not visible. The money of corporations belonging to Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes has not been released either. Corruption has increased, and since the Finance Department itself has written a letter, it is clear that this government is bankrupt, they alleged.

Farmland at risk
Farmers are facing the threat of losing thousands of acres of land if the ring road project around Shiralakoppa town is implemented. They demanded that the government immediately abandon the project.

Former chairman of the Malnad Regional Development Board, KS Gurumurthy, said that MLA Vijayendra has written a letter to drop the project. He accused the government of trying to grab farmers’ land and promote real estate business.

BJP Taluk President Hanumanthappa Sankalapura said that there was no need to build a ring road. Yediyurappa has built a good road here. Due to the lift irrigation project, the lakes are filled with water even during drought. He sarcastically said that DK Shivakumar is the Kubera of the bankrupt government.

He was speaking while presiding over a progress review meeting on the implementation of district-level guarantee schemes. A joint meeting should be held with the Taluk Executive Officers, Child Development Project Officers, Taluk Guarantee Presidents and Lead Bank Officers in the respective taluks to review the details. e-KYC by October 20
It was advised to issue strict instructions to the fair price shops not to sell ration rice bags for any reason. All cardholders who had done e-KYC five years ago have been directed to do e-KYC again by October 20. Out of the 6,62,195 beneficiaries in the district, 58 percent e-KYC has been completed, said the Deputy Director of Food Department.

Regarding opening of a new ration shop in Bondanthil, Arkula village, there are more than 1000 cards and 40 percent of the population is SC/ST. Officials clarified that a list has been prepared and a notification will be issued soon as per the instructions of the Deputy Commissioner.

In the wake of information that permits have not been obtained to run KSRTC buses on the Kuppepadavu–BC Road and Kuppepadavu–Moodbidri routes to provide women with the benefits of the Shakti Yojana, the Chairman directed that a comprehensive report be submitted on the reason for not granting the permit or whether the application has been rejected.

Quality checks at ration shops

District food inspectors and inspectors have been instructed to visit fair price shops and inspect them to maintain the quality of rice in the warehouse and to take precautions to prevent rice from spilling and spoiling during ration distribution, said Bharat Mundodi.

KPCC’s Bhandari accuses BJP of targeting voters

CH NEWS, SHIVAMOGGA

KPCC Working President Manjunath Bhandari expressed outrage, stating that while the BJP had previously resorted to poaching MLAs and ministers from other parties for political gain, they are now attempting to steal the people’s votes.

Speaking at a press conference on Tuesday, he alleged that under the guise of a special voter revision, the BJP is stealing the votes of minorities, Dalits, and backward classes communities that traditionally vote for the Congress party.

He noted that voter revision is a process that typically occurs every ten years; however, the BJP is misusing the special revision exercise to steal votes. He pointed out that similar instances of vote theft had come to light during elections in West Bengal and Haryana. He added that while the BJP had attempted a similar move in Kerala, it did not succeed. To prevent such a situation from arising in Karnataka, KPCC leader BK Hariprasad has adopted a firm stance and devised a program to raise public awareness about the issue.

People must be informed about guarantee schemes

CH NEWS, SHIVAMOGGA

KPCC Working President and MLC Manjunath Bhandari stated that the Bharat Jodo 2 programme has been organized across 82 assembly constituencies in the state with the aim of carrying forward the ideals of the ‘Bharat Jodo’ Yatra led by Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, informing the public about the government’s guarantee schemes, and establishing direct contact with the people.

Launch from Shikaripura
Speaking at a press conference, he recalled that four years ago, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi undertook a padayatra from Kanyakumari, highlighting seven key issues. That march entered Karnataka via Gundlupet in Chamarajanagar district on September 30 and continued within the state for about a week. In commemoration of that event, the Bharat Jodo 2 Yatra is being launched from Shikaripura on September 30.

A 6,000-km march
Rahul Gandhi had undertaken a 6,000-kilometer foot march over approximately five months, directly engaging with people from diverse sections of society. Four years have passed since the Yatra; to take its ideals to the grassroots level, programs are being organized at the booth level across 82 Assembly constituencies under the leadership of local leaders. In Shivamogga district, the District Congress President will finalize the blueprint for the next phase of these programmes.

CH NEWS, CHITRADURGA

District Health and Family Welfare Officer Dr. M.C. Sunil Kumar said awareness about safe abortion services is important as lack of correct information can lead women to unsafe methods and health complications.

He was speaking after inaugurating an awareness programme for field staff and ASHA workers at Holalkere Public Hospital. The programme was organised by the District Health and Family Welfare Department, District Reproductive and Child Health Office, District IEC Division and Holalkere Taluk Health Office.

Group appeals against renaming Dakshina Kannada district

CH NEWS, MANGALURU

A group of citizens, intellectuals, historians, writers and cultural activists has appealed to the Karnataka government to retain the historic name 'Dakshina Kannada' for the district instead of renaming it 'Mangaluru District'.

The group defended Dakshina Kannada's name, citing its 1977 adoption, century-old regional identity, and broader geography beyond headquarters Mangaluru

At a press meet held on Tuesday, the group said the appeal was not against Mangaluru, which they described as the historic, cultural and economic centre of the region. They said retaining Dakshina Kannada would help preserve the historical identity of a region that extends beyond a single city.

The group said the government changed the district's name to Dakshina Kannada in January 1977, and the name has been in use for nearly five decades. They also pointed to the administrative identity associated with the region for more than a century.

According to the group, a district does not necessarily have to carry the name of its headquarters. Mangaluru is the district headquarters, while Dakshina Kannada represents a wider geographical and cultural region that includes Puttur, Belthangady, Sullia, Bantwal, Moodbidri and Mulki.

The group said the name Dakshina Kannada continued even after major administrative changes, including the creation of Udupi district in 1997. They also expressed concern that changing the name could require changes to historical, administrative, educational, legal and cultural records.

The members welcomed the government's decision to seek public opinion on the proposed name change. They urged that the consultation be broad-based and transparent, covering all taluks, towns and villages, as well as historians, academics, writers, cultural organisations and other stakeholders.

They requested the government to retain Dakshina Kannada as the official district name while allowing Mangaluru to continue developing its identity as the headquarters.

Former MLA Somalingappa dismisses land dispute accusations

CH NEWS, BALLARI: Former Member of Legislative Assembly M.S. Somalingappa has strongly refuted the latest police complaint filed against him and his family members, calling the land dispute allegations completely baseless and malicious.

Addressing reporters at a press conference held at his residential office in Tekkalakote on Tuesday, the veteran leader clarified the legal facts surrounding the controversy.

He explained that his son, Venkatappanayaka, lawfully bought 75 cents of land out of a total three-acre plot in Survey Number 8/3. The transaction was conducted directly with the complainant, Manjula, who executed the sale deed using a legally valid General Power of Attorney.

The former legislator pointed out that the complainant had repeatedly filed similar false cases against him and his sons in the past. According to him, judicial proceedings conducted before both the Siruguppa court and the Ballari district court had already dismissed her previous claims as fabricated.

Regarding the fresh First Information Report registered at Siruguppa police station on September 27, Somalingappa asserted that neither he nor his family members were anywhere near the site during the alleged incident. He urged investigators to examine relevant mobile tower locations and public CCTV recordings to confirm their absence.

Somalingappa further detailed that Manjula personally completed all documentation formalities at the Siruguppa sub-registrar office. Following the formal handover, a protective wire fence was erected solely around the 75-cent boundary, and his family holds no claim or interest in the remaining area.

Expressing deep displeasure over the continuous smear campaign, he stated that the motivated accusations were aimed at tarnishing his hard-earned public image. He warned that his legal team would contest the complaint firmly in court while actively preparing a civil defamation suit against the complainant.

RAINS BRING RELIEF

Heavy rains fill Chamarajanagar reservoirs

CH NEWS, CHAMARAJANAGAR

Heavy rains brought relief to residents of Chamarajanagar district, particularly in Hanur and Kollegala taluks, after the region had faced a rainfall shortage.

The rain came as Karnataka Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar arrived to inaugurate development projects and distribute benefits in the area.

Heavy rain overnight filled the Hubbe-Hunase reservoir to capacity, causing it to overflow. The Udurote, Tattehalla and Swamihalla reservoirs also filled, with water flowing over bridges and entering several parts of Hanur town.

Devangapete and nearby areas were badly affected as water submerged houses and roads. Traffic and pedestrian movement on the main road to Male Mahadeshwara Betta was temporarily disrupted after more than five feet of water flowed over a bridge.

Heavy rain also caused problems in Martalli Gram Panchayat limits. Water entered houses and shops, leaving several residents in distress. The houses of Rangamma and Jyothi were flooded, damaging food grains, clothes and other daily essentials. The floodwaters also washed away two sheep and 20 chickens, which were important to their livelihood. Officials reportedly responded to the situation.

Meanwhile, boulders, rocks and soil rolled onto the road leading to Male Mahadeshwara Betta following the heavy rainfall. The road turned muddy, creating difficulties for movement.

Hanur had faced drought conditions for several months, with shortages of drinking water for people and livestock. However, continuous rain over the past week has brought hope to residents.

The filling of reservoirs has also brought relief to farmers in surrounding areas. The reservoirs envisioned by the late Rajugowda are now full, bringing smiles to farmers who had been waiting for better water conditions.

The recent rainfall has provided much-needed relief to the drought-hit region, although waterlogging and road disruptions have affected several areas.

Open drainage pit raises safety concerns in Hunsur

CH NEWS, HUNSUR

An open drainage pit near the 5th Cross of Manjunatha Layout is posing a serious danger to residents, while stagnant wastewater and foul smell have added to public dissatisfaction with the City Municipal Council's functioning.

The open drainage pit is located near Hunsur Road, opposite the Indane Gas Agency. Due to the absence of a proper drainage system, wastewater is not flowing freely and has been stagnating, creating a foul smell and affecting the surrounding atmosphere.

Residents said Manjunatha Layout, despite being located in the heart of the city, has been left with a hazardous and open drainage system. They reportedly informed the Municipal Council about the problem, but no action has been taken so far.

Residents have urged Municipal Council officials to immediately repair the damaged drainage system and close the open drainage pit. They warned that they would stage a protest in front of the Municipal Council office if the issue is not addressed.

The public also expressed dissatisfaction over the condition of roads in the city, particularly the failure to repair potholes. They alleged that officials and the Commissioner have failed to address basic development issues.

BJP leaders question MLA Hitnal over Kavatar claims

Leaders questioned the MLA over alleged ₹3 crore and ₹1 crore fines linked to illegal quarrying and government land encroachment

CH NEWS, KOPPAL

BJP SC Morcha leader Ganesh Horatnala and leaders from various communities expressed strong opposition to allegations made by Koppal MLA K. Raghavendra Hitnal and other Congress leaders against BJP leader Dr. Basavaraj Kavatar's private hospital and personal affairs.

Speaking at a press conference on Tuesday, Horatnala condemned the allegations and said targeting Dr. Kavatar's private hospital because of his political involvement was inappropriate. The leaders alleged that the accusations were politically motivated.

They said K.S. Hospital had supported poor patients from Koppal and other states, particularly during the COVID-19 pandemic and other critical situations. They said bringing the hospital into political rivalry was inappropriate.

The leaders questioned the MLA on several issues, including alleged fines of ₹3 crore and ₹1 crore imposed on the MLA and MP during the Congress government's tenure for illegal stone quarrying and encroachment on government land.

They also questioned the ₹10,000 crore development grants allegedly brought to the constituency and asked what Smart City infrastructure had been developed in Koppal. They alleged that foundation-laying ceremonies for projects, including the Koppal-Mundaragi road, had been held more than once.

Questions were also raised about alleged irregularities in KUDA site allotments, alleged ₹16 crore corruption in the City Municipal Council and the ₹72 crore KRIDL fake bill scam. The leaders also criticised cases filed against people protesting for road repairs in Kavalur and alleged attempts to claim credit for the Alavandi substation project.

They further alleged attempts to sideline leaders from Muslim, Valmiki, Barquera, Lingayat, Kuruba and Madiga communities, describing it as "divide-and-rule" politics.

Accepting the MLA's challenge to inspect development works in every village, they asked him to fix a date and time. They said voters and BJP workers would present their views on development over the last 13 years.

BJP leader Krishnappa Kalladka criticises Sangh Parivar

CH NEWS, MANGALURU

BJP leader Krishnappa Kalladka has criticised what he described as an attempt to silence those who speak openly, alleging that complaints are filed with the Central Crime Branch (CCB) and police are sent to their homes when they express views that are considered inconvenient.

Speaking on the issue, Kalladka questioned the attitude of people who, according to him, believe that everything happens only because of their organisation. He referred to what he described as an "arrogance" among sections of the Sangh Parivar and said such an approach should be questioned.

Arrogance among sections of the Sangh Parivar should be questioned

Kalladka reportedly made the remarks while expressing his views on internal differences and the treatment of people who raise questions. He alleged that individuals who speak the truth or voice criticism face pressure through police complaints and investigations.

The BJP leader also questioned whether raising concerns or expressing a different opinion should lead to police action. He said democratic organisations should have space for discussion, disagreement and criticism rather than attempting to suppress opposing views.

His comments have drawn attention because of his association with the BJP and his remarks about the Sangh Parivar. The statements come amid continuing political discussions in Karnataka over police complaints, investigations and differences within political and social organisations.

Kalladka's allegations concern the conduct of specific individuals and organisations, and the claims would require verification from the concerned authorities. No independent confirmation of the allegations was included in the available report.

The remarks have since been circulated on social media, prompting discussion among political workers and members of the public about freedom to express dissent within political and organisational circles.

The KDP meeting at Kundapur

CH NEWS, UDUPI

MLA Gururaj Gantihole said, since the rains have not come as expected this time, there is a water shortage in Kundapur and Byndoor taluks, and we must prepare to deal with the water problem immediately.

He was speaking while presiding over the Kundapur taluk-level quarterly KDP meeting held at the taluk panchayat hall at Kundapur.

According to the report, there is a 27 percent rainfall deficit in Byndoor and 16 percent in Kundapur. If the rainfall measurement had been properly maintained, there would have been an even greater deficit. Areas with salt water problems may experience a deficit from December itself. For this reason, priority should be given to drinking water this time and farmers should also be helped, he said.

Member Jyoti V Putran demanded the appointment of a skin disease specialist. We have 56 posts sanctioned, 36 have been filled, and 20 posts are vacant. Field staff posts are vacant, said Taluk Health Officer Dr K Premanand.

Member Sarath Kumar Shetty demanded that the buildings of closed government schools be repaired before they collapse and the assets there be protected.

Expressing concern about the construction of the new bridge, MLA Kiran Kumar Kodgi said that the construction of the bridge may take 2-3 years. It is difficult to stop traffic for that long.

Davanagere seeks specialist wildlife vets

A leopard rescue by the highway

CH NEWS, DAVANAGERE

Davanagere district is facing a shortage of trained wildlife anesthesiologists, raising concerns over delays in rescuing wild animals that enter human settlements. The issue has become more significant as sightings of leopards, bears and elephants have increased in several parts of the district.

The Forest Department has reportedly submitted proposals to the state government seeking specialist wildlife veterinarians for Davanagere. At present, experts often have to be brought from Shivamogga or Hosapete when an animal needs to be tranquilised during a rescue operation.

in to tranquilise the animal and facilitate its rescue.

According to the report, Karnataka has only 12 suitably trained wildlife anesthesiologists. Two are at Mysuru Zoo, while three are posted between Pilikula Biological Park in Mangaluru and Bannerghatta Biological Park. One each is available at the Shivamogga Lion Safari, Sakrebailu Elephant Camp, Bandipur Elephant Camp, Kodagu Wildlife PG Centre, Dubare Elephant Camp and Hosapete Zoo.

Davanagere ACF Anand said specialist wildlife veterinarians are required to administer anesthesia to wild animals and that general doctors cannot perform the task. He said experts currently have to be called from Shivamogga or Hosapete during emergencies.

Anand said the injured leopard rescued recently near Anagoddu is now healthy. He added that a proposal had been sent to the state government seeking specialist personnel for the district.

Residents have urged the government to address the shortage to ensure quicker and safer wildlife rescue operations.

Mangaluru old harbour struggles with severe congestion

Boats and fish crates at Mangaluru's Old Harbour, or Dhakke

CH NEWS, MANGALURU

Fishermen at Mangaluru's Old Harbour, or Dhakke, are seeking urgent government action to address a severe shortage of boat berthing space and long-pending dredging work at the harbour mouth.

The fishing community says the problems are affecting operations and creating safety risks.

More than 1,400 boats, including around 900 licensed steel boats along with traditional and wooden craft, operate from the harbour. However, the existing berthing facilities can accommodate only about 250 to 300 boats, leaving hundreds of fishermen struggling to dock their vessels and unload their catch.

Work on three jetties under Phase-3 of the harbour development project has also been delayed. About 60 per cent of the work on the third jetty has reportedly been completed, while the remaining work is pending. The first jetty has been demolished, and work on the second jetty has stopped midway. Fishermen have urged the government to release pending funds and speed up construction.

The fishing community has also demanded a fourth jetty, either near Kotepura or in the form of a floating jetty, to increase berthing capacity. Fishermen's leaders said the shortage has become particularly difficult with several months of the fishing season already over.

Another major concern is silt accumulation at the estuary where the Netravati and Phalguni (Gurupura) rivers meet the Arabian Sea. Sand and sediment carried by the rivers have reduced the water depth, increasing the risk of boats hitting sandbars while entering or leaving the harbour.

Fisherman leader Rajesh Puthran said inadequate dredging over the years has resulted in dangerous conditions. He pointed to an incident shortly before Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar's visit when three boats reportedly met with accidents at the estuary on the same day.

Faisal Kudroli, general secretary of the Mangaluru Trawl Boat Union, said the government must complete the three jetties and allocate funds for a fourth. Fishermen's leaders also want the government to procure a modern cutter dredger, saying conventional machinery is inadequate for removing the accumulated sediment.

Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar, during his recent visit to the harbour, inspected the facilities and interacted with fishermen. The community has urged the government to implement the assurances given during the visit and provide permanent solutions to their infrastructure and safety concerns.

AI boom needs $6 trillion annual revenue by 2031

NEW DELHI

The rapid buildout of artificial intelligence (AI) infrastructure will require the creation of an estimated $6 trillion in annual revenue by 2031 to justify the capital being deployed with productivity gains alone unlikely to support the economics of the investment cycle, a report said on Tuesday. According to Bain & Company's analysis, existing AI applications across consumer and enterprise segments could generate between $1.2 trillion and $1.8 trillion in revenues, leaving a gap of about $4.2 trillion that will need to come from new categories of innovation.

Min calls for 'Team Agriculture' to make India global food basket

More than ₹1,200 crore PM-RKVY support sanctioned to 10 states; Centre and states must rise above politics to put farmers first, says Chouhan.

NEW DELHI

Agriculture Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan on Tuesday handed over financial sanction letters worth more than Rs 1,200 crore to agriculture ministers of 10 states under the Prime Minister Rashtriya Krishi Vikas Yojana (PM-RKVY), stressing implementation of agriculture programmes across states.

The disbursement included Rs 290 crore for West Bengal, Rs 198 crore for Haryana, Rs 181 crore for Chhattisgarh, Rs 154 crore for Arunachal Pradesh, Rs 114 crore for Bihar, Rs 104 crore for Karnataka, Rs 75 crore for Mizoram, Rs 64 crore for Himachal Pradesh, Rs 58 crore for Jharkhand and Rs 43 crore for Punjab.

Chairing a meeting with state Agriculture Ministers and senior officials, Chouhan said the Union Government was going beyond policy formulation by ensuring timely availability of resources so schemes could begin implementation without delay.

He said agricultural growth had risen from 3 per cent in 2015 to 4.5 per cent, while the average annual increase in foodgrain production had more than doubled from around 40 lakh tonnes to 84 lakh tonnes. Rabi foodgrain production rose by 205 lakh tonnes between 2023-24 and 2025-26, he added.

India has agreed to reduce or eliminate tariffs on around 70 per cent of its tariff lines covering imports from New Zealand. Some products will receive immediate duty-free access. These include wood, wool, sheep meat and raw hides.

India-NZ trade set to surge as FTA kicks in on Oct 20

NEW DELHI

The India-New Zealand Free Trade Agreement (FTA) is set to come into force on October 20, aimed at doubling bilateral trade by 2030. Indian exporters are set to receive duty-free access to New Zealand across all tariff lines.

This is expected to improve the competitiveness of Indian products in sectors including textiles and garments, leather and footwear, gems and jewellery, engineering goods and processed foods, according to an article in Khalsa Vox news website.

Removing customs duties makes Indian products cheaper relative to competing imports in the New Zealand market, potentially creating opportunities for exporters seeking to expand their presence there.

Another important aspect of the agreement is that New Zealand has committed to investments worth $20 billion in India over the next 15 years. The two countries have also set themselves the goal of doubling bilateral trade by 2030.

Once the FTA kicks in on October 20, the changes will unfold in stages. Some tariffs will disappear immediately, while others will decline over several years and certain agricultural concessions will remain subject to quotas and safeguards, the article observes.

For Indian consumers, the most visible impact could eventually be felt in imported products such as kiwi fruit, apples and Manuka honey. However, the agreement does not throw open the Indian market across the board. Sensitive sectors, including dairy and several agricultural products, remain protected.

RBI now has less room to keep interest rates unchanged

NEW DELHI

Rising crude oil prices, inflation and higher bond yields globally has narrowed Reserve Bank of India's room to hold rates unchanged, a report said on Tuesday. The report from BNP Paribas India said India's macro-outlook has weakened in recent weeks as Brent crude rose above $100 per barrel and US 10-year Treasury yields climbed toward 5 per cent.

Inflation continues to rise globally, and central banks are resorting to rate hikes. Though India's macro buffers have increased with foreign currency non-resident (FCNR) flows, capital-flight risks have also risen with rate hikes in developed markets.

"In our view, rising oil prices and commodity inflation remain a material challenge for India in the near term. The INR has already depreciated by nearly 1 per cent and the RBI now has less room to keep interest rates unchanged," the report said.

The latest escalation in the Middle East has pushed Brent above $100 per barrel, while the ECB and BoJ have raised rates by 25 basis points, tightening global financial conditions and increasing capital-flight risks for India.

"India's macro-outlook is sensitive to oil prices, and the latest escalation in the Middle East is a negative," said Kunal Vora, Head of India Equity Research.

The report noted that over the past two weeks the rupee has depreciated by around 1 per cent, India's 10-year bond yields have breached

7 per cent and foreign institutional investor selling has resumed, even as foreign currency non-resident (FCNR) deposits have bolstered reserves to about $800 billion, supported by roughly $127 billion of FCNR flows.

This offers near-term relief, but these flows are likely to reverse in 3-5 years, the report said, adding that high inflation could slow high-frequency indicators in the coming months.

"India's macro indicators have remained resilient, but the outlook is weakening due to rising oil prices and inflation. Key positives are strong credit growth, strong auto sales, improving jobs data and large food-grain holdings, which provide a shield against El Niño," the report noted.

Consumption indicators showed some moderation last month, with urban wages falling, rising inflation, and deteriorating business confidence. Rural dynamics are also weakening because of a monsoon deficit, higher food inflation, and reduced crop sowing.

GOYAL-GREER MEET

India seeks tariff edge in US trade deal

NEW DELHI

India and the United States are working to advance negotiations on a balanced and mutually beneficial Bilateral Trade Agreement, with Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal's upcoming engagement with US Trade Representative Jamieson Greer expected to focus on resolving key tariff issues.

Goyal will attend the G20 Trade Ministers' Meeting in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, on September 30 and October 1, at the invitation of Greer. The two sides are expected to work towards finalising an interim trade deal in line with the joint statement issued by India and the US on February 7, 2026.

India is seeking an arrangement that gives domestic exporters a tariff advantage over competing economies rather than simply securing a lower headline tariff. The proposed framework is expected to establish preferential market access for businesses from both countries.

Commerce Secretary Rajesh Agrawal earlier said the trade agreement was more or less finalised, with discussions now focused on creating an architecture for preferential access before the deal is formally signed.

He explained that India largely operates under most-favoured-nation tariffs, while the US is using executive tariffs, making a mechanism for tariff differentials necessary.

During his US visit, Goyal is also expected to advocate for a rules-based, open, inclusive, transparent, equitable and non-discriminatory global trading system with the WTO at its core.

His bilateral engagements will also focus on strengthening trade and investment opportunities for farmers, fishermen, women entrepreneurs, startups, MSMEs and other businesses.

Goyal is scheduled to meet senior executives of American companies across manufacturing, consumer goods, agrifood, retail and technology sectors in Milwaukee and Chicago.

Private firms enter missile production

NEW DELHI

India is expanding missile production beyond state-run defence companies by bringing private firms into the manufacturing process, in a move aimed at strengthening the country's ability to produce sophisticated weapons at scale.

A report by India Narrative said the shift is intended to address the gap between developing advanced missile systems and manufacturing them in sufficient quantities. The new approach is also expected to create greater wartime redundancy, with the Defence

Ministry planning to have at least two production partners for each missile system.

The report said greater competition could improve price discovery, delivery timelines and production efficiency. It could also encourage new partnerships between public and private companies, allowing different firms to specialise in specific components of increasingly complex weapons systems.

The Defence Ministry in August approved the transfer of DRDO technologies for conventional missile systems to qualified Indian defence companies. Private firms can bid for technology transfer, obtain designation as Development-cum-Production Partners, or DePPs, and take on prime systems-integration responsibilities.

The move represents a departure from the earlier model

India's aviation demand outpacing airline capacity growth: Naidu

NEW DELHI

India's aviation market is expanding faster than the pace at which airlines are adding capacity, Union Civil Aviation Minister Ram Mohan Naidu said on Tuesday.

Speaking at an event here, Naidu said revenue passenger kilometres (RPKs) in India have grown at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 7.3 per cent over the past decade, compared to a 7 per cent CAGR in available seat kilometres (ASKs) offered by airlines.

"This means the market is growing faster than the seats," the minister said, underlining the need for continued expansion in aviation capacity and connectivity.

India has emerged as the world's third-largest domestic aviation market, driven by rising incomes, increasing regional connectivity and growing demand for air travel. The government now aspires to make the country the third-largest aviation market globally in the coming years.

To support this growth, Naidu said the government is pursuing an ambitious airport expansion programme. The number of operational airports in the country has in-

Capex rises as business confidence strengthens

MUMBAI

India is witnessing broad-based economic growth, with companies stepping up capital expenditure as rising capacity utilisation and improving demand encourage businesses to expand investments, FICCI President and RPG Group Vice Chairman Anant Goenka said on Tuesday.

Speaking on the sidelines of the FICCI FRAMES event, Goenka said investment activity was gaining momentum across industries as utilisation levels increased. He said the trend reflected improving business confidence and stronger demand conditions.

"We do see overall broad-based growth. We see increased capex across the board now, as utilisation levels are going up," Goenka said.

He highlighted the automobile sector as one of the areas recording substantially higher growth, adding that its performance was generating positive spillover effects across the wider value chain.

"Of course, certain sectors like automotive have seen substantially higher growth, and therefore, the entire value chain gets positively affected," he said.

However, Goenka cautioned that companies continued to face pressure on profit margins because of higher commodity prices. While businesses were passing some increased costs on to consumers, he said there was generally a lag before the impact was fully reflected in prices.

"Margin pressure will continue until commodity prices stabilise," Goenka said, pointing to the rise in crude oil prices from around $90 per barrel to about $100 or higher.

On the media and entertainment industry, Goenka described FICCI FRAMES as an iconic platform that has completed 26 years. He said the sector was undergoing significant changes driven by multiple screens, shorter attention spans, artificial intelligence and synthetic data.

He said FRAMES provided a platform for creators and users to discuss these changes and understand how the future of the media industry could evolve.

COURTING CONTROVERSY: A COSTLY HABIT FOR KARNATAKA CONGRESS

SHYAM SUNDAR VATTAM

“For a government in power, silence on a needless controversy can sometimes be more productive than winning an argument that it never needed to enter.”

Inviting controversy appears to have become a recurring feature of political discourse within the ruling Congress in Karnataka. While several ministers and senior leaders prefer to concentrate on governance, a few appear willing to enter contentious debates through statements that can quickly overshadow the government’s work.

The latest controversy involving KPCC president B.K. Hariprasad is a case in point. Amid the dispute over a proposed screening of a documentary on Umar Khalid at the National Law School of India University (NLSIU), Hariprasad described Khalid as a “nationalist” while attacking the ABVP and the RSS. Khalid has been in custody since 2020 in connection with the Delhi riots case under the UAPA, but he has not been convicted. Hariprasad has subsequently defended his remark, arguing that an accused person cannot be treated as guilty without a court conviction.

The legal argument is one issue; political messaging is another. In a politically polarised environment, a statement on a highly contentious national-security issue can easily become the headline, pushing the government’s development and administrative agenda into the background. The BJP and its affiliated organisations have already used the remark to question the Congress’s position on nationalism and minority politics.

This controversy has come at a particularly sensitive moment in Karnataka, with tensions surrounding Ganesh processions also generating political confrontation. The dispute in T. Narasipura over the route of a Ganesh immersion procession has escalated into protests and demands for action against the police inspector concerned. The government has had to ask police to remain on high alert amid the political confrontation.

Religious processions inevitably require a balance between the right to celebrate, public safety and the maintenance of communal peace. Police restrictions may sometimes be necessary for law and order, but the manner in which such restrictions are communicated can have consequences. When a local administrative or police statement is perceived as disrespectful to religious sentiments, a law-and-order issue can rapidly become a political issue.

The T. Narasipura episode demonstrates how quickly such disputes can acquire a life of their own. What began as a question concerning a procession route has resulted in political protests, competing claims and continuing public debate.

For the Congress government, the larger challenge is therefore not merely to counter the BJP politically but to ensure that its own leaders and functionaries do not unnecessarily create additional fronts of confrontation.

Statements on sensitive subjects such as nationalism, religion and communal relations demand particular restraint from those holding senior positions. Political leaders are entitled to defend their ideological positions, but they must also recognise that every provocative formulation carries consequences beyond the immediate political exchange.

The Congress government has a full plate of governance issues—from urban infrastructure and employment to welfare delivery, drought management and development. These are matters on which its performance will ultimately be judged.

The lesson from the recent controversies is straightforward: political leaders need not respond to every provocation, and not every argument requires a headline. Governance requires communication, but it also requires discretion.

For a government in power, silence on a needless controversy can sometimes be more productive than winning an argument that it never needed to enter.

FROM POWER TO PERIL: THE POLITICAL REALITY AND BATTLE OF MAMATA BANERJEE

“It is a story of a leader confronting the hardest question in politics: when the familiar symbols, structures and certainties disappear, can the political movement itself be rebuilt?”

bolos are not merely electoral identifiers; for regional parties, they often embody years of organizational work, public recognition and political identity. The Election Commission has temporarily assigned Banerjee’s faction the name “Mamata All India Trinamool Congress” and the “Football Player” symbol, while the rival faction has been given the name “Democratic Trinamool Congress” and the “Envelope” symbol for the forthcoming by-elections. Banerjee has challenged the Election Commission’s decision in the Supreme Court and described the development as a “black day” for democracy. The third dimension of her predicament is legal. Following the change of government, several complaints and FIRs have been registered against Banerjee over statements made during the election campaign and other political programmes. In June 2026, an FIR was registered in Kolkata following allegations that remarks made during an election-related programme could promote enmity between communities. Another FIR was registered in Siliguri over allegations concerning remarks about religion and religious sentiments. These remain allegations and legal proceedings; an FIR itself does not establish guilt.

There was also a legal confrontation surrounding a Trinamool Congress Chhatra Parishad rally in Kolkata in August. Police registered an FIR against Banerjee and organisers over alleged violation of a Calcutta High Court order governing the programme and the movement of supporters. At the same time, controversies surrounding the previous administration including allegations relating to recruitment irregularities and other financial or administrative decisions continue to remain part of the wider political debate. Such allegations need to be distinguished from proven wrongdoing and judged through the appropriate legal processes. Perhaps the most significant political challenge, however, is the erosion of the image that once constituted Banerjee’s greatest political capital. She built her identity as a leader who came from a modest background, fought powerful political establishments and presented herself as the voice of ordinary people, particularly the underprivileged and women. Her political persona was built around struggle, accessibility and resistance.

Over the years, however, controversies surrounding governance, allegations of corruption and disputes over issues concerning women’s safety and recruitment have generated political criticism. The teacher-recruitment controversy, in particular, became a major issue in Bengal politics. The cumulative effect of these controversies, combined with 15 years of incumbency, contributed to an environment in which questions about governance and public trust became central to the political contest. Yet Mamata Banerjee’s political character has never been defined by an easy acceptance of defeat. Her early life and political career were shaped by struggle. From her formative years in politics to her long campaign against the Left Front, she repeatedly demonstrated a willingness to remain on the streets and fight prolonged political battles. Even now, she has rejected the idea of political retirement and has indicated that she intends to continue the struggle.

Her response to the changing political circumstances is also reflected in her evolving electoral strategy. Ahead of the forthcoming by-elections, Banerjee’s faction withdrew its candidate in Nandigram and extended support to the Congress candidate, indicating a willingness to work with another opposition party in the changed political circumstances. This represents a notable shift from the political positioning that characterized much of her earlier relationship with the Congress. Mamata Banerjee’s place in Indian political history has been shaped by her ability to build a powerful regional movement almost from scratch. She broke away from the Congress in 1998, established the Trinamool Congress and eventually succeeded in ending more than three decades of Left Front rule in West Bengal. For 15 years, she remained the dominant political force in the state. The same political journey that once symbolized an extraordinary rise is now confronting an equally extraordinary test.

The present crisis, therefore, is larger than an electoral defeat. It encompasses loss of power, organizational fragmentation, the battle over the party’s name and symbol, legal proceedings, questions about political credibility and the challenge of rebuilding a political base. The Election Commission’s interim decision has added a new dimension to the struggle, while the Supreme Court proceedings may determine an important part of the immediate institutional battle. The defining question for Banerjee now is not simply whether she can return to power. It is whether she can rebuild the political organization and public confidence that sustained her for so many years. Her greatest strength has historically been her capacity to convert adversity into political mobilization. But the present challenge is different: the struggle is no longer merely against an external political opponent. It is also about holding together a fractured organization and preserving a political legacy that she herself built over decades.

Mamata Banerjee has survived many political storms. Her present circumstances constitute perhaps the most demanding test of her political career. Whether she can once again transform adversity into an opportunity for political renewal will depend on how she responds to the organizational rupture, legal battles, changing alliances and questions of public trust. Her political story, therefore, is not simply a story of power gained and power lost.

THE FLAME OF THE LAMP AND OUR CULTURAL SENSIBILITY

Whether you light a lamp or not is a personal decision. To adhere to a religious tradition, to distance yourself from it, or to practice it in your own way in a democratic society, this is a matter of individual freedom. But when personal preference or the expression of political disagreement escalates to the public mockery of a religious symbol or cultural tradition, the question is no longer just about a lamp. The question is how much we respect the beliefs and cultural sensibilities of others while expressing our disagreement.

The lamp holds a profound significance in Indian culture. The entire spirit of Diwali is associated with light, hope, and the triumph of light over darkness. The tradition of lighting lamps in homes, temples, and on various auspicious occasions has been passed down through generations. The tradition of lighting lamps in the evening is also evident in many Indian families to this day. Therefore, for some, the lamp is not just an object made of oil, wick, and clay; it also symbolizes faith, auspiciousness, knowledge, and positive energy.

This sentiment is expressed in the famous Sanskrit prayer, “Deepo Jyotih Param Brahma, Deepo Jyotirjanardanah. Deepo Haratu Me Pampa, Sandhyadeep Namos-tute.” Meaning, the light of the lamp is saluted as the ultimate light and it is prayed to dispel ignorance and negativity. This is why lighting a lamp in a Sanatani family is not just a simple household activity, but a ritual deeply rooted in religious and cultural beliefs.

Therefore, lighting a lamp should not be forced upon anyone, but it should also not be considered appropriate to mock the faith of the person lighting the lamp. Personal liberty means not only the freedom to choose oneself, but also the responsibility to respect the choices and beliefs of others. It is also important to note that when a religious symbol is associated with a political event, it is natural to question that event. One might ask what role a political event should play in public institutions, whether participation in it is voluntary, and to what extent the use of government resources is appropriate.

This is where it becomes important to distinguish between criticism of a political event and insulting a cultural symbol. If there is an objection to lighting lamps at an event, the question should be about the political nature of the event, its administrative role, expenditure, or mode of participation. Targeting the lamps themselves, the puja, or the Sanatan tradition takes the debate in a different direction. Similarly, if someone opposes a political event, it would not be appropriate to label them anti-Indian culture or anti-religion solely on this basis.

Today, social media has given everyone a platform to express their views. This has also brought a problem: the line between satire and criticism can often become blurred. While certain words or images may seem like simple political satire to some, the same content may be perceived as an insult to someone else’s beliefs. Therefore, social sensitivity is essential alongside social media freedom.

The tradition of blowing out candles on birthdays also comes to mind in this context. Today, cutting a cake and blowing out candles is widely practiced on birthdays. On the other hand, those who consider the lamp a symbol of auspiciousness and light in the Indian religious tradition view it differently. The cultural contexts of both traditions differ. Therefore, adopting one or avoiding the other should not be taken as an indication of a person’s patriotism or devotion to their culture.

Still, a question worth pondering is: are we as sensitive to the symbols associated with our own culture as we expect to be sensitive to other cultural symbols? If someone chooses not to light a lamp on Diwali, they are free to do so. But if someone else lights a lamp with complete devotion, why should their faith be ridiculed? Similarly, if someone participates in a political event by lighting a lamp, they should be criticized for the political aspect of the event, not their religious beliefs.

Political debates often cite birthday celebrations of former Prime Ministers or other leaders, and alleged government expenditures. To substantiate such allegations, the relevant year, expenditure, and official documents are essential. Accusing an individual or former government of misusing public funds without proof is unfair. Today’s political debate requires facts, not mere old allegations, to strengthen it.

The real question isn’t about a few rupees worth of oil and wick. The real question is what our priorities should be in public life and what our language should be. Should political differences become so sharp that even cultural symbols become targets? Is it right to equate religious belief with political support? Is a person who lights a lamp necessarily a supporter of a political ideology? And is a person who doesn’t light a lamp automatically anti-cultural? The answer to these questions is that a person’s faith and political preferences must be understood separately.

“Before mocking faith and hurting the sensibilities of others while protesting, consider this: Disagreement is the strength of democracy, but respect is its dignity.”

For some, the lamp represents worship, for others tradition, for others culture, and for others simply light. Interpretations may vary, but it’s possible to disagree without offending. The strength of our culture lies not just in the fact that we light lamps; its strength also lies in the fact that we foster dialogue between diverse opinions. Just as the flame of a lamp dispels darkness in the same way, wisdom, restraint, and facts can dispel the darkness of public debate.

So, whether you light a lamp or not is your decision. Supporting or opposing a political event is also your right.

Action Needed on Fast Fashion

The rise of low-cost, disposable clothing is driving an environmental crisis we can no longer ignore. Massive amounts of synthetic textile waste end up in landfills daily, polluting local ecosystems and microplastics into our waterways. Meanwhile, overseas garment factory workers continue to endure dangerous conditions and unfair wages. As conscious consumers, we must shift toward sustainable choices and demand transparency from major brands. However, individual effort alone is insufficient. Governments must implement strict regulations on textile production, mandate recycling programs, and incentivize eco-friendly manufacturing to protect both our planet and human dignity before this crisis worsens. —Anna B.

In our hyper-connected world, personal privacy is rapidly becoming a relic of the past. Corporations continuously harvest personal data, tracking online activities, location history, and behavioral patterns to monetize sensitive information. This surveillance culture undermines individual autonomy and exposes citizens to severe cybersecurity risks. While technology brings convenience, it should never cost us our fundamental right to privacy. We urgently need comprehensive data protection laws that hold tech conglomerates accountable. Stronger digital security regulations and transparent algorithmic policies are critical to restoring consumer control, protecting vulnerable users, and maintaining public trust in the modern digital age. —Diva Hustla

Invest in Youth Mental Health

Youth mental health challenges have escalated into a public health emergency requiring immediate intervention. Young people face rising rates of anxiety and depression driven by social media pressures, academic demands, and broader economic instability. Despite growing awareness, accessible support systems remain severely underfunded and out of reach for many families. Schools need dedicated funding for licensed counselors, mental health literacy programs, and early intervention services. Furthermore, community centers should offer safe, supportive spaces for youth engagement. Prioritizing youth mental well-being today is essential for building a healthier, more resilient society for future generations. —Ajith Kumar

Potholes Demand Urgent Repairs

Our city’s deteriorating road infrastructure has reached an unacceptable level, creating severe safety risks for commuters daily. Deep potholes and uneven pavement not only damage vehicles, resulting in costly repairs, but also cause frequent traffic delays and serious accidents, particularly for cyclists and motorcyclists. Patchwork fixes after heavy rains are no longer sufficient; they quickly erode and waste public funds. City authorities must prioritize comprehensive, high-quality road resurfacing projects with proper drainage systems. Safe and functional roads are basic public necessities. Investing in durable infrastructure will protect public safety and ensure efficient transportation across our entire community. —Daja

Protect Our Food Security

Rising food costs and supply disruptions are placing immense pressure on low-income families in our community. Food insecurity impairs child development, worsens chronic health conditions, and deepens social inequality. While emergency food banks provide vital relief, they cannot solve the underlying systemic causes. We need long-term policy solutions, including support for local agricultural networks, subsidies for nutritious whole foods, and sustainable urban farming initiatives. Guaranteeing reliable access to affordable, healthy food is a fundamental social responsibility. Strengthening local food systems will build community resilience and ensure no resident goes hungry during economic hardships. —Ummi Jaan of the rich and Lord Shiva as the God of the poor triggered a political controversy on Tuesday, with the BJP accusing him of attempting to divide Hindus and create differences between northern and southern India.

Speaking at a media event in Delhi on Monday, Reddy said the Congress had struggled in northern states because the BJP had "stolen Lord Ram", who has a larger following there. He said the party performed better in the south, where Lord Shiva is worshipped, and alleged that the BJP represented the rich.

Telangana BJP chief N

Ramchander Rao called the remarks "highly condemnable" and "absurd". He alleged that Reddy was trying to create divisions among Hindus and between the north and south. Rao also called on BJP workers to protest and burn effigies of the Chief Minister at the mandal level across Telangana.

BJP spokesperson Prakash Reddy criticised the remarks, questioning Reddy's references to Ram and Shiva and saying they could affect the country's unity and diversity. The Congress defended Reddy's comments. State president Mahesh Kumar Goud said the comparison referred to the traditional visual appearance of the two deities, while stressing that both were respected and worshipped by the party. Goud accused the BJP of using Lord Ram for political purposes and said both deities were regarded equally.

Odisha mining funds spent on stadium, roads, instead of affected areas: CAG

BHUBANESWAR

A Comptroller and Auditor General (CAG) audit has found that a significant share of funds collected by Odisha's District Mineral Foundations (DMFs) was spent outside mining-affected areas, including on stadiums, roads, government facilities and other projects.

The performance audit, covering 2015-16 to 2023-24, examined spending in six districts — Keonjhar, Sundargarh, Jajpur, Mayurbhanj, Dhenkanal and Nabarangpur. Of the ₹10,104.28 crore spent, only ₹5,477.75 crore, or 54.21%, went to directly affected areas. Odisha's rules require at least 60% of DMF funds to be spent in such areas.

The audit found that ₹983.32 crore was spent in 976 villages classified as unaffected by mining in Keonjhar and Sundargarh. Projects included mini-stadiums, road widening, office quarters and hospital digitisation. Meanwhile, 488 directly affected villages in the two districts received no DMF-funded project during the nine-year period.

Sundargarh DMF spent ₹136.77 crore on the Rourkela International Hockey Stadium, while Jajpur DMF spent ₹113.65 crore on a regional science academy. Other spending included ₹6.06 crore by Keonjhar to sponsor five students for mining engineering courses in Australia and ₹4.30 crore by Jajpur on medical entrance coaching. The audit also flagged spending on school furniture, rural parks, protective equipment and government vehicles.

Despite the six audited DMFs collecting more than ₹22,500 crore, none had established an Endowment Fund, intended to provide sustainable financial support to mining-affected communities after mines

The Congress-led United Democratic Front government in Keralam faced a setback in local body by-polls on Tuesday, with the CPI(M)-led Left Democratic Front gaining seven wards from the ruling front. The elections covered 38 wards.

The LDF won 18 seats, including 11 wards it retained and seven it wrested from the UDF. The UDF won 19 seats, retaining 15 sitting wards and gaining four.

The result offered relief to the LDF after its defeat in the 140-member Kerala Assembly election, where the UDF won 102 seats. One of the LDF gains came from Bavode East in Peralassery panchayat, part of former chief minister and Opposition leader Pinarayi Vijayan's constituency.

CPI(M) state secretary M V Govindan said voters had accepted the LDF's resolve to return by correcting its mistakes and called the results a strong message to the Sathesana government.

US bases became source of insecurity: IRGC

Tehran
Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC) spokesperson Hossein Mohebbi has claimed that US military bases in the region failed to provide security and instead became a source of insecurity during the recent conflict.

According to the IRGC spokesperson, Iranian missile and drone attacks targeted several US bases during the conflict. He argued that the attacks demonstrated what he described as the failure of the US military presence to deliver the security objectives Washington had cited for maintaining its regional bases.

At the same time, Mohebbi has said that Iran's military preparedness does not rule out negotiations. He stated that decisions regarding war and diplomacy are made within Iran's political system and that negotiations could be pursued alongside military preparedness when considered in the country's interests.

Trump says Iran war will end very soon

Washington
US President Donald Trump said the United States would win its war with Iran "very soon," while US officials held discussions with mediators seeking to end the conflict. Trump said the war would conclude quickly, one way or another. He also said US gasoline prices would fall after the conflict ends. The remarks came as diplomatic efforts continued between Washington and Tehran. Iranian officials have said negotiations could help end the fighting, while demanding conditions for reopening the Strait of Hormuz. Trump, however, said he had offered Iran nothing to end the war. The conflict has disrupted regional energy supplies and pushed oil prices higher. Brent crude recently rose above $105 per barrel amid continued concerns over Middle East supply disruptions.

US adds methanol to Venezuela trade licences

WASHINGTON

The United States has revised three Venezuela-related sanctions licences to explicitly include methanol among the petrochemical products covered by certain authorised oil trade, supply and investment activities.

The US Treasury Department's Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC) issued amended General Licences 46E, 48D and 49B, replacing earlier versions of the licences. The changes specifically add methanol to the chemical annexes while leaving the main permissions and restrictions largely unchanged. General Licence 46E authorises certain transactions involving Venezuelan-origin oil and petrochemical products for import into the United States. The licence covers activities including transportation, sale, storage and refining, subject to specified conditions.

General Licence 48D permits US persons and US entities to supply certain goods, technology, software and services for Venezuela's oil, gas and petrochemical sectors.

General Licence 49B allows negotiations and the signing of contingent contracts related to certain new oil, gas, petrochemical and electricity projects in Venezuela. Actual implementation of such contracts requires separate authorisation under the terms of the licence.

OFAC's revised documents list methanol under five tariff classifications. Methanol has been added alongside products such as ammonia, urea, phosphates, sulphur and other fertiliser-related chemicals.

The revisions do not represent a broad lifting of US sanctions on Venezuela. They do not announce any specific methanol shipment or investment, nor do they establish the volume or value of potential trade under the amended licences.

India Face South Korea in Semifinal

India face a tougher South Korean challenge in the Asian Games semifinal, aiming to move closer to their first women's hockey gold since 1982.

KAKAMIGAHARA

Unbeaten India will face South Korea in the women's hockey semifinal of the Asian Games 2026 on Wednesday, with the defending silver medalists standing two victories away from ending a 44-year wait for a second continental gold.

India have been dominant in Pool B, winning all five matches and scoring 66 goals. However, their semifinal against South Korea at the Kawasaki Juko Stadium is expected to provide their toughest examination of the tournament so far.

India opened their campaign with a 19-0 win over Uzbekistan before recording victories against Indonesia and Thailand by 17-1 and 20-1 respectively. They then overcame hosts Japan 3-1 before completing the pool stage with a 7-0 victory over Singapore.

South Korea finished second in Pool A with four wins from five matches. Their only defeat came against group winners China, who secured a 3-0 victory. South Korea's biggest win was an 8-0 result against Bangladesh.

India's attacking strength has been central to their impressive campaign. Drag-flick

NAGOYA

Neeru Dhanda made history at the Asian Games by becoming the first Indian woman to win an individual trap gold medal at the Games this year.

Her triumph came despite a major physical setback shortly before the competition. Dhanda was hospitalised 10 days before the start of the Asian Games and said she did not train during the camp.

For five days, she said, she could not eat and survived only on water. Despite her condition, Dhanda remained determined to compete and stayed in regular contact with her coach Mansher Singh, who continued motivating her.

Neeru Dhanda overcame hospitalisation and relentless rain to win a historic individual trap gold medal at the Asian Games.

Dhanda Overcomes Odds for Gold

That encouragement helped the shooter return to competition and produce a record-breaking performance. During the final at the Aichi Prefecture General Shooting Gallery, continuous rain created difficult conditions, but Dhanda remained composed.

She hit 28 of the 30 possible targets, setting a new Asian record and improving the previous mark of 24 by four hits. Earlier in the day, she had also won a team silver medal.

Dhanda said her motivation came from her family, the Indian Army, MP State Shooting Academy, her federation and the Sports Authority of India. She credited the academy with supporting her family, saying her father is a farmer and her mother is a homemaker.

The shooter was introduced to shooting after encouragement from the parents of her

Nagal, Dhakshinewar move into singles pre-quarters

NAGOYA

Sumit Nagal and Dhakshinewar Suresh registered strong wins in their men's singles round two matches at the ongoing Asian Games 2026 to move into the pre-quarters on Tuesday. Sumit defeated 2023 Asian Games bronze medalist Seongchan Hong of South Korea in the second round 6-4, 6-0, while Suresh registered a hard-fought 7-5, 7-6 (2) win over Indonesia's Gunawan Trismuwantara.

Sumit and Hong's match was stopped on Monday due to weather conditions, while Sumit was 3-2 up in the first set. The Korean staged a comeback and won the first eight points on resumption on Tuesday as Sumit was trailing 3-4 in the opener.

However, the former World No.68 Indian went on to win nine straight games to seal the set, and later the match. Sree Charani Sets T20I Bowling Record

India spinner Sree Charani has created history by recording the highest-ever rating in the ICC Women's T20I Bowling Rankings.

DUBAI

India's left-arm spinner Sree Charani has created history by achieving the highest-ever rating in the ICC Women's T20I Bowling Rankings, reaching 817 points after her impressive performances in Japan.

Already ranked No. 1 among T20I bowlers, Charani surpassed the previous record of 806 points held by Australia's Megan Schutt, which was set in November 2018.

Charani played a key role in India's successful campaigns in the Asia Cup and Asian Games. During the Asia Cup, she claimed 12 wickets, including outstanding figures of 4/20 against Sri Lanka in the final. Her spell helped India secure a 72-run victory and win the tournament for the eighth time.

Her form continued at the Asian Games. Charani produced career-best figures of 4/10 against Japan as India progressed to the semifinals. She later took two wickets in the gold-medal match against Sri Lanka, which India won by 147 runs, lifting her rating to a record 817 points.

India's Deepti Sharma also moved up the T20I Bowling Rankings after taking three wickets in the Asian Games final. She now occupies second place with 754 points, while England's Sophie Ecclestone is third with 723.

Smriti Mandhana returned to the top five of the T20I Batting Rankings after scoring 79 in the Asian Games final.

In the ODI rankings, West Indies all-rounder Hayley Matthews rose three places to fourth after her record 182 against Zimbabwe. Zimbabwe's Nyasha Gwanzura, Modest Mupachikwa and Francisca Chipare also made significant gains, while West Indies bowlers Ashmini Muniswar and Aaliyah Alleyne climbed in the rankings.

Ankush marches into 80kg final, Narender settles for bronze in +90kg

NISHIO

Indian boxers continued their strong run at the ongoing Asian Games 2026 as Ankush Panghal registered a thumping win over 75kg reigning world champion Fazliddin Erkinboev in the men's 80kg semifinal at the continental showpiece to march into the final. Ankush a n d

Parveen Hooda made it to the finals of their respective category, while Narender Berwal settled for a bronze after losing his +90kg semifinal bout to current world champion Aibek Oralbay of Kazakhstan.

Ankush registered a brilliant come-from-behind win over Erkinboev in the semifinal by 4-1. Ankush was trailing 1-4 at the end of the first round but bagged a closely fought second round 3-2 with his punches landing well.

The Indian pugilist was superior of the two boxers in the third round as well, as he clinched the third one 5-0. Four of the five judges voted in favour of Ankush as he won 4-1. All four gave him a 29-28 ruling, while he received a 2 8 - 2 9 against him from one judge.

Later, Nar-

ender lost his semifinal to Oralbay by a 0-5 unanimous decision. Oralbay dominated the bout with his strong punches, while Narender fought his way well but could not bring the world champion down.

Oralbay won the first round 5-0 with his punches landing well. He continued his dominance in the second round as well as his fierce attacks put Narender in trouble. The Kazakh took a defensive approach in the third round as he kept the Indian pugilist at bay for a 5-0 win.

Meanwhile, Ankush has become the first Indian male boxer to move into the Asiad final since Amit Panghal (49kg) won a gold in the 2018 Jakarta Games. Narender won the bronze in the men's +92kg event in the last Games.

This was India's second confirmed silver medal in boxing at the ongoing Games. A little earlier, Parveen Hooda marched into the final of the women's 65kg event after a 5-0 win over China's Li Shu.

DREAM MEDAL FOR AASHIMA

Aashima Turns Dream into Asian Games Silver

NAGOYA

Aashima Ahlawat described her Asian Games team silver medal as a dream fulfilled after India finished second in the women's trap team event at the Aichi-Nagoya Games on Tuesday.

Aashima, Neeru Dhanda and Manisha Keer combined for a score of 328 at the Aichi Prefecture General Shooting Gallery to secure the silver medal. China won gold with 346, while Kuwait finished third with 325.

For Aashima, the medal marked a significant milestone in a rapid shooting career that began only in 2021. She joined the junior Indian shooting team in 2023 before moving into the senior setup in 2025.

The Indian trio produced their performance in challenging rainy conditions. Aashima said the weather ultimately helped India because the shooters were accustomed to competing and training in similar conditions at home.

The Indian shooters remained composed as several competitors struggled with the rain, allowing the team to move from bronze position to silver.

Aashima said the medal means a lot to her. When I started shooting, I always wanted to join an Asian Games team and win a medal. - Aashima Ahlawat (Indian trap shooter) achievement was particularly meaningful because winning an Asian Games medal had been one of her ambitions since she began shooting. The silver follows her success at the Asian Championships, where she won an individual bronze and team gold.

Barely a year into her senior career, Aashima has now added an Asian Games medal to her growing collection.

Despite the achievement, her immediate priority is returning home to Delhi and celebrating with her family and friends.

Asked who she would dedicate the medal to, Aashima gave a simple answer — her mother.

Parveen Hooda marches into boxing final after 5-0 SF win over Li Shu

NISHIO

India's boxer Parveen Hooda stormed into the women's 65kg final at the ongoing Asian Games after registering a thumping 5-0 win over China's Li Shu at the Nishio Gymnasium here on Tuesday. Parveen dominated the bout, especially in the last two rounds. She bagged the first round by a close 3-2 margin as she landed counter punches while being measured in her approach.

Parveen dominated the second round with her hits, while the Chinese boxer also landed some punches. Despite this, Parveen won the round 5-0. The Indian pugilist was superior once again in the third round as she landed accurate punches to win the third round 5-0. All five judges voted in her favour, with three giving her 29-28 ruling and two giving 30-27.

Parveen now moves into the final of the 65kg, where she will be facing what is expected to be a pretty tough bout against Chinese Taipei's Chen Nien-chin for the gold medal.

Nien-chin is the reigning Olympic and world bronze medalist. She has also won a bronze in the 2023 Asian Games.

India's Ankush Panghal and Narender also have their respective semifinals on Tuesday as the Indian boxers look to make it to the final.

India have confirmed six boxing medals in the ongoing Aichi-Nagoya Games. All three boxers in action on Monday won their respective bouts. Kapil Pokhariya, Priya Ghanghas and Lovlina Borgohain won their respective bouts. Priya assured herself of a medal in the women's 60kg category after a unanimous 5-0 win over Tajikistan's Mijgona Samadova in the quarterfinals. Earlier in the day, Lovlina confirmed herself of a medal as well with a strong 5-0 win in the women's 75kg quarterfinal against Korea's Seong Suyeon.

'Beating multi-gold medalist boosted archery team's morale': AAI General Secy

OKAZAKI CITY

Archery Association of India (AAI) secretary general Virendra Sachdeva called recurve archer Neeraj Chauhan's stunning win over multiple-time Olympic gold medalist Kim Je-deok a "morale-boosting" one and heaped praise on the archers for putting up a good show at the ongoing Asian Games 2026. Sachdeva hailed Neeraj's 6-4 win over Je-deok, who won team and mixed team events in the Tokyo 2020 Olympics and defended the team title in the Paris 2024 Games. "Neeraj delivered a fantastic performance. Our entire team is doing well, but beating Korea's multiple Olympic gold medalist to reach the quarterfinals has boosted the morale of the whole team," Sachdeva told in an exclusive interaction. "Undoubtedly, the Indian shooters are having a great campaign; both the men's, women's, and mixed teams in compound and recurve have reached the semifinals. In the individual events of compound and recurve, our archers have made it to the quarterfinals," he said.
